

Ten Men Added To Faculty Roster

Ten persons have been added to the college faculty during the summer. Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, college president, has noted that the new faculty members include an associate professor of the psychology department, assistant professors in chemistry and biology, instructors in English, economics, and psychology, a lecturer of business law and an athletic coach.

Dr. Robert L. Schaeffer, Jr., Allentown, is the new assistant professor in the biology department. Formerly a faculty member of the University of Pennsylvania and Upsala College, Dr. Schaeffer was graduated from Haverford College in 1940, and received his doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania in 1948.

George E. Feeman, who was graduated from Muhlenberg in 1951, will teach mathematics and physics. During the past three years he has been serving as graduate assistant at Lehigh University. Mr. Feeman received his master's degree from Lehigh and he is now working toward his doctorate.

New Department Head

After receiving his doctorate from Temple and a master of arts degree from the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Walter H. Brackin, who will head the psychology department, acted as assistant director of psychology at Temple University. Dr. Brackin replaces Dr. C. Hess Haagen, who has become Director of Counseling Service at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Connecticut.

Mr. John H. Bowen, new instructor in psychology, recently was affiliated with the University of Maryland and formerly with the University of Arkansas, Montgomery Junior College, and Syracuse and Johns Hopkins Universities. He received his master's degree from the University of Arkansas.

Dr. William B. Guenther, new assistant professor in chemistry, received his doctorate from the University of Rochester after being graduated from Oberlin College in Ohio. Recently he served as an instructor at the University of Alaska.

A Freshman Challenge

This fall a new class has replenished the Muhlenberg family, filling the dubious role as freshmen as last year's new class has its turn in playing the delightful part of sophomores. As usual, a great many of these men are not resident students—they commute. Every day at an appointed time, these newcomers show up on the campus via bus, car, or foot, remaining until such time as their classes are finished for the day. The library or the student union building are their sanctuaries, and eventually some will find their way to the pool room in the latter building. As a result, the day student may use his spare time as best he can, but he misses many of the activities which colleges have seen fit to term "extracurricular."

These conditions exist too often on the campus. There is a barrier between many resident students and many commuting students. There are no bull sessions or mealtimes to weld these groups together. Nearly 220 freshmen have met, eaten, and loafed together this week. What a tremendous group this could be if these men could learn to work together!

May we suggest to those non-resident students who have the time, to begin to take part in campus activities now. You will be rewarded by many new friendships, new ideas, and will be advancing yourselves in that broad field known as education.

There is also a responsibility resting on the members of each college organization. If you really believe your group has something to offer every freshman—resident and commuting—you will invite their participation. You will be the winners, moreover, if you give the commuter a chance to show his stuff.

Football Foes Close Rivalry In '54 Season

One of America's oldest football rivalries, dating back 47 years—to 1907—will be shattered in 1955, when the Muhlenberg Mules will not appear on the gridiron schedule of Lehigh University.

According to Percy Saddler, director of athletics at Lehigh, the step was taken to add diversity to the Lehigh grid program. Muhlenberg has been replaced by Virginia Military Institute.

Lawson's Statement

George Lawson, Muhlenberg director of athletics, declared, "We were notified by Lehigh about the contemplated change in 1955 a number of months ago. It was the first I heard about it."

"There certainly have been no disputes or differences among the officials of the two institutions that I know of. It was entirely Lehigh's action, which it is entitled to take if it wishes to do so."

First Clash . . . '07

Muhlenberg and Lehigh first met in 1907. They did not play again until 1912, after which they continued a string of meetings, broken only when athletics were curtailed from 1942 to 1945 because of World War II.

Of the 41 games played, Lehigh won 28 and Muhlenberg 13. The scores of the more recent games are as follows:

Year	Muhlenberg	Lehigh
1946	40	7
1947	21	14
1949	20	22
1951	2	3

New Tribunal Explains Freshman Regulation

Members of the class of '58 met the Freshman Tribunal for the first time this evening. The senior member of the Tribunal, Don DeQuevedo, explained Freshman regulations and introduced the other members of his group.

As in past years, the Tribunal dictated that all Freshman must wear identification buttons, dinks, coats, and black ties. Although the Frosh need not do personal duties for upper classmen, they must carry matches and pipe-cleaners and know all college songs and cheers. Other regulations will be added by the Tribunal at a later time.

The Soph-Frosh games are the vehicle by which the Frosh may rid themselves of their regulations at an earlier date than the Thanksgiving recess. If they should win two of the three contests, which include the Tug-of-War, Pushball Game, and the football game, regulations will end on Halloween.

The details of the game regulations can be found in the latest edition of the "M" Book. They were drawn up by the Student Council and Tribunal last year.

These groups will enforce those rules with competent officials.

Synodical Committee Reviews Status of Development Drive

A meeting of Synodical Committee of the Muhlenberg Development Fund Drive was held last Tuesday, September 14, on the college campus to review the status of the appeal and to make plans for the fall.

Reports of progress during the four months of the young appeal show that as of August 31, $628,000 had been pledged. The intermediate goal set for the fall period is $900,000, to be reached by December 31, 1954. The ultimate goal of the drive is $1,500,000. At the present time, the committee has over $200,000 in cash of the $628,000 pledged.

Satisfaction Expressed

Rev. Luther F. Schlenker, a member of the graduating class of '35 at Muhlenberg and director of the drive, commented: "In spite of the fact that fifteen per cent of the congregations are engaged in capital fund-raising productions of their own for building, debt reduction, and renovation, the results thus far are gratifying and I am confident that the ultimate goal will be reached."

On October 18, at a luncheon meeting on the Campus, approximately 150 area leaders will launch the fall drive. This meeting will be followed by local meetings in each of the seven conferences where local plans will be worked out.

Rev. William L. Katz, D.D., '13, was appointed Associate Director to assist Rev. Schlenker. Rev. Katz, a former pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church of Allentown, assumes his duties on October 1st.

Rev. Schlenker will resume his pastoral duties which he relinquished last July to assume full charge of the drive.

Class of 1958 Indoctrinated With Muhlenberg Traditions

More than 200 freshmen are finishing their orientation week which began last Sunday night at the vesper service held in the Egner Memorial Chapel. Dr. Seegers addressed the freshmen advising them of the difficulties which perennially face new men. He indicated the importance of the purpose of a college education in the selection of vocation.

"MEET THE GENERAL"—Charlie Adami, Jack Magan, Buck Dierolf, and Leon Skweir were captured in this pose last Tuesday as they examined the college's statue of this famous patriot, General Peter Muhlenberg. Members of the freshman class, they will soon be doffing their hats to this venerable gentleman many times each day.

The Muhlenberg College Christian Association, in cooperation with the college, has conducted freshmen week orientation, planning a series of events both academic and social.

At the opening convocation service on next Monday morning, Rev. Lester Fetter, D.D., a member of the Board of Trustees, will address the student body. This service will officially open the college's 107th academic year. The Chapel choir will sing at this time.

Dance Postponed

The annual Muhlenberg and Cedar Crest freshmen dance has been postponed from this Friday until Friday, September 24th. As in the past, the dance will be held in the basement of Curtis Hall at Cedar Crest.

Tuesday afternoon, a handful of students got a preview of the '54 football team when 'Berg scrimmaged Temple on the Muhlenberg field.

Tonight the freshmen will have their first meeting with the Tribunal.

Tests, advisers, and conferences have filled in the program along with a few social events.

Industrial Foundations Offer Research, Operating Grants

Muhlenberg College was the recipient of two grants during the summer months. On July 14, President J. Conrad Seegers announced a grant of $1850 from Research Corporation for the support of a research project at the college. One month later Muhlenberg was named as one of the four Lehigh Valley colleges who will this year share in the distribution of $700,000 by United States Steel Foundation, Inc., to liberal arts colleges.

Work at Muhlenberg on the research project will be directed by Dr. G. N. Russell Smart, associate professor in the Chemistry Department. The research is concerned with the properties of new types of organosilicon compounds.

Work Explained

"Since the work is of a fundamental nature," Dr. Smart explained, "it is deemed unlikely that any practical applications will be forthcoming. It is strictly theoretical, not applied, research."

Research Corporation, with offices in New York City, is a non-profit foundation which distributes its total net income as grants-in-aid of research to colleges, universities and scientific institutions. Part of the fund granted to Muhlenberg is specifically set aside for the purchase of the latest type fractionation equipment. The balance will be used for salaries for undergraduate students working on the project.

U. S. Steel Grant

The grant from Research Corporation is the second received from the foundation. In 1946, Muhlenberg was provided a grant for an experimental investigation of fundamental phenomena.

Cedar Crest, Lafayette, Moravian and Muhlenberg are members of the Pennsylvania Foundation for Independent Colleges, Inc., now in its third year of operation and organized for joint fund-raising purposes beyond the colleges independent operations in this field. The Pennsylvania foundation, with 39 members, was one of four such groups included in the U. S. Steel Foundation list of beneficiaries for its $700,000 gift. The extent to which each college will benefit individually is not yet known.

Corbiere Works On Multilingual Volume

Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere, professor of Romance languages, has been chosen as one of the three hundred leading language scholars of the world to act as a consultant on the second edition of the Britannica World Language Dictionary. This was announced late last Spring by Robert C. Preble, president of the company and creator of the multilingual work.

The dictionary, when completed, will give word equivalents in several languages: English, French, German, Italian, Spanish, Swedish, and Yiddish. These languages are spoken by about one quarter of the world's population, and three-quarters of the Western nations' population.

Dr. Corbiere has been on the Muhlenberg faculty since 1921 and is active in the Academic Regulations and Standards Committee, and the General Academic Policy Committee. A professor of French, he is also the adviser to Phi Sigma Iota, the honorary fraternity of Romance Languages.

Party Planned For Gen. Pete

Plans are now being formulated for a combination pep rally and celebration to commemorate the birthday of General Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg.

Dean Henry Melchoir Muhlenberg Richards will key note the program by giving an address relating incidents in the life of his forebear thus inspiring the men to greater participation and interest in Muhlenberg's second football game of the season, to be held the following evening with Albright College in the Pretzel Bowl at Reading. This is a benefit game sponsored by the Rajah Temple of the Reading Shrine.

The cheerleaders will lead the students in cheers and the Freshman Tribunal intends to aid the program by having a number of the Freshman participate.

Safety Cartoon Wins National Recognition

The Muhlenberg WEEKLY has been awarded honorable mention in the 1953 College Newspaper Contest on Safe driving conducted by the Lumbermans Mutual Casualty Company. Given in the cartoon class, the award was the result of work done by Joe Lake, '57, in last year's December 10 issue of the WEEKLY. This is the first time that the WEEKLY has been so honored by the Lumbermans Company.

National winner in the cartoon division was the DAILY TROJAN of the University of Southern California. The WEEKLY distinguished itself by being the only college newspaper in Pennsylvania to win any recognition in the contest which gave prizes for superior editorials, feature stories, cartoons and photography.

In a letter to last year's editor, Robert Malkames, Mr. H. F. Peterson, the contest editor, stated, "You can feel proud that your entry was selected for honorable mention from among the many fine entries from all over the nation. But more important, you can be gratified that your excellent job of selling safety may well mean fewer accidents among your fellow students."

Editorial Views . . .

Spirit of Learning . . .

It will be only a few days until the current bustling activity which marks the return to school will have dispersed into the routine of college life. We will have renewed friendships, acquired opinions of new faculty men, and begun the formalities of freshman regs. Social events will be anticipated and remembered.

With these many necessary diversions, it is often easy to relegate our academic duties to second place. Dr. Walter A. Jessup, former president of the State University of Iowa, has simply stated the results of such neglect. "Unless there is a spirit of learning (at college)," states Dr. Jessup, "unless there is a genuine thirst for knowledge, unless there is a hunger for education, nothing worthwhile will happen."

While it is difficult to pin-point all that this noted educator had in mind when he said, "nothing worthwhile will happen," we can be reasonably sure that he was thinking along the lines of our usefulness on post-college activity. We need not look far for places where alert, well-trained young men are needed. Now, as never before, our nation needs college graduates who can handle their work efficiently and effectively. It might be a very good idea to remember this during the days which are to follow, days when it might be hard to resist cutting classes or shortcuts in study. The easy way out is not worth the number of people, other than ourselves, whom we will be cheating.

Your Responsibility . . .

New faces, mingled with familiar ones, dot the old stamping ground as education's wheels begin to grind again. Time and nature press us relentlessly into the realities of a life's vocation; we pause, looking back at the lighter side of a summer past, and slowly turn to the business of college life.

Academic, spiritual, social, and recreational opportunities are here for us. Let us enrich our college experience by taking hold in these phases equally. In this way we can help our college grow as we seek an education for ourselves.

There's always time for pleasure as we go about this business, but there is also a certain amount of individual responsibility which we ought to recognize and meet. Most of us realize our filial obligation to our parents; it is our moral obligation to Muhlenberg as our college which we often fail to see. We've chosen Muhlenberg to be our alma mater, now let's support her.

Two Self-Appointed BMOC's Make Long-Winded Excuses

by Al Hettinger and Ted Michelfeld

The time is upon us once more, and we all welcome the relief it will bring from the hectic activities of summer employment, swimming, dating, tennis, or what have you. Of course, not all students will feel the refreshing change offered by campus life. We are, naturally, referring to those youthful sufferers, those pitiful sniffling lads, who can be seen wiping their running noses on their dinks — the freshman. Now to you, dear boys, we can say, "You do not stand alone without friends." No sir! You may not have many friends, but those you have are really true blue.

Next, to that noblest of all mutual aid societies—The Tribunal—the two best friends any freshman has on campus are Al Hettinger and Ted Michelfeld, namely us.

Because freshmen are novitiates to our scholarly society (generally) they are unacquainted with the aforementioned two gentlemen. Now Al Hettinger and Ted Michelfeld, a sophomore and junior respectively, are veterans of the Fourth Estate Wars, both bearing scar tissue which fortunately beclouds their faces. Both men were recently investigated by Student Councilman J. McCuthey and charged by him with slandering fellow students. In the 100th day of the investigation, after much name calling and water drinking, the question was finally put to them by McCuthey "Do you slander fellow students?" Al and Ted, overjoyed at the chance to finally defend themselves, said, "Yea, — so what?" For this statement Al and Ted received the Pullit Surprise for Journalism.

Now Ted Michelfeld was born in Transylvania and migrated to this country as a youth. Yes, his arms were tired. He was a brilliant student and graduated from kindergarten at the age of 12 when he learned to wave bye-bye. From kindergarten he sped through elementary, junior high, and high school, leaving a scorched path behind him — also many burning buildings. In his first two years at 'Berg, Ted made the Dung List four times. Qualifications for the Dung List is to be an unqualified stinker. He however, is an excellent athlete and wears a varsity letter for Scrabble. He hopes to be a pilot when he graduates —

Freshman Regulations Go Into Effect

Muhlenberg's college year will officially open with the Chapel Convocation at 11:00 a.m. The Rev. Lester E. Fetter, a member of the board of trustees will be the speaker.

Rehearsals for the chapel choir will begin at 4:00 p.m. in the chapel lounge.

Wednesday, September 22

Martial music will echo from the grounds adjacent to East Hall when the college band holds its first practice session. Time: 8:00 p.m.

Thursday, September 23

The full WEEKLY staff will hold its first meeting in the newspaper office (student union building, second floor) at 11:00 a.m. This meeting is open to freshmen.

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

Greetings Frosh and welcome to our already cluttered campus. We wish you luck in your imminent struggles . . . academic and otherwise. SAGE ADVICE DEPT.

Obeys Frosh regulations meticulously so as not to run afoul of the dreaded Frosh Tribunal. This motley group of cretins has but one purpose . . . to make your first happy weeks at 'Berg miserable. Carry matches at all times, and whatever you do, resist the temptation to set fire to your persecutors. After all, they are all good fellows . . . cheerful, friendly, funloving and sadistic.

Study hard and permit nothing to distract you from book-hitting. Do not listen to those who tell you of a wonderful Shangri-La populated by beautiful women on a nearby hill. There is no such place as Cedar Crest! Remember that! It does not exist.

Avoid bars, night clubs and pubs of all kinds. Allentown bartenders possess the uncanny ability to spot a phoney draft card at twenty paces. If your card looks all right, they check the enamel on your teeth. If it's not worn down far enough, you'll find yourself out in the street.

Do not write to your parents. They will get used to hearing from you and you will only cause them much worry when you stop writing later on in the semester.

Do not panic when on weekends there takes place what looks like a mass evacuation. There is no plague or flood. Muhlenberg, you see, is a charter member of the Middle Atlantic States Suitcase Colleges Association. Do not, however, follow this horrible example. There is plenty to do around here on weekends . . . no matter what anybody says.

When the WEEKLY hits the tables on Thursdays, pick it up, turn to page two immediately, and read this column. This is the best column in any college newspaper . . . also no matter what anybody says. We of the WEEKLY are proud of our newspaper, and we will welcome suggestions. However, if anybody has any suggestions concerning this column, I invite you to keep them to yourself.

In next week's issue, I hope to have some information about novel summer jobs held by versatile Bergmen . . . man about campus DON LATHBURY said that he was willing to take a position as tester (taster that is) at a local brewery, but no one approached him with a lucrative offer.

The already pint-sized Senior class is smaller by two with the departure of JIM "THE WORRIER" ASLANIS and FRITZ "WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THESE PANTS?" DONATELLI. The pair are off to make their mark at Temple Dental School. From now on, they'll work side by side with Ammident to fight tooth decay.

FLASH! ATTENTION LOVERS OF DIXIELAND JAZZ!

When you find yourself with a Saturday afternoon on your hands, make it over to the Plaza in Easton to dig jazz sounds of all descriptions as rendered by Parke Frankensfield and the group. No stuff, this is the best jazz this side of Greenwich Village.

President's Memo

Welcome to all of you — faculty, old students, new students — as we begin Muhlenberg's one hundred and seventh year. It is good to see students back on the campus.

I hope you have had pleasant summers, that at least some of you have had profitable summers.

We will begin the year with a somewhat smaller Freshman Class than that which entered last year, but with a somewhat larger total enrollment. The Freshman Class was deliberately kept smaller. We had many more applications, but did not want to accept more men than we could care for adequately.

The Ministerium Appeal is progressing well. Altogether the prospects for the year are encouraging.

I hope for all of you a successful year. Work hard, get down to business fast, and you will be amazed to find how ready you will be for the mid-year examinations!

Best wishes.

Nineteen Lettermen Bolster Muhlenberg Football Team

Although nineteen lettermen have returned to bolster every position, lack of depth looms as the single factor which may hinder the potential of the Muhlenberg team. Twenty-eight men answered coach Tom Triplett's call to practice several weeks ago and they have been laboring daily in long contact sessions.

The results of these patient practices will be disclosed when the Mules attempt to test the new plays which have been developed. Muhlenberg has the players, admittedly not enough of them, to have a good season.

Three Big Centers

Three big centers, all letter winners, will make the snap job one of 'Berg's strongest positions. Ralph De Stephano, Tom Naratil and Paul Truran are the contenders for the starting role.

Frank Gutierrez and Stan Vnuk did the bulk of the work last season at the guard slots and will be called upon heavily this season. They will be capably backed up by lettermen Ray Di Cello and Paul Billy. Also in line for experience are Warren Edelman and John Guidon.

Seven Available Tackles

Only three of the seven available tackles wear varsity sweaters, but all candidates are in the 200-pound category. Tony Saddler, Pete Ascione and Don Grammes capably tackled the opponents last season. Willing substitutes will be Al Ferraro, Dick Fetherolf, Ed Horowitz and Lenny Woodell.

Dick Werkheiser is the lone returning wingman starter, since the graduation of Paul Miller last June. Competing for the other wing post will be Bob Gimble, Lee Hoffman, Bill Stranzl (lettermen) and Tom Coughlin.

Sophomore Bill Keeny will be the Mule quarterback when the season gets underway; another sophomore prospect is George Haeage. Lettermen Jack McDonald, Harry Kreutzberg, Harry Neuman and Frank Lerro will carry the ball after Keeny's handoffs. Transfer students Alton Frey and Bob Morris will also see action.

The Chowline

Welcome to the freshmen, returning upperclassmen, and the new faculty men. We of the Slater System are happy to be back on the job serving the Muhlenberg family. Undoubtedly the upperclassmen will recognize some freshmen on our staff. Wilbur Bleu succeeds Jack (who is with another Slater unit). He studied Dietetics at New York Institute of Dietetics. Andy and Stan are chef and second cook. Joe Kiss is our new baker.

In the snack bar Marie and Myrtle are back with us, while Betty is the "freshman" there. At the Commons, Miriam and Gene are back again. Mildred and Marion are the new arrivals.

As the football season gets under way, we want to wish Tom Triplett and the boys success. You students get out there behind the team with some good moral support and boost the team's victory chances. In their class your team ranks fairly high and they could go places. They've already been invited to the Hershey stadium to meet Bucknell's Bisons.

In the excitement over football don't forget the soccer team and their afternoon skirmishes with other schools on the Liberty Street field. Coach Bud Nevins and his men can use your support.

On those nippy fall afternoons when a hot dog or some coffee is just the ticket, don't forget to visit the snackbar in the student center.

Robert Mirth, Richard Fox Complete Mule Coaching Staff

Robert Mirth and Richard Fox have been added to the Muhlenberg coaching staff this year. Mirth will assume the position of junior varsity football coach and Fox will be the assistant football coach and head baseball coach; both men will be physical education instructors.

Mirth hails from Allentown where he attended Allentown High School. After Bob graduated from the Allentown High School, he attended and played for three different schools over a three year period: Wake Forest in 1941, Moravian in 1942, and finally at Muhlenberg in 1943.

After his 1943 session, Bob served in the United States Marine Corps. He was stationed in the South Pacific for the largest part of his marine career. Bob left the services in 1946 and returned to Muhlenberg to further his football career.

Richard Fox was graduated from Lebanon High School with the class of 1937. During his high school days, Dick received letters in football, basketball, and track. After completing high school he enrolled at Temple University where he played and received letters for football and basketball. After completing his college career in 1941, he entered the Armed Services.

Dick was line coach at Lebanon Valley College for five years, head coach for two years, and assistant basketball coach for five years prior to his appointment at Muhlenberg.

ALL STUDENTS are urged to purchase tickets for the seventh Rotary Bowl game between Muhlenberg and Bucknell in the Hershey Stadium on Saturday night, September 25. Tickets will sell for a student price of $1.00 for seats in the stadium and are on sale in Memorial Hall.

Frankly Speaking

by Howard Frank

The old Cardinal and Gray mule, she ain't what she usta be! She's got a new barn and four new mule drivers.

That barn—the new "Hall of the Muhlenberg-Mules"—is hardly the place to store live-stock, although we've heard our athletes jokingly referred to as "animals". The animal trainers... the mule drivers... the coaches who are new-comers to the Muhlenberg campus will discover the herds of athletes are a fine bunch of sportsmen and faithfully wave the banner of 'Berg high!

Temple's three squads proved how serious Muhlenberg's actual lack of depth will hinder the Mule team. Coach Tom Triplett was not able to substitute too freely because he has only slightly more than two teams to work with. Although the Bergmen were handicapped, they showed themselves a formidable foe for the Owls.

A lone wolf from Kansas City predicts that Muhlenberg will rank 81st in the NCAA this year. Muhlenberg was the first team listed in our class with Delaware placed about twenty positions away. Lew Wolf also says the nation's leaders will be Wisconsin, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Mississippi and U.C.L.A.

The freshmen may be interested in learning that the Muhlenberg mascot, General Pete, turned out to be a female last year. We were just wondering if General Pete Jr. will join his mom at the 'Berg football games.

No Frosh! You Can't Make The Team This Year

For the first time in four years Muhlenberg freshmen will be ineligible for varsity football participation. On Tuesday afternoon a group of 21 first-year men met with Coach Robert Mirth to sign-up for the squad.

Although light work-outs were scheduled for today and tomorrow, equipment will be issued Monday afternoon when regular practices will commence. A separate schedule is in the process of being arranged for the freshmen; the final schedule is expected to include four contests.

Included in the squad reporting on Tuesday were: Bill Carty, tackle, Runnemeade, N. J.; Joe Federico, center, Paterson, N. J.; Dick Cornish, back, Washington, N. J.; Dave Sobers, tackle, Breinigsville; Chuck Canning, back, Allentown; Charles Gerhart, end, Allentown; Lee Schwyer, back, Allentown; Richard Keiser, center, Northampton; Barry Fried, center, Brooklyn, N. Y.; James Mitchell, guard, Bristol, N. J.; Frank Zero, back, Allentown; Harold Roth, back, Cementon; Mike Reinitz, guard, Lawrence, N. J.; Paul Whitecraft, end, Haddonfield, N. J.; Sandy Dreskin, guard, Newark, N. J.; Bob Nuss, back, Boyertown; Tony Caporale, back, Fairview, N. J.; Don Herman, back, Stroudsburg; Ernie Jackson, back, Port Washington, N. Y.

See the game in the "Chocolate City"!

All members of the WEEKLY and interested freshmen are reminded of the full staff meeting scheduled for THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, at 11:00 a.m. in the WEEKLY office. This date should be kept open by all persons affected.

Freshmen who did not attend yesterday's meeting should stop at the office any time prior to the above date if possible.

Berg Invited To Play In Benefit Bowl Games

Muhlenberg College's football team has been honored in being selected as an opponent in two outstanding events:—The opening game with Bucknell University in the Hershey Stadium, sponsored by the Harrisburg Rotary Club, will be the Seventh Annual Rotary Bowl Game. The second game of the season will be the Fourth Annual Shrine sponsored by Pretzel Bowl Game in the Reading Municipal Stadium.

"Strong legs run that weak legs may walk" is the purpose of the Fourth Annual Pretzel Bowl game on Saturday night, October 2. The proceeds of this contest will be directed to the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children.

The services of the hospital are offered to all handicapped children regardless of race, creed or color. The Reading Shriners are attempting to make this event one of the most spectacular sporting events of the season.

Albright College will be host to the Muhlenberg squad when they clash in Reading. The sporting spectacle will be colored by the presence of the marching Shriners.

On Monday the two-hundred Harrisburg Rotarians entertained as their guests at a luncheon-meeting the coaches and athletic directors of both schools and the WEEKLY Sports Editor. At this meeting the advance sales drive of tickets was launched with pep talks by the coaches.

Coach Tom Triplett forecasts a good game between the Bucknell Bisons and his Mules on Saturday, September 25. He said that Muhlenberg will attempt to equal last year's victory (18-13), if not better it. Triplett then expressed his and the college's appreciation for the opportunity to play in the Hershey Arena.

Bison Coach Speaks

The Bison coach turned to Triplett when he said, "We know a lot about Muhlenberg, especially Jackie McDonald. We've seen his back! Maybe we'll get to see the front of him this year."

The proceeds of the game are directed into the Rotary Foundation which screens all requests for funds and see that the expenditures are of a capital nature only, that a real need exists, that the cost of construction is realistic, and that the work is completed when the money is handed over. Over 35 thousand dollars has already been disbursed by the Rotary Game Fund in the last six years.

Toward Better Sportsmanship

The trophy is a symbol of champions... the equipment is a symbol of competitive sports... both mean Muhlenberg, a true champion... on the playing field and in sportsmanship. Although Berg kicks off the football season first, it won't be too long until, as the picture indicates, we'll be listening to the crack of the bat once more.

New Bulletin Board Nears Final Stages

Student Council's current project, an outdoor bulletin board to be placed to the rear of the Administration building, is fast approaching completion according to information received from Mr. John McAuley this week. McAuley, the superintendent of buildings and grounds, explained that although extra summer maintenance around the campus has delayed work on the board, it should be completed soon after October 1.

Measuring four feet in height and eight feet in length, the board is being constructed by maintenance men on the campus. It will be constructed of wood and will contain interior lighting. Slots will be provided for metal letters.

McAuley also stated that the wood will be stained to a natural finish. A single plate glass window will protect the announcements on the board. Because of this feature, access to the interior will be made through a door on the back.

Costing close to $400, this project was made possible due to the fact that Student Council appropriations for campus activities was in excess last year. The money was voted for this purpose by the outgoing council.

into equal shares for the 39 participating colleges. Another third is distributed on the basis of the college's performances in fund-raising efforts in their own behalf over a five year period, with greater rewards for those with the best records.

In announcing the $700,000 gift, Mr. Benjamin F. Fairless, chairman of the board of trustees of the U. S. Steel Foundation, said, "We are aware that a large number of liberal arts colleges in the United States are today operating at a deficit and we are pleased to be joining with other foundations and with industry, generally, in doing something toward relieving the serious financial plight of many privately supported colleges."

Kinter Returns

The English Department will be enlarged by two new members this term. Mr. William L. Kinter will return to the campus after an absence of several years while doing graduate work at Columbia University. A graduate of Lafayette College, Mr. Kinter began teaching at Muhlenberg in 1947. The other new instructor in this department is Mr. John E. Bulette, who, having received his master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania, is presently working toward his doctorate at the same institution.

Serving as the new economics instructor will be Mr. Philip J. Bourque. Mr. Bourque was graduated from the University of Massachusetts in 1949 and received his master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1950.

Atty. Donald E. Wieand, who was graduated from Villanova University in 1948 and from Dickinson Law School in 1950, will lecture on business law. Atty. Wieand is a resident of Allentown.

Baseball Coach

Richard E. Fox, new varsity baseball coach, was the head football coach at Lebanon Valley for two years. He will assist in coaching football at Muhlenberg and will act as a physical education instructor.

Dorm Students Meet

Dean Henry M. M. Richards will be the main speaker at the meeting of all resident students of East Hall next Monday. Called by the Dormitory Council, the meeting will take place in the Student Union Building at 6:30 p.m. Also taking part in the meeting will be Dr. John J. Reed, adviser of student activities.

Now Al Hettinger was not born famous. He had to work for it all. How did he do it? Why, he beat his mother and father into submission and made it clear to them that, "I'm great!" Al's mommy and daddy made immense sacrifices in order to see that the lad got every opportunity to prove his greatness, and he, in turn, stole from them every chance he got. After having cheated and bribed his way through public school, he is still convincing everyone here at 'Berg of his brilliance by writing stellar articles for the Weekly. Of course, they must be translated from Sanskrit before publication. Among the many prizes and awards he has received are: An honorary membership in the Umgawa Indian tribe, a degree (Third) from the Dreckelsdorf Concentration Camp in Tasmania, and 20 bars of soap for appearing on radio as father Bourbon in "One Man's Fumbling." Here is a man worthy of your attention but please don't hit him too hard for he has a soft spot in his head and a spine in his back that hurts him something terrible.

Dr. Seegers Opens 107th College Year

Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, President of Muhlenberg College, presided at the Opening Convocation service, in the Chapel, Monday, September 20. This officially began the 107th academic year at the institution.

After a full academic procession of the faculty, and Chapel Choir, Dr. Henry M. M. Richards, Dean of the College, read a selection from Proverbs as the Scripture.

The main address was delivered by The Rev. Lester E. Fetter, D.D., a Muhlenberg graduate of the class of 1935, and a member of the board of trustees. Dr. Fetter spoke of the opening of a new college year as one of a series of "crises" which constitute life.

"Acquit yourselves like men. Be strong," advised Fetter, pointing out that manhood is measured neither by athletic ability, citizenship or scholarship alone, but by Christian ideals. "The criteria for determining development of manhood," said Fetter, "is the comparison of one's self with Jesus Christ, the perfect man."

Each class in college is approaching the same ultimate goal, claimed Fetter. He said that the door to this goal has been opened by the efforts of our predecessors. "Let no man," he warned, "let the door close just one inch."

Following the address, Dr. Seegers conferred two honorary degrees. The Rev. Claude E. Schick, Secretary of the ministerium of Pennsylvania was awarded the degree Doctor of Divinity, and Frederick Keiper Miller, President of Lebanon Valley College, received a Doctorate of Letters.

East Hall Dorm Council, Dean Explain Standards of Conduct

Dean Henry M. M. Richards was the main speaker at a meeting of all the resident students of East Hall last Monday. The meeting was opened with remarks by Gerald Neville, chairman of the Dorm Council, who emphasized the fact that all the regulations concerning East Hall will be rigidly enforced. He expressed his hope in the cooperation of all of the men.

Dr. John J. Reed was introduced and made a few remarks concerning the present set of dormitory regulations. He announced that all beds should be made by noon and that rooms will be checked regularly by the individual members of the dorm council. He also stated that the dorm council will be backed with "extreme enthusiasm" by the administration.

Dean Discusses Drinking

Dean Richards was then introduced and offered a few remarks about drinking, both on and off the campus. He said that the law of Pennsylvania prohibits minors from drinking and that Muhlenberg prohibits it, therefore anyone caught possessing liquor on campus will "get the book." He further stressed the point that drunkenness will not be tolerated and that it is the obligation of the men on the dorm council to report anyone breaking this rule.

When asked about drinking in the Fraternity houses the Dean said that the same rules also apply there. Speaking in the lighter vein, Dean Richards welcomed the men back for another year and gave an invitation to the students to come up to his office at any time—"the door is always open."

Schlitter Closes Meeting

The meeting was closed with a few remarks by Ron Schlitter, President of the Student Council, who stated that the Student Council is one-hundred per cent behind the Dorm Council and will back it all the way.

'Berg Glee Club Anticipated By Professor Lenel

Ludwig Lenel, Professor of Music, has announced plans for the formation of a college glee club, to be added to the Muhlenberg extra-curricular program.

The glee club will co-exist with the Chapel Choir as the second vocal-musical activity on campus, and will represent the college in public appearances.

This new group is being organized by Mr. Lenel at the request of members of the student body who are interested in being associated with a choral group concerned primarily with secular music.

All students desiring to become members of the glee club have been asked to attend the organizational meeting to be held Tuesday, September 28 in the Chapel lounge, or to contact Mr. Lenel.

Mules Chosen For Rotary Bowl; Pep Rally Planned For Friday

Muhlenberg's Mules have been invited by the Harrisburg Rotary Club to be the home team in the Seventh Annual Rotary Bowl Game which will be held Saturday night, September 25, at 8:30 p.m., in the Hershey Stadium. The Bucknell University Bisons will provide the opposition.

French Announces

Students who have any interest in preparing to teach in the public schools are requested by Professor William M. French of the department of education to make an appointment with him for advice in planning their courses. Dr. French has pointed out that too many men wait too long to meet in full the requirements before graduation.

He further noted that too frequently candidates prepare to teach in only one field, whereas with proper planning they could also be eligible to teach related subject fields. Freshmen as well as other students are invited to report to him for conferences.

Cheerleading Try-Out Set For Next Tuesday

Calvin Colarusso, head cheerleader, announced this week that try-outs for cheerleading will be held next Tuesday, September 28, at 4:30 p.m. in the Science Auditorium. This meeting is for freshmen in particular, but upper classmen are encouraged to try-out at this time.

The cheerleaders take part in all football and basketball games and also conduct pep rallies during the football season. A pep rally is planned for tomorrow night at 6:45 p.m. in the Science Auditorium in preparation for the Muhlenberg-Bucknell game to be held the following evening in Hershey, Pa. Plans are now being formulated for pep rallies to be held before each football game.

Colarusso commented, "the freshman class has shown sufficient interest in cheering and I hope they shall continue to do so. Also, the appearance of upper classmen at the many planned pep rallies would be greatly appreciated."

Four members of the cheering squad have returned this year. They are: Calvin Colarusso, '57; Edward Kunkle, '56; David Miller, '57; and John Simek, '57. During the basketball season the group is joined by girl cheerleaders from Cedar Crest College.

Proceeds of the game will be used for the charitable projects sponsored by the Harrisburg Rotary Foundation. Since the Foundation's organization in 1948, it has distributed over thirty-five thousand dollars for charitable purposes.

Pep Rally Friday Night

A pep rally will be held tomorrow night at 6:45 p.m. in the Science Auditorium in preparation for the game the following night. Coach Tom Triplett will speak along with several members of the team. Mr. H. A. Benfer, Dean of Freshman, will also speak. Freshman are required to attend the pep rally which will feature the annual cheering contest between the freshman and upper-classmen. Following the pep rally, the freshman will proceed to Cedar Crest College for their dance with the Cedar Crest Freshman.

5000 Tickets Sold

More than five thousand tickets have been sold, and over ten thousand persons are expected to attend the game. Student tickets are now available in Memorial Hall for one dollar. More than six thousand dollars worth of advertising has been procured for a souvenir booklet commemorating the game.

A post game luncheon has been planned at which time an appropriate trophy will be presented to the winning team. The luncheon, to which the coaches and athletic directors of both schools have been invited as guests of the Rotary, will be held in the Penn-Harris Hotel in Harrisburg.

The Freshmen had their first opportunity to meet the Freshman Tribunal last Thursday evening in the Science Building Auditorium. After a cheering session under the direction of Head Cheerleader Cal Colarusso, the Freshmen were introduced to Tribunal President Don de Quevedo and Sophomore members Paul Billy, Al Foster, Jim Henderschedt, Harry Potter, Merrit Reimert, Dick Stryker, Dick Wagner, Bill Wormley and Stu Godin.

After de Quevedo gave a brief talk on the history and function of the Tribunal and social graces, he and the other members present outlined the regulation dress, campus conduct and M Book material which all Freshmen will be required to know. It was pointed out that the Freshman Regulations do not apply to veterans or men over twenty-one years of age.

Twelve men were requested to attend the first regular meeting of the Freshman Tribunal court on last Monday evening; all were found guilty of having committed infractions of the Freshman regulations and were duly sentenced. Ed Steiger, newly elected Junior member, joined the group for the first time that evening.

The frosh can rid themselves of their regulations on Halloween by winning two of the three Sophomore games, the first of which, the tug-of-war, will be held on Monday, October 4. If the sophomores win two of the games, the regulations will remain in effect until Thanksgiving.

Tribunal meetings will be held every Monday evening in the Student Center for the remainder of

Muhlenberg Faculty Members Receive New Higher Rankings

Four Muhlenberg faculty members have been the recent recipients of higher degrees. Dr. Harold L. Stenger received his Ph.D. in June of this year and also became an assistant professor in the English department. Dr. Andrew H. Erskine advanced from associate professor to professor of speech and drama. Dr. William Green became associate professor of biology and Dr. Claude E. Dierolf became an assistant professor in the English department.

Dr. Stenger, who came to Muhlenberg in 1946 after having taught at the University of Pennsylvania, Drexel Institute of Technology and the University of Texas, received his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania. Included in his work for his degree was the establishment of the author of what was formerly thought to be an anonymous play written in 1611, "The Second Maiden's Tragedy." Dr. Stenger, a native of Philadelphia, received his A.B. in 1936 and his M.A. in 1946, both from the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Erskine became Muhlenberg's first Professor of Speech and Drama. In addition to his work at Muhlenberg, Dr. Erskine has also taught at Chestnut Hill Academy in Philadelphia, University of Alabama and New York University. He received both his A.B. and M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania, and his Ph.D. from New York University.

Dr. Green has taught in the biology department since 1946. Before coming to Muhlenberg, he was a bacteriologist for both Sharp and Dohme and the United States Navy. He received his B.S. from Moravian College and both his M.A. and Ph.D. from Lehigh University.

Attention Upperclassmen

Indoctrination of the freshmen in the traditions of Muhlenberg College is entrusted by the Student Council to the Freshman Tribunal. The Tribunal has pledged its support to encourage, by its own actions and that of others, conduct becoming gentlemen. Neither the Tribunal nor upperclassmen may engage in hazing procedures which violate this principle.

The Student Council, the Tribunal, the Dean, and the Advisor for Student Affairs interpret this to mean that hazing shall not include the use of profanity, obscene conduct, or conduct injurious to a student's health.

Violations of this principle should be reported to either the Tribunal or to the Student Council.

DR. JOHN J. REED,
Student Advisor

EDITOR'S NOTE—This article appears because of recent incidents in which upperclassmen failed in their important task of freshmen indoctrination. The college approves hazing, only when it is carried on in a proper manner.

Editorial Views . . .

Eyesore . . .

In our wanderings during the past vacation-tide, we had the good fortune to visit the campus of one of our sister colleges, Gettysburg. Located in an historic setting, the campus is every bit as much of a showplace as Muhlenberg's. Moreover it is fortunate enough not to possess a student union building in such a state as ours.

Beautiful as our campus is, we cannot deny the presence of one particular war-time building of a dubious gray cast. Our student center, at present serving its intended purpose fully, is far from the building we would like to have. We fondly dream of a future student center with all the comforts of home but this is far distant.

Confronted with these conditions, we checked into the matter and found that the time and money spent on East Hall this summer would have done a first-rate job on the exterior of our union building. Perhaps a little more care per room during the semesters to follow would add up to a sum sufficient to do this job next summer. Our buildings and grounds crew is ready to do their part if we do our share during the coming term.

Let's Harmonize . . .

Not since 1931 has Muhlenberg officially sponsored a musical organization in which all vocal music was of a secular nature. The dedication of our chapel back in those days pointed to the need for a sacred musical group and the old Glee Club which many older alumni still fondly remember was dissolved.

The chapel choir has served its purpose well through these years but there has remained the vacancy in a secular musical program. Next week we hope that vacancy will be filled.

Under the direction of Professor Ludwig Lenel, our present music department instructor, a new glee club will be organized next Tuesday afternoon. If the response from the present choir members is any indication of campus interest, the club should grow rapidly.

Those students who briefly participated in a secular musical octet last year can attest to the capability of Mr. Lenel in this field. Let's make use of these capabilities by supporting fully this long-needed organization.

Support . . .

This weekend marks the big opening game for Tom Triplett's Mules, Berg fans. We really would like to see a load of students on the Hershey road or in the hired buses.

Harrisburg Rotary has given the game a big boost in their area. People are expecting to see a good game backed by a strong student cheering section. Let's not let the Rotary or the crippled children or the team down, men.

The Dean's Door . . .

Every office has a door and doors are pretty much alike, but there are some distinguishing features about the door to the Dean's office. For one thing, this Door leads to friendly advice on academic and other problems. For this purpose, the Dean's Door is always open, and we hope that you will feel free to bring your problems to the Dean at any time.

Doors have two functions; they provide entry and they bar entry. The Dean's Door provides a safeguard of those academic standards which give value to the four years you will spend here and to the diploma which you will earn. This means nothing else than resisting all efforts to dilute the quality of the teaching at Muhlenberg. The fine faculty at Muhlenberg is dedicated to providing you with the tools with which you can forge a superior educational base.

Finally, the Dean's Door connects the passageways between student government and the administration, making it possible for these to act in harmony and in cooperation for the creation and preservation of a congenial atmosphere on the campus conducive to a fruitful academic life.

In other words, the Dean's Door is your Door to assistance, to a higher standard of academic life, to more congenial surroundings. Get the most out of your college life and use the Door freely. Have a good year.

. . . Can You Spot The Frosh?

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

The other day I was strolling along Hamilton Street, picking up cigarette butts, when I noticed a black and white taxicab approaching. As it drew alongside me, I read the printing on the door. It read "MIAMI BEACH CAB CO." I took another look and sure enough, the cab had Florida license plates. I was so curious that I passed up a half-smoked El Producto and took off after the car. It stopped at a traffic light and I caught up with it. The driver was a rather odd-looking elderly chap in a beat-up suit sporting about three days beard. I cleared my throat impressively and queried, "Hey, buddy . . . did you take a wrong turn somewhere or did a hurricane set you down on Route 22?" The guy bared his yellow teeth in a grin and said, "Nah . . . just decided to take a little ride, that's all." Scout's honor, men, that's what happened. It's the truth, I tell you!

The campus bears a slight resemblance to an elephant's graveyard as former Bergers come back to die or something. JIM McCAULEY, former WEEKLY wit, has taken up the chase again, along with DICK COWEN of bicycle and "blue tag" fable fame. Another second-timer, who bears a slight resemblance to an elephant, is RAY KLEIN, who, a couple of years ago, convulsed all and sundry with his radio (WMUH) program loosely entitled "Sightless Television." To those who never heard or saw this production, I can only say, "You missed it, man."

From ATO comes the report that ED "GUARD AGAINST THROAT SCRATCH" STEIGER has developed a startling new cigarette holder-filter. It sounds like a great idea. It ought to save or at least prolong a few lives. ED has in mind a cigarette holder containing a live white rat. Using this gadget, the nicotine puffs merrily along until the rat dies of lung cancer. Just insert a new rat and you're in business again. Simple, huh? I'm telling you, this STEIGER has a great future as a benefactor of mankind.

Last week I said I would have some information on summer jobs held by undergraduates of this place. It turned out, however, that nobody did anything unusual; in fact, many men didn't do anything at all. A couple of guys from East Hall tried their hand at safe-cracking and knocked off candy stores on the side, but . . . see what I mean? . . . nothing really interesting

TIRED GAG DEPT.

A prominent novelist was sucking up martinis at a cocktail party when he was approached by a gushing matronly type.

SHE: "And what do you do, you terribly interesting man, you?"

HE: "I write."

SHE: "You do? What an amazing coincidence! I read!"

This liberal arts college is really going to the dogs. Some clod, possibly a science major, was responsible for spelling Shakespeare as "Shakespeare" on the course schedule. I realize that there are eighty-one ways of spelling the cat's name, but I don't think that is one of them.

While sitting in Ethics class on Monday, I noticed that one FRED-ERIC "THE NEWLYWED" GEEHR was present. This definitely spells trouble in the form of thousands of appropriate questions and many many long-winded harangues. Dr. Stine, you're really in for it, but always remember that we, the other members of the class, are on your side . . . no matter what happens.

There will be a STUDENT BODY MEETING in the Science Auditorium at 11 a.m. After this meeting the classes will hold their individual meetings in the same building.

Swingin' Alumnus . . .

Road Tour, Records Spread Fame Of 'Happy' Jazz School

by Don Reilly

What Muhlenberg alumnus has, for the past few years, cut a swath through local music and entertainment circles, and is now about to propagate his swinging gospel throughout the land via records and road tours? See the cut below for the answer, man, if you haven't already guessed. The perspiring young man hunched over the baritone saxophone is Willie Restum, the fastest moving Berg product since the '52 panty raid.

Willie needs no introduction to most Berg students, but for the sake of thoroughness, we will give him one anyway. Willie is a native Allentonian who came to Muhlenberg in 1949. He majored on that intricate piece of plumbing called a baritone sax. These instrumental rides were generally followed by a sort of semi-vocal chorus. I say "semi" because Willie never was much for straight singing with a bunch of lyrics getting in his way. His preference was, and is, an uninhibited "bop-be-doodlum bop" rendition, accompanied with vigorous gestures and considerable leaping about. It soon became obvious that for the audience, this frantic cavorting was definitely the high point of the evening, since all dancing stopped as the crowd rushed up to the bandstand to give their undivided attention.

in Romance languages when he wasn't blowing up a storm at a PEP Boys houseparty. On an H.P. weekend, nearly everybody made it down to Fulton and Walnut Streets sooner or later to live it up against the frantic background music of Willie and the group. Background, I fear, is not the proper word, since when Willie starts carrying on, anyone in the immediate vicinity, just sort of drops everything to listen and watch. This last is important. To fully appreciate the Willie phenomenon, one must do both. Listening is fine, and the music really swings, but in person Willie is a very funny guy and a great entertainer as well. On a tour of club dates, this entertainment factor should be the big difference between Willie's outfit and the numerous run-of-the-mill rhythm and blues groups on the road.

To backtrack a bit, Willie acquired his first fans while playing with Matt Gillespie's very fine band. The band played many dates at schools and colleges in this area, and sometime during the job, when the band tore off on a jump, Willie would hop up from his chair and tear off a few chorus-

The Gillespie band does not book summer work, so in 1952, Willie joined a group and went into the now-defunct Hugo's, where a miniature riot took place every night that summer as Willie dispensed his own personal brand of wild musical activity. This outfit was the "Joe Q. Bopet," featuring Willie "the Bopman" Restum. Some months later, Willie joined another outfit booked into the Cameo. Well, it seems that the leader and management had a hassle of some sort and the leader walked off the stand one night leaving Willie holding the old sack. The next night, Willie was back with a piano man, later a drummer, finally rounding out the combo with bass and guitar. This is the combination that is with Willie now. Needless to say, this engagement was a slightly terrific success. Next came the booking at the Embassy for Bill "Jazz" Max. This was during the past summer, when the things that had been brewing finally boiled over in fine style with a contract to record for Capitol Records.

Animal Sophs Worry Meek, Puzzled Frosh

by Clarence Schumaker

What in Sam Hill is a frosh to do? Hibernating all winter seems to be the only safe thing, but that's no good either . . . because if a frosh leaves his den, he'll be attacked like a plump young rabbit by those cannibalistic sophs. Scrutinizing, questioning and investigating as though they were Scotland Yard, they disrupt the poor freshman's quiet manner of life. The soph's manner of becoming acquainted with these meek creatures, who mean no harm, is most rude.

Thank heaven most of them are vegetarians, or they might attempt to devour these young defenseless sheep. Their ruthlessness is enough to cause a frosh to lose total confidence in himself.

P. S. Honestly though, we love you guys like our own flesh and blood. (Let us catch you alone some time and you'll end up being part of our blood . . . by process of digestion.) We're devoted to you and Muhlenberg like mad. We may go astray once in a while, but I'm sure that with your help and guidance, we'll come back on the right track. Some of you are probably saying the very thing I'm thinking, which is . . . "You better . . . or else!"

... Student Council Report ...

Student Council submits the following report of its special meeting Sept. 16, 1954, and its activities for the summer recess interval.

Present were Messrs. Neville, Loy, Lauer, Paul, Rosenberger, Adam, Spohn, Quay, Weidknecht, Ascione, Schlittler and Wanczyk.

A special Student Body meeting is scheduled for Sept. 30 at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium. Class meetings will be held following the adjournment at about 11:30.

The incident in East Hall in late spring which resulted in extensive damages was reviewed and an offender was recommended for social probation for one year effective immediately.

Regulations concerning living habits in East Hall were distributed at a special meeting with residents on Monday evening. Dean Richards presented the views of administration and its policy at that time. Drinking will not be tolerated; gambling is as serious as that; and women are not permitted in any room except the reception room (which has regular hours) between 1 and 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. Council will severely discipline any offender.

Fourteen students have been appointed to act as dorm councilmen. The outdoor bulletin board presently being constructed by the grounds crew will be erected by October 1st.

Ed Steiger, '56 was elected to serve as Junior member of the Freshmen Tribunal.

For social diversification there will be dances every month. The first are the Soph-Frosh Hop, the M Club dances and the formal Christmas Ball. Movies on Friday nights begin Oct. 22 and are sponsored by the Board of Trustees. An assembly program is scheduled for next month.

The pool tables in the Student Union Building will be repaired within a week so that the facilities of that room will be available for the Student Body.

An announcement concerning gentleman-like conduct on the part of upperclassmen while Freshmen regulations are in effect is printed elsewhere in this issue and should be read.

Transportation on the buses for the Bucknell game is still available. Contact the Student Council president for tickets selling for $1.95 (at cost). Buses leave the Administration Building Saturday afternoon at 5 p.m. Dates can be taken along. Tickets for the game are available in the Athletic office for a dollar each.

Respectfully submitted,

CASIMIR J. WANCZYK,

Recording Secretary

RONALD W. SCHLITTLER,

President

'Happy Jazz'

All who know Willie (and that includes just about anyone within a twenty mile radius of Allentown, it seems) sincerely wish him luck and success because they like his music and they like him personally . . . and that reminds me; a lot of people like Willie's music because he is no cultist. He is not strictly of the Old School or the New School. Willie has tried to create a "happy" school, if you will. He has a big urge to entertain. He wants to see people swing a little and laugh it up. Willie has said "Man, I'll stand on my head and play if someone will get a laugh out of it." He feels no obligation to force strange jazz sounds on an uncomprehending public. In his own words, "If I want to play on a 'way out' kick, I'll go lock myself in a room and do it."

If things keep going well for Willie, the philosopher-musician, it may be quite a while before he'll find enough time to spend it in a locked up room . . . unless, of course, he gets pinched for disturbing some square's peace.

The playing arena in Memorial Hall will be open every day until 5:00 p.m. to all students interested in working out. Every student must wear regulation uniforms in order to use the facilities of the physical education department.

Bookstore Now Busy

Step right up men; get your books, shaving equipment, school supplies, personalized "brew" mugs, and class rings!

Where? Why, at the College Bookstore, naturally. To most freshmen, and undoubtedly to many upperclassmen when they were freshmen, the idea of a campus bookstore seemed new. Strangely enough, the book shop has a history which is almost as old as the college itself.

It's location until 1947 was in the basement of the Administration building. In 1947 it was moved to the present Student Union building which, until that time was a Navy barracks. The bookstore was privately owned until 1949. In 1949 it was bought by the college and to this day is run by it. It is managed by the Assistant Treasurer, Charles R. Stecker, Jr. Behind the counter is

MULE KICKS

Dear Mule Kicks,

A new year, but the same old philosophy on extra-curricular activities.

There is a school of thought which declares the so-called college community is a test-tube creation and has little connection with life as existing in a municipal community. Further, that college extra-curricular activities are substitutes for church, neighborhood friends, town organizations—which all exist as part of a town student's life.

Why try to force second-rate groups of activities on men who are already part of typical communities? Better yet, you should ask the campus students to acquaint themselves with Allentown so they can feel more as part of the local community.

Another thing, the two page 2 editorials confused me. "Spirit of Learning" said don't relegate studies to second place. "Your Responsibility" said, "Let us enrich our college experience by tak-

I was planning to dedicate this first column to the Ad-men. You know, softsoap them to gain their confidence and good wishes for the season.

But Zooks, men, one of those terrifying reports is circulating again, my spies tell me, and we simply won't have time for goodie-goodie preliminaries.

"It's in the works, now," my informant said Wednesday.

I shuddered a bit, swilled some Student Center coffee and said something obscene.

"So they're going to eliminate cuts altogether," I said.

Want to pick up $25? Make up a Lucky Droodle and send it in. It's easy.

If you want to find out just how easy it is, ask Roger Price, creator of Droodles. "Very!" Price says. Better yet, do a Droodle yourself, like the ones shown here.

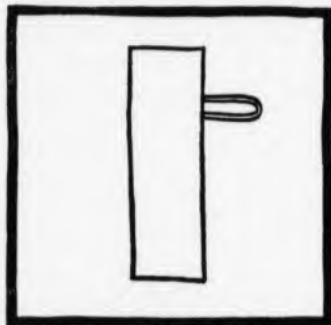

Droodle anything you like. And send in as many as you want. If we select yours, we'll pay $25 for the right to use it, together with your name, in our advertising. We're going to print plenty—and lots that we don't print will earn $25 awards.

Draw your Droodles any size, on any piece of paper, and send them with your descriptive titles to Lucky Droodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y. Be sure your name, address, college and class are included.

While you're droodling, light up a Lucky—the cigarette that tastes better because it's made of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted" to taste better.

Bob Mirth Prepares Freshmen Footballers

The freshman football squad initiated active practice sessions last Monday under the direction of Coach Bob Mirth. Approximately thirty men turned out for the frosh grid team. The first day of practice included stiff calisthenic drills, explanations of plays and various exercises to get the men in shape.

Several high school stars are testing their skills in practice:

Joe Frederico—Paterson Central, N. J. Joe played a standout game at center for three years. He was named to the Newark Evening News All-State first string team and was also placed on the All-Metropolitan team.

Buddy McCutcheon—Irvington, N. J. Buddy was the leading ground gainer on a poor Irvington team. He showed great potential with his hard running from the split T formation.

Dick Keiser—Whitehall, Pa. Dick played three years of varsity ball and was named to the All-Valley team in his junior year.

Dick Cormish—Washington, N. J. Versatile Dick played four years on the varsity at Washington as a halfback and quarterback. He was named to the N. J. All-State team.

Bill Carty—Camden Catholic, N. J. Hard hitting Bill was named to the All-Catholic team in N. J.

Ernie Jackson—Port Washington, N. Y. Ernie played halfback and quarterback for three years and was a real triple threat man.

He was made all Metropolitan and All-Long Island.

Don Herman—East Stroudsburg, Pa. As an end Don made the Pa. All-State team and played a stout game at backup on defense.

Paul Whitcraft—Hatenfield Memorial, N. J. Paul made All-State at end and distinguished himself with his bruising style of play at backup.

Tony Caporale—Cliffside Park, N. J. Tony made the All-County team as a halfback after three years of varsity play.

Barry Fried—Madison High School, Brooklyn, N. Y. Barry played both guard and center. In his Senior year he was captain of his team; Barry also won the coveted Lou Gehrig Memorial award for sportsmanship and courage.

Bob Fried—Madison High School, Brooklyn, N. Y. Bob, Barry's twin brother, was named as a halfback on the All-City team of N. Y. C.

Lee Schweyer—Allentown High, Pa. Lee played two years at quarterback and halfback, and was an all-around athlete at Allentown.

Cross Country Team Needs New Manpower

Since the Mule Cross Country squad lacks the necessary returning manpower for a successful season, Coach Ernie Fellows has expressed the wish that all interested students attend the first practice. Coach Fellows is presently working out with the football team, so no definite date for the first turn-out has been set.

Returning men from last year's squad are: Carson Schneck, Charles Rauch, Ed Druckenmiller, Wally Loy, Robert Andrews, Charles Drach and Richard Glick. A man that will be greatly missed this year is Tom Haney, who was captain of last year's team, and a fast man on the course.

This year's schedule builds up to the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference which is to be held at Muhlenberg on November 12.

Muhlenberg Meets Bucknell Gridders In "Chocolate Bowl" Saturday Night

Muhlenberg launches the 1954 football season against the Bucknell University gridders in the Hershey Stadium on Saturday night, September 25, at 8 p.m. Coach Tom Triplett's Mules will attempt to duplicate last year's 18-13 victory over Harry Lawrence's eleven.

Twenty-two veterans will don uniforms for the Bisons, while there will be only nineteen returning Bergmen.

The strength of the Bucknell team is greater by ten men than the Muhlenberg varsity.

Bidding for starting roles against 'Berg will be four Bison ends, all of whom are lettermen. Jack Flurer, Richard Klaber, Ken Tashjy and Bob Antkowiak have had varsity experience; all but Tashjy stretch over the six-foot mark.

Three Vie For Center

In competition for the Center slot will be senior letterman Roy Gavert, George Wolfe and Henry Owen. The first string tackle jobs will be filled by Marion Minker and Ronald Lloyd, while captain John Chironna and Henry Popek appear to have the inside track on the guard assignments.

In the backfield, Coach Lawrence can call upon Ron Hendricks, Jim Stewart and Bob Herschok for the signal-calling post. He is deep in fullbacks with Bob Ford and George Klauder sharing the spotlight. At halfback, Bob Sierer has been handicapped by a minor leg injury in pre-season workout and stepping in to attract attention is Dick McCartney, a junior.

"It's wide open at halfback," says Coach Lawrence who has expressed pleasure with the spirited bids his charges are making for starting post.

Six Eastern College Squads Compete For Mythical Six Title

by John Keyser

Each year six eastern college football teams compete for championship honors of the Mythical Middle Six Conference. Bucknell, Delaware, Gettysburg, Lafayette, Lehigh, and Muhlenberg will again meet each other once during the fall to determine the final standings of this year's race.

Delaware University's grid team led the 1953 Middle Six with a 4-0 league record and an 8-1 overall record. Coach Dave Nelson's Blue Hens were rated 11th best in the nation, scoring three shutouts during the season.

Gettysburg ran a close second with a 3-1 record against Middle Six competition. After dropping their season's opener to Delaware, 19-7, the Bullets won eight straight to end the year with an impressive 8-1 log.

Lehigh's veteran squad wound up in third place followed by the Mules in fourth with a 2-3 record. The Bergmen defeated Bucknell (Continued on Page Five)

Bergmen To Play In Another Bowl Game

Muhlenberg's football team will play in a third bowl game this year—the Baloney Bowl. On October 16 the Mules will tangle with the Lebanon Valley eleven in a game which shall be placed in the record books as being played in the "Baloney Bowl".

No other information was available, other than the fact that this game will be played in the afternoon and not in the evening as originally scheduled.

Dr. Webb Assumes Sports Publicity Job

Dr. Kenneth Webb, Assistant Professor of Romance Languages, has been appointed Sports Publicist of Muhlenberg, replacing Skip Mooney, who accepted a post at Moravian last February.

Dr. Webb's duties will center around writing and circulating sports releases, supplying radio and newspaper data, and handling other information, as well as sports, for magazines and other monthly publications.

Coverage of all Mule athletic events is also the job of the Sports Publicist. This includes answering questions involving schedules, scores, personal records of athletes, and other statistics.

Dr. Webb must be Berg's "front man" when making personal contacts, building that "good impression" at all times. Webb is confident he can handle this time-consuming position capably, despite his heavy schedule as a faculty member.

Dr. Webb has been a member of the Muhlenberg Faculty since 1946. He earned his A.B. at the University of Pittsburgh in 1939, and completed his Ph.D. degree at Pitt in 1951.

Coach Ernie Fellows has announced that the intramural sports program will start next week. He would like to have rosters of not more than ten men for a touch football league.

Coach Fellows hopes to have a good fast league this year and continue this program with basketball and baseball leagues.

May The Best Team Win!

(Ed. Note: This letter was originally addressed to the WEEKLY Sports Editor.)

We are very glad that Muhlenberg is going to participate in our annual Rotary Chocolate Football Game in Hershey on Saturday, September 25.

We would appreciate it if you would inform the Muhlenberg student body through the WEEKLY of our appreciation. May we in turn urge the "undivided" attendance of the student body at this game?

We can assure you that this portion of the game will go for worthwhile charitable projects operated by the Harrisburg Rotary Foundation.

We know that the Muhlenberg and Bucknell game at Hershey will be a great opportunity for both teams. May the best team win.

Sincerely,

G. Vance Seidel, President

In The Spotlight . . . Two Stellar Players

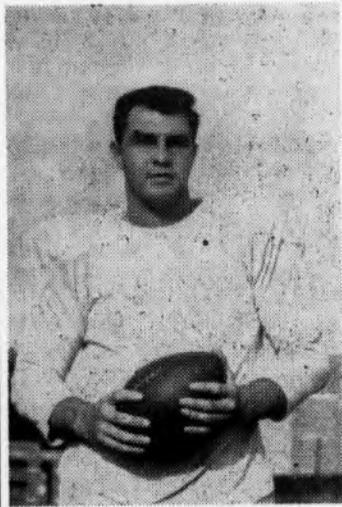

Jack MacDonald

Looming large in Muhlenberg's gridiron picture this year is a man of small stature named Jack MacDonald. A graduate of Pottsville High School, Jack was one of the spearheads who upset Bucknell last year.

In high school Mac was not only a football star, but also a member of the basketball and track teams.

A business major, Jack intends to become an accountant after graduation. He has earned a high B average in his two years of study at Muhlenberg, despite the great amount of time and energy the heavy grid workouts require.

Mac is a member of Phi Kappa Tau Social Fraternity, the M Club, and is active in intra-mural sports. Winner of last year's Maxwell Award for his fine performances at the Bucknell and Lafayette games, Mac will hold down one of the halfback slots for the Mules. Jack, who measures five feet nine inches and weighs 160 pounds, asserts that this year's team looks better than any other Berg team with which he has played.

Ralph De Stephano

Ambitious on the field of sports as well as in the field of studies, Ralph De Stephano is one of Muhlenberg's versatile key football performers. Ralph, who hails from Albany, New York, attended Christian Brothers Academy for his secondary school education. Ralph first showed his qualities in sports there by earning a total of 10 letters in track, football, basketball, and baseball.

The big, 6 foot 2 inch, 220 pound lineman is a biology major and is a member of the "M" Club and the track team. The stalwart senior, who plays any position on the line, thinks that this year's squad has a strong forward wall and a fast backfield. He sums up the Cardinal and Grey as being powerful.

Speaking Frankly . . .

Let's Face The Facts

by Frank Howard

Piercing the fan-packed Hershey Stadium on Saturday night, the referee's whistle will signal the start of the 1954 gridiron season for Muhlenberg College. To the Berg students, the shrill sound will be a startling reminder that it's the start of just another football season. To the Berg football coaches, the sound will be deafening . . . it will mean that the pressure's on!

Few fans realize that the football season does not begin in September, but is a year-round job for the men who coach and manage our teams. They spend many patient months preparing new plays and reviewing old strategy. Much time is spent interviewing prospective players and interesting them in college life. After all this has been done, the time to test the success of these ten months of preparation and perspiration is in the remaining two months.

It's time to face some raw facts which could have been previously concluded only after the months of practice and experience!

Muhlenberg's football team is only twenty-eight men deep, very shallow for a school of Berg's potential prowess. It is evident that the lack of men prevents the coach from holding genuine contact scrimmages for fear of injuring a player. If one or two players are sidelined, the squad is in bad shape.

With little opportunity to test his plays, the coach cannot promise or even hope to have a successful season!

One of the main reasons for the lack of sufficient substitutes this year is the enforcement of the freshman regulations. The sudden application of this rule did not give the coaching staff the necessary time to build-up the team for the time when their fresh source of players would suddenly be cut. The other schools on Berg's schedule have been building teams; it has been a gradual process.

While the die-hard fans and alumni would probably moan, the football schedule could have been tempered to meet the sudden reduction in players. This might have helped the team! (We must also realize that football contracts are usually made one or two years in advance of the playing date.)

Student Body Participates In Muhlenberg Celebration

General Peter Muhlenberg, namesake of Muhlenberg College, will be honored on Friday night, September 30, at a combination pep rally and birthday celebration to be held before his statue on the front lawn of the campus.

Dierolf Announces Free Movie Series

Once again, as in past years, Muhlenberg College is providing both Muhlenberg students and residents of Allentown with the film series "Great Films of Yesterday and Today." Dr. Claude E. Dierolf, English professor, announced that the films, to be shown free of charge in the Science Auditorium, are thirteen in number.

Last year's enthusiastic response by both Allentownians and students prompted the college to continue the series. They are as follows: On October 22, "Tight Little Island"; November 5, "The Promoter"; November 19, "Pepe Le Moko"; Jan. 7, "Alice in Wonderland"; Jan. 14, "Oliver Twist"; February 4, "Chaplain Shorts"; February 11, "The Barber of Seville"; March 4, "Naked City"; April 1, "The Man in the White Suit"; April 15, "Rocking Horse Winner".

As in previous years, the Muhlenberg Cardinal Key Society will usher. All features will be at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. with short subjects preceding the main features.

Before coming to Muhlenberg in 1952, Dr. Dierolf taught at the University of Pennsylvania, Wittenberg College, and the University of Delaware. He received his A.B. from Muhlenberg in 1943, his M.A. in 1947 from University of Pennsylvania, and his Ph.D. from that same institution in 1953.

Soccer Men Meet

Coach "Bud" Nevins began the 1954 Muhlenberg soccer campaign with a meeting of returning varsitymen and interested candidates last Monday at 4 p.m. in Memorial Hall. Fifteen upper-classmen and ten freshmen were present. Nevins announced that workouts will begin this week, starting daily at 4 p.m.

of philosophy from Hamburg University in 1938. He will speak to us on, "Why Religion in the College Curriculum?"

Before coming to Muhlenberg as an assistant professor of religion, Dr. Staack taught in the Theological Seminary in Berlin, the University of Hamburg, and the Lutheran Theological Seminary.

Dr. Staack has published several books and holds membership in many learned societies. He is the Pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Allentown.

Dr. John Reed, assistant professor of history and director of student activities, will speak in chapel on Tuesday. Dr. Reed began his career at Muhlenberg in 1948. Prior to this he taught history in Rochester and Brighton High Schools. He was an assistant professor in history and an instructor in mathematics at the University of Pennsylvania.

He received his Bachelor of Arts and Master's Degrees from the University of Chicago and his Doctor of Philosophy Degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He also received the Harrison Fellowship twice from the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Reed has written "The Economic Interpretation of the Constitution."

His hobbies include hiking, athletics, and music.

Busy Bookstore

Mrs. Isabel McCain, who knows so well our literary needs. Also recognized is the well-known face of Mrs. Charles R. Stecker, who helps out during the book season.

Aside from books, the store takes the orders for all class rings and other class jewelry. The best selling articles are sweat shirts, banners, and personalized "brew" mugs. In a few weeks, the shop will get in a complete supply of Pocket Books. Currently, Muhlenberg men have been avid supporters of a fad, namely, a special, featuring one can of Prince Albert pipe tobacco plus a pipe, all for 69 cents.

The Campus Book Shop is situated centrally on the campus for the convenience of all Muhlenberg students. The student body is therefore urged to give its all-out support to this worthy establishment.

CIARLA MEETING

The first meeting of the CIARLA staff will be held next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the CIARLA office, Student Union Building, second floor. Other interested upperclassmen as well as freshmen are asked to attend.

"Yes."

I said I had a previous engagement and left.

What can you do? First they decide to bring us co-eds, clump down on the pubs and now this.

We used to have four freedoms: freedom from frustration (no women), freedom from boredom (no classes), freedom from exhaustion (sacktime) and freedom from puritanism (we had to get an ism in there somewhere, you understand).

Well, we'll have women with us in 1955. Classes with us forever. Sacktime over. And as for puritanism . . . Next thing you know, they'll outlaw pizza.

For the time being, however, we have a reprieve until the Ad-men "lift up the periscope and have a look around."

In the meantime, laddies, we've got something in the works, too. Twenty-five cents for the best threatening letter (in twenty-five words or less) submitted to this column by next Tuesday.

The Chowline

On the campus last Saturday, the courts next to the Student Center looked more like the entrance to the fair grounds than basketball rectangles. Better than 3000 Lutheran laymen gathered before the tables, which were loaded with box lunches and cups of coffee.

It took the staff of assisting students about twenty-five minutes to serve the multitude more than 5000 turkey salad and ham-cheese sandwiches. Many thanks to those students who operated like "professionals" in doing the enormous task. These men transported the leftovers out to the Good Shepherd Home.

The big rally was a Ministerium affair where pastors and laymen alike heard the President of the United Lutheran Church in America, Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, appeal to the people, not for the necessary dollar per member more by Christmas, but for the humility of true Christianity.

Comes the fall and football! Don't miss the Mules in action. This week it's the Bucknell Bison of Harry Lawrence. Don't fail to make your reservation now. When the schedule brings the Mules home you can always take one of those lovely Cedar Crest ladies to the game. And when it's time for a snack don't forget the Snack bar, where our employees are always ready to serve you.

City Alumni Buys Electric Organ

A Hammond electric organ, valued at approximately $2,500, has been purchased for use in Memorial Hall by the Allentown chapter of the Muhlenberg College Alumni Association. The organization, of which Attorney John M. Metzger, a former Muhlenberg athlete, is President, used the proceeds from the Alumni-Varsity basketball game which was held in Memorial Hall on March 20, 1954, for the purchase. Chairman of the fund-raising committee was Mr. Donald P. Miller of the Allentown Call-Chronicle Newspapers.

The organ, which is adapted to be played through the present public address system, is so constructed that it never needs tuning. It will be used to provide music for any event which may be held at Memorial Hall.

We must look to the future! We do not mean to infer that the ball players we have are not good. They have the driving spirit, ready know-how, and ability to bid strongly for a winning season, but there are not enough of them. Undoubtedly, there would have been many men who would have normally never made the varsity if it wasn't for the freshman rule. We must credit these novices for having stamina to keep up with the regular men.

There are many points which might have been over-looked in this column. We, therefore, invite and hope the student body and faculty will share with us their opinions. And we urge the administration to voice the policy of the College on these matters.

Mules Selected For Pretzel Bowl

Muhlenberg College will participate in its second benefit bowl game within two weeks when the Mules engage Albright College in the Pretzel Bowl at Reading. The game is sponsored by the Rajah Temple of the Reading Shrine. Kick-off time is 8:30 p.m. A pep-rally-celebration will be held on the Muhlenberg campus at 7 p.m. tomorrow to prepare the student body for the contest.

Proceeds of the benefit will be used for the Shriner's Crippled Children's Hospital. Their motto is "Strong legs run that weak legs may walk." This year's game is the seventh sponsored by the Shriners.

This is the fourth annual Pretzel Bowl. In the three previous contests Albright College has been victorious once and defeated twice. Both Muhlenberg and Albright lost their opening games.

Tickets are priced at $1.50, $3.50, and $5.00. However, student tickets may be obtained on campus for $1.00. Buses will be chartered and will leave from the campus late Saturday afternoon.

Pep Rally Planned

The pep rally celebration will be held before the statue of General Peter Muhlenberg, namesake of Muhlenberg College. Platforms will be set up to accommodate the speaker and cheerleaders.

Dean Henry M. M. Richards, a direct descendant of General Muhlenberg, will give the main address. Don deQuevedo, tribunal president, announced that the freshman will present a skit after which cheering will complete the planned program. The climatic event of the evening will be the singing of "Happy Birthday" to the statue of General Pete.

Attendance Urged

Ronald Schlittler, president of Student Council, has urged the upper classmen to attend both the pep rally and the game. He commented, "extensive planning has gone into the pep rally and it deserves your support. Transportation has once again been provided for students who desire it and I hope that more will use this mode of travel for attending the game."

Plans are now being formulated for a bonfire to be held before the Lafayette game which will be held Saturday, October 9, in Allentown High School Stadium.

The Cardinal Key Society, presided over this year by John Hopper, will resume its activities this term by ushering at the annual Boy Scout Pilgrimage on October 9. The organization will serve in the same capacity at Fred Waring's concert in Memorial Hall on October 12.

At a meeting of the Parent's Day committee last Thursday morning, Hopper volunteered the services of Cardinal Key for the day's activities. This will include helping with the parking as well as assisting at the Freshman Matriculation Service.

As in the past, the society consists of twenty-eight members, seven from each of classes. Men who have an above C average are eligible for membership which is gained on a competitive basis. Following a period of pledgeship by freshmen, members vote on each

M-Club To Sponsor Turkey Trot Dance

Wranglers and flashy sport shirts will be the order of dress when the M-Club sponsored Turkey Trot Dance is held on November 19, in Memorial Hall.

Although no definite selection has been made concerning an orchestra, arrangements are being made to hire a square dance caller. The dancing, which will feature both square and popular dancing, will be from 8:30 to 12:30 p.m.

The only requirements for admission will be a date and an activities card, neither of which should pose a problem to any student. The M-Club, in order to assure every man of a date, has arranged a dating committee, headed by Ralph De Stefano, which will see that any man who so desires, can have a date.

Pres. J. Corgie Leads Debaters' Discussion

The first meeting of the Forensic Council was held on Wednesday, September 22, at 6:15 in the MCA room. Last year's members were welcomed back by President James Corgie and were told to contact potential new men, including freshman, that may be interested in debating.

Discussion was held concerning the coming intercollegiate debating tournament to be held on Muhlenberg's campus and sponsored by the Muhlenberg Forensic Council. It was decided to have the debate some time in late October, to be followed by an inter-collegiate debate some time in November. Debaters from approximately fifteen colleges took part in last year's program.

Trustee Board Releases Dorm Addition Plans

After a lapse of several decades East Hall will once again move closer to our founders' dream of a complete dormitory quadrangle. These plans seemed almost certain last Tuesday when the Board of Trustees had adjourned its periodic meeting in the Library lounge.

As proposed, the addition would extend west from the northeast corner of the present building. With a capacity of 150 students, the structure would be three stories high and brick, not matching but blending with the present East Hall architecture.

With the acceptance of coeds drawing closer each day, the board last Tuesday also instructed an Allentown architectural firm, Heyl, Bond, and Miller, to draw up preliminary plans to convert West Hall into a women's dormitory.

Prior to this action by the board, Mr. John K. Heyl, chairman of a special trustee's committee studying co-education, reported to the board the result of his group's four-month survey of changes in the plant and curriculum.

Thus far $628,000 has been donated or pledged to the current Muhlenberg College Appeal for $1,500,000. Money for the two building projects should be in Ministerium hands by next September so that construction can begin, according to the Rev. Luther F. Schlenker, and Dr. William G. Katz, appeal directors.

Campus Radio Station WMUH Anticipates Full Fall Schedule

WMUH, the Muhlenberg Radio Station, under the direction of Dr. Robert A. Boyer, of the physics department, and Ira Goldberg, is making preparations to initiate its 1954-55 season within a few weeks.

A complete calendar of programs designed to the interest of the entire campus has been planned.

Pre-Theo Club Meets; Bremer, Stine Speak

Last Monday evening, the John A. W. Haas Pre-Theological Club held its first meeting of the new term. Approximately 43 men attended this meeting, which was held in the M.C.A. room of the Student Center. Short talks were given by Chaplain David Bremer and by Dr. Russell Stine, who are advisers to the club. The Rev. Paul Sittler, assistant Pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, was introduced to the group and also gave a short talk.

The present officers of the club are: Arvids Ziedonis, President; Kenneth Trexler, Vice-President; John Adam, Secretary; and Robert Strohl, Treasurer.

The next regular meeting of the club, which meets on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, will be on Monday, October 11, when Rev. Arnold Keller, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, will be the speaker. Other speakers for the coming year include Dr. Roy Winters, Dr. Richard C. Klick, Dr. Charles Cooper, and Dr. Richard Sutcliffe.

President Ziedonis set forth the following principles as being the club's purposes: to provide Scriptural education; to promote Christian fellowship among its members; to confirm the members in their chosen profession, the ministry; and to be a working factor for Christ on the campus of Muhlenberg College and elsewhere. He further stated that all pre-ministerial students, regardless of denomination, are encouraged and invited to become members of this organization.

Dean And Reed Propose Revisions At IFC Meeting

Last Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the MCA room of the Student Center, the Interfraternity Council held its first meeting of the new school year, Lee Podnicks, presiding. Dr. John Reed, advisor to Student Activities was present. Reed stated that in as much as there exists at the present time no organized code for the Campus representatives from Muhlenberg College and Lafayette College met on the latter's campus last Monday to sign the annual peace pact. Standing above at the signing in Watson Hall, are (l. to r.): Don Mitchell, Fred Braun, Max Hayden, Dick Miller and Paul Weidknecht. Seated are Ron Schlittler and Bruce Wilcoxon.

Muhlenberg-Lafayette Renew Annual Football 'Peace Pact'

Reviving the tradition of cooperation and good will between two ardent rivals, representatives from Muhlenberg and Lafayette met Monday evening at Lafayette to draw up a peace pact. The pact agreed to, was designed to better promote and control intercollegiate conduct during the coming football season. Both parties, as representatives of the colleges' respective student governing organizations, agreed to assume full responsibility for the pre-game and post-game conduct of the students.

Signing the pact for Lafayette at the meeting were Bruce Wilcoxon, Student Council President; Max Hayden, Editor of the Lafayette; Don Mitchell, Secretary of Student Council, and Fred Braun of the Student Council.

The Muhlenberg leaders who signed the pact were Ronald Schlittler, Student Council President. Richard Miller, Editor-in-Chief of the WEEKLY; and Paul Weidknecht of the Student Council.

The pact reads as follows: "In the desire to preserve the long tradition of friendly rivalry between Muhlenberg and Lafayette"

Variety in Programming

However, WMUH is now ready to re-open its transmitter, and to begin broadcasts on a basis planned strictly for the entertainment of the dormitory students. According to station officials, it will present latest school and local news and transmit any important notices to the student body.

In prospect for the future term, are a wide variety of musical reviews and informal discussions by the different Muhlenberg professors, concerning interesting side-lights about their particular fields. Also planned for the future is the beginning of a new series of student programs, with active participation by "the strangers from across the creek," the girls from Cedar Crest College.

Students interested in WMUH, have been asked to contact Ira Goldberg, or to watch the bulletin board in the Student Union Building for the time and place of the next meeting. Those with a knowledge of the technical aspects of radio, are especially invited to attend.

In discussing the long-range values of a campus station, small as it is, Goldberg stated, "Participation in WMUH can be of invaluable aid to those students who

Lehigh County PTA Sponsors Templeton

The Lehigh County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will sponsor a concert by pianist Alec Templeton next Wednesday, October 6, in the field house. The program will begin at 8:15 p.m., admission being $1.50, tax included. Tickets can be secured at the Athletic Office.

Mr. Templeton has appeared on the concert stage, radio, television, and has recorded extensively since he came to this country from England in 1935. He presents a versatile program of classics, impressions, and improvisations.

Born in Cardiff, Wales, and an American citizen since 1940, Mr. Templeton began studying piano at the age of four. At 16, he won a scholarship to the Royal College of Music in London, and later studied at the London Academy of Music.

His concert debut in the United States was in Chicago in 1936. Since then, he has appeared throughout the United States, in

Under the system used last year, rushing began on or about November 15, and terminated at the beginning of the second semester when bids were given out. As opposed to this, the new plan would shorten rushing and bids would be given out in the middle of December. As in the case of the other proposed amendments listed below, nothing definite has been decided.

Proposed Amendments

Dr. Reed proposed the following amendments to the constitution concerning drinking and parties. (1) No alcoholic beverages will be allowed on Fraternity property at any time. (2) All parties will terminate by 3 a.m. and those not sleeping at the fraternity house will have left by that time. (3) Acceptable chaperones may be members of the faculty or staff, married alumni, parents of brothers and pledges, or other responsible members of the community. Chaperones are responsible for the conduct of the parties and may eject anyone whom they feel is causing a disturbance.

The Interfraternity Council is the supreme judicial organ in all cases of violation of the constitution and is subject only to the college and the national offices with which each fraternity is connected. Any decision of the council may be appealed to the Dean or President and their decision will be final.

Ideas Discussed

These various amendments were discussed by the fraternities at their weekly Tuesday meeting. Next Wednesday, the presidents of

ICG Organizes, Plans Program

The first meeting of the Muhlenberg Intercollegiate Conference on Government was held last Wednesday, September 22, with reorganization being the main order of business. Under the direction of Mr. Andrew S. Bullis of the Political Science department, an extensive program was planned for the year.

New officers elected for the year are James Corgie, president; Ronald Schlittler, vice-president; and Edward Steiger, secretary-treasurer.

Activities Planned

Events for the year include interclub meetings with other I.C.G. organizations in the area, participation in the Northeast Region I.C.G. Conference, and participation in the State I.C.G. Conference at Harrisburg.

During the four day conference at Harrisburg the I.C.G. takes over the capital and carries on the functions of state government, including a model congress. With plans for an attendance of twenty-five members, Muhlenberg once again expects to be a formidable power as it was last year, when their candidate for president from Lehigh was elected.

Publishes Newsheet

John LaFaver will edit the new bi-monthly I.C.G. News-Letter, which will be sent to the other I.C.G. organizations in the state.

All upper-classmen and freshmen have been invited to attend meetings. A new policy of limiting absenteeism is being instituted.

Editorial Views . . .

Eins, Zwei, Drei, Vier . . .

When we came to Muhlenberg as freshmen, we were presented with an M Book in which were printed the student constitution and rules of conduct. We listened that first week as they were explained and then we found it advantageous to forget many of those which might interfere with our social life on campus. This fall we have been sharply reawakened to the fact that rules do exist to regulate student drinking on the campus of Muhlenberg College.

Mainly because of the concern of local residents, the administration has been forced to stop winking its eye at "pseudo-Kern" activities on campus and at student misconduct on the streets of Allentown. The citizens of this community have every right to condemn some Muhlenberg students for their disgraceful actions in public. Furthermore, the College is perfectly within its rights to squelch any student drunkenness, not only because it is a violation of student rules but because of the dormitory depreciation which often results.

The unfortunate aspect of this whole matter is that it includes such a small minority of students. Not only are there many men at Muhlenberg who never care to imbibe, there is also a large majority who use drink in careful moderation and for whom these tighter restrictions are unnecessary.

We feel that those men who do not have the maturity or self-control to keep their drinking within reason, will be too stupid to stop drinking merely because "old man Richards says so." Those of us who have frequently spoken with the dean since his recent arrival, have found him a sympathetic and judicious man. We are certain that he will give us every chance to prove ourselves mature students but that he will not hesitate to clear the campus of any students who are too frequently put under the table.

With these infamous gentlemen on the train towards home, we feel that restrictions on general drinking should be loosened insofar as campus regulations are not effected. This would allow for greater freedom at off-campus functions. As regards the matter of legal age, it is a problem for the individual. If he is willing to go off campus to partake of brew, despite an age deficiency, he should be willing to accept the penalty if apprehended. This is a matter which the college need not, and would hardly be able to control. No, the aspect of college drinking which concerns us is the simple actions of a few who have made the dean's ultimatum necessary. Remembering the proverbial saying, "eternal vigilance is the price of freedom," Dean Richards and the members of our student government must remain alert for those offenders whose conduct would lead to an over-censuring of student action and thought.

R.G.M.

. . . Lift Your Steins . . .

The fraternities on the Muhlenberg campus have reached a time of crisis—or so they seem to think. They are trying to find a way to get around the Dean's order on drinking. Let's be realistic, we can't get around it, we must face it squarely. There is a solution to suit both sides.

Muhlenberg College does not intend to treat the fraternities like so many juveniles. However, we must appreciate the college's position. Muhlenberg is a church-related college, and it must be conducted on a Christian basis. We are the college, it lives in us, therefore we too must be Christian in conduct.

Ask yourself why this crackdown is necessary. Because the new dean has to cement his position? We know this is not true. The most likely answer is because the fraternities, along with dorm students, have misused the trust and responsibility placed in them by the college. The pressure is coming from the alumni, many of them your fraternity brothers and mine, who are greatly disturbed by the conduct of Muhlenberg men. The crackdown is of our own making.

What to do? We have a perfect right to expect to be treated as mature adults. Governing our affairs is our business. If we want to get drunk, that too is up to us as individuals as long as we don't lower the name of Muhlenberg one inch, or encroach upon the rights of others. Drunkenness is disgusting. Drunkenness by Muhlenberg students does lower the status of Muhlenberg and for that reason alone it is wrong, and cannot be tolerated. Because of their activities, fraternities have a particular responsibility in this matter.

Let's stand up to the college and tell them that we intend to handle our own affairs. Then let every fraternity conduct its house in a proper manner. Crack the whip men, crack it hard, now! Let's remember our responsibility to lead new men down the proper path and not down the degrading trail of drunkenness as a few men have been in past years. Can we handle our responsibilities and privileges maturely? We are going to show the college that we can and will.

C.C.

. . . And Drink Your Beer ???

For as far back as most of the students on campus can remember, Muhlenberg College's administration has pursued a weak policy in the 'dry campus' category. Some students drank beer and liquor; a few got drunk occasionally (the rate increasing on houseparty weekends). But they continued to go on drinking undisturbed.

Our new Dean, Dr. H. M. M. Richards started off the school year with an issue-provoking statement equal in the minds of many to total prohibition. The reaction was startling and bull sessions virtually hummed with discussion on the topic. Rumors grew and pressure was subsequently applied in counteraction to the edict.

Students feel, primarily, that they are adult enough to know how to handle beer and liquor. They don't like the idea that the administration acts in the capacity of their parents when it forbids them the bottle. They point to the many men's parents who allow their sons to drink. (The admin-

Dean Richards

by Dave Miller

The dapper little gent seen all around campus should be known by now, at least for his name. It goes: Dr. Henry Melchoir Muhlenberg Richards. Quite an imposing handle, and quite different from his appearance and manner. The latter two are friendly ones.

Summing up a man in a few words is almost impossible, but he could be described as a conscientious, sincere person. Going back some years to his undergraduate days, Dr. Richards recalled that some of his most enjoyable hours were spent playing intramural football (his weight then—120 lbs.) and playing the piano in the Glee Club and six-man dance band he got together. He also played basketball in spite of his diminutive stature.

When the class of 1932 headed out into the middle of the depression, jobs weren't easy to get. He admits it took him two years to land his first job. Finally, Dun and Bradstreet employed him as a credit analyst. He started in Harlem and was a city manager at Pittsburgh before World War II. In 1941, he worked with the Treasury Department, tracking down Nazi and Japanese funds headed for saboteurs in America. That job lasted until the next year, when his Navy Commission came through. He entered as a Lieutenant Commander and was stationed at places like Okinawa and Iwo Jima, where he had the thrill of watching the six Marines putting the American flag on Mt. Suribachi. His ship was anchored just offshore and he watched the whole drama through binoculars, later talking to the photographer who took the world-wide picture.

His taste in clothes runs to the conservative, a holdover from his job at the Chase National Bank.

He is married and has a 12-year old daughter.

When questioned about college life and problems, he said he thinks that the dormitory "bull session" is one of the most important things in school. In it, he says, is found the valuable interchange istration is of course responsible for a minor while he's on the campus.)

When we stop to ask ourselves some questions, we find ourselves middle-of-the-road thinkers.

Should drinking be permitted in the dorms?

Ans. NO!

The college plays the role of janitor and pays to keep the dorms clean. We feel with them that the rooms should be free of the customary mantle full of freshly emptied bottles.

Should Muhlenberg men be allowed to go to any tap room or brew house, the majority of them in violation of Pennsylvania's code?

Ans. YES.

If Muhlenberg men are willing to accept their responsibility when apprehended in the violation of public law, then we see no reason for the college to limit student's off campus pleasure.

Should men be expelled from school, for drunkenness or behavior unbecoming a gentleman?

Ans. PERHAPS.

It has always been the province of the Dean or the President to decide whether or not a man is to be expelled as punishment for being juvenile. (The authority of the Student Council is recommendatory in nature.) However, it has been the custom for the Student Council to hear a case, pass a decision on it, and be backed up by the administration. We would add that equal treatment for all students, regardless of whether they are scholarship men, athletes, or paying students, is only fair.

Finally, an interview with Dean Richards clarified his approach to the situation. "I'm not here to be the student's enemy or a policeman who checks up on them. I want to be their friend and counselor. I abhorred from the first the task of enforcing the 'dry campus' regulation, but we can't afford to have happen again on campus what happened last year (Drunken sprees and property damage). What a man does off campus is his responsibility and we will make better men at Muhlenberg by delegating responsibility until a man shows us he can't accept it."

"Fraternalities exist by sufferance of the college and I have agreements with their several officers pledging their cooperation in this affair."

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

CURRENT CINEMA . . .

Since PAUL "THE BARD" MITCHELL, erstwhile WEEKLY movie critic is no longer with us, I would like to try my hand at his specialty. Admittedly I do not have PAUL'S knack for florid prose, but Marlon Brando's new vehicle, "On the Waterfront," so impressed me that I have to grind out some sort of comment.

Let's face it . . . Marlon-babe can portray a slob like nobody's business. For instance, in "STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE", he made a torn undershirt the hottest thing in male fashions since the grey flannel suit. His slovenly carrying-on brought out the dragon in millions of dowdy little housewives from coast to coast.

In "THE WILD ONE", Marlon mumbled his way through a few exciting reels as a real crazy motorcycle cat. His clenched-teeth, side-of-the-mouth delivery was truly memorable. Most citizens who saw this picture thought it was a very good caricature of the black leather jacket hoods that we all love so well. Among the real life cycle gangsters, however, the picture was revered as a documentary . . . as final recognition of their great work as gone cats.

"ON THE WATERFRONT" is all about an ex-fighter longshoreman who gets into trouble with the crooked labor bosses on the New Jersey docks . . . played by Marlon. Terry, I think his name was, does occasional strong arm jobs for the union and his brother, who is one of the boys in the back room. One dark night, in the line of duty, Jerry inadvertently helps get rid of his best friend who is threatening the set-up. This shakes Terry up somewhat, and when he meets his deceased friend's sister, he begins to think that there may be more to life than drinking beer and rubbing out his co-workers.

There is a bit of rather startling profanity sprinkled into the dialogue here and there and the audience became visibly shaken. Some of the best examples of Marlonesque dialogue were Terry's descriptions of his triumphs and near misses in the ring . . . you know the bit . . . "It wuz a wunnahful fight . . . knowwhaddimean? . . . I wuz holdin' da bum up fa' tree rounds . . . knowwhaddimean?"

Well, finally Terry sees the light, (by peeping out from under the scar tissue) confronts the crooks, gets his head bashed in, and staggers off into the happy ending, accompanied by a glowing dental tribute from the heroine of the piece, played by Eva Marie Saint . . . who knew all along that ol' Ter might be a slob, but he wasn't no crook.

Word reaches us that three leather-lunged characters vied for cheer-leading honors at last week's Rotary Bowl scrap. CAL COLARUSSO, the official head screamer, had competition from "WHISPERING JOHN" ADAM and FRED GROSSE, boy band president.

DICK WEIDNER says that the library has suddenly become the most popular building on campus these days. The reason for the stampede is uncertain, but DICK has a theory that the rare edition in high heels behind the desk may be remotely connected with the influx of culture vultures.

Berg's Eye Views —

by Jim Strine

One of Muhlenberg's basic problems for a long time has been what is commonly known as the "Suitcase college complex". The cure for this malady being increased weekend campus activities, the college and the student body have set up a weekend program far busier than any previous year.

In order to clarify the students' consensus on this topic, the question for the week is "What do you, as a Muhlenberg student, consider the best way of keeping our men on campus over the week-ends?"

Gabriel Hornstein, '57: "I think increased weekly fraternity affairs and student council-sponsored events in the student union building would be a practical solution to the problem. Since this situation has become increasingly worse in the past several years, only a conscientious renewal of effort can solve the complex."

Eddie Kunkle, '56: "Definite forethought and preparation have often been lacking in our weekend activities. Events planned in this fashion should be replaced by more elaborately planned activities, such as dances, a week-end intramural league, and a Saturday concert series. I believe a Saturday should be set aside to be known as "Sweethearts Day," corresponding to Parents Day and Spring Day, at which time the girlfriends would be the guests of 'Berg men."

Ed Horowitz, '57: "I think fraternity affairs should be increased. Some sort of independent association should be set up to provide activities for non-fraternity men."

Fred Grosse, '55: "I favor the reestablishment of Saturday classes to keep our students on campus. In conjunction with this, I think the library should be kept open for use on Saturdays and Sundays. Also our social programs should be co-ordinated with those of the surrounding institutions so conflicts in events would be dispensed with."

Ron Schlittler, '55: "Speaking

Cherman Collitch Boys Haff Goot Fun And Spirit

by
Ted Michelfeld and Al Hettinger

Not so very long ago, your reporters were sent to investigate the rumors that a tremendous school spirit dwells within and without the walls of that great monument of Bologian education—Druckelsdorf College. We now wish to substantiate those rumors.

Druckelsdorf College bears the names of those two pioneers in beer-brewing, Vladimir Druckel and Drapovitch Dorf. The gothic structure is situated high in the Bologian Alps under an overhanging rock-ledge. Each fall, an avalanche covers the school, but the students majoring in sandpile are put to work excavating and rebuilding. In winter, the students of Druckelsdorf are never snowed under. Besides sandpile, the only other courses offered at the school are: basket weaving, fingernail painting, bubblegum blowing, comparative anatomy via the Braille system, and brewery administration.

Atop the facade of the boys' dormitory is carved the inscription, Wir warfen ihr nicht aus dem Bett, which roughly translated means, "We like girls." On the other hand, a stone's throw away from the boys' dorm (and believe us, many stones are thrown) the girls' dormitory inscription proclaims, Wir laden ihn ein or "We like boys." You must remember that this is a rough translation.

The students spend no time studying, as you can well imagine. With the brewery running on a full time basis, the only other activity besides living-it-up is sports.

The only major sport at Druckelsdorf is mountain climbing. Once there was baseball, but it was disbanded after a tragic accident. Three years ago, Gene Kubasaki disappeared over the edge of a cliff while chasing a fly ball. What's more, the next morning, his broken body was found in a greenhouse in the valley. The glass roof had been smashed and several young Asaramonga plants were destroyed. Old Farmer Joneski, being very rich, made such a fuss that the game had to be discontinued at the school above.

Mountain climbing, however, is enthusiastically supported by the student body. What a glorious sight, to see all the ladies and gentlemen with their steins held high standing in the early morning sunlight, cheering their favorite climbers and booing the ones who fall into the valley below. The cheers are led by a man with a red and white propeller-beanie dressed in Bermuda Shorts. He is called the Kappel-meister. Here are some of the more famous cheers of Druckelsdorf. Make of them what you will.

of ideas between students, where any view is disagreed with, and ideas are either crystallized or discarded.

Dr. Richards realizes the position of the college in taking boys who have just arrived from home environment and have to make a sudden change to a strange, busy life.

Our new dean asserted that he would like to meet each of the students soon and he hoped that the men would realize there are many sides to college life and good times.

T. S. Eliot, in the opening lines of The Rock, has these words: "Where is the life we've lost in living?" There is a question to give all of us pause as we rush from one thing to another in our strenuous life at Muhlenberg. It is so easy for a person to mistake mere busi-ness with effectiveness in living.

A student ought to become involved in the total life of the college—both in and outside of the classroom. Clubs, societies, sports all have their rightful place in one's educative experience. However, it does not necessarily follow that just because one is active on campus, he is therefore getting the most out of college.

The wise student will make room in his busy round of daily activities for moments of quiet meditation when he reflects upon life's deeper meanings and the direction his own life is taking while in college. "An unexamined life," said Socrates, "is not worth living." The moments you spend now in examining yourself and your college experience will pay dividends in the years ahead.

Interested Men Welcomed Into Mask And Dagger

Actor? Electrician? Salesman? Painter? Maybe just an interest in what goes into a stage production. The Mask and Dagger, your college dramatic club, is getting under way again this year and would like to have all those interested in any phase of stage production attend a meeting on Monday night to discuss possible plays for the coming year. This is the time to put in your two cents.

Quite a few Freshmen expressed an interest in dramatics on their entrance forms and the Mask and Dagger Club is looking forward to swelling its ranks this year. Who can tell, Frosh? Beneath your calm exterior you might be a budding Barrymore. If you have trouble remembering your own name, much less some lines from a playwright's pen, you can be a big help in the many other phases that go into a production. No matter what your interest, you can utilize it here.

Publicity alone can use writers, people to contact radio stations, local newspapers, people to work out campaigns, and people to design posters. If you have any ideas on publicity visit us on Monday evening and like the Romans, we'll lend an ear.

The Greek Way . . .

by Byard Ebling

The Greek profile is the impact of fraternity participation upon the college community. Men of the Greek Way can foster fraternity integrity best by first identifying themselves as students.

Alpha Tau Omega

Brothers Pete Lord and Mel Strouse were employed as life guards at Ocean Beach for the summer. The sports world greeted Alumni brother Jack Pollitt with a baseball contract with the New York Giants. Brothers Geisinger, Ebling, Schlittler, and Talmadge traveled south to Atlanta, Ga., for the Alpha Tau Omega National Convention. Alpha Iota welcomes Marge and Frank Enderly to the chapter house. Baby Mary will aid them as they work in the kitchen.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Chapter plans to redecorate the sun parlor were initiated by the purchase of new furniture for the room. Brothers Young and Levy attended Lambda Chi's national convention at Miami Beach, Fla. After serving in Korea, brother Mannheim returns again to the chapter house as an active brother. Alumni brother Al Billy is teacher and assistant wrestling coach at Northampton high school.

Phi Epsilon Pi

Alpha Nu plans to renovate the interior of the chapter house, all work being done by brothers. Brothers Harvey Wolf and Don Pinkel are smiling at brothers Mitch Fox and Al Schneider who were more than short-changed at the local fair. Phi Epsilon Pi's national convention was attended by brothers Fox and Stockhammer in the Hotel Roosevelt, New York City.

Phi Kappa Tau

During the summer many of the brothers were employed in the Pocono Mountains, and Irv Thomas traveled to Arizona. The Home Association of the chapter has decided upon some improvements in the chapter house which will include repainting of the living, dining and card rooms and the purchase of new chairs for the dining room. Social chairman Joe Capozzi has scheduled the first houseparty for the weekend of the Lehig game.

Phi Sigma Kappa

Representing the chapter at their national convention at Roanoke, Va. were Faculty adviser Paul Weaver, brother George Smith and Alumni brother Gordon Edwards. Brother Paul Heiser was employed at the nation's capital in the Naval Research Laboratories. Brother Leon Podnicks, president of I.F.C., has met with representatives of all fraternities to coordinate fraternity activity.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The addition of a cook's assistant now brings the chapter kitchen staff's number to two full time employees. The brothers are well pleased with the new look of the house, the interior of the house being completely redecorated. During the summer months brothers Jim Corgie and Hal Salmon were employed as guards by the Pinkerton Detective Agency. Brothers Kerm Gregory and Bill Greenawald did some radio announcing for local stations. Don Lauer took over a church and preached a few sermons.

Bisons Stampede Mules; Revenge Previous Upset

Muhlenberg's football team fell prey to the Bucknell Bisons last Saturday night in the Seventh Annual Rotary Bowl staged at Hershey Stadium before approximately 6,000 spectators. An underestimated Bucknell eleven surprised

Editors Regret

The names of Frank Lerro and Lee Hoffman were inadvertently omitted from last week's varsity football roster. Lerro, whose heads up defensive play prevented Bucknell from making sizeable gains in at least two instances, suffered a pulled ligament in his right ankle, and may not see action against Albright Saturday.

CHOCOLATE BITS . . .

A few things that happened at the game on Saturday night at Hershey puzzled some members of the crowd. Most of their interest was not centered on the field.

For instance who was the object of all the attention in our famed marching band? Quite a few people in the crowd seemed to be cheering him and telling him to be "there." Now where could they want him to be? Well, we certainly hope he has a good trip.

It was good to see all the Freshmen out at the game cheering loudly. They held up their end in the second half when it seemed that everyone else had given the game up for lost. The report was that there were many cases of laryngitis turning up in West Hall on Sunday morning. Well, our sympathies are extended to them and we hope that they will keep up the good school spirit.

Speaking of Freshmen, who was the rambunctious quartet which, deciding the bass drum was not keeping up with their cheering, thought they would procure it for their own discretion? Boys, don't you know that such activities might get you in trouble with the dreaded Freshman Tribunal? However, we admire your school spirit even if you have no brains.

John Adam, President of the M.C.A., was voicing his presence at the game with a large Klaxon horn and was leading a large cheering section that he had brought with him by special bus.

It was also reported to us by a reliable source, that Dr. Webb, who is serving his first year as Sports Publicist, was in the press box at Hershey Stadium and was going slightly wild at the way the game was progressing. Take

Coach Fellows Announces I-M Football Plans

As football rises to prominence in the sports world, more men desire to participate in this sport. Because all men cannot qualify for the varsity team, Muhlenberg operates the intramural football program.

Berg's intramural football competition will begin, according to Coach Ernie Fellows, on Monday, October 4. He has also stated that the deadline for entry into the football league is Friday, October 1. Entry includes a complete roster of the team, team name, and team manager. No entry is complete without these details. Because a team must have seven men on the field at all times, Coach Fellows advises a roster to have at least nine or ten men.

All games will be played on the field behind Memorial Hall, either in the afternoon or evening as scheduled. The schedule and standings of the league will be posted inside the back door of Memorial Hall.

The following are the official rules for intramural football as released by Coach Fellows:

- POINTS SCORING:
- 1) Ten points for winning a contest.
 - 2) Five points for losing a contest.
 - 3) Seven and a half points for tying a contest.
 - 4) Minus fifteen points for forfeiting a contest.
 - 5) Ten points for winning a contest by forfeit.

Mules Ready To Crunch Pretzels And Albrightians

by Bob Olesky

This Saturday night Tom Triplett's football aggregation will venture down to Reading to take part in the fourth annual Pretzel Bowl benefit game against Albright. All proceeds will be turned over to the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children.

Both Albright and Muhlenberg will be seeking its first win of the 1954 season. The Lions lost last week to a strong Lafayette squad, 26-0. Coach Eddie Gulian, now in his sixth season at Albright, has a veteran forward wall which he expects to use against the Mules.

Experienced Backfield

Three lettermen and two returnees with varsity experience head the backfield group. Calling the plays will be Roy Dragon of Roselle Park, N. J., backed up by Tom Pollack of Bowington and Bob Smith of Pleasantville, N. J., at the halfback slots. Chris Wenger of Adamstown will be at fullback.

Gulian's crew of linemen is comprised of wingman Bob Krize, Reading, and Ed McNeill, Atlantic City, N. J. Tackles are Jim Gross, a 6-foot 1-inch, 228-pound lad from Reading, and Fred Hess of Lemoyne. In the center slot is Jack Huntzinger of Shillington, flanked by guards Bob Sulyma of Minersville and Fred Ardito of Jersey City, N. J.

Lions 1-2 in Pretzel Bowl

The Pretzel Bowl game originated in 1951, when West Chester State Teachers College defeated the Lions, 32-9 at Municipal Stadium, Reading. Since then Albright has defeated PMC, 20-0, and lost to Lebanon Valley College, 13-0.

Albright will be seeking its fifth consecutive win over Berg and its second win in the Pretzel Bowl. The Mules hope to avenge the Lions especially for their last two victories, both of which were won by a single touchdown.

Don't Fence Me In

Jack McDonald is unable to find a "hole" through Bucknell's wall, as three Bison linemen converge on him. Mac reached the goal line only once as Berg dropped the Chocolate classic, 33-13.

Mule Opponents Win Openers Lafayette Tough On Albright

by Dave Arnold

Opening day of the 1954 grid season saw two Mule opponents begin the year on the right foot. Lafayette and Delaware won their season openers, as did Bucknell. The Lafayette Leopards opened their 1954 season by drubbing far as the 25-yard line.

At Newark, Delaware, the lightning-fast Blue Hens avenged their only 1953 defeat by trampling a strong West Chester State Teachers' College team. Delaware scored once in the initial period, added two more in the second, and completed the rout by scoring three more times in the second half. The Hens have now won 11 of their last 12 starts.

New Combination - Key Lockers Used

Coach Ernie Fellows has established a new combination key lock system in Memorial Hall, enabling physical education students to store their gym equipment safely in the small lockers when away, while making use during gym periods of the large lockers for their street clothes. There will be a $2.00 deposit for the use of the lock which will be refunded at the end of the term. Coach Fellows will keep the master key, using it for inspection or other reasons of his own.

Virginia Nips Lehigh

The Lehigh Engineers journeyed below the Mason-Dixon line, where they dropped a 27-21 decision to the Virginia Cavaliers. Lehigh, starting an inexperienced, sophomore-studded team, matched Virginia score for score until the fourth quarter, when Bill Clarke threw a pass for the winning touchdown.

Gettysburg, Lebanon Valley, and Franklin and Marshall were idle. The Gettysburg Bullets open next Saturday against Bucknell. Also Lebanon Valley meets Wilkes, and the Diplomats face Johns Hopkins at Lancaster.

Little Brown Jug Goes To G-burg Fray Victor

Howard Frank, Dick Miller, and Herm Zieger, Sports Editor, Editor-in-Chief, and Managing Editor of the WEEKLY, will travel to Gettysburg Saturday to meet Ted Webster and Bill Martin, Sports Editor and Chief Editor of the GETTYSBURGIAN. These men will draw up rules and regulations for the "Little Brown Jug" series to begin at Gettysburg on Saturday, October 23, between the Mules and the Bullets.

The trophy will be sponsored by the two college undergraduate newspapers in an effort to stimulate rivalry. A large trophy will be purchased and rules will be established governing the ownership of the trophy.

In The Spotlight . . . Big Lineman--Hustling Back

Stan Vnuk

"Actions speak louder than words" is the way to describe Stan Vnuk, Berg's 5'11" 189-pound sophomore guard from Plymouth, Pa.

Stan, a varsity letter winner last year, has gained the respect of his teammates through his rock-like resistance in preventing the opposition from opening holes in Berg's line.

Known better as the "Quiet Man", he played varsity football and baseball both at Plymouth High School and later at Wyoming Seminary.

Stan is majoring in chemistry, and plans to continue in that field upon graduation from Berg in 1957.

Tony Frey

Tony Frey, 5'11", 185 junior from Allentown, has earned a berth in the Mule backfield, playing his first year at Berg. Coach Tom Triplett has selected Tony for the fullback slot, although he prefers the halfback position.

Frey played two years of varsity halfback for Penn State before transferring here. He lost his football scholarship when he played basketball for an outside team.

Tony was very popular at Allentown High School as his record shows. He was elected vice-president of his class in his senior year, and held down the presidency of the "A" club also. He was named to both the All-State and All-America high school squads.

Tony's only comment about this year's squad is that it lacks spirit. That punch needed to win the big ones is missing and will hurt the team in the long run as badly as its lack of depth.

Sport In Short . . .

by John Keyser

Albright concentrating on offense for Shriners' classic against Mules . . . both squads took a heavy beating . . . pre-game pageantry at Pretzel Bowl will include colorful Shriners' parade, beginning at 6:30 . . . Lions elected wingmen Krize and McNiell co-captains . . . Albright gunning for fifth in a row over Berg . . . last two of these won by a single TD (13-7, 6-0).

Despite Bucknell's five touchdowns, credit is due to alert defensive play by Mule backfield . . . Frank Lerro's tackle on the far side of the stadium raised many eyebrows. Lerro had no less than three blockers to cope with . . . McDonald, Keeny, Werkheiser, and Naratil also played sharp defensive ball.

"Stubborn as a Mule"

A recent Bucknell release tabbed Berg, "Stubborn as a mule," based on the Mules' 18-13 victory last year . . . Next Cardinal and Grey release describing Bucknell should read, "Heavy and powerful as a buffalo." . . . Bisons now 2-0 in Hershey Stadium. Their stinging 41-7 victory over Gettysburg in 1951 sparked them to an undefeated season . . . This year, however, Bucknell would rather not face the Bullets, since they must tangle with Frank Gagliardi, one of the smartest quarterbacks in the business . . . 1953 Bucknell record (1-8) matches Gettysburg's (8-1), except that it's reversed.

Bucknell's 80-piece band made an impressive showing at Chocolate Bowl . . . full week of practice in the Poconos makes the difference.

Saddler Converted

Tony Saddler's extra point after Berg's second touchdown wasn't his only conversion of the night . . . Versatile "King" was converted into a backfield man in the fourth quarter, much to the amazement of the press box announcer. Sad gained a few yards on the play to help set up the second touchdown, scored by Mac . . . King's other big moment of game was in the first half, when he thwarted the advance of one of the Bisons by bullying him to a stop with his head and shoulders.

This Saturday Delaware and Lehigh clash in highly important Mythical Six loop contest . . . Blue Hens won last year's fray, 26-13 . . . Delaware should do as well this year, if last week's 40-6 drubbing of West Chester is any indication of their potential in power.

Lafayette Faces New Opponents

Lafayette will meet Carnegie Tech this year, one of three opponents on the Maroon schedule which last year's team did not oppose . . . The other two are Buffalo U. and Gettysburg.

Lebanon Valley and F. and M. wound up with identical 5-2 records last year . . . However, Flying Dutchmen are going to miss an all-around athlete named Lou Sorrentino.

Giants Win Opener 5-2 Of Richest Series In History

Yesterday the Giants and the Indians met for the opening of the traditional World Series classic. As usual, it promises to be well attended, and perhaps one of the richest gate contests because of the 80,000 plus seating capacity of Municipal Stadium, Cleveland. The Polo Grounds can squeeze 50- to 60,000 people through the gates also.

This year's gamblers will be betting the strength of Cleveland's veteran pitching staff against the Giants' hitting edge. During the season the New Yorkers racked up 115 more total bases than the Indians against decidedly better opposition. In fact only two clubs gave the Indians a rough time—the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees—as they won a total of 111 games of 154 to set a new major league record for most games won in a single year.

The Giants aren't finding it easy against that low fast stuff of Lemon, Garcia, and Wynn. Homers are strictly at a premium. Bob Feller, no longer the wild flame thrower, still has a desire to gain a World Series victory.

Without mention of Mays, neither the Giants nor the reader would be happy. The Alabama slugger won the National League Batting crown with a nifty .345 average, including 87 extra base hits, 41 of them homers.

Nor are the Giants without pitching. Sal Maglie (14-6) beat the Indians yesterday and should face them again in the fifth game of the Series, should it last that long. Johnny Antonelli, Ruben Gomez, and Don Liddle are backed up by such relief chucks as Marv Grissom and Hoyt Wilhelm. Bobby Avila was the junior loop's top slugger at .345, four points less than Willy Mays.

Far more controversial in the Series are the big bosses. Leo is there because he knew how to pick pinch hitters. Ten of his choices hit the long one, and nine counted game winners. The Senior Lopez made the grade because he knew how to handle reserve talent in the face of frequent injuries.

Assembly Plans

Three Assembly programs will be offered to Muhlenberg students during the first semester according to plans outlined this week by Lawrence Paul, student councilman in charge of campus assemblies. The first program will be given by a hypnotist, the second is not yet decided and the final one will be of a musical nature.

On October 7 Howard Klein, one of America's foremost hypnotists will entertain Muhlenberg students. Another program is being planned for December 9, and the final assembly is slated for January 13, just prior to final exams. Entitled "Heart of the Show," this latter one will feature six entertainers who will present abbreviated versions of Broadway hits such as Oklahoma, Kiss Me Kate, and Carousel.

Mr. Lawson, director of Athletic Activities has announced that tickets are on sale at Memorial Hall for this Saturday's game. Student price is $1.00. These tickets will not be sold at Reading. Tickets must be purchased no later than Friday 4 p.m.

ette, the following joint resolution will be renewed:

"The respective Student Governments agree to accept the responsibility for a positive program on their campuses to prevent rowdiness and vandalism on the respective campuses.

"Each school newspaper will feature articles emphasizing the nature of this agreement. There will be an exchange of newspapers between the two schools, each supplying sufficient copies to reach the main centers of student housing, in this case 200 copies.

"Responsibility for maintaining law and order, for disciplining refractory students and for financial reparations rests squarely upon the Student Governments of the two institutions. It has been further agreed that the minimum penalty for any persons apprehended in the act of creating violent or felonious damage to either campus will be payment of damage and, in the instance of excess vandalism or crime, recommendation by the respective student governments for severe disciplinary action."

Want to pick up $25? Make up a Lucky Droodle and send it in. It's easy.

If you want to find out just how easy it is, ask Roger Price, creator of Droodles. "Very!" Price says. Better yet, do a Droodle yourself, like the ones shown here.

Droodle anything you like. And send in as many as you want. If we select yours, we'll pay $25 for the right to use it, together with your name, in our advertising. We're going to print plenty—and lots that we don't print will earn $25 awards.

Draw your Droodles any size, on any piece of paper, and send them with your descriptive titles to Lucky Droodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y. Be sure your name, address, college and class are included.

While you're droodling, light up a Lucky—the cigarette that tastes better because it's made of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted" to taste better.

Christian Association Plans Many Activities For This Term

This week the Muhlenberg Christian Association announced plans for a program of wide interest designed to appeal to varied taste among the Muhlenberg Student Body.

The first program which is being sponsored for the students is the inauguration of organ recitals by students of the Muhlenberg student body in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel. Richard Miller '56 will give the first recital on Thursday, October 7, beginning at 7 p.m. The recital will last a half-hour and will be designed to help a student meditate.

Another program scheduled by the M.C.A. will be the first in its annual series of lectures on topics of varied interest. On Thursday, October 28, a panel of interested students will discuss "An Honor System at Muhlenberg." Jim Corgie, Chairman of the Personal and Campus Affairs Commission of M.C.A. and a member of the committee which investigated this topic last semester will moderate the panel.

The Student Volunteer Movement Committee of M.C.A., headed by Edward Smith and Carl Schmoeyer, is leading a pilot project for the Student Christian Movement entitled "Churchmanship." On Wednesday, October 27, at 7 p.m. in the Student Lounge, the first in a series of lectures will be given by various religious leaders who will present their church's doctrinal position. The first speaker selected by the committee will be the Rev. Father Arthur Sherman, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Mediator.

The Muhlenberg Christian Association was picked to lead this study in the ecumenical movement designed to bring students to a better understanding of the different religious denominations around them. The Muhlenberg Student Body is being asked to take advantage of the various events planned for them by the M.C.A.

The most recent project of M.C.A. was the successful sponsorship of Freshmen Week held the week preceding the opening of school, September 12-15. This project is designed to help Freshmen become acclimated to the college community.

Rev. Hartzell Addresses LSA

The first meeting of the Lutheran Student Association was held last Sunday in the Student Center. Wally Reimet, president, welcomed a group of nearly fifty students from Muhlenberg and Cedar Crest Colleges. The Rev. Ralph A. Hartzell, pastor of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, was the speaker.

In his talk entitled, "I'll Tell You What I Believe," Pastor Hartzell emphasized the need for positive beliefs. He noted that a child is able to criticize and tear apart, but that we, as maturing men and women, should offer positive ideas in place of mere criticism.

Following the talk, the group held a business meeting at which plans for the future were outlined by President Reimet. It was decided that the expenses of the organization would be met by receiving a free will offering at each meeting.

Plans for a social in October were discussed. After introducing the officers of the organization, Reimet introduced Dean Richards and Chaplain Bremer. Dr. Bremer explained to the group the wider scope of L.S.A. in the area, region, and nation.

After the meeting refreshments were served. The next meeting will be on October 10 when Chaplain Bremer is scheduled to speak.

Other officers of the organization are Dave Godshall, vice-president, of Muhlenberg College; Ginny Hines, secretary and Kay Williams, treasurer, both from Cedar Crest College.

Templeton Plays

Canada, the Hawaiian Islands, Australia, and New Zealand.

As a composer, Mr. Templeton has published two string quartets, a song cycle, and numerous compositions for piano and other instruments. On the lighter side, he has begun a series modernizing the masters, the first of which is "Mr. Bach Goes to Town."

The Chowline

What a gang was there. Yep, you missed it. Seems this group got together last Sunday night and drew such a big crowd that the Dean and Chaplain had to sit on tables. Rev. Hartzell did the speaking on "I'll tell you what I believe," while some 50 Berg and Crest students listened intently.

Prexy Walt Reimet conducted a short business meeting introducing some new ideas—an LSA monthly newspaper and meetings every other week.

The big men on campus journeyed over to Lafayette this week just to keep an old farce going, but I suppose that if they got the same kind of hospitality over there that their men got at the commons here last year, then it was worth the waste of their very valuable time.

Then there's always the band under the handsome one and only boy physics major, Fred Grosse. This hard working (twelve hours) senior and his crew deserve a lot of credit for cheering as well as playing at the Bucknell game. They're scheduled for the Albright game too, gang, and maybe some student cooperation with their playing would sound great to opposition ears.

Don't forget the pep rally you upperclassmen. The freshmen can make more noise a mile away from the judges than the handful of you could if the loudest man was to win the queen of a beauty contest for a date.

... Student Council Report ...

Student Council submits the following report of its regular meeting of September 23, 1954, and for its activities for the preceding week.

Present were Messrs. Neville, Loy, Lauer, Paul, Rosenberger, Adam, Spohn, Quay, Weidknecht, Ascione, Schlittler, and Wanczyk. Dr. Dierolf was also present as an invited guest.

Correspondence was received from Dean Richards and Mr. McCaully.

In the Commons, meals will be served cafeteria style for the entire semester and a kitchen committee will relay suggestions to Mr. Holmes. Mr. Wanczyk will head this committee.

Mr. Rosenberger is surveying the possibility of future social affairs with Cedar Crest and would appreciate all forms of comment before a committee is appointed. Record dances will probably be held after athletic contests in the Student Center.

Mr. Lauer reported that the plans for the pep rally at General Peter Muhlenberg's statue on October 1 are completed and that upperclassmen are urged to attend and compete with the Freshmen.

Mr. Paul has scheduled the first assembly program of the semester for next Thursday at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium. Mr. Howard Kline, a hypnotist, will perform.

Dormitory students are reminded that the wiring on electric lamps, etc. should be in perfect condition. Bad wires will be clipped in the near future when inspection takes place.

The feasibility of revising dormitory and general campus regulations is being discussed and if such measures are taken the college, council, and other collections of regulations will be codified for all publications.

Head judge for the Soph-Frosh Tug-of-War will be Mr. Schlittler, assisted by Mr. Donald deQuevedo and a faculty member. Assisting them will be councilmen Neville, Quay, Rosenberger, Adam, Spohn, and Lauer.

Bus tickets for the Albright game are available by contacting the president of Student Council.

Reorganization of most extra-curricular activities is presently occurring and plans for most of these organizations are proceeding nicely.

The student members of the committee set up to serve the Student-Faculty committee on academic regulations (Honor System) will be named tonight.

The Lafayette-Muhlenberg Peace Pact was signed Monday at Lafayette by Messrs. Schlittler, Weidknecht, and Richard Miller, Editor-in-Chief, Muhlenberg WEEKLY. Any violation on either campus is reason for disciplinary action.

Members of the Student Body are always welcome to attend the regular meetings held on Thursday evening.

Respectfully submitted,

CASIMIR J. WANCZYK,

Recording Secretary

RONALD W. SCHLITTLER,

President

for Student Council, we have looked into the "suitcase college" problem, which is increasingly becoming more serious, and have set up a Friday night committee which has prepared programs of diversified interest for most Friday nights during the school year. In cooperation with the Christian Association, we have set up the mechanics whereby the facilities of the Student Union will be enlarged, perhaps, and certainly utilized to a greater extent."

Walt Haslam, '55: "Compulsory paying for week-end meals for all resident students, known to work successfully in many other colleges, would keep many students on campus. In addition, a date bureau would help Berg men to find companionship over the week-ends. The college could help by selecting students from further distances so that they would be influenced to stay here."

The Institute of Christian Living committee will meet tomorrow, October 1, in the MCA room at 3:30 p.m. The meeting is open to all interested students, freshmen and upperclassmen.

ICL Committee Organizes Under Messrs. Reed, Bremer, Wilbur

by Harold Leam

The 1954-55 program of the Institute of Christian Living, the organization which each year brings to the campus interesting personalities from varied fields of endeavor, will get underway November 1.

The new ICL Committee for the current academic year is composed of the following:

Dr. John J. Reed, Dr. David H. Bremer, Advisers; Dr. William C. Wilbur, Faculty Chairman; Byard J. Ebling, '55, Student Chairman; Joseph Donchez, '56, Secretary; Robert Keys, '56, Treasurer; Harold Leam, '56, Publicity; Paul Weidknecht, '57, Hospitality; Wilson R. Hoyer, '55, Worship; Lee Angstadt, '55, Campus Promotion; Lawrence A. Cescon, '56, Campus Promotion; and Victor Kotun, '56, Discussion Groups.

New Program Formula

Unlike the programs of previous years, whereby a series of speakers visited the campus for a week-long program, the ICL Committee has devised a plan under which the new program will be divided into three periods: November 1-3, February 14-17, and April 18-20. Each three-day period will feature one prominent guest speaker, who will base his lectures on a specific theme chosen for its importance, interest, and timeliness.

Each morning during his visit the guest speaker will deliver a short address during the regular twenty-minute chapel service. Each evening he will lecture in the Student Union Building. Tentative plans also call for visits to the Commons and to the fraternities. Informal afternoon discussion periods will be held in the Student Union Building. The Committee hopes also to arrange for panel discussions with members of the faculty participating.

Bremer Comments

The new ICL program is an attempt to provide additional cultural enrichment.

MCA Plans Weekly Meditative Organ Recitals For Students

Tonight at 7 o'clock in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel the Muhlenberg Christian Association will present the first in a weekly series of organ recitals. Richard Miller '56 will be the first to perform at the console. The music will be designed to help students meditate.

Dr. S. Herman Speaks In Chapel Tomorrow

Dr. Stewart W. Herman will be the guest speaker tomorrow morning in chapel. In his address, Dr. Herman will express his views on "The Despair and Hope of the World of Nations." Following chapel, he will hold an open discussion in the Chapel Lounge for all who wish to attend.

Dr. Herman was the pastor of the Interdenominational Church in Berlin, a post he held during the first two war years. He also helped to initiate the program of Christian relief and reconstruction sponsored by the World Council of Churches. In 1948 he became director of the Lutheran World Federation Service to refugees.

Having lived in France, Germany, England and Switzerland, he has also traveled around most of the other countries of Europe and the Middle East. He was a participant at the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches in Evanston, Ill., last August and was a platform speaker at the Lutheran Student Assembly in Interlocken, Michigan. Recently, Dr. Herman was appointed executive secretary of the committee on Latin America of the Lutheran World Federation.

After receiving his B.D. degree from Gettysburg Seminary, he studied at the Universities of Strasbourg, Göttingen, and Berlin.

Drink Problem Discussed By Student Body

Ronald Schlittler, President of the Student Council, presided at the first regular meeting of the student body on Thursday, September 30. Cas Wanczyk read the minutes of the last meeting, at which time there had been some 300 men present to hear a report by Mr. Witherspoon of Haverford College on the workings of the Honor System.

President Schlittler then went into new business and began by reminding the students that the Student Council is the sole representative of the student body to the administration, and that any reaction to the policies of the college should be channeled through the council.

He also stated that in every legal way possible he will represent the student body to the administration. It was mentioned that from 1913 to 1939 no effective student body representative existed on the campus and that it was not until 1939 that the student was recognized as an integral part of campus life.

The problem of drinking was then discussed and Schlittler stated that it is the college's policy that there shall be no drinking on campus or in the social fraternities. However, he reminded the students that one "cannot legislate morality—every member of the student body, using his own discretion, must see to it that he does not carry himself beyond that point of no return."

A question period followed these remarks and in answer to a question of drinking in social fraternities, the student council president replied that the college is legally investigating the fraternities' status and that a chaplain committee is being set up to see to it that decorum is also followed in this matter.

Irv Thomas, '56, then asked if it was possible in the future to have a "moist" East Hall, to which Schlittler replied affirmatively. He noted, however, that due to pressure from the alumni, businessmen, trustees, and parents, the present rules had to be invoked.

The meeting was closed with a reminder to the students that cooperation is needed between them and their elected representatives. President Schlittler stated that in case of an offense to the present rules of drinking, he will "back any offender to the hilt" in that

For the first time in four years, the sophomore class was victorious in the annual Tug-of-War against the freshman. The event was held last Monday afternoon in Cedar Park. In two straight pulls, the one hundred and twenty Sophs dragged approximately two hundred frosh across the creek. Various "encounters" featured the interim before and after the event.

The freshman will have a chance to redeem themselves next Monday afternoon in the second test of the series, the push ball game.

As in the past, the sophomores were allowed to pick the location and have possession of the rope for one half hour before the event.

Judges for the contest were Ron Schlittler, Student Council President; Don de Quevedo, President of the Freshman Tribunal; and Mr. Minotte Chatfield, representing the faculty as third judge.

Must Win Two

The freshman now must win the two remaining events—the pushball and football games—in order to rid themselves of regs by Halloween. The pushball game will be held on the touch football field behind East Hall at 4:30 p.m.

If a football game is necessary, the date and location for it will be announced at a later date. Further rules governing the rules for both the push ball and the football games, may be found in the latest edition of the M-Book.

Ten Professors Return ODK Reports Of Faculty Evaluation

Ten professors have returned the completed forms given them during the ODK faculty evaluation last semester to enable them to give their opinion of the value of the poll.

In answer to the question "Do you feel that the Evaluation

Well-Known Surgeon Addresses Pre-Meds

Dr. Brook Roberts, eminent surgeon and member of the Admissions Committee of the University of Pennsylvania, will address the Pre-Med Club at their first meeting next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Science Building.

All Pre-Med, Pre-Dent and Pre-Vet students, including freshmen, should attend. However, only upperclassmen may join the organization because a requirement for membership is a C average or above in freshman chemistry.

Anyone interested should contact Miss Anne Kutz in the Biology office before October 8. Membership fee is $5.00 and the dues are $1.00 per semester.

Officers of the Pre-Medical Society are as follows: Don de Quevedo, president; Jack Gassinger, vice president; Larry Paul, secretary; and Dick Gross, treasurer.

Poll should be given in class or out of class?" seven favored administration of the poll in class. Reasons given for this were that the replies would be more independent and individual because students have no opportunity to get together and compare opinions and also more thought is put into answers to the questions. Those opposing the in-class method of administration stated that they felt a student is paying for his instruction time and should be given full advantage of it. They do not wish to devote a full period to the poll.

Plan Favored

Seven professors favored the present plan of allowing all four classes to participate while the other three thought that only the upperclassmen should be allowed to take the poll because they have had more experience with classes and professors than the members of the freshman class.

The majority of the faculty, basing their opinions on answers given to questions in Part III of the Poll form, did not feel that the greater part of the student body was ready for the honor system except perhaps in advanced courses.

All members of the faculty who have returned their forms felt that the Poll has enough merit to be readministered. However, three thought that every two years was frequent enough while the remainder favored readministration of the poll once a year.

Faculty Benefit

Only a very few of the faculty did not seem to benefit from the evaluation. The rest thought it was a great help and that the results were for the most part, constructive. However, several thought that some questions listed in the course appraisal section lead to unfairness toward the instructor by students who think they are being cheated. Some questions in the course appraisal section were designated as being misleading and some were not applicable to certain courses.

Generally, the faculty members are well pleased with the results and are of the opinion that the Poll should be given at least once a year with a few changes here and there for future polls.

The evaluation was sponsored and carried out by Omicron Delta Kappa, the national leadership fraternity.

Historians Formulate Fraternity Programs

Phi Alpha Theta, Muhlenberg's honorary history fraternity, held its first meeting of the year on Wednesday, October 6, in the Seminar Room of the Administration Building.

President Wilson Hoyer has announced that there will be many activities this fall, including a joint meeting with Cedar Crest where Karl Peckman will show slides that he photographed while in Europe this summer and will lecture on the conditions there. Speakers from the faculty and the Allentown area will give talks at the other meetings.

Hoyer informed the members that initiation of Juniors and Seniors will be held in the latter part of October. The organization consists of men who have completed at least twelve hours in subjects of History and Political Science with a B or better average, while maintaining a B average in their other subjects. The candidate must also be interested in history.

Phi Alpha Theta meets two times a semester. Dr. John Reed is the adviser to the organization.

Audubon Society To Present Films

An Audubon screen tour entitled, "Wing Havens," will be presented by the Lehigh Valley Bird Club and the National Audubon Society on Friday, October 8, at 8:15 p.m. in the Science Building. All members of these respective societies are invited to attend.

"Wing Havens," a colorful film revealing the living results of wildlife protection, will be presented by Alexander Sprunt, Jr., a natural history lecturer from Charleston, South Carolina.

This color motion picture depicts rich reservoirs of bird, plant and mammal life, in sanctuary areas.

This presentation will mark the beginning of the ninth annual series of Audubon Screen tours. Future presentations will include "Great Smokey Skyland," "Into the North Woods," "Once Upon an Island," and "Wings and Talons."

These programs are offered in the interest of wildlife protection, wide use of natural resources and conservation education.

Fall Motif Carried To Americus Hotel For '54 Soph-Frosh Hop 'Autumn Capers'

The "Autumn Capers", is the theme for this year's Soph-Frosh Hop which will be held, as last year, in the Americus Hotel ballroom, on Friday night, November 5th, from 8:30 until midnight. The traditional Lehigh football game is set for the following afternoon in Bethlehem.

Co-chairmen for the Hop are Lew Schwartz and Dave Miller. The committee chairmen consist of Martin Schwartz, publicity; Dick Grimm, printing; Dick Shurilla and Lew Schwartz, location and dance orchestra; Morris Van Natta, clean-up; and Dave Miller, decorations and theme. Lew, as treasurer of the Class of '57, will handle the finances. The co-chairmen will also secure chaperones.

This first dance of the year will be semi-formal, with the request that a dark blue or charcoal suit be worn.

The motif will be a Fall theme, but details on that and the dance band are being withheld. Information will follow in later issues of the WEEKLY.

Junior Aides Sponsor Fred Waring Concert

The Junior Aides of the Allentown Hospital will sponsor a concert by Fred Waring and The Pennsylvanians next Tuesday, October 12, in Memorial Hall. Tickets, which are on sale for $1, $2 and $3, are available at the Athletic Office.

Proceeds will be used for work in the pediatric ward at the Allentown Hospital. The Cardinal Key Society will usher for the concert.

Waring and his organization have a world wide reputation for their musical presentations. He is also well known for his arrangements.

Editorial Views . . .

Policy Making . . .

"A vehicle for student opinion"—this phrase was used this year by the editors of the M-Book to describe the Muhlenberg Weekly. We want these words to be a true appraisal of our—of your—newspaper.

The opinions which we offer are usually the result of personal observation as well as discussions with persons involved, student or administrative. If our views reflect those of a particular group, minority or majority, it is because we feel they are closest to the truth.

It is rare, however, that an editorial reflects the thought of every student on this campus, although our entire editorial board may be in complete accordance. To reflect the ideas of every person through our editorial columns would not only make us liars in regard to what we actually think, it would also cause complete contradictions to appear.

In order to serve as a "vehicle for student opinion" in truth, it has long been this paper's policy to provide two columns for student thought. "Letters to the Editor" and "Mule Kicks" are always awaited eagerly by this staff not only because they give each student a chance to let off steam but because they also can be extremely instrumental in clarifying the details of a particular issue.

In order to set our readers straight, we would like to explain the method used to distinguish between "kicks" and "letters". Student correspondence with a particular gripe and a feasible solution merits, we believe, the heading of a letter to the editor. At times, however, the writer knows of no solution to a legitimate problem. By printing such a letter as a Mule Kick, we hope an answer will be forthcoming. This policy is subject to modification as the situation merits it.

There is, finally, one matter on which we cannot compromise. All correspondence must be signed with the writer's name. A nom de plume will be printed if requested. We can reprint nothing without a knowledge of the writer's identity.

A Necessity ???

Last week Director of Student Activities, Dr. John J. Reed, handed the IFC a two-page list of suggested amendments to the by-laws of the fraternity-coordinating board. In essence these rules mean new regulation for fraternity houses.

Admittedly there will be a necessity for rule changes within many campus organizations in the coming years as the college gears itself more and more for coeducation. But there is no need for the administration to make unreasonable demands—particularly on the fraternities which are the core of much student life and activity.

One of the rules submitted to the IFC read, "No women shall be permitted in any fraternity house after 7 p.m. . . . except on Friday nights when five couples may compose a social dancing party."

We would submit—and we choose only one of the more useless rules as an example—that such rules would operate to the detriment of fraternity men who would want to take their Wednesday evening basketball game dates down to the house for a little relaxation (plus coffee perhaps) before the young lady's curfew rolls around.

When checking this single rule against the Gettysburg IFC regulations, we found that girls were not permitted in fraternity houses beyond the closing deadline of the women's dorm.

Undoubtedly the IFC committee will ask for some compromises in the proposed amendments. We feel reasonably certain that both the administration and IFC will be fair in their requests so that every fraternity man can profit from the benefits of intelligent action.

Prevent Vandalism . . .

Last week several representatives of the Muhlenberg student body traveled over to our neighboring college, Lafayette, to affix their names to the annual peace pact. The usual cordialities were exchanged and both groups parted with no particular feeling of extreme achievement.

Some students, forgetting the Lafayette painting spree of several years ago, snicker at this annual ceremony. There is, however, a definite reason behind this yearly 18-mile ride.

We want and anticipate no repeat performances of this vandalism. This is the best way of showing over-zealous students from both colleges that the respective student governments will condone only conduct befitting college men.

R.G.M.

Freshman Progress . . .

For decades the freshmen of Muhlenberg College have been placed under certain regulations for the first few months of their college careers. Interrupted by the war years, this tradition has finally reached a point where mature men can look at these regulations as serving a constructive purpose—showing the frosh that he is not God's gift to campus life.

Apparently, however, some freshmen have assumed such a distorted idea of freshmen regs that they believe its only purpose is to please the sadistic nature of some sophomore. Every year, there is some unnecessary hazing but the overall picture presents a fulfilled purpose.

By November, frosh should have realized that they are but a part of a greater organization—the Muhlenberg family. We also hope that they will have learned to work together so that they will be a united force in Muhlenberg's future growth.

Returnee Kinter's Education, Courses Prove Interesting

Mr. William Kinter, expatriate English instructor, passing through Muhlenberg between trains, accommodates our photog by taking a brief break from the eternal verities. Thus far in his stay at Berg, the amiable pedagogue has amazed, gratified, and completely snowed students in his advanced English courses with his rapid-fire delivery of the wisdom and knowledge of the ages.

by Don Sheasley

A superb classical background and a deep interest in his field marks William L. Kinter as a brilliant addition to the staff of the English Department. Although he served as an instructor at Muhlenberg until 1947, Mr. Kinter is unfamiliar to most students. He received his A.B. from Lafayette College in 1938 and his M.A. from Yale University in 1940. The friendly, unassuming educator has completed his research for a dissertation on Medieval Literature and hopes to receive Ph.D. honors in the near future at Columbia.

In teaching Milton and Chaucer he carries through a basic tenet of allowing "the teacher to disappear from the classroom rather than come between the student and the great works." In guiding the student through those great classics, Kinter also attempts to "convey some sense of his personal emotions" to the pupil.

Mr. Kinter has taken over the advisorship of the MCA and will play an important part during ICL week. He is also extremely interested in philosophy and is a familiar figure at AKA meetings.

Conservation of Natural Resources has been his favorite hobby for many years, and Kinter has expressed a desire to introduce a course along those lines. Another desire, common to many college personnel, is to travel abroad, visiting the Mediterranean Sea area, Sicily in particular.

In discussing the small liberal arts college against the large state-endowed universities, Kinter stated that he likes to be affiliated with Muhlenberg because it is "a denominational college based on the eternal verities." With this type of man in the professor's chair, Muhlenberg can be well satisfied.

by Jim Strine

A social issue that has lain dormant for quite a while has recently come into sharp focus. This issue is that of drinking on the campus and in the fraternity houses. In order to ascertain the students' attitudes toward this problem, a panel of Berg men made the following replies to the question: "What is your opinion of the recent restrictions placed on drinking in the dorms and in the fraternity houses?"

Bob Lee, '57: "I don't think these restrictions are necessary. I believe that there should be stronger disciplinary action against those who abuse this freedom."

Bill Quay, '56: "I thought that the last attempt to legislate morality was the futile efforts of John Calvin. It seems like this grand old Lutheran Institution is trying to follow in her Calvinistic traditions."

Carl Schnee, '57: "I think drinking should be left up to the discretion of the individual with limited faculty supervision when necessary."

Len Vinnick, '56: "It seems to show a lack of faith in the men at Muhlenberg in being able to conduct themselves as gentlemen. I am sure that a strong warning would have been sufficient, rather than the severe restrictions now declared."

Bill Wormley, '57: "I'm glad to see that a definite move has been made to cut down on student indulgence around the campus. However, I do feel that some compromise or alteration should be made with the present curfew in order that those students who enjoy social drinking with their friends in a gentlemanly manner, may do so."

George Smith, '55: "I am in accordance with the college's recent action in restricting drinking in fraternity houses and dorms; however, I think that the rule should exist only as check, to be enforced only if the drinking gets out of hand and a majority of the students want the rule enforced. Moreover, I think that the college should relax all rules concerning drinking on party weekends and special occasions."

Robert Wagner, '56: "Ethically, a church sponsored college should not permit drinking; however, I feel that if a man is of drinking age, he should not be restricted from having a social drink when the occasion arises."

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

That undergraduate goodwill gesture, the Soph-Frosh Tug-of-War, was soggly re-enacted once again on Monday afternoon. This year's production came off with about the usual quota of mud, crankcase drippings, and hollow threats of annihilation.

In accordance with the old traditions of fair play, the sophs accorded their first year friends every courtesy and saw to it that the sloppy proceedings were carried on with decorum and according to the highest tenets of sportsmanship for which Muhlenberg Sophomores have always been respected. For example, they threw only the cleanest mud and used the highest grade oil to bog down the frosh side of the creek. Also as per usual, the sophs saw to it that the Frosh were protected from rope burns by graciously lubricating their half of the rope.

This was certainly praiseworthy conduct, but the ignorant frosh seemed slightly unappreciative of all this kind attention. They kept screaming horrible threats and vile obscenities at their benefactors on the other side. The ungrateful ones seemed to have it in for one soph in particular, named, I am told, BULL SCHWARTZ. They even cooked up a little cheer in his honor. I'd print it, but the government has certain laws against sending this sort of thing through the mails.

Personally, I couldn't understand all the sweat about this fellow BULL. He looked like a pleasant gentle chap who would always take off his shoes before kicking a frosh in the stomach. It turned out that all the dark predictions of what was going to happen to BULL were all a lot of bull, because BULL bulled his way through his attackers like a real bull . . . and that's no bull.

On the frosh side of the river, one fellow stood out as the leader and general all-round organizer. He even had a whistle which he blew rather well. He was a stirring sight, standing ankle deep in the mud, shaking his fist in defiance and giving voice to that immortal battle cry of downtrodden frosh . . . "Yaah! . . . We'll get youse guys!" . . . or words to that effect.

The real hero of the day, however, was neither soph or frosh. It was RON SCHLITTLER. His performance should dispel any doubts about the qualities of leadership necessary for a Student Council president to properly discharge his duties. We can remember former presidents standing in the water doing his best to avoid getting clobbered with a rock while meekly trying to get the affair under way without offending anyone who might be inclined to part his hair with a mudball. Anyone who witnessed Monday's battle will testify that RON was afraid of no man, wet or dry. He stood his ground and assisted over-enthusiastic contestants back into the ranks bodily when necessary.

His stalwart performance reminded me of the '52 Tug in which I was an unwilling sophomore participant. We were holding onto the rope, bracing for the pull, when the frosh charged across. We were temporarily flattened, and I remember glancing up from a prone position to see SCHLITTLER clobbering the hide off some frosh that had made the mistake of jumping him.

An interesting sidelight to Monday's action was a rather puzzling performance turned in by one HERB KASNETZ, who specializes in carryings-on of this sort. Ol' HERB was watching the fray from a vantage point on the soph side, and he kept applauding wildly and screaming, "HA! . . . HERE COMES HAPS! HERE COMES HAPS! HERE COMES HAPS! YAAH!" A sad case, indeed.

Campus Magazine Staff Elects Haines As Editor

The first meeting of what is probably the least known organization on campus took place last Thursday morning. Many Muhlenberg men do not know that the Arcade is a group organized for the purpose of editing and publishing the undergraduate publication devoted to critical analysis and creative writing. Two editions are published each year and contributions are welcomed from budding poets, novelists, and critics.

The primary business accomplished at Thursday's meeting was the establishment of an editorial staff. Sam Haines was elected editor for the coming year. Jack Hopper will assist Sam as associate editor of the magazine.

An art editor is to be elected at a future meeting. These men will form the nucleus of a large contributing staff of students. Dr. Harold Stenger of the English department, is the faculty adviser to the Arcade.

The impression may have been developed in the past few years that the Arcade is open only to a select talented group. This impression is wrong, for the very nature of the organization is such that it is an integral part of the campus extra-curricular facilities. A new policy has been formed in which the faculty is invited and encouraged to contribute material. The editors and staff feel that this will create a new interest in the publication.

Any student interested in the techniques of magazine publishing can find a wealth of experience in copy-reading, layout, type-setting, proof-reading, and printing by serving on the staff of the Arcade. Watch the WEEKLY for announcements about future meetings of the Arcade.

The Greek Way . . .

by Byard Ebling

Scholarship is not always associated with fraternity life. We salute the twenty-two men of the Greek Way who attained the Dean's List. May their honor be sustained by future greek achievement.

Alpha Tau Omega

The very foundation of fraternal secrecy was threatened at the regular meeting last Tuesday. A foreign knock and an unfamiliar cry, "Shoes boys?" created momentary bedlam while the brothers made transactions with the shoemaker. Brothers Anderson, Angstadt, Ebling, Gravatt, and Ohlweiler represented ATO at the organizational meeting of the college Glee Club.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Lambda Chi Alpha's Intra-Mural Championship football team has suffered heavy losses. Athletic Director Jack Russo reveals that a crop of promising sophomores points to a successful season. Several brothers traveled to Philadelphia to see the Mississippi-Villanova football game. Having recuperated from an operation, pledge-brother Willard Kynett returned to college.

Phi Epsilon Pi

Alpha Nu held its first intra-mural practice session on Thursday. Co-captains Bob Fisher and Mark Strausburg were pleased with the fine turnout and believe Phi Ep will have a spirited team. Brothers David Serls and Morty Sanet are planning the chapter's social activity for the Parent's Day weekend.

Phi Kappa Tau

The suggested amendments to the I.F.C. constitution were discussed at the last meeting of the Eta chapter. President Don de-Quevedo was given several modifications by the brotherhood. Coach Ron Wix, pleased with early practices of the chapter's football team, believed the brothers can repeat the performance of the 1952 team this season.

Phi Sigma Kappa

On a recent visit to Upsilon Triton Chapter district adviser Jack Lowe gave the house a set of beautifully monogrammed water glasses. Brothers returned from the Pretzel Bowl with a few souvenirs, courtesy of the Albright frosh. Brother Bob Newer, coach of the chapter's football team, is looking forward to an improved season.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Campus fraternity presidents will hold a special dinner meeting at the Sig Ep House Wednesday, October 6, to discuss the IFC constitution. Dean Henry M. M. Richards and wife were dinner guests of the chapter recently. Intra-Mural football practice has begun under the direction of Mike DelTufo. Many brothers and dates returned to the campus and gathered for an informal party at the house after Saturday's game.

JUNIOR: To sling the bull is to say little in a great many words so as to give the impression that you are familiar with what the test is covering."

SENIOR: "To sling the bull is to say as much as possible in well-chosen words so as to convey the impression that you are familiar with the material under examination in spite of the fact that you have been able to devote insufficient effort to study adequately an unduly difficult assignment."

... Student Council Report ...

Student Council submits the following report of its regular meeting of September 30, 1954, and for its activities of the preceding week.

Present were Messrs. Neville, Loy, Lauer, Paul, Rosenberger, Adam, Spohn, Quay, Weidknecht, Schlittler and Wanczyk.

The Social Committee chairman visited with the Cedar Crest Council President Barbara Ellis and tentatively scheduled a talent show for the week of November 7 to be held in Crest's Alumnae Hall. Dances after two basketball games are being planned as well as a spring variety show.

Chairs have been placed in the center aisles of the chapel to take care of the overflow of students at the 11 a.m. services.

A pep rally in the Science Auditorium is scheduled for Friday night. Competition between the frosh and sophomores in wrestling matches are to be the main attractions.

East Hall residents are reminded that the quadrangle is not to be used as an athletic field.

Discussion on the proposed second floor lounge room in the Student Center was deferred to tonight's meeting at which time Mr. Quay will present figures and specifications to Council.

The franchise for the sale of Muhlenberg jackets has been given to the Junior and Sophomore classes. A committee has been set up to investigate the price of the jacket and to get prices on a light weight spring jacket.

About $25 has been taken from the Student Body fund to pay for the buses to Hershey and Reading. No other buses will be chartered unless they are filled two days prior to the away game. Those interested in securing transportation to the Lebanon Valley Baloney Bowl game please sign up on the list posted on the Student Center bulletin board.

The Soph-Frosh Push Ball game will be held Monday afternoon at 4:30 on the field behind Memorial Hall. Rules in the "M" Book will be followed. The manner in which the "Tug-o-War" was held is a credit to both participating classes.

Parking violations can be appealed to Student Council within one week after receiving them. Offenders will be assessed accordingly if no appeal is received within that time.

Twenty dollars was allocated to the cheerleaders to use as a working budget.

The Council has requested the Dean to name an administration—Student Council committee to discuss the long range plans for settling the drinking problem on campus. Another function of this group would be to convey Student Body opinions to the administration on this issue. Mr. Lawrence Paul was named chairman.

Respectfully submitted,

Mules Entertain Leopards In First Home Game

Frosh Gridmen Lack Depth For Heavy Practice

Muhlenberg's freshman football squad has been practicing for the last two weeks under the direction of Coach Bob Mirth. The team, which is composed of twenty-two men, is in need of more guards and tackles. Due to the shortage of players the team has been unable to scrimmage as often as was expected.

Coach Mirth's job is to prepare the freshmen for head coach Tom Tripplett's varsity squad. Although there are many seasoned high school players on the team, it is too early to pick out the outstanding stars.

As coach Mirth stated, "These boys like to play ball and they all have plenty of pep. Any freshman interested in trying out will be given a fair chance."

Cross Country Coach Job Goes To Parker

Ernie Fellows, who has long served in the dual capacity of assistant football coach and cross country coach at Muhlenberg College, last Thursday released the latter responsibility to a fellow faculty member, Harold Parker.

Parker, an instructor in sociology, is well qualified by past experience to put the Mule harriers through their paces. He ran his first cross country course 16 years ago, in 1938, as a member of a YMCA team. In 1940 he entered Middlebury College in Vermont, where he competed in the up hill and down dale sport for four more years.

He took a notion in the Spring of 1943 to run in the gruelling 26-mile Boston Marathon event, and although his time is not inscribed in the record book, he saw the heels of some very famous runners! Finally, while he was in the service, between 1943 and 1946, he represented Keesler Field in the Southern AAU meet in New Orleans.

So his flying feet have covered a lot of ground, and Fellows feels assured that his 17-man cross country squad is in good hands.

Soccer Team Meets Swarthmore Booters

Muhlenberg's soccer team will kick the lid off its season on Saturday, October 9 at the 26th Street field against a Swarthmore team, which has been a winning aggregation year after year.

Despite the team's lack of depth, Coach "Bud" Nevins is hopeful of improving last year's record of 2-5-1, which in itself was an improvement over the 0-7-2 record of 1952. One of the last defeats of the 1952 season was a 7-0 defeat at Swarthmore. Last year's meeting between the two teams was cancelled because of rain.

The success of the Bergmen will depend heavily upon the experience of such dependables as goalie Marv Cressman, Bert Lum, Hans Peckman, Dave Washabaugh, and Al Zanetti. After three weeks of calisthenics and scrimmages, the Mules will get their test in actual combat.

Lafayette vs. Mules On TV

For the first time in the annals of Lehigh Valley football, the Muhlenberg vs. Lafayette classic on Saturday night will be telecast live and direct from the AHS Stadium by station WLEV-TV, Channel 51. Previously, the games had been filmed and telecast at a later date.

WLEV-TV Sports Director Bill Pfeiffer, who is a Lafayette graduate, will do the play-by-play. WLEV-TV and Pfeiffer did the Muhlenberg basketball games from Memorial Hall last year. The only other Mule grid game to be telecast direct will be the November 13 meeting with Franklin and Marshall.

WMUH will begin regularly scheduled broadcasting tonight at 7 p.m. at 640 kc. Hereafter the station will be on the air Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights from 7 to 11 p.m.

Bergmen Seek First Win Saturday On AHS Field

by Bob Olesky

Muhlenberg's first home game of the 1954 football season will be played Saturday night, October 9, in the Allentown High School Stadium. The Mules will face an all veteran Lafayette team under the lights at 8:00 p.m.

Lafayette beat Albright College, 26-0, in their opening appearance of the season and then lost to a strong Carnegie Tech squad, 23-21, in their last outing. Lafayette boasts of having sixteen returning lettermen, seven of which are on the line, and four in the backfield.

Leading the linemen is captain Russell Hedden, a stocky senior from Trenton, N. J. Other linemen are Jack Elberti, tackle; Dick Flood, guard; Tom Kennedy, guard; Jerry Spacek, end; Bob Fyvie, tackle; and Doug Horst, end.

Five Miscues Give Albright 12-7 Win In Pretzel Bowl

Albright capitalized on two Berg fumbles and three intercepted passes to hand the Mules their second straight defeat of the season before 6000 spectators at the Shriner's Pretzel Bowl game in Reading's Municipal Stadium last Saturday night.

The Bergmen looked sharp at the outset of the game, pushing their way to Albright's 40-yard line, where a fumble ended their forward march.

The Lions bulldozed their way downfield until they were in striking distance of the goal line. Following two unsuccessful plays through center, half back Tom Pollack, who had recovered Berg's second fumble of the evening, skirted left end for Albright's first touchdown.

Keeny's Bullet Pass

In the second quarter Bill Keeny's bullet pass to Dick Werkheiser was pulled down by Tom Pollack, Albright's man of the hour who had set up and scored the first Lion touchdown. Two plays later chunky Willey Smith, wearing a big number "1" on his uniform, rounded right end, and with timely blocking, scored Albright's second tally.

The Mules began to look alive in the third quarter, ploughing into the opponent's line with renewed vigor, as they hammered their way down to the one yard line, where Tony Saddler cracked through for Berg's first and only score of the game.

Fullback Saddler added the extra point to make the score 12-7, cutting the Albright lead in half.

The final period proved fruitless for both squads. The Lions dominated the period, as they were successful in running out the clock. Two pass interceptions spoiled the Mule's chances of scoring, despite a 25 yard run by Jack McDonald.

Pollack, Truran Lead Attacks

Tom Pollack proved to be the fly in the ointment, as he led the Lions both offensively and defensively.

In The Spotlight . . . The Hustling Quarterback

Bill Keeny, Berg's 5'8", 160 pound sophomore quarterback from Pottsville is always hustling on offense and defense. Bill is an adept quarterback and a good ball handler on the gridiron.

Bill played both football and basketball at Pottsville High School. Upon coming up to Muhlenberg he was converted from fullback to quarterback because of his size.

Keeny is a history major and upon graduation in '57 would like to become a coach. He is a member of the M Club.

Bill's comment on this year's team is that it has lack of depth, which could really hurt the team, if someone is injured.

Speaking Frankly . . . Salute To The Little Fellows

by Frank Howard

Let's take "time out with the editors" of SPORTS Magazine to offer a "Salute to the Little Fellows." To the students of Muhlenberg, parts of the article which appeared in the November issue of the information-packed magazine may prove interesting. May we quote:

Wabash . . . And, we might add—Muhlenberg, Gettysburg, Lehigh, Lebanon Valley . . .

"But these small colleges—and there are hundreds of them—provide as many thrills to as many fans as do the relatively few big-time teams that dominate the national scene. And these fellows are just as important to football as the top-ranking conference leaders or the choices for the major bowl games on New Year's day.

"Probably they are more important. And that they are! Because they come a lot closer to reflecting the spirit in which the game was originated in this country. Football was once designed to be played simply for the exercise and fun men got out of it, remember? It seems a lot of people have forgotten!

"As the 1954 football season gets under way, we salute all the small colleges . . . we salute all the little guys . . . that believe playing the game on a modest, amateur scale is much better than not playing the game at all."

The article goes on to tell how many of the small colleges "have given the game back to the students." Meanwhile, other schools, like Georgetown, Santa Clara, the U. of San Francisco and St. Mary's, have dropped intercollegiate football.

What next? The ole (Cardinal and) Gray mule may never be what she usta!

The Muhlenberg DeMolay Club will hold its first meeting of the year on Thursday, October 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the West Hall Reception Room. All DeMolays, including freshman who have not been associated with the club previously, are urged to attend.

Mr. John Bowen, psychology instructor, has announced that the Psychology Club will hold its first meeting of the season in room 209 of the Ad Building, Monday at 7:30 p.m. Psychology and sociology majors, and others interested in joining are urged to attend the meeting.

Fumbles Hurt Mules

Looking over Berg's loss to a poor Albright team, it was just a case of too many fumbles . . . offside penalties cost us some nice yardage on Saturday night . . . Harry Newman played a great game as did his old roomie Paul Truran . . . Bobby Morris shook the injury jinx and played well on defense. Bob was an outstanding back on a pretty good Irvington (N.J.) Experienced Hard-Hitting Tackle

Pete Ascione, hard hitting, hustling tackle for this year's Muhlenberg squad, is a ball player without which the team would be hard pressed. He along with a few others form the nucleus of men who have had much varsity experience in football.

Pete, who has played four years first string at 'Berg, is from Cliffside Park, New Jersey. He played a standout game there and was selected to the Group II All-State team as tackle.

Representative on Student Council is one job proudly held by Pete. He is working for a B.S. degree and is specializing in natural science.

He is looking forward to graduating in June, although he says he will be sorry to leave Muhlenberg.

Cage Practice Will Start In November

In a recent pre-season telephone conversation basketball coach J. Birney Crum revealed that practice will start November 1. Coach Crum also stated that a rebuilding job will be done in order to replace stellar performers Dick Rudolph, "Tank" Cutko and Larry Friedman.

Crum related that he feels, through the cooperation and spirit displayed last year, a maximum of success will be achieved.

Albright Wins

Berg's defense was sparked by linebacker Paul Truran's top notch tackling, especially during the final quarter. Big Al Ferraro and QB Keeny also played well defensively. Truran received an award as the outstanding Muhlenberg player in the game. Pollack received a similar award for Albright.

The Mules' feeble offensive attack was led by speedster Jackie McDonald and reserve backfielder Harry Newman.

Albright's victory was its first of the year, against one loss. The Lions have now won five straight from the Mules, the last three by one touchdown.

Fellows To Offer Varied Gym Education

Because the class of '58 will be the first to use Memorial Hall for four consecutive years, Physical Education Instructor Ernie Fellows has incorporated a new plan of instruction this year.

Fellows will teach the basic fundamentals of such sports as: soccer, volleyball, basketball, wrestling, badminton, tennis, and golf. This instruction will be not only for participation in a particular sport, but also for student appreciation of the sport and the skill involved. Thus he will gain knowledge of sports he may be apt to use in later life.

Fellows also mentioned the possibility of having inter-gym class leagues to help develop competitive spirit in the various athletic activities.

Christian Association Approves Sponsorship Of New Activities

Last Tuesday at its regular weekly meeting the Muhlenberg Christian Association approved the sponsorship of two projects for the benefit of the Muhlenberg Student Body. The first project approved was the inauguration of a series of weekly vesper services to be held in the West Hall Auditorium every Tuesday at 10:30 p.m.

Ronald Schlittler, president of the Muhlenberg Student Council, will deliver the initial talk at the service to be held Tuesday, October 12. Each week a different student will speak on some religious or moral topic. The programs will be designed to last a half-hour.

The second project approved by the MCA was a proposed series of weekly Bible discussions which are scheduled to begin on Wednesday, October 13. Interested students are urged to be present in the Chapel Lounge at 6:30 p.m., when Dr. David Bremer will give an introductory talk concerning the Scripture to be studied. After the talk the men will split into small groups, going to different parts of the campus to study the appointed selection. These discussions will take on the form of bull sessions and are scheduled to end at 7:30.

the Student Council will hear the case and refer it to Dean Richards as is prescribed in the Student Body constitution. This legal defence will be necessary only if a serious infraction of the rules occurs.

"Such a case is at present unforeseen because Muhlenberg men have been responding to the regulation in a mature manner," Schlittler stated.

The next student body meeting will be announced shortly. Further open discussion of drinking is expected at this time.

Seniors Plan December Ball

The Senior Class under the leadership of President Wally Loy held its first meeting September 30, at 11:30 a.m. in the Science Building. Loy welcomed the class back and urged the cooperation of the members in dealing with the complex problems which every senior class faces.

Discussion centered about the tentative plans for the Senior Ball. The date was set for December 10, 1954 and the Americus Hotel as the likely location for the Ball. Richard Beach was appointed Senior Ball chairman and Fred Grosse was selected as chairman of the program. The band committee is headed by Sam Rosenberger with additional members joining him upon selection by the executive board.

President Loy also announced the appointment of ten men to the executive council. They are, George Hein, Fred Geehr, Eric Helsing, Robert Lessel, Robert Moerkirk, Hans Peckman, Irwin Scher, Paul Spohn, Ron Wix, and Donald Tihansky. Loy announced that the Executive committee will meet Wednesday, October 6, to discuss further details of the Senior Ball and make arrangements for the next class meeting.

Sophomores Meet

Following the Student Body meeting at 11 a.m. last Thursday, the Sophomore Class held its first meeting of the school year.

Committee reports were heard on the progress of the Soph-Frosh Hop along with the naming of respective chairmen for this affair which is scheduled for November 5 at the Americus Hotel.

Volunteers were also requested to participate in a Sophomore-Freshman wrestling event which is to take place as part of the Lafayette Pep Rally.

Details and rules governing the tug-of-war were also explained by President Paul Weidknecht. All sophomores were urged to take active part in this event.

The Chowline

Fred Waring and his renowned musicians are scheduled to make an appearance right here in the Memorial Hall next Tuesday night. It's something new on the campi men, and should prove to be a good draw on the Allentonians besides being very good entertainment. The word is that the tickets are practically sold out. If the idea goes over for the present sponsors, then it might not be a bad idea for Muhlenberg planning committees to follow suit.

Some of the students have gotten early cases of sleeping sickness that occur only during lecture hours. Maybe some of the profs could use Andy Erskine's advanced course called Basic Speech.

In order to cut down the long line in the Commons at lunch-time, we plan to open both the east and west doors to accommodate men coming from the East Hall and West Hall regions. This will keep the central doors closed in the cold weather affording protection from the cold blasts of air which have harassed dining students in the past. Regardless of the weather the snackbar is always a very warm and welcome place. That cup of coffee may make you a trifle late but even some of the profs are guilty of between hour gulps. Maybe all concerned will be better men after the refreshment.

Methodist Group Holds First Meeting

The Methodist Student Association will hold its first meeting of the school year on Sunday, October 10, at 4 p.m. at the Asbury Methodist Church, Jefferson and Hamilton Streets. Although the organization was intended primarily for Methodist students, it has been, in the past few years, basically an interdenominational group and students of all denominations have attended.

At the Sunday meeting, The Rev. F. Lewis Walley, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Church, will welcome back the old members and the new-comers who are joining the group. The first meeting will be an informal get-acquainted gathering in which students from Muhlenberg, Cedar Crest, Lehigh and Moravian will participate. A buffet supper will be served later in the afternoon.

Student Guest Tickets for Home Football Games
Each student is permitted to purchase ONE guest ticket upon presentation of his activities card, for his date or wife. This ticket is good in the student section. Tickets may be purchased at the Athletic Office before Friday, 4:30 p.m. for $1.00. Tickets purchased at the Box Office the day of the game are $1.25.

Any students interested in trying out for the fall production of Mask and Dagger—Taming of the Shrew—should present themselves in the Science Auditorium next Monday or Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m.

IFC Revises Rulings; Rushing and Pledging Completed Earlier

At its second meeting of the term last Monday evening, the Interfraternity Council made several revisions in its rushing and pledging rules. The regulations, which had undergone extensive changes only last year, shorten the length of the rushing season as well as moving the date of pledging to the pre-Christmas season.

According to the new schedule, rushing will begin on Monday, November 15, and last until 6 a.m. on Sunday, December 12. Bids will be handed out the following Thursday, December 16.

Also under discussion was the sponsorship of a jazz concert in Memorial Hall. Mr. Max Kaminsky, world-famous artist, has approached the group about a concert of this nature.

During the meeting, the group heard remarks by Dean Richards and Dr. John Reed. Byard Ebling also spoke to the group, asking the full support of the fraternities in the November Institute of Christian Living.

the affair, stated, "From all indications, the extensive work done by the committees will bring good results. Despite the unforeseen snowstorm last year, over 100 couples turned out, and the committee expects that figure to double this year. Any interested men can contact committee heads if they desire to help with preparations for the dance."

College Plays Host To Scouts On Saturday; Tour Included

On Saturday, October 9, Muhlenberg College will play host to approximately 750 Boy Scouts and their leaders at the ninth annual Boy Scout Pilgrimage. This Pilgrimage is under the direction of Mr. J. Walter Koch, '23. Mr. Koch is the Director of Scouting in the Ministerium of Pennsylvania.

Kemmerer Starts Music Instruction

Expansion of Muhlenberg's music department continued this week as Professor Ludwig Lenel announced that Mr. Ralph Kemmerer will serve as piano instructor for the college. Students in all stages of piano study can start weekly lessons immediately with Mr. Kemmerer at a semester cost of $35.

A resident of Allentown, Mr. Kemmerer has studied with outstanding teachers both here and abroad. He has also directed music in several Lutheran churches locally, but for the past eight years has devoted himself exclusively to piano work.

Still studying in New York, Kemmerer has worked with Lazare Levy of the Paris Conservatory, Alexander Kelberine of Philadelphia, and M. Horszowski and Sonia Stockholm of New York City.

Any person or group knowing about the fraternity flags and pennants taken after last Saturday's contest at Albright are asked to return them to members of Student Council. If Muhlenberg students have them it is only proper that they return the property to the rightful owners.

The program will include a guided tour of the campus, a Chapel Service conducted by Dr. David H. Bremer, a pep rally in Memorial Hall, and admission to the Muhlenberg - Lafayette football game, which will be held in the Allentown High Stadium at 8 p.m. The Cardinal Key Society will be in charge of ushering for this event.

tural and educational opportunities for Muhlenberg students, with the emphasis on the strengthening of Christian thinking, attitudes, and endeavor. Dr. Bremer has commented, "The visiting lecturers are authorities in their respective fields and cannot fail to contribute materially to the student's understanding and knowledge of the modern world, and to his realization of the increasing necessity for a thoroughly Christian approach to the solution of world problems."

Additional information about the new ICL program will be disseminated as it becomes available. In the meanwhile, much work remains to be done, and the assistance of student volunteers will be appreciated. Any student who desires to donate his services may do so by contacting any member of the Committee.

Committee Provides Parent's Day Plans

On Saturday, October 30, Parent's Day will be held on the Muhlenberg campus. A committee of seven students and faculty members, have nearly completed plans for the annual event. A campus tour and a meeting with the faculty and advisors will be held during the morning. Parents will be able to meet and mingle with those men responsible for the guidance of their sons during their four years at college.

At 10:30 a.m., an address will be given by Dean Richards at the matriculation service in the Egner Memorial Chapel. All the freshmen will be required to attend this service in order to sign the register along with the thousands of men who have done so before them.

Buffet Luncheon
Following the service there will be a buffet luncheon in the college commons and all parents have been contacted to fill out a form for reservations.

President Appoints Grounds Committee

Announcement has recently been made concerning the appointment of a grounds committee by President J. Conrad Seegers. Designed to reduce the amount of damage which takes place on campus, especially in the dormitories, the committee will inspect all buildings on campus at various intervals in the future.

Dean Henry M. M. Richards has noted that inspection of East and West Halls will take place at any time. However, if students are not in their rooms at the time, the committee will by-pass the room, except for a possible look at general cleanliness.

Members of the committee are Dean Richards, Mr. Harry A. Benfer, Dr. David H. Bremer, Mr. Howard M. MacGregor, Mr. John R. McAuley, and Dr. John J. Reed.

College Chapel Choir Plans Concert Tour

This week Kenneth Trexler, manager of the Muhlenberg Chapel Choir, announced the completion of plans for the fall series of concerts. The first one is scheduled for November 21 in Hamburg, Pennsylvania. The following week the choir will appear at Schuylkill Haven. The concluding concert for 1954 will take place on December 5, in Royersford.

In the preliminary stages are plans which will take the choir to Atlantic City and Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, as well as Willow Grove, Philadelphia, and Laureldale, Pennsylvania. The choir, as in past years, will give the major share of its traveling engagements in Lutheran churches on Sunday evenings. Other concerts will take place during the week as the occasion arises.

This year the choir is made up of 40 voices. Appearing every Wednesday in the Chapel, they usually sing a selected anthem. Mr. Ludwig Lenel, assistant professor of Music, is the director, and Richard Manheim is the choir accompanist, replacing Richard Miller who has relinquished this position because of the press of other campus activities.

WCC Viewpoint Expressed By Guest Orators

Six of the guest chapel speakers scheduled for the remainder of the month of October attended the Evanston Assembly of the World Council of Churches. The theme for the month will be the same as that of the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches—"Christ the Hope of the World."

Three of these are members of the faculty: Dr. William C. Wilbur, Assistant Professor of History; Dr. Ralph C. Wood, Professor of German; and The Rev. Conrad W. Raker, Lecturer in Religion. The other three speakers include The Rev. Gordon H. Sperry of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church, Allentown; The Rev. George F. Harkins, D.D., who is assistant to the president of the United Lutheran Church in America, and Richard Sutcliffe who was formerly Associate Editor of the Lutheran and is now Associate Director of Press, Radio, and Television of the United Lutheran Church of America.

Other speakers for the month will include Dr. Morris Greth, Professor of Sociology; The Rev. William Ward of Rosemont Lutheran Church, Bethlehem, and formerly a member of the Muhlenberg faculty; Dr. Hagen Staack, Professor of Religion; and Dean Henry M. M. Richards.

Bulletin Board To Be Completed This Week

Ronald Schlittler, President of the Muhlenberg Student Council, announced today that the bulletin board project of last year's Student Council is coming to fruition this week when a bulletin board will be erected at the rear of the Administration Building. The need for a centrally located bulletin board has long been the desire of many organizations. This project by Student Council is one of several which are being designed to serve the Muhlenberg community.

Two of the Student Council's committees which are functioning along this line are the Friday Night committee headed by Don Lauer and the Social Committee headed by Sam Rosenberger. The Friday Night Committee together with the cooperation of Cal Colarusso, head cheerleader, has sponsored the pep rallies preceding the football games. The Social Committee is completing tentative plans with a similar group at Cedar Crest College. These plans include a dance in the Muhlenberg Memorial Hall a talent show with students of both schools participating for prizes, and a variety show with both schools participating.

Muhlenberg 'M' Club Sponsors Chest Drive

The Muhlenberg Varsity "M" Club is sponsoring the Community Chest drive on campus for the second straight year. Last year, the Muhlenberg student body contributed over four hundred dollars. Because of this showing, the 1954 goal has been set for five hundred dollars.

The drive will begin next Monday evening and end Thursday, October 21. Members of the "M" Club will distribute folders to all students during these four days. Ray DiCello, chairman of the drive, noted that "no sum is too large or too small for an appeal of this nature."

Muhlenberg And Gettysburg Revive "Old Tin Cup" Trophy

Circumstances played a major part in the Muhlenberg-Gettysburg athletic world during the past few weeks, resulting in a chain of events which has led to the establishment of a new collegiate football award—the Old Tin Cup Trophy. Sponsorship has been assumed by the Muhlenberg WEEKLY and The GETTYSBURGIAN, and the first presentation will be made at this year's football game on October 23.

Dean Richards inspects old tin cup relic found recently when the new Dean assumed his post in August. He contacted Gettysburg's dean in order to find out the story behind the cup.

History of the Old Tin Cup

In 1908, two sons of a poor Pennsylvania German farmer who lived near Allentown, said goodbye to their father and set off for college—one going to Muhlenberg and the other to Gettysburg.

The old man, having few worldly possessions, decided in his sons' graduation year to give them his most prized belonging, an old tin cup. Since they attended different schools, however, he was undecided as to which son he should give the trophy.

He had been impressed by the first football game between the schools in 1907 and since both of his boys played football, he solved the problem of who should get the heirloom by making it known to his sons that the one whose team won the game in 1911 should receive the cup.

The G-Burg boy was hurt shortly before the half, but before this had kicked a field goal which ultimately gave his school a 3-0 victory. The Muhlenberg boy, at halftime, told his father to give the cup to the injured brother—out of respect for his ability and skill in the first half.

Upon his graduation in 1912, the Gettysburg student presented the cup to his alma mater. Along with it he presented a letter of explanation. The letter related how he had gotten the cup and ask that it be made into a perpetual trophy for the best player of the first half of the annual Muhlenberg-Gettysburg game, with the stipulation that the trophy would

Pastor Arnold Keller Speaks On Ministry

The Rev. Arnold Keller, Jr., pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Allentown, spoke on the topic, "The Makings of a Minister" at the first regular meeting of the John A. W. Haas Pre-Theological Club which was held on October 11, at 7:30 p.m.

Pastor Keller pointed out the many aspects and problems of the ministry and what is expected of the minister as the shepherd of his congregation. He emphasized the statement which St. Paul makes that some are called to be prophets, some apostles, some pastors, and some teachers. Pastor Keller also suggested three qualities which the pre-theological student should develop: 1. scholarship, 2. Christian service, and 3. personal devotions, and that these qualities should be continued throughout life. Discussion followed Rev. Keller's talk.

Refreshments were served to the 26 members in attendance. The

Although the college's undergraduate newspapers have become the sponsors, the trophy is actually the result of several communications between Dean Henry M. M. Richards of this college and Dean Wilbur Tilburg of Gettysburg.

Tilburg Finds Letter

Action began in early September when Dean Tilburg, preparing for retirement this year, found a forty-year-old letter in his files. The letter, written by the son of a Pennsylvania German farmer in 1912, related certain incidents leading to the awarding of an old tin cup annually at the Muhlenberg-Gettysburg football game.

Dean Tilburg contacted Dean Richards shortly thereafter, requesting information about the old cup. Dean Richards was finally able to locate the object and contacted Gettysburg College authorities.

Editors Meet

On October 2, leaders of the two college publications, having been contacted by the deans, met on the Gettysburg campus to study the letter and to discuss rejuvenation of the program.

Members of the staffs, after seeing the old letter, have been able to piece together the probable circumstances which led to the brief use of the cup in the early 1900's. Apparently little notice was taken of the award at that time because nothing can be found in official records concerning its use.

Cup Restored

Faced with the practical problem of restoration, the staffs have employed the services of P. A. Freeman, Allentown jeweler, to refinish the cup with silver and to mount it for trophy use. The pedestal on which the cup will rest is to hold a plate whereon the name of each year's winning team will be engraved.

Lenel Opens Music Appreciation Room

"Sympathetic surroundings" was the term used this week by Professor Ludwig Lenel in describing future plans for the college music appreciation room. In conjunction with these plans for pleasant listening conditions, Professor Lenel also noted that the room will now be open nearly every evening for the use of any Muhlenberg student.

Specific changes include the addition of table lamps to create a more relaxing atmosphere in the evening when students wish to listen to records. Long-playing records will be added this year. Students in charge of the music room this year are Nicolaus Kozauer, Ed Steiger, Ed Wasmuth, and Arvids Ziedonis. As in past years, these men are responsible for the records and general music room conditions each evening.

According to Lenel the room will be open on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday from 2:30 to 5 p.m. and on Thursday from 3 to 5 p.m. Evening hours will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Monday through Thursday.

Some Welcome Hustle . . .

Last Saturday was the type of day about which one writes paragraph after paragraph in a letter or just spends hours gloating. Needless to say our team finally removed that intangible bloc which had given them a perfect no win tally to date. With Coach Triplett and his team now working together with greater coordination, we hope that the new Muhlenberg-Gettysburg trophy will be in our possession for the next twelve months.

Things were happening out on the field at half-time too. Most of us saw a Muhlenberg band with more snap and musicianship than has been present for some time. With Director Sittler giving the downbeat, the crew whipped up some fancy game-time marches as well as displaying precision marching.

And then there were the frosh. Anything we might have said last week about poor freshman class spirit was nullified many times over as the dink-bedecked men did more than their share of cheering the team up and down the gridiron. Half-time maneuvers by the frosh, although a little heart-breaking to some hatless Lafayette men, showed the potential ability of the '58ers. Channeled in the right direction, their enthusiasm could be a dynamic force "toward a greater Muhlenberg."

Let's Use The Space . . .

Once upon a time there was a shiny new outdoor bulletin board of the type often found in front of churches. This bulletin board spent many hours thinking of the services it would perform—announcing coming events, guest speakers, concerts and the like. Finally the big day came, and the board was shipped off to a small college in eastern Pennsylvania. When unpacked, it found that it had been placed under big shady trees along a broad, much used street. "Looks like I'm going to be busy," thought the bulletin board. But as the months and years went by nothing happened. Seasons changed and events came and went, unannounced on the perplexed bulletin board.

Why was this willing object not used? Will such unnecessary disuse of a potential advertising device continue? We cannot answer these questions. Somebody on the Muhlenberg campus has the answer, and we believe they should begin to set things straight. Why campus programs of community interest are allowed to occur without any mention of them via this agent is beyond our comprehension. We will be extremely disappointed and somewhat baffled if the chapel bulletin board is not soon made use of.

R.G.M.

Hat-Stealing . . .

Where in your opinion does genuine school spirit end and the destructive power of over-enthusiasm begin? Perhaps the denting of Muhlenberg bandmen's instruments at the Albright game was an example of the latter. But the genuine school spirit evidenced by the frosh as they ran to assist their hat stealing companions proved to be both a delightful sidelight for the assembled fans and a stretching of the term "genuine school spirit."

It's true that mob action can become riotous, leading to strained relationships between the schools concerned. Do not forget our representatives have pledged that Muhlenberg students will refrain from damaging the other school's campus. Let's have plenty of fun stealing hats without bending up anybody's instrument.

New Faculty . . .

Dr. Brackin Impressed With 'Berg Campus, Student Body

Cornered between classes and daily 35-mile trips to Reading, Dr. Walter H. Brackin stopped moving long enough last Thursday for this picture to be taken by the WEEKLY photographer. On the campus only a few weeks, Dr. Brackin has already won the admiration of students for his knowledge of his subject and especially for his s-m-o-o-t-h lecturing.

by Dave Miller

Dr. Walter H. Brackin is another of the newcomers to our faculty. His remarks about Muhlenberg and the students seem to point out the lack of perspective of some of the "moaners" who consistently gripe about our college.

The new head of the Psychology Department stated that "the beauty of the campus, the friendliness of the faculty and students, and the group spirit present at Muhlenberg make it possible to observe the personality of the men here."

When he taught at Temple, the school with "the cement-campus and the subway commuters" as he put it, he had to cope with problems in getting the students to know each other and their faculty.

Dr. Brackin spent the main part of his life in Coatesville, where he graduated from high school and taught as a counselor. His college days were spent on two campuses—the first two years at West Chester State Teachers College, the last two at the University of Pennsylvania, where he received his Bachelor of Science in Education degree with the class of 1928. He also obtained his Master of Arts degree from the U. of P.

During World War II, he was Director of Civilian Training at the Philadelphia Quartermasters Depot. After the war, he took over as Director of the Veterans Guidance Center at Temple. Never one for spare time, he also taught psychology courses.

In 1951, he became assistant director of the Testing Bureau at Temple. He is teaching graduate courses at the University at the present time.

His courses here are divided between general and advanced studies in psychology. Spare time is limited because his family, including a 14 year old son, lives in Reading, and he commutes to college. He intends to move to Allentown as soon as possible, of course.

The Second Reformed Church in Reading also claims some of this busy man's time, as he is the president of the Consistory and an elder.

His hobbies . . . well, having no spare time, he has no hobbies, per se.

Dr. Brackin spoke highly of our college in general and in particular, asserting he likes it here. We are glad he does and hope that we may benefit from his understanding of scholastic and personality problems.

Berg's Eye Views —

by Jim Strine

Discussion has been raised on campus from time to time concerning the various aspects of freshman regulations and their enforcement. Any group of young men such as our freshmen, varying widely in their background, education, and religion, are sure to encounter problems when confronted with a completely new environment. To help solve these problems is the purpose of our freshman "regs." Do you think freshman regulations, as they exist on our campus at the present time, are doing a satisfactory job of integrating freshmen for their stay here at Berg?

Larry Paul, '55: "I think that the freshman 'regs' are doing a fine job of changing high school seniors to college freshmen. To some men, the 'more mature', these 'regs' may seem very childish, but they are quite effective in loosening mother's apron strings and in putting some men on the straight and narrow path of manhood."

Charlie Bader, '58: "Yes. I believe the freshmen are getting satisfactorily indoctrinated at Berg. Enough men are learning the songs, cheers, and other information they should know. As to wearing regs, I think this really brings the class together and helps bolster our spirit. Some frosh say regs are too stiff; I'm all for the present system of integration."

Howie Smith, '57: "I think the freshmen regulations on our campus do help integrate freshmen for their stay at Berg, because a freshman doesn't realize how helpful the regs are until his sophomore year. It is only then that they see the usefulness of 'regs' in molding the student body into one large family."

President's Memo

I want to say just a few words about Chapel. What I have to say may be an old message, as far as the older students are concerned. It may not for the new students.

We believe in spiritual emphasis at this college. We do not think education is simply training. We are concerned that intellectual development, vocational training, social adaptation, important as they are, are not enough. We hope that Muhlenberg graduates will be more than trained, socially adaptable, literate citizens. We want them to think and act and believe beyond those dimensions.

Some years ago I wrote in a book, "Science, unleashed and undirected, might well destroy society."

I don't often quote myself! But this thought still seems to me quite to the point. Unless scientists, and teachers, and pastors, and businessmen, and all the rest of us take time and thought concerning spiritual values there is not much point to living.

That is why we have erected our beautiful Chapel, why we provide courses in Religion, why we have a full-time Chaplain. Do not take these in a perfunctory manner. They provide a very important aspect of your education.

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

Tug-of-War Bit (#2) . . . The Cedar Crest version of the only sport besides hanging in which a rope figures prominently went off as scheduled Monday afternoon, with casualties restricted to a few bruised derrieres.

The girls go about this rope-pulling with a bit more propriety than their male compatriots across the valley. For instance, there is no rope-greasing, no wetting down of the frosh bank, no violence, and no indiscriminate flinging of animal waste. The opposing teams work shifts of twenty-five amazons per side per pull. This gives the contestants time to manicure their nails between tugs.

Each time the starting whistle blew, the feminine screams mounted to a crescendo, higher and higher in pitch, until the place sounded like a proving ground for a siren factory. (say . . . "siren factory" . . . that's pretty good . . . double entendre . . . comprenez-vous?) By the time a team had won the pull, some of the chicks were screaming high notes that only a dog could hear.

All in all, it was a very lady-like affair. The frosh won, even though some of those sophs were really big, man. But then it is quite reasonable that the frosh won. I have a theory. The freshmen girls, you see, are but recently arrived from their respective homes. They are new at this college jazz. They are younger and healthier. They are, for the most part I presume, clean livers.

The sophs, on the other hand, are not in such good shape. They are merely livers. They have been initiated. They have a whole year of chain-smoking, late hours, and wild Lehigh orgies behind them. This kind of life would dent the metabolism of a rhinoceros (no comparisons intended, I assure you.) So there you have it . . . in an egg-shell. Dissipation is the answer.

In conclusion, a word of caution to Crest wimmen . . . "Girls, stay healthy. Don't smoke, don't drink, don't keep late hours, don't run around with wild college boys, and, if you must go to parties, make sure they are nice, quiet, sedate little gatherings where no booze will be served. In short, come to Muhlenberg house parties. Pick up on some of that crazy fruit punch and don't forget to bring your hymnals for the song fests that are so much a part of gay, carefree college life."

IRV KERSON provided a few laughs for the group last week by getting into a hassle with the local gendarmes.

It seems that IRV made arrangements to borrow TOM WEBER'S car. It also seems that IRV either was not too familiar with TOM's car or he was suffering from defective vision, because he grabbed the wrong chariot, much to the annoyance of the owner, who, as we say in the orient, "called the cops." Consequently, while IRV was chugging along in his hot car, the wheels of justice or something were turning and a dragnet was out for "CROSSED WIRES KERSON", boy car stealer. With their usual alacrity, the Allentown bulls swooped down on the culprit and hustled him off to the city bastille. After a bit of heated discussion, the problem was cleared up and IRV escaped the hot lights and a skull-massage with a rubber hose. And so the incompetent police foolishly release another fiend to come back and prey on society.

FLASH!!! . . . In a recent speech before hundreds of listeners in the chapel, Dean Richards came right out and said that he wants Muhlenberg men to DRINK FREELY . . . of the cup of knowledge." Personally, I never heard of this "Cup of Knowledge" brand. It's probably some new kind of hooch. Must be good stuff though, if the Dean himself recommends it.

Hard-Boiled Critics Fail To See Any Merit In Tear-Jerker Novel

by Ted Michelfeld and Al Hettinger

Magnificent Obscenity by Floyd C. Marbles, Street & Gutter, Allentown, 1954.

It is difficult to introduce this book without experiencing a lump in the throat; the same lump that was there when we read it for the first time. We must confess, however, that the protuberant mounds in our epiglottis were due to swallowing some "Red Man" and gargling with "Schenley", after having eaten a Commons Special of chow mein and soggy rice pudding.

This may seem to you, readers (if any), a foolish thing to do, but how else were we to look bleary-eyed and choked with emotion? We had to do it in order to review this book for what it is worth, and it certainly is worth a couple wads of tobacco and two shots of whiskey. Man-o-man! What a gripping story. Such a tale of raw emotion and torrid love you've never read, and we hope you never have to. (Notice English Dept., Ending a sentence with a preposition is allowed by the WEEKLY. Nyea! Nyea!)

It seems that wealthy playboy, R. Merrick (we will not mention his first name for fear of hurting one of our fellow students), was born with a natural ability for being a slob. He falls in love with the neighbor's daughter, Clyde. She has never seen him before and he makes a date over the phone. R. Merrick (the similarity is purely coincidental, believe us)

Herb Meilly, '58: "I think the 'regs' are doing a good job, for how else could you have everyone learn the Fight Song, Alma Mater, and the college cheers? These must be known by everyone if we are to continue to have a united spirit here at Berg. I also think that most of the frosh are accepting the regulations in the spirit in which they are made."

Pete Ascione, '55: "On the whole, freshman regulations are doing a satisfactory job. There are one or two freshmen that may show dissatisfaction and cause an indifferent attitude to be formed against freshman regulations, but this is to be expected."

Edward Weaver, '58: "I think freshman regulations on campus are 100% beneficial for integrating the new students to Berg, unless the authority to enforce these regulations is abused."

John Keyser, '56: "Yes, or they would have been dropped long ago. Frosh don't mind wearing 'regs' when there are others running around in them also. They have a lot more in common because of the same tribulations they must suffer. When frosh realize they are at the bottom of the scale, the job of character building has been accomplished, and a much more solid frosh class is the result."

H. "Pete" Engel, '58: "I would say that freshman 'regs' are doing a satisfactory job of acquainting the frosh for their stay here at Berg. This tradition, if carried out by the frosh to its fullest extent, surely will not hurt them and if they feel indifferent or distasteful about them, they just aren't college material."

is a playful playboy, so he fills his water gun and, that night, greets Clyde with a squirt in the face. But Merrick, being a slob, had erroneously filled his pistol with hydrochloric acid. He and his blind date have one heck of a good time and are now (page 10) deeply in love, mainly because he is drunk with passion and she is just plain drunk.

The couple plans marriage, and at this point in the book everything looks rosy. But not for long. One accident follows another, each of which tests their love to the utmost. Clyde's father bleeds to death after cutting his big toe on a seashell. Then, her mother is killed while riding naked through the streets on a white elephant. Next, her sister, a sign painter, falls from a scaffold while stepping back to admire her work. Her brother, a baker, is electrocuted when he sits on a bun filled with currents. Through all this Merrick and Clyde remain faithful and very much in love. This is the beauty of the story. The final tragic accident takes place when their own two year old little girl is drowned by their pet dog in the back yard inflated rubber swimming pool.

It is at this point (page 15) that a momentous decision is made by R. Merrick (honest, we didn't make up the name; it's in the book). He decides to become a doctor. Why? We don't know, he doesn't know, Mr. Marbles don't know, nobody don't know. (Ha! Eng. Dept. We on the WEEKLY can do anything.)

Five pages later, Merrick has been going to med school for twenty-five years. He flunks out year after year, but keeps on coming back mainly because he has money.

The climax of the book is reached on page 30. The couple is vacationing in Germany. Blind Clyde is tapping her way back to their apartment after a shopping trip to the city. She is wondering what surprise her hubby will have for her tonight. It might be alligator wrestling, or perhaps a trip to the torture chambers. Alas, Clyde loses her footing on the top of a stone quarry near the house, and tumbles to the bottom. Her scream arouses Merrick from his afternoon nap, and the frustrated boy rushes to her aid. He starts the long climb down, but trips and falls beside his sweetheart. This doesn't seem like the end because the dog is still alive, but since it is already page 45, it's high time, don't you think?

The style is similar to that of Steinbeck, the characterization is strictly Hemingway, and the ending is absolutely impossible. Don't read it, you'll be sorry.

MULE KICKS

Dear Mule Kicks,

Let's do away with freshman regulations.

Last issue, under the misnomer of "Freshman Progress" the editor naively claimed, "Mature men can look at these regulations as serving a constructive purpose—showing the frosh that he is not God's gift to campus life."

First of all, what is the editor's definition of mature men? If he means boys who sit up nights trying to devise new Tribunal punishments, if he means boys who leer whenever they find a freshman without the necessary matchsticks, if he means boys who stupidly believe they are turning frosh into mature men—as they obviously already are—by having the new men roll up their trouser cuffs, wear bowties, carry squares of cardboard on their backs or trail tin cans across campus, then he is sadly mistaken.

Further, is it possible to call such a system "serving a constructive purpose?"

The first D on an English theme or a 43 in a math exam will far better tell the freshman that his days as a small town high school hero are over.

Later in the year the editors will undoubtedly write some editorial about quiet and dignity in chapel or about applying yourself—this usually appears just before final exams, too late to do any real good—to your studies.

Can you seriously say that freshman regulations are helping make the frosh aware of the hard work they must perform to gain more than a superficial benefit from their studies? Does walking into the chapel with cuffs almost at knee level tend to create a meditative mood within the frosh? Does the dictatorial Tribunal system lead toward further appreciation of the democratic system under which student government allegedly operates? Or, can you have a dictatorial subcommittee of a democratic organization? (You might refer to the recent McCarthy censuring for further illustration.)

To throw in—if you'll pardon the expression—a humanitarian note, can't we still say that each individual counts, that what each person does is important? Must we give the idea to the frosh that they are still children and must be treated as such though some of them might be far more intelligent than many upperclassmen?

The regulations system does not contend that the frosh do not know all the answers so much as it puts into practice the vicious doctrine that freshmen are secondary citizens in the college community.

Now, let's go to last Saturday's game. The Bible very accurately says, "As ye sow, so shall ye also reap." The regulations-loving upperclassmen have treated the frosh like children. Saturday night they responded by acting like children. Would thinking persons expect anything different? After all, they were just emulating their rule-by-force superiors?

So, again, let's do away with freshman regulations. Let's welcome the class of 1959 next fall as friends, associates and men who are entering Muhlenberg to learn. The professors can be relied upon to show the newcomers that they have a lot to learn.

Students Ask ICL Questions

WHAT ABOUT I.C.L.

The following questions and answers are designed to help YOU, the students of Muhlenberg College, in your understanding of a program that has been designed by your fellow students with YOU in mind.

What is I.C.L.

I.C.L. is a program designed to provide cultural and educational opportunities for Muhlenberg students, with the emphasis on strengthening the principles of Christian thinking, attitudes and endeavor.

How Will These Opportunities Be Provided?

There will be visiting lecturers who are well known in their respective fields and who therefore cannot fail to aid the student in his understanding of some of the complex problems of our modern world. With this impression should come the realization of the necessity for a Christian approach if these same problems are to be met and solved.

Where will these meetings be held?

The speaker will deliver a short address in the regular twenty minute chapel service, when he will outline his main theme, which has been selected by the I.C.L. committee. He will further develop this theme in panel discussions, other short lectures and bull sessions which will be held in the commons, student center, and various fraternity houses.

When will this program be presented?

I.C.L. will be presented three times during the coming school year. The first I.C.L. period will be on November 1, 2, and 3.

William Kinter will be the speaker.

If you're in charge of the publicity for any club or an event concerning Muhlenberg students, give me the information about it by Monday afternoon or drop a card to Box 116.

Rest In Peace . . .

Lines On The Mermaid Tavern

Souls of poets dead and gone,
What Elysium have ye known,
Happy field or mossy cavern,
Choicer than the Mermaid Tavern?
Have ye tipped drink more fine
Than mine host's Canary wine?
Or are fruits of Paradise
Sweeter than those dainty pies
Of venison? O generous food!
Drest as though bold Robin Hood
Would, with his maid Marian,
Sup and browse from horn and can.

I have heard that on a day

Mine host's sign-board flew away,
Nobody knew whither, 'till
An astrologer's old quill
To a sheepskin gave the story,
Said he saw you in your glory,
Underneath a new old sign
Sipping beverage divine,
And pledging with contented smack
The Mermaid in the Zodaic.
Souls of poets dead and gone,
What Elysium have ye known,
Happy field or mossy cavern,
Choicer than the Mermaid Tavern?

Mules De-Spot Leopards, 27-0, For First Win; Kreuzberg, Keeny, Truran And Hoffman Star

by Danny Dannenbaum and Ben Caplan

The Leopards crawled back to their den in Easton Saturday night after discovering that the Mules can kick harder than ever. Muhlenberg's hard hitting tackles caused Lafayette to fumble a total of eleven times, and with the aid of fast running backs, helped to register a 27-0 shut-out over the favored Easton eleven before 7,500 excited fans in the Allentown High School Stadium.

The Mules' attack was sparked by Harry Kreuzberg, Tony Saddler, Jack MacDonald and Bill Keeny in the backfield. The line was led by tackle Pete Ascione, center Paul Truran, ends Dick Werkheiser and Lee Hoffman, who recovered most of Lafayette's fumbles.

The Mules dominated the game from the opening whistle, holding a sputtering Leopard offense in their own territory for the entire first half. The Maroon offense was led by quarterback George Bartlett, Bryan Satterlee and Norman Dion, backs. Captain Russell Hedden spearheaded what resistance there was in the line.

First Period Drive

On the opening kick-off, the Bergmen started a sustained drive 70 yards downfield for the first and only score of the first half. The push was sparked by MacDonald and Kreuzberg, who scored from the six yard line. Saddler's extra point attempt was good and the Mules led 7-0.

The Leopards' first fumble came immediately after the Berg TD and was recovered by Hoffman on the Lafayette ten. A touchdown pass from Keeny to Werkheiser was nullified because of unnecessary roughness and the Muhlenberg threat died when Lafayette intercepted a pass.

The Mules threatened twice more in the second quarter but did not score. The half ended after a flurry of passes by the Leopards with Berg leading 7-0.

Second Half Tallies

The Bergmen's second tally stemmed from another Lafayette fumble shortly after a 50-yard punt by MacDonald in the third period. The recovery was made by Hoffman on the Leopard 20; Kreuzberg carried to the four. From there fullback Frank Lerro went off tackle into the end zone. Saddler's conversion made the score read 14-0, favor Muhlenberg.

The Mules scored twice more with quarterbacks Keeny and George Heageage sneaking over from the one and two yard line, respectively. Saddler's extra point attempt was not good after Keeny's TD, but end Robert Gimble converted after Heageage's score.

Paul Billy Hurt

Midway in the third period, sophomore guard Paul Billy, an outstanding player in the first half, received a severe neck injury. He was rushed to the hospital where X-rays indicated no breakage.

Mule supremacy became evident when three Cardinal TD's were called back because of penalties. The Leopards only twice crossed the Mule's twenty yard line.

Coach Tom Triplett indicated that he was very pleased with the play of his gridders. This is the third consecutive year a Triplett team has de-spotted the Lafayette Leopards.

It Happened Last Saturday

Leopard linebacker George Bartlett (17) is completely fooled, as he has to bend backward to reach Bill Keeny, lunging over Paul Billy (26) and the goal line for the Mules third touchdown. Paul Truran (35) and Frank Gutierrez pound Lafayette's line, while Tony Saddler (45) yells Keeny on. Mules romped, 27-0.

Muhlenberg-Lafayette Clash In Frosh Football Encounter

This afternoon the Muhlenberg freshmen football team under the direction of coach Bob Mirth, will play its first game of the '54 season on the Muhlenberg field. The Mules, hampered by many injuries, will field the minimum number of players, while the Leopard Cubs boast of a strong team. Lacking in depth, the Mules are far from lacking in the talent department.

A few of the outstanding ball players on the freshman team are: Buddy McCutcheon, fullback; Joe Frederico, center; Barry Fried, guard; Paul Whitcraft, end; Tony Caporale, halfback; Lee Schwyer, halfback; Ernie Jackson, quarterback. Other capable freshmen are: Don Herman, Bob Fried, Bill Carly, Dick Keiser and Barry Sarota.

The Mules are a well-spirited team and are keyed up for the initial appearance. They will be trying to duplicate Saturday night's performance by their older Muhlenberg brothers.

Lebanon Valley Tickets

George Lawson, Director of Athletics, has announced that tickets for the Lebanon Valley game are on sale in Memorial Hall. Student general admission tickets are $1.00 and will not be sold at the game. Tickets must be purchased no later than Friday, 4 p.m.

Hard-Hitting Gridders To Tackle Lebanon Valley Eleven Saturday

The hard-kicking Mules will be out to win their second straight gridiron tussle on Saturday afternoon, October 16, when they buck up against the Lebanon Valley Flying Dutchmen in the Bologna Bowl game staged in the Lebanon High School Stadium. The Bologna Bowl game is sponsored by the Lebanon Kiwanis, with proceeds going to the Lebanon YMCA.

Bud Nevin's Soccermen Play Host To Don Baker's Strong Ursinus Squad

Coach Bud Nevins' soccer team will battle a strong Ursinus squad this Saturday, October 16, on the Muhlenberg field. Nevins has said that Ursinus is "usually pretty good" and that Muhlenberg "will have to hustle to beat them."

Coach Donald Baker of Ursinus claims that he has an inexperienced team this year since only two lettermen returned. They are Jack Zatman who plays at inside left and Jim Cox who stars at right halfback. The Bears won a practice game with Hill School last weekend, 5-1.

Seek First Win

The Berg booters will be on the rebound from their first two losses when they meet the Ursinus Grizzlies. Because many starters were lost through graduation last year, the Muhlenberg team is also inexperienced.

Delaware Blue Hens Hand Mule Booters Second Straight Loss Of Season, 4-0

All-American John McLaughlen and the Delaware Blue Hens out-kicked the Mule soccermen, 4-0, yesterday afternoon on the Muhlenberg field for Berg's second loss of the season. McLaughlen booted two goals which assured the Delaware team of their victory.

Neither team had the opportunity to score in the first period when both squads played defensive ball. Coach Bud Nevins' Mules were unable to break through the tight Delaware defense. Muhlenberg threatened five times in the last period but was unable to penetrate the goalie's cage.

In the third period Muhlenberg was awarded an indirect free kick on a Blue Hen penalty. The Bergmen then had to pass to a man who would get the free kick. This drive was stopped when an alert Delaware man intercepted the pass.

The first Blue Hen score came in the second period on a kick by McLaughlen. Willard Thompson booted the second point two minutes before the period ended, and, McLaughlen followed suit a few seconds later with another Delaware tally. The last goal was registered in the final seconds of third period by Nick Paxton.

Speaking Frankly

by Frank Howard

In one of the local journals which appeared on the news stands Monday, an anonymous writer said—"If Muhlenberg wins no other games this season, the Mules can bask in the glory of the Lafayette victory."

Another athletic-minded typewriter termite said—"Muhlenberg was alert, aggressive and sharp on Saturday night. But, we wonder what would have happened if Lafayette had cured that bad case of fumbilitus."

Bill Pfeiffer, who did the play-by-play of the game for WLEV-TV, looked rather sad as he paid this gambler a half-a-dollar. Once off the TV-ways Bill cried, "I

Thin Cross Country Squad Opens Next Week Against F & M

Seven prospects are vying for positions on the Muhlenberg Cross Country team. Coach Harold Parker's runners open the season on Wednesday, October 20, against a formidable Franklin and Marshall squad on Muhlenberg territory.

While seven of the competing Bergmen are freshmen and therefore are ineligible to run, Parker places a lot of faith in four returning lettermen. Charles Rauch, Edwin Druckenmiller, Carson Schneck and Wally Loy are the men returning from last year's winless team.

The hopeful upperclassmen who are trying to earn a position on the team are: Harry Otto, Robert Andrews, John Keyser, Dick Johnston and Ronald Treichler. Freshmen working out with the team are Ronald Moxey, Raymond Croft, Jerry Slack, William Kile, Donald Simpson, Daniel Neal and Norman Wangman.

Bergmen Bow 4-2 To Swarthmore Booters

In the season's opener last Saturday Muhlenberg's soccer team suffered a 4-2 defeat by the efficient booting of an aggressive Swarthmore team, having been beaten previously by Princeton, 3-0.

Despite a lack of experience, the Bergers put forth a great effort in a will to win, and exhibited more than once that they could use their heads for more than academic reasoning. Only the Mules' spirit kept the talented winners from duplicating their last 7-0 victory over Muhlenberg.

Of the six goals scored in the contest, the first goal by the Mule booter was probably the most outstanding one. After Swarthmore had taken a 1-0 lead in the first quarter on a free shot, the Mules put forth an aggressive drive at the start of the second quarter. With a host of men from both teams kicking the ball around directly in front of the Swarthmore goal, diminutive Harry Blank, a reserve and probably the smallest

Fresh from upsetting a favored Lafayette eleven last Saturday night, Coach Tom Triplett's charges will be gunning for the Flying Dutchman, who aren't flying high this campaign. They are without the services of their four-year ace quarterback, Lou Sorrentino, who guided his team to a 5-2 won-lost record last year.

New Lebanon Valley Coach

Coach Ellis McCracken, who is in his first year at the helm, has a squad composed of 31 gridders, 11 of which are lettermen. The team is rather green since twenty of these men are yearlings. The stalwarts in L.V.'s grid machine are Douglas Miller and Gene Zimmerman, ends, and Rusty Owens, tackle. It is reported that the Dutchman are of average size and speed. As of yet, the tutor hasn't found a strong offensive attack; the Valley squad has been unable to enter the scoring column in their first two games. Wilkes College saw fit to whitewash L.V.C. 19-0, in the opener, while Western Maryland bombarded them last weekend, 32-0.

This will be the third Bowl game that the Mules have played in this season. On September 25, a strong Bucknell team stopped the Bergmen, 33-13 in the Rotary Bowl in Hershey, Pa.; this game was sponsored by the Harrisburg Rotary Club. On October 2, the Muhlenberg eleven fell prey to Albright, 12-7, in the Pretzel Bowl; this game was played under the auspices of the Reading Shriners.

After having suffered a 39-14 loss to the spirited Mules last season, Lebanon Valley can be expected to go all out to avenge that trouncing.

Berg Injuries

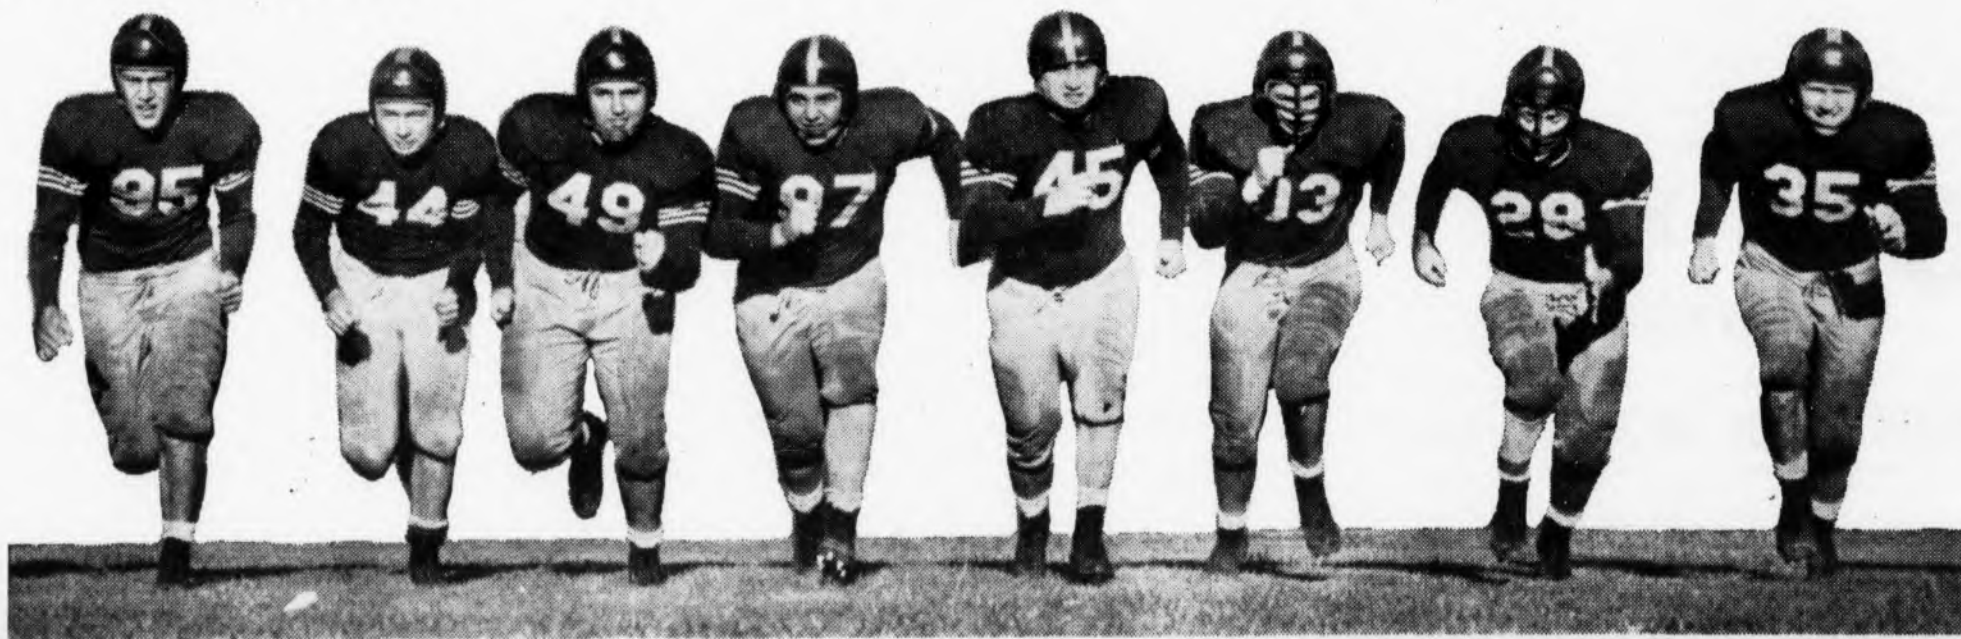

Muhlenberg will probably play without the services of stellar tackles Pete Ascione and Dick Fetherolf, who sustained injuries in the Lafayette fray. It is expected that Paul Billy will be fully recovered from a sprained neck and that he will be able to engage in Saturday's battle.

Assistant Cardinal and Grey coach Richard Fox, who preceded McCracken at Lebanon Valley, said, "Zimmerman, the end, is very good, as are his partners Owens and Miller." Fox warned that Muhlenberg will have to be careful because Lebanon Valley will be rebounding from their last loss, which was marred by fumbles.

Nevins Wins Cash

Thirteen year old Mary Ann Nevins, daughter of Muhlenberg's soccer coach Bud Nevins, is richer today by a $1,000 bill. The pretty Fullerton miss won the cash prize in a local store over the weekend. It seems that Mary Ann is luckier than her Dad, whose team has lost twice.

Muhlenberg Line Finally Shines, and How!

The Mule forward wall really played great rockem, sockem football against the Leopards Saturday . . . the offensive blocking of Billy, Truran, and Gutierrez was great . . . Dick Werkheiser was the fifth man in the Lafayette backfield thru the whole game . . . you can still hear the thud of Pete Ascione's take-out of a Lafayette blocker in the third quarter . . . "King" Saddler threw a beautiful down field block on Werk's nullified run . . . that clipping penalty was way off the beam . . . Harry Kreuzberg's performance was by far the best turned in by a Mule griddier since Mac's play last year in Easton . . . Coach Triplett is now ahead of Steve Hokuf three games to nothing in their personal rivalry . . . considering the poor showing of the Mules against the Albright Lions the week before, a good crowd was on hand Saturday . . . if the Mules defeat Lebanon Valley and Gettysburg, the Delaware game should draw close to 10,000 people at our field . . . rounding out Saturday night's game was the fine play of Lee Hoffman.

The Swarthmore scoring was done in each of the four quarters. Nelson scored two goals, Shane and Wilkinson, one each, for the victors. Swarthmore proved that they could play a defensive as well as an offensive game.

Three I-M Fraternity Teams Lead 1954 League Contest

Lambda Chi Alpha, Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Kappa Tau loom as the formidable leaders of the Intramural Football League. It is particularly interesting to note that Phi Tau won the league title in 1952 and that Lambda Chi was the I-M champs last year.

Perhaps the most exciting game of the current season was the Tuesday night 0-0 draw between Phi Sigma Kappa and The Wild Ones. Each team threatened to score only once but were held back by the equally strong defensive play of the opposition.

After stopping the RDD team last week (40-6), a strong ATO eleven barely edged a 7-0 victory over the Phi Ep gridders Monday. Phi Ep was overrun, 23-0, by a undefeated Phi Tau squad, who also slaughtered the RDD's last week, 25-0. Lambda Chi is also undefeated; they slaughtered the Wild Ones, (37-0), and childed Phi Sig, (30-6). The GDI's ran rough-shod over the Sinners on Tuesday night, 39-0.

Last night Lambda Chi made it three in a row by whitewashing Phi Ep, 33-6. Quarterback Jack Russo led the victors, as he ran for two touchdowns, and heaved five passes, accounting for 15 more points.

scored two of Lambda Chi's touchdowns, one on an intercepted pass. Bill Price pulled down one of Russo's tosses for the remaining score. Extra points were credited to Price, Dick Conway, and Wally Loy, all on passes. J.K.

Muhlenberg Professors Assist In Local Educator's Conclave

Four Muhlenberg professors played major parts in a convention of eastern Pennsylvania elementary and secondary school teachers held last Friday in Allentown. Participants included Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere, Dr. Morris S. Greth, Dr. Truman L. Koehler, and Dr. Ralph C. Wood.

The convention, a meeting of the eastern convention district of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, used the theme: "The Teacher Speaks." All speakers for the conclave were teachers in some branch of education or vitally concerned with it.

Dr. Corbiere and Dr. Wood were part of the panel which discussed the subject of teaching languages.

"Mathematics and Business" was discussed by a panel under the moderation of Dr. Koehler. The panel consisted of representatives from business and industry.

Dr. Greth was one of a panel which discussed meeting the needs of the student for worthy citizenship in the social studies. This panel was presided over by Melville J. Boyer, '16, head of the Social Studies Department of Allentown High School.

The convention, which included teachers from Berks, Carbon, Lehigh, Northampton, and Schuylkill counties, lasted until 3 p.m. on Friday, and covered every conceivable phase of instruction in the public schools.

Staack Addresses Meeting Of AKA

Dr. Hagen Staack spoke on the topic of "Neo-Platonism" at the first meeting of Alpha Kappa Alpha, held at the home of Dr. Russell W. Stine last Thursday.

In his topic Dr. Staack showed how Oriental and Greek philosophical thought developed through the age of Neo-Platonism and what influence it had in the early Christian Church and upon medieval philosophy.

The group was welcomed by Arvids Ziedonis who explained the aims and purposes of A.K.A. Dr. and Mrs. Stine served refreshments to the approximately 30 people which comprised the group.

Initiation of new members will be held on Thursday, October 21, at 7 p.m. in the Chapel Lounge. The regular meeting will then follow at Dr. Stine's home when William L. Kintner of the English department will speak on Dante and the Divine Comedy.

College Acquires New Grand Piano

A re-conditioned Steinway grand piano will soon be placed in the Chapel lounge. According to Professor Lenel, head of the music department, the piano has been in the basement of the Dean's home for many years. This instrument, constructed in 1887, was recently overhauled by an Allentown piano builder.

The upright that is presently in the lounge will be moved to the Pre-Theological room in the Student Center.

Muhlenberg College was victorious in 1912, 33-7. Although the cup must have been won at this time, it was apparently forgotten by the date of the colleges' next meeting in 1921.

The Chowline

Wow! What spunk the frosh have been showing lately. Not only did they win the push ball game, but they won another little tussle with the Lafayette band and rooting section last Saturday night. Seems as though school spirit went rampant at the game; the team had spirit; the fans continued their splendid showing; and the frosh put on a real demonstration to steal the show from the band which incidentally had learned two new numbers for the occasion. The band has been developing at a great rate under the directorship of Mr. Sittler who undertook the job this year.

Carrying the idea of good spirit over into the commons, it certainly might be beneficial for the men who pay $1.64 per day to eat there. After the bills for laundry, cleaning material, gas, electric, and breakages are paid there remains 90 cents for each man's food. If a man takes food he knows he does not want he only spites himself, because he increases the amount of waste. This is one of the most costly items we have. The more we throw out, the less we have to give; and in our feeding plan with the college we aim to give all we can in order to maintain good will and contentment.

Speaking of good will and contentment, during this wonderful Indian summer the Snack Bar still has ice for that cool refreshing soda or ice cream for that cone.

Science Club Hears Panel Discuss Future

"What's ahead for you in Science" was the subject of the panel discussion held last Monday in the Science Auditorium at the first meeting of the Science Club. The panel members were Dr. Robert Boyer and Dr. William Guenther of the Muhlenberg faculty, and Mr. Preston Parr, who is Registrar of the Graduate School at Lehigh University.

The discussion gave answers to nearly all possible questions as to what a science student in college today can look forward to in his chosen field of endeavor. Salaries, types of jobs, and graduate schools were the topics which were treated thoroughly. Of special interest was their report that starting salaries for B.S. graduates range from $340 to $390 a month.

In the short business meeting which preceded the discussion, President Fred Grosse and the members began laying the groundwork for future science programs. In addition to lectures, field trips to research centers, industries, and educational institutions are being planned. A trip to the Haverford Science Lecture Series will be included. Last year on this trip, the members of the club were addressed by the famous physicist, Dr. Enrico Fermi.

The next meeting is slated for November 1, when Dr. Harry Raub of the Muhlenberg faculty, will present as the topic—Astrophysics.

Denver IFC Begins "Better Grade" Plan

The Inter-fraternity Council at the University of Denver will inaugurate a new plan, approved last spring by that group, for improving grades within the fraternities. A committee composed of representatives from the fraternities will send out blanks to all professors having fraternity men in their classes.

These blanks will be filled out with names of individual fraternity men. After the professor has filled in the grade the man is making at the time, the grade he is capable of, and any other remarks, he will return the blanks to the committee.

After being evaluated according to the professor, they will be evaluated according to individual fraternities. The committee members will then form plans for raising the grades of their respective fraternities. They will report these plans to IFC for approval. The grade average required of fraternities will remain the same.

Mask And Dagger Announces Fall Shakespeare Production

The Mask and Dagger Club has announced that its fall presentation of the 1954 season will be "Taming of the Shrew" by William Shakespeare. This play has long been one of the most popular of Shakespeare's works and its main characters have become models for a shrewish woman and a strong woman-teacher.

The story revolves around the two daughters of Baptista, a rich old gentleman of Padua. One is the "fair Katharina" who is cursed with a shrewish temper and the other is her young sister, the "beautiful Bianca" whose demure, gentle ways attract all the lovers. Warned by her father that she cannot marry until Kate is wed, Bianca sadly questions if there is anyone who would be so brave as to court her shrewish sister. The men of Padua ignore Kate, but the whimsical Petruchio of Verona comes to town and soon woos and wives the young shrew in astonishing fashion.

Date Announced

According to Fred Grosse, president of M & D, the dates for the play will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, December 2, 3, and 4.

Chairmen of the various committees are: patrons and tickets, Jon LaFaver; programs, Tom Kelsall; advertising, Dom DeBellis; publicity, Kern Gregory; stage manager, Dick Beach; props, Dick Merrick; lighting, Fred Grosse.

Dr. Andrew Erskine, professor of English, will direct the play. Names of the members of the cast will be released at a later date.

"Tight Little Island" Begins Film Series

Tomorrow evening "Tight Little Island" will be shown as the first of Muhlenberg's Friday Night Film Series. The first showing will be at 6:30 p.m., followed by a second showing at 8:30 p.m.

This English film will have a cast headed by Basil Radford, Catherine Lacey, Bruce Seton and Jan Greenwood. The story is based upon a supposedly actual incident of World War II, showing a group of Scots in the Hebrides, who by a fortuitous incident overcome wartime restrictions that are enforced by a dominating Home Guardsman.

Classical Fraternity Makes Future Plans

The Alpha Rho chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, Muhlenberg's honorary classical fraternity, discussed plans for the coming year at their first meeting last week.

President Frederic Geehr conducted the meeting of the organization, whose purpose is to further student interest in Greco-Roman civilization and show its lasting contributions to mankind in the fields of literature, philosophy, religion, political science, and architecture.

The club meets on the third Wednesday of every month and discusses topics relating to the classics. Its plans for this year include building of the society's membership, holding a symposium at the college, and having a survey to evaluate the classic's department and student interest in Greek and Latin languages at Muhlenberg. The possibility of giving a prize medal to the local high school student showing the greatest proficiency in the field of Latin was also discussed.

In order to be eligible for membership in Eta Sigma Phi, a student must have completed one semester in Latin or Greek. Dr. Edward Stevens is the adviser to this group.

Miller Reveals Tentative Rules Governing Old Tin Cup Award

Tentative rules were released this week by Dick Miller, editor-in-chief of the WEEKLY, for the annual awarding of the Old Tin Cup. The rules, as they stand, will regulate the awarding of the Cup as well as defining the responsibilities of both school newspaper staffs.

In compliance with the letter mentioned last week, it was also announced that a small replica of the cup will be awarded to the outstanding player of either team at special halftime ceremonies. In the event that the player cannot accept the cup in person, a representative will be named. As the rules state, the possibility of actually awarding the replica at the game is not always present; therefore, the actual trophy may be used in a symbolic capacity.

The Rules

The tentative rules are as follows:

I. The perpetual trophy
1. The cost of the original trophy shall be shared equally by the Muhlenberg WEEKLY and the GETTYSBURGIAN, undergraduate publications.

2. The publication on whose campus the game is to be played shall bear the cost of the small individual trophy (see section II) as well as the cost of inscription on the perpetual trophy.

II. The individual trophy
1. There shall be a personal cup awarded to the outstanding player of the first half in the annual Muhlenberg - Gettysburg football game. The player need not receive the cup in person at the half time ceremony.

2. A prescribed committee shall be responsible for the selection of the player. The committee shall consist of two (2) representatives of each undergraduate publication and one (1) faculty member, the latter to be decided upon by the home publication.

3. The individual cup shall be presented to the outstanding player as close to the date of contest as possible.

III. Awarding of the perpetual trophy

1. Awarding of this trophy shall be made to the aforementioned player (or representative) at halftime; it shall serve as a symbol

ICL Schedules First Program; Reverend Williams To Speak

Monday, November 1, will mark the opening of the first of three Institute of Christian Living programs to be scheduled during the 1954-55 school year. The Reverend Colin Williams will be the guest speaker at the first session.

Rev. Williams, who hails from Australia, holds an A.B. degree from Melbourne University and a B.D. from Drew University, New Jersey. He is presently completing work for a Ph.D. degree at Drew University.

The thirty-two year old minister of the Methodist Church in South Yarra, Melbourne, is also the secretary of the Victorian Committee of the World Council of Churches and a regular speaker over the Australian Broadcasting System.

Australian Delegate

In 1953 Rev. Williams was one of the main speakers in the Evangelistic "Mission to the Nation," and just before leaving for the United States in May 1954, he completed the special assignment of writing five booklets on the Christian faith, which will be used across Australia as the basic training material in the second phase of the Mission. He was also chosen as the Methodist delegate from Australia to attend the second assembly of the World Council of Churches in Evanston, Ill.

ICL Speaker

On November 1, the Rev. Williams will present his first address in the Muhlenberg Chapel at 11 a.m. At 4 p.m. of the same day there will be an informal seminar discussion in the Student Center lounge. At 7:30 p.m. Rev. Williams will present a lecture in the student center on the subject

Pajama Parade Tops Homecoming

The weekend of November 12 has been selected for Homecoming. The activities will officially begin on Friday night with the traditional freshman pajama parade and pep rally at Allentown's Center Square. A variety of activities are listed for Saturday, including the Muhlenberg-Delaware game.

On Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. the returning alumni, whose class numerals end in zero or five, will meet in the Science Auditorium. Although plans are still in the primary phase, it is probable that the morning will be spent by visiting former professors, classrooms and fraternities. At least 125 people are expected to attend. At 12 a.m., a luncheon is planned at the Commons, preceding the football game.

Mr. Charles Garrettson, '37 is the reunion chairman for this year. A former alumni secretary, he was quite active in the American Alumni Council before leaving Muhlenberg.

Development Meeting

Mr. Harry Oxenreider and Mr. William Nixon, chairman of the development campaign and Director of Development, respectively, will meet with area chairmen and

J. Corgie Leads ICG Delegation To State Capitol

On Sunday, October 17, the executive committee of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government attended the state executive committee meeting at Harrisburg. President James Corgie and Secretary Ed Steiger lead the Muhlenberg delegation which consisted of David Miller, Jon LaFaver and Dick Weidner.

Attending the meeting at the Hotel Harrisburger were the fifty-two member colleges and universities in Pennsylvania. Miss Genevieve Blatt, Executive Director of ICG and candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs on the Democratic ticket in the November elections, conducted the meeting. Miss Blatt announced that the state convention this coming semester will be held as usual in Harrisburg and will run four days. The exact date will be announced in a few weeks. Several changes were made concerning the rules committee and their functions so that the convention will operate more efficiently when it reaches the floor of the assembly. As in the past years each college will be limited to twenty-five members at the state convention in Harrisburg.

Coming Events

Dave Miller, Director of the northeast region in which Muhlenberg, Lafayette, Lehigh, Wilkes, Kutztown, Marywood, Scranton, Kings and Moravian are members, conducted the regional meeting and announced that the above colleges will meet at Lafayette this

MCA Plans Varied Programs For Student Body This Week

by John Adam

Next week the Muhlenberg Christian Association will present one of its heaviest programs of activities to be undertaken in recent years. The opening event in this program will be a continuation of the weekly Vesper Services to be held in the West Hall Auditorium Tuesday at 11 p.m. Bill Quay, president of the junior class, will deliver the address.

Next Wednesday two activities are scheduled. At 6:30 p.m. in the Chapel Lounge the second Bible study meeting of this semester will take place. Dr. Russell Stine, Professor of Philosophy, will open the meeting by directing the group's attention to the significance of the Bible selection to be studied. Bill Sunderland, chairman of this program, has announced that the group will continue to study the book of Ephesians with emphasis on chapter 2:3-12.

Pastor Speaks

Immediately following the Bible study, the Student Volunteer Movement Committee of the MCA, chairmaned by Ed Smith and Carl Schroyer will present the first program of the "Churchmanship" project which this committee has undertaken. The Rev. Arthur Sherman, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Mediator in Allentown will explain his church's doctrinal position as well as the meaning of its liturgy.

This program is the first in a series which will continue throughout the school year. It is a pilot project being performed by the MCA in cooperation with the Student Christian Movement of the Middle Atlantic States. The findings of this committee will be studied by the Executive Committee of the SCM and may form the basis for similar programs to be adopted by the various colleges in the Middle Atlantic States.

The purpose of "Churchmanship" is to encourage students to attend church, to help students learn about other denominations in their midst, and to encourage

Hazel Pays Pre-Coeducational Visit

by Dick Miller

A blustery gal by the name of Hazel paid a pre-coeducation visit to Muhlenberg late last Friday and, apparently disturbed by our lack of co-ed progress, left a path of destruction throughout the 76 acres of the campus.

Things began to happen on Friday at mid-afternoon when an order from Dean Richard's office asked that all personnel living off campus leave immediately. Students and secretaries, somewhat gleeful over the unexpected free time, hurriedly left and soon an anxious air of expectancy settled over the campus.

The full force of the hurricane arrived at 5 p.m., whisking students across the grounds on their way to and from the Commons. While much of Allentown sat in darkness that evening, brightly-lit windows of the campus buildings looked out on a scene of crashing trees, flying shingles, and swirling branches.

Saturday morning could well have set a perfect pattern for any fall day. The debris on campus, however, betrayed the wild wind of the previous night. Branches and several trees were strewn across the lawn and certain residents of "C" Hall awoke to find the upper part of their dorm window missing.

C-R-A-S-H — Nature's work of many decades past was mercilessly destroyed last Friday night as roaring winds raced across campus, felling trees, as the one shown above, and creating a full work schedule for the grounds crew this week.

dents of "C" Hall awoke to find the upper part of their dorm window missing.

The job of cleaning up after an untidy gal began. Mr. John R. McAuley estimated the total damage at $1,000 or $1,500. Missing trees, new bricks, and replaced shingles will weather with the years and be forgotten, but the memory of Hazel's fury will remain with us for some time.

Editorial Views . . .

Let There Be Light . . .

Nearly all the men who participate in the Muhlenberg intramural football program, have had occasion to play under the lights this year. They can tell you of the hazards of the blind spots—particularly dominant on the Memorial Hall side of the field. Another bank of lights here would unquestionably improve the playing conditions several hundred per cent besides providing a greater safety for the players.

Mr. McAuley is still on the war path after paying last term's East Hall repair bill. But maybe he could be prevailed upon to build the lights if he were guaranteed less damage in the dorm this year.

H.E.Z.

The Best Policy . . .

Honesty, honesty, all is pilfering in dorm hall rooms with unlocked doors. Trust no one friend, for a fool and his goods are soon parted—even in a Christian college.

You've been harranged, beleaguered, and beaten in previous semesters about the honor system in the classroom, and the same cowardly minority which killed it then is at work killing respect in the dormitory now. It seems that honest men can't trust that part of their college family which lives across or down the hall.

Some people in this school don't have any respect for property or work which isn't theirs. Academically and intellectually they are dishonest and discovery in dishonesty should mean dismissal from Muhlenberg.

H.E.Z.

Old Tin Cup . . .

Muhlenberg and her keenest rival, Gettysburg, have at last joined the spirited ranks of American Colleges which are rewarding intercollegiate sports achievement by some material symbol—a little brown jug, a hallowed football, or even an old gridiron shoe. The Old Tin Cup has become our symbol of victory—a victory which we expect to be fairly and spiritedly won. All the background lore and symbolism concerning the Cup will be lost unless each team can say after each game that "the best man won."

The editors' goal is increased student enthusiasm and interest in this annual event as well as the incentive for keen sportsmanship on the part of the team. Your campus newspaper, in co-sponsoring this trophy, hopes that the tradition which has been started will grow in value and significance as the years go by.

Injustice?

What would you do if one of your kin was sentenced to death?

This is the problem which faces one of our fellow students, Bill Fatemi. His uncle, former foreign minister of Iran, has been convicted of sedition during Iran's turbulent days in August of 1953. If the facts are printed in such papers as The Plain Dealer of Cleveland, Ohio, are true, we must censure this action.

Policy and space do not permit elaboration; however, Bill will be most willing we know, to talk to you about this misuse of justice. His room: 201 in "B" Hall.

Bulette's Briar Billowing In Smoke-Filled English Office

Looking very much the college English prof, smiling John Bulette prepares to stoke up and impart several words of wisdom (between puffs) to our relaxed reporter. Outcome of the smoky interview follows.

by Joseph Nickischer

I ascended the steps before West Hall on the hot October afternoon, and I wiped the sweat from my brow. I was going to visit the English Department; I had to obtain some information about Instructor John Bulette, a new acquisition to the Muhlenberg College English Department, and I was amicably greeted by "Mr. Sport" of Muhlenberg's correct speakers and correct writers: Ralph Graber.

Mr. Bulette greeted me from his desk, and I returned his felicitation. He told me to pull up a chair; my interviewing of Mr. Bulette had been arranged a week ago.

I sat down next to him at his desk. It seemed to me that he was correcting compositions. Then I remembered that he had said in class that he wouldn't hesitate to give failing theme grades. Mr. Bulette also said that he liked to give passing grades and that he believed in giving "A's". "What would you like to know?" he asked, releasing his concentration from the papers on his desk and looking at me.

"Anything that you would believe to be pertinent for a profile," I said.

Mr. Bulette spoke for a few minutes. He told me that he was born unexpectedly in Los Angeles, Calif., and that his home is in Northern Maryland. He revealed to me that he obtained his A.B. at Amherst and his M.A. at the University of Pennsylvania. He said that he is presently working for his doctor's degree.

"Have you taught before?" I asked, wondering if I could have asked the question with bigger words.

"Yes," he said. "I have taught at the University of Pennsylvania—1946 to 1949, and the University of Delaware—1949 to 1952."

That leaves two unaccounted years, I thought to myself. He can really tear apart a story in class; maybe he worked on a novel during that time.

"Did you teach between '52 and '54?" I asked.

"No," he said, taking his pipe from the top of his desk, "I traveled in Europe and did research work." He lit his pipe and tempted my narcotic appetite.

I lit a cigarette. Then I got to remembering how he injected enthusiasm into one of his lectures.

MULE KICKS

Dear Mule Kicks:

And the prophet Hermakiah spake unto the youth of his people and said: "Go unto the land of your enemies and take the hats that they have woven with the straw of the plains. For it hath been written in the Tribunal by the sages of old that the wise youth will rise up and destroy the works of a godless enemy."

"Remember, that before thou wert born the vengeful hand of the Readingites broke the trumpets thy people used to sound the glories of thy land. God will assuredly pour forth his wrath upon them when next we meet them in battle upon the hardwood floor amidst the netted baskets."

And the eager youth did as the prophet Hermakiah instructed and went across the grassy plain to the land of their enemies. And they took the hats of the godless enemy. But, woe unto any of that enemy that lifted a hand against the god-

by Don Reilly

THE PHANTOM . . . A campus mystery was cleared up the other day by a little conversation with FRED GROSSE, of band fame. I have often wondered who takes out-of-date notices down from the bulletin boards around campus. I wonder no longer. It turns out that FRED is the guy that gumshoes around and does the thumb tack pulling. This is a scoop if ever there was one.

He says that he works most effectively after midnight. Actually this whole business is quite an amazing thing when you think about it. I mean, how does a person acquire this odd quirk of conscience that makes him feel that it is his duty to keep the bulletin board clean on ancient notices? It's a sort of not-so-magnificent obsession. For this great work, he definitely deserves a niche in the unsung heroes hall of fame along with the legions of picture-straighteners and "Kilroy was here" writers.

Two issues ago, the WEEKLY ran a story about a series of forthcoming organ recitals designed to help students "meditate." Since this announcement, I've been meaning to bounce over to the chapel some evening and catch this contemplative bit. It must be a pretty inspiring sight . . . some cat perspiring away at the console while his classmates sit with head in hands . . . mulling things over . . . thinking things like . . . "Wow! this guy sure could use a few more organ lessons."

TOPIC OF THE WEEK . . . HURRICANE HAZEL

Last Friday night, RAY KLEIN and his roommates, JIM STRINE and TOM ZAHN were trying to study, but the sound of high-velocity winds and the fascinating sight of trees blowing over proved to be more of an attraction than book-hitting.

The trio hit upon a brilliant idea. They decided to volunteer their services as auxiliary policemen. They buzzed downtown to police headquarters and were duly sworn in as guardians of the public weal. Unfortunately, the organization was fresh out of helmets and arm bands. This was a great disappointment, but they decided to go through with it anyway.

They got their assignment at headquarters and dashed off to guard a store that had recently parted company with its display window. After beating off would-be looters for a while, they were relieved and they scooted back to headquarters for re-assignment.

While waiting around at headquarters, they had a chance to catch the act of some gung-ho auxiliary police who had waited years for a chance to wear their cover-alls, spats, armbands and helmets. KLEIN tells of one official looking character who kept working the grim-faced Dragnet bit with phrases like . . . "I just heard from the airport. The hurricane is in Williamsport . . . BUT IT MAY DOUBLE BACK!" DUM-DA-DUM DUM.

A call came in that a wire was down at 19th and Highland Streets. With a roll of drums and a flourish of trumpets, it's KLEIN, STRINE AND ZAHN, HURRICANE-BREAKERS INC. to the rescue! After fending off disaster and saving a few lives, KLEIN and ZAHN whipped back to headquarters, leaving the future of the neighborhood in the capable hands of JIM "EAGLE SCOUT" STRINE.

Well, finally the hurricane petered out. Suddenly KLEIN and ZAHN remembered that STRINE was still out at Highland street. They drove out and sure enough, there he was, wearily directing traffic.

The boys were heartily commended by the brass hats for their fine work and they went home, tired but secure in the knowledge that they helped save the city of Allentown from blowing out to sea just by standing around helping to weight down the pavement.

Our ATO correspondent tells us that there is much carrying-on over there because DICK STRYKER has given up his cherished D.A. haircut and is now a member of the crewcut cult. Says our spy, "Man, it's the coolest! For the first time in years, you can see his ears."

DAVE MILLER did some tall talking the other night in the midst of the hurricane as he was trying to convince a doting mother that she should permit her daughter to go out with him. "The storm is almost over" says young DAVE. "It's past its height," he adds.

Just as he had her about convinced, the roof started blowing off, the television antenna took off with a snap, two or three trees blew down, and an ambulance flew by with siren wailing. This made for a pretty funny situation, but the funniest part is that the mother released her child into the jaws of the storm, and, what is worse, into custody of DAVE.

ATTENTION EAST HALL RESIDENTS: We wish to clean up the mystery of last Sunday when HOWIE FRANK appeared in the quadrangle with two flesh and blood girls (impossible though it may seem). Their names were PHYLLIS LAX and ANNETTE BENBASSET. In keeping with the back-stabbing policy of this column, we would gladly print their addresses, but HOWIE, being a rat, would not permit it.

"DON'T HE PLAY ANYTHING BUT DUETS?"

The Dean's Door . . .

In some ways going to college is like holding down a job. Perhaps the most apparent aspect of any job is that it requires punctual and regular attendance upon the duties of the job. Of course, this is also true of class attendance. Every job calls upon the efforts, resourcefulness and the intellect of the man engaged in it. To a greater extent than in many ordinary occupations, the job of getting an education—of absorbing instruction, of preparing assignments and of integrating one's self into the school life—requires intelligence, effort and the resourceful application of one's talents. This is the challenge of the college life. In much the same manner as the miler plans for and then drives himself to lower his time for the measured mile, so the college student is constantly engaged in planning for greater achievement and in disciplining himself towards greater accomplishments.

Every job imposes responsibilities upon the job-holder. The college life also imposes responsibilities upon the student. Among these are the preparation of the day to day assignments and a growing regard for the rights of others.

Finally, even the most menial job provides its rewards. The college life is richly rewarding to the man who avails himself fully of its potentialities. It gives him lifelong friendships, it gives him intellectual and spiritual stimulus and satisfactions, and finally, it provides him with a basis of understanding and the adjustment to the world in which he must move and make his career.

In other words, college is a kind of practice session in which the student calls forth his best abilities, testing and improving them constantly so that when that career is finally launched, its chances for success may be enhanced by these preliminary efforts. Every team knows that if it is to succeed it must play just a share in the practice sessions as it does in the game. College is your practice session. Give it your best. You will be glad later on that you did.

"Alas, The Mermaid Is Dead" Cries Mourner; An Allegory

by Comely Rew

A certain lady, late resident of our fair habitation, has died. The cause of this being suffocation.

This young lady had that certain gift, to incite fervent love or bitter hate in those aware of her . . . and her death, its cause, was of these two contending factions. Here came two people . . . of differing temper concerning her demise.

ENTER EAGER:

"Wail, wail, the lady is dead. I killed her. Such a joy she was, so gay and free, full of frolic, a fair companion for a few hours. And I've done her in with my own hands . . . killed the wretch, and driven from me joy and hope, and left but gloom and misery. Lament! Mourn her passing, citizens! Take up the cry! Curse me for my weakness; hear my tale and curse me. On her I lavished much affection, great consideration; but, alas, she was disapproved by sterner heads, and because of this, needing all to love her, began to wane and fail. Her admirers fell away like leaves from a young tree falling, in the declining temperature of ill repute. Alas, my intemperate temper, I tried to fight the elements, and, forgetting Spring would come again with new understanding to blossom her forth in fairer raiment than before, I tried to make her be the thing she was in Summer. But, woe, her constitution failed. She is dead. Grieve my loss." (collapses)

ENTER CAUTION:

"Hail, hail, the whore is dead. I killed her. This insidious imitation, this caricature, I've done in with my own hand. This defiler of virtue and morality, this tempter of conscience that would set our youth into decadence, depriving them of their reason, opening doors to temptation unfit for unskilled minds. They are too weak; it was my place to blot this menace. Listen . . . here's the conquest:

"This courtesan, pagan bitch, appeared one day and, the little ones, intrigued, fast took her up, dressed her in fine clothes and, most uncaring for deceit, gave her the name of Respectability. At first, with liberality of view and indulgent of youth's triviality, we chose to ignore this deviation as only fancy. But soon, to our disgrace, the hussy did implant such thoughts in tender minds that they became defiant in the somber glory of our communality. Our calmer dignity replaced our laxness and showed the folly of experiment. Justice, stern and swift, was then our weapon, and with stiff recourse did stir our ancient soul; a dictum from the past would crush her threat. We chastened erring EAGER, fearing well the fire of passion; but with zeal we sought this creature out who would destroy our firm foundation, our sober dignity, and with righteous hand upraised, destroyed the leech." (dignified rejoicing; exit caution.)

ENTER CHORUS:

"Listen to the fools, vain dolts. Their braying drowns out the cause of Calmness and her sister Moderation. They weep, and each shout to his inclination, heeding not the other in sureness of their cause: Rash Youth—too prone to thrash about in unmannerly delight; Staid Age—constricted with much doctrine. Open your eyes, both of you, and recognize the other in his virtue and his fault. Age, be seasoned by the enthusiasm of your issue; recognize his search for manhood; offer leadership. Youth, be advised by your elders' (Continued on Page Six)

by Byard Ebling

The Greek Way will feature a series of articles designed to inform the independents and other fraternity men of some historical material of each house. Two fraternities will be presented each week for three weeks.

Alpha Tau Omega

The officers of Alpha Tau Omega are: Worthy Master, Jack Geisinger; Worthy Chaplain, James Heller; Worthy Keeper of Exchequer, Byard Ebling; Worthy Keeper of the Annals, Ronald Schlittler; Worthy Scribe, Lee Angstadt; Worthy Usher, Hans Peckmann; and Worthy Sentinel, Richard Williams.

Alpha Tau Omega was founded at Richmond, Virginia on September 11, 1865. The Muhlenberg Chapter was started by N. Willy Thomas and chartered as the Alpha Iota Chapter on October 14, 1881.

Alpha Tau Omega was the first social fraternity on Muhlenberg Campus. It has had continuous existence since it was chartered in 1881. In 1924 the alumni organization of the local chapter built the present ATO house at 23rd and Chew Streets. There are twenty-six brothers who now reside and board in the house.

Alpha Iota is proud of its fine alumnae body which is especially strong in the Allentown area and which has maintained an active interest in the chapter.

Not only are brothers well represented on the varsity teams of the college, but they are also found to be leaders in many of the student organizations.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity was founded at Boston University November 2, 1909, and is now the largest social fraternity in the country with 146 active chapters.

Nu Epsilon Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha was installed at Muhlenberg in September 1940, as a result of the merging of Theta Kappa Nu Fraternity with Lambda Chi Alpha. The fraternity also absorbed Delta Theta, a local fraternity, and the Philos club, both of which had been active on campus for many years.

Lambda Chi took possession of its present house at 407 North 23rd St. in January of 1941. The house was used as an infirmary by the Navy during the Second World War, and was returned to Lambda Chi in July of 1946. Since that time continual improvements throughout the house have been made until an adequate, comfortable house now exists which houses nineteen brothers easily. The commissary with its cook, serves three meals daily to the 24 brothers and pledges during a five day week.

Since its establishment at Muhlenberg, Nu Epsilon Zeta has initiated 445 men. For the Fall semester of last year Nu Epsilon maintained the highest scholastic average on campus, and the fraternity football team won the Intramural football trophy for the 1953 season.

. . . Student Council Report . . .

Student Council submits the following report of its regular meeting October 14, 1954, and its activities for the two preceding weeks. All members were present.

Communications were received from Mr. Bruce Romig and Dean Janet Stamm of Cedar Crest College.

The Senior Class was allocated $625 from the Social Fund for the December formal.

Allocations for the various organizations will be made at tonight's session.

Because of the lack of time (two months for preparation) the Program Committee of Cedar Crest College decided that a combined talent show between Muhlenberg and Cedar Crest was not feasible. Also no other combined programs were definitely scheduled. Perhaps second semester activities can yet be arranged, if they desire.

Informally, the Council suggests that all campus organizations holding meetings on ICL days would postpone them. November 1 to 3 is the first ICL period.

An assembly program is scheduled for January 13, 1955 and possibly one for November 18th.

Recent visits to East Hall by the Grounds Committee have produced a favorable reaction. Council reminds residents to maintain their high living standards.

A sum of money up to $225 has been allocated by Student Council to transform the Christian Association room into a faculty lounge and meeting room for student organizations. The Christian Association has pledged a similar amount for redecoration.

Decorum in the 11 o'clock chapel service has not been good. Council is considering revoking credit for the October 18 service. If this is done, a notice of explanation will be posted.

The "M" Club has requested that the Alpha Lambda Omega club room be given to them. Paul Spohn is contacting commuters in an effort to regain interest in this commuter's society. Council hopes to see this group reactivated but as of now considers the more active "M" Club entitled to the room. Commuters—please see Spohn at your earliest convenience.

The freshman received by Student Council was ordered to carry out a sentence. Infractions of rules makes such action necessary.

The Lehigh-Muhlenberg Peace Pact has been ratified and a copy is posted.

A Bon-fire Pep Rally is scheduled for the night before Delaware game. Cal Colarusso and Wally Loy are in charge.

QUENCH THIRST FOR VICTORY WITH "OLD TIN CUP"

Bergmen Cross Country To Distance Lafayette Runners

On Tuesday, October 26, Muhlenberg's cross-country team will travel to Lafayette in an attempt to duplicate the girders' upset victory over the Leopards. A win for the Bergmen, which would make the Lafayette series record 2-0, would be a great impetus toward winning the majority of the total of twelve intercollegiate meetings with Lafayette during the school year.

The last victory at the expense of the Easton boys was a 29-27 win in 1952. Last year, these two teams met in a tri-meet with Gettysburg. Lafayette beat the Mules in this meet, 45-17, while the Bullets were last with 8.

Mules Ready for Leopards

Although Coach Harold Parker will have his boys primed for the meet, he is not over optimistic about the chances of the team because of the lack of veteran runners and because of several cases of digestive disorder of last week. Nevertheless, Coach Parker himself is a veteran of many track and cross-country encounters and is well equipped to handle the distance runners.

The local collegians will rely heavily upon the legs of Ed Druckenmiller, John Keyser, Wally Loy and Carson Schneck. Not much is known about the rivals except that they are not easy contenders.

Freshmen Tackle Perkiomen Gridmen

On October 23, the Mule frosh gridmen will be seeking their first win after losing to Lafayette last week. The freshman will travel to the Perkiomen Prep School.

The Perks have played two games this season. They dropped their first combat to an undefeated Penn Charter team of Philadelphia, 32-12, and lost their second to Admiral Farragut, 20-6.

LaSalle Soccermen Shut Out Mules, 2-0

Soccer coach, Bud Nevins, shuffled his lineup in vain yesterday as LaSalle's Explorers booted the Mules into their fourth straight defeat, 2-0, at Philadelphia. The Blue and Gold tallied in the first period on a penalty shot, and scored again in the second frame.

Linemen Shuffled

Outside left George Lea stepped into the inside left slot in an effort to bolster the weak Mule offense. Meanwhile, Berg's defense played a heads up game to stop further scoring by the opposition.

Explorer goalie, Dan Anniuk, played a great game, making fabulous saves and blocks of potential goals. He successfully stopped the Mules' big opportunity to cut the ice by blocking a penalty kick.

Soccermen Bow To Ursinus, 2-0

In a game played Saturday at Collegeville, Pa., Muhlenberg's soccer team was handed its third straight loss of the season by a fair Ursinus team, 2-0.

Ursinus scored both goals in the second quarter; the last one was scored on a penalty kick.

In an effort to put a scoring punch in the Mules' line-up, Coach Bud Nevins moved center Ken Reinhart to inside right. The surprise strategy of the last quarter was the switching of George Lea from outside left position to the inside slot. Neither change helped the soccermen in their futile attempt for a win.

claims his team is green and says he is "building from scratch as there are no returning lettermen."

Soccermen Try To Break F&M Jinx Saturday

Muhlenberg's soccer squad will have an added incentive towards victory when they meet Franklin and Marshall away Saturday. The Mules have never defeated F. and M. in soccer competition.

Franklin and Marshall, with seven sophomores on their squad, dropped their first two contests to LaSalle and Lafayette by scores of 2-0 and 4-2, respectively. However, the Diplomats rebounded to defeat the same Delaware team that drubbed the Mules by a 4-0 count.

In last year's game, F. and M. triumphed, 3-1. This fall Coach Bob Smith indicated that his team, led by Bob Parker and Vern Ringler, is developing into a very promising squad. He was also elated because they will play the Mules on the Blue and White's soil. The Mules seem to have a good chance of breaking into the win column after defeats at the hands of Swarthmore and Delaware, if they can offset the hustle of an inexperienced F. and M. team.

Gridders Grab Whole Bologna, Ground Low-Flying Dutchmen At Lebanon, 32-0

The Mules were able to eat the whole bologna last Saturday afternoon in the Lebanon High School Stadium. The Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley College were grounded by the hard-hitting Muhlenberg eleven, 32-0, in the 4th Annual Lebanon Kiwanis Bologna Bowl Game before a small crowd of 1,500 fans.

Fencers Begin Work In Early November

Following its initial introduction to the campus last year, the Muhlenberg fencing team will initiate practice sessions early in November. Dr. Andrew Erskine will again instruct the foilers in the proper approach and thrust method.

The Athletic Department is presently attempting to arrange a schedule for the fencers which will possibly include six matches. George Goldenbaum, Bill Wormley, Dick Shurilla, Al Adams, Zandy Adelson, Jake Huegel, Dave Washabaugh, Jack Hopper, Marshall Reber and Carl Schimmel are expected to return.

Mules Gun For Gettysburg Bullets On Battlefield; Seek Third Straight Kill

by Bob Olesky

The Mules after winning two consecutive weekends will be gunning for their third win against two setbacks when they journey to face the Bullets of Gettysburg this Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p.m.

So far this season Berg has scored a total of 79 points while having only 45 scored against them. In their last two outings the Mules shut out their opponents.

17, 18, 19, We Want More!

Lebanon Valley halfback Jim Stanfield (50) flops all his 195 pounds on halfback Frank Lerro (on bottom), but is too late to prevent him from scoring Berg's third TD of the game. The tally boosted the Mule halftime lead to 19-0.

This week's game will be an important one for both teams. The Bullets will be trying to even up their record for the season while Berg will be trying to break ahead in the win column. Last year the Mules lost a tough one to the Bullets in a closely contested game, 20-19.

Bullet Offensive Power

Gettysburg's offensive power lies in the names of Little All-American Frank Gagliardi. Last year Gagliardi passed for 18 touchdowns and came within one of tying the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association record, set by Columbia's Governali. Only a junior, Gagliardi has two more seasons to go after the mark. Another Bullet the Mules will remember from last year is Bob Epplenman. Epplenman carried the ball 10 times for a total of 100 yards. Al Ouka, a transfer from Kansas State, and Bob Paliszewski fill in the other back field spots. On the line the veterans from past years are tackles Frank Eckert and Hart Beaver. Beck, Yingst, Weitzel, Lewandowski, and Alleva add to the Bullets strength.

Old Tin Cup Goes To Victor

Muhlenberg and Gettysburg will be battling for the "Old Tin Cup" trophy which was recently uncovered and restored through the efforts of the staffs of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY and the GETTYSBURGIAN. The trophy will be presented to the winner during a suitable game-time program and will be retained by that school until next year.

The idea for this trophy stems from a noble tradition which has been lost in the archives of M-berg and G-burg for the last four decades. The story concerns two brothers, a poor farmer and the old tin cup. The original purpose of this perpetual trophy was to increase the friendly competition in the annual Gettysburg-Muhlenberg football game. For further details see story on page one.

F. & M. Speedsters Outrace Berg, 49-15

Muhlenberg's cross country team was humbled in its opening meet by Franklin & Marshall, 49-15, yesterday afternoon at Cedar Park. The Blue and White harriers grabbed the first six qualifying places to clinch the win with times ranging from 26 minutes to 27:40. In cross country lowest score wins.

Loy First For Mules

Wally Loy's last minute burst of speed fell short of catching the sixth of F. & M.'s runners. Sneaker-clad Ron Treichler was second of the Mule qualifiers to finish. Ed Druckenmiller, Harry Otto, Bob Andrews, Dick Johnston and John Keyser also ran for the Mules.

Bill Kile Runs 24:30

Fastest time of the year for the course was run by Mule frosh Bill Kile, who led the race nearly all the way, but was ineligible to score. Kile ran a steady 24:30 on the soggy course.

Lafayette Conversions Edge Freshmen Gridiron Team, 14-12

The Lafayette freshman football team edged the Muhlenberg Frosh, 14-12, at Muhlenberg Field last Thursday afternoon. The two extra points kicked by Tom Hourlihan of Lafayette were the difference between a tie and a loss for the Mules.

Lafayette scored in the first period on a 70 yard run by Hourlihan from the line of scrimmage. Muhlenberg bounced back with Ernie Jackson's 80 yard return of the kickoff. A key block by Bob Fried, who played a stellar game on defense all day, helped set up the touchdown.

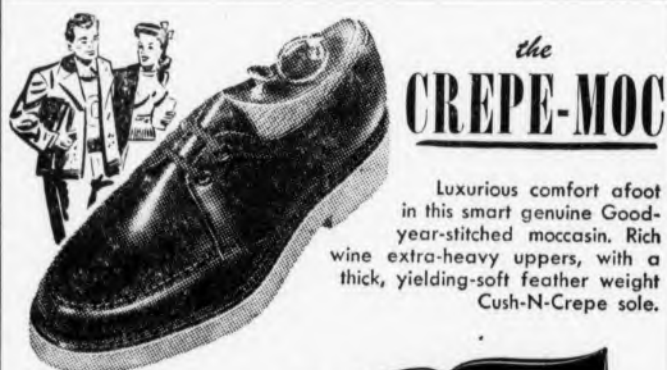

The Leopards tallied again with 4 minutes remaining in the first half as William Jackson ran around end for 40 yards and the score. It looked like McCutcheon would duplicate Jackson's feat as he took the kickoff and raced for the sideline, but he was caught from behind at the 7 yard line.

The gun for the half sounded with Berg on the 2 yard line trying vainly for a TD.

Last Half

In the third quarter Muhlenberg controlled the ball but was unable to score until Don Herman blocked a Lafayette punt and Berg recovered on the Lafayette 25. After a series of line thrusts, McCutcheon took it over from the 2. The point try was stopped as McCutcheon tried to run it over.

There was no further scoring in the game and the fourth quarter saw the Junior Mules trying vainly for the winning touchdown.

Minus Three Starters, Basketball Team Faces Rebuilding Job With J. Birney Crum

Minus the services of three starters, Muhlenberg's basketball team faces a rebuilding job this year. The Mules will start practice on November 1 with new coach J. Birney Crum at the helm.

Of the sixteen returning men only nine played varsity ball last year. The returning lettermen are Jerry Neville, Vince Osadchy, Don Kurz and Dennis Roth. Neville is the only senior on the squad; he has a lot of experience and is a good ball player. Osadchy has a good two handed shot and is a hustler. Kurz led the team in rebounding last year when he was a freshman; he also has a good hookshot. Dennis Roth is a big sophomore with a lot of fight and is an exceptional rebounder.

Two Juniors, Ten Sophs

Dick Sherry and Al Booth are very good shots. Booth makes up for his smallness in stature by being a good ballhandler and playmaker. Because of a broken ankle obtained early last year Bill Smith didn't see too much action, but he will be out fighting this year with his deadly one handed push shot. Carty Gemma played varsity ball when he was a freshman in 1952, but he was drafted into the Army where he also played basketball. Gemma is a strong defensive player and a versatile ball handler. Bob Gall, Jim Powell and Dell Park are all good playmakers. Don Bright, Dell Park and Dick Leber played junior varsity ball last year.

Freshmen Start Court Practice

On Monday afternoon at four o'clock, Assistant Basketball Coach Richard Schmidt will meet all freshman candidates in Memorial Hall.

Perhaps you have seen this notice posted around the campus and wondered why Muhlenberg is permitted to screen freshman basketballers in October. The varsity candidates are not permitted to practice until the first day in November. This is explained by George Lawson, Director of Athletics at Muhlenberg, in the following manner:

"The Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, which is the governing athletic body in the east, has a ruling which states that 'freshman candidates may be screened five days before November 1.' This ruling does not, however, permit freshmen to play on the varsity."

All freshman prospects are invited and encouraged to attend the practice session this Monday afternoon. A large group of men is expected to turn out for this warming-up period. All men will be given an opportunity to show their ability in fundamental drills and simple plays in an effort to screen everyone.

Wins Bologna

Jay Mount, a freshman who spots at the Muhlenberg football games, was the holder of a lucky number last Saturday at the Kiwanis Bologna Bowl game. Jay was working in the press box when he won the prize—a five pound Lebanon bologna.

MYTHICAL SIX-BITS

by Moose Arnold

Bucknell's "thundering herd" scored its fourth straight win by trampling an injury-riddled Temple team, 27-0 . . . the Owls' total offense for the entire game netted only 50 yards against the hard charging Bisons . . . Admiral Davey Nelson's Delaware Blue Hens kept pace with the Bisons by scoring their fourth straight victory at the expense of the University of New Hampshire, 19-13 . . . Jim Flynn scored twice on runs of 77 and 22 yards to spark the Hens . . . Lehigh playing before a large Parents Day crowd scored its initial triumph of the season by upsetting a fumbling Gettysburg eleven, 20-6 . . . Bob Caraschillo scored all three TD's to pace the Engineers . . . Albright went down to its third scoreless defeat, bowing before undefeated Alfred, 12-0 . . . the Lions only scores of the season have come against the Mules . . . Lafayette got back to winning ways by drubbing an inferior Buffalo team, 26-0 in the rain and mud . . . Franklin and Marshall remained undefeated by edging scrappy Drexel Tech, 12-7 . . . the Dips all-round back, John Tullai was injured in the second period and sat out the rest of the game.

Mules Feast On Bologna

The Mules finally scored a bowl win Saturday up in Lebanon . . . the Dutchmen could very easily go through the entire season without scoring a point . . . their offense is badly lacking a scoring punch . . . Mac finally got loose to do some snappy running . . . once past the line, Mac is a threat to go all the way every time . . . Tom Naratil made some clean tackles during the game from his line-backing position . . . Bob Gimble made some nice catches in the second half and also played well on defense . . . Lee Hoffman turned in another good performance at end . . . Ralph DeStefano started for the first time this season and played well . . . Stan Vnuk stacked up well in the middle of the line . . . Paul Billy turned in another dependable game from his guard position . . . Bench because of injuries, Ascione and Fetherolf were the only Mules who failed to see action on Saturday . . . they both should be ready for the G'burg game . . . Tony Frey and Bob Morris played a good part of the game against the Dutchman. The forward wall again played well as they limited Lebanon Valley to a net yardage of minus 20.

Mules and Bullets Highlight Middle Six

In next Saturday's action, Lafayette journeys to Lewisburg to become Bucknell's fifth victim of the season . . . the Leopards may make it close though . . . Delaware should also remain unbeaten by taking Connecticut in another close game . . . Rutgers furnishes the opposition to Lehigh . . . the Scarlet, winless in four starts, play in a much tougher league than the Engineers, and should pick up their first win . . . Franklin and Marshall should remain undefeated, edging Albright . . . Lebanon Valley travels to Bethlehem to face the Moravian Greyhounds and will absorb another loss . . . the big game will involve our own Mules against Gettysburg . . . the Bullets no longer possess that outside running strength they had last year with Joe Ujohal, and as a result will have to depend a lot on the passing of Frank Gagliardi . . . however, the Mules will be geared sufficiently enough to stop the Orange and Blue offense and it should be our third straight win . . . maybe 19-14 (predictions so far have been 9 out of 9).

I-M CORNER

Lambda Chi won its fourth straight game Tuesday by walloping the winless RDD's, 41-0. Wally Loy and Bill Price scored twice for the defending champs, while Bill Kynett and Bill Ingam racked up a marker apiece in the rout.

Phi Kappa Tau went on to its third straight win under the lights Tuesday night. They kept their unscored upon record intact by trouncing the hapless Wild Ones, 28-0. The scoring came on an interception by Evie Richards, who ran back for a TD, and three long runs by QB Bob Fritsch. A safety was attributed to Stan Heim, who led the hard charging line throughout the game.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, bounced back from their defeat by the Mules by beating the Sinners, 26-0, and coming out on top in thriller with a tough GDI squad, 13-0.

Phi Ep, GDI's Win

Yesterday afternoon, Mark Strousburg, wearing a big number 00 on his jersey, led Phi Ep to its first win of the campaign, a 30-6 decision over the last place RDD's.

Under the arcs last night, the GDI's turned a 12-7 halftime deficit into a 20-12 victory over Phi Sig. Don Sheasely scored two touchdowns to pace the C-Hall tribe, Don Tihansky accounting for the other. Teammates Parshall and Boyle accounted for Phi Sig's scoring.

Lambda Chi now leads the league with a perfect 4-0 record. Phi Tau and ATO are in hot pursuit, both with a 3-0. The deciding games between these three teams will come up during the next two weeks but until then, observers can only guess which of the three will remain undefeated.

Standings:

Sigma Phi Epsilon	2	1	0

period. Later Frank Lerro plunged into the end zone after a Berg drive of 54 yards to the Lebanon Valley 7-yard line.

Lebanon Valley's weakness was evident from the opening kickoff; the low-flying Dutchmen fumbled nine times and gave ground to Muhlenberg's rushing. The Mules gained 212 yards on the water-soaked Lebanon field. Lebanon Valley field a team which lacked experience—twenty-two men were freshmen.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

All candidates for the freshman basketball team please report to Memorial Hall, Monday, October 25, 1954 at 4 p.m. J. Birney Crum Basketball Coach

In The Spotlight . . . Active Berg Runner

Wally Loy, one of Berg's most active men, is ranked as one of the better returnees on this year's cross country team. Injured for most of the training season with a sore knee, he has just begun conditioning this week.

A product of Palmyra, Pa., Wally has become one of the leading members of his class. His three most important positions are president of the senior class, president of ODK, and Student Council Representative. However, his activities do not end there. The bespectacled senior is vice-president of Lambda Chi Alpha Social Fraternity, and a member of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

All of these duties are sandwiched between physics labs and proctoring at West Hall. As senior prexy, Loy is also temporary president of the freshman class.

Wally's schedule allows little time for all his activities. But even with the time-consuming combination of physics and activities, he manages to keep his grades high enough for the dean's list. He hopes to become a physicist after he graduates from Berg.

Sports Page Feature

Although he qualifies well in many fields of endeavor, Wally belongs on the sports page. He was last year's leading scorer in the I-M football loop. He was a member of the track team during his freshman and sophomore years, but has proved himself more valuable to the cross country team.

Wally regards the frosh team very highly, predicting a better varsity squad for '55.

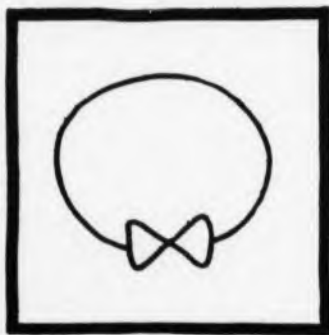

'50 Frosh Win All

Muhlenberg's last freshman football team recorded a perfect season in 1950 when J. Louis Cardinal was the head coach. With such former Cardinal and Grey stars as Frank Duffy, Paul Miller, Collins Haines, Larry Dotter, Joe Trechak, Jim Skidmore, Ernie Scarpa, George Segelbacher and Dick Tredinnick, the frosh of that year defeated Lafayette (19-14), Lehigh (20-7), Gettysburg (26-9), and Delaware (9-7).

George Lawson, Director of Athletics, has announced that tickets for the Gettysburg game are on sale in Memorial Hall. Student general admission tickets will not be sold at the game. Tickets must be purchased no later than tomorrow, 4 p.m.

2. At the close of each game, the trophy shall remain with the winning team.

a. In the event that his team is victorious, the player shall present the perpetual trophy to his school at the close of the game.

b. In the event that his team is defeated, the player shall forfeit the perpetual trophy to the opponents at the close of the game.

IV. Ties

1. When a game results in a tie, the trophy shall be held for the following periods:

a. From the date of the football game in case until the date of the final basketball game of that term between the two schools.

b. From the date of the aforementioned basketball game to the date of the next football game between the two schools.

2. Presentation for the first period (1-a) shall be made to the school who did not win the trophy the previous year.

V. Retirement and changes in ruling

1. Retirement of the perpetual trophy shall be by mutual consent of the representatives of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY and the GETTYSBURGIAN.

2. Changes in these rulings when deemed feasible, shall be by mutual consent of the two undergraduate staffs.

Representatives of the two papers will meet on the Gettysburg campus on Saturday morning to complete plans for this year's ceremonies. As stated in the regulations, Gettysburg has assumed responsibility for the halftime festivities this year.

Film Series

Sunday, October 25, to discuss strategy. The ICG chapter at Muhlenberg will hold weekly meetings every Wednesday night at 7 p.m. in room 309 in the Administration Building. The Muhlenberg membership is limited to thirty-five men and it was decided at the last meeting that because of the waiting list of lower classmen to be received into the organization that members who miss three consecutive meetings will be dropped immediately in order to reduce the waiting list and the inactive membership. President James Corgee appointed Jon Lafaver as editor of the Muhlenberg College edition of the ICG newsletter which is distributed to all the colleges in the northeast region. At the last meeting Ken Gravatte and Richard Grimm were accepted into active membership.

take place. All Freshmen will be required to attend the service. Dean Richards will speak at this service which is scheduled for 10:30 a.m.

Prior to the Matriculation Service, the parents of each man will be given an opportunity to meet with those members of the faculty who are responsible for the guidance and education of their sons.

Immediately following the service there will be a buffet luncheon in the college commons and all parents have been contacted to fill out a form for reservations.

At 1:30 Muhlenberg's football team will play host to Delaware University in a game at Muhlenberg Field. Tickets for parents can be secured by students for $1.25 from October 21 to October 29. These seats are in the student section and can be purchased at the Athletic office upon presentation of an activities card.

Following the game there will be a President's Reception in the commons. Dr. J. Conrad Seegers will be present to meet all the parents and to extend the good wishes of Muhlenberg College.

Chrysanthemum corsages with cardinal and grey streamers can be ordered through H. A. Benfer for $1 each. These orders may be placed any day between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. in his office.

students to witness for Christ on the college campus.

On Thursday at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium the Religious Action Commission of MCA will present an assembly in the form of a panel discussion. Jim Corgee, chairman of this commission, will moderate the program. He has announced that two faculty men and two students will participate. Pro and con viewpoints will be given with a student and faculty man taking each side. An opportunity to question the panel will be given to the audience following their presentation.

At 7 p.m. that evening in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel the MCA's program will come to an end when an organ recital will be given by Richard Miller. This program is a continuation of the weekly series which began early this month.

Every member of the Muhlenberg community has been requested to support this series of events which the MCA has undertaken in an effort to provide more fields of interest for the students.

The Chowline

Mr. Holmes, manager of the Commons under the Slater System, played quite a bit of soccer back in his younger days in England. He maintains enough interest in the sport to take time to watch Bud Nevins' boys boot the sphere around both in practice and in games. His personal observations are that the Bergmen don't play enough of a passing game "and when they do try to pass off," he says, "it's usually directly forward rather than backward to an open halfback who has the option of passing immediately or 'carrying' till the forward offensive is set."

Whichever way you look at a soccer game, there are always plenty of thrills and good plays to give you 88 minutes of pleasure.

Speaking of pleasure don't miss the Gettysburg - Muhlenberg "Old Tin Cup" game. It promises to be a real thriller like last year's 20-19 affair where the winning "Grind up the G-burgers" homecoming float almost proved true.

Those cheeseburgers and hamburgers at the snack bar hit the spot on those windy hurricane days while the commons crew efficiently warms the hungry stomachs of the herd of men who daily pass its doors.

Flash! As the Chowline goes to press we hear rumors that the freshman bonfire rally next week will come off as scheduled with the frosh guarding the wood pile.

Graduate Exams Given In Future

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, required for entrance by a number of graduate business schools or divisions throughout the country, will be offered twice during the coming year, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test. During 1954, many students took the test in partial satisfaction of admission requirements of graduate business schools which prescribed it.

A candidate must make separate application for admission to each business school of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business and when. Since many business schools select their entering classes in the spring preceding their entrance, candidates for admission to the 1955 classes are advised to offer the February test, if possible.

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business is not designed to test specific knowledge in specialized academic subjects. Normal undergraduate training should provide sufficient general knowledge to answer the test questions. Sample questions and information regarding registration for and administration of the test are given in a Bulletin of Information.

The tests will be administered on February 3, 1955 and May 14, 1955. Applications and fees must be filed with the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey, at least two weeks before the testing date in order to allow for completion of arrangements.

of "The Christian Witness in a Divided World." A discussion period will follow the lecture.

The informal afternoon discussion period enables the student to raise questions or make any general comments concerning the speaker's morning address.

On Tuesday, November 2, Rev. Williams will present his second address in the Chapel at 11 a.m. At 2:30 p.m. of that day there will be a seminar meeting for the faculty in the conference room of the Administration Building. The faculty is strongly urged to attend this meeting.

Seminar Discussion

At 4 p.m. the regular informal seminar discussion for the students will be held in the Student Center. The topic for the evening lecture at 7:30 p.m. is, "The Christian Witness to Divided Man."

On November 3, Rev. Williams will present his third and final Chapel address of the week at 11 a.m. A seminar discussion will be held at 4 p.m. in the Student center. The final evening lecture at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center will deal with the subject, "The Christian Witness in the University." This then, will mark the close of the first ICL program to be held this year.

The dates of the remaining two Institute of Christian Living programs are February 14-17, with Professor George Forell of the University of Iowa, as guest speaker, and on April 18-20, the guest speaker will be Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, Emeritus Professor of Geology, Harvard University.

The regular twenty minute Chapel services will be held on each of the dates set aside for ICL week.

how he spoke of a case of panic—a case of panic that correlated with an English 2 discussion of the panic of "the Swede" in Stephen Crane's The Blue Hotel—that materialized over a dead body lying in the streets of London in World War Two.

"You were in Europe during the war, weren't you? I asked.

"Yes," he said, puffing on his pipe. "I was Captain of a Quartermaster Truck Company from August of 1941 to February of 1946. I served in that capacity for two years in Europe."

We gradually fell into a discussion of English 2. Mr. Bulette is my instructor for this course, and I asked him about the values of this course. Gradually I began to exhaust all of his free time.

"I'd like to ask you this one question Mr. Bulette," I said. "What do you think that a good teacher must have?"

"Well," he said as he placed his pipe on his desk, "a good teacher must be able to teach. He must be able to bring to the classroom a real connection of the values of his subject and he must be able to impart some enthusiasm to his students. At the same time, he must leave his own enthusiasm with a sense of humor and a sense of proportion."

workers for the last time before this year's Development Drive is launched. $30,000 has been set as the goal for this year. This figure is to be reached by next August 31. At the meeting, to be held before the football game in the Administration Building, envelopes and instruction will be passed out to the workers.

Mr. Bruce Romig, director of Alumni Activities, has expressed the hope that the returning alumni will show as much spirit in the drive as members of the student body are exemplifying around campus. If this is done, he expects the drive to exceed its goal.

minded Muhlenberg men to read last week's issue of SPORTS ILLUSTRATED in which a writer claims "College Football is an Infernal Nuisance." The author protests that we Americans "are the only people in human history who ever got sport mixed up with higher education." It might be interesting to see what arguments this former college president puts forth.

We want to take this means to express to the residents of East Hall our appreciation of their cooperation and alertness in the fire drill on October 14.

College To Greet Mother And Dad

On Saturday, Muhlenberg College will play host to the parents of many of its students. A full program has been scheduled for the day, beginning with the annual Matriculation Service at which Henry M. M. Richards, Dean of the college will be the speaker. Other activities include meetings with faculty members, a luncheon in the College Commons, a President's reception and the Muhlenberg-Delaware football game.

Following the Matriculation Service, the members of the class of 1958 will enter their names in the Matriculation Book. Freshman attendance at this service is compulsory. The Service will be different this year in that the freshmen will sit with their parents and Professor Luther Deck, College Marshal, will conduct them to the Chancel, where the signing will take place.

Parents Meet Faculty

Prior to the Service which is scheduled for 10:30, the parents will have a chance to meet with the men to whom the task of educating their sons has been relegated—the faculty. Each parent will be given the opportunity to meet personally with his son's professors and advisers.

Following chapel, a buffet luncheon will be held in the Commons. All parents have been contacted concerning reservations for this luncheon.

Tickets Now Available

Tickets for the football game can be procured in the athletic office. The price of these tickets, which will be available until October 29, is $1.25. Freshman will be allowed to sit with their parents as regulations are off on this day.

Following the game there will be a President's Reception, also to be held in the Commons. At this time Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, President of Muhlenberg College, will be on hand to meet all of the parents and to extend the good wishes of Muhlenberg.

Old Tin Cup Awarded At Gettysburg

Editorial staffs of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY and The Gettysburgian took part in an historic moment last Saturday on the Gettysburg campus as the "Old Tin Cup" once more became a part of the college's traditions. Highlight of the afternoon's activities was the pre-game crowning of the cup queen, Miss Barbara Ann Maurer, and her presentation of the trophy at halftime.

The festivities, lasting approximately 45 minutes before game time, began with drills by the ROTC cadets. Immediately afterward the Queen was driven on the field and crowned by Bill Martin, editor-in-chief of the Gettysburg paper. At this ceremony the award certificate was publicly read by Dick Miller, WEEKLY editor-in-chief.

The citation read in part, as follows: "This Award is presented to Miss Barbara Ann Maurer by the Gettysburg and Muhlenberg undergraduate newspapers in recognition of her selection as the first Queen of the Old Tin Cup Football Series between Gettysburg and Muhlenberg on this day of October 23, 1954."

In accordance with the tentative rules made public last week, the outstanding player of the first half was selected at halftime by a five-vote (Continued on Page Six)

ICL Initiates Fall Program; Australian Pastor Speaks

by Harold Leam

Monday, November 1, will mark the beginning of three busy days on the campus with the inauguration on that date of the first phase of the new 1954-55 program of the Institute of Christian Living.

As its first visiting lecturer for the current academic year, ICL is fortunate in being able to present a prominent Australian clergyman, the Reverend Colin A. Williams. An accomplished lecturer, broadcaster, educator and writer, Rev. Williams brings to Muhlenberg a wealth of experience in many fields.

Faculty Passes Recommended Program On Classroom Cuts

On Tuesday, the Muhlenberg faculty passed a list of recommendations which will formalize the college's rulings on class attendance, promotions, and probation. Differing only in details from past procedure, the re-organized program, according to President J. Conrad Seegers, is an attempt to arrive at consistency on these points. He further stated that, by these rulings, it is hoped that students will no longer be allowed to damage their classroom standings because of the burden of extra-curricular activities.

'Regs' Continue Till Thanksgiving Recess

Because the freshmen lost the soph-frosh football game, regulations will continue until the Thanksgiving recess, Don DeQuevedo, president of the Tribunal, recently announced.

Following a defeat in the tug-of-war and a victory in the push-ball game, the frosh lost their last chance to end regulations by Halloween by dropping a 6-0 decision to the sophomores in the football game.

Officially, regs will continue till Thanksgiving, DeQuevedo said, but he added that in the past they have been lifted earlier by a vote (Continued on Page Six)

College Film Series Continues Next Friday

On Friday evening, November 5, The Promoter will be shown as the second in the Muhlenberg Film series. There will be two shows; one at 6:30 p.m. and one at 8:30 p.m., in the Science Auditorium.

The Promoter, an English film based on a novel by Arnold Bennett called The Card stars Alec Guinness, Glynis Johns, Valerie Hobson, and Petula Clark. Mr. Guinness portrays an enterprising young man who, in order to make his way in a hard world, invents and resorts to maneuvers one might call quite "sharp". The only real competition he meets as he pursues his blithe career is an equally crafty woman, played by Glynis Johns.

His character is that of a washerman's son, in Britain during the Edwardian era, who, by cheating a little when very young, acquired an excellent education. By forging his name on an invitation to the Countess's ball, he elevates his social level and marks himself as a man to watch. By outwitting his employer, he becomes a successful collector of rents, the operator of a slick installment purchase combine, and eventually the town mayor. His only competition comes in Miss Johns, when he tries to collect the rent due on her dancing studio. Many times throughout the film she manages to stifle his demands with her innocent round eyes. His trick on this young lady is the surprise of the film.

Bonfire-Pep Rally Set For Tomorrow Night

A bonfire-pep rally will be held tomorrow night at 7 p.m. on the East Hall field to prepare the student body for Saturday's football game with Delaware University on the Muhlenberg Field. Wally Loy and Calvin Colarusso, chairmen of the rally, have announced that plans are complete.

The program will begin with a parade around campus led by the Muhlenberg band. Cheers, songs and the bonfire will then follow.

Soph-Frosh Dance Presents Tim Brody And His Orchestra

Music by Tim Bortz and his Orchestra will be featured at the Soph-Frosh Hop on Friday, November 5, at the Americus Hotel. The affair, which has "Autumn Capers" as a theme, is scheduled from 8:30 p.m. until midnight.

Dr. Williams Speaks At Pre-Med Meeting

Dr. Ned B. Williams, D.D.S., Ph.D. will be the speaker at the Pre-Medical Club meeting next Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Science Building. Dr. Williams, who is chairman of the Admissions Committee at the University of Pennsylvania Dental College, will speak about opportunities and preparation for career in dentistry.

A sound motion picture, "A Career in Dentistry" will compliment the talk.

A short business meeting will precede the speaker.

Freshman are invited to attend although only upperclassmen are eligible for membership. All new members are reminded that the initiation fee must be paid at this meeting.

The dance, is a semi-formal affair. The orchestra, a local group consisting of nine pieces, will be outfitted in blazers and skimmers to add to the fall background.

Dr. Charles Mortimer, advisor to the sophomore class, will head the list of chaperones which has as yet not been completed. All faculty members have been invited. President and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers, Dean and Mrs. Henry M. M. Richards, Dr. and Mrs. John Reed, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benfer, will be honored guests.

At a meeting held last week by dance co-chairmen Dave Miller and Lew Schwartz, it was announced that plans are nearing completion. A group of Freshman have volunteered to work on the decoration and publicity committees.

The weekend will be completed by the Lehigh-Muhlenberg football game at Bethlehem on Saturday afternoon and parties at several of the fraternity houses that evening.

For Your Consideration . . .

Muhlenberg's student government has reached a crisis. The problem revolves about three factors: misconduct in Chapel, a determined Student Council, and an equally-determined dean. Dealing with chapel misconduct is not new to the college campus—editorials of a 1907 Muhlenberg were published on the same topic—but of greater importance is the condition where two concepts of student government are at odds on the Muhlenberg campus.

Our student officers, basing their argument on specific articles of the Student Body Constitution, have in the past assumed all responsibility for punishment of misconduct on campus, including chapel services. The method in which this is done is not of paramount importance in the current problem. Most important is the question of whether our Student Council will be allowed to function as an example of student governing student or as an example of administration (via student) governing student.

Dean Richards has, we fear, now pushed the Student Council to a point where it may well begin a slow deterioration to the farce which student governments of many, less fortunate, colleges have become. We know, without reservation, that this is not the purpose behind the dean's refusal to allow the council members to deal with the chapel problem as they wish. We are reasonably sure, however, that his action may stem from a misconception of the structure and possibilities of a good student government.

At the excellent university from which our new dean came, student government as it exists at Muhlenberg was impossible. The "cement campus" and "subway commuters" referred to in an earlier WEEKLY article this fall express quite graphically the widely separated worlds of students and individual schools which make up the university. How could Dean Richards then have any firsthand knowledge of students effectively ruling themselves?

Here then is the essence of the problem as we see it. The Student Council, acting on constitutional power, expects that its pronouncement of student law should be upheld by the administration. Dean Richards, rightfully acting in his capacity as dean, but unmindful of the effects of a weakened student government, also expects his wishes to be carried out. As previously stated, the chapel problem is not at stake; at (Continued on Page Two)

Editorial Views . . .

The Big Chance . . .

More and more it seems to be the tendency to come to college to get an "education" in the sense that we round out our personal attitudes and ideas as well as improving our factual knowledge. Class rooms are supposed to take care of the facts, campus activities, the social growth. Next week, Muhlenberg students will have one of the best opportunities of their college careers to accomplish both ends at once by attending three days of ICL activities.

ICL is not an attempt to shove some non-descript facts down students throats by way of a stuttering, glassy-eyed bureau speaker. It is your chance to get at the roots of some of today's world problems and to learn of the part that the college student plays in them.

Neither is ICL as time-consuming as some people think. Even the bookworm wastes a few hours a day; the rest of us—let's face facts, we spend a few hours a day on books. Our professors have even cooperated by scheduling no exams for the ICL days.

An outstanding speaker, a full program, and an enthusiastic student body are all we need to make ICL Week a smashing success. You are the deciding factor—make use of one of Muhlenberg's greatest contributions to student growth. R.G.M.

If You Please . . .

Since its dedication last year, Muhlenberg's physical education building has been expanding from a mere shelter for offices, dressing rooms, and a basketball court to the type of building it was meant to be—a building which houses all types of sport-equipped rooms. With punching bags in place, with preparations for an actual weight room, with plans for buying many more types of sports equipment, the athletic committee has also thrown the court open to all students for use without supervision.

The athletic committee feels, and we wholeheartedly agree, that no student on campus should need supervision on the basketball court. However, apparently someone is wrong. Within the last week, the ravages of street shoes on the hard floor court have appeared. Thoughtless students have been failing to live up to their end of an honorable bargain by using gym shoes on the excellent playing surface.

Various suggestions have been advanced for stopping the few students who are thoughtlessly causing this damage. Closing the court, supervision of players, fining—none of these ideas appeal to the men who have the the responsibility of keeping Memorial Hall in good shape. They believe that the answer lies with conscientious students. Let's show them that we can take care of what is ours. R.G.M.

For Your Consideration

stake is the question of how far our Student Council will be allowed to go in setting student law.

With all respect for the dean, we will be quite disillusioned if he does not continue the policy of his predecessors in allowing student government to be just that. He will certainly not lose one iota of student esteem by compromising on a problem as important as this. He will, moreover, reveal a greater quality by delegating to college men the power in which their maturity and ability can find expression. R.G.M.

Dr. Guenther Has Interesting Education; Taught In Alaska

Dr. William Guenther, new face in the Chemistry department, tinkers with a flask-like object that none of the WEEKLY chemistry majors could name. The following interview contains some of his positive views on teaching and co-education, among other things.

by Gabriel Hornstein

"But I don't want them to memorize the book," he said with a friendly smile. This interesting bit of information made me sit up with amazement, for I vividly remembered my pathetic all-night struggles while I was trying (in vain) to digest the book, page by page.

"Well then," I asked, (with my most intelligent expression) "what DO you expect of them?"

Three cigarettes and twenty minutes later, I finally realized that he was successfully trying to have his students develop a feeling of chemical logic, whereby they would develop important facts into universal generalities.

The interview proceeded pleasantly. Dr. Guenther was born in Dayton, Ohio, went to grammar school in Philadelphia, high school in Lynchburg, Virginia, and completed his studies for a A.B. degree at Oberlin College, Ohio. This was quite interesting for it showed that this man had traveled around and had gotten quite an education. I was more surprised at what followed.

I asked where he had studied and taught after college. With a lackadaisical expression, he reeled off a list that broke my pleasant fog. "Well," he said, "I received my Master's and Doctor's degree from Rochester, where I also taught part-time; taught full time at the University of Alaska for two years, and I studied in France at the University of Caen during the summer of 1951.

As I realized that this fellow had seen what there is to see, I retreated into my reporter's shell and asked a seemingly safe question. "What do you think of the impending co-ed situation?"

My equilibrium was not to be quieted by his reply. Again, with the same calm expression, he told me he preferred that condition. He expressed, passionately, the view that a mixed collegiate society would create a more natural social atmosphere. Seems he has become tired of looking at unshaven, haggard, unkempt faces and believes that a co-ed set-up would relieve this sorry condition.

At Oberlin, he was active in the Oratorical Society, and he followed this interest at Rochester Unitarian Church, where he was chairman of the Young Adults Discussion Group. His other interests include classical music and the interrelationships of Religion, Science, and Philosophy. He has delved deeply, on an amateur basis, into these fields and believes that a true understanding of the relationship of these three fields would prove of outstanding value to any individual.

I had reached my fifth cigarette when I asked him the touchy question of why he decided to teach chemistry. It seems that a high school teacher had pointed out the merits of this profession, and he has since followed it through with a great deal of success and zeal.

While in Alaska, he was an associate in the Geophysical Institute, where he worked on the composition of the arctic atmosphere.

During our discussion of his Yukon experiences, I naturally asked him if he had an opportunity (Continued on Page Six)

From the Chaplain's Desk . . .

"Sorry, but I can't make it!" That is the way many students respond to every invitation to an affair that looks the least bit religious. What they really mean is, "I'm not interested—other things are more important to me."

Life is a matter of priorities. Wisdom in living lies in knowing what to put first. Some people never acquire that wisdom or else it comes too late in life to make much of a difference. What frequently happens in college is that one's minor enthusiasms, such as sports, clubs, social activities are richly fed, while major questions about God and the meaning of life are starved. In fact, many students develop a cultivated lack of enthusiasm for such matters. The result is that on graduation day they are all dressed up with an education—but no place to go.

Have you discovered what matters most in life? Do you have a sense of what is vital?

During this year, the Institute of Christian Living will bring to our campus men who are capable of bringing us to grips with the deeper issues of living. An invitation has been extended to every student to share in this program. Will you be among those who reply, "I pray thee have me excused?"

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

There is a big noise among campus jazz fans (believe it or not, dad, there are some jazz fans at Muhlenberg) lately. It seems that none other than DAVE BRUBECK and group have been signed to present their swinging musical wares at a little session to be held in the cozy confines of Memorial Hall.

This is sensational news to jazz aficionados who will come from "far and wide" to listen and flip.

BILL RUTSCH is the man who is largely responsible for this coup. He, unlike most jazz lovers, has been militant in the cause of jazz. He has attempted to educate those tin ears with whom he has come in contact. He has not been content to sneer at the squares and to boycott the corny juke boxes. BILL has put in a lot of time on this project and we are sure that it will not be a half-baked deal. He and others with a common interest in jazz have been working to organize a Jazz Society on campus. Interested parties are more than cordially invited to put in their two cents.

The club is still in embryo form, but a good project for this budding pressure group would be a campaign to get more good jazz records on the Student Center juke box. There are now approximately two good records on the nickelodeon roster. Since they have been on, I have played them each about a dozen times . . . more than I ever played all records combined during the last three years. Others, I presume, have done likewise.

An anonymous contributor left the following bit in the WEEKLY office. "Did you know that RAY DICELLO is the only scholarship football manager in the collegiate ranks? DICELLO manages the Muhlenberg football team on a grant-in-aid which guarantees him his tuition, room and board, extra fees, and traveling expenses. DICELLO explains this strange situation with a shrug of the shoulders as he says, "I'm just lucky, I guess. My mother and dad always said I could be a star."

One of DICK "SQUEAKY" WERKHEISER's alleged friends wishes all to know that DICK is a tight-wad. The informer says that this guy won't spend anything for anything. He also says that DICK's favorite pastime is playing records in downtown stores and then walking out without buying anything. We won't say who contributed this slander, but his initials are PAUL BILLY.

If any of you frosh are wondering who the elderly gentleman residing in West Hall is, we would like to introduce FRANK "GIGI" FEDERICO, the Portland Pa. flash. FRANK is a senior whose hobby is getting arrested for low flying in his black Olds. FRANK will be of invaluable assistance to budding science majors. If you have a tough physics problem to work out, just bring it to FRANK. He won't be able to work it either, but at least you'll have the consolation of knowing that you're not the only one who feels snowed.

PUBLIC SERVICE BIT . . . "Once upon a time, an unsuspecting Muhlenberg undergraduate drove into the Cedar Crest campus after midnight on a week day night. Some big bad armed guards seized him and beat him with a rubber hose. "Admit it! Come clean!" they yelled at him. "We know what youse was up to. Youse was goin' pull a one-man panty raid! Tell the troot, now . . . wasn't youse?"

Now, gentle readers, the real reason for this poor boy's presence on the Hill was that he left his overcoat hanging on a tree limb, but he couldn't convince the poor man's gestapo of this harmless fact. His name was turned in to the front office of his alma mater and he was defrocked and drummed out of the corps. He even had to turn in his M-Book. In short, the cat was EXPELLED!

You may wonder what this sad little tale is all about. Well, it's all about this: Whether you chaps know it or not, any 'Berg man found on the Crest campus after 11:30 on a weekday night will be expelled from his alma mater . . . heaved out on his ear. This is the purpose of a secret little pact between the powers that be . . . so heed well these words of caution and don't wander into the trap that awaits to gobble you up like so much popcorn.

10.2%	said the effect would be negligible.	57.5%	wanted coke machines in all the labs.
73.3%	said the effect would be detrimental.	5.4%	threw away their shovels and wanted to transfer their major to West Hall.
3.2%	said it was West Hall for them.	3.0%	fainted dead away.

The results of this poll seem to substantiate the words of one Edward Haberman who got the lowest mark in the test—a 0.99% when he made the following statement. "I go into da class prepared by wearing my snow shoes, but dat prof he pushes me into da bank anyway."
7.2%	preferred to bring their own lunch.
To the question: How familiar are you with the subject matter in physics?
20.3%	preferred English zero.

Survey Shows Students Not Happy With Jappy-Type Test

by Vic Vector

In a recent interview with Dr. Robert Boyer of the Physics Department, this reporter learned of a plan that will completely revamp the format of physics examinations. It seems that the good doctor had decided that his tests were not stimulating enough and not as realistic as they should be. Said Dr. Boyer in his best classroom English, "I wish to enhance my interrogatory exercises with fidelity to nature." Anyhow, the result of his concerted effort is shown in the following:

Problem: "A 160-pound physics professor, is taken for an airplane ride by some appreciative students. The accommodations provide for his being supported as comfortably as possible by means of a rope, one end of which is fastened to his neck and the other end to the tail of the plane. The students carefully observe that when they are flying with a uniform velocity of 300 mph the rope supporting the professor makes an angle of 37 degrees with the vertical direction. Quite naturally, they calculate to three significant figures accurately the tension in the rope and the horizontal drag due to air resistance on the professor. What are the results of their calculations?"

To complete the story, as any good reporter should, yours truly went to Dr. Boyer's students the day after the exam. They were found standing in line in front of the physics lecture room with their snow shovels over their shoulders, looking like bewildered little men ready to dig their way out of any drift that they might encounter. Here is the result of the interview with these men.

To the question: What did you think of yesterday's test?
9.5% said it was too easy.
60.3% said it was too hard.
20.1% made no comment.
15.0% wanted the problem demonstrated.
2.1% liked it better in West Hall than in the Science Building.

To the question: How will this exam effect your average?

MULE KICKS

Dear Mule Kicks,

While I have a great deal of respect for this College's First Lady, I must express some disappointment in her apparent "absent-minded" attitude. If my memory doesn't fail me, it seems that she once voiced a great deal of pride in the beauty of our campus. It certainly didn't take her long to forget her original concern.

The area behind the President's house has been dug-up by the tires of the First Family's car. I should think that the campus maintenance crew would gladly build a drive-way rather than have their beautiful landscaping job ruined, although I don't think it's necessary.

And, while we are on the subject of drive-ways, I also think that it would be a good idea if the President's wife would obey the one-way signs which border the campus. While I realize considerable time can be saved driving up campus in the wrong direction, I think the rules of the College should be obeyed, especially by the campus hostess.

Please, Mrs. Conrad Seegers, try to be more careful next time you decide to park your car. There is plenty of space in front of your house. Don't dig-up the grass with your automobile. Thank you!

Berg's Eye Views —

by Jim Strine

This is the first year, for several years at least, that meals have been served in the Commons entirely cafeteria style. Previous to this arrangement, meals were served on a one-two-two basis—breakfast cafeteria and lunch and dinner family style. Comments on the change have prompted this week's question: "How do you think meals should be served in the Commons?"

Dale Hollern, '55: "I believe the present system is a great improvement over the family style system of the past two years. A student's time is valuable and the present system saves much which was previously spent in waiting for the dining hall to open after getting out of class."

Larry Miller, '56: "As a member of the Commons Committee, I asked to have family style meals reinstated. I recall that the former style of serving gave us "hot food" instead of the present "warm food." Family style seems to help integrate the freshmen for college life, and also lead towards a more friendly atmosphere on campus."

Bill Sunderland, '56: "I am in favor of serving meals cafeteria style for three reasons: first, the individual can choose with whom he wishes to sit; second, he can be served at his convenience within certain time limits; third, a choice of food is frequently given which is not possible under the family system."

James Henderschedt, '57: "Meals should be served family style in the Commons. The cafeteria style takes much longer to be served, the proportions are smaller, and the attitude of the people behind the counter takes away the appetite of most of the students. Last year students had the opportunity to meet and become acquainted with other students. Prayers were said before each meal that helped a great deal in promoting a family atmosphere. Therefore, I think the Commons should again serve family style, even if they have to divide the serving into two sessions."

William Griesmer, '57: "I think the meals should be served cafeteria style, for the students have a longer period of time in which to get to each meal. Last year if you were a little late for a meal, either your share was eaten by your "friends," or you found yourself a vegetarian."

Lewis Anthony, '57: "Meals should be served family style in the Commons. Under this plan seconds are allowed and the inconvenience of standing in line is spared. The periodic changing of tables helps the students to become better acquainted. The only

The Alpha Nu Chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi was installed at Muhlenberg campus on February 6, 1932. The national fraternity was founded at City College of New York on November 1904.

Phi Epsilon Pi is an outstanding group scholastically, socially and athletically. Phi Ep schedules plans to supplement every big weekend on Muhlenberg's social calendar. Houseparties with great entertainment and themes such as the Phi Ep Hideaway and Song Titles are enjoyed very much.

Scholastically, the Phi Epsilon Pi brothers have reflected the fraternity's program which encourages scholarship. Brothers have always ranked high in scholastic averages.

Athletically, Phi Epsilon Pi is a worthy opponent in intra-mural football, basketball and softball.

The chapter officers of Alpha Nu are: E. Allan Schneider, Superior; Richard L. Gross, Vice-Superior; Roy Young, Treasurer; Alexander M. Adelson, Recording Secretary; Jay Krevsky, Corresponding Secretary.

Phi Kappa Tau

In 1918 the Alpha Sigma fraternity at Muhlenberg became the Eta chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau national fraetrnity. Founded at Oxford, Ohio in 1906, this organization now ranks fourteenth in size among a total of fifty-nine American Greek-letter societies.

One of the chapter's highpoints last year was its Christmas program. As was their usual custom, brothers entertained children from the Good Shepherd Home. Santa made his annual visit and all the kids left a little richer. Over Cedar Crest way, the brothers latched on to a powerful little parlor organ and, soliciting the services of old St. Nick once more, caroled their way across the campus, leaving lollipops behind for the gals.

Recognizing its duty to community as well as college, Eta last year held a clothing drive for needy

Freshmen Eye Temple Owls As Next Grid Game

After a sparkling win over Perkiomen Prep last Saturday, the freshman football team will be eyeing the Temple Owls on the Muhlenberg Field tomorrow afternoon.

The Owls have one victory in their only encounter of the season. Last Saturday they beat Drexel, 20-13. Drexel's two touchdowns were scored in the last two minutes of the game when the Temple reserves manned the field.

The team is ably coached by former varsity players Carmen Ticcone, who was co-captain and quarterback, and Tom Walters, who was last year's starting tackle. Carmen coaches the backfield while Walters attends to the forward wall.

Some outstanding players on the squad are S. Willis Thompson, a speedy halfback, Tom Gary, a deceptive quarterback, Bruce Fuller, end, and Matt Dombrowski, tackle.

The team has "good speed in the backfield; they use the T and split T, mix their attack, and have a good pass defense."

Soccermen Attempt First Win At Lafayette

Muhlenberg's winless soccer team will attempt to break into the win column at the expense of Lafayette's kickers this Saturday. Coach Bill van Brenakolf will send his charges into the game sporting a 2-2-1 record. The Leopards defeated Ursinus and F & M, lost to Swarthmore and Princeton, and tied the Wilkes College squad.

When they face the Mules, Bill Hogarty of baseball fame, will tend goal for Lafayette. Other Leopard booters are Murphy, Harrison, Pew, Magor, Smiley, McKnight, Paleologos, and the Reeves twins.

The Mules are underdogs because last Saturday they lost to the same F & M team that was defeated by the Leopards. The Mules are not to be counted out, however; for they are hungry for that first win.

Ursinus Tops Booters For Third 2-0 Defeat

In a hard fought game played at Lancaster Saturday afternoon the Franklin and Marshall soccer team defeated a weak but spirited Muhlenberg team, 2-0.

F & M scored one goal in the second and one in the third period. This is the third straight consecutive game that the Mule booters have lost by the same score.

This game could have gone either way; but as the score indicates it broke the wrong way for the Mules. Coach Bud Nevins again had many line-up changes in trying to seek his first victory.

Cross Country Squad Races Lehigh Tomorrow Afternoon

Tomorrow afternoon the Muhlenberg Cross Country team will be looking for its first win of the season when they run against the Engineers of Lehigh.

The Mules will be paced by Wally Loy who came in first for Muhlenberg but seventh in the race against Franklin and Marshall last week. Other Bergmen that will run are: Bob Andrews, Ed Druckenmiller, John Keyser, Dick Johnson, Harry Otto and Ron Treichler.

Co-captains Spear Drive

Coach Leeman's Engineers are spearheaded by co-captains Dwain Jennings who holds the cross country record for Lehigh, and Carlton Clark. The Engineers have five lettermen returning from last year on their squad; they are: Jennings, Clark, John Parisi, Walter Schmall and Thomas Jensen.

The Engineers will be after their second win of the season in three starts. They lost to Rutgers and beat Temple.

Freshman Harriers Win; Varsity Loses

Bill Kile and Jerry Slack paced a quick 14:35 to lead Berg's freshman cross country team to its first victory over Lafayette, 29-26, Tuesday at Easton. However, the senior squad could not match the undefeated Maroon varsity, and floundered to a 50-15 defeat on Lafayette's 4.1 mile course.

Slack's ankle injury slowed him down considerably. Teammate Kile stayed with him throughout the race. Ron Moxey finished the two and a half mile freshman course in fifth place with 15:44. Bill Holst and Dan Neal also scored for Berg, finishing eighth and tenth respectively.

The Lafayette varsity, fresh from an upset victory over LaSalle last Saturday, sealed the shutout by sweeping the first seven berths and placing no worse than tenth. Wayne Erb took first with 23:52 and was followed by John Bagger, Bill Rude, Hans Quern, and Fred Gehle, their times ranging from 24:10 to 24:30.

Eighth Place Mules Best

First home of the Mule harriers was John Keyser, who's 25:42 was worth eighth place. Wally Loy was second with 27:41, followed by Chuck Rauch, Ed Drucken-

A Sports Editorial

When does the knowledge of a coach cease to be the prime factor in a football game? And, when does the spirit and initiative of the players take over? Never! They must coincide!

"When touchdowns are hard to get"—who is to blame? We shall contend that both the football coach and players are responsible. When the gridders refuse to recognize and respect the strategy of a coach—no matter how successful it has proven to be—then the ball players are at fault. When the coach cannot instill that spirit and will-to-play in his proteges—because of his actions and remarks—then the mentor is responsible.

"The rules say we have to play a second half"—and not quit at the end of the first half. If the players—and coaches—are going to give up after their team loses the ball or fumbles on a key play, then we say those men shouldn't have earned places with the squad. If the players refuse to tackle and insist upon laughing when considering a "sure loss" then those men have no right being on a team.

"It's your game"—the game of the men in uniform. They are solely responsible for using the knowledge they have gained from their coach! It is up to the players on the field to try and win the game—the coach can't make the tackles for them. When eight defenders stand around and watch two of the opponents completely maul a runner, then they shouldn't be in uniform.

What does all this mean?

Many ball players probably feel that they are indispensable—the coach cannot get any more players, so why should they even try. Perhaps, the coach has also taken the "I don't care attitude." That's when you have to make a decision. Throw these men off the team and forget about football or try to bring in more players so neither the coach nor the players can become lackadaisical.

Football—like everything else—is a matter of having eleven players and a coach working together. It's a case of having men make the right tackles and not stand to the side. Basically, the knowledge of a coach and the spirit of his players must be one thing—they must work together, not against each other.

'Old Tin Cup' Goes To Gettysburg As Bullets Riddle 'Berg Defenders, 34-0

The "Old Tin Cup" is probably in a trophy case at Gettysburg today. The Mules must have left their bullet-proof vests home last Saturday when the Gettysburg football team shot-up Muhlenberg, 34-0. Although the Cardinal and Grey squad was able to slow down the Gettysburg passing ace, Frank Gagliardi, they weren't able to compete with the other Bullet threats.

Unable to successfully halt the Gettysburg squad, the Mules gained only 116 yards on the ground while they yielded 278 yards of the battlefield to their opponents. The Orange and Blue plays were tricky and confusing, as the Bullets gained ground easily. The Mules ground out nine first downs while Gettysburg registered 17.

Leading Ground Gainers

Bruce Pieper and Bob Eppelman romped over the Mules for 95 and 91 yards, respectively. Muhlenberg's Jack McDonald accounted for almost half of his team's net rushing with 53 yards.

While Paul Truran, Frank Gutierrez, Lee Hoffman and McDonald played fair defensive ball, many key blocks were missed as the Muhlenberg runners were swamped by Gettysburg men.

G-burg Scoring

Two of the five G-burg tallies were scored by Bruce Pieper, who was selected as the most outstanding player of the first half. The other six-pointers were recorded by Mike Duka, Dave Lichtenfeld and Eppelman. The extra points were kicked by James Sol-

Mule Gridders Challenge Undefeated Delaware Before Parents Saturday

by Bob Olesky and Frank Trusheim

After suffering a humiliating setback last weekend at the hands of the Gettysburg Bullets, the Mules will face an undefeated Delaware Blue Hen squad this Saturday afternoon, October 30 at 1:30 p.m. on the Muhlenberg Field. The event will be witnessed by a Parent's Day crowd.

MUHLENBERG POSITION DELAWARE

32—Lee Hoffman LER Tom Redfield—89
Lee broke into the starting line-up three weeks ago and has been hustling ever since. Lee lacks height but makes up for it by his aggressiveness. Redfield is playing his second straight year at end. Tom is 6' 1" and weighs 195 pounds. He is one of the most experienced ends Muhlenberg will see. EDGE TO HENS.

47—Pete Ascione LTR Nick Mayo—72
Pete, a veteran of three years, has been one of the mainstays of the Mule line. Nick Mayo, another veteran performer, tips the scales at a hefty 220 pounds and stands 6' 4". Although he is big he is quite agile. EDGE TO HENS.

28—Frank Gutierrez LGR Bob Trivits—67
5' 9" and 175 pounds of dynamite is the best description of "Guts". Frank's nickname gives the tip-off to the type of football he plays. Trivits has a slight weight edge over Frank and is just as rough. NO EDGE.

35—Paul Truran (30—Tom Naratil) C Frank Gytevan—55
Fast, small and rough are the adjectives that describe both Paul and Tom. This description also applies to the Hen's Gytevan. NO EDGE.

26—Paul Billy RTL Jerry Weis—63
Paul, a hustler all the way, hates to take "no" for an answer. Jerry is playing his third year for the Blue Hens. He is 6' and weighs 205 pounds and he knows only one direction—forward. EDGE TO HENS.

45—Tony Saddler RTL Steve Butcher—75
Tony, a 200-pound, 6-footer is the fastest tackle on the Mule squad. Saddler has been one of the veterans of the line for the last two years. Butcher is a tough 6' 210-pound bull. He is definitely the best lineman on the Hen's team. EDGE TO HENS.

43—Richard Werkheiser REL Marty Apostolia—87
Werk is playing his second straight year at right end. He is very shifty with a nack for shaking off defensive backs. With all his ability, Dick is going to have trouble with Apostolia who is a little shorter but makes up for it in experience and roughness. NO EDGE.

22—Bill Keeny QB Don Miller—11
Bill, playing his first full year as the Mule general, has learned fast. Miller, "Little All-American" quarterback, is the finest signal caller in the league. Excellent passer, good runner, smooth ball-handler sums up the "Miller." EDGE TO HENS.

21—Jack McDonald LHR Jim Flynn—26
Jack has been the Mules leading ground gainer for the last two years. Flynn is another fast back; agile and sure footed he is a hard man to bring down. Even though he is fast, Jim does not have the shiftness of Jack. EDGE TO MULES.

38—Harry Kreuzberg RHL Jimmy Zaiser—43
Harry was injured in the first game of the season and didn't get moving until the Lafayette game when he gained over 100 yards on the ground. The Hen's scatback, Jimmy Zaiser, is fast, shifty; he is well remembered for his two 95 yard runs against the Mules last year. EDGE TO HENS.

40—Frank Lerro FB Andy Wagner—40
Lerro has been plagued by injuries. He is another one of the Mules speed merchants. Wagner, the work horse of the Hens, is small and powerful. Andy took over the fullback slot at the beginning of the season by out-hustling the Hen's captain Dan Ford. NO EDGE.

Cormish, Whitcraft Team-up To Slaughter Perkiomen, 25-0

A combination of Dick Cormish and Paul Whitcraft appeared to be the key as the Muhlenberg freshmen slaughtered the grid team from Perkiomen Prep last Saturday afternoon. Both backfield ace Cormish and stellar end Whitcraft scored twice to help their team romp over the green Perkiomen lads, 25-0.

I-M CORNER

A number of forfeits caused less action than usual in the intramural football league this week. Both games on Monday terminated in this fashion with Phi Epsilon Pi and Phi Sigma Kappa being forfeit winners over the Wild Ones and the Mules, respectively.

On Tuesday undefeated Alpha Tau Omega was held to a 0-0 tie by the C-Hall-GDI's in a hard fought defensive battle. In the second quarter the GDI's drove to the opposition's six yard line, but were stopped by an intercepted pass by Ed Steiger. With two minutes of the game remaining, the "Chew Street boys smelled a touchdown, but were held score-

In the opening minutes of the first period, Cormish intercepted a Perkiomen pass and darted 25 yards for the touchdown. Bill Carty's attempt for the extra point was no good. It was in the same period that the team of Cormish and Whitcraft opened fire. Cormish flipped a 22-yard toss to his partner who dashed across for the second score. The extra point by Carty was no good.

In the second period, after an interception by the Mules, Cormish tore around left end for a touchdown run of 19 yards. The extra point was good and the first half ended, 19-0. The last Berg TD was in the final frame as Cormish passed to Whitcraft and the end drove into the end zone. The final score was 25-0.

A Historic Moment

"TWAS TRULY A HISTORIC MOMENT as the "Old Tin Cup" tradition was renewed for the first time in over four decades. Six of nine floats, prepared for Gettysburg Homecoming were built on the "Cup" theme. A special "We want the Tin Cup" cheer was written and the administration granted the students a day off if their team won the "Old Tin Cup" game. A pert Gettysburg senior was selected by the undergraduate campus newspaper to reign over the day's festivities. Miss Barbara Ann Maurer is shown as she presents the trophy to Ted Webster, Sports Editor of the GETTYSBURGIAN. This presentation was symbolic of Gettysburg's 34-0 shellacking of Muhlenberg. To Miss Maurer's left is Bill Martin, Editor of the GETTYSBURGIAN. On the left side of the picture is Dick Miller, Editor of the WEEKLY, and Howard Frank, Sports Editor.

Select All-Star I-M Team

In answer to the interest displayed by many Muhlenberg students the WEEKLY Sports Department will conduct a poll for the 1954 ALL-STAR INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL TEAM. A first and second All-Star squad will be tabulated and will be published by this newspaper.

Only the votes of intramural players will be considered and all ballots must be signed. The names will be checked against the official team rosters as authorized by Ernie Fellows, Director of Intramurals.

An official ballot is printed below; no substitute will be accepted. The blank provides room for seven selections (with the name of the player's team). Place all votes in the box outside the WEEKLY office before five o'clock on November 18.

MYTHICAL SIX-BITS

Lafayette became the fifth straight victim of Bucknell by a 7-0 count last Saturday in Lewisburg . . . the Leopards threatening throughout the game lost the ball on fumbles several times inside the Bison 25-yard line . . . Delaware preparing for its visit to Allentown this Saturday easily defeated a winless Connecticut team, 28-7 . . . John O'berg scored twice to spark the Hens . . . Lehigh scored a mild surprise by easily stopping Rutgers, 33-13 . . . the Engineers trailed at half-time, but iced the game with a three-touchdown third quarter . . . Franklin & Marshall fell from the undefeated ranks by bowing to Albright, 22-13 . . . the Dips failed to gain a first down in the entire second half as Albright completely dominated the play . . . Lebanon Valley went down to its fourth loss at the hands of Moravian, 20-6 . . . the Dutchmen gained some consolation by scoring their first touchdown of the season.

Mules Get A Sound Trouncing

The Mule blocking and tackling just wasn't there on Saturday, and as a result, the Bullets had a pretty easy easy time . . . Berg's only threat of the game came at the start, but a fumble took all the starch out of the Cardinal and Grey attack . . . had we held on to the ball and scored, it might have been a different game . . . the ball-handling of Frank Gagliardi was the best the Mules have seen this year; however it may be matched this Saturday by Don Miller of Delaware . . . Lee Hoffman once again played a fine game at his end position . . . Stan Vnuk played well in the middle of the line, making several crashing tackles . . . Paul Truran and Tom Naratil played their usual great all-around game . . . these two Mule centers can hold their own against the best . . . the Bullets found Al Ferraro a hard man to move on defense . . . Jackie McDonald supplied the only offensive spark of the day for Berg . . . "Fuzzy" Fetherolf still on the shelf with a knee injury . . . Harry Kreuzberg was shaken up slightly on Saturday, but should see action against Delaware.

Bucknell and Lehigh in Feature Games

The Bucknell "thundering herd" faces its stiffest test of the season when it collides with the Terriers of Boston U. this Saturday in the Hub city . . . Boston was upset by Holy Cross last week and should be on the rebound to drop the Bisons from the unbeaten ranks . . . Lehigh takes on one of the Ivy League's stronger teams of this year in the Brown Bears . . . however the Engineers are beginning to roll in high gear and should make the boys from Providence their second straight victim in a row . . . Gettysburg travels to Easton to take on Lafayette in a Middle Six encounter . . . the Bullets will gain their third win of the season, but the Leopards may make it close . . . Albright tries for two in a row against Moravian in Reading . . . the Lions appear too strong for the Greyhounds . . . F & M will get back on the winning side by taking Western Maryland in a very close ball game in Lancaster.

Our own Mules will have their hands full this Saturday as the Fighting Blue Hens of Delaware come to town . . . on the basis of last week's play it might be better if the Mules didn't even show up for the game, however, our team is better than it showed last week and an improvement will be evident . . . Muhlenberg will have to be at its very best to make any kind of a game out of it all on Saturday . . . a let down such as last week's could provide Muhlenberg with its worst drubbing in years.

PAUL TRURAN

Paul Truran, stalwart center of the Muhlenberg line, is playing his third year of varsity football after winning letters the first two years. Paul, who played for Camden Catholic High in N. J., and who made All-Catholic and All-South Jersey, originally came to Berg as a defensive back, but successfully made the switch to one-platoon ball. Paul recently achieved the honor of being named the Most Valuable Player in the Pretzel Bowl between Muhlenberg and Albright.

The biggest thrill in his career at Muhlenberg was the Muhlenberg-Bucknell game in 1953. The underdog Mules upset highly favored Bucknell by a score of 19-13. Paul played sixty minutes of hard football in that game.

An economics major, he is going for his degree in Business Administration, and he also belongs to the "M" club.

HARRY KREUZBERG

Harry Kreuzberg, one of Berg's hard hitting halfbacks, comes from the Garden State town of Palmyra. Harry, a well built six foot, one hundred eighty pound junior has been a standout for Berg this year.

Harry has had plenty of experience in football; he played four years of high school ball and was at home in a football uniform during his stay in the service. Next to football, Harry has participated extensively in track.

Kreuzberg, also president of the M-Club, enthusiastically said that the football team has shown a lot more in spirit and hustle; they want to win since their two romps over Lafayette and Lebanon Valley.

Muhlenberg's single threat came in the opening minutes of the game when the Mules drove 45 yards in eight plays to the G-burg 27. En route downfield Bill Keeny flipped a 12-yard pass to Dick Werkheiser and Jack McDonald clipped off 14 yards on a running play. The opening thrust fizzled when Harry Kreuzberg fumbled.

Scouts Return With Vital News Concerning Strong Blue Hens

(Ed. Note: This authoritative scouting report was prepared by the nation's two foremost sports personalities Al "Muscles" Hettinger and Ted "Brains" Michelfeld, whose fame lies in the fact that they come from Jim Thorpe, Penna.)

When Coach Tom Triplett dispatched ace football referee, Vince "The Whistle" Osadchy, to cover the annual Toilet Bowl Game between Delaware and Flush U., your reporters were picked by sportscaster Howie Frank (also an ace) to accompany Vince and scout the Blue Hens in preparation for their forthcoming encounter with Berg. Arriving at the stadium, we were greeted by the scent of whiskey-soaked chrysanthemums which filled the air. Luck was with us as we found a hole in the fence and crawled through.

At the Delaware bench, Coach Dan M. Nelson was giving his charges a preliminary lecture: "Men, now this here thing is a football. With a football you can do kicking, passing, and like that. Okay? Now, out there is the field. The field is green. It is green with white stripes. The referee is black with white stripes. Okay? Question?"

Question Period

Tackle Steve Butcher raised his hand. "I earned a 3.15 average out of a possible 4 in the school of education, and I am also intramural boxing champion, and am the holder of the Delaware shot put record, and for those reasons I think I am entitled to ask this here question. Where is the bathroom?" Coach Nelson pointed to the locker room and exclaimed, "Go! Go! Go!"

The team then adjusted their Dior-look, thin, tearaway jerseys with the luminescent "noomerals." Each man had just enough time to make sure that he had his shadow-slip on underneath his uniform, for a shrill blast from the whistle of "Hot Lips" Osadchy announced the commencement of the contest.

The team rushed out onto the field to the cheers of the student body. She was sitting on the 50 yardline waving her two chrysanthemums. To make a long story very short, Delaware tore the seat off Flush U. by a 67-0 score. In view of this fact, we want to point out to Coach Triplett's men and Berg fans alike the various pitfalls which they will meet on Saturday.

Trick Plays—Beware

1) The Blue Hen's famed Broken Wing formation with their tricky Wishbone play, in which the quarterback takes the ball from center, nonchalantly deflates it, disguises himself as a popcorn salesman, and sells his way all the way to the goal line.

2) The 7th and Hamilton Street Statue Play. In this play, the fullback gets the ball and immediately throws an epileptic fit, and is carried into the end zone by the doctor and the coach. THERE IS NO DEFENSE AGAINST THIS PLAY. Our only suggestions is that one of our hard charging linemen intercept the

... Student Council Report ...

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on October 21, 1954 at 6:48 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Adam, Spohn, Lauer, Loy, Schlittler, Quay, Paul, Neville, Rosenberger, Wanczyk, and Ascione.

The invocation was given by Mr. Adam. The regular order of business was dispensed with.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Chapel Committee—Mr. Adam reported that the chapel service of October 18, was unbecoming and that the four Council members present that day decided that the chapel slips should be remitted. Dean Richards would not let Council proceed in this matter. Discussion followed. Council decided to go over in a body on Friday, Oct. 22 at 1 p.m. to straighten out the situation with the Dean.

Two men who were apprehended by Dean Richards for causing a disturbance in chapel appeared before Council. They were Messrs. Fischer and Friedman. Council decided to take no action against the men until the Dean was seen.

Finance Committee:

Student Body Fund	$1,669.12
Social Fund	1,472.15
Assembly Fund	1,044.75

Mr. Paul stated that the budget would be ready by the next meeting.

Assembly Committee—Mr. Paul reported that there is a possibility that Mr. Ziedonis' brother will present a concert at Muhlenberg second semester.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES:

Student Lounge Committee—Mr. Quay reported that the furniture has been ordered and the total cost will be $414. Delivery will be made in about three weeks.

Drinking Committee—Mr. Paul saw Dean Richards who said that he saw no need for the committee.

OLD BUSINESS:

Mr. Schlittler reported that he had received a complaint from Mr. Lawson concerning the field house. It is believed that students have been playing on the courts with shoes on and as a result, scuff marks have had to be cleaned up.

Mr. Spohn reported on a meeting he had with Dr. Reed concerning the reorganization of the Commuter's Club. Letters are to be sent to the commuters, informing them of a reorganization meeting to be held.

Mr. Adam moved that Council allocate $10 to pay for the letters to be sent to the Commuters. This was seconded by Mr. Rosenberger and the motion carried.

NEW BUSINESS:

Mr. Rutsch, president of the newly organized Jazz Society on campus, appeared before Council to seek the backing for a Jazz concert on the Muhlenberg campus. The plans are to have Dave Brubeck, progressive jazz player, hold a concert in the Field House on February 7. Discussion by Council followed.

Mr. Lauer moved that Council support the Jazz Society with $500 provided the organization draws up a constitution and that if the planned concert should not succeed, Council will be responsible for the debt incurred not to exceed $1200. Mr. Neville seconded the motion and it carried.

Mr. Quay moved to adjourn. The motion was seconded by Mr. Rosenberger and it carried.

Respectfully submitted,
CAS J. WANCZYK, Recording Secretary

6. A certain number of credit hours are necessary for promotion to the next class and for graduation. Satisfactory attendance at chapel and completion of physical education requirement level are also necessary.

7. If a student fails to meet the requirements for promotion he will be placed on academic probation the following semester.

8. The Dean administers the system of probation.

9. Academic probation means that a student's load may be reduced, participation in extra-curricular activities denied or restricted, or that other steps be taken to restore the student to good academic standing as soon as possible.

10. The student remains on probation until his performance becomes satisfactory.

Coach Parker's men meet Lehigh tomorrow at Bethlehem. The frosh again run as a separate team and should give the Engineers plenty of trouble.

The Chowline

It's a big weekend on the docket, folks. Your parents will be up to see teacher and find out how good or bad you've been (the latter is the more probable case). Delaware is sending its team up here to show everybody how the game of football is played, while the soccer team learns another lesson in how to boot a ball from Lafayette at the noon hour. Everybody wishes the teams the best as always knowing full well that team success at Muhlenberg usually depends upon the particular mood of the majority of the team's individuals at the time in question. Gettysburg finally broke the die-hard cheering spirit of the hardy fans who weekly journey to the away games. What happen to the band at G-burg??? All the way down there and no display for the assembled multitudes. Who goofed???

The friendly Commons-snackbar spirit will help make the weekend more pleasant for bill-paying Pop and starry-eyed Mom as our efficient crew handles the big-weekend hordes.

Don't miss the annual bonfire right after supper tomorrow night.

As G-burg and Muhlenberg collectively put away the "Old Tin Cup" tradition, and the Bullets singularly put the trophy away for a year, we pause with a simple thought for the future — "Stay Cup Conscious."

snap before the fullback gets it.

3) The Trap Play. The quarterback takes the ball, fades back for a pass—and as the line rushes him—a huge trap door in the field opens and swallows the opposition. The ball is then handed off to the guard, who balances it on his nose and skips across for the score.

4) The No-Snap Play. Here, the center keeps the ball and everybody else fakes. No yardage is gained on this play, but it's a heck-of-a-lot of fun.

5) The 30 second do-or-die play. If by any slim chance, we should be ahead 6-0 in the closing seconds of the game, Coach Nelson sends in a reserve back (the razor-back). This lad carries a long sharp scythe and runs interference for a Flying Wedge formation. And that's 6 points, fans.

6) The Hari-Kari Play. If any of the foregoing have failed, Coach Nelson, in plain view of the spectators and TV cameras, goes to the 50-yard line and rips out his bowels with a broad sword. This makes the opposition sympathetic, and they forfeit the game.

Now, men of Muhlenberg, you know what to look for on Saturday. However, since discretion is the better part of valor, a preventive measure like derailing the train from Delaware might be well worth your while. Good luck!

The most illuminating part of our talk was his opinion of our college. He said, remembering the other institutions where he had taught, that "Berg" has one of the highest standards for a small college in this state. He definitely favors a small liberal art school, where a professor really has an opportunity to teach his students.

At 1:30 p.m. each day the doors of the host fraternity will be wide open and the "Welcome" sign out for any and all students who care to visit and join the after-luncheon discussion.

The initial ICL period about to get under way and the future ICL periods scheduled for February 14-17, and April 18-20, will provide Muhlenberg students with a unique opportunity to increase further their understanding of world problems and of the role to be played by the student with Christian ideals, attitudes, and perspectives. Without exception, the speakers scheduled to visit the campus are prominent and distinguished in their respective fields. Their themes are absorbing, stimulating, and timely. The administration, the faculty, the fraternities, and all campus organizations, are cooperating to make the program a success.

The Fall

A book lying on my desk reminds me of the thrilling victory of Muhlenberg's football team over Delaware. The title of the book is The Fall of the Titan. By every conceivable method of measuring the capabilities of a football team, Delaware was favored over our team by mythical scores ranging from 35 to 0 to 65 to 0. Delaware had the weight, the speed, the depth, and the deception. But, the experts left out one essential ingredient of victory in their forecasts. They forgot the will to win. In every sport—in fact, in many other aspects of life also—the will to win often spells the difference between victory and defeat. This so frequently is demonstrable on the football gridiron, as we saw to our immense satisfaction on Saturday. Twenty-eight men with a singleness of purpose, the determination to defeat a highly favored team—a team against which our men were supposed to have had not the slightest chance of victory—fooled the experts. This was not the first demonstration of that contagious determination to win which our team has given this year. Nor will it be the last. Our hats are off to the team which, with the will to win, caused the fall of another titan.

The team had two very effective partners on Muhlenberg Field on Saturday. They were the band and the cheering section comprised of parents as well as the student body. A team could not want two more enthusiastic and loyal partners. Although rehearsing under difficult to impossible conditions, the band has performed very creditably for Muhlenberg. For this happy result, Muhlenberg is indebted to the determination and devotion to Muhlenberg and to duty of Fred Grosse, president of the band, and of a group of like-minded very solid members and friends of the Muhlenberg family.

The Class of 1958 has also caught the spirit of Muhlenberg and the will to win, and has cooperated in an excellent manner to provide the kind of support that must make taking the bruises of the gridiron worthwhile.

Let us pay tribute, then, where tribute is due: to the team which met a highly touted opponent, with the one leveling ingredient available to everyone—the will to win; to its partners, the band and the student cheering section, whose contagious enthusiasm and support were also responsible for the victory. With such a partnership, it was inevitable that the story of Saturday's combined efforts at Muhlenberg Field should carry the caption, The Fall of the Titan.

HENRY M. M. RICHARDS, Dean

Stepping Up?

We all like the victory celebration after the big game. And, everyone likes to share in the glory showered on underdog winners. Not only were our parents pleased with the performance, but the spirit of all Muhlenberg supporters was revived in the upset. Credit belongs to the coaching staff and the entire squad who cooperated as a single unit to gain a team victory. But, let's not put the feather in our cap yet!

This weekend the high and mighty ivy-minded contender from across the river is perfectly certain their 2-4 record will be increased via an easy win over a weak (Albright 12-7), inconsistent team from Allentown. With slide rule and T-square, this South Mountain squad is a sure bet to "engineer" its way into the green pastures of the Ivy world series, perhaps into the renowned Steel Bowl at Bethlehem. In fact Columbia, Harvard and Yale tremble at the thought of the entry of this new Pennsylvania powerhouse.

This Brown and White squad definitely outclasses its rival from 23rd and Chew Sts., as its 20-13 overall record indicates. So great is this difference in victories that the poor Taylor Stadium squad cannot increase its prestige any by defeating their old rivals. Since the Cardinal and Grey game presents no major attraction to the local fans, the Steel City eleven has decided to end its annual humoring of Henry Melchior's

Muhlenberg Pulls Stunning Upset; Delaware Routed By 14-13 Count

On Saturday afternoon the Mules had a day plucking the feathers from a highly touted Blue Hen team from the University of Delaware. Coach Tom Triplett's gridmen toppled Dave Nelson's undefeated Delaware eleven, 14-13, before a Parents Day crowd of 3,000 fans who braved the early morning's cold winds and rains to attend. The Blue Hen team came to Muhlenberg Field flying high on a ten-game winning streak which earned them the rating of the eleventh team in the east; they were grounded by the hard-driving Mules in a game which was rated as one of the top upsets of the weekend.

Muhlenberg played most of the game without the services of stalwart back Jackie McDonald who suffered a broken wrist in the first period. It is evident from the beginning that the Mules dominated the game and although the victory was spurned from teamwork certain players deserve special credit for their outstanding feats. The hard-charging Muhlenberg line was sparked by Paul Billy, Pete Ascione, Frank Gutierrez, Dick Werkheiser, and Tom Naratil, who played his first game at the tackle spot. The backfield honors go to Tony Saddler, who drove hard for first downs and kicked the extra points, Bill Keeny, who quarterbacked the entire 60 minutes of play, and Frank Lerro, for stellar playing.

Blue Hens Star

The members of the Blue Hens squad also deserve credit for a hard fought and clean game. It was close, down to the final gun, and if they had more time the Hens might have scored. Delaware's outstanding player of the game was Little All-American Don Miller. Also starring for the Hens was Jim Flynn, Jim Zaiser, and Andy Wagner.

The first period ended in a 0-0 deadlock with both teams threatening for scores. On the first play Jack McDonald, who was later sidelined for the season with a broken wrist, ran 47 yards to the Delaware 38 but the charge stopped when the Hens intercepted a Bill Keeny pass. Delaware opened the game with a pass attack but the Mule's hard charging line forced them to stay on the ground.

Mules Score First

The Mules registered the first score of the game in the second quarter when Tom Naratil recovered a Delaware fumble. A 38-yard pass from Keeny to Frank Lerro put the ball on the two and Keeny drove across for the goal. Saddler's boot split the uprights. A pass from Little All-American Don Miller to Vince Grande brought the Hens to the ten. After they reached the one yard stripe, Miller went over for the touchdown. The try for the extra point by

by

Ted Michelfeld and Al Hettinger

Gentlemen, we are proud to report that the Delaware "Mudhens" did not scratch hard enough nor reach down enough into their feedbags, and were therefore thoroughly thumped by our Mules. However our task is not to give you the details of the game, those you can read in the column of one Howie Frank (who is still an ace). Here is some of the color and human interest of Saturday's clash.

Scoop! We were in the huddle in those last frightful seconds when Coach Nelson dispatched a runner to quarterback Miller with the coach's play. The breathless emissary cried in desperation, "Coach says score!!!" They didn't.

Hats off to Fred Grosse, who led the band into one of trickiest formations we've ever seen. The musicians had originally planned to spell out the words WELCOME PARENTS during the halftime, but clever Fred decided to form a dollar sign ($) instead. Everyone got the point, Fred, and you can pick up your commission at the Dean's office.

Speaking of bands, we were all set to present our "Old Tin Can Award" to the Delaware drum majorette, for obvious reasons. But, Clarence Simmons threw his baton higher than she could throw her leg, and our hero ran away with Russ Wilson, Head Gedarme, in close pursuit.

From then on it was all down hill for the Foul Fowl from across the border. Special plaudits to Bill Keeny who threw away his slide rule in order to count more slowly, thus running out the clock.

In the last four minutes of the game, Delaware's chickens were Frey-ed, when Tony Boy caught Keeny's pass and ran into the end zone. The spirit rose from the adult spectators as well as from the students, for the clergy-bespectled crowd let out a roar and all the moms flipped their 'mums.'

Expressions Of Victory Come To Team From Varied Sources

It is only right that some of the first comments to be printed on our momentous victory over Delaware University should be those of Muhlenberg's first man and lady, Dr. and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers.

When contacted by the WEEKLY on Saturday evening for their reactions to the victory, Dr. Seegers said, "Wonderful, it left me breathless."

Mrs. Seegers was even more enthusiastic when she said, "It put me so far up in the air that here it is 7:30 p.m. and I haven't come down yet."

"The team deserves all the credit, because they won the game."

Coach Tom Triplett commented on the game by saying, "It was a hustling ball club that won the game for Muhlenberg. There was nothing different in the way we coached today, but it was the way the boys played. They deserve all the credit."

H. A. (Haps) Benfer, had this to say concerning what Muhlenberg students can very well consider the upset of the year, "With almost 50 years of experience as a player, coach and spectator, I can say that it was the best game I have ever witnessed. Teamwork characterized the game with eleven men working on every play. Execution of fundamentals and work on offense and defense were superb. Everyone connected with Muhlenberg might well be proud of our 28-man squad."

"It's been a long time since we've watched a Muhlenberg team perform as it did yesterday against the heavily-favored Blue Hens, coming from behind to win..." Inside Stuff, Joe McCarron, Sunday Call-Chronicle.

"Muhlenberg's unpredictable Mules today pulled one of the big upsets of the season..." The Philadelphia Inquirer.

"The Mules, as stubborn as the name implies..." Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin.

Jack McDonald Out For Remaining Games

Jack McDonald, stellar Muhlenberg halfback, received a compound fracture of his left wrist in the first period of Saturday's game. McDonald sustained the injury, which is expected to sideline him for the remainder of the 1954 season, while making a tackle from his defensive position of wingback. He continued to play for several minutes before his injury forced him to leave the game.

During the halftime he was taken to the Allentown General Hospital where the fracture was reduced and cast by Dr. C. H. Trexler. Hospital officials announced on Saturday evening that his general condition was good and that he would probably be released within two or three days.

Parents Cheer Team To 3rd Straight Win

"Mom and Pop"---those are the magical words which spirited the Muhlenberg football team to their third consecutive Parent's Day win. It is the second victory over the Delaware Blue Hens during the same period.

In 1952 the Cardinal and Grey squad thrilled their parents and friends as they romped over the Delaware squad, 21-12; this game was played at night in the Allentown High Stadium.

Last year the Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley were the victims of the Mules before a parents-packed Muhlenberg Field, 39-6.

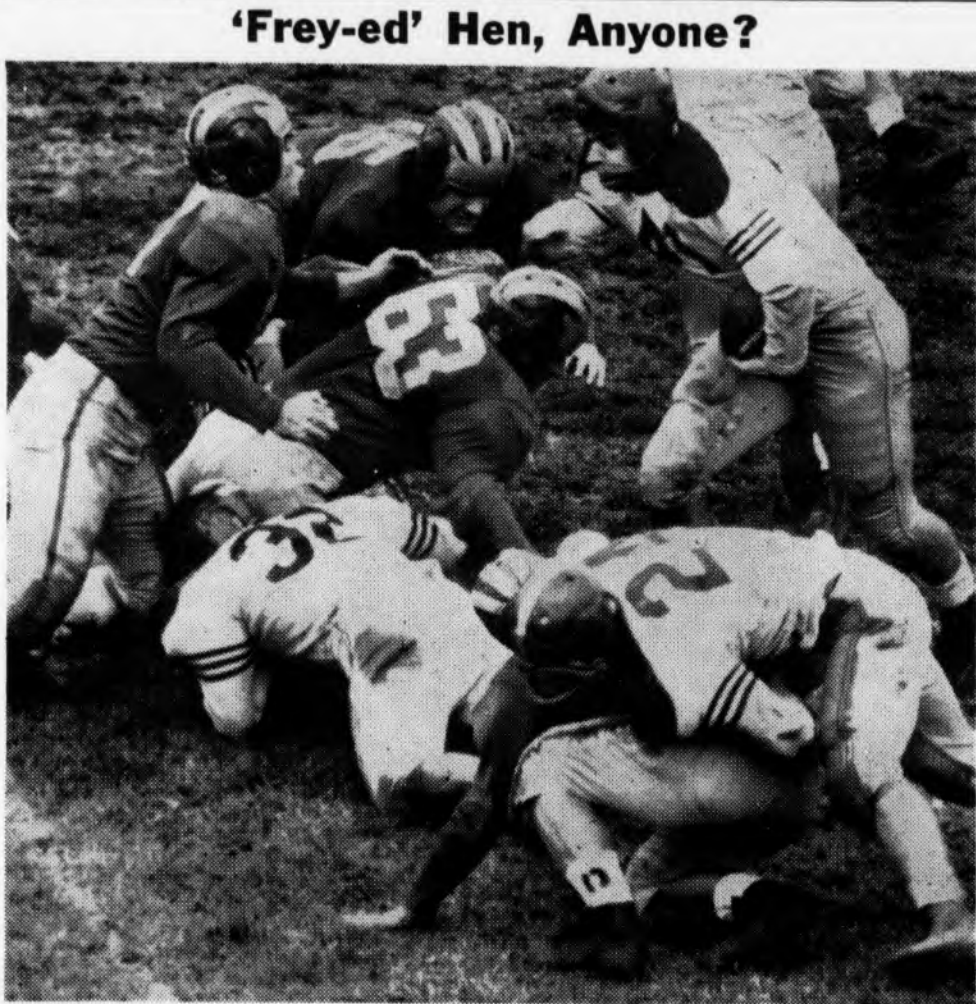

T. Gloede Sets Passing Record Against Rutgers

Even though Lehigh's quarterback, Tom Gloede, set a new Lehigh passing record, a hard running Brown eleven romped over the Engineers, 34-6. A crowd of 6,000 saw him rack up 1441 yards for his career with a pass in the closing minutes Saturday.

The first period ended in deadlock. Brown's five touchdowns were made by Vince Jazwinski, Archie Williams, Don Thompson, Ev Pearson, and Vitold Piscuskas. The four conversions were kicked by Pearson, Jazwinski, Piscuskas, and Bill Cronin. Lehigh's lone score was registered on a Gloede pass to Dave Walters.

Using their reserve backs the Lafayette Leopards passed their way to victory over Gettysburg, 20-6. The Bullets scored early in the first quarter on a sneak by Ralph Gagliardi and it looked like they were on their way to victory. The Leopards then took over with touchdowns by Don Raymond, Gordon Brown, and Norm Dion. Their two extra points were scored on a pass to Dion and a boot by Frank Mattison.

The crowd of 6,000 saw the Leopards prove that comparative scores mean nothing as the Bullets had beaten Muhlenberg 34-0 and the Leopards were at the bottom of a 27-0 defeat by the Mules.

Tony Frey (41) ploughs five yards with the help of teammates Stan Vnuk (24), and Paul Truran (35). Frank Gyetvan (55) and Jerry Weis (63) of Delaware try to form the trap, but are held back by the superb Mule blocking. Later Frey caught the pass that led to Berg's 14-13 win.

Mules Romp

Jim Flynn was wide. The half ended with the score standing 7-6 and the Mules leading.

The Blue Hens had an 87-yard sustained drive after a Muhlenberg punt with Jim Flynn, Jim Zaiser, and Andy Wagner pushing for yardage to the 16. After moving to the eight, Miller passed to Tom Redfield in the end zone. Flynn booted the extra point to put Delaware ahead 13-7.

With four minutes left to play in the final period the Mules took to the air. Keeny passed 38 yards to Tony Frey on the five and Frey crossed the goal. This knotted the score, 13-13. Tony Sadtler's first attempt for the conversion was wide but an offside penalty was called against the Hens and Sadtler completed the second try. Sadtler sparked the touchdown drive of 47 yards plunging for four first downs in a row. The Mules then ran the clock out holding their slim margin till the final gun.

'14 Footballers Cheer Victory

Muhlenberg's upset over Delaware Saturday was doubly sweet for seven old-time Muhlenberg players. The men, Lou Hayes, George Aflerbach, Walter Reisner, Al Skean, Jim Sleper, Tom Brennan and Bill Taylor, were members of Muhlenberg's 1913-14 football squad. These men dined in the commons before the game and braved the weather conditions to enjoy the great upset.

Nelson Comments

Coach Dave Nelson of the University of Delaware had this to say after the game on Saturday afternoon:

Lehigh-Muhlenberg Peace Pact

In the desire to preserve the long tradition of friendly rivalry between Muhlenberg and Lehigh, the following joint resolution will be renewed: The respective Student Governments agree to accept the responsibility for a positive program on their campuses to prevent rowdiness and vandalism on the respective campuses.

Each school newspaper will feature articles emphasizing the nature of this agreement. There will be an exchange of newspapers between the two schools, each supplying sufficient copies to reach the main centers of student housing, in this case 2000 copies.

Responsibility for maintaining law and order, for disciplining refractory students and for financial reparation rests squarely upon the Student Governments of the two institutions. It has been further agreed that the minimum penalty for any persons apprehended in the act of creating violent or felonious damage to either campus will be payment of damage and, in the instance of excess vandalism or crime, recommendation by the respective student governments for severe disciplinary action.

Rivalry Between Mules And Hens Show Interesting Comparisons

Last Saturday's 14-13 victory over Delaware was not the first record-cutting affair between Blue Hen and Mule football squads. The overall record between the two schools is now 8-6-1, but since 1946 Berg has been held to a 3-5-1 record by Delaware teams.

From 1940 to 1946 the Delaware Mud Hens, as they were called then, accumulated a fantastic 29-game winning streak under the coaching of Bill Murray. Losing their first three games in 1940, Delaware went on to win the last five of the season. Their unblemished seven year streak was marred only by a 7-7 tie with West Chester STC in 1941, the same school, ironically, that blocked the 1953 Blue Hens from an undefeated year.

While the Mud Hens were lengthening the string from 21 to 29 straight, Berg was trying for an undefeated season of its own. The 1946 Mules, coached by Floyd Schwartzwalder, had walked over Lehigh, 40-7, and Moravian, 47-0, and were 8-0 with Delaware the only tilt to go. Berg had outscored its opponents 259-54 in the eight contests.

Four weeks earlier, Muhlenberg had suggested moving the game from the Wilmington Stadium to Shibe Park, Philadelphia, in order to give Allentown fans a better chance to see the game. Experts predicted both teams to enter their November 23 meeting undefeated. However, Delaware supporters wanted to keep the game at home, since this was Homecoming, their "game of the year."

15,000 spectators gathered to see the classic at Wilmington. The Mules found Delaware stubborn, and just a little too tough to handle as they were outmanned by the Hens' powerhouse, 20-12, making it 30 straight for Delaware.

1947 saw the Mules and Mud Hens as the top attraction again in small college football. Berg had rolled up over 300 points during the season, with such enormous scores as 58-0 over Albright, 39-0 over Bucknell, 27-0 over Gettysburg, and 57-7 over F & M. Coach Schwartzwalder's revenge-minded squad was determined to beat Delaware, but found them as rough to handle as the year before. The Mud Hens had turned a 7-7 half-time tie to a 14-13 lead, which they tenaciously held, with five seconds left in the game.

The Allentown Sunday Call-Chronicle dramatically recounted, "Trailing 14 to 13 with time for just one play, Harold 'Bill' Bell, the Mules' passing expert, shot a 25-yard pass across the field from the Muhlenberg 40 to fullback Russ Strait, who caught the ball on the Delaware 35 just inside the sidelines, struck out two would-be tacklers to seal the victory for the Mules."

team. This playing around each year has cost the Bethlehemites plenty in potential gate receipt.

Muhlenberg certainly has no desire to see a college go on the rocks from having to shake itself free of old ties at home. Let's fill up the stands at Taylor Stadium. Let's give the Engineers something to remember when they take their place in the Class AAAA league. Let's make our last crack at LEHIGH as stunning as the Hens victory and we'll be ready to wear the feather in our caps.

Class Of '55 Can Graduate Happy!

John Adam, '55, a rabid Muhlenberg rooter, left almost voiceless by the game, was heard to whisper at the finish, "Well, I wouldn't have believed it possible. After three lean years, I can now graduate happy."

At halftime, it looked as though there would be a battle between the bands of Muhlenberg College and Delaware University. The Mule band lined up on the west end of the field while the Delaware band lined up on the east side. The big question seemed to hinge on who would get there first with the most. However, Fred Grosse, band president, was equal to the occasion when he generously permitted the visiting group to take the field first.

Closing on an ironic note an advertisement in the program by the Kutztown publishing Company was headed: "That extra point may mean the difference in a football game."

Coach Tom Triplett was very resplendent in his black sideline coat with the big red M. Keep wearing it, Tom, maybe it's lucky. After a hard played game, the players still had enough pep left to carry Coach Triplett off the field. After that game, he deserved it.

When Muhlenberg scored, climaxing its fourth period sustained march, the excitement proved too much for Ron Schlittler, president of Student Council. Ron fainted and missed THE END.

Saturday's win gives Tom Triplett a 2-2 record against Delaware. This win gives Tom a chance to better his last year's record of 3-5-1. That would make this his best year since he took over the coaching reins in 1951.

Coach Triplett was well informed on at least five Delaware players because they have been on the Blue Hens squad since Tom took over at Muhlenberg in 1951.

Delaware Rated Tops In Pre-Season Polls

In the September pre-season football predictions of the nation's sports writers, Delaware was picked as a top team in the East. Foremost among these predictions was in Street and Smith's Football by Jesse Abramson of the New York Herald Tribune. He placed Delaware eleventh among eastern independents. Abramson commented further by saying, "Delaware has its team virtually intact and may hatch an unbeaten season."

The 1954 Schedule and Selectors Chart, appearing in the above mentioned pre-season book, favored Delaware to win every game on its schedule.

In other games this season the Hens, who had won 10 games in a row, beat West Chester State Teachers College, 40-6, Lehigh 21-0, Temple 51-13, University of New Hampshire 19-13, and Connecticut 28-7.

Homecoming Festivities Begin With Pajama Parade And Rally

Homecoming will be held on the Muhlenberg Campus next weekend. Festivities will begin on Friday night with the annual freshman pajama parade and pep rally at Allentown's center square.

Saturday's schedule will begin with a luncheon in the college Commons at 12 noon, at which time, Attorney John Metzger of Allentown will be the main speaker. Following the F & M-Muhlenberg football game in the afternoon, a reception will be held in the Student Lounge for the alumni. On Saturday evening, open house will be held at all the social fraternities for returning brothers.

Officials Honored Guests

Honored guests of the day will be alumni who are now acting as football officials. Many men have been contacted, some in the National Pro League and some in the NCAA.

During halftime of the football game, the annual fraternity float contest will be held. Judges for the contest have not been announced as of this date.

Cardinal Key Society Opened To Freshmen

Pledgeship for the Cardinal Key Society, Muhlenberg's honorary service fraternity, is now open to all freshmen. This announcement was made by President John Hopper at the weekly meeting of the Society on Monday evening, November 1.

All freshmen interested in joining this group should report to the lounge of the student center on Monday, November 8, at 7 p.m. An academic standing of at least 75 per cent is required for initiation into the society. Seven new members will be chosen on the basis of the points which they may accumulate in the two months of their pledgeship. These points will be awarded on the basis of individual interest in the organization.

If two men have an equal number of points and the number of eligible men is greater than seven, those men not initiated who continue to show an interest in the society will be admitted as associate members without voting privileges. They may become full members if someone drops out of the group.

This is the first year that freshmen have been admitted to the Cardinal Key at so early a date. This was made possible by a change in the organization's constitution allowing for 28 members rather than 21.

LaFaver Heads Radio Station

Last Thursday Jon LaFaver was appointed Station Manager of WMUH, the campus radio station, by Student Council. LaFaver, a sophomore, moved up from his position as Program Director to assume his new managerial duties. At the present, there has been no program director appointed to fill the vacancy.

Programs are broadcast three nights each week; Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday from 7 until 11 p.m. A new feature program of the campus station is a disc jockey program known as "Miss Bliss," which can be heard each Wednesday at 10:30 p.m. Another feature scheduled to be inaugurated next week by WMUH is "Disc and Data."

Other officers which comprise the WMUH staff are Marshall Reber, Head Engineer, and Howard Frank, Business Manager. Faculty adviser for the station is Dr. Robert A. Boyer.

Bonfire Scheduled For Next Pep Rally

Because of inclement weather, the bonfire scheduled for last Friday night will be held next Friday evening before the Pajama Parade. Beginning at 7:15 p.m., the bonfire will be followed immediately by the parade and pep rally in the Allentown Center Square.

Members of the freshman class have gathered the wood for the fire. Tradition dictates that Paul Weidknecht, president of the Sophomore class light the fire.

Calvin Colarusso, head cheerleader commented: "Cheering at the game last Saturday was great. Not only the students, but also the parents joined in and really threw their support behind the team. I hope that the student body will show the same kind of support Saturday when we play Lehigh for the last time."

Three freshmen, Ron Care, Bob McCombs, and Bill Stauffer have been added to the cheering squad.

Honor System Possibilities Discussed By Committee

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles which will appear in the WEEKLY by members of the Honor System Committee and other campus leaders concerning the honor system and its proposed place on the Muhlenberg campus. Bill Anderson, sophomore member of the committee, is the author of the article which appears below.

The honor system is a term which you will hear bounced around in the next few months. The term is often glibly applied, with the user not knowing what he is saying. The system as I will refer to it will be from an academic sense.

Under the honor system students pledge their individual honor not to cheat on examinations and quizzes. Under this pledge, students are allowed certain freedom in taking examinations. For instance, examinations are not proctored. More varied types of exams can be offered under such a system. It is even possible in some cases to take exams from the classroom. In all cases, however, the student must adhere to his pledge. He must not tolerate dishonesty from any source.

Justice Insured

There are many systems for dealing with offenders, but in any case the offender is given ample hearing. All pressures put upon him and the circumstances surrounding his offense are brought out in the hearing, giving the student every chance to defend himself. If the hearing should prove him to be a flagrant violator, he must be expelled from school. Otherwise he is given a chance to prove his desire to abide by the code of honor.

Upperclassmen will remember incidents of cheating during preceding years. In certain instances men have tried to cheat their way through college. The social pressure has been more in favor of cheating than in upholding simple honesty. Actually this is an absurd situation. Men who cheat their way through are kidding themselves.

Honor is Important

At the end of four years they may have a college diploma but they won't have the departmental recommendation which is all important to their future.

The question of honor is important to the success of Muhlenberg College. It is a group problem that rests with the individual for support. Your honesty fulfills not only your responsibility to yourself, but your responsibility to Muhlenberg College.

'The Promoter' To Be Second In Film Series

Tomorrow evening, "The Promoter"; the second in the Muhlenberg Film series will be shown at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. in the Science Auditorium.

The Card, a novel by Arnold Bennett, is the basis for the English film which stars Alec Guinness, Glynis Johns, Valerie Hobson, and Petula Clark. Mr. Guinness portrays an enterprising young man who, in order to make his way in a hard world, invents and resorts to maneuvers one might call quite "sharp." The only real competition he meets as he pursues his infamous career is an equally "sharp" woman, played by Glynis Johns.

His character is that of a washwoman's son, in Britain during the Edwardian era, who, by cheating a little when very young, acquired an excellent education. Through various other tricks and devices, he manages to elevate his social position to one of honor and respect. The only obstacle in his climb upward turns out to be a Miss Johns, who uses the eternally powerful persuasions of a woman to turn his head. His trick on this young lady is the surprise of the film.

Informal Dress Rules M-Club 'Turkey Trot'

Informal dress will be the mode at the M-Club dance, "The Turkey Trot", which will be held November 19, at 8:30 p.m., in the Memorial Hall. Frank Sproviero and Tom Coughlin are co-chairmen of the affair. The gymnasium will be decorated in a fall theme, with pumpkins, lanterns and cornstalks. Admission is free and the club has arranged to hire a professional caller for the square dances. Refreshments will also be served free of charge.

The following men are in charge of committees: Harry Neuman, novelties; Bill Kenney, decoration; and Pete Ascione, publicity.

One of the leading features of the dance is the club's tentative plans to supply dates for the event. Girls from Cedar Crest and the Nurses Home will be invited.

President Harry Kreuzberg has called the next meeting of the organization for November 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center.

LSA Meets Sunday; Kaelberer Will Speak

The Rev. John Kaelberer will speak on "Jehovah's Witnesses" at the LSA meeting which will be held on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center.

Wally Reimet, president of the group, has announced the formation of the following committees with their respective heads: Program Planning, Carl Behrman; Social, Elizabeth Spitzer; Publicity, Don Sheasley; and Membership, Jacqueline Fretz and Al Linter.

Soph-Frosh Hop Will Present Tim Bortz And 'Autumn Capers'

Tim Bortz and his Orchestra will provide music to fit the theme of "Autumn Capers" at the Soph-Frosh Hop, which will be held tomorrow night in the ballroom of the Americus Hotel from 8:30 to midnight.

This dance will be one of the few dances during the year for which semi-formal dress is in order. The nine-piece orchestra will be attired in blazers and skimmers to add to the background.

Rev. Colin Williams Discusses Phases Of Modern Christianity

Throughout his three days on campus as the ICL speaker, The Rev. Colin Williams dwelled upon the importance of Christianity in our world today. The themes for the three day program were as follows: Monday, "Christian Witness

In a Divided World"; Tuesday, "Christian Witness To Divided Man"; Wednesday, "Christian Witness in The University."

Muhlenberg Host For Debating Tournament

Discussion centered around the Second Annual Muhlenberg College Debate Tournament which is scheduled for November 20, as the Forensic Council held its fifth meeting of the year on Tuesday in the Student Center. President Jim Corgee announced that the correspondence so far shows that interest has increased since last year and the delegations from other colleges and universities should surpass those of last year.

Vice-President David Becker is heading the freshmen debaters in a contest among members of that class prior to their participation in the Temple University Tournament to be held the first week in December at Philadelphia. Eleven freshmen have turned out for the activities of the council this semester. This figure almost doubles the number of freshman last year. Ron Schlittler also reported that the possibilities of reorganizing the honorary debating society fraternity were very good and that Dr. Erskine was looking into the situation.

Last year's tournament was very successful with sixteen colleges participating. Penn State won the tournament at that time. They defeated St. Peter's College of New Jersey. Colleges which have tentatively registered for the coming tournament are Princeton, University of Penna., Penn State, Lafayette, Lehigh, Villanova, St. Joseph's, La Salle, Rutgers, N.Y.U., Drew University, Kings College, St. Peter's, University of Connecticut, Haverford, Cornell, and Swarthmore.

Civil Service To Give Annual Examinations

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has announced the annual examination for Junior Management Assistant for filling positions in various Federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and throughout the country.

These positions, which pay entrance salaries of $3,410 and $4,205 a year offer opportunity for advancement. The JMA examination is designed to bring into the Federal service outstanding young men and women for training and development into future Federal executives and the requirements to be met are extremely high.

To qualify for the positions, applicants must pass written tests and must have had appropriate education or experience. Students who expect to complete their courses by June 30, 1955, may apply.

Applications for this examination must be filed with the Commission's Washington office not later than November 30, 1954. Further information and application forms may be obtained from the school placement office or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Initial Experience

This is the first program of this type that Rev. Williams has participated in although he has lectured on many campuses both in the states and in Australia. Here since mid-June to attend the World Council of Churches meeting at Evanston, Illinois, he has previously spent three years in the United States.

His immediate plans include completion of work toward his doctorate at Drew University. Rev. Williams also does some teaching at Drew.

Comments on Class Attendance

He explained that in Australia examinations occur only at the end of each school year. Class attendance is not compulsory. He stated: "I'm not very keen on having to go to all classes because some are not worth going to and others are of little interest." He also explained the differences between the concept of "University" in America and Australia. In the latter, higher education is restricted to a few, while in America the university serves the purpose of raising the standards of education for many people.

In a discussion with students held on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Williams explained the importance of "independent thinking" if academic freedom is to be maintained.

Freshmen And Parents Hear Richards Speak On Rights And Responsibilities

Frosh Propose Men To Fill Class Offices

Last Thursday the Class of 1958 made its initial preparation to enter the Muhlenberg community, when the class met in the Science Building to nominate class officers for the first semester.

The following men were nominated for these respective offices: president, John Burn, Richard Lichtenthal, Charles Ulrich, and Bruce Weil; vice-president, Martin Baker, Benson Caplan, Jim Draper, and Anthony Maffie; secretary, George Frieberger, Barry Fried, Jay Karsevar, and Jerry Slack; treasurer, Dan Neal and Frank Neely.

Voting will take place next Wednesday in the Student Center from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The chaperones for the affair are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bullis, Dr. and Mrs. Victor Johnson, Dr. Charles Mortimer, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parker.

Honored guests will be Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Benfer, Mr. and Mrs. Howard MacGregor, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Mortimer, Dr. and Mrs. John Reed, Dean and Mrs. Henry M. M. Richards, and Dr. and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers.

Dave Miller, co-chairman for the dance has noted, "Reports from upperclassmen indicate that a good crowd will be on hand and we're counting on the full support of the freshmen."

Raub Presents "Astrophysics"

Astrophysics, the physics that deals principally with the heavenly bodies, will be the subject discussed during this Monday's meeting of the Science Club. In an interview with Fred Grosse, president of the Science Club, and Dr. Harry Raub, guest speaker at the meeting and a professor in Muhlenberg's Physics Department, it was learned that the talk will include, among other things, demonstrations of the use of physical techniques in Astronomy, discussion of the properties of the stars and planets, exploding stars, and atomic energy in the solar universe. Dr. Raub will also answer such questions as the problem of what will happen to the sun, to our universe, etc.

Prior to the discussion, a business meeting will be conducted to consider a field trip and a fall semester banquet.

All students have been invited to attend this meeting on Monday, November 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Science Building.

Dr. R. Smart, advisor to the Club, has announced that the next meeting will be in early December and will be a follow-up of Dr. Raub's talk—a paper written and reviewed by Tom Kelsal on the subject of Cosmology.

operation necessary between college and home, Dean Richards noted that through these mediums the student grows in his sense of what is right and wrong, in his knowledge of society's structure and in his preparation for the future.

Turning his thoughts directly toward the student, the dean said that every student is entitled to an adequate curriculum, a chance to be part of and active in government, and to receive a diploma at the end of four years of study. In return for these, the college man needs to assume certain responsibilities, even to the extent of honoring certain traditions which seem to have a dubious use at the time.

Another Chance . . .

There seems to be a general trend among American college students today to raise the standards of examination procedure. All over the country, college newspapers are reporting on honor systems in some form or other. Of the exchange papers which reach the WEEKLY office alone, more than half a dozen have carried news recently which related to progress in starting an honor system.

A concrete example of this student thought was found only last week in The Augustana Mirror of Augustana College. As at Muhlenberg, little action had been taken at Augustana until last spring when questionnaires were sent out to students and a favorable response received. In the words of the Mirror, "It is the hope of the committee that if the student response to the Honor System continues in the same interest that was generated last spring, a decision on it may be reached and the Honor System installed at the end of the first semester."

Is Muhlenberg going to follow colleges like Augustana, or Haverford, or Valparaiso, only to mention a very few? We feel that the values of this system, all discussed last spring, merit a student's unwavering interest. Freshmen will have the opportunity next week to learn of Muhlenberg's progress; upperclassmen will be able to refresh their memories. It is vitally important that all details on this question be made clear to every student before he forms a final opinion. Those who are supporting the Honor System and who believe in it, are going to offer you all they can that you might reason intelligently.

Believing in the innate worth of the men at Muhlenberg, we believe you will want every chance to reach a fair decision. Believing in the growth of the men at Muhlenberg, we believe you will reach a fair decision which marks you as a self-sufficient and mature student.

Win or Lose . . .

Where else but from the human heart does the spirit come to give men super-human strength to knock the best ones down? Where else does the ego alternately soar and sink as the flux of personalities congeals into unity or disintegrates apathetically? We call it morale or spirit; here we glimpse it; there we see it vaguely and confusedly. Men spend their lives analyzing it and still can not define it. Theorists talk of values and motivations; ivory tower extremists say "... away with sports", while others call for more.

We have watched the inconsistent Mule—have seen him kick when least expected, and fall before the gentle winds of little storms. For victory and play will done, we salute him. He basks in headline glory. For loss received despite true effort we mutter "tough game . . . nice try." After a fumbling, disunited loss, no one can say much. Some criticize constructive (justly so); others are unjustly destructive. But, we wonder what comes next. Will Berg's football team lose this week, now that everyone knows they can beat Lehigh; will this week's heroes become next week's goats?

Nobody knows these answers and the athletic situation on the Muhlenberg campus is not an uncommon experience on other campuses—Gettysburg, Lafayette, and Delaware, for example. Athletes are humans and all humans err, so that unpredictability in sports success is not always deserving of blame. So keep cheering, fans, keep playing hard, gridders, and Berg will get its share of victory.

Well ???

We see that the bulletin board in front of the chapel is still empty. Too bad it didn't have some letters to keep it company during Hazel's recent visit. Doesn't anyone care about effective use of this advertising medium?

Mass. Native Borque Likes Pleasant Campus, Students

Transplanted from the "Land of the Sacred Cod," Mr. Philip Borque appears to be very much at home up in the lofty third floor of the Administration Building. He likes it here.

by Dave Miller

The thin guy in the light suit was standing near the front desk, holding one well marked-up 'blue book' and was observing it with a puzzled expression, as were several juniors. I was about to ask him how to find Mr. Borque, when I realized he was answering questions on it. "Hmm," sez I to me, "not only the freshmen, but the professors look younger these days."

After he had finished soothing most of the injured feelings about the exam, he took a break and gave me the usual facts about degrees, colleges, military service, etc. I wondered out loud as to why such a young professor seemed so nervous, so he let me in on the big scoop. His wife is expecting the first addition to the family, so he's on constant phone duty until. (I still think the phone got more attention during the interview than I did.)

Mr. Philip J. Borque, originally a Holyoke, Mass. native, got his A.B. at the University of Massachusetts in 1949. He moved south to the University of Pennsylvania and received his M.A. there in 1950. From 1950 until this fall, he taught at the U. of P. He is now working on his Doctor's degree, doing research on (deep breath) Inter-Industry Research on Metal Fabricating Industries. This mouthful is the crux of his thesis.

He was in the Army Air Force from '43 to '46, stationed in the South Pacific, and rattled off names like Australia, the Philippines, Japan and New Guinea as high points of his stay with the Army flyboys.

His opinion about our college agrees with that of most of our new faculty members; that is, he thinks that "a small liberal arts college has a lot more to offer than a large university. The professor sees a lot more of his students, and they seem to be better informed here. It has a pleasant campus and the students are very nice boys."

At this point, he turned to the phone, then to the picture on his desk of his very pretty wife, then back to the phone. I felt as though I were an intruder in his private affairs.

He said, "I would like to have seen the game Saturday, but

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

It is questionable to many of us whether Don Reilly's "Horse's Mouth" column is entirely satirical or not. We call your attention to the paragraph in last week's issue on Ray DiCello. If Mr. Reilly is telling the truth about an anonymous contributor leaving such information about Mr. DiCello in the WEEKLY office, then it is poor taste for the editor of the Feature page or the editor of the WEEKLY to print such malicious gossip. (We assume that Mr. Reilly is telling the truth since quotation marks were inserted in the paragraph in question.)

We should like to call this anonymous contributor a liar. First:

Mr. DiCello receives half of his tuition, one meal daily (during football season only) and his room. The term "extra" fees" is absolutely unclear and ambiguous. Mr. DiCello does not receive all of his tuition, room, board, extra fees and traveling expenses as the article asserts. Furthermore, Mr. DiCello spends as much time for his grant-in-aid as does any other member of the football squad or other grant-in-aid holder working in the Chapel, Commons, and so on.

Although the article may have been intended as a joke, it created a poor impression of Mr. DiCello and his grant in the eyes of many people.

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

Anyone else around here have a choking feeling these fine Fall days? It's getting so that I'm afraid to look at the front page of the WEEKLY each Thursday. Last week's announcement about the new modified cut system struck fear into the hearts of all who read it . . . all, that is, except Dean's Listers and certain unfortunates in our midst who have never climbed to the far side of a C average.

Well men, it looks like the Spring semester is going to be a tough row to hoe for those who have acquired the habit of prescribing their own dosages of classtime and sacktime, etc.

It's a grim business, but the solution is a simple one. All you have to do in order to have your cutting freedom back again is make the Dean's List. We've all been thinking about doing it for some time now. Now is the time . . . do it!

The new policy was instituted to eliminate those cases of academic anemia that occur now and again at the end of the semester when some fanatic class-cutters find themselves sans the required number of credit hours or quality points or both. This will probably do some good, but we have definitely lost something. In the past, class attendance has been in most cases a pretty good yardstick of course appeal or professor appeal. An empty classroom serves as a pretty good hint to the instructor that something is amiss with his methods. Now the monotones and the like will proceed with their boring tactics unaware of the unhappy disposition of the students. This is unfortunate.

So carry on, gang, but remember . . . BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING YOU.

What's with this yearbook picture deal? It seems that it is going to cost students five bucks just for the privilege of seeing their pictures in the Clarla. That's pretty steep for a yearbook that everybody talks about but never gets to see. Somebody must have goofed. There might be a lot of blank spaces come publication time.

EMBARRASSING MOMENT BIT . . . The reddest face on campus this week should belong to one MOOSE ARNOLD, a member of Howie Frank's prolific sports staff. Friend MOOSE made some dire predictions of Berg's football fate at the hands of the Delaware monsters. He even suggested that it might be a good idea if Muhlenberg did not show up for the game. It appears that the footballers must have missed the article because they didn't do a very convincing job of falling down and playing dead. Turn in your pencil, dad, you're through.

Mules-Lehigh Fight Last Battle As Inter-City Foes End Rivalry

Muhlenberg College and Lehigh University will terminate their gridiron relationship, dating back to 1907, this Saturday afternoon, in Taylor Stadium, Bethlehem. Lehigh does not plan to schedule the Mules in 1955.

In the series with Lehigh, the Mules have won 14 and lost 29 of the 43 games that have been played. Last year the Engineers and bad weather teamed up to snow the Cardinal and Grey lads, 13-0, in Taylor Stadium. Lehigh presently sports a 2-4 record while Muhlenberg holds a 3-3 slate.

Lehigh 43-28 Under Leckonby

William B. Leckonby is in his ninth year as head coach of the Lehigh University gridders. Since 1946, when he took over the coaching assignment, his teams have won 43, lost 28 and tied none. In 1950 he produced for the Brown and White the first undefeated and untied eleven in the university's history.

Gloede Replaces Gunn

This year, minus the services of Tom Gunn, stalwart Lehigh captain in 1953, the Engineers have been counting heavily upon the services of quarterback Thomas Gloede. Gloede holds a commanding lead as the Engineers' leading ground gainer; on Saturday he set an all-time Lehigh record against Brown when he brought his career total to 1447 yards.

Carasquillo Top Scorer

Bob Carasquillo is the top scorer for the Brown and White and functions from the halfback slot. It is expected that Dave Walter, halfback, may return to the starting line-up on Saturday. He will be joined on the field by Bob Naylor, Harry Stotz, Titus Puck, Tom Faillace, Charles Rust and Howard Keim, all of whom are potential threats to Muhlenberg.

New Coach J. B. Crum Calls Vigorous Drills, Workouts For Seventeen Court Prospects

"Cut, "Pick" "Switch" . . . were a few calls that echoed through Memorial Hall last Monday afternoon, when 17 basketball candidates reported to Coach Birney Crum for the first official practice session of Crum, new at the helm this year, held a long initial practice session to familiarize the players with his brand of basketball.

Among the prospects were nine regular varsity returnees. Heading this list is Gerry Neville, a stalwart guard who saw plenty of action last year. Dennie Roth and Don Kurz are the tall men returning for action. Peppery Vince Osadchy and slick-passing Bobby Gall will be trying to get in the starting lineup. Richard Sherry, Del Park, Dick Leber, Burt Pattison saw limited varsity action last season.

Don Bright, Bill Smith, Johnny Wescoe, Jim Powell, Al Booth, and Ron Hoehman have all moved up from last season's J. V. squad.

Cardy Gemma, a starter and sparkplug for the Mules before entering the service, will add considerable strength to the Mule attack. Richard Levy, a tall sophomore newcomer, is also trying to make the varsity squad.

Harriers Lose As Lehigh Wins, 17-40

Muhlenberg's harriers went down to their third defeat of the season last Friday, losing 17-40 to a mediocre Lehigh squad at Bethlehem. Co-captains Dwain Jennings (22:00.6) and Carl Clark (Continued on Page Four)

Cross Country Squad Races Albright Friday In Final Season Meet

Tomorrow afternoon the cross country team will take on Albright here at Berg for its fourth and final meet. Last year the Berg cross country team beat the "Pretzel Benders."

Coach Harold Parker will use the freshmen members along with the varsity since Albright uses freshmen on their team. Varsity members who will run are John Keyser, Wally Loy, Chuck Rauch, Bill Andrews, John Johnson, Ed Druckenmiller and Harry Otto. Parker hopes Jerry Slack will be able to run with Norm Wangmann, Bill Hoist, Ron Moxey, Dave Neal, and Bill Kile, who broke a record at Lehigh.

Parker said that the team should make a good showing against capable Albright, and that the team is showing success in building for the future.

Versatile Tony Saddler Wins Unsung Hero, Maxwell Awards

Tony Saddler, Muhlenberg's versatile griddier, received double honors this week as the winner of both the Maxwell Award and the Unsung Hero Award. Saddler was cited for his stellar performance against the Blue Hens of Delaware on Saturday, when he led his team to a 14-13 victory. This back, who was recently converted from line duties, personally accounted for the point-after-touchdown which assured Muhlenberg of the win, and for many of Muhlenberg's hard-fought first downs.

The Unsung Hero award is offered by a New York group which selects four outstanding players each week; this group is composed of thirty eastern member colleges. The Maxwell Award is offered weekly by a group of Philadelphia coaches, officials and sports writers who select the most outstanding player for the College Award of the Week. Saddler will be awarded the Maxwell trophy next Monday at a noon luncheon of the Maxwell Club in the Hotel War-

COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER Luckies—and by a wide margin—according to the largest and latest coast-to-coast college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. The pleasure you'll get from Luckies' better taste is vividly depicted in the Doodle above, titled: Modern artist enjoying Lucky while glancing in mirror. See the ecstatic smile? Well, you, too, can be happy. Just go Lucky!

PHI SIGMA KAPPA

The Upsilon Triton Chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity came into existence as a colony of the national organization in March, 1949. The chapter was formally instituted and inducted in October of that year. The chapter was first housed as a unit in the A section of East Hall. The following year the present house at 401 N. 23rd Street was acquired and the chapter officially moved in during September, 1950.

Since this time many improvements have been made to convert the house to its present condition, suitable for fraternity purposes.

Phi Sigs are well represented in campus activities. Noteworthy examples are brother Lee Podnieks serving as president of the Interfraternity Council and brother 'Skip' Spohn serving on the Student Council.

Worthy competitors in all intramural sports, the chapter also always ranks higher scholastically than the all school average.

They are also interested in civic affairs. This year, in cooperation with the Junior Chamber of Commerce, they distributed leaflets advertising the recent chest X-ray program.

Through fraternalism, it is the earnest desire of this chapter to promote brotherhood, to stimulate scholarship, and to develop character.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Sigma Phi Epsilon was born November 1, 1901, at Richmond College, Richmond, Virginia. The twelve founders joined together for the sole purpose of Christian fellowship and with their farsightedness founded a fraternity that has now taken a high place among the greats of the fraternity world. Sigma Phi Epsilon, third largest national fraternity, boasts 131 active chapters located on the campuses of America's leading colleges and universities.

The Pennsylvania Iota Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon was installed at Muhlenberg in April, 1938, and has enjoyed continuous growth since that time. The Chapter is operated entirely by the officers and other brothers of the membership under the guidance of the Alumni Corporation and the National Office in Richmond. Continual improvements throughout the Chapter House have assured comfortable living accommodations for 20 brothers and recreation facilities for the entire membership. The commissary, with its two cooks, provides three hot meals daily for the 32 active brothers. The recreation facilities of the Chapter House include parlors and party rooms, ping-pong, television, basketball, and other games.

The members of "The House with the Red Door" are active in many student activities on campus. These include Dean's List, ICG, Forensic Council, WEEKLY, WMUH, "M" Club, Football, Bas-(23:12) of Lehigh were first to complete the short 3.8-mile course.

John Keyser (24:37) and Chuck Rauch (25:13) prevented the Mules from being shut out, as they grabbed fifth and sixth place, respectively. Keyser's final quarter-mile sprint fell short of fourth place by five seconds, while Rauch blocked Engineer Dick Ramer's bid for sixth by three seconds. Wally Loy's bad knee forced him back to eighth. Ed Druckenmiller and Dick Johnston rounded out the Mule scores in tenth and eleventh place.

The afternoon's best performance was turned in by freshman Bill Kile, who won his second consecutive cross country meet, this time in blazing 14:44 to set a new record for the flat 2.7 mile freshman course at Bethlehem. Berg's second man to score in the race placed eighth, as six Lehigh scorers squeezed in ahead of him. Jerry Slack's hip injury forced him to the sidelines early in the race.

Fraternities To Start Rushing On Monday

Fraternity rushing begins at Muhlenberg College on Monday and will last until Sunday, December 12 at 6 a.m. The dates for the various rushing functions of the fraternities were set at the meeting of the Inter-Fraternity Council held on November 4 in the Student Center. They are as follows: Alpha Tau Omega, November 18 and December 7; Lambda Chi Alpha, November 17 and December 2; Phi Epsilon Pi, November 17 and December 6; Phi Kappa Tau, November 15 and 29; Phi Sigma Kappa, November 22 and 30; and Sigma Phi Epsilon, November 23 and December 6.

The rush functions will include smokers, speakers from the area, entertainment, bull sessions, dances—with girls provided—for the prospective pledges, and other various activities. The rules set down by the council provide that if a freshman is having dinner at a fraternity on the same night as a rushing function at another house, he must be out of the first fraternity by 7 p.m.

Silent Period

Following the rushing season, there will be a silent period until Thursday, December 16, during which no fraternity man will be allowed to influence any freshman. At noon on December 16, the list of men receiving bids will be posted in the Science Building and in West Hall; and those listed will meet in the Science Auditorium at 4:30 p.m. to receive the bids.

Representatives of the fraternities will be on the stage, and the acceptances of bids must be made at this time. Pledging ceremonies will begin that evening at the various houses.

If a bid isn't accepted at this time and a freshman later shows an interest in joining a fraternity, he is still eligible to receive a bid at a future time.

Peter Sozio Singers In Christmas Concert

The 1954-55 Muhlenberg College Concert Series will begin December 12 when a program of Christmas music is presented by the Peter Sozio Singers. All of the concerts will be held in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel on Sunday afternoons at 4 p.m.

It will be remembered that the Sozio Singers appeared in this series two years ago. For the past two years they have done much concert work in New York City, especially in the Cloisters. Mr. Peter Sozio is the leader of the group.

Lenel Participates

The second concert, January 9, will feature Mr. Ludwig Lenel, head of the music department at Muhlenberg. He will give a recital of organ music.

The Tudor Singers will appear on February 13. This is a group of ten people who sing much of the older music along with some contemporary works. They are under the direction of Dr. Ifor Jones, well known conductor of the Bach Choir in Bethlehem.

On March 6, Carl Weinrich of Princeton University will give an organ recital. Mr. Weinrich is known as one of America's outstanding organists.

The final concert, April 24, will present the Choir of the Church of the Ascension, New York City. They will do the Episcopal Evening-song with additional selections. This choir is under the direction of Vernon deTar and has given many sacred concerts in the New York City area.

The year's schedule will mark the third consecutive year since the beginning of the concert series. They are free to the public except for a free-will offering at each concert.

MCA Presents Discussion In Student Center

Next Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m., in the Student Center Lounge, the Student Volunteer Movement Committee of MCA will present the second speaker in connection with the Student Christian Movement's pilot project on Churchmanship. This committee is endeavoring to bring to the campus representatives of various denominations who will present their church's doctrinal position.

The Rev. Gordon Sperry of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church in Allentown will present his church's position. Students who are interested in this project of learning about other churches have been urged to attend this meeting. Ed Smith, chairman of this group, has asked that interested students make plans to attend a Reformed Church service prior to this meeting so that they can form some ideas of this church. The first speaker in this series was the Rev. Arthur Sherman who spoke on the Episcopal Church last month.

John Adam, president of MCA reminds the students that the MCA has a regular meeting open to all students every Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. in the MCA room in the Student Center.

Dr. Ricouer Speaks To Philosophy Fraternity

The annual open meeting of the Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, national honorary philosophy fraternity, will be held in the Student Center Lounge next Thursday, at 8 p.m. The guest speaker for the evening will be Dr. P. Ricouer, Professor of Philosophy at the University of Strassburg in France, who will speak on the topic "A Phase of Christian Existentialism."

Dr. Ricouer is at present serving as a visiting professor at Haverford College in Philadelphia.

Annual Event

This lecture is an annual event designed to bring outstanding philosophers and theologians to the campus. Last year the speaker at this meeting was Dr. Bela Vassady, Professor of Systematic Theology at the Evangelical and Reformed Seminary at Lancaster.

Film Series Features French Classic Movie

On Friday, November 19, the third of the Muhlenberg film series, "Pepe le Moko," will be shown in the Science Auditorium at 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

The film is a classic of the French motion picture industry, and, as an aid to the English speaking audiences viewing the film, will contain English subtitles.

The star of "Pepe Le Moko" is Jean Gabin, who portrays a Parisian gangster who has taken refuge in the Casbah, the underworld citadel of Algiers. There he falls in love with a girl (Mir-eille Balin) who causes Pepe to yearn for freedom and happiness with the girl. Whether or not he is successful in his new pursuits, proves to be the high point of the story.

A total of twelve motion pictures will be shown in the Friday night series during the 1954-55 school year. Some of the future presentations will include: "Alice in Wonderland," "Olive Twist," "Naked City," and "The Barber of Seville."

All of these films are presented as a public service and there is no admission charge.

Choir To Start Concert Series

The Chapel Choir will present four pre-Christmas concerts, beginning on November 21 at Hamburg, Pa. On the three following Sundays concerts will be given at Schuylkill Haven, Royersford, and Laureldale.

Mr. Lenel, director of the choir, has announced the program, which is composed of Christmas music with the exception of the first two selections. Some of the highlights are "O Magnum Mysterium," which will be done by the choir and four trombones, "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen,"

Muhlenberg Jazz Society Will Bring Dave Brubeck To Town

Dave Brubeck, well known modern jazz artist, will be brought to the Muhlenberg community by the newly formed Muhlenberg Jazz Society. This organization was formed recently through the efforts of a few interested students and has administration approval.

DeMolay Club To Hold Dinner At YMCA Cabin

For its first social event of the year, the De Molay Club will hold a dinner meeting tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the YMCA Cabin on South Mountain, Route 309. Entertainment is under the direction of social chairman, Dave Reinhart.

This meeting will be open to all Muhlenberg students who are or who have been members of the DeMolay. Anyone interested in attending should contact one of the club's officers as soon as possible.

The officers of the club are: Dick Weidner, president; Jon LaFaver, secretary-treasurer; Dick Miller, chaplain; and H. A. Benfer, faculty adviser.

The club meets on the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Muhlenberg's Alumni Anticipate Weekend Homecoming Events

During the coming weekend, Muhlenberg College will hold its perennial homecoming for returning alumni. Festivities beginning with the annual Pajama Parade and Hamilton Square Pep Rally on Friday night and wind up with open house for returning brothers in the various fraternity houses on Saturday evening.

The M-Club will sponsor a "Turkey Trot" next Friday night from 8:30 p.m. till midnight in Memorial Hall. The dance is informal and is open to the student body. Both modern and square dancing will be featured to the music of the "Tunesters." A professional caller has also been employed for the evening.

Admission is free to all students. Refreshments will also be served free of charge and will include cider and ginger snaps.

Date Agency

Although the students are requested to secure their own dates, a date agency will be set up for those students who want to get their dates in this manner. Students interested should fill out the date form which appears on page 6 of this newspaper and drop it in the student suggestion box in the Student Lounge by Monday noon.

Tom Coughlin and Frank Sprovero are co-chairmen of the affair. Other chairmen are as follows: publicity, Pete Ascione, decorations, Bill Keeny, novelties, Harry Newman and Tony Sadler, and refreshments, Paul Truran.

Honored Guests

Honored guests will include Dr. and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers, Dean and Mrs. Henry M. M. Richards and the coaches of all varsity sports and their wives, who are Mr. and Mrs. Birney Crum, Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Erskine, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fellows, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mirth, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Nevins, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schmidt, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Triplett. Other honored guests will be Mr. and Mrs. George Lawson, Dr. and Mrs. John V. Shankweiler, and Dr. Webb.

Tom Coughlin, co-chairman of the event, stated, "I hope that the student body will support this dance because if it is successful, the M-Club will sponsor more of them in the future. This is the first time in recent years that a completely informal dance of this nature has been held. I know that the students want dances like this and I certainly hope that they will make this one a success."

Trexler Foundation Establishes Award

The establishment of an annual prize in the amount of $500, granted by the Trexler Foundation to that pre-theological student of the Senior Class of Muhlenberg College, who, in the opinion of the Faculty, has demonstrated outstanding scholastic ability, character, and fitness for the ministry, was announced today jointly by the Trustees of the Trexler Foundation and by Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, President of Muhlenberg College.

The purpose of the prize, it was stated by Captain Nolan P. Benner, Secretary of the Trexler Trustees, is to encourage pre-theological students in their pursuit of scholarship and attainment, and, at the same time, to afford them aid in the pursuance of seminary or graduate work.

Expressing gratitude for the generous action of the Trexler Foundation, Dr. Seegers stated that a Faculty committee would be appointed to determine the recipient of the prize each year. The recipient will be named at the

Big Crowd Attends Soph-Frosh Dance

Approximately 150 couples danced to the music of Tim Bortz and his orchestra at the Soph-Frosh Hop which was held last Friday night in the Americus Hotel.

The dance featured "Autumn Capers" as a theme. Tables were set up cabaret style surrounding the entire ballroom floor. Each table was decorated with an appropriate fall center piece to blend with the autumn theme.

Extra Space

During the affair the crowd increased and in order to accommodate all, the room adjoining the main ballroom was opened with additional tables being set up.

On Friday night, all Freshmen are to meet at 6:45 p.m. in front of West Hall where the roll will be checked. At 7 p.m. there will be a bonfire and pre-pep rally on Northwest Field. Immediately following this session, the parade will form, with the band at the head, followed by the frosh and the fraternity floats, on Chew Street at 23rd.

Pep Rally in Square

The group will then move to Hamilton Square where plans call for a pep talk by Attorney Donald C. Worth, Jr., '48. Bruce Romig, Alumni Secretary, has requested that the floats be left intact after the parade so that they may be judged at Saturday's game and so that the Alumni might have a chance to see them.

At 8:30 p.m. there will be a record dance in the Student Center to which all students are invited.

Several meetings have been scheduled for Saturday morning including a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association at 10 a.m. in the conference room in the Administration Building and a meeting of all reunion chairmen for years ending in zero or five in the same location at 10:30 a.m. under the direction of Chuck Garrettson '37, a past Alumni secretary. At 11 a.m. Harry Oxenreider will meet with the members of the Development Drive Fund Committee in the Muhlenberg Room of the Library. Mr. Oxenreider is the chairman of this committee.

Alumni Luncheon

At 12 noon there will be a luncheon in the college Commons at which Attorney John M. Metzger '42 will be the toastmaster. The purpose of this luncheon is to honor those Alumni who are active in this committee.

Future Scientists Discuss Astronomy

Last Monday evening, Muhlenberg's Science Club heard a talk on astrophysics given by Dr. Harry Raub of the Physics department. The audience of future scientists listened to the interesting qualitative and quantitative analysis of the universe.

Dr. Raub has spent a number of years studying the science of the stars and is well qualified to discuss some of the secrets of the macrocosm. He told of both the physical and chemical characteristics of stars; their temperature, mass, intensity, and energy output. He also treated the subject of distance measurements to these glowing bodies, and considered the possibility of the occurrence of novae, that is the explosion of stars.

Follow Up Lecture

At the next meeting of the club, which will be December 6th, Tom Kelsall, who is a student member of the club, will give a follow-up lecture on Dr. Raub's presentation. Mr. Kelsall will speak about cosmology or the origin of stellar bodies and their evolution, a topic on which he has been doing considerable research. All interested students are cordially invited to attend this meeting and profit from it.

The first field trip that the club will take, it was decided, will be to the Fisher Scientific Instruments Company in New York City. The date for this excursion is now being considered by the executive committee of the club and will be announced at the earliest possible date.

Rushing . . .

Monday morning will mark the beginning of a collegiate tradition nearly as old as our college—rushing season will open with all the fervor and anticipation of past years. As has often been noted, freshmen will attain a new status as pro-fraternity and anti-fraternity groups begin their annual tussle. Realizing the individual needs of each Muhlenberg freshman, the WEEKLY will again adhere to a policy of neutrality. However, pledging is a great step in a college man's life. It has been the doorway to a whole new, better world for some; it has had no effect on others; and it has ruined the college lives of still others. Therefore, we would point out certain conditioning factors which the freshman might do well to remember during the few weeks ahead of him.

Before even considering a fraternity, you should consider fraternity itself. It is very true that each fraternity on campus has its own personality. The personal characteristics of each brotherhood should form a major part of the freshman's decision. Material aspects, present and future, are far outweighed by the intangible qualities which make each house what it is. The rushee would do well to look at more than the 'superficialities.'

There should be, in the last analysis, no feeling that a fraternity member is superior to any other college student. All the inducements which fraternities will offer are no substitute for real character. The decision to join no fraternity, if based on sound thinking, will point to the man with a mind of his own just as much as a decision to go to fraternity, if based on sound thinking, will point to a man with a mind of his own. Therefore we would suggest that the rushee keep his eyes, ears, and mind open to the opinions of fraternity members and non-fraternity men. The final decision will effect no one more than you—the rushee. The final decision must be made by you—the rushee.

Disappointing . . .

With so intelligent and capable a man as Rev. C. Williams as moderator, it is certainly a shame that ICL discussion groups were so poorly attended last week. Perhaps the lack of cooperation of some campus organizations wasn't as detrimental to the program as the lack of cooperation of the faculty who went right ahead scheduling tests during the three day period.

Well-attended chapel services were characterized by reverent attention. These very interesting presentations were intellectual in nature though not above the heads of the average student on this campus. While the intellectual vacuum that exists on campus isn't perfect, it almost approaches the ideal condition of "nothing there." And there are only a few small groups who continue to pursue interests which are of character a little deeper than school service or playing sports.

These groups must be kept alive at all costs, so that men who do have potentialities which need outlets will have an opportunity to express themselves, find opposition and through argumentation develop philosophies for themselves.

A man can find satisfaction in his own philosophy only when he sees it successfully hold water against the embarrassing questions of fellow students. If he has no opportunity to express his cultural likes, he'll run little chance of having experienced criticism given him. If he doesn't get the bubble of his ego pricked once in awhile he may spend his whole life with a dogmatic attitude on topics he really knows nothing about.

Mr. Bowen, of Little Rock, Joins Psychology Department

Mr. John Bowen, new man in the psychology office, poses with some formidable-looking equipment. Mr. Bowen knows his way around such strange machines, having considerable test and research experience in his field.

by Joe Nickischer

"I have two goals in teaching psychology: first, to prepare the psychology major for his career and give him as good a foundation as possible. Secondly, to provide a course for non-majors which will be both interesting and instructive," Mr. John H. Bowen—a new acquisition to the Muhlenberg College Psychology Department and a native of Little Rock, Arkansas—said without a Southern accent and in a pleasing tone of voice. "Many college students want to understand themselves and their personalities and their motivations—and I try to give them some insight and understanding of these things and to introduce them properly to psychology."

I looked at Mr. Bowen from my seat next to his desk and saw his eyes blink behind his spectacles. I was tempted to tell him to slow down his verbal pace, because I didn't possess a knowledge of shorthand. Perhaps by reading my mind or because he knows psychology, he slowed down his barrage after my furtive glance.

The young Mr. Bowen then revealed to me that he performed his undergraduate work at Oklahoma

A & M, Georgia Tech, and the University of Arkansas and that he obtained both his B.S. and M.S. at the University of Arkansas. He said that he is working for his Ph.D. degree at the University of Maryland and that he has taught at the University of Arkansas and Montgomery Junior College.

"Is there anything at Muhlenberg College that seems different or unique?" I asked, wondering if a student of the mind could find anything faulty or amazing at Muhlenberg College.

"Yes," Mr. Bowen said as he smiled. "I'm very impressed with the school and the possibility of close relationship between students and instructors." I knew more fully what he meant when a few minutes later a student—seeking aid from Mr. Bowen—rapped on the Psychology Department door.

I continued my chat with Mr. Bowen a few minutes later, and he told me that his major interest is in learning the motivation theory and that he has been trained generally as an experimental psychologist. He said that he has done research work for Johns

. . . Student Council Report . . .

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on November 4, 1954, at 7:06 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Paul, Lauer, Schlittler, Weidknecht, Spohn, Ascione, Neville, Loy, Wanczyk, Adam, Rosenberger, and Quay.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Assembly Committee—Mr. Paul reported that there would not be an assembly program on November 18.

Social Committee—Mr. Rosenberger stated that a Muhlenberg talent show could not be scheduled for this semester, but that there are hopes of holding one next semester. A record dance is tentatively scheduled on the evening of homecoming day.

Student Center Committee—Mr. Ascione reported that the lighting on the intramural football field has been improved.

Elections Committee—Mr. Wanczyk reported that Freshman acceptances have been received and that preparations have been made for the election on Wednesday, November 10.

Commons Committee—Mr. Wanczyk informed Council that Mr. Holmes has posted the hours for the serving of all meals.

Mr. Schlittler suggested that Student Council and the Freshman Tribunal should help serve at the Christmas dinner scheduled for December 16.

OLD BUSINESS:

The Jazz Society has received permission to use Memorial Hall for the Brubeck Concert.

A bonfire pep rally is scheduled for November 12.

Mr. Schlittler extended Council's congratulations to WMUH for the excellent job that the station is now doing.

Mr. Quay moved that Council hold its meeting at 7:30 p.m. This was seconded by Mr. Paul and the motion carried.

Mr. Quay stated that the WEEKLY should include the Council report in the newspaper every week. It was stated that whatever is submitted to the WEEKLY by Student Council must be printed.

NEW BUSINESS:

Mr. Quay stated that Mr. Benfer is organizing a movement to see what can be done to have a reciprocal agreement with other schools so that student activity cards will allow admission to away games. Mr. Quay moved that Council recommend to the Athletic department that the possibility of having this reciprocal agreement with other schools be investigated. The motion was seconded by Mr. Adam and it carried.

Mr. Ascione stated that he had been approached by a student who wanted to know if he could work at the home basketball games even though he is on social probation. By stipulations of the punishment, the request was turned down.

Mr. Lauer moved to adjourn. The motion was seconded by Mr. Quay and the motion carried.

Respectfully submitted,

CAS J. WANCZYK, Recording Secretary

President's Memo

It is trite but true to say that it takes all sorts of people to make up a world, and I suppose it is our duty to try to understand and be sympathetic toward our fellowmen. But there is one kind of person I have never understood. He is that person who delights in finding something wrong. He can rarely offer a constructive suggestion, and often he is a rather poor performer himself. Perhaps that is why he likes to criticize. Knowing or perhaps dimly sensing his own insufficiency, he feels better if he can find faults in others. He does not feel happy, for that kind of person is rarely happy, but he feels better.

He is the kind of individual who always sees only the hole in the doughnut.

He revels in making others uncomfortable, even though he accomplishes nothing himself. He is more interested in destroying than in building. You will agree that he is a very small person.

We find these people all over. We find them in politics. We find them in churches, where a minister may be admittedly a good preacher, but parts his hair on the wrong side.

Especially in working with people is this approach unfortunate. Everybody makes mistakes, and only a very insecure person objects to hearing about his mistakes. But if he is told only about his errors, and that in a carping manner, his employer never gets the best out of him.

I have taught in colleges where some students seemed to be looking only for things that were wrong. Probably there have been some of that stripe at Muhlenberg. But I hope that the men we graduate will have learned to think and act positively—will not always be looking for the hole in the doughnut.

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

Well, it finally happened. For about a year and a half, I have been getting away with assorted types of murder in this inappropriate named column. Two issues ago, I went too far, and was promptly parboiled in a letter to the editor. To my mind, the worst thing about the letter was that it was all too true. The DICELLO bit did come from an anonymous contributor. At first it seemed like a gag to me. Not until too late did I realize it was not cricket to print it . . . ergo, apologies to all parties concerned are in order.

From the lofty reaches of East Hall comes a funny bit of business about what happens when a boy tries to become a man by attempting to acquire the very masculine art of pipe-smoking.

The nicotine neophyte was none other than FRANK "PUFF-PUFF" PETERS, who very bravely lit up a bowlful of the filthy weed only to discover that smoking is a rather hazardous way to catch cancer. Well sir, he puffed inquisitively for a while and then started to change colors like a pinwheel. Then he tore out of the room . . . destination . . . the head. MAL BOYD was there to help the dying man get rid of his last meal, and he tells us that Frank, between spasms, looked up with a pitiful expression and moaned, "I'm just a kid."

Don't feel bad, FRANK. You just tried the wrong tobacco. Go see Prof. Dierolf and try a pipeful of his aromatic private mixture . . . ground-up shower curtains #10.

Have you heard the one about the musicians sitting around in an apartment smoking marijuana, when somebody spotted cops coming up the stairs. The cats looked around for a place to stow the weeds. They saw a cuckoo clock on the wall, so they opened up the little door and put the high-octane smokes in with the little bird. The cops broke in and searched the place for a while but couldn't find any evidence.

Then, just as they were leaving, the clock struck the hour and the cuckoo stuck his head out and said, "Hey, man . . . what time is it?"

Spectators at the LEHIGH-MUHENBERG tussle were more than slightly electrified by the arrival of W. BURTON LUM on the scene. Like a ghost out of the fabulous past, he came striding up to the grandstand in a raccoon cat that looked positively alive, man. His beard added quite a striking touch to the whole effect and made it hard to determine just where the coat ended and the beard began. Some people laughed; others just stared. One alumnus-type fellow near me said in an awed voice, "Boy, he just doesn't give a damn, does he?"

Some fun-loving Lehigh partisans were shaken up at the startling reception their serenade caravan got at Cedar Crest the other night. They pulled up to the Hill in a truck and were greeted by those real crazy armed guards who are building quite a reputation for themselves as guardians of the peace. It was just a matter of shifting gears and back across the river they went . . . their gay mission a flop.

This bodes ill for the annual Christmas serenade trips, gang, so if you go . . . go armed to the teeth and don't fire until you see the whites of their pearl-handled sub-machine guns.

That JAZZ SOCIETY project is really gathering steam, man. Approval for the use of Memorial Hall has filtered down from the Ad Building Olympus and everything is set to go. Tickets will be ready by Wednesday night, says BILL RUTSCH, Chief Cat in Charge of Sessions.

We understand that there was some skepticism on the part of the higher-ups regarding this concert and the use of Memorial Hall, but Time magazine came through in fine style last issue with Dave Brubeck's picture on the cover and an extensive article inside. This proved that at least someone had heard of this BRUBECK guy.

A co-ed was reading about birth and death statistics. She turned to a man near her and said, "Do you know that every time I breathe a man dies."

"Very interesting," he retorted.

"Why don't you try Sen-Sen."

THE SUSQUEHANNA

A despondent old gentleman emerged from his club and climbed into his limousine.

"Where to sir?" asked the chauffeur.

"Drive off a cliff, James! I'm committing suicide."

Cardinal Key

The Cardinal Key Society, barring minor mishaps, has done a fine job through the years of its existence. Devoted to the ideal of granting prestige to service, it has, as an organization, worked unselfishly to give back to the school something for what its individual members have received. Service is the Cardinal Key's only excuse for being, and prestige as an honor group is only a consequence of its efforts. Grades are not a prime consideration though many of its members are key figures in scholastic life.

In the ranks may be found Ron Schlittler, group bulldog; Byard Ebling, ICL student chairman; Fred Gross of M & D fame; Don deQuevedo, distinguished Senior sadist of the Freshman Tribunal, Senator Bill Quay, the Junior class's answer to John Adam, and many others of equal infamy.

The keynote of this whole article is representation. Though the members have worked well together, the present group is not as representative as might be desired. We hope to pledge men who will work purely for the school; this activity alone will cast honor on any other group which they might represent.

This Monday all freshman are invited into open pledgeship. Qualifications are a C average or better, a willingness to assume duties in the capacity of usher, sports official, official welcomer-in short, as Muhlenberg College's "good will ambassadors." This entails personal attitude, sincerity of effort, and general bearing. We welcome all interested men. Meetings are usually brief. November 15th we will meet in the Student Center Lounge at 7 p.m. JOHN L. HOPPER, JR., Pres.

To the Editor:

At the last meeting of the Student Body on November 4, 1954 the President of the Student Council referred to the intellectual atmosphere of this campus as being in a state of bankruptcy. In general, the President's position is a sound one. Yet one cannot allow such a remark to pass unnoticed.

It might be well if the President surveyed the Campus situation in more minute detail. Were he to do so he might be amazed to find that the light of intellectual activity has not been extinguished completely; but rather the flame is slowly beginning to burn more brilliantly. A renaissance may soon burst forth in all its splendor.

What can one cite as the "signs of the times"? It might not be presumptuous to point to the formation of the Jazz Society as an indication of this renaissance. Although one may not be a Jazz enthusiast, he cannot deny the fact that such an organization can fill, at least partially, the cultural vacuum which exists on this campus. The proposal to bring a leading Jazz artist to this campus should provide a necessary stimulus to enlarging the intellectual horizons of the Muhlenberg Student.

Secondly, one can point to the revival of THE ARCADE as another trend towards this awakening. Heretofore this magazine has been a publication which was somewhat restricted to the few. Now one can see an open invitation to all who possess a literary bent, to contribute to this publication. It is most encouraging to see that the students are trying, against almost overwhelming odds, to promote a keener appreciation for the aesthetic.

Other trends such as the Muhlenberg Christian Association series of organ recitals and the Student Council's proposed Classical Concert to be presented by an eminent violinist are further complements to the cultural enrichment of the students of Muhlenberg College. Unfortunately these activities appeal to a relatively small number so that such programs are apt to be dubbed as non-essential. To the group involved, however, these activities do enrich and stimulate the intellect. Perhaps the light is beginning to pierce the intellectual darkness of this institution of higher learning! The real tragedy lies in the fact that all too few in our student body make effort to broaden their narrow horizons.

Is it therefore, Mr. President, too much to hope for further renaissance?

TO ALL STUDENTS:

Please do not park at the yellow curbing on Chew and Liberty Streets. The Traffic Department of the City of Allentown has warned me that if this practice is not stopped immediately, the cars of offenders will be tagged by the Allentown Police Department. Let's not get the city down on us.

The Greek Way Around The Campus . . .

by Byard Ebling

The Greek Way salutes the Inter Fraternity Council for its decision to initiate a system of dry rushing this year. This is one of the most significant and progressive decisions ever made by this organization. The rushing program, which begins on Monday, should be very wholesome. For the first time the rushee will be able to get an entirely sober look at fraternity life.

Lambda Chi Alpha

On Parents Day the chapter served a buffet lunch for the parents and guests of Lambda Chi. All brothers are looking forward to the Homecoming weekend. Many alumni will return for the special "mortgage burning" ceremony to be held after the football game. Following a buffet luncheon alumni, parents, and friends will be entertained by the brotherhood.

Phi Epsilon Pi

Social chairman Irwin Scher planned a full schedule for Homecoming weekend. Following the Pajama Parade, a square dance will be held at the chapter house. Brother Jay Krevsky will produce a show for the Saturday (Continued on Page Six)

Hopes Run High For Berg Grind-Up of F. & M.

Albright Harriers Hand Bergmen 18-41 Reverse

Albright's cross country squad handed Berg's distance men their fourth straight loss, 18-41, Friday, as the visitors from Reading took six of the first seven places.

Winners Bill Shirk and Art Irwin finished the 4.3-mile course in 24:50. John Keyser of the Mules came from behind to squeeze out third place with 25:26, followed by Dick Gotshall of the Lions in fourth. Chuck Rauch, John Johnston, Wally Loy, and Harry Otto also scored for Berg.

Freshmen Win

The freshmen cross countrymen won their second meet of the season against one loss, victors by a 24-32 count, as Bill Kile, Jerry Slack, and Ron Moxey teamed up to grab the first, second and fourth spots. Kile led all the way to win his third straight race, pacing out the 2 3/4-mile course in 18:03 while Slack finished directly behind him. Bill Holst, Norm Wangmann, and Dan Neal also finished the frosh course.

Homecoming Tickets

George Lawson, Director of Athletics, announced that all students attending Saturday's Homecoming game with Franklin and Marshall should present their activities card at the student gate on the campus. This will prevent unnecessary confusion at the Chew Street entrance. All students are also requested to sit in the student section in the North stands, section D.

Berg Hosts For MASCAC Cross Country Friday

One of the most important track events in the East will take place this Friday afternoon when the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference cross-country meet is run off at Muhlenberg's Cedar Beach course.

Muhlenberg also hosted the conference harriers last year, when St. Joseph's captured varsity team honors for the seventh time in a row. The Bergmen placed last in the 11-team field.

Thirteen colleges will compete in the 27th renewal of the championship run. They are Albright, Alfred, Delaware, F & M, Haverford, Juniata, Lafayette, La Salle, Lehigh, Muhlenberg, PMC, St. Joseph's and Swarthmore. All of these schools, with the exception of Juniata, will also have runners in the freshman event.

The freshman race is scheduled to start at 3:15. The varsity race will get under way at 3:45.

Billiards Tournament

The West Hall Billiards Tournament began last Monday night as announced by Tournament Chairman, Danny Dannenbaum. The games will be played on Monday night at six and on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights at six and seven. There are twenty entrants at present. Each game will run to thirty points and the loser will be eliminated. There will be two games played per hour. The winning finalist will receive a trophy for his victories.

Mules Challenge Diplomats Saturday; Large Homecoming Crowd To Attend

by Bob Olesky

After an impressive but heart-breaking tie with the Engineers of Lehigh the Mules battle the Diplomats of Franklin and Marshall this Saturday, at 1:30 p.m. The game is expected to draw a large Homecoming Crowd on the Muhlenberg Field; it will be the final game of the football season.

Basketball Squad Candidates

Coaches Birney Crum and Dick Schmidt line up with Muhlenberg's 22-man combined freshman and varsity squad beneath one of the baskets at Memorial Hall. The athletic department has scheduled approximately four pre-season scrimmages which should provide plenty of real practice.

Boomers End Season With Stevens Tech

The Mule's soccer team, coached by Bud Nevins, will meet Stevens Tech at Hoboken, N. J. this Saturday for the final game of the season. Last year the Mules were defeated by Stevens by a score of 1-0.

The stalwart Stevens men will be three seniors: John Cunsey, goalie, Captain Anthony Posella, inside right, and Harm Bassi, left fullback. Their team boasts a record of 2 wins, 3 losses, and 1 tie.

Stevens Tech soccer coach, James B. Singer, said their last two games were lost mainly because of rain and mud. He hopes to "bounce back against the Mules if it isn't muddy."

The Mules have not been able to garner a win on the soccer field this year and they will be seeking their first victory against Stevens.

Muhlenberg Lead Cut As Tom Gloede Engineers Lehigh In 20-20 Contest

Muhlenberg surprised Lehigh with two quick touchdowns in the first quarter last Saturday, but Lehigh quarterback Tom Gloede engineered the Brown and White to tie the game before 6,000 cheering fans at Taylor Stadium, 20-20.

The Muhlenberg line was outstanding, blocking two punts for important touchdowns and holding Lehigh's scoring down in the first half. In the backfield Tony Saddler, Tony Frey, and Harry Kreuzberg starred while quarterback Bill Keeny played his usual good 60 minute game. For the Brown and White Tom Gloede was the outstanding player. He completed 9 out of 12 passes in the second half for 167 yards and two touchdowns.

The first half was dominated by the Cardinal and Grey on three Engineer miscues. A Lehigh fumble started the spree. Then Keeny passed to Kreuzberg in the end zone but the conversion attempt was wide. Later in the same quarter the Engineers were forced to kick from their own goal line. Lee Hoffman blocked the kick and Saddler pounced on the ball for another touchdown. Saddler converted. The third Mule score also stemmed from a blocked Lehigh boot. This time it was Stan Vnuk who stopped the punt on the 14. Frey then crossed the goal stripe and Saddler added the extra point to put the Mules in the lead, 20-0. Lehigh then moved on the ground for 50 yards before Gloede passed to Faillace for their first score and the half ended with Muhlenberg ahead, 20-6.

In the third period Gloede again sparked the Engineers. Three pass plays ending with a 27 yarder to Short gave Lehigh its second goal as Clark added another point. The Brown and White avalanche then went to the air for 63 yards taking them to the one yard line. Gloede then crossed the goal on a sneak. Stotz's boot was good for the 20-20 tie.

Frey Wins Praise As Unsung Hero Player

Muhlenberg's Tony Frey, a substitute getting his second start of the year, carried the ball sensationally in a 20-20 tie with Lehigh. For his outstanding play he was named one of the Eastern Collegiate Unsung Heroes. He made runs of 36, 38 and 15 yards, the last one for a touchdown, and he totalled 135 yards on 21 tries.

Last week Tony Saddler, Mule back and lineman, similarly was honored, while scabback Jackie McDonald received the honor last season. Frey is a 185-pound half-back and is a native of Allentown; he was an outstanding player for the Allentown High School football team several years ago. Frey also played in the Nittany Lion backfield before transferring to Muhlenberg from Penn State.

Fast Backfield, Charging Line Combine To Out-Fight Military Academy, 25-0

In the early part of the first quarter Joel Pitman recovered a New York fumble and six plays later Tony "Moose" Caparole went around left end for a touchdown. Buddy McCutchen scored on a line buck from the five yard line in the second period which put Muhlenberg ahead at the half. In the third period Ernie Jackson threw a twenty-yard pass to Roger Keen who went ten yards for a touchdown. Bob Fried scored the final touchdown in the last period by going off tackle, to end the game with a 25 to 0 score. New York was severely penalized throughout the game.

The Dips started the season by winning their first three games and then proceeded to lose the next three. In their last outing they lost to a strong Scranton team, 40-12. The Mules will re-open a series with Scranton starting next year.

Offensive Power

The Dips attribute their offensive power to quarterback Jay Powell, end Tom Eberle and fullback John Tullai. Powell has been substituting for injured Dale Ritter, a native of Allentown and a former star on the AHS football team. Ritter is expected to see limited action against the Mules. Two other players worth mentioning are tackle Ron Miller and guard Ron Fleming. F & M will be fighting to regain an edge in the win column as well as break the losing streak. Three of the Dips playing exceptional ball in the backfield are "Crazy Legs" Joe Martin, "Mr. Outside" Carl Blair and Bob Drunkenbrod.

Mules Seek Revenge

In the past two seasons the Mules have lost to the Diplomats and will be seeking revenge this Saturday. Using a different approach in the line strategy by starting Tom Naratil in the tackle slot and switching Paul Billy to the other tackle position, Coach Tom Triplett and the Mule team have turned in two startling performances. In both games the new changes have been readily noticed by the students and the team. One other change which has been a determining factor in the past two games is the appearance of the "old man," Stan Vnuk. Stan has played exceptionally well in the past two games.

If the Mules win this game it will be the first time in five years that Muhlenberg will have a winning season.

Maxwell Club Gives Award To Saddler

Tony Saddler received the Collegiate Award of the Week from the Maxwell Club at their noon luncheon on Monday in Philadelphia. Saddler won the Maxwell Award for his spectacular playing against Delaware two weekends ago when Muhlenberg triumphed, 14-13.

Saddler was accompanied to Philadelphia by George Lawson, Athletic Director, and his coaches Tom Triplett, Dick Fox and Ernie Fellows. The main speaker at the presentation-luncheon was Harry Stuhldreher, member of the famous Notre Dame Four Horsemen.

Dr Andrew Eskine has announced that candidates for the Muhlenberg fencing team are to report to the second floor, west, of Memorial Hall, Monday afternoon at 4 p.m. All interested students are encouraged to attend the tryouts.

Four Seniors Don Cardinal-Grey Uniforms For Last Time

Ascione, Fetherolf, DeStefano, Hoffman Close Grid Careers

Homecoming game with F & M marks the last football activity that four varsity seniors play in their college careers at Muhlenberg. Pete Ascione, Dick Fetherolf, Ralph DeStefano, and Lee Hoffman complete four years of gridiron experience Saturday, including rough calisthenics from September 1 to mid-November, scrimmages in every conceivable type of weather, and the annual, untimely spring training session.

Only four of Berg's 27 man grid roster are graduating seniors. All four are first string linemen. Co-captains Ascione and Fetherolf man the tackle spots while Ralph DeStefano plays any of the line positions with equal versatility. Hoffman has held the end position throughout the season.

Ralph, Pete, and Hoffy are natural science majors, all hoping to enter the medical profession in the distant future.

Dick Fetherolf has already served his time in the army, where he advanced to the rank of corporal. Brown eyed, soft spoken Fuzzy is a commuter from Allentown, who is majoring in History and Political Science.

Pete Ascione is also a step ahead of the other three; he has a wife named Elaine to whom he was married earlier this year. Pete, a resident of Cliffside Park, N. J., attended Carteret Prep before coming to Muhlenberg. A Student Council representative, he is also a member of the Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity and the M club.

Fellows Calls For Wrestling Prospects

Coach Ernie Fellows has announced that the first practice for all wrestling candidates will be held next Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall. All freshman and upperclassmen are encouraged to attend this important meeting.

Fellows stressed the facts that there will be a varsity team and a freshman team this year because of the new freshman regulation. He added, "A freshman schedule will be arranged if sufficient interest is displayed. For the past few years Muhlenberg has been building its wrestling program; it is important that we keep this up. Small men as well as large men are needed to fill all the weight classes."

The varsity squad will wrestle Colgate, Temple, Gettysburg, Bucknell, Swarthmore, Haverford, Lafayette, Ursinus, and Wilkes College. In March the boys will compete in the Middle Atlantic tournaments.

Speaking Frankly

by Frank Howard

"Great . . . unpredictable . . . incredible . . . stubborn . . . amazing"—are just a few of the colorful adjectives used to describe Muhlenberg's gridiron giant. (These glowing terms were penned by various sports writers after the Mules de-spotted Lafayette, jolted Delaware and tied Lehigh.) However, "Miserable . . . weak . . . terrible . . . the worst . . . disgusting"—are just a few of the colorful adjectives used to describe Muhlenberg's gridiron midget. (These descriptive words were voiced after the Mules were rotated by Bucknell, crunched by Albright and wounded at Gettysburg.)

All of which leads us to believe that Muhlenberg College had two football teams this year. One team was so great that no writer was able to accurately describe the stamina and spirit displayed by the Cardinal and Grey clad lads. The other squad, the one which is no longer referred to in public, was so terrible that once again the scribes had trouble describing the lack of alertness and will-to-play.

One team, the one that knocks-off the undefeated squads, will definitely "go down in college annals hereabouts as one of the greatest teams of all time." The other, as is usually the case, has already been forgotten.

When our team "displays surpluses of courage, stamina, doggedness and strength" (as one writer claims) then we parade around campus and in town like kings. When the other situation arises (and we lose) then we start talking about basketball.

Originally this columnist intended to draw some conclusion and make substantial claims as to the team's prowess or weakness. All we can conclude is that Muhlenberg dresses two squads. We hope that the one team we all favor plays on Saturday before the Homecoming crowd and against the Franklin and Marshall diplomats.

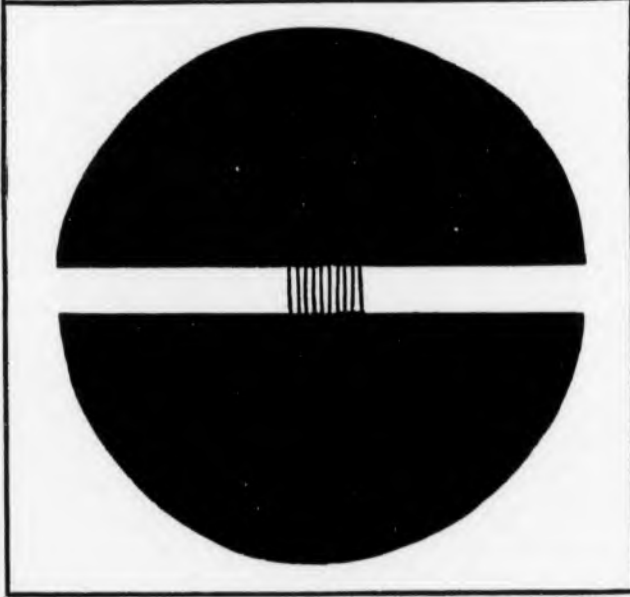

To the Berg students, the shrill sound of the referee's whistle signaling the end of the game Saturday and of the 1954 season will be a startling reminder that it's just the end of another football season and that it's time to begin basketball practice. To the Berg football coaches, the sound will be relaxing and welcome . . . it will mean that the pressure's off.

WHAT'S THIS DROODLE?

For solution see paragraph below.

ACCORDING TO THE LARGEST and latest coast-to-coast college survey, college smokers prefer Luckies—and by a wide margin. The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. Thousands of students appreciate Luckies' better taste almost as much as the pair in the Droodle above, titled: Sweethearts attempting to kiss and enjoy better-tasting Luckies at same time. Luckies taste better for good reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, "It's Toasted" to taste better. This famous Lucky Strike process tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better—cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

Last Thursday, Lambda Chi Alpha retained its unbeaten status by trampling the GDI's, 19-0. Once again the opposition found the 23rd Streeters' dual passing-running attack too much to handle. Bill Ingham, Bill Price and Jack Russo scored the touchdowns in the shutout victory. Leading the attack for the losing animals were the signal-calling gorilla, Dick Steinberg and the hard running den-keeper, Don Tihansky.

Speedy Sophomore In Grid Spotlight

Dick Werkheiser, speedy sophomore end on Muhlenberg's football team, was the leading pass receiver with the Mules last year. Dick graduated from Palmerton High School where he made the All Lehigh Valley team.

On Monday afternoon, Phi Kappa Tau rolled over the Phi Sigma Kappa squad by a 26-6 score. The winners' assault was led by Jack Douglass, Stan Heim and Ron Wix.

Meanwhile, the GDI's were squeezing out a 7-6 victory over the RDD's. The leaders of the winners were again Steinberg and Tihansky, with the latter scoring the touchdown on a fifty yard run and the former scoring the all important extra point.

In the evening, Phi Epsilon Pi ran wild over the Sinners, 25-0. Touchdown scorers for the Pep Boys were Dave Searls (2), Jay Krevsky, and Mark Strausberg.

The Tuesday action began with a 6-6 tie between the Sinners and the RDD's. Bill DeMartini scored first for the commandment breakers, but Richard Parry tied the score for the Frosh in the third quarter.

Under the lights on Tuesday, Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Phi Epsilon really put on a show, which is not indicated by the 20-0 victory for the league leading lambs. A large crowd turned out for the tilt in which quarterback Jack Russo finished the scoring with a fifty yard run over tackle

The Mules almost pulled off another sweetest triumph of the season Saturday in Taylor Stadium . . . the game was reminiscent of the '52 encounter, when the Bergman took a 13-0 lead with only five minutes gone in the first quarter . . . however Lehigh rallied for a 26-13 win in the second half . . . the Mules really hit at the start of the game as evidenced by the Engineers fumbling twice on their first two running attempts . . . Bill Keeny's first period touchdown pass to Harry Kreuzberg was a beauty . . . Dick Werkheiser was in faster than the ball on Lehigh's attempted punts . . . Werk blocked two, along with Stan Vnuk, Lee Hoffman, and Tony Saddler the third . . . Tony Frey was the leading offensive threat as he ground out 137 yards rushing against the Brown and White . . . Tom Gloede was by far the best passer the Mules have faced all season . . . he was the main factor in Lehigh's stemming a tie . . . Tom Naratil again played a great game . . . he made several key tackles . . . Paul Truran contributed his usually good game, and saved the tie with an interception late in the fourth quarter . . . "King" Saddler gained 55 yards rushing, carrying three and four tacklers on his back before being downed . . . Frank Gutierrez and Paul Billy teamed up to stop the Engineer running attack on several occasions—Stan Vnuk, Pete Ascione, and Lee Hoffman all turned in great performances in stacking up Lehigh men . . . Dick Fetherolf has been shelved for the season with a knee injury . . . Al Ferraro has been bothered by a bruised arm and may not see action on Saturday against the Dips.

This Saturday the Delaware Hens attempt to get back to winning ways by tackling Lafayette . . . Lafayette fell before Rutgers, 7-0, and Delaware dropped its second straight 14-13 game at Gettysburg . . . Bucknell will attempt to break a two game losing streak as they oppose Albright . . . the "Bisons" dropped a 20-14 decision to Colgate, while Albright eked out a 21-14 win over Lebanon Valley . . . Lehigh travels to Pittsburgh to take on the undefeated Titans of Carnegie Tech. Tech tuned up for the Engineers by trampling W & J, 27-0 . . . Gettysburg will be at home to oppose the "green wave" of Western Maryland.

Franklin & Marshall will furnish the opposition for the Mules . . . the Lancaster collegians do not appear too strong this year, and Muhlenberg should close the season with a win . . . it will mark the final appearance of Pete Ascione, Lee Hoffman, and Ralph DeStefano in a Cardinal and Grey uniform . . . Muhlenberg 28, Franklin & Marshall 6.

Sociological Society Presents Speaker On Alcoholism Tonight

Col. Robert F. A. Dougherty will be the speaker at the Sociological Society's meeting tonight in the Student Center. A member of Alcoholics Anonymous, Col. Dougherty will speak on the problem of alcoholism. Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the meeting will be the only one of the semester to be opened to the entire student body.

Last evening the society initiated three new members into the group. New initiates are Donald Lauer, Eugene Shiffer, and Richard Wenzel. Also discussed was the society's seal which has been designed by Dr. Morris S. Greth, advisor to the organization.

At the next meeting on December 6, the group will hear Miss Mary Boeckel, from the Lutheran Children's Bureau, who will speak on her work in that specific field.

Seniors Close Season

Lee Hoffman is without a doubt having his best football season at Berg. Few squad members can compare with him defensively. He hails from Egypt, and is a graduate of Whithall High School. Lee aspires to be a science teacher.

Last but certainly not least (215 lbs. 6 ft. 2 in.) is Ralph DeStefano who comes from Albany, N. Y. Ralph was schooled at the Christian Brothers Academy before coming to Berg. In track DeStefano is Berg's top man in the discus throw. Activities, he supports the Mask and Dagger Club and the M Club.

football. He played a great game on defense, featuring many slashing tackles to make his end virtually impregnable. He also helped block a Delaware punt which set the opposition back deep in its own territory.

Werkheiser is studying for a B.S. degree with a major in Natural Science. He belongs to the "M" club, the Jazz Society, and is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Social Fraternity.

Choir Concert Series

"Angels We Have Heard On High," "Lo, How A Rose E'er Blooming," "Break Forth, O Beauteous, Heavenly Light," and "Wake, Awake, For Night Is Flying." Organ versions of several of the selections will also be offered.

Kenneth Trexler, manager of the choir, has made the arrangements for the trips and is presently completing plans for the spring concerts which the choir will present.

The four trombones, used in two of the selections, will be played by Harold Salmon, Philip Kline, Kenneth Trexler, and David Godshall. Dick Manheim is the choir's accompanist.

evening entertainment. The activity will continue in the form of a dance, music will be provided by Charles Massino.

Phi Kappa Tau

Eta's first houseparty of the year was a smashing success under the able direction of social chairman, Joe Capozzi. The theme was "the Jersey Shore" and entertainment was supplied by several of the brothers. Frankie Scott and his "Blue Notes" provided music for the dancing. Jerry Zeiner, float committee chairman, says that work on the house's float for Homecoming is progressing steadily.

Phi Sigma Kappa

This week the brothers are busily painting the interior of the chapter house in preparation for the Homecoming weekend. Brother Franzblau, social chairman, has announced an informal theme for the house party; dungarees and sport shirts will set the tone. Many alumni are expected to return and join the active chapter in the social activities.

ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA will hold an open meeting in the Student Center at 7 p.m.

A Chest X-ray Unit will be on the campus near the power house from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 3 p.m. All freshmen, seniors, athletes, faculty, and staff are to have x-rays taken.

There will be a senior class meeting in the Science Auditorium at 11 a.m.

Richard Miller will give a concert of organ music at 7 p.m. in the Chapel.

The Chowline

How about that Lehigh band now; wasn't that a snappy show? Forming hoola girls and Mules with wagging tails certainly seemed easy to the slide rule expert from across the valley. Almost as easy as that deadly passing arm of Engineer quarterback Tom Gloede.

Coming up this week is the homecoming game with Diplomats from Franklin & Marshall. This unpredictable squad isn't even worth its Salt. They did manage to beat Lebanon Valley (21-14), but somehow in years past they have managed to come up with the right solution to dissolve the Mule attack.

The Alumni, as usual, will flock to their respective fraternity houses, tramp across the "verdant sword", boastfully describing their undergraduate days at Berg. Last year I heard one guy telling his friend, "I was the best quarterback on the football squad..." "that never played," his eldest son quipped. We know pop, you were great.

Wouldn't you like to help help your old... shucks he left. Guess he was in a hurry to get over to the Commons. Plans call for better than 200 alumni to feast at noon prior to the game. Later in the afternoon, there's a tea scheduled in the Commons. They're going to serve coffee and doughnuts, but what can you do. When in Rome do like Americans do and drink coffee.

Dean Richards Releases Names Of Nationally Honored Students

Ten Muhlenberg students have been selected to represent Muhlenberg College in the 1955 edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," according to an announcement made early this week by Dr. Henry M. M. Richards, Dean of the College. The men nominated are Donald G. deQuevedo, Byard J. Ebling, John B. Geissinger, Fred A. Grosse, Walter E. Loy, Jr., Gerald W. Neville, Samuel G. Rosenberger, Ronald W. Schlittler, Casimir Wanczyk, and Arvids Ziedonis, Jr.

Murrow Show Features Intercollegiate Debate

The spotlight will be on Muhlenberg's second annual debate tournament Saturday, November 20 as Edward R. Murrow and his television cameramen move onto the campus to film the arguments. The Tournament is sponsored by the College Forensic Council.

Lambda Chi Alpha Burns Mortgage At Alumni Gathering

One of the features of homecoming for returning alumni and undergraduate brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity was the burning of the mortgage on the Nu Epsilon chapter house at a luncheon held on Saturday in the chapter house. John Ammarelli, '41, the first High Alpha of Nu Epsilon, was the speaker.

New members of the Home Association Board were chosen at this time to replace those whose terms have expired. The new board members are Luther Kroninger, Robert Kisbaugh, and Richard Yehl, all of Allentown. The retiring members are Harold Hutton of Emmaus, George Nicholas of Allentown, and Dr. Leroy Rahn also of Emmaus.

Officers of the active chapter are Paul Levy, High Alpha; John Griffith Jr., High Gamma; William Price, High Tau; and Walter Loy Jr., High Beta.

Plans Completed For 'Trot' Tomorrow Night

The "Turkey Trot" of the Muhlenberg M-Club will be held tomorrow evening in Memorial Hall. Features of the dance will be a professional square dance caller, music by the "Tunesters," free refreshments, and a date agency. Informal dress is the order for this dance to which all students are invited. There will be no admission fee. The only requirements for admission are a date and an activities card.

Co-chairmen for the affair are Tom Coughlin and Frank Spriovio. Other chairmen are Pete Ascione, publicity; Bill Keeny, decorations; Tony Saddler and Harry Newman, novelties; and Paul Truran, refreshments.

Honored Guests

Honored guests will be President and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers, Dean and Mrs. Henry M. M. Richards and the coaches of all varsity sports and their wives, who are Mr. and Mrs. Birney Crum, Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Erskine, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fellows, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mirth, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Nevins, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schmidt, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Triplett. Other honored guests will include Mr. and Mrs. George Lawson, Dr. and Mrs. John Shankweiler, and Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Webb.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Presents Winning Float; Frosh Freed Of "Regs" By Tribunal Order

Sigma Phi Epsilon was the winner of the annual float contest which was held last weekend as a part of Homecoming. The Freshman Tribunal also announced at this time that as a result of the actions of the class of '58 at the Pajama Parade were over. He added that this would be conditional upon the attendance of the freshmen at Saturday's game and the spirit that they would show at that time. During the halftime of the game, deQuevedo announced that the freshmen had displayed sufficient spirit to warrant the removal of regulations.

The alumni were guests at receptions and parties held by the Alumni Association and the various fraternities in the evening.

Film Series Continues With French Classic

Great films of yesterday and today, being presented for the third consecutive year by Muhlenberg College as a public service, continues tomorrow evening. These films are shown on the Muhlenberg College Campus, in the Science Auditorium, on various Friday nights throughout the year. There is no charge for admission. The complete schedule of films for the coming year stands as follows:

Martin Baker Elected By Frosh To Lead Class This Semester

The class of 1958 made its entrance into Muhlenberg political life yesterday, electing Martin Baker to lead it through the first semester as class president. Norman Wangman, Joseph Becker and Donald Herman won the offices of vice president, secretary, and treasurer respectively, as 66.8 per cent of the class voted.

Baker, a resident of Upper Darby, is a chemistry major and sings in the chapel choir.

Wangman, a native of East Stroudsburg, who recently moved to Allentown, is a member of LSA, MCA, and Freshman Cross Country team. He plans to become a bacteriologist.

Becker, who lives in Keyport, New Jersey, is a pre-med and writes for the WEEKLY.

Herman, who lives in Stroudsburg, is undecided about his future plans.

Other aspirants for office were: Herbert Meilly and Bruce Weil, president; David Elkins, Richard Fragale, Fred Gardner, Barry Serota and David Ulanet, vice president; Leon Grossman and Kenneth Wodtke, secretary; George Freyberger and Barry Fried, treasurer.

Phi Kappa Tau Visualizes New House

Plans for a new $100,000 fraternity house were released by Phi Kappa Tau last Saturday at the annual meeting of the fraternity's Graduate Council. Meeting in conjunction with Homecoming Weekend, the group empowered officers of the organization to negotiate terms with the College and to make preparations to sell the present house on Liberty St.

The new house is to stand on the south side of Chew Street, adjacent to, and west of, the present property held by the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity. Owned by Muhlenberg College, the land is to be leased for 99 years, without rent, with all expenses of insurance and maintenance to be borne by the Home Association. The architecture is modified Georgian, designed to blend with other campus buildings.

Tentative plans include sleeping quarters for 28 men. This would be a 100 per cent increase over the capacity of the present house. Adequate living and dining quarters as well as recreational facilities will also be included.

Although members of the fraternity have long felt the need for more adequate facilities, it was not until the spring of 1953 that a building committee was appointed. The committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. Samuel D. Butz, had tentative plans drawn up soon thereafter by the architectural firm of Wolf and Hahn, Allentown. Last spring negotiations began with the College as to the land available for building.

The plans were submitted to the College last June, and this fall the Board passed favorably on them. In a letter from President J. Conrad Seegers, members of the fraternity were told, "I am glad to tell you that the Board of Trustees has approved the general plan you presented to the College . . .

Dorm Council . . .

How much authority should Student Council's dorm councilmen have? Are the jobs of these men comparable to that of policemen? Perhaps if we would idealize for a moment, we would picture a saintly dormitory where nobody ever fooled with light circuit breakers, made undue noise, or soaked floors with water. Why would these model students be so cooperative? Because their own fellow students might report them to a student court. Obviously this hypothetical situation would have certain shortcomings in practical operation. First and foremost, college men are not naturally endowed with angelic behavior tendencies. Quite to the other extreme, they like to have a little "fun."

What to do then to discourage a little "fun" from becoming excessively obnoxious; should the dorm councilmen "ask" the men to cooperate? This would be a simpleton's approach and would only render more delicate the already frail position a dorm councilman holds. When there exists an attitude of respect for the dorm councilman, then greater degrees of cooperation can be realized. Respect can be achieved only when dorm councilmen apply the authority of their position tactfully and firmly. Yet the authority of their position is undefined and the system operates under a nebulous cloud of Dean's proclamations, Grounds Committee's rules, and a well-meaning but unadvised dorm council and its interpretations. Perhaps the college should step in and run the dorm, although nobody wants this to become a military school for boys. Maybe if students were a little more certain that they would be governed by students—reported, tried, and punished by men who understand them and their problem rather than by men who necessarily are carrying out a Dean's decision; there would be a stronger bond between the administration and its wish and the students, both on the campus and in the dorm.

If the administration hopes to strengthen student council by "... working in and behind the scenes..." then any stick which they might attempt to put into the hands of policemen-puppets will operate somewhat ineffectively, and only when they jerk the strings. Somehow those strings become fouled between the administration and the dormitory doors and never have the right effect on student life. And so the policeman's big stick stands ineffectively in the corner of some room which bears a meaningless label, "Dorm Councilman."

By giving to Student Council the authority to set up rules, and by putting the pressure on Council to solve problems without stepping into the picture with mandatory suggestions or decisions, the administration might accomplish many more of its own ends with a greater degree of responsibility inspired in more men because of a better student government. It is trite, but true, to say that "Toward a Stronger Student Government" is a big step "Toward a Greater Muhlenberg."

More Of The Same . . .

Last Saturday's tussle with Franklin and Marshall marked the close of another football season at Muhlenberg. For all concerned, it has been a most unusual season—"sure" games were lost and hopelessly-powerful teams were crushed. Through all this, however, the band has remained a stable and dependable group. Often outnumbered by the bands of our opponents, the campus musicians frequently surpassed these in drill and Sousa.

All this realization that we do have a group of men who are capable of performing so admirably gives rise to the possibility of a year-round organization—a concert band. It may be impractical at present because of other activities, but we believe that when the coeds (who, we hear, are also dead-ly with reed and brass) come in the near future, a concert band should be organized. It will be a positive addition to our choir, debating team, and all the other groups which now exhibit Muhlenberg's best qualities to visitors from near and far.

by Jim Strine

In the interest of the improvement of our campus and the advertisement of our college to passers-by in the Allentown area, a project has been discussed intermittently in the past several years that might further these purposes. The project is that of floodlighting our library dome in some manner so that it would be visible to all who chanced to pass our way at night. Are you in favor of having our Library dome illuminated?

Ernest Christman, '56: "Yes, I am definitely in favor of such a project. The dome is visible from both main highways and would make a beautiful landmark at night. Many other colleges have parts of buildings illuminated, and I think our library dome is beautiful enough to represent Muhlenberg's contribution in this respect. I think the college should easily be able to incorporate the cost in its annual operating budget, and the resulting publicity from the illuminated dome should be ample compensation."

Tom Zahn, '56: "The idea of having our library dome illuminated at night appeals to me very much. Certainly this would add to the appearance of the campus and stand as a visible symbol of

by Dave Miller

Recently, an annual epidemic broke out on the quiet campus. Typhoid? Malaria? Athlete's Foot? No... it's called Test. After effects can be seen any morning; guys staggering around, bleary-eyed, bumping into trees and cars, incoherent mumbblings and mutterings, descriptive language questioning a professor's heredity: you've seen it by now. Yes, domino fans... it's great to flunk at 'Berg!

Types of test preparation are wondrous to behold. Seminar-Type Cram: seven men in a smoke-filled room, desperately poring over their notes, everybody wishing that he had put them in English instead of what looks like ancient Sanskrit. The Lonely Vigil: for this procedure, take one B student, add one (1) set of good notes, mix well with tests of other years and dilute the whole mess for three hours. At this point, said student slams books, notes, pencil and fistful of hair all over the floor and heads out for a bracer or two, (ginger ale, natchery) returns at 3 a.m. and vows never to do it again. Study three hours, that is!

Closed Book Method: in this exotic mixup, the men involved (three or more) enter their room, hunt through their books until they locate the cigarettes, then proceed to see a good flick. As this puts them in a restful mood, they all sack out until test time. The closed book method, though it enjoys widespread use, is not advised for freshmen — or for upperclassmen. Unless it's a good flick. Joker: there's always one. He prepares his notes legibly, reads the assignments and doesn't need to cram the night before. This bird, the 'Deanus Listus Manus', is nearly extinct. Late reports from the northern districts of New Jersey indicate that the 'Listus' is definitely a loser.

Interested test-taking methods... Pencil-Mirror Bit: for this, you'll need a dark pencil and a thin mirror. (¼" wide will do nicely.) Tape the mirror to the side of the pencil and you're all ready. Set? Go into the room of doom and get a dark seat near the wall. Hold the pencil near your eye and you can see your neighbor's paper easily. This is terrific, if you can read backwards and upside down without moving your head and if you happen to have a pair of 60X binoculars handy. There's an easier way. There must be.

Little Helper Method: take one piece of long, thin paper (25" of paper should hold enough facts) and stuff it in a vacant trouser cuff, hollow leg, or nostril. In your hour of need, try to put it in use without the eagle-eyed prof

The Dean's Door . . .

The first period grades provide the usual satisfactions, and disappointments. The number of men who, with these grades, would qualify for probation under the faculty regulations to take effect next semester, is altogether too large. While this is discouraging, all is not lost by any means. Many of the men caught with their grades down will rectify the situation by the end of the term. The lines which follow are for those men who are finding it difficult-to-impossible to gird their academic loins for a successful second half of the semester.

For the latter, this is the time for serious inventory taking. Ask yourself, why are my grades so poor? And then steel yourself for some absolutely honest answers. Is it because of inattention in class? Or perhaps, notetaking is faulty? Perhaps too many attractions are competing with study hours? After all, the number of such competitors for the study hour are legion, and their weapons range from a good competitive athletic contest to the glamor of some fair companion. All, or nearly all of the distractions are good in themselves. They become a liability only when they compete for your grades. Then they become like the scenery at an outdoor shooting match. It may be beautiful, but if the marksman takes his eye off the target to enjoy the scenery while he is also trying to shoot, he may as likely hit the scenery as the target.

Perhaps your devotion to duty is all that could be asked in terms of attention in class, and the appropriate use of an adequate number of study hours, and still the results are a cause for alarm. What then? Perhaps your reading speed is too slow? Perhaps you just have not learned to study efficiently? There is a difference between studying long and hard and studying efficiently. It is possible to put in the hours and the effort and get little for that effort. If that is the case, it is time to seek assistance from the faculty, preferably your advisor.

Perhaps your difficulties stem from the distaste you have acquired for one of your subjects, and there lurks in the procenium of your academic stage the quiet little hope that the now objectionable subjects can be shed at the start of the new term regardless of the grade or grades earned therein. Through the Dean's Door have come all too many requests for relief from the rigors of course work, and this spotting you. Go ahead, try! I dare you!

Unannounced Cut: this is the easiest method. It requires no work on your part, and adds an hour's worth of sacktime. It eliminates ragged fingernails, worn-out pencils and bloodshot eyes. The day after, you can obtain all the pertinent facts from the post-exam moaners. NOTE: this is to be used anytime you have $5 to throw away.

The Unannounced Cut system will not be good next semester, when the new cut method starts. At the beginning of the term, you will be automatically penalized two cuts per course. This means, of course, that you have to attend all the classes and must go two times extra, when class isn't in session, to show your interest.

The sound reason for the new system is as follows: "Several juniors have been heard to complain about recent dessert portions at the Commons. This, naturally, means that they have too much spare time," decided the college shaftinistration. "It will be good for all those concerned to attend these extra classes. It will amount to the piddling sum of 5 extra hours per week. If this plan works well, the extra hours will be increased." (naturally)

One of the best all-around test habits to get into is The Peripheral Vision Jag. This takes constant hours of hard practice, but it's well worth the work. Thin-headed men will be able to see up to three rows directly behind them. Several secret studying and test-taking methods have been chopped out of the article for fear that the faculty might start preventative action. Heaven forbid.

Ennyhow... tests are fun. They indicate a student's capacity, his real ability in a tight spot, prepare him for life's battles, and teach him many pertinent facts. Preceding is a direct quote from Dean Frank N. Stein of Fail U, Okla.

Muhlenberg at night. But let's consider two things which I think are present necessities before we buy lights. How about giving the dome and the student center a coat of paint, and then with the money that's left (if any) buy and install the lights."

Ken Reinhart, '56: "Yes, I believe the library dome should be illuminated. The dome of the library is the highest point on campus and should be used as a symbol to identify the college. The project of illuminating the dome would not be too difficult or expensive. Four flood lights would do the job nicely. I think the money could be raised without too much difficulty through the cooperation of Student Council."

Kenneth Trexler, '55: "The library dome is the most outstanding feature of the college to passers-by on nearby highways. It would, therefore, be very desirable to have the dome lit at night, especially because the college is not too well advertised by other means on nearby highways. The project would possibly be a good one for a class to consider as a memorial to the college."

Fred Walk, '56: "A college is a community and should then evidence community life. All communities are proud of the appearance of their location. As Muhlenberg is proud of its campus in the day time, so should it be in the evening hours. What would be more impressive to the spectator from near or far than to see the beauty of a dome such as ours enhanced by attractive lighting?"

Cas Wanczyk, '55: "I definitely believe that our library dome should not only be illuminated, but also painted. When viewed from Rt. 222, the dome is a thing of beauty and night illumination would certainly increase its attractiveness. Other schools have towers or domes illuminated, so why can't we?"

Bob Roehm, '56: "Definitely. The dome when lit could be seen for a considerable distance and would enhance the beauty of the college at night. The electrification and maintenance would be relatively simple and fairly inexpensive. The library is actually the center of learning on the campus, so let's bring it out of the dark ages. Turn on the lights!"

... Student Council Report ...

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on November 11, 1954 at 7:38 p.m. by President Ron Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Neville, Lauer, Quay, Adam, Schlittler, Weidknecht, Ascione, Wanczyk, Paul, Rosenberger, and Loy.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Elections Committee—Mr. Wanczyk reported that Freshman elections had been postponed one week because of certain difficulties in drawing up the ballot. Elections were held November 17.

Dormitory Committee—Mr. Neville informed Council that a meeting of the Dorm Council was held on Friday, November 5. It was also stated that Mr. Davidson has several books for the reception room in East Hall.

NEW BUSINESS

It was suggested that Council send a letter of thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Seegers for the dinner which Council enjoyed at the Seegers' home.

Mr. Hopper, President of the Cardinal Key Society, came before Council and requested $31.25 for arm bands for the society. Mr. Adam moved to table the matter until the athletic department had been contacted, since the organization ushers at athletic events. Mr. Lauer seconded the motion and the motion was defeated.

Mr. Lauer moved that Council supply Cardinal Key with $31.25 if the athletic department doesn't allocate the society this sum. The motion was seconded by Mr. Adam and it carried.

Mr. Schlittler stated that he had received a letter from WMUH asking if they could hold a general election. Mr. Quay moved that Council relinquish its ties with WMUH and allow the organization to act on its own once again. The motion was seconded by Mr. Adam and it carried.

Four parking tickets were presented to Council. Mr. Lauer moved that the four men be fined. Mr. Weidknecht seconded the motion and it carried.

The Jazz Society constitution was presented to Council and it was reviewed. Mr. Schlittler moved to accept the Jazz Society constitution. This was seconded by Mr. Neville and the motion carried. Mr. Paul moved to allocate $100 to the Jazz Society for a working budget. Mr. Lauer seconded the motion and it carried.

March 5, 1955 has been arbitrarily set as Father's Day at Muhlenberg.

Mr. Schlittler reported on a Commuter's meeting that was held on Thursday, November 11. About 135 commuters attended and they decided to ask Council to appoint temporary officers for their revamped organization. Council selected the following men to serve as acting officers: Mr. Lessel, President; Mr. Keys, Vice-President; Mr. Reimert, Secretary, and Mr. Brown, Treasurer. Council also appointed a constitution committee for the organization. The committee included the following men: Messrs. Kozauer, Mertz, Carpenter, and Helfrich.

Mr. Lauer moved that Council order all students to remain off of the Memorial Hall gym floor while wearing hard rubber heels. Mr. Adam seconded the motion and it carried.

Jack McDonald Named Most Valuable Player

Jack McDonald has been selected by a majority vote of the opposing coaches and sports writers as Muhlenberg's Most Valuable Player for the second consecutive grid season. Dick Werkheiser received a large percentage of the votes cast which made him the voters' second choice as the MVP. The balloting is conducted and tabulated by the MUHENBERG WEEKLY Sports Editor.

McDonald, the leading ground gainer until he was injured in the Delaware game, played in only five of the eight scheduled games. He raced for a total of 334 yards on the ground this year and personally accounted for four of Muhlenberg's touchdowns. Last year in addition to the MVP award, McDonald was honored by the Maxwell Club of Philadelphia and by the Mythical Six Conference coaches who named him to the All-Middle Six team.

"Mac," who is a junior majoring in business and economics, will be given the MVP trophy at the first basketball game of the 1954 season by Howard Frank, sports editor of the Muhlenberg newspaper. McDonald is also a letter winner on the College track team, a member of Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity, and is associated with the Varsity "M" Club.

Prospects Look Optimistic For Mule Wrestlers

Coach Ernie Fellows is optimistic about this year's wrestling team. Although the team has lost the services of last year's captain, Al Billy, who was the Middle Atlantic Champ in the 147 pound class, the prospects are bright.

Frank Gutierrez, defending 157 pound Middle Atlantic Champ, looms as the man to take Billy's place. Paul Billy, brother of Al Billy, heads the list of men in the 177 pound class. Marv Cressman, in the 167 pound class, Don Grammes and Woody Woodel, a pair of heavyweights, Artie Franzblau and Stu Godin are others who will be counted on this year.

Last year's record was 5 wins and 3 losses. The team also came in third in the Middle Atlantic Finals. The first match will be on January 6 with Colgate at home. This will be followed by other home matches with Temple and Gettysburg.

Robert Lee Wins Unsung Hero Award For Play Against F & M

Robert E. Lee, a Muhlenberg back who had previously carried the ball only nine times all season, was named the Eastern Collegiate Unsung Hero of the week for his stirring performance against the Franklin and Marshall Diplomats last Saturday. This is the third Berg backfield man in as many weeks who has achieved this distinctive honor. Tony Saddler and Tony Frey were the other winners.

BERGMEN!

Displaying his unmatchable speed to Berg fans for the first time, Lee entered the game at a crucial stage when the Cardinal and Grey lads were winning by only one point, 7-6. He carried the ball for nine tries and scampered a total of 83 yards. On one dash of about fifty-five yards Bobby Lee scored a touchdown which gave Muhlenberg a much more sizeable lead.

Lee, who lists Wayne, Pa., as his hometown, is a sophomore weighing in at 155 pounds. The nineteen-year-old backfield man packs plenty of speed on his 5' 9" frame which also rates him as one of Muhlenberg's fastest trackmen.

Freshman Footballers Register 2-1 Slate

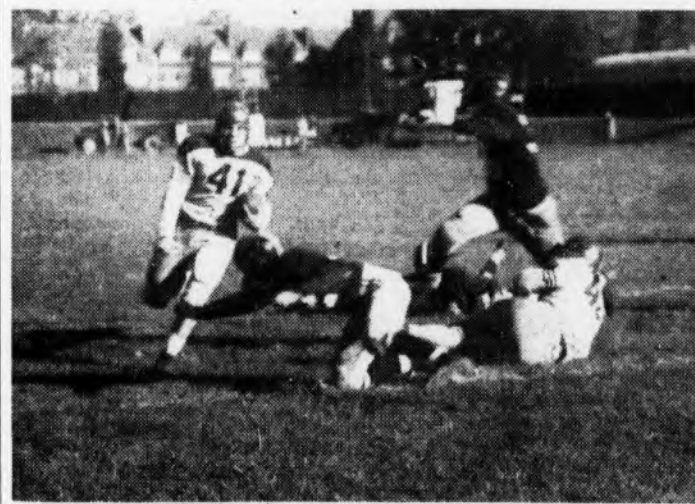

Muhlenberg's first freshman football team since 1950 was successful in winning two out of three games, their only defeat coming in their opening game at the hands of the Lafayette freshman eleven. Ernie Jackson's 80-yard return of a kickoff was the highlight of the game. Buddy McCutcheon scored the other TD for the Junior Mules, but this was not enough against the two Leopard touchdowns and extra points.

The Cardinal and Grey yearlings bounced back and buried

Coach Birney Crum Readies Squad For Tough Schedule

Head basketball coach Birney Crum faces a complete rebuilding task as he undertakes his first year of coaching at Muhlenberg. This year's squad is slowly taking form under the watchful eyes of Coach Crum and his assistant, Dick Schmidt. Vigorous daily workouts and intra-squad scrimmages are a big part in the getting-in-shape program.

Try And Catch Me

In the lower picture scabback Bobby Lee leaps over prone Tony Saddler (45) as he takes off on one of the nine runs which totaled 83 yards for his best day. In the upper shot Tony Frey (41) tries to dodge the out-stretched hand of an F & M defender. The Mules won, 33-6.

The biggest of Coach Crum's jobs is to fill the vacant places left by last year's three top scorers who were graduated. Co-captains Larry Friedman and Dick Rudolf compiled 14.5 and 13.7 point-per-game averages respectively, while Frank Cutko was third with 11.7. Friedman was the most consistent of the trio with his deadly over the head set shot or drive through the center. As playmaker he collected more assists than any of his teammates. His most outstanding performance last year was on Dedication night when he garnered 27 points.

Rudolph and Cutko were both one-handed setshot artists. Surprisingly enough, 210 pound "Tank" Cutko was the squad fast break man. Rudolph was a strong defensive player who rolled up 172 rebounds—second only to big Don Kurz.

The 1954-55 squad will revolve about playmaker Gerry Neville, tall men Don Kurz and Denny Roth, Cardy Gemma, Bobby Gall and Del Park. Neville will be the steady influence with his clever footwork and smooth ball handling. Cardy Gemma is in no way inexperienced, since he saw action with the Mules before entering the service. Cardy's main asset is his deadly jump shot in addition to a dependable set shot. Bobby Gall is the most deceptive ball handler on the team. Invariably Gall uses his long off balance "jock shot" as an effective point getter. He drives easily into any kind of defense.

Don Kurz and Denny Roth are the squad's two tallest men and will undoubtedly do most of the

Mules Top F. & M., 33-6, In Finale

Muhlenberg's "unpredictable Mules" ended their first winning season in six years Saturday, as they romped over injury-riddled Franklin and Marshall, 33-6, at Muhlenberg Field. Coming from behind a 6-0 first quarter deficit, the gridders found the mark during the second half, adding 27 points to their 7-6 halftime score.

Coach Tom Triplett used Berg's whole 27-man squad during the game, except for Jack McDonald and Dick Fetherolf, who are sidelined with injuries. The 33-point scoring barrage, led by Tony Saddler with 15 markers, was the Mules' highest output since last year's 39-14 bombing of Lebanon Valley.

Mule Scoring

Tony Saddler scored the first and fourth of the Mule touchdowns. The first came on a plunge from the three yard line, after Tony Frey had carried from the 18 two plays earlier. "Sad" scored his second tally on a long 30-yard run, in which he brushed aside two would-be tacklers. He also kicked three points-after touchdown.

Bobby Lee, who proved himself a worthy and speedy backfield man, scored on a pitch-out around left end late in the third quarter.

The other two touchdowns were scored by ends Dick Werkheiser

Stevens Team Kicks Hapless Booters, 2-1

Muhlenberg's soccer team ended its worst season in two years with a 2-1 loss to Steven's Institute last Saturday. The booters posted a no-win, nine-loss record in the statistic books. The NCAA ruling on freshmen limited the possibilities of having a well-rounded squad and as a result many inexperienced men had to be called upon for 88-minute performances.

Four seniors will graduate from the squad this year: Marv Cressman, Bill Rutsch, George Lea and Hans Peckmann. Cressman was the consistent goalie throughout the season and his key position will be difficult to fill. Rutsch proved to be of considerable value as the Mule's penalty kicker; he was a rough, heavy-footed fullback. Lea was the squad's most potent scoring punch. Peckmann was a constant menace to the opposition as he repeatedly intercepted scoring kicks.

Returning Booters

Many men will return to bolster the 1955 soccer squad. Dave Washabaugh was hampered this season because of an ankle injury. Vic Kotun has been very deceptive on the field and he possesses a great deal of experience. Another loss to this year's squad because of an injury, but a man who will return next year, is Al Zanetti. Other outstanding returnees are expected to be Bruce Francois, fullback, lineman, Harry Blank, Ken Reinhart, center halfback, and Wolfgang Koenig.

Lambda Chi Squad Wins I-M Grid Title

As the 1954 Intramural Football season came to an end, the 1953 Lambda Chi Alpha champs retained their gridiron throne. The deciding game was played on Monday afternoon with second place Alpha Tau Omega taking the short end of a 13-7 score. The eyes of

Second Round Ends In W.H. Tournament

The West Hall pool and ping-pong tournaments got under way last week and the second round is being completed this week. Each contest is an elimination game with the loser dropping out of the running.

In the first round of the ping-pong tournament Harry Berg defeated Dick Painter and Neil Hahn took the measure of Jerry Jacobson. Jerry Manutell beat Butch Roth and Dave Elkins set down Ted March. Mike Reinitz defeated Bill Holst and Leon Grossman beat Ray Croft. Moose Schrayshuen lost to H. Richard Bogh and in the final game of the round Dan Neal took the measure of Bud McCutcheon.

In the second round Berg stopped Nea land Grossman out-paddled Bogh. The rest of the games will be played in the following weeks.

In the pool tournaments Don Herman defeated Butch Roth and Sid Gamber beat Tony Maffi. Joe Della Croce took Rich Lichtenthal while Ken Wodtke defeated Steve Pollack. Dick Bogh lost to Bill Holst and Fred Gardner took a loss at the hands of Bud McCutcheon. Ray Croft lost to Neil

I-M Basketball

Intramural Director Ernie Fellows would like all Bergmen to begin thinking about the approaching intramural basketball league. Representatives of teams may contact him at any time to place the team roster. Fellows expects to begin operations approximately a week after the Thanksgiving vacation. Let's make Memorial Hall rock, men.

St. Joseph's Outruns Entire MACC Field

Last Friday, the twenty-seventh annual Middle Atlantic Cross Country Meet was held at Cedar Creek Park. For the eighth straight year, St. Joseph's was victorious with 23 points. Delaware was second with 68, followed by Lafayette with 83.

Eddie Mather of St. Joe's finished first in 22:47.1. The other St. Joe's entries finished as follows: Jim McDade (22:55) second, Henry Nealis (23:13) fifth, Bob McMahon (23:25) eighth, and Frank McLaughlin (23:38) tenth.

St. Joseph's Win Freshman Race
St. Joseph's also won the Freshman event with 39 points, even though first place was taken by La Salle's Earl Jefferson (17:13.6). Second place went to Lehigh with 60, and third to Alfred with 78.

Muhlenberg's first man to complete the course was John Keyser (25:33) in the thirty-fourth position. He was followed by Wally Loy (27:00), fifty-first. In the Freshman event, Berg fared better as Jerry Slack came in fourth (17:45) and Bill Kile (18:03) eighth.

Although twelve schools were represented at the meet, only ten entered as teams in the varsity event. Both Alfred and Juniata had incomplete teams. In the Freshman event, only eight teams were entered although both F & M and La Salle entered a few individual contestants.

Grid Reflections . . .

by Virgil Scott and John Keyser

Although this year's grid squad is the first to complete a winning season in the four years that the varsity seniors have been at Berg, many colorful events, sharp tackling, long touchdown runs, and tricky plays which never show in the statistics should be a part of the memoirs of all varsity scrapbooks. But let's turn back a few pages recall some games the upperclassmen will always remember.

For example, can you remember "Lobber" Mills' fabulous one-handed pass catches . . . or Dave Ehlers' dazzling 102-yd. run against Bucknell in '52 . . . and how about those smashing drives of past B-hallers, Joe Trechak, Jerry Hargrove, and Ernie Scarpa in last year's Delaware game? . . . Remember the year the Mules lost two games on baseball scores, one to Lehigh, 3-2, in the sleet, snow, and mud; the other to Upsala, 8-6, after Berg had been leading 6-0 with two minutes left to go in the game?

How many recall the punting duel between Berg's Jim Colagreco and Albright's Bobby Sudol two years ago at Reading . . . or Gettysburg's Joe Ujbai in 1952, running wild for the Bullets as the Mules were bounced 32-7 . . . (shades of 1954 Battlefield City game) . . . also, remember Lehigh's amazing comeback to rout the underdog Mules, 26-13 in 1952? . . . behind 13-0 after the first quarter, they rallied to take a 19-13 halftime lead . . . they tried the same stunt again this year, but couldn't get anything better than a tie . . . but talk about second period rallies, how about the 32-point Mule second quarter display against Lebanon Valley last year, the game ending in a crushing 39-14 Parents Day victory.

Most of us remember Bill Keeny's valiant but futile 79-yd. run on an intercepted pass, when the Mules dropped last year's season's opener to Albright, 6-0 . . . But can you recall Homecoming Day in '52 when such past performers as Jake Sheely, Larry Dottor, "Siko" Skidmore and Dick Jordan were wallowing in the mud against undefeated F & M, telling one another apart only by the stripe on their helmets? . . . the affair went to the Diplomats, 7-0, Berg losing a possible tie three inches from the goal line at halftime . . . And how about Jackie McDonald's excellent running that led to Berg's 18-13 upset of the highly rated Bisons last year . . . and his performance in the 20-7 victory over Lafayette which won him the Maxwell Award.

And who can forget the defensive Mules? . . . Punchy Segelbacher's bone-crushing tackles against Gettysburg in last year's heart-breaking loss, 20-19 . . . What about Stan Vnuk's black and blue arms after hammering Lafayette's center in Berg's '53 win at Easton? . . . Freshest in memory are Frank Gutierrez' and Tony Saddler's flying tackles in Saturday's 33-6 romp over F & M.

Remember Lehigh's 13-0 victory over the Mules in last year's "Snow Bowl" contest? . . . and how about Delaware's Jimmy Zaiser and his two 95-yd. runs against the visiting Mules last year . . . or the horror of losing to the F & M "midgits" in the season's finale.

The coaching staff has its own colorful details . . . Those in the locker room will never forget Tom Triplett's immortal Rutgers pregame pep talk back in '52 . . . Remember Terrible Tom jawing it out with an irate fan at last year's F & M game? . . . and where is Coach Bob Hicks this year? . . . head coach of Juniata's undefeated Huntingdon Indians . . . How about when Ralph DeStefano's fan club got together and persuaded Triplett to use the versatile lineman?

MYTHICAL SIX-BITS

by Moose Arnold

While Muhlenberg closed its season with a victory over Franklin & Marshall for the first winning season since 1948, seven of the Mule opponents finish their campaigns this Saturday.

ALBRIGHT: The Lions carry a 3 won 5 lost record into their final game against PMC in Chester . . . highlight of the season was a 12-7 win over Muhlenberg. Other victories were scored over F & M and Lebanon Valley.

BUCKNELL: The Bisons opened fast with five straight wins over Muhlenberg, Gettysburg, Lehigh, Temple, and Lafayette; however the streak came to an abrupt end as Boston U. scored a 20-7 win, Colgate administered a second defeat by 20-14. The Bisons rebounded against Albright last week to bring their record to 6 won and 2 lost . . . they close their season against Delaware in Newark this Saturday.

DELAWARE: The Hens also opened with five straight wins including a 51-13 romp over Temple, then came a pair of successive 14-13 losses to Muhlenberg and Gettysburg . . . the Hens brought their record to 6 won 2 lost by trouncing Lafayette 41-7 last week . . . Delaware meets Bucknell this Saturday in the East's small college game of the day.

FRANKLIN & MARSHALL: The Dips started fast with three consecutive wins, but have absorbed four losses in a row by Albright, Western Md., Scranton, and Muhlenberg . . . Gettysburg provides the opposition in the season's finale.

GETTYSBURG: The Bullets sport a 4 won 3 lost record going into their final game against F & M in Lancaster on Saturday . . . a 34-0 win over Muhlenberg in the "Tin Cup" game and a 14-13 upset over Delaware highlight the '54 campaign.

LAFAYETTE: The Leopards carry a 3 won 5 lost slate into their traditional game with Lehigh this Saturday in Easton . . . a surprising 20-6 win over Gettysburg highlighted a poorer season than was expected.

LEHIGH: The Engineers broke a three game losing streak by downing Gettysburg 20-6 for their first win and followed this up with a 33-13 upset over Rutgers . . . two straight ties with Muhlenberg and Carnegie Tech have brought their record to 2 won 4 lost 2 tied going into their final against Lafayette.

LEBANON VALLEY: The Dutchmen supporting a new coach in Elias McCracken and a freshman and sophomore dominated team failed to register a victory in a seven game schedule . . . their best effort was in a 21-14 loss to Albright.

Of Muhlenberg's eight opponents only Bucknell, Delaware, and Gettysburg are certain of finishing the season with a .500 record or better. Albright, Lafayette, Lehigh, and Lebanon Valley will all finish below .500 regardless of Saturday's results, and F & M must win over Gettysburg to reach the .500 level.

Now that the season is over, continue to show your school spirit and support, by attending the M-Club "Turkey Trot" this Friday night at 8:30 in Memorial Hall. There is no admission charge and refreshments will be served, so let's see everybody out at the fieldhouse on Friday night.

Fencers Hold Initial Meeting; Dr. Erskine Explains Procedures

Fencing Coach Dr. Andrew Erskine held his first squad meeting last Monday afternoon. Twenty-five to thirty candidates attended, including nine of last year's ten man squad.

Three home matches against Temple, Lafayette, and Haverford are already on the schedule and plans call for at least three more to be booked. These last meets will undoubtedly be held away.

In fencing there are three categories of participants: Foilers, Epee, and Sabre men. Each division has three participants who fence three times each in any given dual meet. Thus there are nine individual matches per meet. Each duel is worth a point to a team, so that the minimum number of individual victories necessary for team success is 14.

Individual scoring is done on a divisional basis, also. In the Epee, three touches gives the fencer a win, while in the Sabre and Foil, five touches gives a man the point.

rebounding this year. Kurz led the Mules in rebounding last year under the boards. Kurz is most accurate from inside the circle with his hook shot. Roth racked up most of his points on taps last season, pouring into the basket anything within reaching distance.

Ron Hoehman has been sparkling in practice sessions and appears to be good reserve material for the coming season. Set shot majors Dick Leber and Bill Smith are also seeking starting places. Other varsity members will include Al Booth, Dick Sherry, Jim Powell, John Wescoe, and Burt Pattison.

Dr. Ricouer Speaks At AKA Meeting

Tonight in the Student Center the Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha national honorary philosophy fraternity will hold its annual open meeting. The featured speaker will be Dr. P. Ricouer, Professor of Philosophy at the University of Strassburg in France who will speak on the topic, "A Phase of Christian Existentialism."

Dr. Ricouer is at present serving as a visiting professor at Haverford College in Philadelphia where he is offering a course in Christian Existentialism. Dr. Ricouer is well qualified to speak on this phase of modern popular philosophy for he is a personal friend of Jean Paul Sartre, the most famous exponent of this type of thinking.

This lecture is an annual event of the AKA designed to bring outstanding philosophers and theologians to the campus. Last year the speaker at this meeting was Dr. Bela Vassady, Professor of Systematic Theology at the Evangelical and Reformed Seminary at Lancaster.

The purpose of these lectures, according to Dr. Russell Stine, AKA advisor, is to take up some of the gap in the intellectual vacuum on the campus. Arvids Ziedonis, Alpha Chapter president, expressed the hope that the faculty and student body would turn out to support this lecture. He also stated that the AKA sponsors this lecture in the hope that other honorary fraternities would bring to the campus men in their related fields who could present their ideas on various fields of interest.

the house. After dinner at the Rathskeller of the Village Inn, the group will return to the chapter house to "A Little Boy, Little Girl House Party."

Phi Kappa Tau

President Don deQuevedo initiated seven men into full membership of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity on Sunday, November 14. Dick Smith, John Swartz, Jim Patterson, Jim Stroebel, Wally Reimert, Bruce Francois, and Dick Wagner were honored.

Dr. John Reed addressed the guests at PKT's first rush function on Monday, November 15. After the freshmen were greeted by the president they were entertained by some of the brothers and a magician. Refreshments were served.

Phi Sigma Kappa

Many Alumni returned to the chapter house on Homecoming Day. After the game a buffet lunch was served. Brother Lee Podnicks entertained many of the alumni at his house later in the evening.

Monday, November 22 is the date for the first Phi Sigma Kappa rush function which will be held at the Policeman's Barn, Lehigh Parkway. Rushes and student nurses from the Allentown General Hospital will be invited to the square dance.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Homecoming Weekend activity at the SPE House was highlighted by the election of Sig Ep Homecoming Queen Esther Zwanziger and the entry of the prize-winning Sig Ep Float "To Hell with the Diplomats" in the Friday night's Pajama Parade. An Alumni Homecoming Party was enjoyed by all present Saturday evening at De Shire's. Plans for the Senior Ball Houseparty are now under way.

Sigma Phi Epsilon freshman rushing parties are scheduled for November 23 and December 6. The entire SPE membership looks forward with pleasure to becoming better acquainted with the Class of '58 and extends to the freshman a standing invitation to come visit the House with the Red Door.

All upperclass men except transfers who have not as yet received the CIARLA are asked to contact John Adam, "G" Hall 328 or Cas Wanczyk, "C" Hall 112 for their copies.

The Chowline

Well a winning football season is under our belts and so are three Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Assoc. "Unsung Hero" awards and one Maxwell award winner. Tony Frey, Bobby Lee, and dual winner Tony Saddler will all be back next season to give the grid fans some more real football. Don't miss the presentation of the WEEKLY's "MOST VALUABLE" player award at the half time of the first home basketball game. This man is selected by the coach and sports publicist of each Berg opponent. After last Saturday's second half splurge, most of the beaming alumni (about 300) converged upon the Student Center where the Commons crew efficiently handed out the coffee and doughnuts. About half this gang had been served lunch in the Commons pre-game time.

They call it the Thanksgiving recess but we all know that it's really vacation time again. So do the pros—and are the tests ever piling up . . . right in the heart of rushing season. Don't forget frosh that they don't let you join a fraternity unless you have a 75 or better around this place. What's more they'll throw you right out on your you know what, if your grades stay too low, so spend a few hours hitting them now and then in between classes, eating at the Commons and those trips down town or to Cedar Crest. Grid Reflections

This year has its own memorable moments . . . for example, Bill Stranzl's "shovel" lateral to Mac in the Lebanon Valley game, which was good for a touchdown . . . or Lafayette's eleven-fumble 27-0 embarrassment at the hands of the Cardinal and Grey . . . or the way the Bisons rolled through the Mule line while the gridders were practicing their first body-contact tackling and blocking?

Without a doubt the highest point of the 1954 season was Berg's 14-13 upset over highly-touted Delaware. Zaiser, Flynn, Miller, and Company were handcuffed by the sharp Mule defense. Unsung Hero Award winners were Tony Frey and Bob Lee for their outstanding performances in the Lehigh and F & M contests.

All will remember the three blocked kicks in the first quarter of the Lehigh game . . . Lehigh gridders are still breathing hard from that 20-0 first quarter deficit . . . Lee Hoffman won't forget Berg's 1954 season or his part in the defensive work . . . Remember the team's scare when Paul Billy was raced off the field, into an ambulance, and down to the hospital during the Lafayette game? . . . or, to continue with injuries, when Mac was lost for the season in the first quarter of the Delaware game, because he suffered a broken wrist.

The important thing to remember is that one man cannot make a winning season. Muhlenberg's football squad was shallower than its been in a good many years, but the team spirit was present, especially in the last part of the season. It is not one or two stars who are responsible for this year's winning season, but the combina-

MCA Announces Advent Vesper Series Program

This week the Muhlenberg Christian Association announced plans for a series of Advent Vesper Services to be held in The Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel beginning with the first Thursday in the Advent season. The speakers for this series of three Vesper Services will be guest ministers serving churches in Allentown and vicinity.

Another program which is scheduled to be presented by the MCA will be the second assembly to take place on Thursday, December 2, at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium. This program will be a religious movie entitled "One God — The Ways We Worship."

the remainder of the day's activities taking place in the Administration and Science Buildings. Several members of the Muhlenberg faculty and Allentown Bar Association will act as judges along with the visiting professors.

President James Corgee announced that the entries are still coming in and that the attendance should surpass last year's. The topic for discussion is, "Should the United States recognize Communist China," which is the national topic for all Colleges this year. Registration will be at 8 a.m. and the first of four rounds will begin at 8:30 a.m.

Colleges which are attending thus far are Lehigh, Lafayette, Kings, Penn State, Swarthmore, Villanova, St. Joseph's, Bucknell, University of Pennsylvania, Temple, Seton Hall, Wilkes College, Johns Hopkins and Franklin and Marshall.

invariably at a time when a failing grade has been earned; and the request is usually accompanied by a request to substitute some other course next time.

Among other things, the college experience should be a character building one. Character gains strength in the testing. Anyone can be brave when the going is easy. A distasteful course becomes a test of the ability of the student to discipline himself to master it. A failing grade at midterm becomes a test of the academic fortitude of the student to drive himself harder and more intelligently toward the goal of academic success. There is no turning back. There cannot be a yielding to the temptation to surrender when the going becomes rough. There must be that resolution to stick it out, to do one's best, to achieve a sense of accomplishment in the face of odds. That this sort of thing has been the making of men has been demonstrated often enough. This will be true also in the second half of the current semester.

Bill Davies Plays At Seniors' 'Holly Hop'

Bill Davies and his Orchestra will provide music for the Holly Hop, the annual Senior Ball, which will be held on December 10, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the ballroom of the Americus Hotel. This is the first formal dance of the year. Featured with the orchestra will be vocalist Sandy Blaine and a jazz combination called the "Dixielanders."

Chaperones

Dr. and Mrs. William Green, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Smart, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Webb, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Dunseth Wood have been chosen to chaperone the affair.

Honored guests will include Dr. and Mrs. Truman L. Koehler, Dr. and Mrs. John J. Reed, Dean and Mrs. Henry M. M. Richards, and Dr. and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers.

Dick Beach, dance chairman, has announced that "everything is working smoothly and we expect a good attendance at the Hop." The other members of the dance committee are Fred Grosse and Sam Rosenberger.

Chapel Choir Makes Concert Appearances

Two concerts of Christmas music will highlight the agenda of the Chapel Choir in the three weeks before Christmas vacation begins. These concerts, on December 5 and 12, will be at Royersford and Laureldale respectively. During the past two weeks, the choir appeared in Schuylkill Haven and Hamburg.

The choir will also appear several times locally. On Monday, December 13, they will sing with the Cedar Crest Choir in the annual Christmas Carol Service at 3:30 p.m. This year the service will be held at Alumnae Hall, Cedar Crest College.

New rules for concert attendance have been set up by Mr. Lenel. A member is required to clear an absence with him beforehand. Failure to do so will result in expulsion from the choir.

Immediately after the vacation the choir will begin to prepare for its concert tours in the spring. The first of these will be given in late February.

LSA Anticipates Fall Convention

The Fall Conference of the Muhlenberg Area Lutheran Student Associations will be held on campus this Sunday. The local LSA will be the host for this meeting. Representatives from Lafayette, Lehigh, Moravian, Kutztown, Cedar Crest, the Allentown Hospital, and Muhlenberg will be present.

Delegates to the conference will register between 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. Registration will be followed by a service in the Chapel at which the Rev. John Taylor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Bethlehem will speak on the topic, "The Shortest Way Home." This will tie together the general subject of the conference which is "Misinterpretations of Christianity."

Following the service the representatives will break up into discussion groups. A business meeting will be held at 4 p.m. over which Donald Coffin, president of the area, will preside. At this meeting area officers for next year will be chosen. Supper will be served in the Commons at 6 p.m. A social program will follow at 7 p.m.

All those from the local group who will be able to attend are requested to make a reservation for supper with either Wally Reimet or Carl Behrman as soon as possible.

Murrow's T.V. Show Features College Debate

On November 20, the Forensic Council of Muhlenberg College held its second annual debate tournament which this year included seventeen colleges and universities. The highlight of the tournament this year was the national coverage which it received on the Edward R. Morrow program, "See It Now," which was telecast on the C.B.S. television network Tuesday, November 23.

Dr. Andrew Erskine, adviser, and James Corgie, president of the Forensic Council, announced that the tournament was a huge success and provided the College with its first national publicity on television in its history. Muhlenberg College did not have any teams entered in the tournament because of the administrative and office force needed to run the event. The winner this year was Georgetown University which was the only school that remained unbeaten during the day. Princeton was second and Penn State was tied with LeMoyne for third place. The other fourteen colleges were in very close order with Lehigh coming in last.

Faculty Judges

Allegheny, LeMoyne, Penn State, Bucknell and Johns Hopkins were visitors on the campus all weekend. Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Sigma Kappa and Sigma Phi Epsilon acted as hosts and provided accommodations for the men. Thirty Muhlenberg men, directed by Ron Schlittler, acted as timers and runners during the entire day. Dave Becker was in charge of the computing desks which had the final results of the tournament within ten minutes of the last debate. Members of the Muhlenberg faculty who acted as judges for several debates were, Mr. William Kinter, Mr. John Bullette, Dr. Claude Dierolf, Dr. Russell Stine and Mr. Dunseth Wood.

Snyder Offers Chapel Speech

The guest speaker at tomorrow's chapel service will be the Rev. Corson C. Snyder, D.D., vice-president of the Board of Trustees of Muhlenberg College.

Dr. Snyder, who was graduated with the class of 1917, received the degree of Master of Sacred Theology from the Mount Airy Seminary in 1920 and was ordained as a pastor at that time. Since then he has served as pastor in various congregations. Since January of 1938, he has served as Pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Bethlehem.

In 1942, Dr. Snyder was the recipient of an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Muhlenberg College.

Letter To Mom Continues Talks On Honor System

Editor's Note—This is the second in a series of articles which will appear in the WEEKLY by members of the Honor System Committee and other campus leaders concerning the honor system and its proposed place on the Muhlenberg campus. Jack Hopper, junior member of the committee, is the author of the "letter" which appears below.

Dear Mom,

I think the honor system would be a good thing, but we just aren't ready for it yet. (Of course, I don't know when we will be ready but, so what). Besides everything is going fine now. We have an excellent set-up whereby one can cheat at a minimum of risk. If you do cheat, you know from past experience how the prof will react. If he's a good Joe, he won't turn you in, and if he is a bad guy, you get a new set of extra-thin-lead pencils and onion skin paper. All works out magnificently.

The theory is to take the burden of responsibility off the shoulders of the prof and give it to the student. That way they don't have to worry about trusting us. This would be bad enough, but most of the pros don't want any burden, honest, Mom. They're good Joes and besides they say we're cheating ourselves anyway in the long run they tell us. But any American knows this is a lie or half our families would be dishonest. You gotta' play the game today; kill or be killed.

Besides, why should I bother studying my head off when some smart joker next to me can sit down and rattle off the answer and I can copy and get a good mark and get my all-important sheepskin. They don't care how much you know; it's who you know that counts anyway in the long run, you know? Now why should I be out of step with everybody else. They laugh at the dribblers that are honest anyway and I hate to be laughed at cause I couldn't hang around with the gang then and all.

This honor system is too much. They want us to sit without a prof in the room. During tests I mean. That would be cute. If anyone ever turned me in for riding on an exam, I'd give him something to remember me by. Me and the fellows would dispose of him. No, it won't go through while people like me are around to stop it. Besides like the man says, can't honor exist in a class room with a teacher there? Yeah, sure.

Your loving son,

Joe

M & D's 'Taming of The Shrew' Revives An Ancient Tradition

Tonight through Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in the Science Auditorium, the Mask and Dagger Society will present its first production of the season. Directed by Dr. Andrew Erskine, the play will be William Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," and will feature an all male cast.

Pictured above is a scene from the forthcoming Mask and Dagger production, William Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew." Reviving the old English style of drama, an all-male cast will be featured.

In keeping with the attempt to present an authentic Shakespearean production, the stage will be set up in Elizabethan style. This consists of a main stage, inner stage and upper stage. The latter will be missing, however.

Leading Roles

The leading roles will be portrayed with Jim McCauley, as Petrucio, Ted Drach as Lucentio, Bert Lum as Hortensio and Jim McConnel as Katherina. Others in the cast include Jake Huegle, Morton Sanet, Fred Grosse, Jim Patterson, Dick Beach, Don Sheasely, Ernie Polhaus, Mac Jacobs, Jon LaFaver and Dick Merrick.

Committee chairman for the production are as follows: Advertising, Dominick DeBellis; Patrons, Jon LaFaver; Programs, Tom Kelsal; Publicity, Kerm Gregory; Lighting, Fred Grosse; Staging, Dick Beach; and Props, Dick Merrick.

MCA Plans Advent Vesper Service Series; Organ Recitals Continued By Lachenauer

Tonight in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel, the Muhlenberg Christian Association will present the first in a series of three Advent programs. At 6:30 p.m., George Lachenauer '55, will offer an organ recital. Following the recital will be a Vesper Service at 7 p.m.

Graduate Fellowships Awarded To Scientists

The Natural Science Foundation has announced that it plans to award approximately 700 graduate and 130 post-doctoral fellowships for scientific study during the 1955-1956 academic year. They are to be offered in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological and engineering sciences, including anthropology, psychology (excluding clinical psychology), geography and certain interdisciplinary fields.

Graduate fellowships are available to those who are studying for either master's or doctoral degrees at the first year, intermediate or terminal year levels. College seniors who expect to receive a baccalaureate degree during the 1954-1955 academic year are eligible to apply. The post-doctoral category includes awards to individuals who, as of the beginning of their fellowships, have earned a doctoral degree in science or its equivalent in experience and training.

Open To U.S. Citizens

These fellowships are open only to citizens of the United States. All applicants for graduate (post-doctoral) awards will be required to take an examination designed to test scientific aptitude and achievement, to be administered on January 27, 1955. Selection of Fellows will be based on examination scores, academic records and recommendations regarding each candidate's abilities. A panel of scientists chosen by the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences will evaluate each candidate's qualifications. Fellowship awards will be announced on March 15, 1955.

The annual stipends for graduate Fellows are $1400 for the first, $1600 for the intermediate, and $1800 for the terminal year. The stipend for post-doctoral Fellows is $3400. Dependency allowances will be made to married Fellows. Tuition, laboratory fees, fees, and limited travel allowances will be provided.

Applications

ICL Committee Meets Tomorrow To Formulate Forthcoming Program

Tomorrow, at 3:30 p.m., the ICL committee will meet in the MCA room for the purpose of formulating further plans for the next ICL program which will be held February 14 through 17. The speaker for this session will be Dr. George Forell, Professor Emeritus in the Geology Department at Harvard University.

Library To Establish New Reading Center

In an experiment designed to make books more readily available to students, the College Library has established a small collection of books in the East Hall Reception Room. These books are of a popular nature and are intended to provide recreational reading late in the evenings or over week-ends when the College Library is closed.

There are no stipulations attached to the use of these books except that borrowers are asked to write their names and the titles of the books in a note-book provided for the purpose. When books are returned to the collection the borrowers' names should (Continued on Page Six)

Proposed Music Club Holds Initial Meeting

Last night in the Music Room of the Library the Music Club held its organizational meeting, after which Mr. Ludwig Lenel, club adviser, played some piano selections for the group.

Bill Sunderland and Al May, organizers of the group, stated that its purpose is to organize students who have an interest in concert music, and that its aims are to create active interest in music on campus, to urge students to use the musical facilities provided on campus, and to sponsor guest artists and student concerts.

Sunderland commented, "This is also an attempt to help fill the 'intellectual vacuum' which is reported to exist on the Muhlenberg campus."

The club also plans to become a nucleus to enable students more easily to attend concerts in New York, Philadelphia, and neighboring communities. Plans for coming events, such as speakers and soloists, will be announced later. All students interested in concert music have been invited to attend the second meeting, which will be announced in the future.

Increased Publicity

An effort to increase attendance will be made through a more extensive use of the facilities of WMUH. The committee also hopes to secure fuller co-operation of the faculty in minimizing examinations for this period and that of the various campus organizations in scheduling conflicting activities.

Dr. Forell will probably be available for luncheon discussions other than those at fraternities. (Continued on Page Six)

Editorial Views . . .

Academic Freedom . . .

Many heads were turned toward Muhlenberg College on November 20 when debaters from quite a few eastern colleges and universities gathered on our campus to discuss one of the most controversial topics ever picked for debate—"Resolved, That the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist government of China." This was the second annual Muhlenberg debate tournament, a meeting of young minds whose thoughtful presentations were to be telecast in the next few days to viewers throughout the nation. After some preliminary (T.V.) squirmishes in the Ad Building, the tournament came off as scheduled and once more our fellow college students surprised their elders with some very convincing arguments on both sides.

However, it is interesting to note the reactions of other college administrations. Annapolis and West Point officers turned thumbs down on any debate of the topic. Four Nebraska state teachers colleges did the same. On the other hand President Harry Gideonse of Brooklyn College was quoted by Time as having said, "You cannot waterproof the minds of the young against ideas which world politics rains down on them every day." President Eisenhower also expressed himself, speaking in favor of allowing the debaters to decide for themselves about debating.

With this heated controversy going on around it, the Muhlenberg Forensic Council, backed by our administrators, planned and sponsored a debate tournament which in the end provided a positive answer to the question of admitting Red China. Questioned about their personal feelings, the debaters, in chorus, said "No" to actual admittance. However, in bringing to debate this vital problem, our college men and women had once more made use of one of our country's greatest heritages—freedom of thought and expression. They had tested the academic freedom in our colleges and found it as strong and active as ever.

A Second Look . . .

After a month of service, Student Council's new bulletin board seems to be an accepted and well-used facility there behind the Ad Building. Unlike the Chapel bulletin board on Chew Street, it has been kept up to date. We realize that it hasn't been customary, but it would be more useful if Chapel speakers and their themes were listed so that passing town folk might at least feel invited to come into our Chapel.

Much to be desired along similar lines of publicity would be some student cooperation—ideas and suggestions—with WMUH and the students who operate it. The student station has been developing excellently with the help of a few. More participation would make it better.

From the Chaplain's Desk . . .

Between Thanksgiving and Christmas is the Advent season. This is the name that the Christian community around the world gives to the pre-Christmas tide. The Advent heralds an important historical and spiritual event. We give thanks in our hearts that there is one event in history toward which all men may turn with hope.

But Advent is more than a great event in history. It is, in a very real sense, a perpetual event. Advent occurs whenever Christ is born anew in human hearts. It is indeed the "blessed event" for only when Christ is given place in our lives do we come to experience the fullness and joy of living.

May the Christ Child, for whom there was no room in the inn, find room in your heart this Christmas and abide with you throughout the coming year.

Graduate Math Major Back In Department As Professor

Mr. George Feeman is shown above, back in the Muhlenberg Mathematics Department. This time, however, he is giving the lectures instead of taking notes on them. In his article, he contrasts his undergraduate days with the present.

by Dave Miller

The newspaper deadline was pushing me as hard as the wind outside as I stumbled out of the gale into the Math Office. I didn't interrupt the conversation between two of the professors. It was all about the importance of mathematics to the college student and to everyone else in the world. Naturally.

The younger professor was Mr. George F. Feeman, who proceeded to warn me that, unlike other new faculty members, he was neither well-travelled nor an out-of-stater, and therefore would make a very dull interview. Next, he mentioned enough things to make me believe him to be entirely wrong on this count.

He is originally from Lebanon and went to good old Muhlenberg College, graduating in 1951. During the next three years, he crossed the river to Lehigh, receiving his Master's degree there in 1953. At the same time, he was graduate assistant and a student teacher. Mathematics has been his major all the way through his advanced education. He is now working on his Ph.D. degree, on the subject of "Riemannian Geometry."

I asked him to explain this term, and got 'snowed' in two minutes. It seems that Riemannian Geometry is a general geometry, of which Euclidian Geometry is a special case. Einstein and others dealing with the shape of the universe and/or atoms, find that the simpler geometry doesn't tell enough. Let's leave it there. I understand less about it than you do.

Mr. Freeman mentioned that he has no time for hobbies. I asked him why. "Besides four Math courses and two Physics labs, I teach a seminar at Lehigh and take courses there," was his answer. He continued, "Of course, (Continued on Page Three)

by Don Reilly

From A.T.O. comes a long involved bit concerning the dubious (according to the brotherhood) taste of BOB TALMADGE when it comes to neckwear . . . ties, that is. It seems that BOB is one of those die hards that likes . . . that's right . . . actually LIKES those shiny silk-like monstrosities that have fallen into disrepute in these days of striped rep tie worship. You remember those ties . . . nearly everyone has a few hanging on a forgotten hook in his closet to remind him of his high school days when he thought Ivy League meant some kind of vine-growing organization. Those brilliant cravats were really the end. They usually ran about six or seven inches in width and featured flamboyant designs of flowers and horses and other inspiring subject matter. Then there was the one that glowed in the dark with the tender invitation. . . .

"Will you kiss me in the dark", baby?" This was a sure stopper at parties and clambakes.

Well, to resume, friend TALMADGE sports these beauties regularly so the boys at the house came back from vacation with armloads of these relics and presented them to BOB. From what I hear, their intended gag misfired, because as BOB's roomie DAVE MILLER put it . . . "He LIKES them."

Another redskin bit the dust over the Thanksgiving break as DAN HOSAGE, ex-writer of this column, got married to BETTY KOKOLUS. DAN is in the employ of IBM in Baltimore and is now on his way to becoming a substantial citizen.

I was best man at the ceremony (there's a laugh) and as such, I had to propose a toast at the reception. I got up and mumbled something I thought would be appropriate and made some additional remark about how Dan's single buddies didn't think too much of this marriage custom. Everyone chuckled politely except one fellow who took me perfectly seriously, jumped to his feet and said that after twelve years of marriage, by damn he'd do it again and he glared at me for mouthing such heresy. Then it was my turn to chuckle politely.

Have you been in the snack bar around the hour of twelve lately? One trip through the room and you have to air your clothes for a week to get rid of the grease and smoke odor. I'm told there is some sort of exhaust fan in there but I guess the counter girls like to live dangerously because they don't turn it on. For an ambitious undergraduate here's a tremendous chance for a money-making gas mask concession.

Here's a new Pat and Mike bit:

PAT: (who is on his deathbed) "Mike, me bye, when I pass on I'd like to have whiskey poured all over me grave. Would ye do that?"

MIKE: "Shure I will, Pattie old friend . . . but would ye mind very much if I ran it through me kidneys first?"

Sleepy Insomniologist Gives Correct Sacking Methods

by Ted Michelfeld and Al Hettinger

The fact of the matter is that most people take sleep for granted. For example, those of you who constantly fall asleep in the classroom take your F's lightheartedly without considering the tremendous amount of research that goes into developing methods for sleeping. We must confess that we, too, had not realized the scientific aspect of sleep until recently. We pass our knowledge on to you.

During the past summer we overheard a conversation between a food salesman, a chair salesman, and a mattress salesman in the shade of one of our city's lovely parks. As a matter of fact, the three gentlemen were seated in the middle of the fountain (keeping cool no doubt). The conversation went something like this: "You know, gentlemen," said the food salesman, "I hate to see a woman eat alone. I always go to her and ask if I may eat with her and pay the bill. And, you know, she almost always says yes."

"I feel the same way," said the chair salesman. "I hate to see a woman sit alone. I always go to her and ask if I may sit with her and hold her hand. And it's true. She invariably says yes." "It's bootiful weather we're having, isn't it?" said the mattress salesman.

The other two, upon hearing this remark, realized that the mattress salesman was a poor conversationalist and left. The man was left alone in the fountain. Then he saw us and invited us in. As we sat down in the water, he introduced himself as Dr. Eustace Coin, noted insomniologist. Now, an insomniologist, in case you don't know, is a man who spends his whole life sleeping and devising better ways to sleep. He offered us a soggy cigarette and began what proved to be a very stimulating lecture.

"Mein main reason for giffing dis talk iss because too many peoples don't know da first tnk about schleeping. Schleeping iss a wery popular indoor sport occupying from a minimum of 1/24 to a maximum of 24/24 of a day for every man, voman, und jild. Unfortunately, too many peoples iss sufferers of non-schleeping, (Continued on Page Three)

Dear Mule Kicks:

In the October issue of Muhlenberg News Dr. Seegers made the following statement on sororities for the college when the co-eds get here: "If the girls want to organize sororities, we would welcome such a move. It's normal that we might expect them to organize sororities."

Do you think the WEEKLY editorial board can induce Dr. Seegers into writing an open letter to the paper that would qualify that statement somewhat? Specifically, could you get Dr. Seegers to say for publication whether he would allow the organization of sororities with national charters that advocate racial and religious discrimination?

Since he did bring up the topic in the first place, he ought to clarify his stand.

As a footnote to his letter, you might ask him to explain the compatibility of the administration's no-more-than-two-mimeographed-sheets-except-for-tests policy for professors as an economy move with the wasteful spending for postage, mimeographing and secretarial time to send out "invitations" to students to visit the field house?

J. Swift

Dear Voltaire,

Do you remember the opening line of Rousseau's work, "Social Contract"? It reads: "Man was born free and everywhere he is in chains." This is so true and it must be reasserted to college students at every stage of their career so as to break the bonds of ignorance which tend to constrain our activity (ies) in all fields of social endeavor—in classroom and athletic field, in fraternity meeting room and student body meetings.

While we are free to choose either the broader or narrower scope which can broaden our intellectual horizons, I personally feel that many if not a majority of the students at Muhlenberg have elected to ignore any awakening of their mind to cultural development using the excuse that it would take too much time from their "studies" or "sack periods." When I pressed him for some high points of his undergraduate days, he reminisced, "Well, you know, most of the students were older then. I had a roommate who was the same age as I am now—he was 7 years older than I was. The freshman regulations didn't go over very well then, because most of the 1400 students were veterans."

Although some of his students told me that he is very considerate in class and will go over material without mumbling or moaning, I have one request for future stories. Mr. Freeman, please don't pepper me with so many facts so fast next time . . . my notes on you look like an excuse for a quadratic equation!

We are so content to let "the rest of the world" go by as that popular ballad tells us that we continue to sit tight and act smug, knowing that we won't be discovered because no one else is indulging in this form of intellectual creativity at Muhlenberg. And if they are you won't hear anything about it because they are satisfied to hide their "light under a bushel basket."

Can Professor Lenel tell us how many students use the facilities of the music room in the library? Can the history instructors tell us how many students can objectively discuss "McCarthyism"? As an extreme example of intellectual bankruptcy I can name a student who after three semesters at Muhlenberg had not entered the Library once and another who asked the question "Why is it necessary to go there?" (referring to the library).

Are Muhlenberg men shackled to a perpetual mood of apathy, Voltaire? They appear to be contented to playing second fiddle so often. Each of four men whom I was able to speak with at length at the University of Chicago this August had a vital interest in obtaining knowledge. Quite frankly, they spoke "over my head." Yet

We definitely had heard enough, and if you are honest with yourself, dear readers, so have you. We left Coin in the fountain and went home to wring out our pon-ton pants. As we gazed back for the last time we saw Herr Coin in his Doctor Dentons, with his head snuggled comfortably on a gold fish, snoozing quietly.

IT'S A FACT! College smokers prefer Luckies to all other brands—and by a wide margin—according to the latest, greatest coast-to-coast college survey. The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. Now for the Droodle above, titled: Inept smoke ring blown by ept smoker. He's ept, of course, because he smokes Luckies. Be ept yourself and enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

Stubborn Mules Kick Open Basketball Season

Temple Cagers Outscore Determined Mules, 78-69

Bad passing, rusty foul shooting and inexperience spelled defeat for the Muhlenberg court squad as the Temple Owls romped, 78-69, last night in Memorial Hall. The Temple foul shooters were deadly from the line, making 22 out of 32 attempts, while the Mules missed 17 out of 28 tries.

Hal Lear led the Owls with a total of 30 points, while Denny Roth paced the Mules with 14 ducats. The fast-moving Philadelphians, composed of five returning lettermen, outplayed the sophomore Muhlenberg team.

The Mules were rattled in the early minutes of play as Carty Gemma and Bobby Gall directed the floor play. The first half, however, was a see-saw battle with both teams exchanging points. Muhlenberg took the lead in the first period, 20-15, but was outscored by the Owls in the second frame, 19-8.

Most of the shots were taken from around the key-hole. Roth played the boards well and accounted for 15 rebounds, while

Don Kurz and Gall controlled ten-taps—off the back board. The Mules were on the short end of many of the jump balls as the smaller Temple five repeatedly jumped higher.

In the second half the Mules slowly closed a 40-30 Temple lead as a combination of Gemma, Roth and Wescoe capitalized on several fouls. After a 46-42 difference, the Muhlenberg players were unable to seriously challenge the Temple Owls.

During the halftime, Jack McDonald, speedy Muhlenberg back, was presented the football Most Valuable Player trophy by Howard Frank, WEEKLY Sports Editor. This is the second consecutive year that McDonald has been honored thusly for his outstanding gridiron performances.

MAS Directors Confer To Map 1955-56 Games

The fall meeting of the Middle Atlantic States Athletic Conference was held on the Muhlenberg campus Tuesday, November 30. The purpose of this meeting was to plot the athletic schedules of the various schools for the '55-'56 year.

Thirty-eight colleges were represented by their respective directors of athletics, who attempted to arrange playing dates, untangle conflicts and discuss their future plans. In the morning the executive council of the group met in the West Hall recreation room. After a brief lunch in the Commons, the group reconvened in a general session.

Mr. George Lawson, Director of Athletics, represented Muhlenberg College at the conference. Mr. Lawson is member of the MASAC executive council.

Mr. A. E. Humphreys of Bucknell University is president of the conference and Mr. Willis J. Stetson of Swarthmore College is executive director; these two gentlemen were in charge of the meetings.

Diplomats Pay Visit To Memorial Hall; Crum-men Welcome Lions' Encounter

The Muhlenberg Mules, who will attempt to be as stubborn as their nickname implies, kicked-off the 1954 basketball season last night in Memorial Hall when they entertained the Temple Owls. The Cardinal and Grey clad lads will clash with twenty-three other collegiate court teams before the season final on March 9. Coach J. Birney Crum and his team face a long, but well-tempered, schedule in the next four months.

The Mule cagers will try to twist a victory from the pretzels of Albright Wednesday night, December 8. The Lions are led by sophomore Mike DePaul, who was the leading scorer last year. DePaul sustained an injury in football and it is doubtful whether he will play in the Muhlenberg game. He was selected for the second all state team last year.

Another big gun for Albright is George Conrad who was second high scorer on the squad. The rest of the starting lineup rounds out with Don Pryor, Bruce Riddell and Jim Forman. The only other returning letterman is Ed Schiavo while three freshmen who will help to bolster the team are Ernie Firestone, Bruce Storm, and Ken Eberlee.

Last year the Lions beat the Mules, 65-59, and the Mules will be out to avenge their defeat. Albright boasts a 13-12 slate for their 1953 season including wins from Lafayette, Lehigh, and Franklin and Marshall. The Lions' coach Ed Gulian, who coached Albright to two Middle Atlantic Western Division championships, said, "We have practically the same team as last year and it is mostly comprised of underclassmen."

This will be the third straight home game for Coach Birney Crum's squad. The basketballers play 12 of their 23 encounters on the Memorial Hall floor this season.

Berg's cagers will face the Diplomats from Franklin and Marshall College this Saturday, December 4, at 8 p.m. for their second home game of the current season. This will be the only Mule-Diplomat court encounter of the year.

The Dips had an 8-9 record last season while the Mules finished with a 13-10 slate. Berg won its last game of the '53-'54 season against F & M, dropping the Dips into a losing season. Coach Woodrow Sponagle has had two weeks to get his team into shape. The F & M hoopsters started practice last Monday without the services of Henry Eberle, a 6' 3" senior, who was busy playing end for the Dips' grid squad.

Coach Sponagle has three returning lettermen from last year's team. The other two men are both sophomores and will be seeing their first varsity action. Coach Sponagle is expecting a great deal from his team this year, but expects the usual mistakes a young team will make. He does hope to iron these mistakes out as soon as possible. Among the probable starters are: Lee Pitcock, 6' 1"; Henry Eberle, 6' 3"; Ken Wendell, 5' 11"; Jack Ziegler, 6' 5"; Rudy Koning, 6'; and Warren Chase, 6' 1". These men will probably get into the game this Saturday night.

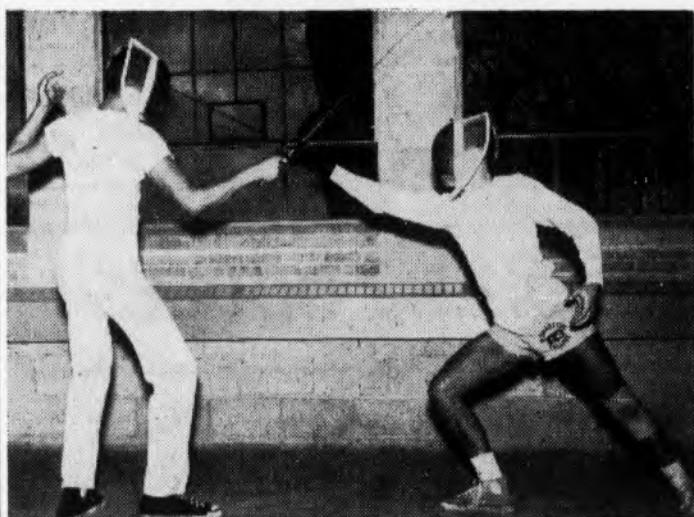

F & M has a green, but potentially winning squad, comprised of fast and tall courtmen, who will require a hustling squad to beat them.

Frank Cutko Signs Pro League Contract

Frank "Tank" Cutko, the jump shot artist of last year's Berg basketball squad has signed a contract with the Wilkes Barre five of the Eastern Professional Basketball League. In his debut as a professional Baron against the Hazleton Mountaineers, Cutko was held scoreless in limited action. He received much attention in the coal regions last March when he played in an invitation tournament at Freeland.

Cutko, a short, 210 pound, fast-break man, averaged 11.7 points last year and should prove valuable to the Barons in a similar hard-driving role in setting up plays for the tall timbers. Local court fans will long remember him for his dazzling dribbling ability and for his comic antics both on and off the hard wood.

En Garde... Suh!

Fencers Receive MAS Bid For Next March

An invitation has been extended to Muhlenberg's fencing team by the Middle Atlantic States Fencing Association to enter the invitational tournament which will be held at Johns Hopkins University in March. The team has not yet officially accepted the bid.

The fencing squad has been practicing daily in Memorial Hall under the direction of its coach, Dr. Andrew Erskine. Twenty-five men have reported for the drills.

The first scheduled match will be held on February 5th when the Temple team will visit Muhlenberg. It is reported that Lafayette has dropped fencing and will not challenge the Mules.

Fellows Wants Rosters For I-M Court Schedule

by Ed Kunkel

As the intramural basketball season approaches, director Ernie Fellows urges all interested team captains to submit their rosters to him by tomorrow noon (Friday 12:00). Only a few teams have entered the race so far and it is important for teams to contact Fellows immediately, as he plans to set up a schedule on Friday afternoon consisting of four games each day beginning on Monday, December 6. The 1953-54 champion "M" Club aggregation will again be counted on as a title contender. Last year the "footballers" beat favored ATO in the final playoff, 64-56. Leading the assault of the champs were Dick Werkheiser, Bill Keeny, Jack McDonald, and graduate Butch Haines.

Ken Reinhart of the GDI's was the most consistent scorer last year and he took the individual scoring title for one game when he scored fifty-six points in the West Hall matchbox early in the season. Other leading scorers returning to the hardwood this year are Mal Boyd, Lefty Cornelius, Sam Rosenberg, Cas Wanczyk, Tom Weber, and Dick Werkheiser. Outstanding newcomers and dark horses are Dick Emery of Allentown Central Catholic fame and Ralph Ferrari, transfer from Seton Hall.

Saints-Sinners Rivalry Renewed
For the first time in four years the Saints and the Sinners played a post-season football game, when John Adam led his crew to a 6-0 victory over Don Tihansky's Saints. The first half of the game went scoreless with all the action being played in the losers' territory. At half time, however, Adam "laid down the law" as he led his squad through a short period of meditation. The results were favorable as the "Naughty Ones" roared to a touchdown in the third

Gerry Neville

Gerry Neville, a six-foot, one inch, 200 pound guard from Union City, New Jersey, is a member of Berg's basketball team.

After four years of basketball at Emerson High School, he played two years of ball here at Berg.

In his freshman year Gerry had a knee operation and was unable to play. The same knee was injured in this year's soph-frosh tug-o-war and he has been unable to actively participate at practice until this week.

Neville commented on the team by saying that they are looking forward to a good season with the new coach, J. Birney Crum.

Gerry is an active member of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity, the M-Club, and vice-president of Student Council.

Vince Osadchy

Vince Osadchy, 6' 1" junior from Hazleton, is one of coach Crum's "sure starters" in the '54-'55 campaign, as he returns for his third year of varsity basketball for the Mules.

Vince, a two year letterman at Berg, has a solid background of experience, including four years at Hazleton High and four more in the army.

Osadchy, now 23, is a math major and hopes to pull down a teacher-coach job over in Jersey. He is presently vice-president of his class and vice-president of the M-Club.

Versatile, close-cropped "O'-Snatcher" is best known on the court for his two-handed over-the-head set shot, and for his tremendous spring in pulling down rebounds. Vince is equally capable in offense and defense under the boards, but is deadliest in offense from the outside.

Used mostly in reserve last year, Osadchy saw little action in the regular lineup. He first earned recognition for the Mules in his freshman year, when he scored 16 points in the first half of the Berg-Albright contest at Rockne Hall. He looks forward to a successful year under "the excellent leadership of Coach Crum."

Lambda Chi Blanks ATO Squad, 19-0, To Win Inter-Fraternity Gridiron Game

Yesterday afternoon, the 1954 intramural football champions Lambda Chi Alpha, took another title when they walloped second place Alpha Tau Omega, 19-0, thereby replacing 1953 fraternity champions, Sigma Phi Epsilon. A very large turnout of East Hall residents and fraternity men watched the special playoff, which featured everything one could ask for in a football game. The game was made necessary when the two teams battled to a 0-0 tie three weeks ago.

Quarterback Jack Russo was both passing and running star for the new champs. In the first quarter he completed a long pass to Bill Ingham to set the stage for the first touchdown. Russo scored on a short run over center behind excellent blocking.

The second touchdown was one of the brighter spots of the contest. With ten yards to go on fourth down, Russo threw a pass to Wally Loy, who was running toward the side lines. Loy juggled the ball four times on his finger-tips as he sped over the goal line. The extra point pass to Ingham was good to make the score 13-0 at half time.

Early in the third quarter, the winners scored their third touchdown again by way of the arm-flinging of Russo. On the receiving end this time was Bill "Sticky Fingers" Price, who also turned in terrific offensive and defensive game.

The most unusual play came near the end of the game when Ingham went back to defend against two ATO receivers, slipped on the muddy turf with no one near him, and then suddenly found the pigskin lying in his

Cedar Crest Girls Help Lead Berg Cheering

Ten Cedar Crest women will assist the Muhlenberg cheerleading squad during the basketball season. This will be the third consecutive season that the girls have helped to lead the cheers.

Rea Koehler, a Crest senior, has enlisted the services of Ginny Lapham, Lorretta Reese, June Marsh, Lee Matus, Jan Millar, Bobbi Myers, Linda O'Donnell, Connie Sahlin and Barbara Groler.

The girls will alternate game nights, with three cheering at each basketball contest. The Cardinal and Grey cheerleaders are Cal Colarusso, Dave Miller, John Simek, Ed Kunkle, Ronald Care, Bob McCombs and Bill Stauffer.

It is hoped that this one-time traditional rivalry may again resume its annual activity. For the benefit of the uninformed students, the Saints team consists of students headed for the "butcher shop" and the Sinners team consists of men bound for the "angel factory."

Speaking Frankly

by Frank Howard

With an abundant supply of sharp pencils and an extra hour to spare, your typewriter termite recently cornered Muhlenberg's basketball coach and his assistant. Although his hair has been slightly grayed by twenty-five years of experience, J. Birney Crum tackled our questions with as much enthusiasm and excitement as did his young side-kick, Dick Schmidt.

We could hardly hear the soft-spoken words of J. Birney above the constant bouncing of several basketballs on the court. Often we turned to his assistant as he re-echoed the comments of his former coach. Neither man ventured any predictions on the 1954 basketball season; rather, we discussed the sundry things which make up a good basketball team, with particular reference to the boys who play the game. Several times during the conversation, Crum removed his glasses and waved them in the air as if to emphasize some undebatable statement.

Emotion showed through his monotone voice as he announced, "We have a fine bunch of boys to work with; they listen and try to do everything we tell them." It was the smaller, younger man who added, ". . . the finest bunch of fellows we've ever worked with." The desire to win underlined their every word!

Both gentlemen, who are striking examples of what they preach, firmly believe in a team, composed of coaches and players, which is in the best possible physical condition. The two un-uniformed players on the court, running and passing just as hard as the Cardinal and Grey clad men, contend that basketball is a family affair. "We'll win together and we'll lose together!"

In speaking to the other half of Muhlenberg's basketball family, some of the players, we discovered a real respect and affection for the two men who will coach . . . and advise . . . this year's squad. They've instilled a remarkable will-to-win and play in the guys who pass the ball. The ballplayers are the first to agree that they're in the best physical shape and that they've learned some sound fundamentals.

If you happen to be the lucky owner of a "club-house" pass for this year's Muhlenberg team or if you can find some room on the bench next to the Berg family, you'll also feel the warmth and hospitality that Crum and Schmidt radiate. And, we can't overlook the experience and knowledge that they possess. After all, J. Birney Crum is MR. BASKETBALL.

He never dreamed he'd save so much

Seniors Formulate Placement Plans

A group of Muhlenberg seniors met with Mr. George Frounfelker on Thursday, November 11, for the purpose of formulating their plans with the placement bureau, which finds positions for graduates in the fields of trade, industry, commerce, sales, and business.

Seniors, interested in registering with the placement bureau, fill out cards when registering for their senior year and are then grouped according to their academic curriculum, with special emphasis on the subject in which they are majoring. A booklet describing "How to Apply for a Job" is later distributed to the men. Mr. Frounfelker then writes to companies interested in hiring men in certain fields and arranges interviews with these men on the campus. A sheet listing these interviews is posted around the campus and the interested seniors arrange a meeting time.

In majors where there are too few interested students to arrange interviews, the company invites the prospective employee to visit the home office in order to show him the location and working conditions of the industry. This is often the case at Muhlenberg, where the small size of the senior class has made it difficult to attract personnel managers to the campus.

In other efforts to attract prospective employers, the placement bureau advertises in the Journal of College Placements and maintains files containing all essential information concerning the various industries.

Council On WMUH

Through the facilities of the Muhlenberg radio station WMUH, tonight's meeting of Student Council will be heard over the campus airwaves. The council meeting will be called to order at seven-thirty. However, a fifteen minute interview and pre-meeting discussion will be added to the program. At nine o'clock the regular scheduled programs will be aired.

Auxiliary Completes Plans For Ice Show

Two hundred and fifty women met at St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church on Tuesday at the monthly meeting of the Muhlenberg Women's Auxiliary. Presided over by Mrs. Karl B. Gilbert, the group was presented with the final plans for the Ice Vogues of 1955. Sponsored by the Auxiliary, the ice show will be presented in Memorial Hall on December 29 and 30 and January 1.

Although tickets are now on sale at Memorial Hall, they will also be available at H. Leh and Company and Witwer Jones sports store after December 9. Proceeds from the event will be used to pay for the Auxiliary's pledge for the lobby of Memorial Hall.

During the course of the meeting, it was announced that a profit of $500 had been realized from the cantata "Job" which was presented in the Chapel on November 14.

The current Muhlenberg fund drive for co-education was discussed by the Rev. Luther Schlenker, director. He was assisted by Dr. William L. Katz, associate director of the drive and pastor emeritus of St. Luke's Church.

Quarterback Lefty Cornelius was throwing good passes, but his usually dependable receivers couldn't get their fingers on the ball.

ICL Committee

However, because of the good results last time, the committee intends once again to ask the social fraternities to provide meals for the speaker.

Byard Ebling, student chairman, has stated that any interested students are invited to attend the committee's meetings which are held every Friday at 3:30 in the MCA room of the Student Center.

The Chowline

Most everybody made it back after the short vacash (plagiarizing Reilly) except a few deer hunters. All rested up? Bet you studied like wild over the big (Thank the lord it finally came, gee whiz where'd it go) weekend. Firm resolutions as to class attending and studying notwithstanding, we had this function or that meeting on Monday. Tuesday breezed by with some blast action, and by Wednesday evening and the first B-ball game we were all behind in our sleep, classes and work. Yep, things are back to normal.

Since there's only a Mask and Dagger play this weekend, Berg's population forecaster is a bit dubious about his usual weekend rush prediction. Perhaps the faithful crew, which has been slaving for this production will get some support from the weekend bag-packers.

Commons eaters of old who missed the annual Turkey dinner got roast beef instead this year because we figured you'd gorge yourself Thanksgiving day on a big bird which you undoubtedly spent the rest of the recess period finishing up. While students were vacationing, the Commons crew continued to work cleaning up, waxing and polishing the floor, etc.

LSA members are having a buffet supper this Sunday in the Commons—Student Center area. Nobody knows too much about it but the rumor is that guests are still welcome. Adv.

Farm Opened For Hunters

Muhlenberg sportsmen will not have to look for a place to shoot this year. Murphy Game Farm, six miles south of Pottstown on the Harmonyville Road, is open to the public this year on a pay-as-you-go basis.

As a licensed Regulated Shooting Grounds operator, Owner John Murphy releases pheasants in protective cover each day. As required by state law, the ring-necks are fully capable of taking care of themselves in the wild. The hunter, however, has the one advantage of knowing that game is on the Murphy Farm before he starts hunting. After that it is up to the sportsman's shooting skill to bag the fast-flying cocks and hens.

The Pennsylvania Game Commission requires that one of every four birds released must go free, unharmed, to stock neighboring areas and to propagate in the wild. In John Murphy's experience, hunters only recover 60% of the pheasants released; thus, hunters in surrounding areas get a shooting chance at about two of every five pheasants released at the Murphy Game Farm.

Discussing his Game Farm operations, Murphy points out that relatively few people can always be sure of a place to hunt; this is especially true of hunters living in metropolitan areas. "From October 1 to March 1, shooters are always welcome here. And don't be fooled by the term 'regulated' or 'controlled shooting'. There's nothing artificial or unnatural about pheasant hunting on Game Farm," he points out. "Hunters won't stand for anything but the 'Real McCoy!'"

Tonight . . . In The Chapel

In keeping with the fast-approaching holiday season, George Lachenauer will present a recital in the chapel this evening which will consist of Advent and Christmas music by German and French composers. Because of the Vesper Service at 7 p.m., the recital will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Commuters Meet; Officers Elected

At its first meeting which was held Thursday, November 11, the Commuters' Club appointed officers and made organizational plans.

The purpose of the club is to organize commuters and to create commuter interest in campus activities.

At its organizational meeting, attended by approximately 115 commuters, the club appointed the following officers: Robert Lessel, president; Robert Keys, vice president; Merritt Reimert, secretary; and Robert Brown, treasurer. Also appointed was a constitution committee, to be advised by the officers, and consisting of Nicholas year. Carl Schnee, Stu Godin and Bernie Smith are also seeking positions in the light weight classes. Godin and Smith will vie for the 137 pound post while Art Franzblau and Bruce Francois will try to fill the gap left by Al Billy in the 147 pound class. Godin and Franzblau formerly wrestled at 130 and 137 respectively.

Kozauer, Dale Mertz, Joel Carpenter, and Ernest Helfrich.

Until its constitution is adopted, the club will function under the rules of Alpha Lambda Omega, the commuters' fraternity.

The first project to be adopted by the club is the formation of a car pool to facilitate transportation to the campus.

Fraternity Rushing Terminates Sunday

Fraternity rushing will terminate this Sunday morning at 6:30 a.m. At this time a silent period lasting until December 16 will begin. On this date bids will be given out at 4:30 p.m. in the Science Auditorium.

Those men receiving bids will be given an envelope containing the bids by Dr. Reed, advisor to student activities. Accepting a bid consists of signing it and presenting it to the president of the chosen fraternity who will be seated on the stage along with the presidents of the other five houses. Pledging ceremonies will immediately follow the acceptance of bids.

If a rushee feels that he has not made up his mind, he need not accept a bid at this time. Should such a situation arise, the unsigned bids are returned to Dr. Reed. He may, however, accept a bid at any time in the future.

Christmas Buffet Set For Next Wednesday

Mr. Hubert Holmes, manager of the commons, has announced that the annual Christmas buffet supper will be held next Wednesday, at 6 p.m., in the College Commons. Coats and ties will be the order of dress for this affair. President Seegers, Dean Richards, and several other members of the administrative staff will be present with their wives.

The supper will be opened with an invocation and a brief welcome and expression of Christmas greetings by Ron Schlittler, representing the Student Body.

The Freshmen are requested to enter through the West doors and upperclassmen by the East doors. Serving will be done from the middle of the counter with the usual luncheon procedure being reversed.

Holmes Comments

Mr. Holmes commented concerning the supper, "We are going all out to make this a memorable occasion and we ask that the students cooperate with us in making this a festive event. We would also ask that the tables be used to capacity as otherwise sufficient seating will not be available."

Dr. Smart Reports On Chemistry Research

For the past eight years Dr. Russell Smart of the Muhlenberg chemistry department has been conducting theoretical research in the field of organosilicon chemistry. Much of the early work was carried on in collaboration with Dr. Henry Gilman of Iowa State College. Three reports of the work have appeared in The Journal of Organic Chemistry.

There are two parts to the present work. By replacing carbon atoms in organic compounds with silicon atoms, over thirty new compounds have been prepared and their properties compared with those of analogous organic compounds. It is believed that a new type of isomerism unknown in other fields of chemistry has been discovered. Isomers are chemical compounds that have the same chemical composition but different arrangement of the atoms and therefore different properties.

Practical Applications

While the research at Muhlenberg is of a fundamental nature and has no immediate practical application, organosilicon compounds are widely used in waterproofing, lubricating, and insulating materials and plastics.

Funds for the work have been provided by a grant from the Research Council.

Omicron Delta Kappa Selects New Initiates

Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honor society for men, held its tapping ceremony yesterday at 11 a.m. in the Chapel. Ten junior and senior men were formally pledged at that time.

Founded in 1914 at Washington and Lee University, ODK has active circles in approximately 80 colleges and universities in America. The Muhlenberg circle was installed on March 22, 1930.

Members are elected to the organization on the basis of character, scholarship, intelligence, service and leadership in campus life, fellowship, and consecration to democratic ideals. Men must have attained distinction in at least one of the following areas: scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, publications, or speech, music and dramatic arts.

The new candidates for membership are: John Adam, Gunars Ansons, Lawrence Cescon, Marvin Cressman, Donald de Quevedo, Fred Grosse, John Hopper, Theodore Michelfeld, Richard Miller, and William Quay.

John Adam

John is a pre-theological student majoring in history. He is the president of the Muhlenberg Christian Association, the secretary of the Pre-theological Club.

Stine Retells Nativity Story At Club Meeting

Dr. Russell Stine, professor of philosophy, will retell the Christmas story, as he has done for many years, at the annual Christmas meeting of the John A. W. Haas Pre-Theological Club next Monday evening at the home of Dr. David H. Bremer. The meeting will begin at 6 p.m.

The singing of Christmas Carols and other entertainment by individual members will round out the evening's program.

Advent Vespers Continued By Rev. Schleifer

Tonight at 7 p.m. in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel, the Muhlenberg Christian Association will present the second in its series of Advent Vesper Services. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Herman Schleifer, pastor of Salem Lutheran Church in Bethlehem.

This series of special services is being sponsored by the MCA in an effort to emphasize the real meaning of Advent and Christmas. It will begin at 6:30 p.m. An organ recital by Richard Manheim will precede the service. These two events are open to all members of the Muhlenberg community.

The final program in this series will be held next week when the guest speaker will be the Rev. J. Albert Billy, pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Northampton.

At its regular weekly meeting last Tuesday, the MCA began a new project of having a special program with each meeting. Under this new system the regular meetings will take place in the MCA room of the Student Union Building each Tuesday at 4 p.m. The program committee, headed by Arvids Ziedonis, is endeavoring to provide a variety of programs.

WMUH Approves New Officers; New Constitution Also Effectuated

In recently held elections, WMUH, the campus radio station, approved the officers appointed by Student Council, thus putting its constitution into effect. The newly-elected station manager is Jon LaFaver. Other officers are Howard

Frank, business manager; Harvey Weintraub, program director; Marshall Reber, head engineer; and Bruce Francois, head announcer.

These men will hold office till the end of second semester when elections will again be held.

Regional Participation

Last Saturday Jon LaFaver and Richard Weidner represented WMUH at the Eastern District Regional Meeting of the Inter-Collegiate Broadcasting System at Lehigh University. A representative of a national network spoke and seminars were held on the various aspects of broadcasting.

Jon LaFaver, station manager, commented: "In the future the station plans a series of broadcasts which will include both home and away basketball games, faculty interviews and greater school activity coverage as a whole. To accomplish this goal, arrangements are being made to improve the mechanical and technical facilities of the station. There is also a possibility that we may be able to operate a world

H. Otto Receives Chemistry Grant

Harry Otto, Muhlenberg senior, has been awarded the Lehigh Valley Section of the American Chemical Society and a year's subscription to the Journal of Chemical Education.

The award includes a one-year membership in the American Chemical Society and a year's subscription to the Journal of Chemical Education.

Otto is secretary of the Science Club, a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity and the cross country team. He is also associated with the chemistry department's research on certain organic silicon compounds.

Seniors Present "Holly Hop" Friday Night At Americus Hotel

Muhlenberg men and their dates will dance to the music of Bill Davies and his orchestra at the "Holly Hop," the year's first formal dance, which will be held tomorrow night from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the ballroom of the Americus Hotel. This dance is the annual senior ball.

Sozio Singing Group Initiates College Winter Concert Series

A special Christmas program by the Peter Sozio Singers of New York City will open this year's Muhlenberg College Concert series this Sunday. The concert is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. in the chapel.

Because of the enthusiastic reception given to them when they appeared at the college two years ago, this group has been chosen to initiate the winter concert series.

Comprised of ten professional singers—all with experience as soloists as well as members of noted choruses—the group will present an unusual program ranging from early liturgical music to that of the present day. Of special interest will be the portion of the "Jubilate Mass," composed by Mr. Sozio, the director, and a short work "Joseph, Dearest Joseph," by Ludwig Lenel, head of the Muhlenberg College music department.

Well Known Director

Mr. Sozio has directed many famous choral groups in New York, and is a member of the famous Robert Shaw Choral. A graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, he is now doing research in sacred music at Union Theological Seminary. Mr. Sozio is the founder of the Bach Cantata Guild, which received high praise for its Town Hall appearance.

In a recent concert presented at The Cloisters in New York, the Singers were highly praised for their excellent program.

Varied Program

The program on Sunday will consist of plain chant sections appropriate to the Christmas season. Among the early composers to be represented will be: Le Grand, Dufay, Ciconia, Morenzo, Schuetz, Buxtehude, Praetorius, and Charpentier. The Peter Sozio Singers will close the program with a section of modern Christmas Carols from different lands. They will sing the carols of America (including Kentucky mountain ballads), France, Italy, Spain, and Germany.

Printed programs will be available containing the full text and notes concerning each piece.

Berg-Crest Choirs To Present Carol Service

Muhlenberg and Cedar Crest Colleges will continue a long standing tradition on Monday, December 13, when the choirs from the two colleges will present the Christmas Carol Service. This year the service will be held in Alumnae Hall at Cedar Crest beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, president of Muhlenberg, will be the speaker. The Christmas Story will be read by Dr. David Bremer, Muhlenberg's Chaplain. Dr. Dale H. Moore, president of Cedar Crest, will deliver the closing prayer. The liturgist for the service will be Dr. B. LeRoy Burkhardt, Cedar Crest's Chaplain.

Combined Selections

The combined choirs of the two schools will sing "Lo, How A Rose E'er Blooming" by Praetorius, "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light" by Bach, and "While By My Sheep" by Jungst. The Cedar Crest College Choir is going to offer "In Bethlehem City" by Ralph Vaughn Williams, "Joseph Dearest, Joseph Mild" in an arrangement by L. V. Saar, and "Puer Natus," an English carol arranged by Norman Gilbert.

This orchestra, which played for last year's Graduation Ball, will feature vocalist Sandy Blaine and a jazz combination called the "Dixielanders."

Old English Programs

In conjunction with the theme, "Holly Hop" the dance programs will be in the shape of holly leaves and will be lettered in old English script. Since the ballroom is already attractively decorated, the committee plans no further decoration.

The committee and chaperones have announced that the dance will be considered "on campus" and that therefore, students should conduct themselves accordingly.

Chaperones, Honored Guests

Dr. and Mrs. William Green, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Smart, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Webb, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Dunseth Wood will act as chaperones.

Honored guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Truman L. Koehler, Dr. and Mrs. John J. Reed, Dean and Mrs. Henry M. M. Richards, and President and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers.

General chairman of the committee is Dick Beach. Sam Rosenberger is in charge of musical arrangements and Fred Grosse, Ron Wix, and Don DeQuevedo have arranged for chaperones, programs, and honored guests.

Chairman Beach commented, "The committee has worked hard to make this dance a success and it is our hope that many students will be able to attend and have an enjoyable evening."

Dr. Koehler Gains Post

Dr. Truman L. Koehler, professor of mathematics, was elected chairman of the Philadelphia Section of the American Mathematical Association for the year 1954-1955, at that organization's meeting which was held on November 30, at Princeton University.

Dr. Koehler received his B.S. degree from Muhlenberg in 1924. He taught mathematics at the Allentown Preparatory School until 1927, when he joined the faculty of Muhlenberg College. He received both his A.M. and his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania.

Koehler is also a member of the American Mathematical Society and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. He is faculty adviser to Ciarla and to the Class of 1955.

Leukemia Consultant To Address Pre-Meds

Dr. C. Merrill Leister, a specialist in diseases of the blood stream, will address the Pre-Med Club on "Cancerous Leukemia in Infants," at the next meeting of that organization which will be held on Wednesday, December 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Science Building.

Dr. Leister, who serves as a blood consultant to several hospitals, is also a pediatrician. He will supplement his lecture by showing slides to further develop his theme.

At the last meeting of the club, which was held on December 2, two films were shown. The first, which was in color, was entitled, "Patent Ductus Arteriosus," and dealt with a physical defect of the heart. The second film was entitled, "And the Earth Shall Give Back Life" and illustrated the manufacture of antibiotics.

Editorial Views . . .

A Word of Caution . . .

The freshman walked into the living room of the fraternity house for the first time. The room was neat and comfortable as was the rest of house—it made a good impression. The members of the fraternity came up to the freshman, shook hands and started a pleasant, uncontroversial conversation—and made a good impression. Dinner came later—it made a very good impression. Many hours later, the same freshman left the fraternity house, certain that it was his choice. However, as the weeks sped by, the young gentleman found himself completely confused. Nearly all the fraternities had made an equally favorable impression.

The problem mentioned above is probably typical of many West Hall dilemmas these days. The question of joining or not joining a fraternity has been decided. If the answer is affirmative, the problem of which one may still remain. There are two words which we would set up as the basis for an intelligent decision—fellowship and development.

The most important cohesive force of a fraternity is its fraternalism, its fellowship. We would advise each freshman to look carefully for this particular quality, not only regarding the members, but also concerning the freshman's place in the fraternity. We have always claimed that not all houses are compatible to the same type of man. This is the way it should be. Find the brotherhood of which you can most be a part.

Then there is the question of what a fraternity can do for the individual once he has found the type of fellowship which he enjoys most. How much development is possible in that house? Here again, the answer varies with the individual. However, it is reasonably certain that where there is a healthy air of fraternalism, positive development will follow.

Next week by this time many freshmen will have made the final choice. The WEEKLY Staff, including men from all social fraternities on the Muhlenberg campus, hopes that their decision will be a good one, congruous with their needs and ideals.

A Word of Support . . .

Articles appear in this paper, verbal announcements are made, but still the Muhlenberg student body and faculty seem unaware of the excellent programs which the MCA has been presenting for the past three months. Beginning in October with an organ recital each Thursday evening, the leaders of the Christian association have added an Advent Vesper series to the program. Although attendance at these weekly events has been enthusiastic, we suspect it could be much larger. Many students on the old Berg campus might be quite surprised to discover how enjoyable these evening programs are. And may we suggest to our faculty members that they, too, take advantage of these early evening presentations. Forget that second serving of dessert and bring the family.

A Word of Praise . . .

Unfortunately this year's WEEKLY staff does not include a literary critic who is able and willing to properly evaluate Mask and Dagger's latest production, "The Taming of the Shrew" by Will Shakespeare. However, through the grapevine of sandbacks and stage props the words—"nearly perfect"—by an outstanding member of our English department seem to sum up the feelings of all the persons who were fortunate enough to see the men perform last week. Those students who did take time out from books and basketball games were treated to an excellent performance as they were transported back to the sixteenth century in speech and dramatic art. Those who could not find time to attend missed a real opportunity. May we advise the latter group, an all-too-large segment of the student body, not to stay away from the society's next production. From what we hear, it may be a real drawing card.

Sense of Humor Adds Pep To Dr. Schaeffer's Classes

by Joe Nickisher

"I'm just a local boy," Dr. Robert L. Schaeffer, Jr., a new acquisition to the Muhlenberg College Biology Department and a native of Allentown, Pennsylvania—said as he chuckled.

The congenial, soft-speaking Dr. Schaeffer, talking amidst the presence of students seeking out-of-the-classroom help who seemed perturbed by his attempt to deflate their egos, then said that he has a B.S. degree from Haverford College and a Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania and that he has taught at the University of Pennsylvania and Upsala College. "My chief interest is botany," he finished with a smile.

Thinking of the "good old high school days" when frog legs are tossed around in biology lab periods, I asked Dr. Schaeffer how Berg students responded to biology.

"The students at Muhlenberg College are the best I have taught," he replied, "and they all have ability. They are much better than the students at the University of Pennsylvania. The biology department here is almost a paradise," he continued, "and it is probably the best-equipped I know of. It can compare with any in the state."

Urged by the students in the room to speak about his sense of humor, Dr. Schaeffer told me that he injects humor into most of his classroom lectures, perhaps more so than most biology professors. He continued speaking and said that he served a two year hitch in the U. S. Navy. "I am interested in photography and play the pipe organ," he answered my next question.

"Being that Berg is a church-affiliated school, what is the student reaction to evolution?" I asked as my final question.

"There are no barriers to the question of evolution," he replied. "There are students who accept it and students who do not accept. There is so much popular writing about evolution in our magazines today that it is almost accepted normally. No student will be an atheist when finished with the course."

Innocents Abeard Shrewd, Piddling Pig Prose Proves

by Ted Aesop Michelfeld

Dawn broke early that morning on the paper mache' house in the woods and Tom "Curley" Selkall awoke with a great big yawn. Since his mouth was open, he took the opportunity to scratch his chest with the mammoth beard that was rooted in the endodermis of his drooping jaw. He looked at his Mickey Mouse wrist watch, which hung strategically from a nail in the bedpost, and realized that it was time to get up and begin the construction of his house. He knew that he had to build his house out of bricks in order to be protected from the winter weather and the wild beasts that roamed the woods. So, he pulled on his blue jeans and sneakers, wrapped his woolen scarf loosely around his neck, consulted his slide rule and log tables, and started laying the foundation with trowel in hand and beard akimbo, so to speak. Happily he burst into song:

"I build my lovely house of stone, And work my fingers to the bone. I have no time to laugh and play 'Cause this damn beard gets in my way."

Just then, from out of the forest came the merry sound of dancing sneakers and through the underbrush came the overbrush—Tom's brothers, Morton "Sacren Blue" Nasett and J. Bertrum "Lush" Mul. They danced around their brother making sneaker prints in the wet cement; you see, they were a little tight.

"Brother pig come play with ush, To the pool hall we will rush. Place a dollar on each ball. Gillesp' and Mackrall will take all."

and Al Grimm Hettinger

"Practical" Tom retorted, in prose this time, "Hoot now, you laddies ha' better build your hooses instead o' carryin' an' gamblin' yer money awa'."

To which his thatched siblings answered:

"We built our homes of sticks and straw;

To your advice we say, haw haw! Why should we work you pastva-zoole?

Dough we can lose by shooting pool."

And the pert little fellows pranced away, drawn magnetically to Ye Academy by green felt and jingling gelt.

A week later, a wolf by the name of Tony the Barber appeared amongst the sylvan scenery and sought to beard the piggies in their abodes and unbeard them with his platinum scissors. This was sheer madness.

Tony reached Piggie Nasett's door and cried out, "Littla pig, littla pig, ledda me in."

Now, Mort was no dummy, so he replied, "Nod ba de deah of ma chinny-chin-chin, eh bien! Wooly voo! non da plumb!"

The wicked wolf did not feel like huffing and puffing, so he pulled out his machete and hacked though the straw. Needless to say, Mort the drip took a flip with a clip, and sly Antone had little trouble reducing the shag to a face full of stubble. Tony looked about the room and saw brother Mul hiding in the corner. Quickly, he whisked away his whiskers while yodeling the chorus of "Mambo Italiana." He emerged from the hut with a fiendish grin on his face and set out for the

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

The B-Hall crew are riding Tom Triplett these days because he is sporting a new outfit, from tie to shoes. They're having a ball thinking up possible windfalls he might have come into. The popular theory seems to be that Tom took a trip to his farm or ranch or whatever he has, and sold a prize heifer, to pay for the new threads.

If anyone is wondering where BOB QUINN is hiding out this week, stop pondering. He's on his honeymoon. It seems he got bored or something over the past weekend so he decided he may as well get married . . . what the heck, it's better than doing nothing. (in a pig's eye).

If you got a minute over the forthcoming Christmas recess, make it down to Frank Daley's Meadowbrook in Cedar Grove, New Jersey. December 26 will be "MUHLENBERG NIGHT" at this famed dance hall. There will be a special section reserved for Muhlenberg cats and their dates and the band will wail on some Muhlenberg songs. The Alma Mater should really swing to a fast four beat. So do it, wrestling fans, and bring all your friends . . . both of them. For further information, see PETE ASCIONE.

That Pat and Mike gag in last week's column got quite a bit of favorable response. I have a pip to tell this week, but I can't print it. So if you want to hear a real crazy little joke, look me up.

The Shakespeare production is over, but BURT LUM is still wearing his beard. Be careful what you say to him about it though, because on Monday he announced that after 12:00 noon, he would start striking people who come up with wise cracks.

The Greek Way . . .

by Byard Ebling

The formal rushing program of Muhlenberg's six national fraternities is rapidly passing by. We hope that the rushing programs have not only given to the rushee a keener insight into the several chapter houses, but also instilled in them an appreciation for the fraternity way of life—for the Greek Way.

Alpha Tau Omega

Twenty-two kiddies from the Allentown Day Nursery will be entertained by the ATO's on Thursday afternoon before house-party weekend. Brother Bill Myers has solicited brother Ron "Santa Claus" Schlittler to emcee the party. Social chairman, Tom Coughlin, and brothers on the decoration committee have set the scene for the Christmas House Party. Highlighting the social program will be the entertainment on Saturday afternoon, featuring the "Piccadilly Pipers and Bonnie Davis." Brothers Hans Peckmann and George Lea have been elected to the All-Northeast Soccer Team. The chapter is proud of this honor which they have brought to the varsity.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Brothers and dates are planning to attend the "Holly Hop" on Friday evening. Several couples will follow Berg's basketball team to Philadelphia for the University of Pennsylvania game on Saturday. Lambda Chi finished the intramural football season in a blaze of glory, winning both the Intramural and Inter-Fraternity crowns. All the brothers are looking forward to the I. M. basketball season with great expectations. The brotherhood welcomes Frank Peters, Jim Reinecke, Tom Weber, James Strine, and Dick Johnston into pledge training.

Phi Epsilon Pi

The PEP boys held their second and final rush function of the year on Monday night. Phi Ep's steward, brother Dave Serls, planned a dinner for the rushees. Brother Marc Stroussburg led the fraternity football team to a winning season this fall. The brothers will continue the same wholesome competitive spirit in the basketball games.

Phi Kappa Tau

"Christmas Morning," reflecting the holiday spirit, will be the theme of the houseparty which the brothers of Phi Tau have planned for this weekend. The Saturday night program will follow. (Continued on Page Three)

Pig Prose

Practical Pig's hacienda with the piano-shaped swimming pool in the back yard.

Tony stood on the doorstep and rang the bell which gave out with a Brubreck version of "La Paloma." This alone crushed his aesthetic sense, but he marshalled his courage and entered by using his oxy-acetylene torch. There he was confronted by a stern-faced Tom, who was tracing sine curves on the wallpaper.

Now, Tom was not a physics major for nothing; he was prepared for this visit. A mechanical arm came through the ceiling and lifted the hapless barber into the air. An electronic computer took his measurements. He was thrown into a bath of hot after-shaving lotion for seasoning. Then he was passed slowly through a huge solenoid where he was fried to a crisp. Tom had triumphed.

Piggie Selkass then sat down at his piano, which was shaped like a swimming pool, and with his Satanic profile silhouetted in the setting sun, he put the appropriate finish to this story by singing a tender ballad:

"Ainta gonna shave this beard no longer,
Ainta gonna shave this beard no more.
Aint got time to trim the whiskers,
And the razor makes me sore.
Ainta gonna shave this beard no longer,
Till it grows down to the floor. O Lay!"

low this theme carefully, the brothers and their dates wearing dress appropriate for "Christmas Morning" — pajamas. Social chairman Joe Capozzi has promised a real bangup time with the emceeing being done as usual by Virg Scott. The group also hopes to put on its own inimitable version of a well-known Christmas story. On Sunday afternoon, the brothers will replace their dates with kiddies from the Good Shepherd Home at the Annual Christmas party. Santa will be there as usual.

Phi Sigma Kappa

The House party activity at the Phi Sig house will start on Friday evening with an informal party. Saturday evening the brothers will continue the social program with a dance and party. The chapter is proud of brother Art Franzblau's fine performance in the Mask and Dagger production "The Taming of the Shrew."

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The SPE's have big plans for the Senior Ball Weekend. Friday evening members and their dates will attend the Senior Ball in a group, after which they will return to the chapter house for an informal party. Saturday afternoon will find the SPE's and their dates trying their skill at a local bowling alley, after which all will return for a buffet supper. Saturday night's houseparty theme, "Honeymoon Weekend," will be enjoyed by all at a Pajama Party. Appropriate skits by brothers and a Dixieland combo will provide entertainment and music for dancing. Sigma Phi Epsilon extends to the Freshmen and their dates a cordial invitation to come and enjoy the fun at the "Honeymoon Weekend Pajama Party" Saturday night.

Mules Notch 59 In 2nd Half, Sock Lions, 93-73

Coach Birney Crum's Mule cagers won their second straight basketball game on the home court last night by bowling over Albright's hoopsters, 93-73, in a "rock-em, sock-em" wild game before 2500 Memorial Hall fans. Leading by a slim 35-31 halftime margin, Berg's courtmen put on a tremendous scoring barrage, as they collected 59 points in the second half, outscoring their opponents in every quarter.

Sophomore Bob Gall was high scorer of the game with 23 points, pouring through 10 markers in the first half and 13 more in the second. Gall, a consistent scoring threat throughout the game, was backed up by teammates Vince Osadchy (16), Cardy Gemma (15), Bill Smith (14), and Denny Roth (12), who all broke into double figures in the high scoring attack.

Don Kurz, Vince Osadchy, Denny Roth, and Dick Leber led the defensive Mules in rebounding. Osadchy single-handedly broke a 14-14 tie in the first quarter with a five point scoring spurt on three foul shots and a set. Later, in the third period, he pumped in six consecutive points for the Mules in another flurry.

De Paul Injured

Albright's scoring chances were limited without the presence of Mike De Paul, who was injured during the football season. George Conrad of the Lions, leading scorer at halftime, wound up with 19 points, second behind Gall, while teammate Ernie Firestone garnered 16 ducats to keep the Reading visitors within striking distance until the last quarter.

Mules Trounce Diplomats In 97-72 Win

by Sam Rosenberger

Rebounding from a loss to the Temple Owls in their basketball opener, the Muhlenberg Mules uncorked a vicious scoring attack as they humiliated the Franklin & Marshall Diplomats last Saturday night in Memorial Hall to the tune of 97-72.

The Crum-men, without the services of veteran Gerry Neville, shot off to an early first quarter 27-10 lead which they failed to relinquish for the remainder of the game. Berg found little trouble in cracking the Diplomat defense which permitted Coach Crum to substitute freely throughout the entire contest. At intermission the hosts enjoyed a 49-32 advantage. The Cardinal and Grey five coasted to victory as every man on the 14 man bench saw considerable action.

Without Veterans

F & M's squad was minus three supposedly returning lettermen, which undoubtedly weakened their offensive punch. Coach Sponaugle's dribblers were no match for the taller, fast-breaking Mules.

Husky Dick Leber captured game scoring laurels for Berg by dunking in a total of 21 markers in a display of accurate shooting and some fine rebounding. He was followed closely by teammate Bobby Gall who netted 19 points. No less than five Bergmen hit double brackets in the fracas.

Control Boards Well

Jeffries and Jerry Diem controlled the boards well for the Mules throughout the evening. It was Jeffries' spectacular driving-under the boards that accounted for many points, while Bill Dissinger shot well from the outside.

The freshman team will play the preliminary game to the varsity's contests with Pennsylvania, Moravian and Lehigh.

In a post-season bowl classic, the University of Delaware football team froze the gridders from Kent State last Sunday in the Refrigerator Bowl, 19-7. The Blue Hens' attack was directed by Little All-American Don Miller, who was named the most outstanding player of the game.

The Delaware touchdowns came in the second and final periods.

Lehigh, Moravian Visit Berg; Cagers Meet Penn At Palestra

by Ben Caplan and Danny Dannenbaum

The Mules face a strenuous court agenda this week as they play Pennsylvania, Lehigh, and Moravian on Saturday, Monday, and Wednesday nights respectively. The Bergmen will have the advantage of their home court for the Lehigh and Moravian tilts, while they will travel to Philadelphia to face the Quakers in the Palestra.

University of Penn

Although missing last year's captain Dick Heylum, the Quakers will field an experienced team at the Palestra. Returning from last year's squad are 6' 4" Joe Sturgis, Frank Mulroy, high scoring Bart Leach, and playmaker Karl Hoagland. The job of shaping up this material falls into the hands of Ray Stanley, successor to Howie Dallmar. Stanley had a successful debut as the Red and Blue defeated Purdue, 69-68, last Saturday night in Philadelphia. A newcomer who will bear watching is Lou Bayne, a guard who scored ten points against Purdue even though he sat out most of the second half because of personals.

No tickets will be sold in Memorial Hall for the basketball game with the University of Pennsylvania. All tickets must be purchased at the Penn Palestra box office in Philadelphia Saturday night.

The Muhlenberg freshman team will play the junior Quakers at 5:45 p.m. Muhlenberg's varsity contest, which is part of a double-header, will start at 8:00 p.m. Villanova and Notre Dame will meet in the second game of the night.

The Quakers beat the Mules, 76-63 last year in a game which was close until the fourth quarter. Leach led Penn with 28 points, while Larry Friedman was high for the Mules with 22.

Lehigh University

Coach Tony Packer will have a talented bench as well as an experienced starting five when the Engineers encounter Coach J. Birney Crum's cagers. Five lettermen comprise the backbone of Lehigh's squad. Co-captains Jim Gleckner, 6' 5", and Clyde Royster, 6' 3", head the returnees. Others are Eddie Cahn, Ed Clear, and Art Schifflin. Graduation did not hit the Brown and White hard, as Jim Picton was the only senior of last year's team. High scorer Bruce Thompson, who broke the school record of 358 points last year will not play because of scholastic difficulties. Coach Packer expects that freshman prospect Bill LeClere will be an added help to this year's varsity.

Last year the Mules defeated the Engineers twice by scores of 66-58 and 59-58. The second game was decided by Jerry Neville's charity toss in the closing seconds of the contest.

Moravian College

Moravian, under the guidance of Coach Harvey Gillespie, will be out to avenge the setback handed them by the Mules last year. Moravian will have its two top scorers, Russ Fegely and Bob Jones, back again this year. Missing will be Jim Smith and 6' 5" Dick Polenchar, stalwarts of the 1953-54 edition of Moravian. Dick Zahm, Sam Smith, and Joe Heard are also returnees from last year's squad which compiled a 10-11 record.

Repeating last year's triumph might not prove an easy task as 63 of Muhlenberg's 84 points in last year's game were recorded by Larry Friedman, Dick Rudolph, and Frank Cutko, who are not with the Mules this year. The final outcome of last year's game was 84-78.

Lawson Attends ECAC Schedule, Rule Meeting

George Lawson, Muhlenberg Director of Athletics, is spending this week in New York City attending the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference annual meeting. The meeting convened on Wednesday morning and all work should be completed by Saturday.

The ECAC, which governs all the colleges in the eastern athletic district, is the instrument by which schedules are arranged, policy is formulated and enforced, and rules are altered or revised.

Coach Fellows Prepares Matmen For Opening Tilt

The wrestling team, coached by Ernie Fellows, has been limiting itself to fundamentals and exercises for getting in shape, having thus far completed three weeks of practice. The conditioning is being done at a fast pace. A few laps around the track before practice, a fifteen minute drill of calisthenics, and weight lifting are being used to make muscles tougher and more usable. The wrestling room has been kept very hot to get the weight down.

Veterans Demonstrate

As actual practice begins, the veterans from last year's team demonstrate holds to the new men. They break up into groups as one man instructs and then the others pair off and practice the holds under the watchful eye of Coach Fellows. He plans to give them just a few holds instead of many because it will be easier to master them. They will learn a new hold every week.

This week the team will get down to actual competitive wrestling. Fellows is hoping to find some additions for the varsity.

Opponents Scoreboard

Lafayette, 85; Princeton, 74. Lehigh, 69; Delaware, 57. Moravian, 82; Haverford, 57. La Salle, 94; Penn Military, 59. Penn, 86; Swarthmore, 58. Temple, 78; Gettysburg, 50.

Ping-Pong, Pool Tournaments Arouse Freshman Enthusiasm

The Freshman Class held its annual ping-pong and pool tournaments this year with the usual show of enthusiasm for the contest as a large number of men entered the games.

As usual, ping-pong was the more popular of the two events. The competition has been keen the last few weeks and the final round will be played soon. The two finalists are Dave Elkins and Jerry Mantel.

Although the pool tournament did not gain as much support as the ping-pong, it featured some real sharpshooters. In the semi-finals, Don Herman downed Ken Wodtke while Bud McCutchen was the victim of Neil Fabricant's deadly shooting. Fabricant's skill could not stand up against Don Herman in the final round. Herman emerged victorious in the pool tournament and will be the recipient of the trophy awarded for this feat.

MYTHICAL SIX-BITS

In a recent copy of the campus journal, a sports writer from the near-by university in Bethlehem asks "Why doesn't Lehigh set the pace in pushing the 'Mythical Middle Six Conference' into the spotlight?" The Brown and White columnist claims that Lehigh "finds themselves an unwitting member in good standing" and adds that "we may as well face the fact, and support it, in spirit if in no other way."

Evidently, the pen of Engineer was sharp when he wrote—"Particular emphasis has been given to these (football) standings in the Muhlenberg paper. This unofficial conference . . . has thus far been chiefly promoted by Muhlenberg . . ."

We are honored that Muhlenberg has been recognized as a leader in the "Mythical Six Conference" movement.

But, we should like to inform our fellow sports writer that this was the last year that the Mythical Six was even an unofficial reality. Please note: many of the games between the six colleges (Bucknell, Delaware, Gettysburg, some Easton college, a Bethlehem engineering school, and Muhlenberg) were played for the last time.

For example: That Easton college may schedule Dartmouth next season; Delaware has a chance to play Tennessee, Villanova and Rutgers; Bucknell may entertain Harvard and Miami University; Muhlenberg may challenge Temple, Scranton and Rutgers. And, of course, we hear that the Bethlehem engineering school may engage Cornell, VMI, Albright and Temple on the gridiron. These possible changes will murder the Mythical Six.

—THE SPORTS EDITORS

by Frank Howard

Because of a lack of sufficient space and because of an extensive schedule, it is doubtful if the Muhlenberg freshman basketball team will receive the proper WEEKLY sports coverage that its potential prowess warrants. From time to time we will attempt to bring our readers up to date on the activities of the junior Mules with an occasional comment from Dick Schmidt, the freshman coach.

One of the biggest, and hardest, problems that face the freshman coach is that he must train and develop the ball-players so that they will be of service to the varsity in their second year. This problem is intensified by the fact that each freshman arrives on campus from a different environment; each player has his individual characteristics and playing habits. The freshman coach must overcome these obstacles and form a squad which plays together as one single unit. He must insist that his players concentrate on fundamentals and conditioning. This is a slow deliberate process which will ultimately develop a playing five which operates as a TEAM.

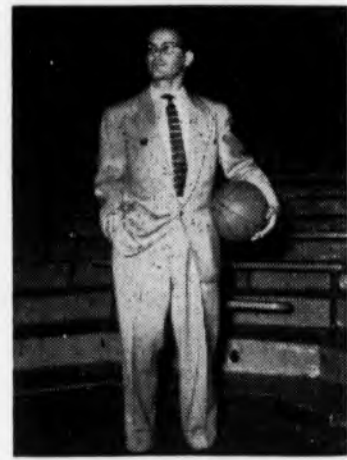

When speaking of the Muhlenberg freshman basketball team, we must consider all the elements which make for TEAM-PLAY. And, of course we must highlight the individual abilities which will add to the court success of that group.

As we have noted in the first three games, the starting five is a fairly well-coordinated group which will naturally improve with experience. BILL DISSINGER and FRANK NEELY are good outside men who can fake and drive inside just as well. One of the team's assets is that JERRY DIEM and CLINT JEFFRIES can control the bankboards with equal height and that they can shoot well. The team captain and playmaker, DENIS RIORDAN, is an excellent fast break man with comparable ability as a defensive man.

Of the men whom Schmidt can call on for substitute duty, JOHN BYRNE, is a good rebound man with a hook shot. Another man who fights well under the boards is tall CHUCK TAKACS. FRANK VARI is a good ball handler with an exceptionally fine right-handed jump shot.

Although BILL HOLST, ERNIE JACKSON, BILL KILE, and ARNIE MARKOE haven't been called upon for extensive service to the club yet, they are well-conditioned and are good shooters. Undoubtedly, they will get a chance to prove their worth to the freshman team.

Luckily, these men can seek advice—good, sound advice—from their coach and friend, Dick Schmidt. He is a firm believer in a squad which is well-conditioned and fundamentally sound. His freshman squad is just that! And, above all else, the frosh coach wants a five-man team which plays as a single unit. This, we're sure, he'll get it!

DICK SCHMIDT

By the way, Dick Schmidt is now a teacher at Allentown High School, where he formerly played for Muhlenberg's varsity basketball coach, J. Birney Crum. No wonder they work so well together as a good coaching team. It wasn't too long ago that Schmidt was getting in shape for another Crum-coached team.

The 1954-55 intramural basketball league got underway on Monday night with the following results:

League I

The first game in league I ended in an M Club victory over the All Stars, 46-23. Don Herman and Ken Reinhart set the pace for the letterwinners with 11 and 10 points, respectively. Fred Gardner led the losers with 10 points.

A well balanced squad of Deusemen whipped a weak Phi Sigma Kappa five, 38-20. The winner's points were well distributed among Arnold, DeMartini, Holst and Woodell.

League II

The first victory in league II was scored by the GDI's over the fighting Alley Kats, 52-48, in a well-played opener. Cas Wanczyk and Ralph Ferraro were high for the winners with 15 and 10 points, respectively. Farrel collected 20 points for the losers with a long unstoppable set shot.

In the second contest, Alpha Tau Omega edged out a 50-48 victory over the strong freshmen Cardinals. "Lefty" Cornelius set the victors' pace with 15 points, while Croft took high honors of the game with 22 points for the losers.

Tuesday results in League I

A strong Lambda Chi Alpha team trounced the frosh Hayseeds, 62-35. The winning attack was led by Bill Ingham, and Dick Johnson with 18, 14, and 12 points, respectively. Fisher was the only dependable shooter for the losers with 15 points.

The tough Sigma Phi Epsilon brothers ran over the Koncrete Zephyrs, 40-25. Wayne Hoffman was high for SPE with 14 points while Vince Dieter led the losers with 13 points.

League II

A strong squad of the freshmen Knights walloped Phi Kappa Tau, 46-24. The winners attack was paced by Danny Dannenbaum with 13 points and Ben Caplan with 10 points. Bob Fritsch led the losers with 6 points.

Phi Epsilon Pi beat the Hooples, 48-35. Grosse, Krain, and Tannenbaum divided 30 points evenly for the winners, while Keehn was the only dependable shooter for the losers with 19 points.

The entire program is composed of the two leagues with ten teams in each league as listed.

Students are requested to save this league roster as printed, since this column will use only code numbers for the following week's schedule as below. Next week's schedule (same code for both leagues):

Call Of Great Outdoors Lures Rough, Tough Berg Gun-Toters

by Jack London

There must be something to that "call of the wild" propaganda. With great expectations of bagging a deer, many Muhlenberg students and faculty men have wandered into the local forests with guns firmly held in their hands. Unfortunately, according to all reports not a single deer has been seen; but, the ambition of these would-be big game hunters does not diminish. It is not unusual to note the many safarists that leave the campus late in the afternoon.

NCAA Reverses Foul Shooting, Timing Rule

Two new changes have been made in the 1954-55 basketball regulations by the NCAA. The foul shooting rule has been revised and the timing of the game has been varied.

A new foul rule has been put into practice, replacing the old regulation which gave a second shot to a player who missed the first on a foul committed when the player was not shooting. The new rule reverses the emphasis from the second to the first shot, as it gives a player making the first shot a second shot, rather than depriving him of it.

Among those who report having seen something in the bushes are Breck Dierolf and Charles Canning. No late bulletins have been received from either Dick Steinberg or Bob Gillespie but it is assumed that they also return home empty-handed each day.

Although the reports have not been confirmed, the ATO fraternity house had rabbit for dinner on Monday night. It is rumored that the bushy-tailed monsters were slaughtered by those fearless men of the wilderness, Tom O'Reilly and Hans Peckmann.

The organizer of many of these expeditions into the darkness of the local game preserve is Mr. Andrew Bullis. According to a telephone conversation with a mem-

Council Report

Chapel Committee — Mr. Adam reported that a series of Advent services are to be held in the Chapel.

OLD BUSINESS: No old business was discussed.

NEW BUSINESS:

Class meetings have been scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 9 at 11:00 a.m. The purpose of the meetings is the nomination of men for class office for second semester.

A report on the Junior Prom progress was given by Mr. Quay. The Prom committee is faced with two alternatives in the selection of a band. They are: (1) To spend $1200 for a band and $500 for a vocal group, or (2) To spend $2100 for the Dorsey Brothers.

Mr. Quay requested $1200 from Council for the Junior Prom.

Mr. Adam moved to table the request until the next meeting. This was seconded by Mr. Quay and it carried.

Discussion which preceded this motion showed council to be of the opinion that a thorough review of Social Fund finances was needed before additional allocations can be made. $1000.00 has already been voted the Junior Class for its Feb. 19 Prom.

Mr. Adam moved that Council send a letter to Mr. Fred Grosse, student band director, congratulating him for the excellent job he did with the band this year. Council seconded the motion and it carried.

Mr. Adam suggested the possibility of bringing a Phi Beta Kappa chapter to the Muhlenberg campus.

Mr. Schlittler reported on a meeting at Lehigh University of representatives of the various Student Councils in the Lehigh Valley. A request was made for $10 to cover the evenings expenses. Mr. Rosenberger moved that Council allocate the $10 for the expenses. Mr. Baker seconded the motion and it carried.

Mr. Rosenberger suggested that a record player be purchased which would be used for record dances. Discussion by Council followed. Mr. Adam moved that Council allow Mr. Rosenberger to obtain a record player at the most reasonable price. The motion was seconded by Mr. Quay and it carried.

Mr. Spohn reported on the

"All good things come to him who sits back and waits for them," the old adage goes; but there are ten new men selected for initiation into Omicron Delta Kappa national honorary fraternity who have gone out a hustling and because of their activities and work have been honored. Congratulations men.

Not very many people attended the Mask and Dagger's excellent presentation of "The Taming of The Shrew." Rumor has roared though the grapevine system that critics of all accepted statures had their say about the production. As we heard it—from men unassociated with the dramatic society—it was well done; some Cedar Crest dramatic something or other notwithstanding.

Last Friday night the faculty members of several area colleges met for a dinner meeting in the Commons.

In lining up the Christmas festivities and decorations in the Commons during the final school week of the 1954 year, Manager Holmes will have the assistance of the Slater System's traveling dietitian. Also on the scene for the occasion will be the Supervising chef of the company. All of the fancy decorations and arrangements in the Commons will be a result of the Commons crew's efforts with the high level assistance from Philadelphia.

Group Singing

Various groups will be responsible for leading the singing. On Monday Phi Sigma Iota will sing French songs as well as lead the singing. The Commuter's Club and Der Deutsche Verein will direct the gathering on Tuesday and Thursday, respectively.

Commuter's Club. The Constitution is almost ready for presentation to Council. Mr. Spohn moved that Council allocate $5 for a working budget for the Commuter's Club. This was seconded by Mr. Adam and it carried.

Mr. Schlittler reported on the meeting of the Publications Board.

The juke box in the Student Center has been replaced by a new one. Students are requested not to tamper with the machine in order to obtain free plays.

Mr. Schlittler informed Council that he had invited campus leaders from other schools in the Lehigh Valley to attend a meeting at Muhlenberg in March.

It was suggested that Council petition the administration for postponing the day of return from Christmas vacation. It was recommended that the day of return should be Jan. 4 instead of Jan. 3. Traveling conditions plus religious ceremonies for many of the student body are the reasons prompting such a request. Mr. Adam moved the above recommendation. Mr. Lauer seconded the motion and it carried.

Mr. Rosenberger moved to adjourn. Mr. Weidknecht seconded the motion and it carried.

Respectfully submitted,
CAS J. WANCZYK,
Recording Secretary

Dr. Smart Reports

New Course

Next year a new course, "Introduction to Research," will be made available to senior chemistry majors. This will provide them with an opportunity to participate in a research program before they enter graduate school or industry.

Berg-Crest Choirs

(Continued from Page One) "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" and "Patapan," both arranged by Shaw and Lenel, and "O Magnum Mysterium" by J. Handel will be sung by the Muhlenberg Chapel Choir.

The Cedar Crest Choir is under the direction of Mrs. Wilbur Holman. Mr. Ludwig Lenel will lead the combined choirs and the Muhlenberg Chapel Choir.

Mr. and Mrs. Stu Erwin, stars of TV's great "Stu Erwin Show": As we say on TV, this certainly is the Miracle Tip. L&M's filter beats 'em all.

Mrs. Laddie Sanford, Socialite: I smoke L&Ms . . . so do most of my friends. Wonderful filter . . . fine taste!

Enjoy Much More Flavor—Much Less Nicotine

WHAT is it that makes L&M the most talked-about, most eagerly accepted, the fastest growing cigarette of all time?

Just this. It's the filter that counts—and none compares with L&M's Miracle Tip. You get much more flavor, much less nicotine—a light and mild smoke. That's effective filtration. No other cigarette has it!

Why wait to try L&Ms? Discover for yourself what more and more filter tip smokers are finding out every day: L&Ms are just what the doctor ordered.

America's Best Filter Cigarette!

AND it came to pass in those days that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.) And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; because he was of the house and lineage of David to be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her first born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night, and, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

Officers Nominated For Second Semester Roles

On Thursday, December 9, the classes of 1956, 1957, and 1958 held meetings in the Science Building. All three classes held nominations for class offices for the second semester, and the class of 1956 also discussed the Junior Prom.

Larry Cescon, Prom Committee chairman, announced in his report that Art Mooney and his orchestra will provide the music for the prom, which is to be held on Friday, February 18. The class then discussed entertainment for the intermission and decided to engage a dixieland band.

The juniors nominated the following men: for president, Bill Quay, Tom Coughlin, and Larry Cescon; vice president, Vince Osadchy; secretary, Len Vinnick; treasurer, Bob Roehm.

The sophomores, presided over by Paul Weidknecht, nominated Richard Grimm and Yousis Joseph to run for president against the incumbent, Weidknecht. Nominated for re-election were secretary Morris Van Natta and treasurer Lew Schwartz. Bob Shank was nominated for vice president.

The Freshman class meeting, which was poorly attended, nominated for re-election the present officers, Martin Baker, president; Norman Wangman, vice president; Joe Becker, secretary; and Donald Herman, treasurer.

WUS Solicits Donations In Campus Drive

The campus drive for World University Service will be conducted at Muhlenberg Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, January 5, 6, and 7. Solicitors will be contacting the students and faculty during these three days to inform them further about the work of this organization and to receive donations and pledges.

WUS annually conducts fund-raising campaigns on more than seven hundred American campuses to support universities abroad. It also seeks to develop a program of education for international understanding. Sponsors include the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, the Newman Club Federation, the United Student Christian Council and student divisions of the Protestant Churches.

Harvard Publishes Article By Bourque

Mr. Philip Bourque, instructor in the Economics Department, is the author of an article published in November issue of The Review of Economics and Statistics, published by Harvard University. The title of the article is, "The Domestic Importance of Foreign Trade of the United States, by Producing Regions Manufacturing Sector, 1947."

The paper presents some results of an analysis of American foreign trade by producing regions for manufactured products for the year 1947. Industries are classified on the basis of whether their output enters exports or competes with imports. The final conclusion of the article is that the "importance of foreign trade to regions of the country is highly uneven, absolutely and relatively." Bourque was spurred on in his

Board Accepts East Hall Plans

The Muhlenberg Board of Trustees, at its Tuesday meeting, accepted preliminary plans for the new men's dormitory. The plans, submitted by Mr. John Heyl, of Heyl, Bond, and Miller, Allentown architects, include room facilities for 173 students. Sketches show the addition to the north and west of the present East Hall will extend west to nearly equal the frontage of "B" and "C" Halls.

In accepting the plans, the board stressed that the proposed project was completely tentative. Construction hinges on the Ministerium's fund-raising appeal reaching $850,000 in cash before contracts can be awarded. The total pledges thus far received amount to $710,000.

Also discussed at the meeting was the program for remodeling West Hall to house women students. To be used for this purpose as soon as co-education becomes a reality, the structure now accommodates 160 freshmen.

At the board elections, held in conjunction with the Tuesday meeting, Atty. George B. Balmer was renominated board president; Dr. Corson C. Snyder, vice president; and Howard M. MacGregor, secretary-treasurer.

Muhlenberg Women's Auxiliary Sponsors Ice Vogues Of '55

"Ice Vogues of 1955," under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg College, will be presented December 29 through January 1 in Memorial Hall. Evening Performances will begin at 8:15 p.m. and a New Year's Day matinee at 2:15 p.m.

The production will feature a cast of 75 American and European novelty and champion skaters. A line of 24 precision skaters will also be presented.

Eight Numbers

Eight production numbers will include "Freedom Is Everybody's Business," "A Date in the Blue Room," "Under Sea Wonderland," "Springtime in Japan" and as a finale, "At the Cotton Ball."

Tickets are now on sale at Memorial Hall and Witwer-Jones Sporting Goods Store, 923 Hamilton St., Allentown. A central ticket office will be opened at H. Leh & Company, Hamilton St., Allentown, on December 9.

Floor Covered

For the event the Muhlenberg basketball floor will be covered with a two-and-one-half inch thickness of ice. Three days and nights of continuous preparation will be required to prepare the ice ring.

The production is being managed by the Holiday On Ice Shows, Inc. This organization is the world's foremost producer of ice shows, having two companies touring this country, two in Europe and one in the Orient. Re-

Religion Department Members Officiate At Christmas Service

This morning at 11 a.m., the annual college Christmas carol service was held in Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel. Several members of the religion department officiated at the service and the chapel choir presented several numbers.

The Rev. Hagen Staack, Ph.D., the Rev. Russell W. Stine, Ph.D., and the Rev. Conrad W. Raker acted as liturgists, and the Rev. David H. Bremer, Ph.D., delivered the Christmas message.

The chapel choir, directed by Mr. Ludwig Lenel, sang J. Handl's "Resonet in Laudibus," "O Magnum Mysterium," and Palestrina's "Hodie Christus Natus Est." After the message, the choir sang "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," as arranged by Shaw and Lenel, "I Sing of a Maiden," by Shaw, "We Three Kings," by Hopkins, "Patapan," again arranged by Shaw, "Noel, Noel," arranged by Gevaert, and "Angels We Have Heard On High," arranged by Lenel.

Campus Groups Lead Informal Carol Sing

In the hope of reviving an old tradition, informal group carol singing was held every day of this week at noon in the foyer of the Administration Building. Various campus groups lead the singing.

The twenty minute songfests were well attended by the student body and the faculty. Music was provided by the brass quartet and individual members of the band.

On Monday, Phi Sigma Iota, sang French songs and led the carollers as well. The Com-

Honor System Helps Student

(Editor's note: Bill Miller, the writer of this, the third in a series of articles about the Honor System, is a transfer from Washington and Lee College. Having worked for a period under the honor system at Washington and Lee, the writer is well qualified to speak on this topic.)

How often do we pause to make our own independent analysis of current topics concerning our college? Take the proposed honor system as an example. In what ways would our approval of such a system help us to achieve the goals we had in mind when we came to Muhlenberg? Might the approval of the honor system be detrimental to our cause?

Assume for a moment that there is an honor system in effect here. Each of us has privately agreed to support its principles with a mutual confidence that our fellow students have done the same. Now, how is this honor system serving us?

Most of us are in college "to get an education" or "to get a degree," but so often we fail to realize what is implied by these stock phrases. The fact that an

ODK Initiates Ten Tuesday

The ten men in the accompanying picture were initiated Tuesday afternoon into Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity.

Three members of the faculty and two Senior members of the organization took part in the ceremony. They were Dr. Truman Koehler, Dr. Kenneth Webb, Dr. Russell Stine, Mr. Walter Loy and Mr. Ronald Schlittler.

An informal post-ceremony meeting was held at which time the program of coordinating high school and campus clubs was discussed. The previous evening's combined program of the science clubs of Allentown High School and Muhlenberg was the center of the discussion. The meeting proved successful and thus stimulated discussion on future possibilities along this line.

Editorial Views . . .

Fairer Ticket Prices . . .

Students have complained unceasingly and ineffectively in past years about the high price of tickets for Muhlenberg basketball games played away from the campus. Everyone agrees that $1.25 to $1.50 per capita is too much to expect students to pay to see a college game. Yet the fact remains that Muhlenberg students must pay $1.25 at the Memorial Hall turnstiles for their dates. The same holds true for opposition students.

Naturally, other schools won't give our cheering section a price break on away games if we will not reciprocate. Why the men whose support and spirit are necessary attributes for a successful team have to pay more than a 50 cent or 75 cent fee for their lady guest, we can't see. Besides being poor business, it's downright unreasonable. Perhaps many more of the vacant Memorial Hall seats could profitably be filled at a lower price with students' dates.

Perhaps the new parking lot can be utilized as softball diamonds next spring. All it takes are some cans of paint and brushes.

Christmas Gift Idea . . .

With Thanksgiving receding in our memories and with the Advent season well advanced, we might pause to reflect on the gift giving usually associated with Yuletide. One usually gives something to make someone else happy. But true happiness is a two way affair; it is like the surge of joy a child feels when Santa comes through, mirrored against proud parents who are glad their child is happy.

Somehow the false cheer of a commercialized Christmas with gift "exchanging" as just an annual custom doesn't put you in the true Christmas spirit.

If you are the type of person who gets a big kick out of the knowledge of how happy your gift will make someone, rather than how much it cost or whether yours is better, then imagine the happiness that can be yours with your practicing of giving.

People who think they know say that, "with the measure you give, you receive," while those who practice the giving doctrine reap rewards that are pressed down and measured over in excess of what they give.

How much better a place to go to college, Muhlenberg would be, if more men had a little more to give to their fellow students. It is not material gifts but the extending of friendliness, help, and support (organizational and individual) which would help strengthen the attractiveness of Muhlenberg to outsiders.

President's Memo

Of all times of the year, Christmas is, for most of us, most fraught with memories, most full of anticipation, most associated with joy.

And it should be a happy season. The Christmas message is a message of hope. It first rang out in a time in which hope had, for many, been well nigh lost. The world into which Jesus was born was not a particularly happy world. It was a world in which many were destined to live lives of subjection and slavery, of poverty and despair.

Into this atmosphere of gloom and despondency the message of Jesus injected a clear tone of hope. His was truly a message of democracy, of the dignity of the individual. He told us that each of us was precious in God's sight, that each of us might hope for life eternal. He came to a world, not to a tribe or a nation.

Let us not lose that message, for without it the joy is an empty joy.

In that spirit I wish for all of you a happy and blessed Christmas.

Coach Crum Greets "Gum," Berg's Most Faithful Fan

by Dave Miller

This story could be written with the punch line at the end. But some readers might never get that far, so here it is. Roland "Gum" Schimenick is totally blind.

"Gum" has missed only one Muhlenberg basketball home game since the beginning of the 1947-'48 season. He attended daily practices until the end of last January, when the team started practicing in Memorial Hall. His home and his work aren't near enough to permit him to make it.

His acute sense of hearing makes it possible for him to appreciate and follow the game the same way I can. He can't see the players, but he knows each individual's voice. He knew one player by the sound of his sneakers—Frank Cutko!

All "Gum" has to know is which basket is 'Berg's, and he can keep the score of the highest scorer on each team mentally. He can tell the difference between a field goal and a foul shot by the fans' applause. He says the fans clap for a field goal, but "before the foul shot, there is a pause, then a great applause if the player makes the shot."

He has collected many souvenirs in these games, but the one he values most highly is the basketball from the 'Berg-Long Island U. game in '47. 'Berg won, and Hank Biaetti, the LIU captain, presented the ball to "Gum." The names of all the players in the game are on the ball, though it's likely he remembers each one.

This fabulous fan is taken to the games by his friend, Joseph "Pie" Peischel. Peischel attends all the daily practices in Memorial Hall and tells "Gum" what went on. The little boy in the photo is Peischel's nephew, Randy Lee "Tuffy" Peischel, whom he rates as "a good little basketball dribbler in his own right."

Birney Crum and Roland "Gum" Schimenick meet in Memorial Hall. The lad at the bottom of the photo is Randy Lee "Tuffy" Peischel. "Gum" has missed only one home basketball game since 1947. He follows each game avidly although he is totally blind.

Schimenick met coach Crum for the first time the night the picture was taken and gave his opinion on this year's team. He noted that he had heard "lots of good reports on the new coach and that by next year, Birney should have his team in the Madison Square Garden tournament."

"Gum" is a member of the St. Aloysius Men's Hall in Allentown. This club took the Club League Championship last year and was to play the Muhlenberg Freshman team. He took a lot of kidding when he predicted that 'Berg would win. The freshmen did win, much to his club friends' chagrin.

Sometimes we take too doggone much for granted . . . including our God-given senses. Watch for "Gum," "Pie," and "Tuffy" at the next home game . . . and take a lesson in courage, true friendship and sportsmanship.

Frantic Frosh Fakes Fanatics!

Now you just can't beat our house, etc. The poor frosh, my heart bleeds for them. The, ah, . . . has been flying for nigh on to six weeks now. You know, somebody even made the comment that it has been snowing for six weeks! Anybody see any snow?

During reg's West Hall used to be the freshmen's sanctuary. But now, wow! I remember what I did when I saw them coming . . . we even had scouts. First, I tried the fast asleep method. Result! After some violent shaking, "sorry to wake you but do you know . . ." Next the under-the-bed method. I'll say this, we have some pretty smart — and snoopy — fraternity men. Next, the hanging-on-by-the-thumbs-out-the-window method. Seems somebody else tried it. A guy outside yelled, "I'd like to talk to you about the greatest house on campus etc. etc." Finally the locked-door method. You know, those sneaky proctors have master keys.

Guess what I did. "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em!"

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

Merry Christmas and so forth. I realize that the proper place for this greeting is the bottom of this column, as a sort of send-off for the holidays, but lately I don't have anything to say in this patch of prose, so what's the use of kidding around? It's true, though; material is getting mighty scarce, straightshooters. It has been many weeks since the Ad-Builders have pulled the rug out from under the student body with any horrible new rules. For a while there they were really swinging with an average of one shaft per week. But now the suppression seems to be complete. Everyone just lies chained on the burning lake waiting for graduation.

Huzzah . . . M-Berg has trounced their traditional rival, Lehigh U., in a thrilling round-ball contest. Fortunately, Birney Crum and his crew of dribblers had the prudence and foresight to let the Engineers amass some points and make a game of it so that the spectators wouldn't get bored and leave. Gad, what a loss of prestige for Lehigh! This business of losing to Muhlenberg will never do. What will the eighteen million alumni scattered all over the United States think? There's only one thing to do . . . and the word is out that they are going to do it. There will be another dull thud in the Lehigh athletic office as Berg is dropped from another L. U. sports schedule. No doubt they will come up with a stellar replacement for the empty spot on the schedule . . . Perhaps some real crowd-pleaser like Perkliomen Prep. Say fans, that ought to be a tussle! I haven't heard what they intend to do about the soccer and tennis rivalries, but I can guess. Unless they win, they're going to pick up their marbles and go home. Oh well, if all goes down the drain, perhaps the two schools can arrange to meet on a neutral field each year for varsity rock-throwing.

We haven't heard much from the Honor System pressure group on campus this year, but I suggest they get on the stick. During a recent test period, there were so many guys riding ponies and each other that it looked like a running of the Belmont Stakes.

Watch for the next issue of the Crestiad, M & D fans. According to a campus source, some drama critic in pig tails from the Hill is going to pan the "Taming of the Shrew" production. Accordingly, all Mask and Dagger men who took part are quaking in their buskins, naturally. They are clutching their scrapbooks to their bosoms and hoping she will be merciful. We don't know exactly what dramatic misdemeanors the players are guilty of committing. Perhaps one of the female characters forget to shave. Or maybe she objected to the use of ersatz women. If this is the reason turnabout is fair play. If they can have Murder Without Men, we can have Taming of the Shrew without shrews. Also, I had better get ready to look silly if they don't pan this play.

Pravda Changes Santa Bit; Applauds Saint StaliNICK

Editor's Note—In response to the many requests (2) of the readers of Pravda (200,000,000,000) we take great pride in allotting this necessary space usually devoted to Faculty Interviews to a human interest story that touched us deeply in the pocketbook. It seems that a little girl, Virginiaski Kubasaski, was admonished by her father, who told her, "Eef you see eet in Pravda, it's a dirty lie!" Therefore we now publish that little girl's letter and the reply written by our Russian Correspondent, Ivan Iitch.

Dear Editor:

I am 28 years old. My little friends tell me that there is no Stalin. They say he isn't real person and that he isn't alive. My daddy say, "If you see it in Pravda it's a lie!" Tell me sir, is there a Stalin?

Love, Virginiaski K.

The reply to his letter was:

Dear Virginiaski,

Gee whiz for 28! Your little friends have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age and also by drinking aftershave lotion. But anyway back to the script.

Yes, Virginiaski there is a Stalin. Your little friends are dead wrong—to be exact, by now most of them are just plain dead. All you have to do to prove there is a Stalin is take the scenic Siberian Tour and question all the people who were given free rides by him and employment in the Salt mines. They will tell you, "You bet! Me too!"

Alas how dreary would be the world if there were no Stalin. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginiaski. And take a friendly warning kid, if you open your fat kisser once more there won't be any Virginiaski. (Back to script.)

So Virginiaski because your little friends can't see Stalin, they doubt that he exists. This is a world of disillusionment. Just because you can't see food on your table every evening doesn't say food doesn't exist. Even if all your little friends, and your late poppa too, would wait cowering behind doors to see if Stalin came in every other day to leave presents and take someone away, they wouldn't catch him. He's too darn clever.

Virginiaski, there will always be a Stalin. He will strike fear into the hearts of men as long as little children like yourself starve. He will bring happiness to all the families he visits, by taking another mouth to feed away from the table. Yes, Virginiaski, Stalin does live. Ten thousand years from now, yes, ten times ten thousand years from now, Stalin will continue to bring cursewords to the lips of all people. You bet your sweet life.

Bob Gall Leads 69-52 Win Over Greyhounds

Smooth-playing Bobby Gall led the Muhlenberg cagers to victory in a closely contested game against the Moravian Greyhounds in the Moravian field house last night, 69-52. Gall collected 21 points on eight field goals and five foul shots as he helped to snap Moravian's five game win streak.

The Muhlenberg five played deliberately and displayed a polished offense, a few bad passes excepted. Coach J. Birney Crum used only seven ballhandlers during the contest with Gall and Bill Smith playing the entire forty minutes. Dick Leber controlled the boards most of the evening while Gall consistently drove through the Moravian defense.

First Half

The Mules took an early lead, with the Greyhounds trailing 12-4 after the first six minutes. The Moravian basketballers showed good, slow ball handling as they managed to close the margin in the final minutes of the half as both teams exchanged shots, point-for-point. The first half ended with Berg holding a two point edge, 34-32.

Second Half

In the second half, Smith was especially effective as he blocked several Moravian attempts. Carty Gemma and Don Kurz did some exceptional shooting. Moravian threatened several times but the Mules were able to maintain their slight winning margin.

In the preliminary game, the Muhlenberg freshman notched their sixth consecutive win as they clipped the Moravian jayvees, 80-61. Highlighting the rousing victory was the fine play of Frank Neely who garnered 23 points, and of Clint Jeffries (19), Terry Diem (16), and Denis Riordan (11). The half time score favored Berg, 42-32.

Mules Bow To Penn, 71-52, De-Rail Engineers, 73-71

by Ben Caplan and Danny Dannenbaum

Following a 71-52 shellacking at the hands of a smaller Pennsylvania team in the Palestra at Philadelphia, Muhlenberg's cagers rebounded with an exciting 73-71 victory over a previously undefeated Lehigh squad in Memorial Hall Monday night.

Fighting back from an early 18 point deficit the Mules finished strong to overcome a seemingly insurmountable lead to edge Lehigh. Led by Jim Gleckner and Bill LeClere, the Engineers built up a 15-6 lead in the early minutes of play. Because of ineffectiveness at the foul line the Mules trailed at half-time, 43-31. Charity tosses also played a leading role in the second half as the Mules converted 26 out of 35 as compared to 3 for 13 in the first period. Lehigh out-hustled the Mules in the first half dominating the boards and making a better percentage of their shots.

The second period was a different story as Lehigh's offense began to sag under the pressure of a tightened Muhlenberg defense led by co-captain Gerry Neville. As the game progressed play became rougher and the Mules' improved foul shooting paid dividends. With five minutes and thirty seconds remaining in the contest the Mules trailed, 66-62.

Bobby Gall then made a jump shot and Don Kurz was fouled by Gene Siegel, the latter leaving the game on personals. Lehigh's board strength was dealt a severe blow when Ed Clear and Clyde Royster also committed their fifth personals. Dick Leber and Ed Cahn traded field goals and Cardy Gemma made a jump shot. This made the score read 71-68. Leber then sank two free throws to

Junior Mules Rattle Engineer Defense, Torment Quaker Frosh For Five Wins

After a decisive victory at the Palestra last Saturday the Berg frosh romped over the Lehigh five Monday night at Memorial Hall, 80-47. This win gave the Junior Mules their fifth consecutive win.

High scorer for the game was Frank Neely (20) who rattled the Lehigh defense with hard driving baskets. Frank's accuracy on the foul line added immensely to the Berg victory.

Although the Engineers were stronger in height they seemed to lack the ability to jump as Clint Jeffries (17) and Jerry Diem (12) were able to keep control of the boards. Both men made some brilliant tap-in shots as they aided the frosh's victory cause.

Defeat Penn

As a preliminary game at the Penn Palestra Saturday night, the Berg frosh outclassed and out-scored the Penn frosh, 66-51.

Jerry Diem and Clint Jeffries were the leading scorers for the Junior Mules. Diem had 21 points and Jeffries had 20.

In a close first half, the Junior Mules could only manage to earn a four point lead. Although Penn was able to tie the score four times, they never gained the lead during the contest. Berg's biggest lead came with a little more than a minute remaining in the game as the score was 64-44.

Penn, LaSalle, Seton Hall Cage Squads Roll Ahead Undefeated

Most of Muhlenberg's opponent court squads are off to a good start this season, with at least four quintets that are undefeated. Berg's cagers rank among the top in number of games played, although their scoring edge they have effected over their competitors.

Penn's 77-65 victory over Navy Tuesday at Annapolis made it 4-0 for the Quakers, who have downed Muhlenberg, Swarthmore, and Purdue this month also. The Blue and Red opened with a 69-68 upset over Purdue, and have continued to roll ahead with Joe Sturgis (92) and Bart Leach (75), Muhlenberg's "cousin," sharing scoring leadership.

Navy (1-3) on the other hand has now lost three straight on its home court, the last two to Philadelphia teams.

Temple (4-1) continued to push ahead, as they down Navy, 59-55, and Albright, 79-74, this past week. Hal Lear collected 30 points for the Owls in the Albright game. After opening with a 78-69 win over the Mules, Harry Litwack's crew defeated Gettysburg, Navy, and Albright, losing only to nationally ranked North Carolina State (6-0).

Albright (0-5) is still seeking its first win, as they are suffering heavily from the loss of scoring ace Mike DePaul, injured during the football season. George Conrad, Lions' most consistent point-getter, scored 19 against Berg and 18 in the Temple contest. The Reading quintet has finished second best to Muhlenberg, Bucknell, Seton Hall, St. Joe's, and Temple. Seton Hall's 95-67 trouncing of Providence Monday upped their season's log to 5-0. The South Orange courtmen don't invade Memorial Hall until February 9, but may still be undefeated at that time.

Lehigh (2-1) tried to make it three in a row Monday, but met its match at Memorial Hall. The Engineers from Bethlehem won their opening two games over Bucknell and Delaware.

F & M's Diplomats continued to show a weak offense as they dropped two more games during the week to Juniata and Elizabeth-town.

Lebanon Valley added two more wins during the week by downing

Secret Service Agent Warns Money-Handlers Of Currency

The United States Secret Service again reminds all money-handlers to be on the alert for passers of counterfeit money and forged checks during the Christmas season. Because of extra help and crowded stores, this is a favored time for such activity. Jackson N. Krill, Special Agent in Charge of the United States Secret Service in Philadelphia, reports that there has been some passing of counterfeit money and forged checks in this area in recent months.

If you get a counterfeit bill—(1) Do not return it to the passer. (2) Try to delay the passer and telephone the nearest police station. (3) If the passer leaves, write down his description, and license number if you can get it.

Cagers Edge Lehigh

leave the Mules trailing by one point. With fifty seconds remaining in the game a jump ball was called and the Mules took the tap. The Berg men moved down court and Leber sank a jump shot to put the Mules in the lead for the first time, 72-71. Cahn took a shot for the Engineers and missed as Don Kurz pulled the ball off the boards. Bill Smith was fouled. He missed the first try but made the second charity toss to give the Mules a victory in the final seconds.

Quakers Shellack Mules, 71-52

At the Palestra the Mules dropped a 71-52 contest that was nip and tuck until the middle of the third quarter. The lead changed hands three times in the first half as the Mules were sparked by Don Kurz and the Quakers were led by Bart Leach and Joe Sturgis. A series of baskets by Leach gave the team from the University of Pennsylvania a 24-19 lead midway in the second quarter. The half ended with both squads playing good defensive ball and the Quakers leading by five counters, 29-24.

In the second half Penn dominated the play and began to lengthen the lead. Capitalizing on poor ball handling by the Mules, the Red and Blue widened the margin and with ten minutes remaining in the final period the score read, 47-37. In an effort to offset Penn's semi-freezing tactics the Bergman drew a number of personal fouls which were converted into points by the sharp-shooting Quakers. Towards the end of the game Penn repeatedly drove through the Mules defense for easy inside shots that turned the game into a rout.

Bart Leach led the Quakers with 21 points while jumping Joe Sturgis collected 19. The Mules were led by Don Kurz with 15 who was the only Bergman to score in double figures.

Honor System

individual possesses a college degree is an indication that he has taken the time and trouble to broaden his outlook by acquiring advanced knowledge and those traits of character which equip him to make a greater positive contribution to his society. The molding of good character and strong moral integrity is ultimately of more value to us than the absorption of factual knowledge. The honor system is teaching us honesty, while cultivating the firm belief in a principle.

Under our honor system, each student is his own "watchdog." That is, we are responsible for our own conduct and we know that by fulfilling our own obligations, while our colleagues are doing the same, neither of us has to worry about the other. This self-discipline will be invaluable to us later, as we become increasingly independent in graduate school, in our occupation, and in life.

We instituted this system because we felt that, as an above-average intellectual group, we needed a mature exercise in the expression of above-average morals. Because we are attending a Christian college, we are obligated to maintain a high set of morals. We have found that the size of this college has aided the efficient operation of the honor system because any violation of it is very personal due to the close inter-relationships within the student body. Violators are not only wronging themselves and their honor, but they are also offending every other member of the student body.

It is essential for successful functioning of an honor system that it be administered by the students. As a result our student government is stronger. It is our honor system and therefore we see to it that it is effective and, at the same time, fair in its administration. We are proud of this honor system and all the ways it develops us.

These are only some of the benefits derived from an honor system. You are encouraged to consider any and all arguments against it but we challenge you to find as sound a basis on which to oppose the proposals.

Science Clubs Meet Jointly

On Monday, December 13th, the Science Club of Muhlenberg held its second monthly meeting in collaboration with Allentown High School's Science Club. Dr. Truman Koehler of the mathematics department spoke to the joint group on the topic, "Running Around in Circles."

Dr. Koehler opened the discussion with his reason for selecting this topic; "I want to speak about something which will interest the high school student and which the college man can understand." With this he began his lecture on a mathematical analysis of the physiological aspects of the circle and its effects upon human behavior. He explained why people run around in circles.

After the meeting, members of the Science Club took their guests on a tour of the Science Building explaining various pieces of apparatus both in physics and chemistry departments.

The invitation of the AHS students was sponsored by ODK, honorary leadership fraternity. The hope is that the practice will be adopted by other organizations on campus, each one sharing their experiences with interested teenagers at least once a year. The object of such a plan is not only to provide interesting and entertaining programs for the young students, but to stimulate their interest in Muhlenberg College. ODK believes that this first attempt met with much success.

Lafayette (3-1) has made the biggest improvement over last year (15-10) of Berg's opponents. Last night the Leopards lost to LaSalle, 75-60, at Easton.

LaSalle will be Berg's toughest match of the season. Nationally ranked number one, the Explorers got their biggest scare against Niagara Saturday, when they nipped the New Yorkers 76-75 in overtime. Tom Gola poured through 31 points for the victors, while Ed Fleming dunked 32 for the losers.

Moravian extended their win streak to 5-0 Saturday, as they belted Drew, 62-47, but lost to the Mules last night, 69-62.

WMUH Holds Campus Party

Last Monday evening WMUH, campus radio station, held its first annual Christmas party. The program, lasting four hours, was designed to stimulate the Christmas spirit on campus by allowing the student body to participate in the station's Christmas festival.

Special guests were Dr. Robert A. Boyer, Dr. Clyde Dierolf, Dr. John Reed, Dean Henry Richards, who presented a Christmas message from the college administration and Miss Bliss, one of the station's disc jockeys.

Wanamakers Award Retailing Scholarship

The second annual $1000 Scholarship, presented by the John Wanamaker Store, for one year of professional graduate study leading to the degree of Master of Science in Retailing at New York University, was announced on Monday.

The winner of the competition for the scholarship, selected by the Scholarship Award Committee, will enter the New York University School of Retailing at the beginning of the 1955 fall term. While in New York he, or she, will engage in a program of advanced study and working experience. For approximately 30 weeks the successful candidate will attend classes at the university in order to gain a comprehensive knowledge of retail store operation from the merchandising, advertising, management, personnel, and fashion points of view. For ten weeks in October, November, and December, the candidate will acquire planned, supervised experience at established rates of pay, in one of the leading retailing organizations in the New York area.

For additional information, students have been asked to see Mr. George Frounfelker in the Records Office. Applications may be submitted beginning January 1, 1955.

Who says Muhlenberg's basketball team can't play under pressure? Did you see that story book finish on Monday night? Boy was Cahn's face filled with unbelief as were the faces of half a house of fans.

The old rascal almost upset the applecart in the final ten seconds with the ball rolling around the rim that way. Yep, Lehigh has a very good basketball team; Clyde Royster who doubles as Middle Atlantic champion in the 100-yard dash and as basketball player par excellence provides a strong arm for his team along with Lehigh's other sky scrapers.

After an encounter with Moravian last night the Mules settled down for a three week vacation till St. Joseph's Hawks invade Memorial Hall Wednesday, January 5, 1955.

Commons men will be served three meals on Friday (last day of school this year) if they want the evening meal.

Nine more days remain until Christmas, but the shopping day figure is down to eight. As thoughts turn from this week's tests to the vacation's activities, don't forget to stop in at the Snack Bar and soak up some hot coffee during those between class breaks to keep the wheels grinding in the cranial vacuum.

WUS Leaders Open '55 Fund Campaign

The 1955 Drive for World University Service began yesterday when solicitors for the campaign were briefed on their work for the three days. A resident of each of the halls in East Hall will contact the men in his area. Each of the fraternities will also have a representative and several of the upperclassmen will visit West Hall. It will be the job of the solicitor to explain briefly the program which WUS supports and to receive donations from the men whom he sees.

The drive was carried to the community last evening when those attending the basketball game were given a chance to donate to it. At the Friday night motion picture series, a film, depicting the work of World University Service, will be shown.

Money collected in this campaign will go toward supplying practical, medical, and educational needs in Africa, the Near East, and parts of Asia. In the past WUS has successfully aided students by supplying books and means to duplicate them, food, shelters, medical care, and clothing. The drive here at Muhlenberg is similar to those held at several hundred other American Colleges and Universities.

Major Revision Made In Football Schedule

Next year the Muhlenberg football team will face three new opponents. They are Rutgers, Scranton and Temple. Rutgers was a rival of Muhlenberg, until relations between the two schools were broken in 1952.

The three universities who will not face the Mules next year are Bucknell, Delaware and Lehigh. The Engineers had announced earlier that the rivalry would come to a halt in order to set up a stronger program. However, there have been no stated reasons for the dropping of Bucknell and Delaware from the schedule.

The 1955 football schedule is now complete and is as follows:
Sept. 24—Lafayette away
Oct. 1—Albright home
Oct. 8—Rutgers away
Oct. 15—Lebanon Valley home
Oct. 22—Gettysburg home
Oct. 29—Scranton home
Nov. 5—Temple away
Nov. 12—F & M away

Cardinal Key Amendment Alters Membership Rules

Due to an amendment in the constitution of the Cardinal Key Society, freshmen are being received into the organization under new membership rules. Pressure of duties has forced the society to increase its membership from twenty-one to twenty-eight. The new system works as follows:

Between the present and the first meeting in February, names will be received of those freshmen interested in joining the organization. At the later time, all those who are qualified by a "C" average and show continuing interest, will be accepted into open pledgeship. By March, seven men from among this group will be elected into closed pledgeship and will be initiated during the first week in April in the regular chapel service.

John Hopper, president, commented: "This amendment enables freshmen to enter early upon what the Society feels is an unique opportunity to serve the best interests of Muhlenberg. The duties involved include ushering, conducting tours, and meeting visitors to the college."

"Such activities are often enjoyable, but service to an ideal of any kind requires the utmost of any man to be considered a 'labor of love.'"

English Movies To Be Shown In Film Series

The fourth and fifth in the current college series of "Great Films of Yesterday and Today" will be shown tomorrow evening and Friday, January 14, respectively. "Alice in Wonderland" will be shown tomorrow evening and "Oliver Twist" next week. Both are English films. The films will be shown at 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. in the Science Auditorium.

Produced by Louis Bunin, "Alice in Wonderland" is a color film featuring both live characters and puppets. Carol Marsh plays the lead role of Alice.

"Oliver Twist," directed by J. Arthur Rank, received a poor reception in England and Berlin and was banned from the United States for a short time because of its anti-semitic tendencies.

Coming films include the "Barber of Seville" and "The Naked City," among others.

British Universities Offer Summer Plan

Summer study at British universities is open to American students in 1955, according to an announcement made recently by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

Six-week courses will be offered at Oxford, at Stratford-on-Avon, and at the capital cities of London and Edinburgh.

A limited number of scholarships is available. Award and admission application forms may be secured from the Institute of International Education in New York or any of its regional offices. Completed applications should be returned to the Institute in New York by March 28, 1955. A limited number of steamship passages on Cunard ships are reserved for successful candidates.

The Edinburgh School, arranged jointly by the Scottish Universities, will have an historical theme, tracing the development of modern western civilization. In London the galleries, museums, records, and buildings serve as special source material for a study of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. The course at Stratford-on-Avon focuses on the literary and theatrical aspects of Shakespearean and Elizabethan drama. Contemporary politics and literature are studied under widely known lecturers and tutors at Oxford.

London University will offer courses on both history and Elizabethan theatre.

Ninety-seven Freshmen Pledge, Affiliate With Six Fraternities

On December 16, bids were given out by the various fraternities on campus and 112 members of the freshman class decided to become fraternity men. The bids were given out by Dr. John J. Reed, advisor to student activities, and pledging ceremonies began immediately following the acceptance of the bids.

Second Program In Concert Series Features Ludwig Lenel

This Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. in the Chapel, the second program of the Muhlenberg College Concert Series will be presented. Mr. Ludwig Lenel, assistant professor of music at Muhlenberg, will be featured at the organ console.

Mr. Lenel's program will be divided into six parts. The first is made up of selections by seventeenth century French composers. It will begin with "Chaconne in G Minor" by Louis Couperin and also include the "Capriccio in G Minor" of Louis Clerambault and "Noel in G Major" by Louis Daquin.

The second part is the major work of the concert, "Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor" by Johann Sebastian Bach. Following this will be four settings of a well known Epiphany Chorale, "How Lovely Shines the Morning Star" by Pachelbel, Buxtehude, E. Pepping, and Lenel.

The "Fugue in A Flat Minor" by Johannes Brahms and pieces from "L'Organiste" by Cesar Franck will make up the next two parts. In the final section will be two numbers by a contemporary English composer, George Oldroyd. They are: "Le Prie-Dieu—Meditation" and "Liturgical Improvisation."

Mr. Lenel, a student of Albert Schweitzer, has made numerous concert appearances on various sections of the country.

Dr. Stine To Conduct MCA Vespers Tonight

Dr. Russell W. Stine will be the speaker and liturgist for a special MCA-sponsored Epiphany Service which will be held tonight at 7 p.m. in the Chapel. At 6:30 George Lachenauer will offer an organ recital, continuing the current student series which has featured Richard Miller and Richard Mannheim.

The purpose of this service is to commemorate the Festival of the Epiphany which traditionally falls on January 6. MCA also plans to continue with its regular program of weekly Vesper Services which are held every Tuesday night at 11 p.m. in the West Hall Auditorium.

This month MCA plans to study the Book of Ephesians in conjunction with the regular business meetings which are held every Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the MCA room of the student center.

Chemistry Professor Rescues News Carrier

by Cal Colarusso

Dr. Charles Mortimer, professor in the chemistry department, recently proved to be the perfect gentleman when he deftly illustrated the ideal that "Honesty is the best policy."

It seems that Dr. Mortimer was riding down Allen St. in his multi-colored Buick when he spied twenty dollars lying on the pavement.

Although college professors aren't the highest paid people in the world, our hero reported his find to the proper authorities without hesitation.

A poor, desperate newsboy had lost the money and reported the loss to his newspaper who published a short article concerning his plight.

Alert as usual, Dr. Mortimer spotted the article and personally phoned the young man and returned his funds to him.

Such, students, is the character of our professors.

Assembly Presentation Depicts History Of Musical Comedy

A production depicting the history of the musical theater in America will be presented at next Thursday's assembly program which will be held at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium.

This production involves personal vignettes from the lives of our musical comedy greats—Victor Herbert, George Gershwin, Irving Berlin, Richard Rogers, and Oscar Hammerstein.

Special Arrangements

Featured in the production are several specially arranged numbers from those artists' shows. Numbers such as "I Hear A Song Coming On," "The Girl That I Marry," "Let's Take An Old Fashioned Walk," "I've Got Rhythm," "I'll Build A Stairway To Paradise," and "Great Day" are included in the score.

Featured soloists are John Clegg, tenor from the Plymouth Rock Opera Theatre; Dolores Baldyga, a soprano; and Richard Giles, baritone soloist of the Bangor Symphony Orchestra.

All material for this show has been especially arranged by Dana Lordly with original music added.

Mr. Lordly has also had extensive experience with radio and television.

WUS 'n' US . . .

It has been many semesters since this writer handed in his first assignment for the WEEKLY. It was an article about the World Student Service Fund and the WSSF drive being held on the campus at that time. Included in the article was a lengthy description of the organization's work in all parts of the world—India, France, and the Near East, just to name a few. Since that time the name has been changed to World University Service; however, its purpose has remained the same. Through it, foreign students are enabled to get the type of education which will make them the much-needed leaders of tomorrow.

Incomprehensible as it may seem to us, students in many lands are now living as paupers in order that their search for knowledge might continue. These are the young people who will, in years to come, lead their countries, and their decisions will undoubtedly affect our own future. They may mean the difference between a free world and an enslaved world or the difference between a peaceful world and a war-stricken world. They may make our children war machines or peaceful citizens of a free country. Yes, their future is our future.

By the same token, their problem is our problem. We have so much that we could share if we wished to—if we were given the opportunity. During this week's WUS drive, we are fortunate enough to have the opportunity to do some sharing. Money is desperately needed to aid these men and women of our own age. By sharing what we can as a campus community we will be directly molding the future of our world, a world under the guidance of intelligent, well-directed leaders.

Keeping The Spirit . . .

"And after the smoke had cleared,"—perhaps that phrase might well express the relieved feelings which many of us had when we realized that Christmas was over for another year. However, if we look back, beneath the scurry and bustle of pre-holiday activities, we can see traces of something deeper than the usual squeals of joy from the children or the festooned homes and streets. If we can, in a moment, think of the little deeds of kindness or the extra word of cheer which we noticed, we may be a bit closer to seeing the miracle which Christmas performs each year—goodwill among men.

Like that old fellow Scrooge, Christian people everywhere, imbued with the spirit of the season, have followed a little more closely the teaching of their Master. The aged, the poor, and the orphaned have been remembered, and peace throughout the world more earnestly prayed for.

Now, as the smoke clears, we find ourselves rapidly returning to the same rut. Even on the college campus, students ruefully face the final exam schedule. Perhaps we would all do well to follow the advice of one contemporary lyricist and count our blessings. But more than that, we might show our gratitude by practicing, during the next twelve months, the brotherhood taught by the Prince of Peace.

Sine Qua Non . . .

It just so happens that at every semester's end there comes a final examination period. That means grades again—and you have got to earn them: pop says so and your advisor agrees. The man who may hire you some day asks first about your scholastic standings. Activities or extra abilities are very important seconds.

Remember those glowing words which sounded like sweet music to your freshman years? "You are a man now living in a college community. This is the trial run for later life." The approaching final exams are just little trials and although professors are sharpening their scythes for the harvest, and although you are to be "weighed in the balance," frantic cramming won't help. If you have done any work at all during the past semester, a few hours of calm review will be a much better approach than desperate sleepless hours of study interjected with thoughts of impending failure.

Our American educational system is geared so that the man who can produce, even with the pressure on, gets the job or passes the test. You can be certain that productivity isn't stimulated by wishful thoughts, worrisome fears, or even prayer. Through prayer you might develop a stronger inner self which helps you remain calm when the going gets tough, but whichever way you do it, the development of control of your own mind is the first big step in the learning process.

Pinchweed Poor Professor, Imbecilic Interview Indicates

Dr. Z. Q. Pinchweed, noted Budologist, of the Biology department likes it here at Muhlenberg. He spends his time studying the budding branches on our campus and the interesting limb structure over at Cedar Crest.

by Waldorf Windshield, AP, INS, BVD

The squat little gent in the sloppy tea shirt, who has been seen around campus climbing trees and crawling in the grass on his hands and knees, is none other than Dr. Zarubian Q. Pinchweed, latest addition to 'Berg faculty. As I barged into his office, I noticed that he was munching on a ring baloney. When he saw me, he jumped up in order to shut the door in my face. But, he was too late, because I was already in his easy chair with my pad and pencil politely poised ready to interview him whether he liked it or not.

Perhaps I should explain that I am not such a tactful reporter, but like any bird dog, I am loyal to the WEEKLY and get my story by hook or by crook, to coin a phrase. Dr. Pinchweed could see no other alternative than to face me, so he upset his wastecan and sat on it. With indignant resignation, he bit off the end of his ring baloney and waited for the interrogation to begin. The slob didn't even offer me a slice of his baloney, and I felt like leaving, but like I said previously, I am very loyal, and like that. Besides, I figured he needed baloney for his classes.

Well sir, the interview progressed politely and painlessly. He kept telling me that none of this was anybody's business, and I informed him repeatedly that he should be honored to have his biographical sketch appear in one of our city's leading newspapers. I asked him about co-education. He said he was definitely against mixing boys and girls in the classroom. He would rather kick all the men out of the college and teach only women. When asked why, he astutely replied, "It's

by Dave Miller

About this time of year, the pre-final and post-final moans can be heard around college campi, high school halls and graduate school corridors. It's not unusual. Another usual groan is the one directed toward the instructor of one or more of the student's courses. This complaint is short-lived usually ending when the studious (?) one returns to his home with terrible mark(s). "Don't blame the teacher for your bad marks," he is told, "it's not his fault! You were taking the course, not he."

Let's do a double-take on that. Why do we hear so many complaints and criticisms about teachers? Naturally, it's an out for someone who has no other excuse for his poor mark . . . but is that the only reason?

Teachers make up one of the most underrated groups in America. Theirs is the job of educating the young minds to the truths and opinions of learning. They pick their work because they want to, not because of the good pay. Here lies the problem. Most of us have read of the poor rates they receive for a most important position and many of us dismiss the whole thing very casually.

What happens in a situation like this? First of all, some capable people choose another lifework be-

Sneaked out of Budapest is the story of the secret police agent who was ordered by his chief to learn whether a skeleton in the museum really was, as alleged, that of Attila (fifth-century chieftain of the savage Huns). "How did you confirm it?" asked the chief. The agent answered proudly, "He confessed."

The Dean's Door . . .

New Year's is a time for resolutions. Traditionally, it is a time to take stock of the progress, or lack of it, made during the year just ended. It is a time to count the successes and the failures and to inquire into the causes of both. It is the time to lay the first stones of the new road with the lessons of experience. In short, New Year's is the time for new determinations, new resolves.

What should a young man resolve? What should a student at Muhlenberg resolve for the year 1955?

Perhaps the most fruitful resolutions have to do with a man's character and with his capacity. His character is the frame upon which a man erects his life. The central beam of this frame is honesty, absolute honesty. Every year of college life is character building time, just as are all the other years of a man's life. Let's resolve in 1955 to live in absolute honesty no matter how heavy the pressures to do otherwise.

Few men utilize all or even most of their capacity to think, to grow to mature social stature, to accomplish the goals of life. Someone once said, "Success is the product of ten per cent inspiration and ninety per cent perspiration." This is hardly an accurate statement; but it emphasizes a significant truth. To succeed, one must at least put forth the effort. Each of us owes it to himself to extend himself, to grow in and to increase his effort. Greater effort pays. Let's resolve to make more of our opportunities at Muhlenberg in 1955.

I wish you all a successful year.

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

Agh! It's great to be back. (what's the name of this college again?) This is that time of year when everyone staggers back from the holidays in pretty sad shape, jaw set and teeth clenched . . . determined to hang on somehow until the recess between semesters. Everyone exchanges post-holiday greetings, the most oft-repeated being "Did you have a nice vacation?" and "Say, did you start that term paper yet?" The standard answer to both of these challenges is something like "Mft." or "Ughumpf."

While toting the mail over the holidays, I thought of a bit that I should have included in the last column before Christmas. It's a bit late for it now, but since I won't be around to write it next year, and since this paper is always behind the times anyway, here it is: "A gift suggestion for that masochist on your Christmas list; get him a Do-It-To-Yourself-Kit."

Speaking of bits, this is the time of year for many fabulous tales of inebriates and their holiday cavorting. A fellow in a local resort told of an experience at a recent Lehigh football game. It seems that it was a rather cold day, so this guy prudently brought a flask to keep himself and his date thawed out.

As the game progressed the weather grew colder, and their anti-freeze consumption increased in direct proportion. Along about the third quarter, the fellow felt a tug at his sleeve and his date looked up at him and said, "Lesh leave thish plashe. I don't like basketball ennyhow."

BILL RUTSCH, Berg Jazz Society cat, says that Life magazine will run a cover of DAVE BRUBECK in a forthcoming issue. This should be a great plug for the February 7th BRUBECK concert at Memorial Hall.

One of the funnier little human-interest stories to come out of the vacation incidents mill is the one concerning TOM COUGHLIN. He claims he was tooling his automobile along some road, street, or highway in . . . I think he said Virginia . . . within the traffic jurisdiction of some little roll-in-the-sidewalks hamlet. He claims he was proceeding at a moderate rate . . . one arm competently guiding the steering wheel and the other just as competently encircling his female companion.

Suddenly a Pontiac sedan overtook him and a guy sitting in it wearing civilian clothes with a whistle in his mouth waved him over. The small town officer, it turned out, wanted to book TOM on a reckless driving charge. They discussed it but TOM didn't feel like getting arrested that day, so they called the whole thing off.

Things are so quiet, says one faculty man, that it should be about time for the annual drive against smoking in classrooms.

Hit the books in the homestretch of this semester, gang, so that you too can be a member of the exclusive "Cut Club" in the beyootifool spring.

Bergmen Travel To Foreign Courts For Meetings With Bisons, Explorers

by Joel Pitman

Muhlenberg's basketball team faces Bucknell this Saturday night at Lewisburg, and then plays La Salle, NCAA champs of last year, led by three time All-America Tom Gola, next Wednesday at Philadelphia.

Bucknell

The Bucknell team has had a 1-4 record to date. Poor defensive work and a lack of rebounding strength has been the cause of this one-sided record. Big John Beatty, 6'4", has been the only man to get any rebounds. Recently though, Al Kenzie, also 6'4", has broken into the lineup and has snagged his share of rebounds. Coach Ben Kribbs has been stressing defense in the last few weeks of practice in hopes of keeping opponents' scores down to let his top scorers go to work.

Sophomore Joe Bacelli is the leader of the Bucknell scoring attack with a 20 point average per game to date. The 6 ft. sophomore has scored 100 points. His nearest competitor is Norm Vorhees, who has a 14.6 average and has the best shooting percentage on the team with 50.9. Sophomores John Beatty and Marty Tannenbaum follow with 12.2 and 10.2 respectively.

As a team the Herd is averaging 83 points a game, but its opposition is averaging 78.

Speaking Frankly

by Frank Howard

It is standard procedure to recount the blessings of the old year before turning the leaves of a new calendar. And, of course, then there is the tedious task of preparing a long list of new year's resolutions. The latter is usually forgotten after the first few days of the new year, which are always introduced and recognized by the presence of a hangover. There are a few sports stories which are hangovers from the dead year and which might have been overlooked during the excitement of a holiday vacation...

Football coach Tom Triplett was among those nominated for honor as Coach of the Year by vote of 538 members of the American Football Association. The Muhlenberg mentor was thus placed in the company of the coaching elite. The title was won by UCLA coach Red Sanders but such men as Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, Jessie Hill of USC, Jim Tatum of Maryland, and Tom Hamilton of Pitt, to name only a few, also received votes for the coveted honor.

Muhlenberg's basketball team received recognition as a competitor in the collegiate ranks as a "major" team. This distinction is achieved if more than half of the opposing teams on the schedule are classified as major squads. The two neighboring colleges (the one in Easton and the one in Bethlehem) were also listed in this class with over 180 others.

Mule Foes Engage In Holiday Tournaments

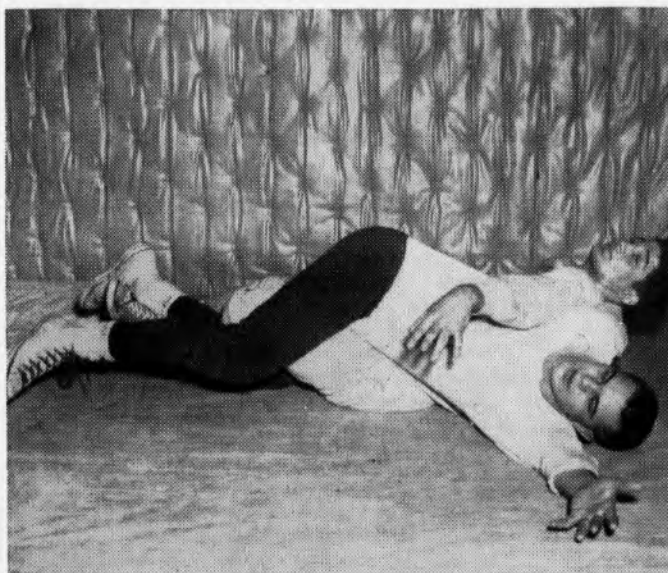

Although most of Muhlenberg's opponents were idle over the long Christmas vacation, a few took part in Holiday Festival Tournaments, while others maintained a regular playing schedule during the interlude.

Kentucky's Wildcats (7-0) strengthened their position as the nation's number one team, while Duquesne (8-1) proved its worth as second best by edging La Salle, 67-65, on New Year's Eve. La Salle (9-3), ranked earlier in the season as the nation's top team, dropped to fourth, their record marred by losses to Utah, Kentucky, and Duquesne. La Salle's last appearance was at St. Louis, where the Explorers whipped St. Louis U., 88-79, on a last period rally. 6' 8" Tom Gola racked up 34 points to boost his point-per-

"Guts" Grapples With Billy

Frank "Guts" Gutierrez and Paul "Bull Neck" Billy grunt and groan in a wrestling practice session. Gutierrez is Middle-Atlantic champ in the 157 class; Billy is a top contender in the 177 class.

Matmen Meet Foes

Muhlenberg's wrestling squad initiated its 1955 campaign this afternoon against Colgate's grapplers, facing the Hamilton, N. Y., squad for its first time.

Coach Ernie Fellows' matmen will entertain Temple at Memorial Hall Saturday. Last year the Owls whipped Berg, 23-13, at Philadelphia. Frank Gutierrez won a decision in the 157-lb. class, while teammates Don Grammes and Paul Billy defeated their opponents on a pin and a forfeit, respectively.

Varsity Cagers Sweat, Study, Sack Over Holiday Vacation

The Christmas vacation proved to be an eventful one for Muhlenberg's varsity basketball team as well as for the rest of the students. Some of the boys took busman's holidays while others earned pocket money working at various jobs.

Dick Leber, Bill Smith, and Johnny Wescoe were some of the boys who played ball in their various hometowns. Leber also portrayed Santa Claus, while Chubby was Rudolph the red nosed reindeer. "The mail must go on," was Gerry Neville's byword as he trudged through rain, hail, sleet, and snow to see the mail through.

A sweet job was held by Denny Roth who worked in a Sealtest ice cream factory. Bobby Gall and Bill Smith studied Economics. Don Kurz worked in a used car lot in Little Ferry, New Jersey. He also commuted to Kutztown. Cardy Gemma went for a trip as he visited some friends in Pottsville. Burt Pattison was a part-time shoe salesman.

Vince Osadchy tried out for the stock car races over the vacation, but unfortunately didn't make it. Del Park spent most of his holiday in the dentist chair due to a tooth lost in a basketball tussle. Jim Powell didn't see the light of day, while he worked in a coal mine. Don Bright, the 97 pound weakling, lifted weights to improve his physique. Bill Kynett, manager of the squad, had a mood indigo vacation due to social difficulties.

In the first game of the new year, the GDI's eked out a 46-44 win over the Knights. The game had ended in a 44-44 tie, but "sarge" Kramer was fouled a second before the final whistle, and he added both fouls for the victory. Don McNeil and Cas Wanczyk led the winners with 15 and 14 points, while Stone of the losers was high for the game with 18.

The second game ended in a 57-22 slaughter by the Cardinals over the Hooples. Croft and Laws divided 24 points evenly, while March added 11 for the winners. Keehn was high for the losers with 8.

easier to work with women than it is with men because they usually cooperate with the teacher, and like that."

I noticed that he kept eyeing the telephone on the desk and wasn't paying strict attention to my questions, so I ripped the wire from the wall and threw the phone out the window. Dr. Pinchweed registered his approval of my actions by beating me on the head with his gnawed-off ring baloney.

The sun had just started to form rainbows on the desktop and it warmed the back of my neck and made me feel good all over. I felt that I was talking to a great man; a man who would someday make a tremendous contribution to the world of science. I was drawing desperately on the butt of my sixth cigarette, and was about to ask the good doctor about his academic background, when the door flew open. In stepped a sweet young thing whose eyes were bleary and wet with the tears of passion. Behind her stood a stern-faced gentleman with a sawed-off shotgun cradled loosely in his arm. The gentleman was none too gentle as he lifted Dr. Pinchweed bodily from his perch on the wastecan. I threw my butt out the window and started to protest, but the would-be father-in-law poked me in the belly with his shotgun and exclaimed in his best Father Barbar voice, "My daughter is going to marry this man and no one, I say, no one is going to stop the wedding." Who was I to stand in the way of matrimony?

I expressed my grief that the interview had been curtailed so abruptly. I said goodbye and shook hands with him. As he was being pulled out the door, I thought to myself, "Now, we can bid farewell to this squat little man in the sloppy tea shirt, who has been seen around campus climbing trees and crawling in the grass on his hands and knees, and will be seen no more." Moral of the story: Please join the WEEKLY, cause we need better writers.

THANKS. For the expressions of genuine Yuletide thoughts from students to both the Slater system and many of the employees. It is perhaps one of the only barometers we have for measuring student opinion.

NOTE: That the wrestling team opened this afternoon with Colgate. Last year's winning team lacks only Middle Atlantic champion Al Billy, as the grapplers work out for an opening home stand of three meets. Temple and Gettysburg will provide very interesting competition on consecutive Saturdays Jan. 8 and 15.

Exams again everybody. Sign the paper, drink the ink, sink, swim, survive, or perish; that's the way it's gonna be as usual. Professors smile with fiendish glee, while students groan internally (if I keep trying maybe they'll let me on the feature staff with those two crackpots). Yep, you gotta lay off the wine and women for awhile while you study, but don't forget the ever-present and handy snack-bar for that refresher after the test or the bracer just before.

Rumor has flicked through the system that the campus political giants ganged up on one of the lesser members this week in a big court trial. Tune in on your fraternity gossip.

La Salle

Coach Ken Loeffler's La Salle Explorers are picked by many to repeat this year as NCAA champs. Tom Gola, generally considered to be the best ball player in the country today, is their leading scorer and rebounder. He has made every All-America team in the last three years and is sure to repeat in his senior year. Gola has averaged 19.7 points a game for his three years at La Salle, and is increasing that number so far this season.

Gola's relatively unpublicized teammates are also well-rounded ball players. Charley Greenberg is a left-handed shooter who was very effective last year. Frank Blatche has a deadly outside shot and is strong under the boards. Fran O'Malley is hard to stop on drive-in shots. Charley Singley is the second highest scorer on the team and was named to the NCAA All Tournament team last year.

La Salle is ranked as the nation's fourth best squad.

Third ranking North Carolina State (12-1) saw its 12 game win skein brought to an abrupt end by Villanova's hard-driving, accurate-shooting Wildcats (5-2), who outran the Dixie crew, 91-78.

Penn (6-1) suffered its first loss of the year also, when it was outrun by the relentless driving of the University of Pitt's fast-moving squad, 81-75.

Temple (6-3) lost to Kentucky on Saturday, but came back to wallop Richmond, 80-71, on Monday, as Hal Lear amassed 35 points for the Owls. Lear has pulled his point-per-game average up to 23.2.

Hottest of Berg's opponents at present are the Lafayette Leopards (7-2). The Maroon squad is riding on the crest of a four game win streak, as a result of capturing the Hofstra Invitational Tournament, with victories over St. Peter's, 78-54, and Hofstra, 75-52.

Lehigh managed to win only one game in the Hofstra Tournament, but are still above the .500 mark with an overall 4-3 record.

College Acts On Legion's "Un-American" Protest

Faculty Tribunal Reaches Verdict

The decision of the faculty tribunal concerning the recent charges of illegal rushing brought against the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity by Alpha Tau Omega, Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Phi Epsilon was announced Monday. The decision is as follows:

This case concerns charges that the defendant violated Art. I, Sec. V, and Art. III, Sec. I of the By-Laws of the Inter-Fraternity Council of Muhlenberg College. Art. I, Sec. V reads:

"All fraternity men are honor bound not to attempt to influence in any way a new man in a choice of a fraternity during the period from the close of the rushing until the bids have been distributed—i.e., the silent period."

Rushing Defined

Art. III, Sec. I, defines rushing as follows:

"Rushing shall be considered any effort on the part of a fraternity man to induce a new man to pledge himself to a particular fraternity."

The evidence and testimony offered by the prosecution and the defense proved that there had been contact and association among members of Phi Kappa Tau and potential pledges. In each of five instances cited in the charges, the contact and association was accompanied by conversation. In the absence of testimony to the contrary, it must be presumed by this Tribunal that the principals concerned were not attempting to influence directly potential pledges in their choice of fraternity.

On the other hand, it is evident to this Tribunal that the contacts and conversations, while not shown to be premeditated, planned, or for the purpose of influencing potential pledges, were sufficiently frequent and prolonged to indicate that brothers of Phi Kappa Tau were neglectful of their responsibilities to their fraternity and to the other fraternity men on campus during the "silent period."

Following the above reasoning the Tribunal finds that the By-Laws are too vague and incomplete to arrive at a specific verdict of "guilty" or "not guilty." The "silent period" is not defined except as to its time and duration. A strict interpretation would demand the barring of all contact and conversation. In short, it would impose absolute silence. Such interpretation is not justified by custom or reason. An exchange of greetings during the period is universal. The long duration of the period makes normal contests of friendship inevitable. There exists no guide or criteria to dis-

We Propose . . .

In the midst of the current Chaplin flurry come rumblings of brash cheating which have been on the increase in recent months. There were, for instance, seven known cases of cheating during the week prior to Christmas recess. That this situation should exist on our campus is incomprehensible. Furthermore, the lack of clear policy from Dean Richard's office encourages, if anything, attempts at this dubious art. The fact that the WEEKLY staff has not heard any policy statements would point toward their obscurity. Therefore, after discussion among many members of the student body, we suggest that the following procedure be used as a starting point for a program which would show irresponsible students at Muhlenberg that the college is just as much opposed to cheating as it is to drinking.

For first offenders the use of social probation might well be followed. Since this, in itself, would not constitute an irreparable loss, a letter to mom and dad should be included. Any intelligent person, any person who deserves to stay at Muhlenberg, should wise up on this first shot. There are, however, those who need a little stronger push in the right direction. For second offenders, therefore, we suggest a week's vacation and another letter home. The vacation will give the young gentleman some time to think and a letter to responsible parents will further his thought procedure. Finally, we believe that persons who are caught cheating a third time should definitely be expelled from school.

What we have said represents the opinion of the WEEKLY editorial staff. Certain other men have stated that it is too lenient; few have said that it is too stringent. Problems of apprehension and fair hearing will have to be ironed out by the proper authorities but in any event we await a fair, clear-cut statement for the good of the entire Muhlenberg community.

Dave Brubeck Jazz Quartet Gives Concert

The pioneer effort of the Jazz Society will be presented Monday, February 7, when the society brings to campus the Dave Brubeck Quartet. All faculty and students will be admitted free; however, seats for guests are priced at $1.25 and $2.00 for general admission and reserved seats, respectively.

Bill Rutsch, president of the Jazz Society this week stated that "if the initial concert of our organization is a success, we intend to bring bands and groups to the campus such as Stan Kenton, Duke Ellington, Woody Herman, Chet Baker, Gerry Mulligan, Marion McPartland, George Shearing and others."

"The success of the concert depends on the faculty and student body getting solidly behind the project. Because of the national prominence of Mr. Brubeck we feel that with a little student body support we can attract a record crowd to Memorial Hall. Brubeck's appearance on the cover of a national magazine has helped greatly to publicize his concert."

Mr. Brubeck was recently voted the "Outstanding Jazz Personality of the Year" by Time Magazine and also received similar honors from Downbeat and Metronome polls.

The purpose of the Jazz Society is "to cultivate an appreciation of jazz on the Muhlenberg campus." Other officers include Dick Werkheiser, vice-president; Bob Alge, secretary; Irv Kerson, treasurer.

49.8 Per Cent Of Voters Elect New Class Officers Yesterday

With an average of 49.8 per cent of the voters in each class participating in yesterday's election, the freshman, sophomores, and juniors selected those men who will lead them in the coming term. Student Council officials commented, "this was definitely the worst election turnout which has been witnessed on the Muhlenberg campus in many years."

The freshman class made the poorest showing as 36.3 per cent of its members voted to retain Martin Baker as president and Neil Hahn, Joe Becker, and Don Herman as vice-president, secretary and treasurer respectively.

The sophomores had the best turnout as 65 per cent of that class voted. The sophomores selected Bill Wormley as president, Bob

The World University Service drive has collected in cash nearly $150 to date. Donald Sheasley, who is in charge of running the drive, has turned the money collected over to Professor Luther Deck, faculty advisor for WUS.

Because of the number of pledges which have been received, the drive is being extended until February 8. The committee has requested that all pledges be paid by that time. Solicitors will be in touch with those who pledged early in the next semester.

At this time the largest contributions have come from the freshman class. As yet there has been no report from any of the fraternities.

Seegers Defends Decision; Faculty Meets On Friday

Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, president of Muhlenberg College announced on Tuesday that the "Chaplin Festival," four films of comedian Charlie Chaplin will be shown to students and faculty members of the college on Wednesday evening, February 2. The films, originally scheduled for public presentation on February 4, had been cancelled last week at the request of the Herbert Paul Lentz Post No. 29 American Legion. The announcement was made from Washington, D. C., where the president was attending the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges.

Letter From Student Council Protests Administration Stand

Dear Dr. Seegers,

With unhesitant sorrow members of the student body view your decision to cancel the showing of the Charlie Chaplin Festival of Films as an unfortunate move in the advancement of academic integrity at Muhlenberg College. The Student Council speaking as the voice of our student constituency has formally gone on record in the minutes of the regularly scheduled meeting of January 6, 1955 as expressing our disapproval of your action.

Doubtlessly the pressure exerted upon you by officials of the Herbert Paul Lentz Post of the American Legion and others, if there were others coupled with the advice given to you by members of your administrative family, were of sufficient strength to cause cancellation. We stand opposed to their reasoning.

In the academic society which is afforded to each one of us it has become apparent that outside pressure daily is increasing in volume and strength to make our institutions of learning only a hodge podge of formal activity and not a place where we can discover truth. True this has affected other campuses more than Muhlenberg itself but apparently we too are suffering from the first symptoms of outside influence in regard to activity programming.

The seriousness of the cancellation in the face of outside pressure (both real and imaginary) leads the Student Council to protest your action and severely condemn it for these reasons:

(1) When outside pressure is exerted for one reason and heeded as it was in this instance it can just as readily be exerted from other sources upon other occasions and one's defense against it is weakened if not horribly destroyed.

(2) The cultural aspects of the cancelled program were

PDE Sponsors One-Act Play Writing Contest

Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity, announced this week that it was sponsoring a one act play writing contest which would be open to all Muhlenberg students.

The custom of sponsoring such a contest was instituted in 1932 by the Mask and Dagger Society, but somewhere between then and the present, the custom was lost. Howard Frank, who is chairman of the Pi Delta Epsilon committee, has said, "It is the hope of Pi Delta Epsilon that we can reinstitute this program on a permanent scale."

The type and length of the play are to be left to the author's own desires and interests. The contest is tentatively scheduled to close sometime in March and the committee urges all interested

Radio Station Receives Grant

An allocation of $100 was made to WMUH, the campus radio station, by the publications board of Muhlenberg College at the last meeting of that group on Monday, January 3. This amount is to be taken from the second semester publications fee.

WMUH was first recognized as a campus publication by the board in December. At its next meeting, which will be held on February 3, the publications board will discuss the allocation of further funds to be used for renovation cancelled last week at the request of the Herbert Paul Lentz Post No. 29 American Legion. The announcement was made from Washington, D. C., where the president was attending the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges.

A faculty meeting has also been scheduled for tomorrow at 4:15 to discuss the situation that has arisen because of the controversy over the films.

The Legion's request was in the form of a resolution adopted by a Pearl Harbor Day dinner attended by more than 100 members. Approval for the motion by Wilfred Frichman, post chaplain, and Harry A. Hall, assistant state Americanism director, was unanimous, reported Wilson H. Lutte, commander of the post.

Because of the great deal of interest aroused by the cancellation, Dr. Seegers earlier in the week had issued the following statement clarifying the Administration's position.

Seegers' Statement

"The decision to withdraw the Charlie Chaplin films from the program of great films was made upon the following considerations:

- (a) This series, it is true, has educational aspects. It is, however, thought of primarily as a community service.
- (b) A considerable block of the community apparently did not desire its inclusion. It seemed, consequently, that to substitute another film was a comparatively simple step.
- (c) This does not imply that the College exercises censorship or proposes to allow outside groups to dictate educational policy.

The question has been raised as to whether these films may be shown on the campus for our students and faculty, as a part of our own educational program. Certainly they may. The distinction between what is a part of educational program and what we offer for the entertainment of the general community is, in my thinking, a very clear distinction."

Post Asks Cancellation

The post members asked to have the Chaplin program eliminated from the series, "Great Films of Yesterday and Today," only because of Chaplin's alleged anti-American record of recent years. According to Lutte, the request to have the films withdrawn is no reflection on Muhlenberg which the American Legion recognizes as a good American college.

Student opinion will be found under "Editorial Views" and "Letters to the Editor" on page three.

Chaplin, a British subject, surrendered his United States re-entry permit in Geneva in April 1953 while on a six-months world cruise. The action followed an order by Attorney General James P. McGranery, to bar Chaplin's re-entry pending investigation of alleged "leftist political views and grave morals charges."

Surrendering the permit, Chaplin said he found it "virtually impossible" to continue film work in the United States. He called himself "the object of lies and vicious propaganda by powerful reactionary groups, who, by their influence and with the aid of America's yellow press have created an unhealthy atmosphere in which liberal minded individuals can be singled out and persecuted."

Editorial Views . . .

Gentlemen . . .

Editor's Note: The writer of this week's guest editorial, Marshall Miller, is a junior at Muhlenberg, preparing for the medical profession. As a senior at Allentown High School, Mr. Miller was editor-in-chief of THE CANARY, student publication at the high school.

Last Thursday The Morning Call placidly announced that Muhlenberg College has cancelled a showing of Charlie Chaplin films, in obedience to the request of Herbert Paul Lentz Post No. 29, American Legion.

This is very distressing news.

I suppose that many regarded the announcement with satisfaction and felt that another telling victory had been scored over the forces and proponents of communism. But while the super-nationalists waved their banners, the standard of education fluttered at a new low.

What has been gained through this latest coup? Is it feared that to show the films would dispel the illusion that nothing audacious can be produced by anyone who exceeds—or allegedly exceeds—the modicum heaped upon them, particularly in a Life magazine article of several years back, in which Chaplin's artistry was warmly praised. Now I find that a civic organization has labeled some of this master's early (untainted!) films with a peculiar and odious criticism. This naturally makes me twice as anxious to see the movies as before. The move was poor psychology at the very least.

Art has no political allegiance, and Chaplin's work should no more be banned than that Wilde's should be removed from the library on the basis that the author stands as a poor moral example. College students should be credited with the ability to separate personal assessments from artistic achievement.

But someone has sounded the foghorn of "Communist!", which promptly put sour emotions on overtime and threw a monkeywrench in our rational processes. The decision that the powers reached on this particular matter is evidence of the current American trend to seek security in the belief that when the modern witch hunters have identified or "identified" a person as a Communist or Communist affiliate that all is well and the danger past. How roused is the public over the economic dangers of communism and the opportunities of juvenile delinquency in the dissemination of this utopian creed so vilely applied? I submit that Muhlenberg College has newly aggravated the inquisitorial psychosis which afflicts our society by not having the courage to meet the problem now as it must eventually be met.

I note that the members of the legion post do not wish their resolution to reflect poorly on Muhlenberg, which they recognize as a "good American college." Well, gentlemen! Is that an official compliment? Perhaps you would like to see that our lawns are cut to the proper height. But the fault is as much ours as theirs. The M-Book for the current year tells the freshman that "we promise that we will do our best to provide adequate counselling, good instruction, good facilities, and an atmosphere of democratic life in a Christian environment." To this we should now also add perhaps the promise of adequate censorship.

Marshall S. Miller

Stepping On Toes . . .

Once again a well-meaning group has overstepped its responsibility and attempted to dictate the policies of another group for reasons that are not quite as airtight as we could wish for. Charlie Chaplin will not be racing around on the screen on February 4 because our college has followed the suggestions of the local American Legion Post in canceling its presentation of these old films. Students, local citizens and even world-famous men have looked askance at this act and questioned the feasibility, if not propriety of it. The Muhlenberg WEEKLY is adding its bit to this flood; however, not as a flat condemnation of the Legion or of a cooperative college administration.

We believe the recent action of the Legion was based on a real, although misguided feeling of concern for the future of our country and a well-founded hatred of communism and its adherents. Chaplin has been known to lean toward the red end of the spectrum, and this fact was reason enough for the Legion to condemn any of his films. The college, as an assemblage of young minds, is hardly the place, according to the Legion, for these products to be shown. We are just to forget all about the great "little tramp" of yesteryear.

Look at the reason behind Muhlenberg's presentation of these Chaplin films, however. In planning our movie series, the emphasis was primarily on the greatness of the films, not of any particular person in them. If we attempt to evaluate something in terms entirely foreign to the case, we are bound to arrive at a distorted conclusion. The fact that Chaplin is not an advocate for democracy has nothing to do with his ability to act. It is no reason to condemn a purely-entertaining film.

Without knowing the details in the case, we wonder what pressure would have been applied if the administration had not gone along at first with the Legion. The reason, as stated, "that Chaplin shouldn't be in a good Christian college" is too vague for our reasoning. What pure entertainment has to do with a "good Christian college" is entirely unclear to us. Is this reason enough to say "no" to college men who are being told everyday that they live in a freedom-loving land? We doubt it.

January 7, 1955

To the editor:

I recently heard over the radio the report that the American Legion in your town brought pressure to bear upon your college so that it cancelled out the showing of a Charlie Chaplin film in a course teaching the history of the cinema. I am wondering just how could Charlie Chaplin's political affiliations in any way wrongly influence college students? And in a silent movie at that!

Such action by the American Legion, as well-intended as it may be, is wholly contrary to the American concept of freedom.

How does this differ from the Nazi practice of banning all non-Aryan art from art displays when Hitler was in power? What do you students at Muhlenberg think about this action?

Sincerely,

Richard Deats (signed)

To the editor:

Dear Cato:

In your letter to the WEEKLY you discussed the state of intellectual development on this campus. Your observations were most edifying. With your permission, I should like to present another aspect of the intellectual development of the Muhlenberg campus. Recently, we reached another milestone in this development. The question is, in what direction have we made this development? To be more specific, I refer you to the blatant intellectual dishonesty which has manifested itself on this campus in the last several days.

Muhlenberg is supposedly a Liberal Arts College founded on Christian principles and ethics. This is a laudable principle upon which to operate an institution of higher education. Yet, the decision on the part of the Administration to succumb to the pressures of reputedly patriotic organizations such as the American Legion on questions of Academic Freedom is pure unadulterated intellectual dishonesty and gross cowardice. The right of the student, or in fact any person, to the access of controversial information (so-called) is an integral and inalienable part of the Liberal Arts education. It is inconceivable to this writer that the Administration should in any way impair this inviolable right. It matters little whether or not this information assumes the form of a written composition or in this particular instance, a film. Furthermore, the question now arises as to what constitutes "controversial" or "offensive" works, opinions, and personalities. Secondly, who is to be the sole judge in such cases? Has the American Legion been given a special revelation from the Divine, which causes the Administration to cringe with fear and trembling and then servilely heed the master's every whim? Or, might we assume that there are other more mundane and perhaps more pecuniary reasons involved that necessitates this obedience to the protectors of the patriotism of the American Colleges?

To permit the interference of outside organizations in the internal affairs of this College is to abdicate the basic premise upon which the Liberal Arts college stands. Not only have the moral and ethical principles been violated; but also the very "Christian" foundations of this venerable institution have been undermined. Such precedents can only lead to more and more serious encroachments. Perhaps the next demand will be for the abolition of the Departments of Religion and Philosophy, for some of the subjects taught in these departments will certainly give offense to some organization or another.

So, Cato, we are now faced with a new and more insidious form of intellectual bankruptcy. It appears that the policy of Academic

The WEEKLY hopes that the writer of the following letter is no longer as disillusioned in the light of recent positive moves made by our administration.

Dear Sir,

I have read the newspaper accounts of Muhlenberg College's shameful and cowardly capitulation to the demands of the American Legion concerning the Chaplin films with an increasing sense of horror and disbelief.

What has happened at Muhlenberg in the four short years since my graduation to make it so weak that it must bow and scrape to the pronouncements of the Herbert Paul Lentz vigilantes? What kind of a man is this who has come to occupy the school's highest office in these desperate times that he can say, with no apparent misgiving, that he does not think Muhlenberg's surrender to the Legion a matter of great moment?

I had always thought of Muhlenberg and her sister institutions of higher learning as a strong last line of defense against the thought controllers and the freedom butchers. Instead, I see my own college go down on its knees before Post 29 without a fight, without so much as a whimpered protest. My high school would have conducted itself more honorably.

I am seriously wondering how bad things have become at Muhlenberg. Does the Herbert Paul Lentz Post tell Dr. Swain what he can and what cannot teach in his history courses? How many books has the Assistant State Americanism Director expurgated from the shelves of the college library? Has Dr. Appington been forced yet to revise his course in biology so that it conforms with the doctrine of racial superiority?

And Dr. Claude E. Dierolf, that courageous fellow, has he also "concurred" that the early works of John Dos Passos (and how many others?) express leftist political views and, therefore, should be cancelled, forgotten? Has he also allowed the deletion of Lord Byron, Robert Burns, Oscar Wilde, Andre Gide, Ben Franklin and Hart Crane (just to name a few)? Everybody knows that, at one time or another, all of these gentlemen have been subject to "grave morals charges."

I am probably wasting my time writing to the WEEKLY. Back in the days before the Herbert Paul Lentz Post became an educational consultant, it was a fearless and uncompromising newspaper. But when freedom goes the press is usually the first to fail.

Sincerely,

Edward L. Burnett '51 (signed)

Freedom has now become a thing of the past. A new policy, one of expediency and compromise, has been substituted in its stead. For what can we now hope? Having committed itself to this policy of compromise and expediency, the Administration must now justify this position. Therefore, it is incumbent upon those in authority to render a full and acceptable explanation and justification of this policy to the students of Muhlenberg. For this policy as now adopted, denies the students the right to pursue the "Liberal Arts" education without fear of restraint and coercion. Secondly, it might be advisable for the Administration to thoroughly think through its own position on the question of intellectual freedom, and freedom and the implications of its present policy to the students and the faculty.

Has not Swift, dear Cato, in his Gulliver's Travels aptly described the race of men "to be the most pernicious race of little odious vermin that nature ever suffered to crawl upon the surface of the earth." Perhaps, at Muhlenberg College we have a surplus of "odious little vermin" who prefer much better to crawl on their bellies than to walk like men. I wonder.

Voltaire

From the Chaplain's Desk . . .

In spite of the New Testament injunction, "Judge not that ye be not judged . . ." one is always judging people and things and we are always "under judgment." Students are constantly under the judgment of their professors, their fellow students, and their parents. In the same way, professors are constantly under the judgment of their students, their colleagues, and the administration. All of us are continually being judged by someone. The greater the burden of one's responsibility and leadership, the more apt he is to come under the judgment of others.

The Christian faith teaches that man is always under the judgment of God. But a God who judges more on the basis of motive and intent than on outward act. Furthermore, this God is one whose essential character is love. Thus, the foundation and wellspring of his judgment is love, the quality of love which saves and enriches life.

Made in the image of God, man also sits in judgment on himself and others. Some of his judgments are right and good; others are wrong and foolish. But there is greater possibility that we will judge wisely if we make love the basis of our judgment. "This love of which I speak is slow to lose patience—it looks for a way of being constructive." (I Corinthians 13:4 Phillips translation)

by Don Reilly

Hot dog and rally 'round the flag, boys, because Muhlenberg has done it again! Yessir, fight fans, this latest hassle had all the makings of the blunder of the year. The free world holds its breath as Muhlenberg College struggles and grunts in an effort to remove its foot from its mouth . . . once again.

Backgroundwise, it seems there was this comedian, see, who made some very funny movies some years back. Next he made some political moves that weren't so funny. Charlie Chaplin lined himself up considerably left of center. This made him the unpopular expatriate he is today. However, those movies are still very funny and they contain some of the truly wonderful moments in cinema comedy. As such they should be seen and re-appreciated at every opportunity. The directors of Muhlenberg's film series realized this when they arranged for these old Chaplin pictures to be shown.

Lo and behold, the American Legion reared its star-spangled head and condemned this projected projection of the Chaplin masterpieces. A Legion delegation visited Muhlenberg and asked the college to cease and desist. Muhlenberg's president decided that since this film series has great public relations value, a demonstration by the Legion with the attendant risk of counter-action by the student body might give the college a black eye. As an on-the-spot decision, this probably looked like a good one. As it happened, the issue moved considerably off the spot.

The Allentown paper, usually quite conservative, saw the danger of such a decision and printed an editorial pointing out the bad precedent being set.

The incident got front page coverage in papers all over the country. Letters poured in from angry citizens deploring what looked very much like a panty-waist decision on Muhlenberg's part. A Philadelphia newscaster fired brickbats at the college. The college is now trying furiously to stem the tide and put the monkey on the Legion's back . . . where it belongs. We understand that the local Legion post has received commendatory letters from other posts for their stand on the matter. But, gentle readers, the best is yet to come. If all goes well, the Legion will be juggling a very hot potato and there may be a few burnt fingers. The movie will be shown . . . for faculty, staff and students . . . as the thing stands now. Will the Legion chicken out? Will they attempt to tamper with the educational program of the college? Will they storm the art galleries and the libraries? We doubt it, because the Legion delegation was asked whether they would object to productions of Oscar Wilde plays on the same grounds they took exception to Chaplin movies, and the reply went something like . . . "who's he?" Well, stay tuned anyway, fans. Muhlenberg will come out on top and have all the right answers. When the dust clears, Muhlenberg will come out unscathed and with a large hunk of prestige . . . which is as it should be.

The decision of the famous campus fraternity trial has been announced. After the stir that was raised by the crusading prosecutors, the decision is disappointing. The least they could have done was dynamite Phi Tau's front porch.

...Student Council Report...

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on January 6, 1954 at 8:02 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Baker, Weidknecht, Quay, Loy, Lauer, Adam, Paul, Schlittler, Ascione, Spohn, Rosenberger, and Wanczyk.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Social Committee—Mr. Rosenberger reported that he was not able to meet with Mr. Lawson and discuss the possibility of a record dance with Cedar Crest.

Commons Committee—It was suggested that Mr. Wanczyk see Mr. Holmes and have the breakfast hour set at from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m.

Elections Committee—Mr. Wanczyk reported that class officer elections will be held on Wednesday, January 12.

Student Lounge Committee—Mr. Quay reported that the new lounge in the Student Center has been completed and furnished.

Special Cases For Disciplinary Action

Council heard two cases involving misconduct on the part of two students.

The first case involved the damaging of a flower bed at West Hall by a Muhlenberg student. There was an interrogation of the student followed by deliberation of the Council. Mr. Adam moved that the student be held liable for the damages incurred, be fined $10 for the Student Body Fund, and be compelled to take his car home for the rest of year and if he should bring a car back, than he should be suspended for one semester. Mr. Quay seconded the motion and it carried.

The second case concerned another student who was charged with driving his car around the soccer field. Mr. Quay moved that the student pay $5 for damages incurred and that he not be allowed to have a vehicle at school for the rest of the school year, and if this be violated, there would be a penalty of social probation imposed for one semester. Mr. Baker seconded the motion and it carried.

OLD BUSINESS:

Mr. Schlittler reported that three representatives from Lehigh will be present at Muhlenberg on Friday, January 7, to discuss the possibility of having a leadership class second semester.

NEW BUSINESS:

Three parking violations were presented to Council. Mr. Paul moved that the three men be assessed their respective fines. The motion was seconded by Mr. Loy and it carried.

Mr. Lauer requested that Council send a mild letter of protest to Dr. Seegers for not having informed the Friday Night Committee of the action taken on the banning of the film.

Mr. Adam moved that Council send a letter of firm protest to Dr. Seegers for the removal of a film presentation from the Friday night film schedule. The letter is printed elsewhere in the WEEKLY.

Mr. Quay moved and Mr. Lauer seconded that Student Council send a letter of protest to the local American Legion Post for using political pressure against Muhlenberg College. This letter will seek on the part of the Council to gain insight into the mechanical workings of the American Legion's Americanization Program.

Mr. Adam moved for adjournment and Mr. Weidknecht seconded the motion. The motion carried unanimously.

Respectfully submitted,

Freshmen Post Perfect Seven Game Record

The freshman basketball team has placed in the record books an excellent showing. Not including last night's contest, the young Mules have made a perfect record of seven wins.

The frosh have scored a total of 489 points in the seven games against their opponents with an average of about 70 points per game. The losers have been held to a total of 384 points for an average of about 55 points per game. The toughest team to face the frosh statistically was the Allentown Turner Liederkrantz, who came within 7 points of a tie.

The last freshman team, previous to this year, was in 1950. In their first seven games, the 1950 squad averaged about 61 points per ball game, while their opponents scored only about 51 points. The record of the '50 team was 10 victories against 6 setbacks.

The individual scoring statistics of this year's frosh starting five is:

	FG	Fouls	Total	Aver.
Jeffries	52	35	139	19.8
Neely	32	33	97	16.2
Riorden	21	28	70	10.0

Triplett, Fox Travel To NYC, NCAA Meeting

Tom Triplett and Dick Fox attended the National Football Coaches Association's thirty-second annual meeting in New York City at the Hotel Statler from January 4 to 8.

The main purpose of the convention was to review the 1954 football season, discuss new rules and make suggestions for the following season.

Highlights of the convention were movies, business meetings, and speakers. The movies were of the Sugar Bowl, Orange Bowl, Cotton Bowl, and other top games. Discussed were new resolutions, TV problems, nomination of game officials and new business.

Such famous coaches as Terry Brennan, University of Notre Dame; Andy Gustafson, assisted by Perry Moss, University of Miami; and Len Casanova, University of Oregon spoke at the convention.

LaSalle Tops Berg On Rally In Fourth, 88-79

(Philadelphia, Jan. 12) LaSalle's basketball quintet, fourth best in the nation (11-3) outran the Mules (6-3) tonight, 88-79, in a closely played contest at Lincoln High School's Gymnasium. The lead changed hands several times during the thwarted in the second half by LaSalle's switch to a zone defense in the second half.

Coach Dick Schmidt's Frosh squad dropped its first game of the campaign, to the LaSalle's Freshmen, 78-74, in the preliminary game. Frank Neely sank 29 points, while teammates Clint Jeffries and Jerry Diem notched 19 and 16, respectively.

Bobby Gall ranked among the top four scorers with 23 markers, 17 of them coming in the first half. Gall's scoring attempts were

Wrestlers Challenge Middle Atlantic Champs

Muhlenberg's wrestling squad will be looking for its first victory after two defeats when they entertain the grapplers from Gettysburg on Saturday.

The Bullets, who beat Bucknell in their first encounter, will be seeking their second win after losing to Maryland in an exhibition match at the beginning of the season.

The reigning Middle Atlantic Champs have practically an all sophomore team except for three veterans. They are Jack Tumble, 137-lb. class, Bill Sells, 177-lb. class and Dick Mitchell, heavy-weight class.

Sells was Middle Atlantic Champ in the 177-lb. class last year, and Mitchell was a second place winner in the 177-lb. class.

Other members of the Gettysburg team are Purdy (127-lb. class), Wormbly (130-lb. class), Lewis (147-lb. class), and Heverly (167-lb. class).

Crum-men's Offense Buffaloes Bisons As Squad Gallops To 96-74 Decision

Muhlenberg's rejuvenated offense buffaloes the Bucknell Bisons as the team romped to a 96-74 decision last Saturday at Davis Hall in Lewisburg, Pa.

The Mules, led by Bobby Gall and Denny Roth, never led by more than 8 points during the first half, and trailed 12-7 after 4 minutes of play. The Bisons proved stubborn in the first half by virtue of a zone defense that the Mules found difficult to solve. Outside shooting by Gall and Del

As the first half of the basketball season nears a close, Muhlenberg faces the toughest part of its schedule, with games against Rutgers, Lafayette, Temple and Hofstra.

Rutgers Five Displays Poor

Season Record

The Mules travel to New Brunswick to take on the Scarlet of Rutgers on Saturday, January 15. The Rutgers quintet is looking for its second win of the season. Lack of height and inexperience are the main reasons for their poor 1-10 record to date.

Scarlet coach Don White is planning to start Bill Beindorf and Dave Stires at the forward positions. Floyd Kregenow will start at center where he proves to be a real scrapper under the boards. The guards will be Ron Mastrolia and Paul Lacity. The former has a fine set shot and the latter is a good ball handler. Rutgers has improved its defensive game but needs polishing on its offense.

Lafayette Leopards Claim Fine Record, Hofstra Tourney Win

The Leopards of Lafayette come to Memorial Hall on Wednesday, January 19 with a fine record and reports of a successful performance in the Hofstra holiday tournament. There are no seniors on the Leopard starting five, but the five juniors and one sophomore have received much experience this season. Maroon coach Bill van Bredakolf is happy with the work of his starting five.

This year's captain is Ernie Peters, a 5'9" junior guard and the smartest man on the squad. He is aggressive and is a good shot. The other guard is Eddie Knapp, a 6'2" set shot artist, who can drive well and who is good on defense also. The forwards are Todd Walker and George Young, both of whom are good shots. The center and only sophomore on the team is 6'6" Jim Radcliff, who does a great deal of rebounding. Two more sophomores who loom large in Von Bredakolf's plan are 6-foot Stu Murray, who has a good one hand shot and 6'4" Gordon Galtere, another good rebounder.

Mules Re-engage Strong Temple Team

The Mules will travel to Philadelphia's Convention Hall on Saturday, January 22 to play the Temple Owls, who won Muhlenberg's season opener, 78-69. The Owls, coached by Harry Litwack, former basketball great, have given impressive performances since then.

Harry Silcox is the co-captain and topscorer for Temple. Silcox led the Templars in scoring last year with an average of 15.8 points a game. He broke the immortal Bill Milkvy's school record for points in a single game, when he tallied 33 points against Drexel Tech last year. The "Thin Man" is 6'3" and has a deadly one-hand shot from any spot on the court.

Leon Smith is a fine rebounder who also has a good set shot. Only 6'2", he does a lot of scoring from underneath the boards with his clever faking. The playmaker of the squad is co-captain Al Didrikson. Al is the Owl's best ball-handler and possesses a deadly set shot and push shot. Last year he was second in scoring, hitting for a 12 point a game average. Hal Lear is a 5'11" junior who bettered Bill Milkvy's freshman record by averaging over 25 points a game in his freshman year. He is a good jumper for his height, can drive well and also has a good outside shot. Hal Reinfield is the fifth man on the team and can

Kurz Makes Goal, Despite Foe

Hustling Don Kurz pushes one through the hoops in his team's winning effort over the Saint Joseph's College five in Memorial Hall last Wednesday night, 92-80. Kurz' hand hides the face of tall court-mate Denny Roth (34) as only the backs are recognizing features of Muhlenberg's Cardy Gemma (35) and the Hawks' Wally Nowacki (16).

Colgate, Temple Pin M-berg Grapplers

Muhlenberg matmen lost two consecutive matches last week. In their opening engagement with Colgate on Thursday the Mules were pinned by the visitors, 26-6. The second match was dropped to an undefeated Temple team, 21-15, on Saturday.

Frank Gutierrez and Paul Billy both have won two matches for the Mules. In the Colgate match "Guts" decisioned his man, 4-2, and Billy stopped his man, 6-2. In the Temple match Gutierrez and Billy pinned their men in the first period. The only other points scored this season was Carl Schee's win by default in the Temple match.

Fencers Display Form On Television Tonight

Dr. Andrew Erskine's fencers will demonstrate the correct use of the three weapons used in normal collegiate competition on WFMZ-TV tonight at eight p.m.

With nine of ten men returning from last year's squad, the team is showing marked improvement. Dr. Erskine commented that the team is "shaping up nicely" and is looking forward to the first match against Temple on February 5. Last year against Temple, the Mules won in epee competition (6-3) but lost in foil and sabre.

Monday night action in the intramural basketball league saw undefeated Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Epsilon Pi. and the M-Club squads retain their perfect records.

In the first contest, the LXA "B" five defeated their neighbors, Phi Sigma Kappa, 43-34. Tom Weber was high scorer for the winners with 14 points, while Bob Meurer led the losers with 10 points.

Phi Epsilon Pi rolled over hapless Phi Kappa Tau, 29-19, in a loosely-played contest. Bob Krain led the PEP boys with 11 points. Bob Fritsch was high for the victims with 7 points.

The M-Club started slow but finished strong when they squashed the Deucemen, 48-33. Emery led the lettermen in a well-balanced attack with 12 points, while DeMartine and Keyte led the losers with 9 and 8 points, respectively.

In the top game on Tuesday night, undefeated LXA and SPE clashed and the former squad ran away with a 48-33 victory. Weber and Kynett were high scorers for the winners with 12 and 10 points, respectively, while Helsing dumped in 13 points for the losers.

The ATO "B" five dumped the Hayseeds, 38-30. Talmadge led the victors and O'Connor led the losers with 14 and 9 points, respectively.

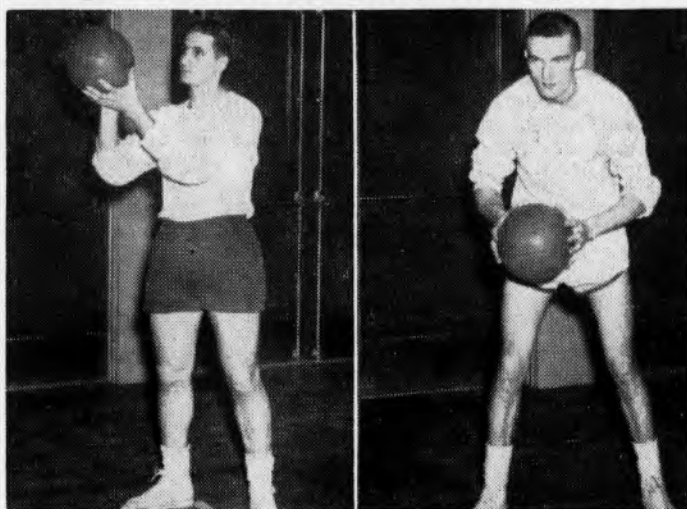

The Cardinals set a record team high for the year when they walloped the SPE "Juniors" 77-22. Laws was the leader of the winning offense with 25 points. For the fraternity boys, Fuhrman and Williams divided 20 points evenly.

In the final game, the Knights slew the LXA "B" team, 39-29. Painter and Caplan led the horsemen to victory with 15 and 14 points, respectively, while Peters threw in 18 points for the baby Lambs.

The once beaten GDI's won their fourth contest by a forfeit over the Hooples.

Team captains are reminded to check the I-M schedule upon returning for the second semester, as games will be played on February 2 (Wednesday).

In The Spotlight . . . Sophomores Gemma, Gall Sparkle

Cardy Gemma

Sophomore Cardy Gemma fills one of the varsity guard slots in the starting lineup of Berg's court quintet. He stands 6'1", weighs 198, and names Paterson, N. J., his hometown.

Gemma played for St. John's High in Paterson for three years, winning the triple crown in his senior year: all-city, all-county, and all-state.

Cardy recently completed two years in the army, where he was captain of Camp Gordon's basketball team, which won the 3rd Army title.

Gemma, who rooms with teammate Gerry Neville, is a history and political science major, planning in the future to teach and coach. He says of this year's team, "The more games the team plays, the more experience it gets and consequently, the better the squad will become."

Bobby Gall, 6'3" 170 pound guard from Bethlehem, is presently Berg's top scorer on the varsity basketball squad. So far this season he has earned a 19.3 point-per-game average with a total of 154 markers in eight games, 49 more than teammate Don Kurz, Berg's second highest scorer.

Gall played basketball at Bethlehem High School and Nitschmann Junior High for three years each. He gained a great deal of experience under Coach Daniel Sylvester at Nitschmann. Bob also played soccer for two years.

Gall, a business major, is starting his second year on the Mule varsity five, his first as playmaker. He commented that even though the team is young, "it should end up with a good season because of Coach Crum's knowledge of ball-players, and his experience with other teams."

Speaking Frankly

by Frank Howard

Long after the rafters reflect the activity of the cheering fans, the usually dismal, deserted gym is still awake with the feverish, determined work of a few unnoticed men. Actually, there is no basketball story filed with the local press or national wire services until the job of these men is completed. The names of the toilers never get into print, but the results of their labor is as vital to the sports stories as is the play of the team.

The averages, percentages, lists of attempts and rebounds mentioned by the sports writer are the results of long figuring, calculating, computing with slide-rule, pencil and paper. Once the demands of the sports scribe have been reckoned with, the statistician must complete and compile the figures on extensive NCAA forms. The human calculator must meet the deadline of the newspapers as well as the schedules recommended by the NCAA.

On away trips, college sports publicist Ken Webb and his staff clutter-up hotel lobbies, restaurant tables and telephone booths filing reports with the papers and the NCAA. They must be completely relaxed during the game, because the statistics must be factual and unbiased. By the time they've completed their work it's too late to cheer or to laud a particular player or play. In a way, they've been cheated—they can't really appreciate the contest unless they attempt to reconstruct the game afterwards.

Frank Trusheim is Muhlenberg's mechanical calculator, average figurer, statistician, and form filer. Frank wanders into the playing area ahead of the crowds in order to determine the average and percentages with his slide-rule, pencil and paper. Occasionally, Frank is able to relax when he isn't either giving the coach a report, marking rebounds and attempts or filing the final figures.

Bill Kynett sits at the scorer's table or on the player's bench, wherever there is room. To the common observer Bill is merely placing a series of unrelated numbers and circles on a diagram which resembles a playing floor. After the game, however, he can tell you where every shot was taken from and if it was made.

Fellow columnist Don Reilly, who gets his information right from the "Horse's Mouth," is the subject of some undue criticism from one of the engineers in the neighboring community. Recently, Don forecast that there would be another dull thud in the Lehigh athletic office as Muhlenberg was dropped from the ivy league contender's basketball schedule. Don suggested the two schools meet on a neutral field for rock throwing. It seems, says the Lehigh scribe, "that rock throwing from a distance has already begun."

DeLong Voices Concern On Big Team Pressures

(Editor's Note: The following is a partial reprint of a column which appeared in the Friday, January 7 issue of the EVENING CHRONICLE. The author of "DeLong and Short of it—" is Dave DeLong, local sports editor, who has voiced considerable concern over the pressures of the powerful colleges and the possible effect on small college teams.)

For an example of pure and unadulterated greed, it is difficult to find a better example than those who are seeking to upset the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. program for controlling the television of football games.

The action of these big outfits is made the more reprehensible because they have so much. These schools have built football to a gigantic level that almost overshadows their primary purpose of dispensing education. Their stadiums are the largest and their bowls are always sellouts.

How any minority in this country can coldly try to force its will upon the majority which will suffer most by its policies goes against every grain we were taught about man's duty to his fellow man.

The only alternative lesser schools will have, if these tactics prevail, is to drop football and curtail other sports as well, because football has paid the freight for these less popular sports ever since colleges fostered competition.

Finally, sports as an attraction on college programs will be dead and only the giants will survive, a comparative few who will roll in the loot over the bones of the institutions whose activity they killed.

Your scrivener was speaking to a well known official of a Lehigh Valley College recently.

"The thing is coming," he said, "as sure as you're born that the small colleges will operate their sports plant in the same way other departments are run. Sports will be placed on the budget, exactly as are the Biology, Chemistry, and other departments. Receipts from fans will be incidental. We will operate within our own class and on a moderate scale."

"Football definitely does not pay for all our athletic expenditures nowadays, and television has undoubtedly hurt us in other directions. Our only alternative if there is to be any sport at all on a college curriculum is to operate it on so much appropriation from the college treasury."

LOOK! LOOK! LOOK! LUCKY DROODLES!

WHAT'S THIS?

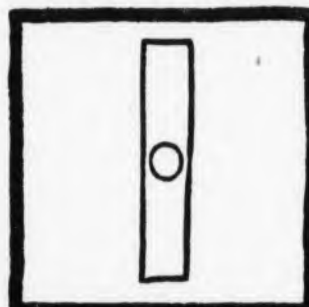

For solution see paragraph below.

OBVIOUSLY, THE TITLE of the above Droodle is: 47 insectology students enjoying better-tasting Luckies while studying 3 fireflies. All kinds of students are bugs about Luckies. Matter of fact, college smokers prefer Luckies to all other brands—and by a wide margin—according to the latest and greatest of all college surveys. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better . . . cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

LSA Meets M and D Televised

Last Sunday at their meeting in the Student Center the members of the Lutheran Student Association discussed the problem, "Is the LSA fulfilling its purpose?" Discussion leaders, who presented ways in which the group is succeeding and several things which it should improve, were Jackie Fretz, from Cedar Crest, Edgar Schick, and David Godshall, both from Muhlenberg.

Taking definite action, the group decided on a plan which they hope will interest more students in the LSA. They tentatively planned two meetings for February 6 and 13.

During the business meeting the group voted to give $15.00 to Lutheran Student Action, a national organization which helps Lutheran students who are in need. It was also decided that 60% of the future offerings will be given to this fund. The group also discussed the regional conference which will be held at Buck Hill Falls February 25 to 27.

not under attack as regards the presentation of immoral ideas or other acts designed to corrupt the minds of the viewers, but were under attack because of the alleged political sympathies of the chief actor. His political activities we do not in any way condone. Therefore, the real reasons behind the original protest are not of a nature that we consider legitimate in academic circles of integrity. The decision weakens the academic integrity of this college and serves as a foothold for other organizations to protest cultural programming at Muhlenberg.

(3) We feel that this decision fails to resolve this key question of our time which is: "Can educational institutions continue to serve American society as centers of knowledge in a real search for truth in the atmosphere of fear and in spite of pressure from external forces?"

This last assertion compels us formally to request a re-examination of your decision so that the true academic purposes of Muhlenberg College can be evaluated in the light of current political and economic thought prevalent in today's society.

This problem must be faced quickly and squarely and to that end we pledge our interest and solicit your advice and leadership.

be used in any position. He can play the pivot, where he can hook with either hand or he can play guard, where he is a deadly set shot, or forward, where he drives well. Reinfeld also is good under the boards and adds to Temple's rebounding strength.

Hofstra Squad Visits Memorial Hall

The Hofstra basketball team will pay a visit to Muhlenberg on Friday, January 28. This will be the first meeting in any sport between the two colleges. Hofstra has just finished holding its Annual Invitation tournament and is reported to be strong. The nucleus of this year's Dutchmen team are the co-captains, Ron Green and Joe Mackey. Green is a good defensive man, has a good set shot and can drive. Mackey is a top-flight rebounder and defensive man and a good set shot artist as well. Bill Thieben, 6'6" center is also outstanding and is the leading scorer and rebounder for Hofstra.

Dave Michels is this year's coach, replacing Kenneth Postel who last year led the team to the district II Sig Ep tournament which was held at Lehigh. One of the brothers, Kermit Gregory, was married over the Christmas vacation. We of Sig Ep wish him and his wife Janice, the best of luck for the future.

Card is the other half of Coach Birney Crum's "double-G" Gall-Gemma guard duo. His best shot is a jump push-shot, reminiscent of the push shot of Frank Cutko, ex-Berg hoopster. Gemma's contribution to the team cannot be measured in points, but in teamwork. His best performance this year was in the Albright game, in which he hit double figures in foul shots, including two technical free throws.

Bobby wears uniform number 32, but is more easily recognized driving in for a layup or taking a long over-the-head set shot. He has a knack for drawing fouls, a talent he used very effectively in the Lehigh game. Gall is both shifty and fast, a tough combination to handle defensively. His superb ball handling and passing make him a polished playmaker.

Faculty-Student Committee Suggests Examination Rules

Suggestions for the Faculty:

1. Examination questions should be carefully guarded before the examination and completed blue books should be carefully guarded after the examination. Neither should be kept in departmental offices. It has happened that corrected blue books have been substituted for originals.
2. Careful consideration should be given to planning seating arrangements.
3. Examination room procedures should be defined in advance: the distribution and collection of examination materials, the presence of texts and notebooks in the room, leaving the room during the examination.
4. Do not give the impression of being uninterested in proctoring by reading newspapers or books during the examination.
5. Arbitrary judgments should be avoided when proctoring. Treat the students with reasonable respect as gentlemen.
6. Until such time as the student body elects to inaugurate an honor system, the disciplining of cheaters centers in the Dean's office. Proctors should report all cases of cheating to the Dean. The policy of that office is to seek the assistance of both students and faculty in hearing such cases and aims to rehabilitate offenders.

Suggestions for the Students:

1. Do not take texts, notebooks, or course summaries into the examination room.
2. Be sportsmanlike about the examination. It is a test of your ability, competitively as well as individually.
3. Guard well your own honor. Give the proctor no reason to question your behavior. It is just as serious an offense against honor to give aid as it is to accept it.
4. Disapprove strongly and openly of cheating by another student; he is cheating you. Expressed disapproval is the strongest weapon against cheating that exists. Cheating can occur only as long as it is condoned by the majority of students.
5. Be thorough in preparing for your examinations so that "cribs" are unnecessary.
6. Get to bed early. Do not cram.

YOU can help make this the best examination period we've ever had at Muhlenberg.

Tribunal Verdict

tinguish between that which is permissible and that which is not permissible.

Council Found Negligent

The Tribunal feels that the Inter-Fraternity Council has been negligent in its responsibilities to its member fraternities by its failure to provide adequate By-Laws, by its failure to establish its own judicial procedures short of appeal to a Faculty Tribunal and by its failure to establish more effective rushing procedures. In respect to the latter point it should be pointed out that the "silent period" is of longer duration than its purpose would warrant. If its purpose is to give men a period of time to make a decision free of the usual rushing pressures, then a college week is too long. This case indicated that freshmen might have a tendency to continue to court the house of their choice during the "silent period" to the discomfort of the house concerned. Perhaps a potential pledge should experience at least one rushing period as an onlooker in order to learn the conduct expected of him when he is eligible to participate.

that turned the game into a rout. The victory was a team triumph as the Mules attack was well coordinated with smooth passing Bobby Gall directing the attack. Denny Roth (20) and Don Kurz (15) also controlled the offensive backboard. For the Bisons Norm Voorhees led with 19 points scored mostly on drive-ins, while high-scoring Gall scored 26 points on set-shots and driving layups.

Ods bodkins and that sort of stuff but it's a devilish long time before we go to press again, what with these useless examinations and that rot about grades and so forth. An awful lot of points can be dropped through the hoop into the hopper though, before the semester ends, and if you can score enough you might win and pass the course. But if you don't pass this year maybe you'll study next year, boys.

Once again Muhlenberg's students turned out in poor fashion for the mid-year elections. What's the matter gang, don't you care who runs your affairs?

Speaking about points and the next big home game on January 19, there will also be about one hundred Allentown Alumni attending a dinner in the Commons just before the cagers take on Lafayette. We hear that Lafayette has a strong team this year, so it's bound to be a good game for the grads.

On Friday, the twenty-first of this month, the American Chemical Association will be on the campus and the Commons will once more entertain about fifty visitors.

Once again as another semester closes, we wish to thank the students for their cooperation with us as we endeavor to satisfy them daily. The best of luck with those finals men, and we'll look forward to serving you in the new semester.

Second ICL Program Begins February 14

The Institute of Christian Living, the campus organization which each year sponsors a series of lectures featuring prominent personalities from various fields of endeavor, will present the second phase of its 1954-55 program beginning Monday, February 14, and ending Thursday, February 17.

As visiting lecturer for the second part of its program, ICL will present Dr. George W. Forell, Assistant Professor, School of Religion, the State University of Iowa.

Dr. Forell was born in Breslau, Germany, and studied at Breslau and at Vienna. Thirty-five years old, Dr. Forell holds a B.D. degree from Lutheran Theological Seminary, a Th.M. from Princeton Theological Seminary, and Th.D. from Union Theological Seminary.

In addition to serving as Pastor at Lutheran churches in New York and New Jersey, Dr. Forell in 1951-52 served as Student Service Secretary of the National Lutheran Council. Before joining the faculty of the State University of Iowa, he was Associate Professor of Philosophy at Gustavus Adolphus College. Dr. Forell is a member of the American Society for Church History, and the American Society for Reformation Research. He also is the author of several books dealing with the teachings of Martin Luther.

During his visit to the campus, Dr. Forell will speak each morning at the regular twenty-minute chapel service. At 4 p.m. each afternoon he will hold an informal discussion period in the Student Center, and he will lecture each evening at 7:30 p.m. The evening lectures will be held in the Student Center, with the exception of Tuesday evening, February 15, when Dr. Forell will speak in West Hall Auditorium, and Friday evening, February 17, when he will speak at a Vesper Service in the chapel.

Dr. Forell will also visit classrooms, the fraternities, and the commons. On Tuesday, February 15, at 2 p.m., he will join the faculty in a discussion group to be held in the conference room in the Administration Building.

Made possible by the Board of Trustees, the Muhlenberg Christian Association, and the Rehrg Lecture Fund, the Institute of Christian Living endeavors to provide Muhlenberg students with additional educational and cultural opportunities to increase their knowledge and understanding of world problems, and particularly of the role to be played by the student with Christian ideals and perspectives.

Staack Heads Religion Dept. At Muhlenberg

Dr. Hagen Staack, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, last Tuesday night announced to his congregation that he was resigning that post, effective this fall, to become head of the Muhlenberg College Department of Religion.

Dr. Staack has been serving as a lecturer in that department for the past several semesters. A college rule to the effect that no member of the Muhlenberg faculty may serve as a full-time pastor, was the reason given for his resignation. He did announce that he would continue to serve St. Peter's as a supply pastor until a suitable replacement can be found.

Dr. Staack holds a master's degree in science from Rostock University, a master's in theology from Berlin University, and a doctorate in philosophy from Hamburg University, all in Germany.

Woman's Auxiliary Given Memorial Gift

Dr. John D. Brown, professor of English at Muhlenberg for nearly 40 years, was memorialized at the recent auxiliary meeting.

A special Memorial Membership award was one of the highlights of the monthly meeting of the Muhlenberg Auxiliary, held on January 25. The gift was given by Mrs. John D. Brown, in honor of her husband, the late Dr. Brown, who was professor of English at the college for 38 years before his sudden death in 1950. For many years, Dr. Brown had been the customary speaker at the Auxiliary's January meeting.

Life memberships were also given to Mrs. Carl E. Neudorfer and Mrs. Vernon B. Henninger. Mrs. Neudorfer is the wife of the pastor of St. Michael's Lutheran Church which was the host church for this meeting. Mrs. Henninger has been co-chairman for membership for the Auxiliary during the last 18 years.

Speaker for the meeting, attended by approximately 350 persons, was Atty. Henry V. Scheirer. Enlarging on the topic, "Misconceptions of the Law," the Allentown attorney spoke about common mistakes made pertaining particularly to wills and inheritance. He noted that these mistakes are frequently made when sums are willed to institutions such as Muhlenberg.

Professor French Is Author Of New Educational Textbook

Dr. William M. French, professor of education at Muhlenberg College, is the author of a textbook in education, "Education for All: An Introduction to American Education," to be published next spring by Odyssey Press, New York City. The book is designed to be used as a textbook in introductory courses in education in teachers colleges, liberal arts colleges and universities.

Dr. French is also the author of a chapter entitled "The Battle for Free Schools, A Continuing Action" in a volume of essays to be published by the College of Education of Ohio State University in honor of the seventy-fifth birthday of Dr. Harry Good, professor emeritus of education.

The new textbook is written in the light of Dr. French's 25 years of experience as a teacher in public schools, teachers colleges and liberal arts colleges. It discusses the present controversies regarding the public school curriculum, academic freedom and responsibility, principles and techniques of teaching, guidance, administration, educational finance, teaching as a vocation, preparation for teaching, child behavior, American education in the world scene and the philosophy of education. The author has taught in the public schools of Grosse Pointe, Michigan, and in the following higher institutions: New York State College for Teachers at Albany, Yale University, Ohio State University, Muskingum College, Hastings College, and Macalester College. Since September, 1953, he has been professor of education at Muhlenberg College and executive secretary of the Lehigh Valley School Study Council.

Further information dealing with the contest will appear in later issues of the WEEKLY.

Preparations Nearing Completion For Prom

Preparations for the Junior Prom—"Stairway to the Stars"—are nearing completion. Larry Cescon, general chairman, announced that Art Mooney and his orchestra has been contracted to play for the February 18 event. Dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Frolics Ballroom in Allentown.

Parke Frankenfield and his seven piece dixieland band will provide entertainment during intermission.

Unlike last year, selection of the prom queen and her court will be from among the dates of Juniors, only. The queen and her court will receive gifts.

Honored guests and chaperones have not as yet been announced.

Larry Cescon commented: "The Prom Committee feels that a fine evening will be had by all who attend. Provisions have been made to simplify the selection of the queen and to make the selection less taxing and inconspicuous to the participants. It is hoped that full cooperation concerning the selection of the Queen is achieved on the part of the student body."

Dave Brubeck Quartet Presents Jazz Concert Monday Evening

Next Monday evening in Memorial Hall the Muhlenberg Jazz Society will present a concert by Dave Brubeck and his modern jazz quartet. Admission will be free to Muhlenberg students. The Brubeck group was recently featured in articles in Time and Life magazines. It has presented concerts at various colleges including Michigan, Oberlin, and College of the Pacific, of which Brubeck is an alumnus. It has recorded a group of songs under the title "Jazz Goes To College."

Sara Newton To Give Chapel Organ Recital

Next Tuesday, February 8, in the regular chapel service at 11 a.m. the MCA will sponsor an organ recital by Sara Newton, organist at Trinity Lutheran Church, Staten Island.

Miss Newton is a graduate of the Penn Hall Conservatory of Music and has a Master of Sacred Theology degree from Union Theological Seminary. Her special field of study has been the music of Bach.

In addition to giving lessons, Miss Newton leads three choirs and accompanies three Sunday services, weekly.

Collegians View Four Disputed C. Chaplin Films

Last night, the much publicized film starring Charlie Chaplin was presented to the students and faculty members of the college in the Science Auditorium. The film, originally scheduled for public presentation on February 4, had been cancelled at the request of Herbert Paul Lentz Post No. 29 American Legion.

Because of the great deal of interest aroused by the cancellation, Dr. Seegers issued a statement in which he clarified the Administration's position. In his statement Dr. Seegers said that although the film series is primarily a community service, a considerable block of the community did not apparently desire its inclusion. This, however, does not imply that the college will allow outside groups to dictate its educational policy.

The American Legion members requested that the Chaplin program be eliminated on the grounds that Chaplin has an anti-American record. Chaplin, a British subject, surrendered his United States re-entry permit in Geneva in April 1953 while on a six-month world cruise.

Coming films, which will be opened to the public, include the "Barber of Seville" and "The Naked City," among others.

Brubeck himself has studied music at Oberlin and Juilliard. He is known as a pianist who exhibits freedom and daring in his improvisations, yet one who keeps his work integrated.

The quartet divides into two sections to gain its effect. Joe Dodge, on drums, is aided in laying down a jazz beat by Bob Bates, who also holds the group together by giving the harmonic line with his bass. Brubeck's piano and the alto saxophone of Paul Desmond work against this rhythm section by improvisation on the melody and the rhythm. While exhibiting an unusual improvisation, Brubeck introduces elements of more serious music without destroying the jazz quality of the music.

The officers of the Jazz Society report that ticket sales have been going well, and that they expect good student support as well as that from local residents and nearby colleges. Several members are to appear on WFIL-TV next Saturday to discuss jazz and the coming concert.

Support Needed

The Society extends its thanks to Dr. John J. Reed, club adviser, and to Tony Beckas, local disc jockey, both of whom helped greatly with arrangements.

In connection with its purpose, to stimulate interest in jazz on campus, the Jazz Society promises future presentations if student interest and participation in this initial attempt warrant them.

Lambda Chi Selects Conway; Young Chosen PEP President

Lambda Chi Alpha and Phi Epsilon Pi social fraternities elected new officers at meetings held during the week preceding semester vacation. Officers are elected for a one year term in each case.

College Parking Lot Open To Commuters

The parking lot adjacent to memorial Hall is now available for daytime parking to non-resident Muhlenberg College students. This information was released recently by Dr. John J. Reed, advisor to student activities. According to Dr. Reed, the facilities are to be available to commuters from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday, when the college is in regular session.

Permission to use the lot will be granted through the Dean's office. Eligible students will receive stickers for their cars, as well as a copy of the regulations governing parking on the lot.

Cars are to be parked on the north and south sides of the parking lot, and they are to be headed in a north-south direction. In the case of all such spaces being filled, cars are then to be parked in the center of the lot midway between the north and south sides, also headed in a north-south orientation.

Violation of parking regulations or misuse of the parking lot may result in the revoking of permission to park.

The La Salle college - Muhlenberg college basketball game is a complete sellout. See details on Page 3.

Lambda Chi Alpha elected the following men: High Alpha, Dick Conway; High Beta, Jack Russo; High Tau, Roger Coyle; and High Gamma, Robert Diaz. The officers correspond to president, vice president, treasurer and secretary, respectively.

Conway is a pre-law student while Russo is majoring in biology. Coyle is working toward a Bachelor of Arts degree and Diaz is a pre-med student. All are sophomores except Russo, who is a Junior.

Phi Epsilon Pi

Roy Young and Mark Strausberg were elected president and vice president, respectively, of Phi Epsilon Pi. Other officers are Howard Smith, treasurer, Bob Crain, recording secretary and Harvey Wolfe, corresponding secretary.

Crain and Smith are pre-meds while the other three officers are working toward Bachelor of Arts degrees. Young and Strausberg are juniors; the other three being sophomores.

Officers at Lambda Chi officially took office at the beginning of this semester. Those of Phi Ep will be inaugurated at a dinner on Friday, February 18.

All club, society and organization presidents are asked to notify Cas Wyzak of their next meeting so that arrangements for the taking of a Clara picture can be made. All members are asked to come prepared to have their picture taken at that time—Box #78.

Lenten Vespers, Bible Studies, ICL And Recitals Included In Active MCA Program

A program designed to appeal to varied facets of religious interest was released this week by the Muhlenberg Christian Association. This month's program will feature such events as the Institute of Christian Living program, organ recitals, Bible studies, and Vesper Services.

An organ recital by Dick Miller, tonight at 6:30 in the college chapel will begin the month's activities. On Tuesday, February 8, Miss Sarah Newton, organist of Trinity Lutheran Church, Staten Island, will give a concert of Sacred music during the regular Chapel period.

Next Tuesday at 4 p.m. the MCA will inaugurate a new program with its regular business meeting. Each Tuesday during the semester, a different program will be presented, with Dr. Russell Stine, professor of philosophy, speaking at this meeting. He will begin a series of Bible studies on the Gospel of St. John.

The week of February 14-17 is to be devoted to the Institute of Christian Living. This week of

The editors print the following paragraph from the fraternity rushing story which appeared in the January 13 issue of the WEEKLY. Addition of this paragraph, which was omitted inadvertently, completes the facts as they were given this paper by the faculty tribunal.

"The Tribunal reprimands the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity of Muhlenberg College for failure to exercise proper discretion in guarding its honor as is its obligation under Art. I, Sec. V of the By-Laws of the Inter-Fraternity Council. This opinion is to be distributed to all fraternities at Muhlenberg College and printed in the MUHLENBERG WEEKLY for the week of January 9 to 15, 1955."

College Marks Golden Anniversary On Chew Street Site

Editorial Views . . .

Retrospection . . .

Allentownians back in 1905 might well have been a little skeptical about those few college buildings on the wind-swept ridge west of the city limits. Old photographs of the Muhlenberg campus at that time certainly do present a bleak picture. The far-sighted educators of those days would probably however, feel well-rewarded today if they could revisit the campus. In place of one building containing class rooms, auditorium, gym, and offices, they would find facilities of which they had never dreamed. They would also find a much larger student body and faculty, a well rounded sports program, and a full schedule of activities in which the best talents of every student can be utilized. Yes, these things would be different. We hope, however, that they would not find a spirit at Muhlenberg any different from that which prevailed in 1905. We like to think that it is just as strong, as enthusiastic, and as loyal as that of two generations ago. Moreover, no less can be expected when, amidst grandchildren and fellow alumni, we return in future years to pay our respects to our alma mater.

President's Memo . . .

Perhaps the most significant step in the history of Muhlenberg College, apart from the establishment itself, was the decision to erect a modern plant on a new campus. It was a momentous decision, and a necessary step.

Fifty years ago the College was transferred to this campus, and since that time the College has grown in stature and importance.

It was during the early days of Dr. Haas' administration. Dr. Reuben Butz, still a member of the Board of Trustees, and for many years President of the Board, selected the site, and wisely insisted that enough land be bought for the likely subsequent expansion of the College.

It is interesting to be told that the Administration Building cost about $85,000 to erect. A few years ago, after the fire, the modification and repairs cost $420,000.

At that time the land around the campus was largely farm land. Cedar Crest, then called the Allentown College for Women, was still located down town.

The old, original College building became the Allentown Preparatory School. Any one who knew that old building can imagine the delight with which students and faculty came to the new campus.

Since that time the Library, Science building, West Hall, the Commons, new dormitories, and the beautiful Chapel have been erected, and last year we added Memorial Hall. Our plant value is estimated at $7,000,000.

What will the next fifty years produce?

My hope is that we will see more dormitories, a student union building, a faculty club, and perhaps one other building. But I hope the College continues to be a relatively small, independent, church related college. And I hope that above all it will never lose sight of its purpose to serve community, state, nation and church by providing a liberal education, with consistent emphasis upon the liberal arts taught in a framework of spiritual emphasis.

Dr. Robert C. Horn

by Dave Miller

Talking to an older person is all too often considered to be something to be endured, rather than enjoyed.

In keeping with the theme of "Fifty Years at Muhlenberg," Dr. Robert Horn, class of 1900, was interviewed and gave his opinions on several questions. His great love of life wouldn't let him keep to the strict question-answer method, and he rambled about many informative things.

He was asked about the makeup of the old college and replied, "We were quite small then. There were 10 professors and about 100 students. I recall that there was much more understanding between professor and pupil then. Often two teachers would argue politics, while most of the student body stood around and took in this impromptu debate. We had terrible winters in '04 and '05, and I remember walking from 5th Street, as the trolleys didn't run after a heavy snowstorm. As I walked, I could see the footsteps of one of the professors who had preceded me. We only had the Ad building, the center portion of East Hall and the powerhouse. While the plans were still being made for the new location of the college out on Chew Street, several students and myself journeyed out to Albright Avenue. From there we could see the open field that was the college site, as there were no buildings out in the west end. Chew Street was nothing but a mud rut.

"Students," he answered, "HAVE changed. Just as every young person has changed because of his environment, so it is with the college student. His high school education has given him the choice of many more subjects. He is more diversified. Back after the turn of the century, the requirements were fewer and not as strict. The applicants wouldn't be turned down if they didn't have the required three years of Greek and they would be given more chances than they receive now, in respect to removal from college. "His clothes have changed, true, but I think that the students I taught in '05 were neatly dressed," he continued. "The modern Muhlenberg student is nicely dressed and looks better than some students on other campuses.

"I remember all the pranks the boys used to pull." He chuckled. "However, they don't do it so much any more, I'm happy to say. Old Doc Wackernagle . . . he wasn't too strict, and his class made good use of that sometimes. He was a huge man and he had immense feet. One day, his usually loud class was completely silent. The good doctor was puzzled, until he saw that every man in the class was staring through the open-front desk at his huge feet . . . not saying a word, just staring! He was flustered, to be sure."

Dr. Horn stated that he enjoys teaching the present students as much as he has enjoyed lecturing to students 50 years ago.

"Co-eds?" he mused. "Well, Muhlenberg has adapted itself to many things in the past. At first, they had only the academic course. In 1898, the scientific course was organized. In 1915, the philosophical course, leading to a Bachelor of Philosophy degree, was added. Under Dr. Seegers, the BSBA degree was added. These course additions show that this college has adapted itself to change and it can probably do so when the girls arrive. It is an extension of our program to meet a new situation."

There are all types of students in a college, and Dr. Horn was questioned about students as to their studying. He said, "I'm not in favor of A's for the sake of getting A's. The most important thing is to get all you can out of your education. There are many experiences to be obtained that have little to do with the classroom, one of the most important of these being the ability to be able to get along with people."

"I respect the A student who gets A's, but I have little regard for him if he loafs and gets C's. It's the same with every other type student. If you operate at capacity, you can be proud of your marks, no matter what they are. If you slack off and don't do your best work, there is no excuse for it."

Dr. Horn, seated in his tastefully furnished home near the college, seemed to be VERY near the college when he talked of it. It has been a major influence on his life, and he on its growth. These two personalities almost fused at times during the interview and one could sense the love he has for learning and his college. Here is a fascinating man to talk with, for in just holding a conversation, the listener learns much. Here, for my money, is an EXCELLENT professor.

Members of the Ciarla staff are reminded of the meeting to be held next Thursday, February 10 at 11 a.m. in the Ciarla office. Members are to come prepared to have themselves photographed

(Editor's note: January marks the fiftieth anniversary of Muhlenberg College on its present campus site. The following article, based in part on historical data in the 1948 CIARLA, is a short recapitulation of the development of our college since January, 1905.)

In 1904, when Dr. John A. W. Haas left his New York pastorate to assume his position as the president of Muhlenberg, still at Fourth and Walnut Streets, Muhlenberg had a campus of little more than one city block. Its single building had an alleged worth of $40,000, but even more important, the college owned a 72-acre plot of land on the western outskirts of Allentown. By January 1905, Muhlenberg had moved to its present location, and had become a new college community, consisting of an Administration Building, Berks and Rhoads Halls, a chemical laboratory (in the one-story section of our present power house) and the President's house. The value of this property was $220,000.

The physical aspects of the college were not the only things which were developing. With Dr. Haas had come Professor Reese who renovated the chemistry department, and Dr. Robert C. Horn, who was called to the Chair of Greek, and shortly thereafter became the assistant to the President, and chairman of the Committee on Admissions. Shortly thereafter a Philosophy course leading to the degree of Ph.D. was added, and extension work was organized in 1915. The extension school grew in importance and size until the enrollment was over 1200. By 1927 the College ranked third in the state in the number of men and women enrolled in extension courses.

Commons Built

The Athletic Association in 1912 built the dining hall (then called the Refractory) which has since been handed over to the College. The Power House and dormitories were enlarged and fraternities began to buy or build their own houses. In 1927 the Science Building was completed and occupied, and the Library was approaching completion. Its stacks had grown from 12,000 books in 1904, to 40,000 in 1927.

The College intended, and succeeded for a while, in limiting its enrollment to 500 students, exclusive of the extension school, in order to maintain its high standards. Standardizing agencies such as the Association of American Colleges, and the Association of Middle Atlantic States were able to set their approval on Muhlen-berg. A plan of instruction improvement was devised whereby attendance at meetings of learned societies and active participation in them was encouraged by the College paying part of the professor's expenses.

Chapel Dedicated

A dream of many years' duration came true for Dr. Haas in 1929 when the Reverend Ernest Pfatteicher, president of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania, laid the cornerstone for the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel. Dedication services were held at the commencement exercises in 1931.

Dr. Haas retired in June, 1937, and Dean Robert C. Horn was appointed acting president until October 2, 1937, when Dr. Levering Tyson was inaugurated President of the College.

In the spring of 1942 the Muhlenberg Bicentennial was celebrated in honor of the Muhlenberg family for which the college is named. The celebration was held during the week from May 24 to June 1, and a pageant written by Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English Department, was presented every night, with most of the students participating.

West Hall Develops

Meanwhile, under the direction of "Haps" Benfer, Director of Admissions, the West Hall plan had been developing. Realizing the difficult transformation from high school study to college level work, West Hall was made into the Freshman Dormitory. Superior students from the upper classes resided with them as proctors, and regular study hours were scheduled.

World War II severely hit most colleges, Muhlenberg being no exception. The continued maintenance of high scholastic standards by the institution, however, aided it in pulling through, for it was chosen by the Navy as one of the colleges used in conjunction with their V-5 and V-12 training programs. Over two thousand men were thus trained during the program's duration from July 1, 1943 to July, 1946.

Disaster hit the campus in May of 1947 when, in the midst of Home-Coming Weekend, the old Ad Building was gutted by fire. Students and alumni worked furiously, side by side, removing old records and valuable articles while flames raced through the 45-year old building.

Returning in the fall, Muhlenberg students found facilities formerly housed in the gutted Administration Building now spread over the campus in the library, (Continued on Page Four)

Ticket sales for the DAVE BRUBECK session are going at an ever-increasing clip. Anyone who intends to get a reserved seat had better start thinking about making the big purchase . . . a local radio announcer, TONY BECKAS by name has been hustling for this concert like mad. For the past couple of months he has been plugging the concert on his disc shows on WKAP. At last count he had sold sixty-seven reserved seats to his fans. By the bye, anyone who enjoys the good jazz sounds will enjoy Tony's radio shows. Each evening from eight to ten, he features people like Brubeck, Shorty Rogers, Chet Baker, Art Tatum and the rest of the rangersiders.

The outfit playing at Tallman's downtown has a nice modern sound. They will be there for a couple more nights.

Did you notice the improvement in registration procedure? Gone are the days of filling out schedules to the point of paralysis . . . and for any seniors who may be under the impression that they are taking Ethics this semester . . . you are not taking Ethics. You are taking Christianity and Modern Thought . . . got it?

BOB FISCHER would like everyone to know that recently while occupying a chair in the Student Center, he sneezed violently and the chair collapsed. Pretty funny, huh? . . . not half as funny, though, as the bit being worked every afternoon at the Campus Shop. To be brief, some rather unattractive high school stuff saunters coquettishly into the place after school, then the girls sit at the bar . . . excuse me, Dean . . . counter, and coquettishly sip sodas and the like, all the while glancing coquettishly about them at the college boys. The boys do some glancing too, but not exactly coquettishly. The girls stare into their carbonated beverages, pretending not to notice. One or two of the braver cats pass a few subtle remarks like "hullo, babee," and the girls giggle and blush coquettishly, and . . . oh well, what's the use? Go down and catch the act for yourself. It's great. People are weird.

We hear that at a New Year's eve party held by a local department store owner, Jon Hall, better known as "Ramar of the Jungle," was bitten by a Daschund, but he didn't tell anyone about it, because he figured that a fearless hunter of large jungle beasts might be subject to the horselaugh if he made a fuss over being checked by a cute little frankfurter with legs. He preferred to sit and bleed.

Cagers Meet Royals Tonight; Entertain Bullets, Pirates Next

With the opening of the new semester, Muhlenberg's high-scoring hoopsters face Scranton tonight, Gettysburg Saturday, and Seton Hall next Wednesday, all at home.

Coach Pete Carlesimo brings his University of Scranton Royals to Memorial Hall for their first meeting with the Mules since the 1951-52 season. He brings a veteran team with him of nine lettermen back from last year's team.

Heading the team is Captain Bob Bessoir, a 6'6" senior, with a deadly one-hander from anywhere on the court. He is an excellent rebounder and a real hustler. Joe Fitt, 6'4", 200 pound senior, is the outstanding scorer for the Royals, his best shot an over-the-head set which helped him break school scoring records. Sal LaSpina, the only junior on the starting five, is a classy ball-player and has the best shooting percentage on the squad. Fred Lettieri has a deadly set-shot and is an excellent floor man, while Joe Licata, the small man of the team, is a good playmaker and drives well.

Gettysburg

The Gettysburg Bullets, coached by Henry Bream, visit the Muhlenberg campus with a crew of talented cagers. Bill Snyder has turned his 12.4 point-per-game average of last year into a blazing 19.2 this year. Joe Lang is a set shot artist who averaged 13.1 points a game last year. Center Jack Keller, Gettysburg's top rebounder, is in his third year of varsity ball. John Habeeb, last year's high scorer with a 15.5 average, is a scrappy guard at 5'10". Les Eckman is a 6'2" junior who is a dependable rebounder and scorer.

Seton Hall

Coming to Allentown for their eighth meeting with the Mules are the famous Pirates of Seton Hall. Now in their second season without the services of the great Walt Dukes, Seton Hall has continued just the same as one of the top teams in the country.

Marty Farrell is a sophomore who is good under the boards and can score from any spot on the floor. Dick Gaines, an aggressive six footer, is a colorful ballplayer. He can rebound, has a good set shot and can drive well. Co-captain Ron Nathanic is playing his fourth year of varsity ball at the Hall and is a top flight set shot. Arnie Ring, the other co-captain, is a deadly scorer and a fine rebounder. The fifth man will probably be Charley Lorenzo, flashy scorer and good playmaker, who last year on the freshman team, averaged 17.3 points a game.

Gall Paces Mules In Record-Breaking Win Over Highly Rated Hofstra Five, 104-85

Coach Birney Crum's high scoring Mules set three new records last Friday night at Memorial Hall, as they trounced highly rated Hofstra, 104-85. Scoring 11 quick points to turn an 8-8 tie into a 19-8 lead, Berg rolled up a 52-36 halftime lead

Two more points would have broken Berg's all-time high score against an opponent, made a couple of years ago against Bucknell at Rockne Hall.

Gall Notches 31

Bobby Gall, whose swollen ankle prevented him from playing in the Temple contest, set two new personal Memorial Hall records. His 31 points topped Hal Lear's mark of 30, made in Berg's season opener against Temple on December 1. George Young of Lafayette also scored 30 points against the Mules.

Gall also set a new foul shooting record by sinking 15 markers in 17 tries. Previous high was 14 by George Conrad of Albright.

Denny Roth and Cardy Gemma also passed the 20 mark during the scoring spree. Roth accounted for 23, doing extremely well on tap-ins, while Gemma made his one hander plus a few fouls good for 21.

Hofstra scoring ace Neil Thieben saw his 31.4 point-per-game scoring average dip a shade below 30, as he could garner no more than 17 points against Berg tall men Don Kurz and Denny Roth. The Hempstead, Long Island, quintet came back to win their contest on Saturday night against Baltimore, 102-91.

Fencers Face Temple In First Home Match

Coach Andrew Erskine's vastly improved fencers will open their second season against Temple on Saturday, February 5. This will be the first time in the history of Muhlenberg sports that a fencing match has taken place on campus. They will be seeking vengeance for a 19-8 defeat by Temple last year.

Back from last season's squad are Bill Wormley, George Goldenbaum, Dick Shurilla, Buzz Adams, Carl Schimmel, Zandy Adelson, Jake Huegel, Dave Washabaugh, Jack Hopper, Marshall Reber, and Dick Fuhrman. Coach Erskine expects to choose most of his starters from this experienced group.

The match will include round robin bouts in foil, epee, and sabre.

Only Student Guest Tickets Remain For February 19 Game

The demand for tickets to the La Salle basketball game on February 19 has been so great that all the reserved seats have been sold.

Student guest tickets will be sold the night of the game. Each student upon the presentation of his athletic card will be permitted to buy a ticket for a female guest. There will be a special entrance for students and their guests. This will be on the north east side of the building adjacent to the public parking lot.

There will be a freshman game with La Salle beginning at 6:30 p.m. and students are requested to fill their section no later than 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Lawson, Athletic director, believes that despite the sell out there will be a large crowd which will try to buy non existent tickets on the evening of the game. He, therefore, has made the above preparations in order to facilitate the admission of students and their houseparty dates.

in "A" Hall, in quonset huts, and in navy barracks. Work began immediately to rebuild the burned-out structure at a cost of $450,000.

In November of that year students and alumni of the college celebrated "Haps" Benfer Day "to recognize a man whose spirit, leadership, and guidance personifies Muhlenberg." Letters poured in from alumni, and a car was presented at the Muhlenberg-Bucknell game to the man who had come to be a synonym for Muhlenberg.

Quintet Wins Championship

The winter of 1947-48 was a big season for the basketball quintet from Berg. Men like Harry Donovan, Al Saemmer, and Marv Jaffe led the team to Middle Atlantic Championship, defeating Moravian 63-52 at the Penn Palestra in Philadelphia. A few other scores of the season: Berg-Penn, 60-53; Berg-Navy, 62-49; Berg-Bucknell, 105-37.

Muhlenberg surged ahead meanwhile in the radio field. In February of 1948, students met together to form what was later to become WMUH. The first broadcast went out in November of that year. Problems of space and writing were gradually solved as student interest increased and quarters were found in the basement of the library.

Unlimited senior cuts were approved, on probation, by the faculty late in 1948. As it was found that the plan was feasible, the privilege was extended to include the junior class. Thus responsibility given to Muhlenberg students was accepted.

In June, 1949, Muhlenberg graduated the largest class in its history. However, remembering its place as a small liberal arts college, Muhlenberg dropped nineteen faculty men and set the limit for its student body at 800, a figure which has been decreased even more in recent years.

Memorial Hall Erected

The last building to be erected on the campus had been the chapel in 1929. Now as pressure increased from alumni and the actual need continued to replace the West Hall facilities, the Board of Trustees sought to solve the situation by the erection of a new physical education building. East Hall had been greatly improved in 1950 with new flooring, wiring, and plumbing. The Auxiliary also installed new colonial type light fixtures on the grounds. Therefore, the Board accepted tentative plans for the new edifice early in 1951. Contracts were awarded the next year. Trees were felled, the framework and walls rose, and dedication took place last February 2.

Meanwhile the administration was undergoing changes. Dr. Levering Tyson resigned in March of 1951 after serving as president since 1937. During his tenure of office the severe testing periods of World War II and the post-war rush of veterans had been met and passed. Upon Dr. Tyson's resignation, the board appointed Dr. Morris Greth as acting president until a new college executive could be found. WEEKLY headlines in October, 1952, announced that Dr. J. Conrad Seegers had been elected as the sixth president of Muhlenberg. The inauguration, attended by representatives of colleges from all parts of eastern United States, was held in May 2.

With the announcement of co-education becoming a reality in the near future, plans moved into high gear to increase the college's facilities so that young women could be added to the enrollment. Thus Muhlenberg continued its growth on this campus, attempting to serve its purpose as stated by Dr. J. Conrad Seegers in his inaugural address when he said that "... problems of money have been, are, and will be present; we face the dilemma of preparing for expansion in times of intrenchment. More important than those are our tasks of preserving our integrity, of cherishing and fighting for the right to teach the truth, of refusing to be intimidated by any and all who would challenge that right. I have asked that we teach so that intellectual honesty and considered judgments will be given places of first importance. I have said that we owe to our contemporary society a program that will serve society.

"... All of this is impossible if teachers and students are not led to a strengthened faith in God who made us and a desire better to serve Him.

"... To accomplish this purpose is no simple task, no task one person can approach alone, in any institution. It is fortunate that in this college, a dedicated faculty, a dedicated Board of Trustees, a dedicated Church, a friendly community stand rally to help."

The Chowline

Welcome back and all like that, those of you who are still in the ranks; and a moment of silent prayer for those who aren't with us. Congratulations to those on the Dean's team and all like that.

The Arcade is out with its coloramatic glory and will prove a worthwhile reading project for all Mule men. If you register, you should get one; and since you paid for it you might as well utilize it. Believe it or not you might even contribute to it if you're so inclined. The only requirement is that you be a Muhlenberg student, and that what you create is good.

The Hofstra team members were our guests last week prior to their shellacking by the Mules. Hofstra is a client of the Slater System. Tonight the Scranton team will dine in the Commons previous to their game with Crum's cagers. Incidentally, J. BIRNEY has been very ill recently with pneumonia and we all wish him a speedy recovery.

One last little note on the scoreboard has a game between the yearling Mules and the Philadelphia Lutheran Seminary scheduled for Saturday prior to the Gettysburg contest.

Once more the Slater System is happy to serve the students of Muhlenberg College to the best of our ability with your cooperation in the new semester. Adv.

religious emphasis will feature Dr. George Forell, professor of philosophy at the University of Iowa. Dr. Forell will speak during the regular chapel services in addition to leading seminar and discussion groups in the afternoons and evenings.

The first in a series of Lenten Vesper Services will take place on February 24 at 7 p.m. in the Chapel with the Rev. Conrad W. Raker, director of the Good Shepherd Home in Allentown and lecturer in Religion, as the guest preacher. Other speakers in this series will be faculty members as well as clergymen from Allentown.

The Student Vesper Services which began last semester will continue in the West Hall Auditorium each Tuesday evening at 11 p.m. Speakers at these services will be members of the MCA.

Recitals Continue

George Lachenauer will be at the organ for the recital of February 10, at 6:30 p.m. A recital the following week by Richard Mannheim, will be presented at 7 p.m. This recital will precede the Vesper Service which will close the ICL week. The speaker at this service will be Dr. Forell.

During the Lenten Season organ recitals will precede the Vesper Services to be held each Thursday at 7 p.m. All of the programs of the MCA are open to the members of the Muhlenberg community.

In March, the MCA will present illustrated lectures on church art, architecture, a religious play, and a Jewish Rabbi who will be the first in a series of four guest speakers representing the major religions in America.

won two and dropped two in their last four games. The other win was against Rutgers, 99-77, on January 15 at New Brunswick. The Cardinal and Greys just missed the century mark by a single point as Gall collected 20, "Aps" Leber 14 on his deadly over-the-head set and fine rebounding, and Del Park an even dozen from the outside.

The Mules dropped their next two contests to Lafayette and Temple, by scores of 84-70 and 72-62. The Bergmen played well in the Lafayette game, but finally succumbed in the fourth period to the Leopards' relentless attack, led by George Young (30), Ernie Peters (23) and Ed Knapp (24). Highly touted Todd Walker of Reading was held to four points.

Gall did not score as many as usual, collecting only 14 points for three times as many tries, but teammate Gemma rolled up 24 points, connecting effectively on his one hander, and working a number of sensational passing plays with Gall. Denny Roth was good for ten points also.

The Leopards are now 14-2, and stand to break their total winning record of 17-3, made during the 1949-50 campaign.

Without the services of sophomore star Bobby Gall, Hal Lear and Temple crew whipped the Mules by ten points, although Gerry Neville, Gemma, and Roth, backed up by Don Kurz, Bill Smith, Dick Leber, and Del Park, did their best to try to stop the Owls in the "football" game.

Tonight . . . In The Chapel

Dick Miller will be the performer at tonight's weekly organ recital in the chapel. Beginning the series for the second semester, the featured work in tonight's concert will be an organ trilogy, "Faith, Hope, and Love" by the contemporary American composer, Carl F. Mueller. Divided into three parts, the composition is based on many familiar hymns of the church.

A STUDENT'S BEST FRIEND is Lucky Strike. At any rate, the greatest, up-to-date college survey shows that college smokers prefer Luckies to all other brands—and by a wide margin. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. Luckies taste better anywhere, any time, as illustrated in the Droodle

Tudor Singers Present Choral Music Concert

A group of ten Lehigh Valley choristers, The Tudor Singers, will present a program of choral music this Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Egner Memorial Chapel.

The organization is directed by Dr. Ifor Jones, former Director of the Bethlehem Bach Choir and teacher at the Peabody Conservatory of Baltimore and the New School of Music in Philadelphia.

Newly Organized

Since its organization last year, the Tudor Singers have appeared in Bethlehem and at Lafayette College in Easton.

The program will be a "short history" of choral music composed for and performed in the cathedral churches of Burgundy, Italy, Germany and England. It covers several centuries and briefly illuminates the trends of choral church music.

Varied Program

The first number, a motet, "Alle-Plallite," is representative of experiments of the early church with non-liturgical verses in the church's plain-song.

A second motet is "L'homme Arme," a French chanson of the Renaissance written by Johannes Ockhegen. Another motet on the program is Ave Verum Corpus by William Byrd, one of the foremost medieval English composers.

Other numbers on the program include the following: "Praise We the Lord" and "Coventry Carol" by Bainton; "Sing Lullaby" by Herbert Howell; and a carol motet, "King of Glory, King of Peace," by Arthur Warrell. These last three composers are indicative of the music of the more modern church of England.

This program is part of the Muhlenberg Concert Series.

MCA Room Converted Into Faculty Lounge

Lounge furniture has been placed in the MCA room on the second floor of the Student Center and that room is now available for faculty use during the day according to an announcement made yesterday by Bill Quay, chairman of the joint MCA-Student Council Lounge Committee.

Faculty members are invited to make use of the room during the following hours, Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Tuesday and Friday 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. No students will be permitted in the room during these hours. However, the facilities will be open to student organizations for evening meetings.

Key Available

A key to the room will be available to faculty members at the book store.

The financial obligations of equipping the room were undertaken by MCA and Council.

Rossini Opera To Be Shown In Film Series

"The Barber of Seville," the seventh film in the Muhlenberg College motion picture series "Great Films of Yesterday and Today" will be shown this Friday at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. in the Science Auditorium.

The "Barber of Seville" is a comic opera in two acts by Gioacchino Antonio Rossini, and is based on the comedy by Beaumarchais.

The Story

The story deals with the Count Almaviva's wooing and wedding of the lovely maid Rosina. Obstacles confront the Count when the music master, Basilio, also seeks to win the love of Rosina. However, through the wit, cunning and dexterity of Figaro, the Barber of Seville, the Count wins the maid. The opera is rich in melody, abounding in good spirits, and brilliant in its climaxes.

This movie version of the "Barber of Seville" will contain Rossini's complete opera. English titles and commentary are by Deems Taylor, and the orchestra and chorus are of the Rome Opera House. There will be no admission charge for this performance.

Brubeck Ensemble Entertains Over 2500 Jazz Enthusiasts

Last Monday evening in Memorial Hall, the Jazz Society of Muhlenberg College presented the Dave Brubeck Quartet in a concert of modern music. The concert was attended by over 2500 persons, including many Muhlenberg students, who responded with enthusiasm to the improvisations and harmonies of the group. Some of the numbers played by the group were "Stardust," "Brother Can You Spare a Dime," "The Trolley Song" and others. The concert lasted approximately two and one half hours.

Joe Dodge laid down the beat on his drum as Bob Bates held the group together with the musical strings of his bass. Paul Desmond on alto saxophone and Brubeck himself on the piano, added just the touch necessary to present elements of more serious music without destroying the jazz qualities of the improvisations.

Society Thanks

The officers and members of the Jazz Society wish to thank all those who helped with the arrangements and otherwise supported the concert. In connection with its purpose to stimulate student interest in jazz, the society will attempt in the future to present such jazz greats as Stan Kenton, Woody Herman, and Jerry Mulligan.

Phi Sigma Iota Plans Program

Phi Sigma Iota, honorary Romance Language fraternity, will hold its next meeting Tuesday, February 22 at the home of Russell Everett, a 1940 graduate who lives at 1320 Hamilton Street. A paper dealing with a subject concerning a Romance Language will be read.

A student who desires to join Phi Sigma Iota must be enrolled in an advanced Romance Language course and have maintained a B average scholastically. Gunars Ansons is the president of this organization, which meets once a month. Dr. Kenneth Webb is the secretary and Dr. Anthony Corbierre is the treasurer.

The following seven men have been initiated this year: John Hopper, Harold Leam, Albert May, Morton Sanet, Ronald Schlittler, Dale Shoemaker and Frank Sweetser.

LSA Group Discusses ICL Speaker's Article

A discussion of an article, "The Despair and Hope of the Academic Community," by Dr. George Forell, coming ICL speaker, highlighted the meeting of the Lutheran Student Association held Sunday in the Student Center. Nancy Green, a Cedar Crest sophomore, led the discussion which was joined actively by many of the 25 to 30 people present.

At the conclusion of the discussion, Dr. Charles Foelsch, president of the Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary, told the group about the institution of which he is president and showed slides of the buildings and grounds.

On Saturday, February 12, the LSA will hold a Valentine Party in the Student Center. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Several Cedar Crest girls are in charge of the party which will include dancing.

M. Cressman Heads Class Day Committee

Marvin Cressman was chosen as chairman of the Class Day Committee at a meeting of the Senior Class which was held last Thursday in the Science Auditorium.

Class Day has been set for June 4. The traditions of Class Day were reinstituted by last year's class and the Class of 1955 hopes to continue them.

Favorable reports were given on the work of the committee for Class Gift and Directory.

President Wally Loy also announced that the class will continue its project of selling memorial plates at the price of one dollar each.

Second Phase of ICL Program Features Dr. George W. Forell

The second phase of the 1954-55 program of the Institute of Christian Living will get underway Monday, February 14, and will continue through Thursday, February 17. As visiting lecturer for this program, ICL will present Dr. George W. Forell, Assistant Professor, School of Religion, the State University of Iowa.

Dr. Forell is the author of several magazine articles and two books. Besides his chapel speeches, he will appear at the various fraternities during his four day stay.

Dr. Forell was born in Breslau, Germany, and studied at Breslau and Vienna. He also holds degrees from several American institutions, including a Th.M. from Princeton Theological Seminary, and a Th.M. from Union Theological Seminary. Prior to joining the faculty at the State University of Iowa, Dr. Forell was Associate Professor of Philosophy at Gustavus College, Minnesota.

Accomplished Author

Dr. Forell has held Lutheran Pastorates in New York and New Jersey, and during 1951-52 he was Student Service Secretary of the National Lutheran Council. He is a member of the American Society for Church History, and the American Society for Reformation Research. An accomplished writer, Dr. Forell is the author of some twenty published magazine articles, as well as two books on the life and teachings of Martin Luther.

While a guest on the campus, Dr. Forell will be heard at the regular twenty-minute chapel services, in afternoon discussion groups, and in evening lectures. The program for his four-day visit is as follows:

Monday, February 14

11 a.m., Chapel Service, "What is Truth?"; 12 noon, Luncheon, Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity; 4 p.m., Discussion Group, Student Center; 6 p.m., Dinner, Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity; 7:30 p.m., Lecture, "Education as Decision," Student Center.

Tuesday, February 15

11 a.m., Chapel Service, "What is a University?"; 12 noon, Luncheon Discussion, Commons; 2 p.m., Faculty Discussion Group, Conference Room, Administration Building; 4 p.m., Discussion Group, Student Center; 6 p.m., Dinner, Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity; 7:30 p.m., Lecture, "History as Decision," West Hall Auditorium.

Wednesday, February 16

11 a.m., Chapel Service, "What is Maturity?"; 12 noon, Luncheon, Phi Epsilon Pi Fraternity; 4 p.m., Discussion Group, Student Center; 6 p.m., Dinner, Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity; 7:30 p.m., Lecture, (Continued on Page Six)

Local Alumni Club Holds Annual Dinner

Tomorrow evening the Allentown Alumni Club's second annual banquet will be held at the College Commons. Over one hundred high school seniors from the greater Allentown area will be guests at the dinner. Each of these boys has been invited to the meeting by a sponsoring member of the Alumni Club because the student has shown an interest in attending Muhlenberg College.

After the meal the guests will be given a tour of the Administration and Science Buildings plus a visit to the Chapel. Following this each student will have an opportunity to talk with members of the various departments.

Commuters Choose Permanent Officers

Members of the Commuters Club elected the following officers at the general elections held by that organization last Thursday: Bob Lessel, president; Bob Keyes, vice president; Bill Glick, treasurer; Don McCain, recording secretary; and Ron Van Scoyoc, corresponding secretary. These men held their first executive meeting in the Administration Building on Monday of this week.

Discussion concerning plans for permanent organization were the main topic of business at this meeting. Committees to carry out group functions were also discussed. These committees will be appointed in the near future.

Membership Growing

An invitation has also been received from the Lehigh University Commuters Club to attend one of that group's meetings.

The club now has approximately 100 members and is still growing.

Education Service Advises Pre-Meds To Take May Test

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1956 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced recently by Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges. These tests, required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country, will be given twice during the current calendar year. Candidates taking the May test, however, will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 7, or on Monday, October 31, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1956 take the May test.

Test of Scholastic Ability

The MCAT consists of tests of general scholastic ability, a test on understanding of modern society, and achievement test in science. According to ETS, no special preparation other than a review of science subjects is necessary. All questions are of the objective type.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 23 and October 17, respectively, for the May 7 and October 31 administrations.

Omicron Delta Kappa Promotes Leadership

Student Council and Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity, are formulating plans for a Muhlenberg Leadership Institute to be held on campus March 18 and 19. Although plans at this time have not been completed, certain basic features have been outlined.

Friday's program will consist of a number of seminars for the student body concerning leadership qualities. Six prominent local businessmen will be invited to be speakers at the seminars.

Saturday's program will include conferences among nine colleges in the area to discuss mutual problems at the institutions. Some of the topics are academic freedom, freshman indoctrination, the honor system and political activities.

The program will be terminated by a dance and the appearance of a name speaker, as yet unannounced.

Editorial Views . . .

Many Thanks . . .

For several years, the Muhlenberg football and basketball teams have had the benefit of a cheering section led by a capable and organized group of cheer leaders.

With the added support of several attractive young ladies from the college across the valley, cheer leading stock has risen steadily until today Muhlenberg's basketball team reaps the benefit of an enthusiastic cheering section.

The WEEKLY would like to say thank-you for the Muhlenberg family to the organizers and participating students of Muhlenberg and Cedar Crest whose efforts make this group successful.

Another Chance . . .

More and more it seems to be the tendency to come to college to get an "education" in the sense that we round out our personal attitudes and ideas as well as improve our factual knowledge. Class room lectures are supposed to take care of the facts, campus activities, the social growth. Next week, Muhlenberg students will have one of the best opportunities of their college careers to accomplish both ends at once by attending three days of ICL activities.

ICL is not an attempt to shove some nondescript facts down students' throats by way of a stuttering, glassy-eyed bureau speaker. It is your chance to get at the roots of some of today's world problems and to learn of the part that the college student plays in them.

Neither is ICL as time-consuming as some people think. Even the bookworm wastes a few hours a day; the rest of us—let's face facts, we spend a few hours a day, on books. Our professors, we hope, will cooperate to a better degree this time by scheduling no exams to conflict with the ICL schedule.

An outstanding speaker, a full program, and an enthusiastic student body are all we need to make ICL a smashing success. You are the deciding factor—make use of one of Muhlenberg's greatest contributions to "education."

Try It Yourself . . .

This issue of the WEEKLY contains some very interesting views on the most recent Arcade. However, neither of these opinions necessarily reflect student thought. It might be to each Muhlenberg student's advantage to read each article in our literary magazine and attempt to reach similar decisions. THE ARCADE AND WEEKLY STAFFS WOULD LIKE TO HEAR YOUR OPINIONS.

Campus Critic Reviews Different Jazz Concert

by Don Reilly

If one can judge by the attendance at Monday night's jazz concert, the affair was a great success. The audience was a large (2500) and an appreciative one . . . for the most part. There were unfortunately a few hep characters, present, who, near the end of the evening, decided it would be lots of fun if they got together and clapped their hands in near rhythm with the tempo of the music. A couple of hardy souls even yelled "go! go!" Fortunately, the musicians did not heed their advice but stayed to finish the program. The rowdiness was annoying, though. A couple of well-placed hand grenades would have been restored order.

It was obvious from comments passed at intermission and after the concert that the audience was a motley assemblage. Many were aficionados and many more were both curious and skeptical. Some must have been swindled into purchasing tickets. I noticed two elderly ladies leaving at intermission looking thoroughly confused at the whole business.

Re the music. To the very critical listener, familiar with the best recorded Brubeck performances, it may have seemed that the group was coasting a bit. This may be somewhat true, but one must consider that the group is on a rigorous, physically exhausting tour of one-nighters. Brubeck brandished a mimeographed schedule showing fifty-eight consecutive one-nighters following the Muhlenberg session.

The music was fine, however. Brubeck and Paul Desmond cast their spell, moving subtly through changes of mood and taking the audience with them. "I'll Never Smile Again" was the first tune, uncomplicated and swinging softly. "Crazy Chris" was an amusing little bit of horseplay with three simultaneous melody lines in the first and last twenty-four bars. "Stardust" was one of the high points of the evening for Brubeck's piano. It was interesting to note how the group made "Jeepers Creepers" so amusing that there were bits of spontaneous laughter and applause throughout the number. This was the tune with the thumping pseudo-dixieland ending. Paul Desmond played some of his best saxophone on "All the Things You Are" and "Lever Come Come To Me." The tune "Take the A Train" had the greatest audience appeal of the evening. On the last number of the program, Joe Dodge, the drummer, got a novel, clanging sound out of his cymbal, simulating a trolley bell. He looked like he was having such a good time with it that it was a shame he didn't think of it earlier. This same Joe Dodge proved a bit of a comedian and his mugging got intermittent responses from the east side of the hall.

One could go on and on about startling and daring improvisations on dynamic themes, schemes, dreams and what not, with a liberal sprinkling of contrapuntal fantasy and Bach fugues, but those who know this kind of jazz don't need well-turned phrases, and the rest either wouldn't understand it, or wouldn't care if they did understand.

In an interview before the concert, Brubeck answered a few questions about his own work and jazz in general. You all know what he looks like, so we can skip the personal description bit. Anyway, his face, like his music, is a real gasser, and sort of defies description.

Jazz followers know that in the space of the last three years, many of the outstanding jazz instrumentalists and composer-arrangers have left the East and are now situated in and around Los Angeles, California. I asked why and was told "There's more interest there, so there's more work."

Brubeck answered a question about his college tours by saying that the reception accorded the group has been good, especially at schools with a heavy music student enrollment. I asked if he ever runs across any dixieland fanatics demanding "When the Saints Go Marching In." "No," he said. "They know better."

What about the reaction of serious musicians and college music faculty members? "A lot of them said they would start listening to jazz," Brubeck stated. He went on to explain that many of their college appearances have been sponsored and supported by teachers and students of serious music. Many devotees of the longhair camp have been delighted with (Continued on Page Six)

. . . Student Council Report . . .

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on February 3, 1955 at 7:30 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Adam, Quay, Schlittler, Ascione, Wormley, Baker, Lauer, Loy, Rosenberger, Paul, Neville, and Wanczyk.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Elections Committee—Mr. Wanczyk reported that dates have been set for Student Council nominations and elections. The tentative dates are: Nominations—March 31, Elections—April 20, Officer Elections—April 27.

Dormitory Committee—Mr. Neville stated that a meeting of the Dorm council would be called.

Assembly Committee—Mr. Paul reported that the next program will be held on March 24. There will be a total of three programs this semester.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES:

Father's Day Committee—Mr. Lauer informed Council that the schedule for Father's Day had not been completed but will be presented at the next meeting.

Leadership Training Program—Mr. Schlittler reported that on March 19 and 20, a leadership training program will be held at Muhlenberg with all Lehigh Valley Student Governments participating. Seminars are to be arranged and prominent men of the community and state government will be guest speakers.

CORRESPONDENCE:

A note was received from Dean Richards commending Council on the action taken in several disciplinary cases.

A letter was also received from the Committee on Friendly Relations Among Foreign Students stating an assimilation policy.

NEW BUSINESS:

There will be a Student Body meeting on Thursday, February 10 at 11 a.m.

Council discussed the possibility of having a Spring Day this year. It was suggested that Council petition the faculty for a day off, preferably a Thursday, for Spring Day.

Five parking tickets were presented to Council. Mr. Lauer moved and Mr. Rosenberger seconded that the five men be fined. The motion carried. Two special fines were disposed of in a similar manner.

Mr. Quay moved that a recommendation be made to the faculty to include the names of Student Council members and Class Officers in the College Catalog. Mr. Baker seconded the motion and it carried.

Mr. Quay suggested that the Honor System Committee make a report to Council on their progress.

A report was given on the sale of tickets for the Brubeck Concert. So far, $500 has been deposited from advance ticket sales.

Mr. Adam moved that a recommendation be sent to the faculty to have future examination periods run for the two full weeks.

Council, after some deliberation, decided on removing a student from Social probation for his good conduct during the first semester.

A Constitution revision report was made by Mr. Schlittler. It was stated that no such thing as "good standing" or "diploma standing" exists anymore. Several revisions were submitted. Mr. Neville moved to submit for student body action that Freshman Class officers be elected only once during the freshman year and that being at the time of the second semester elections. The motion carried.

Mr. Paul moved to adjourn. Mr. Rosenberger seconded the motion and it carried.

Respectfully submitted,

CAS J. WANCZYK, Recording Secretary

Their Side of Humor

A veteran of the Korean fighting, now in officer-candidate school, likes to tell about the day he was inducted into the Army. His physical over, he was taken in hand by a sergeant and asked, "Did you ever go to grammar school?"

"Yes sir," said the draftee. "I also went through high school, graduated cum laude from college, completed three years of graduate studies at Cornell, and then acquired two more degrees at Columbia."

The sergeant nodded, reached for a rubber stamp, and slapped it on the questionnaire. It consisted of a single word: "Literate."

Arcade Reviews Present Differing Viewpoints

by Paul Sherr

One of the articles in this issue of the Arcade is called "Muhlenberg: Decline of Intellect."

As an article, it concerns itself with a problem which is vital to everyone of us: Our intellectual development. The article makes accusations. I am in full accord with everything that the author has set down. The article places us in general categories, negative categories. I underscore all of that too. But I want to go a lot further. I want to find cures and solutions for our intellectual inertia, our intellectual disinterest. At this moment, I haven't anything concrete to offer, but I do have a huge accusation to hurl at all of you, an accusation and a challenge which, if heeded, could be the stepping stone towards an improvement of this sad situation.

The accusation: You, the student body, are lazy; moreover, in many cases, you're cowardly.

Proof?

The Arcade. Your Arcade, the magazine in which you are given the opportunity to present in professional print the fruits of your intellectual and creative growth. What does the Arcade print? What must the Arcade print? The efforts of ten men out of 700. And to get even that miserly sum, all of the members of the staff plus the combined efforts of the English Department had to stand on their heads, plead, beg and dance a jig.

Where are you when the Editors of the Arcade are out searching for material? Where are the more than 50 English majors? Where are these people who are someday to teach your and my children how to write, but who haven't got enough courage or ambition to submit something for publication? Are they afraid of being laughed at, ridiculed, criticized, or praised?

Where are our tomorrow's religious leaders? Can't fifteen, or five, or even ONE of you take a chance just once during your college life? Are you all afraid that someone might find out that there is nothing there?

Where are our future historians, lawyers, doctors or anybody else we can dig up around here? This is a challenge thrown at the entire student body. Ten men out of 700 students. This is a farce. Must intellectual attempts be reduced to money too? Won't you, can't you write, compose, draw, paint, photograph without material incentive? Don't you receive endless satisfaction from accomplishment? You're a poor man if you don't. Does life exist only in terms of a dollar, or in terms of a thin skinned ego which will fall apart and collapse if someone blows gustily against it?

Let's go, fellows. Get off of it. Don't make us remind you: Man doesn't live by bread alone. Take the step: contribute to the next issue of the Arcade.

Henry Mason Jason, Mason Henry Jason, Racin Henry Tracin has written a lot of words here, well written words too; but why? This is the kind of situation which we all have faced a thousand times in our life everytime anyone does anything or goes anywhere. On arriving back at school after a vacation, on arriving back home after the school year, on restarting a job, on alumni day, etc. I do think that if the author had taken the time to create a triangle between Joe, McShane, and Joe's girl he might have been able to whip something worthwhile out of all this. In the meantime McShane, whip us up another milkshake to cool off Joe's angry brow.

From one old man to another: Good going old man. I'm saluting Harold Leam's bit on the early years of Theodore Dreiser. I find this a well written analysis and summary of a great amount of material, and I am amazed that one could give such a clear picture of so much in such a very small space. I don't think that it was necessary to add the slightly long introductory anecdote which finally finds its home in the last infinitive phrase of the article, but even this criticism is in the way of a compliment, for it shows with what skill a good writer can hold the readers attention despite the relative un-

by William Kinter

The current issue of the Arcade has some works of interest, among them the tribute to that great teacher, Frank Smoyer. It is a pity that the cautious hand of some editor has marred the original essay and rendered it nearly lifeless.

In a national atmosphere of increasing timidity, it is a pleasure to see expressed, and well expressed, the world view of Kelsall's "A." It is not new to see around us nothing but cruel and meaningless flex, but there are some church colleges, less strong than ours, which would not tolerate its publication.

The parody, "A Bit of Plagiarism," suffers a major flaw: the authors do not see either Caesar or Shakespeare clearly enough to be able to laugh at them with skill. But, it is not their fault. In a college increasingly devoted to tooling men's minds to fit into the machinery of a socio-economic mediocrity, it is remarkable they see as much as they do. Judged as the work of beginners, however, "Plagiarism" comes off well enough.

I am sorry I cannot disagree with Hopper's indictment (pp. 23 ff.), but I should like to correct his focus. The indifference of students is not merely local; it is epidemic. It is the result of what was once called treason of clerks. Professional educators now on many campuses fix students with batteries of placement tests, train them in "clinics" into uniformity of response, insult them with dull and frivolous courses, test them with machines, and stifle their desire to learn. Educators talk learned jargon to their mutual refreshment; the sheep look up and are not fed. Closed and silent are Homer, Picas, Maiuonides, Augustine, Gibbon. Wonder is banished; Nature, helpless, is merely to be exploited. Mermaids are dead, and the Golden Fleece lies hidden and unsought. Who now follows Schweitzer to his grand conclusion, or Cicero in his love of native land? Instead, we catalogue Chaucerian errors, or design ramps for trucks. Worst of all, we enforce upon students an irrational, a thoughtless conformity.

I wish that I didn't know the people who have written these poems, articles, and stories for I am sure that I could be more objective about criticizing them. For example, I was surprised to find "Second Chance" in the literary magazine of a men's college. I don't think I would be the least bit surprised.

The editors of the WEEKLY feel that they are indeed fortunate to have an opportunity to print the opinions of the men who have written the following articles. Mr. William Kinter, a member of Muhlenberg's English department, is well known to many students for his well-grounded expressions of opinion on many campus activities. Mr. Paul Sherr attended Muhlenberg during the 1952-53 term and has recently returned after nearly two years in Europe. His views, although perhaps not strictly equated to those of Muhlenberg students, should prove quite interesting in their own right.

importance of the material to the subject matter. To sum up: A well written book review, comprehensive, factual, holds the readers interest.

Mr. Beard has done something which I like. Or should I say that I like some of it. Some of it speaks to me in a very forthright manner, especially the last two, three line stanzas. It says a lot of things which I have often felt, often have tried to express in both written and spoken speech. Some of it is quite beyond me. I fail to grasp the connection, the symbolism which the Beard is trying to create. Based on my own lack of comprehension, I feel that the poem lacks balance. For me, this is the most thought provoking piece in the issue.

Plagiarism? From Abbot and Costello perhaps. I like it, think it represents good college humor. Can these fellows write more of this? If they can, they should look to TV. This is just about what one finds there.

Mon ami, Charle. Qu'est-ce que vous avez faites ici?

You ask a question under the title of "I know not why," and then you, or the editor, gives us the opportunity to turn the page and to find the answer to your own question. A good trick. Did you mean it? I do think you should rewrite both "Reward" and The Hearth" and ship them off to a greeting card company. "Reward" belongs on a card of condolence which one could send to one's friend who picked up an ugly F from some horrid old professor. On the Hearth, I've changed my mind. Let's send that to an old lady's home. They can grace the front of their brochure with it.

Africa—the word alone is enough to start my mind gyrating, and my lack of knowledge of the dark continent forces me to pounce on any bit of printed matter which comes my way that concerns itself with Africa. That was my reaction when I noted the article in the Arcade. This was the first article that I read. Unfortunately, I came away confused. From the question mark

Commuters Club Started

Late last semester, Dr. John J. Reed, director of student activities, became interested in determining the interest on campus for a commuter organization. Under the direction of Dr. Reed, Paul Spohn, a Student Council member, called a meeting of all commuters to poll their interest. The results were overwhelming affirmative. Student Council promptly appointed temporary officers and a committee to start the work.

The temporary officers met and unanimously agreed to request Mr. Dunseth Wood of the political science department to become adviser for the newly formed organization. Mr. Wood graciously accepted and was immediately put to work drafting a suitable constitution. When it was completed, a meeting of the entire non-resident student body was held. At this meeting, Mr. Wood was formally introduced to the group as their advisor. After a few introductory remarks, Mr. Wood outlined the potentialities of such an organization; he concluded his talk Mason's "Back to Normal" (pp. 1 ff.) skillfully depicts just such a thoughtless existence, a life without course, chart or goal.

The poems in this issue are adequate expressions of emotions deeply felt; if we would take time to instruct the authors, they might go far in their craft. The articles and short stories are superior pieces of prose, well-centered and clearly developed.

The only expression in the Arcade I quite disagree with is the statement that the Arcade is moribund.

by requesting the group to approve the constitution "in toto" and work with it instead of blindly tearing it apart. The constitution was then voted upon and formally approved.

At the following meeting, the constitution was amended to make sophomores eligible for officers. An election committee, headed by Lee Knoll, was formed and nominations for club officers were received.

Elections were held on February 3. The results were as follows: president, Robert Lessel; vice president, Bob Keyes; treasurer, Bill Glick; recording secretary, Don McCain; corresponding secretary, Ronald Van Scoyoc. These officers will head a group whose membership is close to 100 and is still growing. The aim of this group as stated in the preamble to their constitution is "... to promote wider interest and participation in campus activities by commuters, to foster a spirit of fellowship among the commuters and to promote closer relationships between the campus and the community of Allentown and vicinity."

Three committee chairmen have already been appointed. Al Hettinger will head a special committee charged with publicizing commuter affairs in the WEEKLY. Don Knoedel will head a special committee which will study the possibility of a reciprocal blood donation plan for the entire campus community. This would include faculty, staff, students, and maintenance personnel. Don McCain will be the chairman of the standing committee in charge of promoting commuter interest in student elections.

The Lehigh University commuter organization, which has been formed as a fraternity (A.L.O.) has invited a committee from the

WHAT'S THIS? For solution see paragraph below.

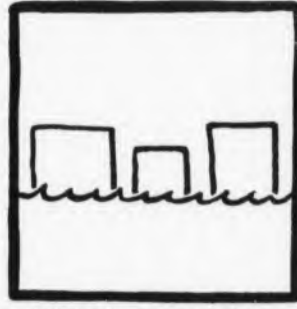

IT'S EASY TO SEE that the Doodle above is titled: Tired anthropologist relaxing with better-tasting Lucky behind freshly dug-up fossil. No bones about it, Luckies taste better to all sorts of people. College smokers, for instance, prefer Luckies to all other brands, according to the latest, greatest coast-to-coastest college survey. Again, the No. 1 reason for Luckies' wide lead: Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better... cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette... Farrel Top Scorer In Intramural Play

At the outset of the second half of the intramural basketball season, the leading scorer for both leagues is Charley Farrel of the Alley Kats. Farrel has accumulated 65 points in four contests on thirty field goals and five foul goals. The second highest scorer is Tom Weber of the Lambda Chi Alpha squad. Weber's 58 points have been amassed by way of twenty-three field goals and twelve foul goals. Ten other I-M players have hit for more than forty points.

Wasmuth holds the single game scoring leadership with 26 points in one game.

The team high record is held by the Cardinals with 77 points, while Phi Kappa Tau holds the team low record with 19 points.

Tonight the following games will be played:

PSK vs. Hayseeds
LXA vs. Konkrete Zephyrs
PEP vs. Knights
PKT vs. Cardinals

As everyone knows, the members of the faculty as well as the student body go out to cheer and support the basketball team at all of its home games. The sons of a few members of the faculty also go out and support the team in their own way. You have probably noticed four young boys running around the playing floor during the games helping with the ball, giving towels to the players and making themselves useful doing other little things to help the team.

These boys are John and Thomas Weaver, the campus physician's sons, Glen McGregor, the college treasurer's son, and Robert Benfer, "Hap's" grandson.

Coaches Cast Ballots For M.V.P. Award

Several ballots from the opposing coaches have already been cast for Muhlenberg's most valuable basketball player. Annually, the Muhlenberg WEEKLY awards a trophy to the College player who is considered the most valuable to his team during the court season.

The voting for the MVP is done exclusively by the opposing coaches, in consultation with their team. Each is asked to nominate a Muhlenberg player on the basis of the performance the individual gave against his team only.

The votes are considered confidential and are tabulated by the WEEKLY sports staff. The results of the polling are disclosed at the conclusion of the basketball season.

Seton Hall Stops Mule Skein, 66-57

Seton Hall's zone defense and relentless offensive drive proved too difficult for the bewildered Mules to handle last night, as the Jersey courtmen used their score-then-freeze technique to cut short a three game Mule win streak, 66-57, at Memorial Hall.

Denny Roth, who broke the Mule scoring ice in the first period and accounted for Berg's final eight markers, was high for the locals with 20, hitting consistently on his one handed jump shot, and using his flexible wrist power for numerous tap-ins.

Cardy Gemma was second for the Mules with 16, garnering his points on tricky pass plays with Gall and by using an over-the-head set.

Colorful Dick Gaines of the Pirates was top scorer in the fast-moving game, with 22 markers. He became the second Setonian (Dukes was the first) to score over 300 points in his sophomore year. Gaines was backed up by sophomore center Marty Farrel with 17 and Ed Petrie with 16.

Both teams were off on shooting. Setonia was good for 24 of 74, while Berg hit on only 24 of 81. Although both scored the same number of field goals, the Hallers doubled the Mule amount at the charity line, 18-9.

Gemma, Roth, and Johnny Wescoe accounted for Berg's scoring in the second half, all but a single set by Del Park.

Coach Dick Schmidt's frosh courtmen (12-1) made it five straight, outrunning Brown Prep, 90-79. Bud Houck of the visitors was high scorer with 29. He was followed by Bergmen Frank Neely, Jerry Diem, and Clint Jeffries with 28, 25 and 20.

Dutchmen, Leopards Entertain Hoopsters

by Joel Pitman

Muhlenberg's basketball team will be traveling to Annville and to Easton this week to play Lebanon Valley and Lafayette respectively.

The Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley, coached by "Rinso" Marquette, will entertain the Mules on Saturday, February 12. The captain and top point getter for the Dutchmen is Howie Landa. Landa has excellent jump shots and set shots and drives well. He is also adept at drawing fouls.

In order to facilitate the admission of students and their houseparty dates, guest tickets for the LaSalle basketball game (Saturday, February 19) will be sold the night of the game.

Each student upon the presentation of his athletic card will be permitted to buy a ticket for a female guest. There will be a special entrance for students and their guests on the north east side of the building adjacent to the public parking lot.

Following Captain Landa is Bob Nelson, a scrappy, aggressive, ball-handler who has a good set shot. Sophomore Jack Peepe is a starter and has impressed Coach Marquette with his basketball savvy. Dick Shover is another ball player on whom the Dutchmen rely heavily. A one-handed push shot is his stock in trade. Howard (Whip) Kosier is the fifth man on this formidable Lebanon Valley team. He has a good set shot and is a good rebounder.

Valley's team has been plagued by injuries, but their aches and pains are disappearing and they are ready for Muhlenberg.

The Mules go to Easton on Wednesday, February 16, to take on the Leopards of Lafayette to try to avenge the 84-70 loss earlier in the year at Memorial Hall.

One of the Leopards who displayed excellent ballhandling skill as well as a good set shot and drive-in was Captain Ernie Peters, who scored 23 points against Berg. The ballplayer who was outstanding that night was Eddie Knapp, scoring 24 points from his guard position, on deadly sets, one handers and speedy drive-ins. Knapp excelled on defense holding Bobby Gall to only 14 points. George Young, gigantic forward led the Lafayette scoring attack with 30 points. His jump shots were hard to stop and he had many tap-ins and rebounds. With this trio garnering 77 points between them, the other two men didn't have much to do that night. However, Todd Walker and Jim Radcliffe worked well in both passing and rebounding.

Lafayette is having their best basketball season in many years, having lost just three games to date.

Mule Cagers Ricochet Bullets

High-scoring Bobby Gall lifts another two-pointer into the bucket for the Mules in their winning effort over the Gettysburg Bullets. Johnny Wescoe (33) seemingly anticipates his teammate's success as Denny Roth runs closer to add his help in a rebounding capacity. Muhlenberg won, 93-72.

Temple 'Thrusters Home' After Close Battle With Mules, 16-11

A much improved Muhlenberg fencing squad began its sophomore season against highly touted Temple and gave them a real battle, 16-11. Temple's Middle Atlantic Champion, Frato, won all three of his bouts in the foil class and Berg's

Jake Huegel did the same trick with the saber.

The match was composed of three rounds of foil, saber, and epee, in that order. The first round was a clean sweep for Temple in the foil and they continued their streak through the saber until they met stopper Jake Huegel. Bill Wormley and Dave Washabaugh made it three points in a row for Berg when they won in the epee. However, the spurt ended when Marshall Reber was defeated by Wax. At the end of the first round the score stood in Temple's favor, 6-3.

The foil men of Berg again fell quick victims to the Temple blades and both Schimmel and Adams

Crum-men Extend Wins Over Royals, Bullets

The stubborn Mules kicked their way to victories nine and ten by defeating the Scranton Royals, 91-85 and blasting the Bullets of Gettysburg, 93-72, both in Memorial Hall last week. In the encounter with the battle-grounders, last Saturday night, Bobby Gall, who scored 27 points, led the Muhlenberg attack, while Bill Snyder scored 16 points for the Bullets.

After seven minutes of play, Coach J. Birney Crum's squad controlled the boards and then pushed a 20-20 deadlock to a 46-33 advantage at half-time. During the last five minutes, Crum replaced his entire first team.

Royals Bow

When the Crum-men played host to Scranton last Thursday, Bobby Gall once again paced the Mules with 30 points. Bessior registered 24 points for the visitors.

Throughout the game Coach Carlesimo's squad proved to be a stubborn foe and led 40-30 at half-time. However, the locals tied the losers, 53-53 during the second half and then dominated the rest of the game.

Berg Frosh Display Spectacular Record

Coach Dick Schmidt's freshmen chargers extended their newest win streak to four straight before last night's encounter with Brown Prep. Since their 78-74 reversal from LaSalle, the yearling cagers have beaten Lafayette (77-76 in overtime), Perkiomen Prep (84-61), Seton Hall of Paterson, N. J. (83-75), and Mt. Airy Seminary (73-45). Their team record is now 11-1.

Vicious Grapplers Rival Television Stars

The modern conception of a wrestler is usually that of a stereotype member of the television species. Numerous jokes concerning the "acting ability" and the colorful names of these teevee stars have been made by other network performers. These comments are not new, nor are they shared by a single person.

However, in a recent national magazine, a recognized sports authority discussed the art of wrestling, without mentioning the adulterated orgy which frequently appears on the television screen. Instead, the author spoke of the art as a gentlemanly sport, clean, competitive and sportsmanlike. He said that only collegiate wrestling has withstood the tests of the gamblers; it is the single class of athletic activity which has been uninfluenced by big money and reward.

Muhlenberg's wrestling coach constantly implies that wrestling is an excellent conditioning activity. Ernie Fellows insists that his boys work hard and long, in order to meet a specific weight classification and in order to be in tip-top physical condition. Here is a man who has not been affected by big-time sports activity; the competitive and sportsman-like appearance that Ernie gives near the mat is unequalled. Here, then, is Muhlenberg's gentleman wrestler!

Perhaps, with the assistance of additional money, wrestlers might be "bought" to Muhlenberg and the College could have some great mat giants. This might help to remedy the poor condition, record-wise, that Muhlenberg's team is in this season.

Gorgeous George may have the golden locks of hair and the rubles, but last year Muhlenberg had a wrestler who was strong, naturally vicious, hard-to-beat, and a gentleman on the mat. Because of Al Billy's graduation, this year's wrestling squad has been hard hit. It is a shame to say "that a single man is so irreplaceable," but it is true. Al's presence on the squad would probably mean a better season.

And so, with but a single loss by graduation, but with no additional men, this year's wrestling group is having a rough time. Although Paul Billy and Frank Gutierrez are each good for a pin in each match, the other Mule groaners are unable to accumulate sufficient points for a team win.

Paul, like his brother Al, possesses natural viciousness and ability which makes him one of the best. However, Paul, while he possesses the knowledge, lacks the confidence of his brother. "Guts" has been riding the fence this year; his weight fluctuates so much that he has been wrestling in two weight classes. Although he is effective and strong, Gutierrez must steady his poundage.

The future doctors have also found a place for study of comparative anatomy on the mat. Because they are pre-med students,

Marv Cressman and Larry Paul haven't been able to devote enough time to proper conditioning practices. Art Franzblau never wrestled before coming to Berg, but because he is a student of wrestling, Art has improved greatly in three years. He is aggressive and hard-working.

Stu Godin has been another weight problem to coach Fellows. Once he gets the proper conditioning he will probably be able to hold his own on the mat. With Bernie Smith it is the same problem, often he has had to wrestle out of his class.

Mule Matmen Await Matches With Haverford, Lafayette

Haverford and Lafayette will provide the competition for Muhlenberg's matmen during the next week. The Mule wrestlers challenge Haverford away this Saturday, February 12, while the Leopards wander into Memorial Hall next Wednesday, February 16.

The Haverford wrestlers have been able to beat only Bucknell this season while losing two other matches and scoring one tie. Coach Gerald Harter's outstanding matman is heavy Jack Stotbeck, who is undefeated in his class. Stotbeck's co-captain Hugh Sangree is a tough man in the 130-pound class.

son. For the last three years the basketball trophy was won by Larry Friedman, who graduated in 1954. The football award has been awarded to Jackie McDonald the last two seasons for his outstanding performances.

In The Spotlight . . . STRONG WRESTLERS

Paul Billy

Frank Gutierrez

Sophomore Paul Billy, wrestling in the 177-pound class, is one of the most stellar of Ernie Fellow's matmen. Paul has earned this approbation by being victorious in two of three starts this season. He has no losses this season with only a draw marring his otherwise perfect record.

Paul's success can probably be at least partly attributed to the experience he gained as a varsity wrestler last season. Playing a line position on the football squad is also useful in preparation for the wrestling season. He had four years experience in wrestling at Northampton High School where he played baseball and football as well.

Billy is a business major. His activities include the M Club and Freshman Tribunal. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity.

Undefeated in two years of collegiate competition, defending Middle Atlantic Champion Frank Gutierrez, better known as "Guts," has been the main stay on Berg's wrestling team this year.

Frank, a graduate of Bethlehem High School, starred on the football team and wrestling team. He was undefeated in wrestling while at Bethlehem. A member of the "M" Club and the Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity, Frank has but one goal at the present time, and that is, to retain his Middle Atlantic Championship.

Frank has wrestled three different weights this year 157, 167 and 177. His best weight is 157 which he hopes to reach and remain at until the time Middle Atlantic competition rolls around.

Bergmen Pin Weak Swarthmore Wrestlers For First Win, 19-9

Muhlenberg's wrestling team rebounded after a series of four defeats to trounce Swarthmore, 19 to 9, Tuesday at Memorial Hall. Frank Gutierrez and Paul Billy each copped their fifth straight victories and received aid in the team win from Stu Godin, Bernie Smith, and Marv Cressman.

Gutierrez achieved the only pin of the meet by downing Bob McMinn in the 167 pound class. In the 177 pound class Billy defeated Hank Bode. In a close match in the 130 pound class, Stu Godin decisioned Deke Huyler 4-3. The Mules' other decision was gained by Smith over Jerry Lenthal in the 147 pound class. Marv Cressman won by default, when his wizardry proved too much for the strength of Swarthmore's Ben Beattie.

The summaries:

123—Steve Rubin, Swarthmore, decisioned Ed Druckenmiller, 9-6.

130—Stuart Godin, Muhlenberg, decisioned Deke Huyler, 4-3.

137—Jim Heald, Swarthmore, decisioned Art Franzblau, 5-2.

Meyer Addresses AKA Assemblage

Dr. Heinrich Meyer, professor of German, was the speaker at the meeting of Alpha Kappa Alpha, the national honorary philosophy fraternity, which was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. Russell Stine. Dr. Meyer spoke to a large audience on the topic of eighteenth century Theology.

Dr. Meyer discussed the various theological trends in eighteenth century English and German Protestantism, pointing out and showing the significance of the representative theologians of the day and relating them to later trends in Protestant Theology. The speaker elaborated on both the theological thought of clergymen in the church and of the leading lay thinkers of the period.

Professor Meyer is well qualified to speak on this subject since he is at present working on a complete study of all the theological trends in the European 18th century which he plans to culminate in a book entitled Enlightenment and Theology.

The next meeting of A.K.A. will be held on February 24 with Dr. Koehler of the mathematics department as the speaker.

were defeated in saber. Huegel again stopped the Temple tide. Wormley and Washabaugh were defeated by Wilkinson and Wax but Joel Carpenter won once for the Mules. Thus, by the end of the second round, Temple needed only one point to clinch the match.

Temple won the match on the first bout of the third round when Zandy Adelson lost to Angelis. Jack Hopper also lost his third bout of the match but Goldenbaum came through to put one marker up for Berg's foil. After Goldenbaum's victory, the Saber men won all three of their bouts and Wormley and Washabaugh continued the Mule streak. Carpenter ended the match by losing to Wilkinson. The final score of the match was 16-11 in favor of Temple.

The score by rounds was Temple 6-3, Temple 7-2, Muhlenberg 6-3. Berg won in the saber and epee, 5-4 and 5-4, but Temple grabbed nearly all of the foils, 8-1. The Philadelphians' success in the foil matches made the 16-11 difference.

Braun set an all-time Lafayette record when he won 22 bouts in a row over the last three seasons. The Maroon-clad wrestler is the defending 177-pound Middle Atlantic States champion.

Although the grapplers of Muhlenberg were unvictorious until their win over Swarthmore, they have shown improvement and will give both Haverford and Lafayette a hard fight. "Guts" Gutierrez and Paul Billy are still undefeated and will be particular favorites on their continued way to becoming 1955 Middle Atlantic champions.

Pre-Law Club Meets Tonight

Don Young, president of the John Marshall Pre-Law Club, has announced that the speaker at the first meeting of the second semester will be a representative of the Rutgers University Law School. The speaker and his topic were unannounced.

The meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Administration Building. Bill Price, program chairman, urged that all Pre-Law students, in particular, attend.

Jazz Concert

Brubeck's integration of classical sounds and devices into the jazz idiom.

I asked him about the difference in playing for a small nightclub audience in an intimate environment and playing before a couple of thousand listeners in a place the size of Memorial Hall. "We play differently," he explained. "At a large concert," he went on, "we have to keep the excitement up all the time." The group relaxes more in smaller surroundings.

It was a fine concert, and if you enjoyed it, give Bill Rutsch a large portion of the credit, because he really worked for this one. He's been hustling this project since November, and he had a hard time finding time to sit down and listen to the music. After Monday night's success, however, he ought to have little trouble recruiting help for the next jazz concert at Muhlenberg, and we hope it will be soon.

prised to find it in the counterpart of the Arcade from Cedar Crest. It reads and sounds like a story that a woman would write. It is well done as a sentimental piece goes, and I do believe that a magazine such as "Woman's day" or even the "Journal" might buy this either in its present form or in the form of a woman's story. Just one question: Is this a true confession or wishful thinking?

Hats off to Bill Quay for thinking and writing his dedication to Mr. Smoyer. Certainly no man and no other instructor on this campus has done more to try to raise our intellectual standard. OK, Mr. Schmoyer, I'll change it to Smoyer, but Schmoyer or Smoyer, we miss you around here.

About Mr. Hopper's intellectual worries, you have had my views. Can you provide some articles with affirmative cures and helps on this problem, Mr. Hopper, or anybody?

I find both poems, "Song Offering" and "On Donnés Meditation" good pieces of work, but I am much more enthused about "Fathers and Sons" because it makes me ask a question: If I accept as truth what the poet has written, when does a son cease to be a son and become a father? And at what point does a father cease to be a son and become a father?

Congratulations to the ten men who have displayed enough something to complain about. Good going, all of you. There is little fear of your intellectual degradation. You have the faith of your convictions.

The views expressed by Mr. Sherr do not necessarily represent the opinions of the editor or staff of the ARCADE.

Local Hospital Head Addresses Pre-Meds

Dr. Donald Haff, a surgeon graduate of Harvard University Medical School will address the Pre-Med club next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Haff, who is the head of the Haff Hospital in Northampton, will speak on "The Private Hospital."

Films on anemia, arthritis and malnutrition were shown at the last meeting of the club, held on February 2. At this meeting, Dr. John V. Shankweiler, club adviser, discussed tentative plans for the club's trip to New York on May 4 and 5.

Current plans call for leaving the campus by bus at 8 a.m. Wednesday, May 4. Wednesday afternoon the club will visit the Cornell University Medical School. The evening will be free for whatever activities the club members desire. A visit to the New York University Medical School has been arranged for Thursday with the group returning to Allentown that evening.

Scholarship Offered

The National Academy of Broadcasting in Washington, D. C. is offering a scholarship to college and university trained students wishing to prepare for a career in broadcasting.

According to Miss Alice Keith, president of the Academy, which trains and places its graduates, there is a greater demand now for trained writers and announcers than ever before.

The scholarship, worth $300, pays for one semester's tuition. College graduates with a background in English, speech and languages can obtain a professional certificate upon completion of a semester's study at the Academy.

Applications should be made to the National Academy of Broadcasting, 3338 16th St., N. W., Washington 10, D. C.

John Reed Awarded History Study Grant

A grant for a continuing study of the first national nominating convention of the Whig party in the United States has been awarded to Dr. John J. Reed, assistant professor of history at Muhlenberg College.

The grant has been made by the American History Research Center of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin.

This Whig party convention, Dr. Reed stated, was held at Harrisburg, Pa., in December, 1839, and resulted in the nomination of William Henry Harrison for the presidency and the Virginian, John Tyler, for the vice-presidency.

"Study of this convention will be an attempt," according to the Muhlenberg professor, "to analyze fully the circumstances leading to the calling of the convention, the pre-convention maneuvering, and the steps by which Henry Clay was sidetracked in favor of Harrison."

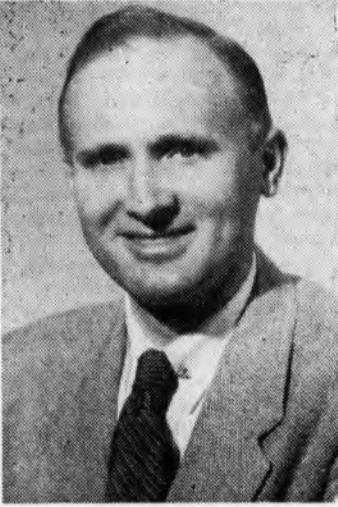

"The American History Research Center provides grants of this type for research and publication in American local history. The study will be in keeping with this approach since a national convention will be studied by examining the local party situations and the differences within the states which the Harrisburg convention attempted to reconcile."

The grant will be used mainly for travel and for microfilming materials in various state collections of historical documents and in the Library of Congress.

The study by Dr. Reed is an outgrowth of his doctor of philosophy thesis, which consisted of an examination of the contrasting patterns involved in the emergence of the Whig party in four northern states in the decade after the War of 1812.

"It is hoped," Dr. Reed concluded, "that this study of the Whig national convention of 1839 will add new understanding to the use of the national nominating convention as a political device and that eventually it will become part of a broader study of the development of American political institutions in the generation between 1815 and the Civil War."

Dr. Reed is a graduate of the University of Rochester, where he also received his master's degree. He received his doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania. Before coming to Muhlenberg in 1948, he was a faculty member of the University of Pennsylvania and Rutgers. At Muhlenberg, he also serves as faculty adviser of student affairs.

MCA To Stage Murder Mystery By T. S. Eliot

"Murder in the Cathedral," a T.S. Eliot verse play, will be presented in the Muhlenberg Chapel on Wednesday night, March 13, by the MCA. The production is being directed by James McCauley, a student, who is assisted by William Kinter, English professor and MCA advisor.

Jim McConnel, who recently played in the M&D production of "The Taming of the Shrew," will star in the role of the archbishop, Thomas Becket. He will be supported by Jake Huegel, Richard Merrick, Dave Miller, Howard Frank, Ted Drack, Jack Gover, Ernie Polhaus and a chorus of women.

The play recounts of the murder of the archbishop in the 12th century and will be staged with a realistic atmosphere of that period.

Five Student Body Constitutional Changes Receive Ratification At Recent Assembly

Five proposed changes to the constitution of the student body were passed at a meeting of the student body last Thursday at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium. The meeting was presided over by Ron Schlittler, president of Student Council. Approximately 50 students were in attendance.

Oslo University Offers Summer School Classes

Editor's note: Several times during the spring semester the WEEKLY will run articles such as the following to acquaint the students with opportunities that exist for summer study.

Announcement was recently made by the University of Oslo Summer School of the ninth session, to be held from July 2 to August 13, 1955, in Oslo, Norway. Courses will be offered in the fields of humanities and social studies, education system of Norway, graduate seminars in Norwegian Education, Literature, and Social and Political problems. The summer school will also feature two new courses in Physical Education in Scandinavia (with special emphasis on Norway).

All classes will be conducted in English and an American member is on the administrative staff. The University provides outstanding lecturers and maintains highest educational standards.

Housing Accommodations
Housing is provided in the Blindern Students Hall for single students. Married couples are accommodated in private homes.

Six semester-hour credits may be earned in the six weeks course and the session is approved by the U. S. Veterans Administration for veterans under P. L. 346 and P. L. 550. Applicants should have completed their freshman year not later than June, 1955.

A limited number of scholarships are available for the summer school.

Students will leave New York on the SS STAVANGERFJORD June 22, 1955. Reservations for the return trip are available August 20, September 3 and 14, and October 1, 1955. An orientation program is conducted on the trip eastbound.

Dorm Council Report

Reporting for the Dorm Council, Schlittler stated that an unusually large number of thefts were occurring in East Hall. Illegal possession of a pass key, or keys, was given as the most plausible reason for these thefts. He further stated that the Dorm Council is cooperating with campus police in an effort to apprehend the persons responsible for the thefts.

It was reported that Student Council has sent a letter to the Herbert Paul Lentz Post of the American Legion, requesting that the Legion present some sort of program featuring their Americanization policy. As yet Council has received no reply.

The next meeting of the student body has been scheduled for March 31.

Art Mooney and his orchestra will play for "Stairway to the Stars," the annual Junior Prom, which will be held tomorrow night in the Frolics Ballroom, with dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Vocalist Alan Foster will be featured with the orchestra, and Parke Frankenhof and his dixieland band will entertain during intermission.

Two Allentonians To Address Muhlenberg Leadership Forum

Two Allentonians have agreed to speak at the Muhlenberg Leadership Council to be held on March 18 and 19 on the Muhlenberg Campus. The two day conference is being sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa and Student Council.

The Friday program is strictly for Muhlenberg students and will feature Mr. James Chambers, manager of Radio Station WHOL and Lieutenant Eugene McCarron of the Allentown Police Department. The two men will speak on "Personality" and "Bad Leaders," respectively. Two other speakers for this day have not been announced.

The Saturday conference will be a congregation of the leaders of the various colleges in this area along with Beaver and Centenary Junior Colleges. Student leaders from these colleges will hold open discussions on various mutual problems.

Members of the coordinating committee are Howard Frank, chairman; Martin Baker, Richard Fine, David Godshall, John Simek, David Ulanet, Morris Van Natta and Herm Ziegler.

Senior Reviews Work Of Tudor Choristers

by George Lachenauer

Last Sunday The Tudor Singers of Bethlehem presented a program of sacred choral music in the college chapel. The group of ten singers, under the direction of Dr. Ifor Jones, the well-known conductor of the Bethlehem Bach festival, provided a musical rendition of rarely performed works. It was evident that very careful preparation had gone into each composition. Throughout the program, there were minute and very expressive dynamic shadings, beautifully clear diction, and an excellent blending of the voices into a homogenous ensemble. It is a rare treat to hear excellent choral music, particularly polyphonic music, performed by a small group rather than by sensationally large masses.

Dr. Jones' musicianship and interpretive insight was evident throughout the program. The motet Ave verum corpus by William Byrd, Schein's Zion Spricht, Howells' Sing Lullaby, and King of Glory, King of Peace by Arthur Warrell were particularly outstanding. A bicinium for two tenors by Michael Praetorius was sung with expression by Richard Schantz and Harold Mentzell. The beautiful Coventry Carol was sung expressively without becoming sentimental.

A large audience listened with reverence and absorption to the one and a half-hour program.

Muhlenberg Sociology Society Formulates Semester's Plans

The Sociology Club of Muhlenberg College has formulated final plans for their remaining activities of the year. The club has made gains in stimulating a greater interest in sociology and its related fields during its existence on campus. During the last semester a certificate of membership was drawn up by Dr. Morris Greth, advisor to the group, and it will be presented to present members and any future members of the club.

Forell Gives Views On "Modern Student"

Dr. George W. Forell, the speaker of the second phase of the Institute of Christian Living Program which ended today, said during an interview that "modern students want answers, not questions to make them think for themselves." This idea was also expressed in other chapel speeches, lectures and discussions in which Dr. Forell took part.

He has been connected with programs similar to this at the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Alberta, Kentucky. He mentioned that this program is similar to others and was well organized. Dr. Forell stated that he enjoyed his first experience in living at a fraternity house. While on campus, he stayed at the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

When asked what he thought of the campus, he said that it was very nice and that he was particularly

Music Society Meets Monday

Ratification of a newly written constitution will be the chief purpose for a meeting of the newly formed Music Club which will be held on Monday, February 21 in the music room of the library. Other topics to be discussed at the meeting, which is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., are future plans including the presentation of concerts on the Muhlenberg Campus.

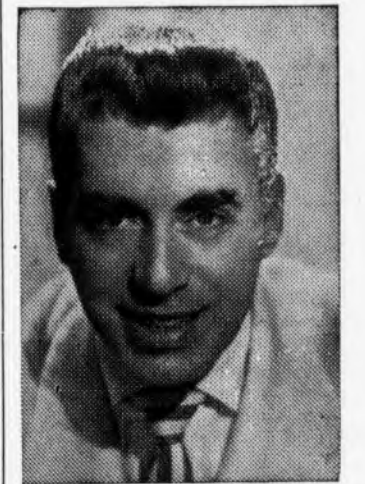

The group plans an election of officers at a future date. Faculty advisor for the organization is Professor Ludwig Lenel, head of the music department.

This year, selection of the prom queen and her court will be restricted to the dates of members of the Junior Class only. An improved procedure has been arranged to facilitate the selection of the queen.

Honored Guests

Honored guests will include Dr. and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers, Dean and Mrs. Henry M.M. Richards, and Dr. and Mrs. Victor Johnson. The entire faculty has been invited to attend this first formal function of the new semester.

Larry Cescon, chairman of the Prom Committee, announces that final preparations have been completed and a sizeable crowd is expected. Dick Gross, chairman of the decoration committee reports that the professional decorating of the entire ballroom in line with the theme is now complete. Other members of the dance committee are Ernie Christman, Jack Gover, Bill Greenawald, Jack Russo, Ed Steiger, Ed Sproviero, Tom Coughlin, and Frank Trusheim.

Michigan Group Finds Variance In Chapel Attendance Policies

Alma, Mich.—(I.P.)—A report on the first student council workshop of church-related colleges of Michigan, held on the Alma College campus, disclosed that chapel programs at the various schools ranged from one to five a week, and the number of cuts from two a month at Alma to three a semester at Kalamazoo.

At Adrian College, one-hour chapel programs are held three times a week, and students are allowed three cuts per semester. Students must attend chapel for two years of the four or read twenty selected books. Five honor points per semester, making a total of twenty for four years, are given for chapel attendance.

Albion's chapel meets two times a week and three cuts per semester during the four years are allowed. For each overcut, one-half hour is added to the graduation requirement. One of the two chapels at Albion each week is religious in nature. The chapel committee is composed of student council members.

Calvin College presents three chapels per week and allows three cuts per semester.

Each faculty member must speak in chapel at least once. Chapel programs, which are broadcast, last about fifteen minutes.

Hillsdale College holds one chapel a week, with three cuts per semester. The vice-president of the college is chairman of the Winning Playwright To Receive Prize

The winner of the Phi Delta Epsilon one-act play writing contest will receive a cash prize of 25 dollars, it was announced by the society last week. Two faculty judges and two student judges have been appointed.

The contest is open to all Muhlenberg students and any type play will be acceptable. The PDE committee in charge of the contest has suggested that the play should be written so as to cover approximately 20 minutes of acting time.

The faculty judges will be Dr. Claude Dierolf and Dr. Harold Stenger of the English department. Fred Groose, president of the Mask and Dagger Society and Cas Wanczyk, president of PDE will be the student members of the judging committee.

The judging will be based on characterization, content, dialogue, originality, and stage worthiness.

The winning play might also bring fame to its author since, if the play lends itself easily to production, Mask and Dagger will

A Short Sale . . .

Muhlenberg students are selling themselves short. It is not a new thing for people, and students in particular, to be accused of this unfortunate act. The worst of it is that the results so often destroy what has been hard-earned in the past. Yes, this week we want to do a little honest-to-goodness talking about our student body meetings, and don't stop reading this column now as a seemingly dry subject is introduced. True, the first sentence is a come-on, but the remainder of what we have to say should be equally as thought provoking.

Last Thursday there was a student body meeting. Fifty people showed up. The business was discussed and executed. The meeting was adjourned and fifty people left, having used a privilege which is the right of six hundred people on the Muhlenberg campus!

The story of Muhlenberg's student government is the story of an uphill fight. Dedicated students have pushed hard through the years to bring our campus organization into its present refined state. Believe it or not, there are few campuses on which a student government has such complete administration faith and cooperation as here. We are fortunate.

However, the citizens of many of Russia's satellite countries were once just as fortunate. Now a small group controls them. Is that what you as a Muhlenberg student want? Would you rather have a faculty committee of intelligent, experienced thinkers determine student actions in toto? Of course not; neither do we believe that this will happen in the near future. But we, this editor included, by showing so little interest in campus government, are doing anything but living up to the faith placed in us. The results could be bad.

The WEEKLY pledges itself to publicize better each student body meeting as it is announced. Will you do your small part by attending these meetings and voicing your opinions? Let's not sell ourselves short.

R.G.M.

The Dean's Door . . .

After a span of a decade or more, Muhlenberg again has a probation system, re-created by the faculty last semester. A question in the minds of everyone is, how will it work?

Its purpose is to aid the student who has run into academic difficulties to improve his academic standing. Over the years, only about half of the students entering Muhlenberg have graduated. For one reason or another, chiefly unsatisfactory academic performance, the other half has failed to graduate. This has been the experience of many colleges and universities. Our new probation system seeks to reduce this mortality.

How can an unsatisfactory academic standing be improved? The answer depends upon the cause or causes of the poor performance:

1. Sometimes a student takes more work than he can handle properly. While working to meet some of his college expenses, a student occasionally registers for an overload of course work. This load may be no more than the normal fifteen to eighteen hours. Some students can do two jobs simultaneously and well. But, for many, outside employment compels an adjustment in the college program if the quality of the student's work at college is to remain good or even satisfactory.

2. Sometimes a student overloads himself with extracurricular activities which drain too much time and energy from his academic efforts. In such cases, the obvious remedy is a reduction in the extracurricular program of the student.

3. Few of us exploit our potential to the limit. The reasons are legion. Sometimes distractions at home pull a student's sights off the target. Social distractions often intrude to confuse the student. Choosing companions lacking in purpose and in good study habits can also cause deterioration in a student's academic performance. One of the most valuable lessons of the college experience has been learned when a student selects his goal, puts aside all distractions, and concentrates his best efforts on the achievement of that goal. This is an essential ingredient of success in life. An indication of dedication to one's goal may be found in the elimination of excessive cutting, in the completion of academic assignments on schedule, and in the adequate preparation of course materials.

The probation system seeks to determine the cause or causes of academic failure in each instance; and then seeks to apply a remedy or remedies. Each case must be considered on its own merits. While common patterns are discernible, each student's problems are individual and must be so treated. Hence, the remedy for one student may be a reduction or adjustment in the academic program. For another it may be a reduction or restriction of extracurricular activities. For a third it may be both. For another it may be none of these—other types of assistance may be indicated.

No system of probation is perfect and none can guarantee results. Success really depends upon the student himself. A flexible system such as ours, with its emphasis on the individual and his problem can accomplish a great deal, however, our system is still in the experimental stage. Refinements will be worked out as we gain experience with it. Techniques for its effective operation are being developed. Perhaps by next fall we shall have a better idea what will work and what standards and techniques are truly proper for our student body. As we test our standards and techniques, we shall apply the system gradually, cautiously, and with open minds. Ultimately we shall have a system which will provide effective assistance to the student experiencing academic difficulties.

Varying Campus Views Are Shown As Undergraduates, Professors Offer Opinions

To the Editor:

Sir,

A college truly seen is corporate, whose members are students, faculty, and alumni, and whose growth is nurtured by Administration and Trustees. Two recent attacks upon this college's integrity have been successfully repelled by Dr. Seegers, and our gratitude is due him.

W.K.

To the Editor:

Having been encouraged by the recent Editorial in the WEEKLY, we have deemed it necessary to comment upon the recent reviews of the Arcade, specifically that of Mr. Sherr. To deny completely the validity of the arguments and challenges presented would be absurd, since in general these opinions are quite in accord with our views. No one who seriously ponders the state of the intellectual and cultural life of this college can long refrain from echoing sentiments similar to those expressed by Messrs. Hopper, Kinter, and Sherr. Yet, we feel that to some extent Mr. Sherr has extended his observations to the danger point. To be more specific, we refer to the paragraphs concerning the theologians, lawyers, etc.

To our mind, it would have been well to ask the Arcade Editorial Staff for a statement of policy. Many, we feel, share the opinion that the Arcade is a "literary" magazine and not a theological journal. Now by "literary," we interpret the term to mean that articles contained in the magazine would (as generally they have) restrict themselves to the modes of poetry and the short story. Having heard no other opinion expressed by the Arcade hierarchy we cannot but reach this conclusion.

It might be of import to note that the "theologians" on this campus will, if it is the desire of the Arcade, endeavor to make a worthy contribution. To impute cowardice to these "theologians" is, we feel, slightly unfair. It is much to be regretted that Mr. Sherr feels that the "theologians" have kept their light under a bushel. In all fairness, however, we will acknowledge our shortcomings in that on certain issues we might conceivably have failed to make our position known. We shall sincerely endeavor to rectify this situation. To Mr. Sherr then, we must reply that we are not afraid to take a chance, even once in our college life.

Let it be emphatically known

To the editor:

An Open Letter to Mr. John Adam Mr. Adam,

In reference to the little addendum to the chapel service of February 9, 1955, may I commend your and Student Council's astute powers of observation for noticing that the student body has been quite noisy and disrespectful in the chapel services. I do agree with the observation that the students have paid a regrettable lack of attention to the service and have exhibited a notorious disrespect for those interested in participating in the service. However, I take issue with the implied cause of this inattentiveness and disrespect as you seem to see it.

According to what I can derive from your remarks of the ninth, the blame for the inattentiveness is laid squarely on an innate flaw in the student. Perhaps in the case of some students at Muhlenberg this is a correct assumption; I, however, think not. I am not standing in defense of inattention and disrespect in "a house of God." But I am standing in opposition to the cause of that disrespect—the system of chapel attendance itself.

Perhaps this issue has been raised before, but I am reiterating it especially with regard to your statement of the ninth that, "If you don't want to keep quiet here, YOU CAN STAY AWAY." May I call your attention, Mr. Adam, to that part of the college catalog concerning Chapel attendance, on page 39 of the 1955 Bulletin. "All students excepting those classified as special students . . . not candidates for a degree, ARE REQUIRED to attend chapel at least two times per week . . . Students whose chapel records are unsatisfactory are NOT ELIGIBLE FOR GRADUATION." Thus Mr. Adam your ridiculous and ludicrous statement to stay away would not be able to be honored by those who intend to graduate.

Therefore since we cannot stay away and since we MUST come, be we Lutherans, Catholics, Jewish, or what have you, the inattentiveness and disrespect will have to be borne by you and the administration, unless you really want to act as a representative of the student body and seek certain administrative changes in the chapel attendance system which would lend themselves to forming a better and more equitable system. These following are not mine alone, I have gleaned them from fellow students and from

by Jim Strine

Last week DAVE BRUBECK and his three companions in jazz started to fill the "intellectual vacuum" that reportedly exists on our campus. At least, something new has been added to Muhlenberg's extracurricular activity. Student reactions have been many and varied. Here are some of them. "What is your opinion of Dave Brubeck's recent jazz concert on campus?"

Ben Caplan, '58: "Personally, I like a dixieland type jazz, as played by Benny Goodman, Jack Teagarden, or Dizzy Gillespie. To me, Dave Brubeck represents a radical type of jazz that only music enthusiasts can appreciate. I wouldn't pay to hear him because I can't feel the mood that he tries to create."

Art Franzblau, '56: "I recognize Brubeck's work as genuine talent, and I couldn't help but appreciate the mastery that the four musicians held over their instruments. However, I would not consider myself a modern jazz fan, and still prefer a solid evening of dixieland, Strauss waltzes, or a symphony concert."

Jack Hopper, '56: "As a person who enjoys jazz music, I enjoyed the concert. In addition, I think it helped to raise the intellectual level of our college by bringing new and different ideas to our campus."

John Adam, '55: "I was disappointed in the concert. Although I am not formally educated in music, Brubeck left something to be desired. Progressive jazz as played by Brubeck was completely devoid of feeling, in my estimation. To put it briefly, Brubeck was so cool it took me two days to thaw out."

Irv Klerson, '56: "I think it was one of the most invigorating, inspiring, and stimulating concerts I've ever attended. I only hope that in the future jazz concerts of this caliber will be received in a better spirit by Muhlenberg students than this one was."

Al Lintner, '57: "It takes a developed taste to appreciate Brubeck's music, but I think the concert was an excellent cultural contribution to the Muhlenberg community. I, for one, sincerely enjoyed it. Thanks and congratulations are due to Bill Rutsch and the Jazz Society."

Mike Unger, '58: "I enjoyed the concert in that Brubeck's music is distinctive and different. I especially enjoyed the improvisations played in the middle of each number, and the rhythm that seemed to bind the whole piece together."

PERPLEXED

Dear Mouldy:

I am a brilliant, handsome, young athlete at Muhlenberg College. I have a promising career either in the world of sports or as a mathematician. Now it seems that all the girls (conscious of my handsome potential) swarm after me for dates and to get married. My problem is this—I like to play basketball much more than I like women so what can I do about this unfaltering attraction I have for the opposite (you should excuse the expression) sex. To prove my point—all the girls are tearing their hair out to go out with me. My problem—who wants to go out with bald-headed girls?

V. O.

P.S.—I've got a crew cut that wows 'em.

Dear V. O.—

Your problem is the same as many I get from all the Muhlenberg men (?). It really is rather simple to reduce your magnetic personality. You see your complex springs from a childhood fear of being left alone in a dark room. I can clearly see that you have yet to overcome the sheer fright which overcomes your handsome pockmarked face when the lights go out. However, may I offer a probable solution to your dilemma? You obviously haven't any imagination or guts or else you would have thought about this many years ago yourself. It is simply this—

Why not climb to the top of Memorial Hall and throw yourself with a splat to the floor. This may aid in making you less attractive to the women. If they still flock about you, publicly slash your face with a pocket knife, tearing deep gashes in the shape of hammer and sickle into the flesh. Start using that great new odorant "Eau de Sneaker." It will drive the women to the far corners of the earth. Finally feign ignorance in the classroom especially in your chosen field of mathematics and even flunk out of school. Then to top it off mess up on the basketball court. Drop passes, miss shots, and hold yourself to 50 points a game. This will make you quite repulsive. Let me know how things turn out.

P.S.—Shave your head and smear it with axle grease.

UNWANTED

Dear Mouldy:—

Two years ago I came to Berg under the pretense that it would aid me to become better liked by my fellow men. Since that time I have become one of the most disillusioned lads in this college.

It seems that no one likes me. I can't understand it, really. I have all the qualities of being a very nice guy but no one seems to want to make friends with me. For example: yesterday while I had a free hour I walked up the stairs of the Student Center to the pool emporium. There I saw several fellows playing a delightful game of billiards (or something). I, being a helpful lad, tried to aid in their enjoyment of the game. When this one guy went to hit the white ball with the stick I moved it (the ball) because I didn't want him to break the stick. He did anyway because he then hit me with the stick. See what I mean—(?) I then went into the chem lab where I saw a lot of topless flasks, beakers, and bottles (Altho I am an A.B. student I know about such things.) I then took it upon myself to mix the contents of all these aforementioned containers into a more convenient-to-carry jug. I did this and gave it to the instructor. Last time I saw him (on visiting day) at the hospital he swore vengeance on me. People pick on me for no reason at all. That's what happens when you are magnificently abessed.

R. M. (Of Gordon Street fame)

P. S. Two guys on the WEEKLY hate me something terrible.

Dear R.M.—Your problem is one of the strangest and most troublesome I have yet to come across in my years of writing this fine column. You too have a different situation. It seems to me that your little friends grossly misunderstand you and make no concerted effort to help you with your abess. May I suggest that you start to leave people alone. When someone looks at you run and hide in the latrine. This will keep you out of trouble temporarily. When you come out, run around disguised and no one will bother you (I would suggest a Frankenstein or similar mask.) If this still doesn't help—ask your friends in a polite tone to leave you alone. Snarl at them, growl, and if they come too close, bite them. If this doesn't work. Give up. I did.

MOULDY

P.S. Those two fellows on the WEEKLY are just jealous of you.

practices at other church-affiliated colleges, who too require chapel attendance, only under special conditions.

Therefore I propose:

(1) That if there is a desire to draw a heterogeneous group to the chapel services, there should be non-sectarian services. Not merely proposing this farce of non-sectarianism by inviting the leaders of various churches or synagogues in the community to come and give the location of their building during Freshman Week.

(2) Should this prove unsatisfactory or obnoxious to the Ministerium or Administration, there is another solution. That is to allow the chapel services to be completely optional. Since Muhlenberg students are supposed to be intelligent men, I think it should be on their own volition if they want to attend a service opposite their beliefs, which is distasteful and obnoxious to them. If Muhlenberg proposes the idea of being a Christian institution, then let it practice one of the basic precepts of Christianity by tolerating the viewpoint of the other fellow. I mean true toleration — acceptance and not merely acknowledgment. The optional service would solve the basic problem of irreverence and inattention, because a person cannot be expected to come to a service in a spirit of reverence when he realizes he is forced to come there!

(3) Since nothing of the foregoing suggestions would be completely acceptable to even the more progressive elements of Muhlenberg College, then let Muhlenberg try yet the sanest and, I believe, fairest means of maintaining a Christian air, yet tolerating the beliefs of others, and that is by a more or less combination of the two previous suggestions. (Before I go any farther I want to state that I am a Lutheran and hence this suggestion is coming from the "inside" not the "outside.") Since, I am informed, less than 40 per cent of the students attending Muhlenberg are Lutherans, I believe it only fair to non-Lutherans and non-Christians at the college, to require ONLY the Lutherans to fulfill chapel attendance requirements, and to allow the others to come to the services if they so desire. This system has been tried at a prominent college in the East and must have been found successful since it still is in use. I am sure this system would be more acceptable, not only to non-Lutherans but also to those members of the faith, who really want to worship without interference.

The solution seems so simple that I wonder why it had not been thought of before. However, due to the air of complacency which pervades this campus, I can readily see why no intelligent Student Council member ever bothered to put such a motion before a student referendum and then place the consideration, if approved, before the administration for final action. In writing this I am taking the optimistic viewpoint that the administration is not aware of student opinion on the subject, and therefore I propose that such a referendum vote be taken. I believe that should this system be adopted and followed then truly the regulations at Muhlenberg (will not) "serve as restrictive measures, but guide the student toward a greater independence, development, and freedom of action while he is at Muhlenberg." that we will not default in our responsibility to criticize any and all situations on this Campus, from Chaplin's movies to the Chaplain's sermons.

Our only hope is that the Arcade will clarify its own policy on the matter of the type of material they desire. Then, we feel certain, the theologians, lawyers, politicians, and any other serious-minded student will contribute his mite to fill the intellectual void on the Muhlenberg campus. Until such clarifications are forthcoming, we then will continue to read our papers in the dormitories, instead of submitting them to the Arcade. Three theologians of East Hall.

Their Side of Humor

Two ancients in Israel were bemoaning the hardships of living in the new republic. "What we should do," proposed Semmish, "is declare war on the United States. They beat us, and like they do with all defeated enemies, immediately give us money, new roads, lots of food, houses and factories." "It's no good," sighed Lazarus. ... Student Council Report ...

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on February 10, at 7:36 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Spohn, Wormley, Schlittler, Adam, Quay, Loy, Baker, Rosenberger, Ascione, and Wanczyk.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE REPORT:

Committee on Examination Procedure: Mr. William Miller representing the committee gave Council a report on the progress the committee has made thus far. The idea of an Honor System is still being expounded by the group. It was reported that a week of chapel services have been reserved for Honor System speakers.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Intramural Committee—Mr. Ascione stated that Mr. Fellows will postpone the intramural basketball games during ICL week.

Social Committee—Mr. Rosenberger reported that the Junior Class has made a formal request for $1000 for the Junior Prom. Mr. Rosenberger moved and Mr. Quay seconded that $1000 be allocated to the Junior Class. The motion carried. George Summers and Zandy Stewart are to be obtained for the Graduation Ball. The approximate cost will be $725.

Chapel Committee—Mr. Adam told Council that he had informed the student body to remain quiet during chapel services.

Finance Committee—Mr. Paul stated that he is compiling the budget for second semester. The cost for the tuning of the piano in the Student Center was $7.

Gola-led Explorers Test Mules Before Houseparty Crowd

Paul, Gutierrez Win As Mules Drop Fifth, 22-6

Coach Ernie Fellows' matmen lost their fifth match of the season to Lafayette's highly rated wrestling squad, 22-6, at Memorial Hall last night. Larry Paul and Frank Gutierrez decisioned their opponents for Berg's only two wins, as the Leopards (8-1) copped six of the eight bouts, including two falls.

Paul and Gutierrez Win

Larry Paul, 123 pound senior from Lykens, won his second bout of the season with a 10-5 decision. He got a fast take down on Garth Hievery, almost pinning him in the second period.

Frank Gutierrez won his seventh straight match of the campaign with a 3-1 decision in the 157 pound class, running his overall win streak at Berg to 16 in a row. He accumulated his three points on a reverse in the second period, and a five minute time advantage.

Braun Wins Number 27

Paul Billy had the toughest assignment of the Bergmen in wrestling Fred Braun. The Leopard senior outpointed Billy, 5-3, to win his 27th straight wrestling match, after Billy gained the lead, 3-0.

Don Grammas lost a decision in the heavyweight division to Don Sayenga.

The summaries:

123 pound—Paul, Muhlenberg, decisioned Hievery, 10-5.

130 pound—Snyder, Lafayette, pinned Druckenmiller in 2:45 with an arm bar and half-nelson.

137 pound—Zarbantanz, Lafayette, pinned Godin in 7:45 with a reverse chancery and arm bar.

147 pound—Hutchison, Lafayette, decisioned Smith, 9-3.

157 pound—Gutierrez, Muhlenberg, decisioned Dillion, 3-1.

167 pound—Stern, Lafayette, decisioned Francois, 5-0.

177 pound—Braun, Lafayette, decisioned Billy, 5-3.

Heavyweight—Sayenga, Lafayette, decisioned Grammas, 5-2.

Hank: "I'll have you back in the race in a few minutes."

THE SUSQUEHANNA

Baseball Coach Fox Announces Diamond Drills

Coach Dick Fox expects to begin baseball workouts as soon as the basketball season ends. Coach Fox expects to start workouts slow in order to stay-off "cold weather sore arms" and indicates he would like a lot of hustle in his ball club.

Coach Fox feels prospects are good with pitchers Frank Sprioviero and Tony Saddler back. Both recorded earned run averages of less than 2.0 last season. Other returning starters include Dick Leber, Lefty Cornelius, Tom Weber, Ron Hoehman, and Marty Gilbert. The main problem will be the replacement of hard-hitting outfielders Kern and Pollitt who graduated last June.

Last season under Bob Hicks the team sported a 10-5 record. Hicks is now head football coach at Juniata.

Villanova Provides Next Court Try For Bergmen After LaSalle Contest

The famous LaSalle Explorers led by Tom Gola visit Muhlenberg this Saturday night, after which the Mules travel on Wednesday to Villanova to play the Villanova Wildcats. In the game played at Philadelphia, La Salle beat Muhlenberg 88-79. The Mules hope to avenge this loss and upset last year's NCAA champs, who now sport an 18-4 record.

Cagers Absorb Second Leopard Setback, 71-60

A bedraggled team of Mules trod home last night from a hard fought battle, which was lost 71-60 to a spirited herd of Leopards at Lafayette.

Muhlenberg was able to keep pace with Lafayette until five minutes remained in the game despite the zone defense which was set up midway in the first half.

Due to the ICL program, no intramural games were played this week. However, the I-M leagues resume play Monday night. Lambda Chi, ATO, and the M-Club are still tops in their respective leagues. The schedule for the coming week is posted in the locker room.

Gall Collects 21

Once again Bobby Gall set the pace for Berg, as he accumulated 21 points on eight field goals and five fouls. Captain Ernie Peters set a blazing pace for the victors with 23 points with his deadly drive-in shot and eleven foul conversions.

As the box score indicates, the game was won at the foul line. Lafayette converted 27 of 37 foul attempts, while the Crum-men were able to dump in only 14 of 26 attempts.

Mule Frosh Lose

In the preliminary game, Coach Dick Schmidt's yearling Mules suffered their second defeat of the year, 78-70. The freshmen were again led by Frank Neely who figured in a scoring duel with Brett of the Lafayette freshmen squad. Each of them finished the game with 27 markers. Jeffries accounted for 14 of the freshman, tallies, while playing a good defensive game.

I-M Activity Under The Boards

Wally Reimert, right, of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity squad appears to be "up in the air" in a recent intramural game at Memorial Hall with the Cardinals, who hold the team scoring leadership with 77 points. Although surrounded by rivals, he extends his arm to control the low rebounding ball. His efforts are in vain, however, as the hustling squad of freshmen turned in another victory. This is a typical scene of action in the intramural league, which will resume action next week.

To all students:

Please do not smoke in your section of Memorial Hall during a ball game or at any other time. There have been many complaints in regards to the above and my orders are to eject anyone caught smoking.

Hope I don't have to embarrass you in this way.

Captain Russ Wilson

All-American Gola was held to 23 points in this game, which is lower than the phenomenal totals he got at the expense of other opponents. His teammates, Charley Singley and Alonzo Lewis took up the slack with 23 and 24 points apiece, however. Singley, with his outside shots and Lewis with his drive-in shots kept 'Berg off balance. Charley Greenberg played a good floor game and was the playmaker. Bob Maples with 10 points also hurt the chances of a 'Berg victory.

Mules vs. Villanova

The Mules travel to Villanova to play the Wildcats in their field house, where they have not been beaten in 69 games.

Villanova has an excellent team this year, led by Captain Jack Devine. Devine, a 6'4" center, is the fourth player in Villanova history to tally over 1000 points in his collegiate career. Devine is a hustling playmaker and defensive man as well as a good shot. His teammate, Bob Schafer, also has over 1000 points to his credit, and has a dangerous set shot. Jim Smith is another prolific scorer whose jump shot is a threat. Al Griffith and Al Weissman are steady ball players who are effective on defense and good under the boards.

Wormley, Washabaugh Win As Team Suffers 17-10 Loss To Haverford

by Jim Patterson

Coach Andy Erskine's fencers suffered their second defeat of the season last Saturday. Haverford found the Muhlenberg weaknesses in the foil and saber classes and used this knowledge to good advantage as they won, 17-10.

PoGo Results

Dick Steinberg, chairman of the East Hall PoGo tournament, has announced that the winners of this week's round were Bob Olesky and Len Woodel. The rules of the tournament call for the winners to give the losers a chance to gain revenge. The WEEKLY will print the winners of next week's play.

Berg's epee men remained the stalwart part of the team as they won again, 5-4. Bill Wormley and Dave Washabaugh both won two of three bouts while Joel Carpenter won one of two and Marshall Reber lost his only bout.

In saber, Jake Heugel, who won all three bouts against Temple, won only one of his three bouts. "Ace" Adams got two out of three but Carl Schimmel lost all three thus giving Haverford this class, 6-3.

Foil, the weakest point of the whole squad, was beaten 7-2. This was some improvement over their 8-1 loss to temple. George Goldenbaum scored both points and thus remains the only 'Berg foiler to win any bouts this season. Both Adelson and Hopper lost all three bouts.

The next meet will be at home on March 5, when 'Berg will face a business men's club from Long Island, N.Y.

Strange Case of THE FOOLHARDY SKIER

THERE was once a young fellow who decided skiing was as easy as driving a car on snow-covered roads. So one day he stepped into his new skis atop a slope, and pushed off. His friends were aghast! Such confidence! He knew little or nothing about the rules of skiing—how to turn—how to stop—how to use his poles and edges. What happened? That's right. He ran smack into a large tree. Everybody on the slope said he should learn the rules of skiing before taking such chances. But nobody mentioned that neither he—nor most of them—knew or practiced the rules of winter driving. Doesn't that seem awfully foolish—and childish—when you think of the terrible death toll from winter traffic accidents? Just in case, here are the six rules* of winter driving.

*THE SIX RULES OF WINTER DRIVING

1. Accept your responsibility.
2. Get the "feel" of the road.
3. Keep the windshield clear.
4. Use tire chains and good tires.
5. Pump your brakes.
6. Follow at a safe distance.

Mule Grapplers Seek Win Over Delaware, Ursinus To Tie Record

Muhlenberg's matmen try to bring their record closer to the .500 mark this coming week when they face Delaware and Ursinus, two mediocre squads whom they beat last year.

Delaware will provide its roughest competition in the 123-, 137-pound, and heavyweight classes. Captain Don Boyd, 123 pounder, was 6-2 last year, and was runner up to Middle Atlantic Champion Ed Dawkin of Ursinus.

Ed White is Delaware's top wrestler in the 137 pound class. Veteran Tom Oves beat out Steve Butcher in the pre-season heavyweight eliminations, and has been winning ever since.

Toughest man to beat on the Ursinus squad is Ed Dawkin, last year's 123 pound M.A.S.C.A.C. champion. With two tough 123 pounders coming up, Larry Paul will have his hands full.

Last year the Bergmen defeated Delaware, 21-12, and Ursinus, 19-13. Frank Gutierrez, Marv Cressman, and Paul Billy out wrestled their opponents in both matches, while Stu Godin and Don Grammes were victorious in one match apiece.

Explorers, Leopards, Dutchmen Top Foes

Lebanon Valley, LaSalle, and Lafayette continued on their winning ways over the past week, as each squad pulled two games closer to the 20 win mark.

Lafayette (17-2) walloped Rutgers (2-15), 93-75, over the weekend to keep their consecutive streak of 15 intact until last night's encounter with Berg. Lebanon Valley (15-4) bombed Drexel, 94-80, in a Valentine's Day engagement to extend their winning streak to 27 straight on their home floor. On Saturday, they eked out an 83-82 decision over Berg.

LaSalle (18-4) defeated Richmond, 91-80, behind Tom Gola's 32 points. Gola has scored 552 points this season for a 25.1 average, and has a 20.4 average under the boards with 448 rebounds. The Explorers will probably be seeking victory number 20 when they take the floor against the Mules on Saturday.

Lehigh Ends Streak

Lehigh (7-9) ended a four game losing streak by upsetting Temple, 67-57, on Tuesday night. The unpredictable Engineers lost to Gettysburg Saturday, 65-55, but found the mark against the fumbling Owls.

Temple (10-8) is having as much trouble as Berg in trying to gain its eleventh win of the campaign. The Philadelphians have lost three straight.

Gettysburg (5-11) beat Lehigh, but met the same fate Temple did against St. Francis (16-5). The Franciscans of Loretto beat Temple, 85-69, and clobbered the Bullets, 107-71, on Monday. St. Francis received a bid to the NIT earlier this week.

The Greyhounds (10-5) from Moravian extended their win skein to four straight with a 85-65 victory over F&M. The Bergmen once had a 10-5 record also, but stiff competition has changed that. Bucknell (2-12) lost a heart-

Matmen Pin Haverford For Second Win, 16-14

Muhlenberg defeated Haverford, 16-14, for its second win in a row, in a wrestling match at Haverford Saturday. Don Grammes gained a 7-5 decision over Winsor Baker in the unlimited class. Baker who weighed 177 pounds while his rival weighed 240, led by a 5-4 count with five seconds to go, but the Mule heavyweight tallied a near pin and took the decision.

Frank Gutierrez kept his undefeated record intact, pinning his opponent in the first period. Larry Paul gained his first fall of the season in the 123 pound class, while Art Franzblau decisioned his man in the 137 pound class.

Berg's record is now 2-4.

Summaries

123—Larry Paul, Muhlenberg, pinned Corja Azumi in 3:57 with a body press.

130—Hugh Sangree, Haverford, pinned Ed Druckenmiller in 0:19 with a headlock.

137—Art Franzblau, Muhlenberg, defeated Ted Regan, 9-5.

147—Lou Miller, Haverford, defeated Bernie Smith, 6-4.

157—Frank Gutierrez, Muhlenberg, pinned Bill Ordman in 2:47 with a double armlock.

167—Hollis Price, Haverford, defeated Bruce Francois, 5-2.

177—Jack Stotbeck, Haverford, defeated Paul Billy, 6-4.

Unlimited — Don Grammes, Muhlenberg, defeated Winsor Baker, 7-5.

by John Keyser

Muhlenberg's courtmen dropped their seventh game of the '54-'55 campaign to Lebanon Valley, 83-82, Saturday at Annville. The news of this heartbreaking loss surprised many of us here when it reached the campus. The first thought of those who weren't at the game, was that the team probably made another poor showing.

Those who saw the game brought back a different story. Some said the Mules were off in their shooting. However, they would never have kept pace with the red-hot Dutchmen if their problem lay in shooting. Some blamed the loss on the poor officiating, revealing that the two referees were seldom in agreement. This also is a weak excuse, since "the breaks" were in general evenly distributed. Others pointed the finger at certain individuals and incidents in the game.

Shooting, officiating, fouling, and breaks were relatively the same for both sides, but Lebanon Valley's Dutchmen had one more point in the "will to win" category. Their will to win has beaten the Mules three years in a row; more truly, Muhlenberg's LACK of the will to win has been the cause of more defeats to weaker squads than poor shooting or officiating. Muhlenberg does have this quality, but never uses it except against much stronger squads, since, as many students think, an upset victory makes bigger headlines for Muhlenberg. Against weaker teams, Berg students tend to be complacent, assuming a "they-have-nothing" attitude.

Lebanon Valley College has 500 students compared to Muhlenberg's 700, but LVC students have twice as much spirit as Muhlenberg's. Witness last year's Dutchman-Mule contest at Rockne Hall or last Wednesday's encounter with Seton Hall. In each game the visiting team was well represented, supported well enough to encourage the team through its darkest minutes of the game.

Muhlenberg has the spirit and the students to support the basketball team. Neither of these two factors have been shown in much quantity at away games. The fact that Muhlenberg is not co-ed or that the roads are icy is a poor excuse for not backing the team. If we want to have a winning team, it is our duty to be present at its games and offer it an incentive or will to win.

breaker to Dickinson, 82-81, but rebounded to a 95-77 win over Susquehanna to double its total number of wins.

Villanova Wins 13

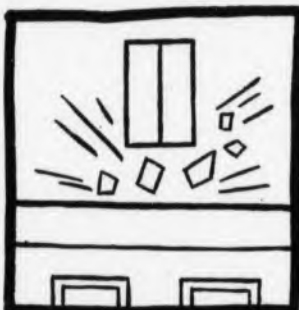

Villanova's Wildcats (13-6), who play host to the Mules Wednesday, hit the century mark against Boston College, 100-75. Jack Devine's 24 rebounds was tops for the year in rebounding for the Wildcats.

Penn (14-3) suffered its second reversal from Dartmouth this season, 78-70. Dartmouth now holds the only two Ivy League victories over the Quakers. Also in Philadelphia, St. Joe's (10-11) pulled

IN THE DARK about which cigarette to smoke? Take a hint from the Doodle above, titled: Two searchlight crews, one asleep, one enjoying better-tasting Luckies. Your search is over when you light up a Lucky. You'll find out why college smokers prefer Luckies to all other brands, as shown by the latest, greatest college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better . . . cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

Council Report

Dorm Committee—Mr. Neville informed Council that two members of the Dorm Council have moved to fraternity houses, but since it is not long before the new Council will take office, it was suggested that the two positions remain open.

Constitution Committee — Mr. Schlittler reported that the new amendments to the Constitution were passed at the student body meeting. There will be an attempt made to coordinate Council rules with faculty rules and to make changes in the code of conduct. Mr. Baker and Mr. Adam volunteered to serve on the committee.

CORRESPONDENCE:

A letter was received from President Seegers acknowledging the completion of the new lounge in the Student Center.

SPECIAL REPORTS:

Mr. Rutsch appeared before Council and gave a report on the results of the Brubeck concert. The concert was a success and after the Council fund was reimbursed, the Jazz Society was left with a $300 profit. Mr. Quay moved and Mr. Wormley seconded that the Jazz Society be allowed to take out of their profits enough money to pay half the price for records which are to be cut with a limit of twenty orders. The motion carried.

Another visitor, Mr. Frank, reported to Council that on March 18 and 19 a Leadership Program will be held on campus. Friday will be reserved for Muhlenberg students only and at the Saturday program, Lehigh Valley Student Governments will be represented.

OLD BUSINESS:

Mr. Baker moved that the Father's Day program originally scheduled for March 8, be postponed until May 14. The motion was seconded by Mr. Neville and it carried.

Council received a request from a student under disciplinary action to be allowed to have his car on campus for the Junior Prom weekend. The request was granted.

Plans are being formulated for a Spring Day on April 28.

It was suggested that the outgoing President of Student Council give an address on April 27 and that the incoming President make his address on May 9.

NEW BUSINESS:

Mr. Adam suggested that the Student Center be opened on weekends. A letter of recommendation is to be sent to have the pool room open on weekends. Mr. Wormley proposed that the possibility of having the Snack Bar open also be investigated.

There is a possibility that the Education Club will be brought into activity once again.

Mr. Paul and Mr. Quay volunteered to act as co-chairmen for the Academic Freedom Program with an attempt to get Grayson Kirk, President of Columbia University, as the guest speaker.

Respectfully submitted,
CAS J. WANCZYK,
Recording Secretary

college chapel committee, which selects the chapel speakers. Students are responsible for the worship services. Programs vary in content and usually last about forty-five minutes.

Chapel is held five days a week at Hope College, and the services last about twenty minutes. Five cuts per semester are allowed; after ten cuts the student is called before the dean and may be suspended.

Kalamazoo's chapel is held twice a week, and three cuts per semester are allowed. The programs usually last about a half-hour.

The report also disclosed how each of the church-related schools handles discipline. At Adrian, each student must sign a morals card before gaining admittance to the college. This card is a promise that he will not smoke or drink while attending college. Smoking is limited to the fraternity houses. Students may be suspended for a semester or expelled, or put on probation, for drinking.

At Albion, the student council has no power in student discipline, and smoking is allowed only in specified areas of the campus. At Calvin, student discipline resides in a faculty board. Minor problems go to this board, and serious problems are taken up by the faculty board.

At Hillside, there is a dual probation system whereby a student on social probation is prohibited from attending social functions, and certain conduct will allow the student to attend two dances of his choice.

Discipline at Hope resides in a committee consisting of the college president, two deans, and president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the student council. This committee has the power of suspension or expulsion. On his first offense, a student goes to the president and deans; for the second, he is called before the student committee.

Kalamazoo has a judicial council made up of four students and faculty advisers, who decide on discipline problems, including drinking, and have the power to put a student on social probation for the first offense, and to expel for the second offense.

Blessed are those who go around in circles.
For they shall be called wheels.

The Chowline

The biggest social weekend of the year is just around the corner and everyone is preparing for the gala ball — because of ICL week the Profs are scheduling tests for the week following houseparty, and all Greek men, pledges and brothers, are cautioned not to let the weekend party hangover, hang you over grade wise.

Thinking of ICL week, chapels and cathedrals, and introducing the idea of Murder we might turn up with the MCA's plan to turn out T.S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral"; if there isn't a basketball game on March 15 or a good movie in town the rumblings of the "campus renaissance of intellectual activity" may continue and a goodly number of students might turn out for the production.

The P.D.E. journalism fraternity is dangling a juicy bit of loot before the campus mental giants. All you have to do is play writer, and knock out a decent little one act play.

This Friday the Allentown Alumni Club is holding a meeting with attendant dinner in the Commons. Each member will be a "big brother" to some high school senior from the Lehigh Valley. The entire evening is planned for the guests.

And remember folks the snackbar is always thar. Ready and able to give you the refresher that causes you to pause and relax.

Law Test Given Here

The law school admissions test will be given tomorrow morning in room 200 of the Administration Building at 8:45 a.m. The test is required for admission by many of the leading law schools of the country.

It is designed to measure the capacity of the student to read, to understand, and to reason logically with a variety of verbal, quantitative, and symbolic material.

Applications for the test, which will be given again on April 23 and August 6, must be made ten days previous to the date of the examination.

Further information concerning the test may be acquired by writing to Law School Admissions Test, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau St., Princeton, New Jersey.

Delaware (4-11) won its fourth game of the season against Haverford, 89-62. Albright's Lions (4-15) in the same boat with Delaware, recordwise, beat Juniata, 81-63, but lost to Wagner, 76-72, before facing the NCAA champion LaSalle squad last night.

Seton Hall (14-6) lost a close 76-73 decision to Georgetown Tuesday night.

Nationally, San Francisco (18-1) is the top team in America, according to the Associated Press poll. Marquette's 20 straight wins is the longest major college win streak on record to date. The Illinois quintet is now 19-1. North Carolina State (21-4) was the first squad to hit 20 victories in the nation. This is quite a feat since few teams even played 20 games yet this season.

Former Mayor Hock '32 Engaged For ODK Forum

Mr. Donald Hock '32, former mayor of Allentown and current candidate for the Democratic candidacy in the May primary, has accepted an invitation to address the ODK-Student Council sponsored Muhlenberg Leadership Institute which will be held on March 18 and 19. Mr. Hock will speak at the Friday session.

Other speakers at the Friday session, which is strictly for Muhlenberg students, will include Mr. James Chambers, manager of radio station WHOL speaking on "Personality" and Lieutenant Eugene McCarron, of the Allentown Police Department whose topic will be "Bad Leaders." A fourth speaker is yet to be announced.

Saturday's Program

Saturday's program includes a conference on mutual problems with delegates from Cedar Crest, Centenary, Lafayette, Lehigh, Moravian, and Muhlenberg taking part. Potential topics for discussion include academic freedom, freshman indoctrination, the honor system, and potential activities.

Dr. Koehler Speaks To Philosophy Club

Dr. Truman L. Koehler will speak to Alpha Kappa Alpha on Thursday, February 24, at 8 p.m. at Dr. Stine's home, 2116 Allen St. The picture for the 1955 Clarla will also be taken at this meeting.

Speakers for future meetings of the spring semester include Dr. Raub of the Muhlenberg Physics Department and Dr. Conrad Seegers. A symposium with the theme, "The Role of the Arts in Contemporary Society," will be held on April 21 in cooperation with Eta Sigma Phi, the national honorary classical fraternity. This symposium is an annual affair, and everyone is cordially invited to attend this open meeting. Open discussion will be held and the theme will be adapted to a medium interesting to the college student. Initiation of new members and election of officers will take place on May 5.

Five Muhlenberg Students Participate In Annual U. of Pennsylvania Forum

Five Muhlenberg students, members of Mr. H. Dunseth Wood's class on international relations, attended the Eighth Annual Foreign Policy Institute held at the University of Pennsylvania on February 15.

The program, conducted under the auspices of The World Affairs Council of Philadelphia, centered around addresses of four experts on German and European affairs. The main speakers were: Dr. Benjamin Bittencourt, Assistant High Commissioner for Germany from 1949-1951; Dr. André Philip, former French Cabinet Minister and Delegate General to the European Unification Movement; Dr. George Federer, Counselor, and Head, Political Department, Mission of the Federal Republic of Germany; and Dr. Hans Kohn, Professor of History, City College of New York and a widely known expert on international relations.

The problems of German rearmament and European unification were the main questions considered. Germany's internal and external political affairs and that nation's effect on the European economic scene were topics of round-table discussions.

Several hundred students and professors from eastern colleges and universities attended the meeting. The number has grown steadily since the institute was originated eight years ago. Accompanying Mr. Wood as the Muhlenberg delegation were Ernest Fricke, Paul Levy, Earl Newhard, Frank Peters, and Dick Weidner.

Science Club Hears Physics Major Talk On The Constellations

A talk on Astronomical Configurations was presented at last Monday's meeting of the Science Club by Paul Heiser, senior physics major. Discussion of constellations, the organization of stars into arbitrary groups was the main topic. A glance at the sky shows that the stars are not uniformly scattered over its surface, but in many cases, are arranged in natural groups. Mr. Heiser related how these natural groups, early observed and variously named by the ancient navigators, became known as constellations. In most cases, the outlines formed by the stars bear no resemblance to the animals or objects after which the groups were named.

North Star

The Pole Star, commonly known as the North Star or Polaris, can be found by means of the pointers of the Big Dipper which are in a line with it. Besides rotating and revolving, the earth has an oscillatory motion like that of a top slowing down. This is due chiefly to the pull of the moon. Each slow oscillation takes about 26,000 years. Because of this motion, the North Pole traces a circle on the sky, pointing to different stars as it moves in its circuit. Thus, 3000 years ago Alpha Dracimis was the Pole Star and the other constellations have shifted accordingly. In 14,000 years the Southern Cross will be visible over this country.

Further discussion by Mr. Heiser revealed that the stars are not "fixed," but are actually in rapid motion, their average speed being 20 miles per second.

Junior Prom Queen

Muhlenberg's First Lady, Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers, presents a wristwatch to Mrs. Edward J. Haberern, 1955 Prom Queen, as Ed looks on. The dance was held February 18 at the Frolics Ballroom.

'Stairway To The Stars' Attended By Three Hundred at Frolics

Over three hundred Muhlenberg men and their dates attended "Stairway to the Stars," the annual Junior Prom, which was held last Saturday in the Frolics Ballroom. The couples danced from 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. to the music of Art Mooney and his orchestra with Alan Foster as vocalist. At intermission Parke Frankfield and his dixieland band entertained.

This year's selection of a queen was restricted to Junior Class members' dates, and Mrs. Edward J. Haberern of North Coplay was crowned "Queen of the Ball" by Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers. The judges were Dean Henry M.M. Richards; Mr. Ogden Davies, president and general manager of Allentown radio station WKAP; and Marshall Cleaver, program manager of that station. Four girls, Joanne Riddle, Sue Hailbron, Janet Knecht and Pat Darling were chosen to be in the Queen's Court. Mrs. Haberern received a wristwatch, and each member of her court received a set of rhinestone earrings and a necklace as gifts of the class.

Decorations for the Prom consisted of a translucent blue net with miniature stars suspended from the ceiling, and large blue stars and musical notes which were attached to the net.

Larry Cescon was the chairman of the Prom Committee, and Dick Gross, chairman of the decoration committee. Other members were Ernie Christman, Jack Gover, Bill Greenwald, Jack Russo, Ed Steiger, Ed Sproviero, Tom Coughlin, and Frank Trusheim.

Pre-Theo's To Hear Richard T. Sutcliffe

The John A. W. Haas Pre-Theological Club will meet on Monday, February 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Pre-Theo Room of the Student Center. Mr. Richard T. Sutcliffe of the Department of Press, Radio, and Television of the United Lutheran Church of America will speak to the club. The picture for the 1955 Clarla will also be taken at this meeting.

The program for the rest of the spring semester includes a talk by Dr. George F. Harkins, the assistant to the president of the United Lutheran Church of America, on the topic, "Toward a More Comprehensive Churchmanship" on March 14. The club is planning to take a field trip to the Lankenau Hospital and the Philadelphia Motherhouse on Saturday, April 2. The annual banquet will take place on May 9 with Dr. Charles M. Cooper, president of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania, as speaker. The site for the banquet has not been chosen as of this date.

Other programs for the semester are under consideration.

Drama To Keynote This Week's Movie

A J. Arthur Rank mystery drama, "So Long at the Fair," will be shown Friday, February 25, in the Science Auditorium as part of the Muhlenberg College Film Series. There will be two showings beginning at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m., and as usual there will be no admission fee.

Jean Simmons, who appeared in the Laurence Olivier production of "Hamlet," plays the leading role. In this film her brother disappears the day after the two arrive in Paris for the opening of the Great Exposition of 1889. Miss Simmons obtains the assistance of a young man in finding her brother.

The next production to be shown on March 4, is "The Naked City."

Rev. Conrad W. Raker To Be The Speaker At Lenten Vespers

The Rev. Conrad W. Raker, lecturer in Religion at Muhlenberg and Superintendent of the Good Shepherd Home, Allentown, will be the guest speaker for the first Lenten Vesper Service, to be held in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel tonight at 7 p.m.

Rev. Raker, as the first speaker, inaugurates a new type series of services which has been absent from the college in recent years. The Vesper Services will be preceded each week by an Organ Recital at 6:30. This week Richard Miller '56 will provide the music. Both programs are being sponsored by the Muhlenberg Christian Association.

Other Speakers

Succeeding Vesper Services will have guest preachers from the Muhlenberg faculty as well as ministers from Allentown. A highlight in this series will occur on March 5, when members of the Mask and Dagger Club, under the sponsorship of MCA, will present T. S. Eliot's famous religious play "Murder in the Cathedral." The last performance of this play on the Muhlenberg campus occurred as a part of the 1950 Institute of Christian Living Program. The play is being directed by Jim McCauley '55 with Mr. William Kinter, MCA adviser, giving technical advice concerning the interpretation of the characters in the play.

Chapel Credit

Chapel credit will be given to those students attending the play. This has been made possible (Continued on Page Six)

Dean's List Announced; 66 Men Achieve Honors

Sixty-Six Muhlenberg students have achieved honors in their academic work for the first semester of the 1954-55 term, according to the Dean's List released yesterday. In order to be eligible for honors, a student must have an average in his academic work of at least 90 and must not have a grade lower than C.

Dr. Robert Fritsch Addresses Women Of 'Berg Auxiliary

Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, Professor Emeritus of English Bible, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary, held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church on Tuesday afternoon. Speaking on the topic, "God's Hand in History," Dr. Fritsch, a member of the Muhlenberg faculty since 1907, pointed out the events from the time of creation to the present day in which God's hand has been present.

In order to comprehend the term, "God's hand," we must, Dr. Fritsch said, think of him in anthropomorphic terms, that is, as a spiritual being in the form of man. Thus God's hand, always at work, has influenced the world through its creative and sustaining ability. Dr. Fritsch, in connection with these ideas, repeated the words of the psalmist when he said, "my times are in Thy hands."

Enlarging on his theme of God's influence in history, the speaker quoted from Ben Hur: "When God walks the earth, his steps are centuries apart." Thus throughout the ages, often hundreds of years apart, the hand of God works, destroying the evil work of Satan. From the time of Noah and the flood to the present-day unrest in Asia, God's hand, according to Dr. Fritsch, has been purposefully at work.

In conclusion, Dr. Fritsch, who at Tuesday's meeting was addressing the Auxiliary for the twenty-second time, stated that God's hand is in our lives also; we are a part of history. Therefore, let us abide in Him, as He is in us, (Continued on Page Six)

Students who are cited on the Dean's List for both terms of a year shall be designated as having achieved Class Honors. Final Honors are based on the attainment of Class Honors for two years or more. If a student receives Class Honors for two years he shall be graduated "Cum Laude," for three years, "Magna Cum Laude," and for four years, "Summa Cum Laude."

The valedictory and salutatory shall be assigned to the students holding the highest and second highest academic ratings respectively at the end of the senior year. The following students will be honored at a chapel service later in the semester.

Seniors

Gunars Ansons, Malcolm Boyd, William Brokaw, Marvin Cressman, Byard Ebling, Frank Goebels, Paul Heiser, Wilson Hoyer, Thomas Kelsall, Eugene Kirch, Nikolaus Kozauer.

Ralph Wood Chosen For WGLV Program

Dr. Ralph C. Wood, Professor of German at Muhlenberg College, has been chosen to teach a course in German, through the media of a television program entitled "German's Easy." The program is being telecast over station WGLV Easton, beginning this Saturday at 4:45 p.m. and continuing throughout the spring.

"We hope to teach a little German painlessly," Dr. Wood explained, "with some fun and some music, too. And once in a while we'll discuss Pennsylvania Dutch."

Junior In Play

Donald Sheasley, '56, is currently appearing in the play "Picnic" which opens tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Women's Club of Allentown Building at 1114 Walnut Street. Performances will also be given on Friday and Saturday at the same times.

All students will be admitted for half price to the Thursday and Friday performances. The regular price of admission is $1.50.

Publications Board Makes WMUH Grant

A loan of $1000 was granted to campus radio station WMUH by action of the Student Publications Board at a meeting earlier this week.

Jon LaFaver, station manager, requested the loan so that needed improvements in the mechanical facilities of the station could be made.

With these funds the technical staff of WMUH, under the direction of Dr. Robert A. Boyer, station advisor, will install a new mixing board and patch panel. These additions will make possible a greater versatility in activities of the station.

The loan was approved by the Publications Board, consisting of the executive officers and business managers of each of the campus publications—Arcade, Clarla, M-Book, the WEEKLY and WMUH. This body is responsible for allotting all monies paid into the Publications Fund through the student activities fee.

Repayment of the loan will be made over a five year period.

Editorial Views . . .

Reflection Time . . .

No reasonable man would deny the right of Muhlenberg College to make chapel attendance a requisite for a degree. However there is a chronic complaining among too many students that chapel is a waste of time, and that it isn't right to make men of various faiths attend a Lutheran service. Perhaps if these men looked upon the chapel period as a time of reflection and meditation on their personal problems—not necessarily in the light of Lutheran dogma—they would gain unsurpassed values attempting to understand another religion outside of their own. The least they could gain would be twenty minutes of rest.

There is one small characteristic of most mentally mature adults, and that is reverence and respect for God, regardless of the manner through which He is approached. For that group of Muhlenberg men who have not found this maturity, we can only continue to request cooperation.

Using What We Have . . .

Even as last week's editorial concerning student interest in student government was being set up in type, the Temple University News arrived in the WEEKLY office with a story about the breakdown of a nearby student government. Temple University has been without a student government since November, 1953. The downfall of this organization was due, according to the News, to the "apathy and selfish interests" present on the University's campus.

In a few short weeks elections will be held for Student Council positions. As much as students are already talking about the elections, there is a good chance that only 50% of the undergraduates will vote. That is, if we forget our responsibilities. We owe it, not only to ourselves, but to the classes yet to come, to support a robust, purposeful student government. Continuous use of our privileges and responsibilities insure a healthy future.

From the Chaplain's Desk . . .

College, like life itself, can be rather confused and disorganized experience. So much so, that one can actually miss the very thing he came to college to get, namely, an education. After four years of life in college, some students on Graduation Day will be asking themselves the kind of questions T. S. Eliot asks in The Rock:

Where is the Life we have lost in living?

Where is the wisdom we have lost in knowledge?

Where is the knowledge we have lost in information?

Those are questions worth pondering by anyone who is seriously seeking wisdom for living. To possess an assortment of facts and information is not to be educated. There must be something that binds together all the varied aspects of one's educative experience and gives meaning and unity to the whole of it. And this always means having a frame of reference with which to interpret facts, a centre around which to organize learning and experience. Without such a centre one is incapable of handling the complexities of knowledge with integrity and fruitfulness.

Muhlenberg College is founded upon the firm conviction that Christian faith provided such a centre for education and for living. But every individual student must make such a decision for himself. Have you found a centre for your life? Will it hold?

"Letters To The Editor"

To the Editor:

In his recent letter to the WEEKLY, Mr. Hettinger expressed certain views which were both provocative and, to a lesser degree, amusing. It was most gratifying to see a fellow Lutheran express himself with such temerity on so "controversial" a subject as the reputed chapel situation. The original issue with which the letter begins, namely, Mr. Adam's remarks in Chapel concerning the decorum of the students, became in effect, a sounding-board for Mr. Hettinger's views on the entire Chapel structure. It was quite apparent to all that the Chapel Committee is working within the present system of compulsory attendance, regardless of this system's merits. The weaknesses of the present system, however numerous these may be, do not excuse ungentlemanly conduct on the part of individual students. This decorum (or its lack) seems to me to be the primary concern of the Chapel Committee, not the revision of the program.

Mr. Hettinger's allusion to the catalogue to justify his criticism of the system can also be construed to imply that the student was familiar with the Chapel program prior to his voluntary entrance into the Muhlenberg Community. It is difficult to sustain that the Chapel procedure was not made sufficiently clear to the prospective student. Thus if the program in question did not satisfy the prospective student, he could successfully withdraw.

To make some changes in the present system would be highly desirable. Yet one must bear in mind that there has been no indication on the part of the Minister-

Show That Some Students

To the Editor:

An open letter to Mr. Al Hettinger '57

Dear Mr. Hettinger,

This is to inform you that I have read your open letter which appeared in the February 17, 1955 issue of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY.

The purpose of this letter is not to become embroiled in a controversy on the merits or demerits of the required chapel. I was pleased to see that you, sir, have read the bulletin which contains vital information pertaining to a student who intends to become associated with Muhlenberg College. You have quoted the section on page 39 of the 1955 bulletin which pertains to chapel attendance.

Your letter implies that I was not aware of that section of the bulletin, but that, sir, was precisely the item I had in mind when I made the statement "If you don't want to keep quiet here, YOU CAN STAY AWAY." The fact that you are and were aware of that section of the catalogue was the precise reason why the announcement was made for the SECOND time.

I am quite certain that you and the 724 students in the student body were made acquainted with the chapel requirement of the College when you had your first interview for admission. Perhaps you, as most students, read the bulletin when you first received it as part of the information which is sent to prospective students. If by some chance you were unaware of its compulsory nature at first, you became aware of it when you began your studies. At any time you could have changed your mind about coming to Muhlenberg. I am positive that should you find it difficult to comply with this regulation you can very easily obtain a transcript of your record and withdraw from Muhlenberg at any time.

The fact that you entered Muhlenberg of your own free will, (in that as far I know, no one has as yet ever been forced to enter) is proof that you accepted all of the rules and regulations of the college.

Are Interested Enough In

To the Editor:

I strongly suspect that mine will not be the only comments appearing in this issue of the WEEKLY. No doubt, the Dean will make a few observations from his "Door" and the Chaplain will write a few syllables from his "Desk." I am referring, of course, to the comments on the letter of last week by a certain Mr. Hettinger, who discussed the subject of chapel conduct and attendance.

Basically, I think Mr. Hettinger is aroused in the right spot and I admire him for it. But, he reminds me terribly of a hot-headed revolutionist and some of the extreme statements he makes pain my conservative cerebellum. Over a grave problem such as this, a great deal of thought and cool-headed debating is imperative. We must look at both sides of the issue.

There are two or three ideas uttered by the perturbed Mr. Hettinger about which, I think, he has not done enough thinking. He seems to believe (or states that he does) that it is no fault of the student, no "innate flaw," which causes inattentiveness and disrespect in chapel. May I say, if there was no "innate flaw" at all, there would be no disrespect. Certainly, part of the cause of the problem is to be ascribed to the student body. (Note: in the foregoing and following arguments, I am completely disregarding the comment of Mr. Adam, namely, "YOU CAN STAY AWAY." Whatever other merit lies hidden in this priceless phrase, it cannot be denied by Mr. Hettinger, or anyone else, that it was at least very LOUD.)

Secondly, Mr. Hettinger goes completely haywire when he suggests that our chapel services are "DISTASTEFUL AND OBNOXIOUS" to men of other than the Lutheran belief. This may be true in the case of these students who have an overabundance of the "innate flaw", and I doubt whether these creatures can be classed as

Campus Problems To Put

To the Editor:

Another Institute of Christian Living week has come and gone at Muhlenberg. The speaker was excellent, indeed, he was more than qualified as he delivered lectures, gave talks, and conducted seminars.

The campus is still here; the students are still here; and CHRIST is still very far away. The personal response to the week's program was not good even though a number of students were affected by his personal persuasiveness in the numerous bull sessions where the speaker really sparkled. But the majority of my fellow students were completely unaware that the programs were planned for them. They evidently did not want to become aware of them.

I contend that the student body of Muhlenberg College does not have the intellectual fortitude and intelligence necessary to promote a soul-searching program whose meaningfulness and purpose will stand out as a positive Christian accomplishment at Muhlenberg.

In making this assumption I grant that our typical students are no worse than others of our generation and probably much better than some. However, I'm con-

Nickel, Pin Ball Prof., Shafts "Shoes" In Exam

by J. Penny Nickel

My name is J. Penny Nickel. I'm a philanthropist, feminine narcissist, parttime veterinarian, an atheist (maybe an agnostic), and a telephone-pole-sawer-upper. I got my B.B. (for the un-intellectual, B.B. is a synonym for Bachelor of Pin Ball Machines), and I've taught many a guy how to deposit slugs into pin ball machines and how to play a pin ball machine when it's resting on his toes.

Well, by now you may be wondering why the heck I'm writing this thing, so I'll tell ya: I'm writing this here thing to tell ya how guys make New Year's resolutions and then break 'em.

Shoes Snickers was a guy I met in one of my pin ball sections, Section 3 to be precise. He was a big guy—had one big shoulder, one big eyelash and hair on one big rib. He was the type, ya know, who smokes 67 cigarettes a day and carries a bottle of liquor in his back pants pocket—right pocket, of course—and tells dirty jokes—ya know, the kind some guys can tell, every guy wants to hear and most girls pretend they don't hear.

A smile broke the closed line of my lips when I heard Shoes shouting to his friend Ichobod, who was leaving for the Christmas vacation, almost two months ago.

"Yeah Ichobod," he yelled, "I'm gonna quit smokin', drinkin', and cursin'." I figure I kin save myself about 33 and a half cents (he actually said sense) a day by not smokin'."

When Shoes got back, I was amazed to see that he HAD quit smoking, drinking, and cursing, although he still carried his liquor chaser—lemon soda—and took a slug of it every time I demonstrated my techniques in sluggery. (Sluggery is the art of depositing spurious coins into pin ball machines while the proprietor is in the environment.)

As I had hoped, Shoes finally broke down in the final. This was the final I gave: I had eight guys sitting on top of the pin ball machine—obstructing the view, of course—and the eight guys were ordered to exhale on eight pipes and drink beer through straws from eight cans of beer; I figured that if I'd use liquor and cigarettes Shoes would break down and flunk the final, and no one has ever flunked my final.

Well, Shoes did all right on the first two balls: He jammed the flippers for all he was worth and —72. (The pin ball machine used in my final test, being a non-conformist, doesn't keep score like pin ball machines do.)

Then came the third ball, and Shoes broke down. I guess it was the smoke that got him, 'cause he started coughing like a human with a cold.

"%$*#X you guys," he shouted vehemently. "Quit it now!"

My boys, knowing the disastrous consequences that ensue when regulations governing my final are disobeyed, continued their pipe-exhaling and beer-inhaling.

"Come on you guys, quit," Shoes screamed, just like Jerry Lewis.

About 78 seconds passed, and Shoes really became vexed. He pulled a pistol from his boot and shot a hole in each beer can. He then proceeded to shoot up the pipes but missed on his last shot. A body fell to the concrete floor. Crying because of the pain, "Oh pain!"

Shoes made a comeback then—being able to see much more of the rolling ball, of course, since one student, who had been obstructing his view, had been dispensed with—and he made a good recovery. But then the smoke from eight new pipes and the scent from eight new cans of beer got him again.

At the end, Shoes was brawling with one of his fellow classmates, and finally wrestled a pipe and a can of beer from him.

"How were you able to break your resolutions so easily?" I asked Shoes as I posted the final grades on the bulletin board.

"Oh, it was easy," Shoes said, taking a slug from his bottle of liquor, winking at me and smiling because he got an A- out of my course.

Ignorant Campus Scoffers Receive Jazz Critics Blast

by Irving Keener

This is the first and last of a series of articles on jazz, jazz fans, and the large grey mass of jazz haters. This business of jazz has recently been dropped (many would hasten to add . . . with a dull thud) into our midst here at Muhlenberg, the cultural seat of the Pennsylvania Dutch country. We have been exposed to this phenomenon and we have reacted variously. The sudden appearance of the jazz and the subsequent varied reactions present an extremely interesting and perhaps meaningful pattern to those who go to the trouble of observation plus a dash of analysis.

Without much further carrying-on, this writer wishes to state that he applauds the recent modern jazz concert and any other modern jazz that happens to be around. Secondly, he contends that in many quarters, the reception to this concert was bigoted, intellectually unhealthy, and generally unbecoming college students who should be pursuing culture, whether that means, learning, broadening, new ideas and all the rest of those nice things. Muhlenberg College, according to the catalogue, is supposed to be a liberal institution, a college of thought . . . a place where young minds can throw off shackles of ignorance and prejudice, and grow towards some kind of fruition.

Now, then. The college administration and the student council did their part by seeing fit to sanction the outlay of funds and the expenditure of effort necessary to help fill the existing "cultural vacuum" around here. Huzzah for them. Then on February seventh, a hired group of musicians did their best to de-vacuumize the campus. And then, dear friends, the reaction set in. The students, with pitifully few exceptions, scoffed. They ridiculed, they pooh-poohed. Anyone remotely connected with the promotion of the concert has had a very bad time of it. This writer contends that this reaction was and is a shame. We have conducted ourselves abominably, gentlemen. Surely intelligent men should not ridicule and reject that which they do not understand. This is what is known as ignorance. This is the stuff of which the inquisitions and witch-burnings of history are made. Surely we have progressed beyond those dark days.

Earlier in this regular disorganized piece there was mentioned a

Chapel System

ium of Pennsylvania or the Administration of the College to abolish the compulsory element of the Chapel program or to eliminate the cut-system. It appears that any attempt to change this basic premise would meet with stiff and extremely formidable opposition, regardless of the worthiness of the motives. Perhaps it might be more desirable to work for an intensive and extensive revision of the present system.

Concerning the proposal to have "non-sectarian" services, this writer submits that the present services do not truly constitute sectarian services. To anyone who is familiar with the Lutheran worship forms, the idea that the present Chapel services are sectarian and/or Lutheran is ludicrous. The numerous appearances of non-Lutheran preachers and leaders in the Chapel pulpit further emphasizes the "non-sectarian" character of the services. The addition of meditations on such themes as Abraham Lincoln, "George Washington," and the like further heightens the "non-sectarian," if not the secular nature, of the program. Certainly, one cannot accuse the programs of assuming a biased, intolerant Lutheran view. The present endeavor to please everyone has resulted in a failure to satisfy anyone.

Furthermore, it is this writer's contention that the most logical solution to the present situation would be to satisfy at least some portion of the minority, that is, the Lutheran element. Under our present setup not even this group is being satisfied by the "non-sectarian" services of our Chapel. Is it asking too much of a LUTHERAN College to supply services of sufficient quality to satisfy the Lutheran students?

It seems to be advisable, assuming that the premise of compulsion will not be eliminated, to make some bold steps towards a firmer presentation of the Cause for which the Chapel services are primarily intended. It appears unavoidable, under any program, to avoid offending someone. One can only hope that the group which primarily sustains this institution will be satisfied.

The announcement regarding the disturbance in the chapel had as its purpose the reminder to students that they were in a "house of worship," yes, "a house of God." It is indeed a sorry situation when college MEN need to be reminded of such a point. College MEN is the crux of the matter and not the required chapel. As you and I, together with the thousands who have gone before us as well as those who will follow, know, Muhlenberg has ALWAYS treated its students as gentlemen. Muhlenberg, by accepting the individual, recognizes the person as a man and treats him as such. In every instance and in every contact you are recognized as a man and given the privileges and rights of manhood.

The Chapel Committee, however, is of the opinion that on the occasions when the announcements were made in chapel there were children and not men in the audience. If these students are college men, I assume that they will act as college men. If they are children then there is a need for other action. In assuming that students of Muhlenberg are mature, the Student Council expects them to act in a like manner at all times.

In your letter you state, "I am not standing in defense of inattention or disrespect..." and yet in my opinion you imply that because students are required to go to chapel they have a right to make noise. I say you imply this for I am telling students who wish to graduate and who need a satisfactory report in chapel to "stay away." But may I remind you I merely said that, "if you don't want to keep quiet here, you can stay away." As a man, as a college student, as a gentleman there is no excuse for the conduct of some "students" as has been displayed during recent chapel services.

At this point I should like to refresh your memory as to another statement I made in the address which stated that "no one has, nor will they ever, force anyone to worship in the Chapel." Should such a situation ever arise I would vehemently oppose this and do all I could to correct the situation. The truth of the matter as you so well know is, that no one is forced to participate. In my address to the students I further stated that out of common decency and respect for those who do come to worship the least that could be done by those not participating would be that they would, "keep your mouth shut and if you don't want to keep quiet here, YOU CAN STAY AWAY."

I know that it is only human to protest against compulsory duties. In my eyes the required chapel is merely another scapegoat for men who do not respond to restrictions. Some of the restrictions on campus take the form of limited cuts, compulsory physical education, Ethics, Bible, History 1 and 2, 3 and 4, English 1 and 2, 21 and 22, the Commons, ad infinitum, all share in these gripes.

Although I do not agree with your remarks I appreciate your informing Student Council of a situation of which it has long been aware.

Jew, Roman Catholic, Lutheran, Liberal Thinker, or any kind of thinker for that matter. Unfortunately, there are such human beings in every social and academic group and it is a necessary evil, I suppose, that we must live with them. But, the "True Toleration" of which Mr. Hettinger speaks when he reiterates President Seeger's, leaves no room for such intense distaste and repugnance in the thinking of intelligent students.

Thirdly, as a result of his observations, Mr. Hettinger proposes that the chapel attendance system be altered from compulsory to voluntary. I think this is wrong. It must be done only as a last resort. I invite Mr. Hettinger to consider the chapel period as if it were one of his classes, and thus a definite part of his education. At that, he is allowed to "cut" chapel many more times than, say, sociology or history. The potential intellectual values (which I say are the same as spiritual values, or should be, in this age of reason) of the chapel must not be underestimated and every student should be subjected to them.

At this point, I suspect that Mr. Hettinger's temper is about to force him to crumple this paper. Let me say to him, "Take heart! What I have to say now may please your little rebel soul." I believe that the other half of the problem does not lie in the system of chapel attendance but in the service itself (I am not referring to liturgy). I think the idea expressed by Mr. Hettinger of bringing men of other faiths and even "reason" philosophers to speak in chapel is an excellent one; and one that should not be found "unsatisfactory or obnoxious" to the Ministerium or Administration if they are to carry out their part in "true toleration." Above all, if the intellectual quality of the material presented in chapel is improved, the problem of inattentiveness would be alleviated. Notice again how this situation parallels and, I believe, is synonymous to that of the classroom. Better lecture material more active interest. My point can easily be illustrated by calling the students' and administration's attention to the increased student interest at ICL chapels. What is even more striking, the faculty came out of hiding and were seen in chapel en masse, more or less.

To conclude, the solution of inattentiveness in chapel must be solved through a concerted effort by the students, of course, and the speakers who should strive to present stimulating and challenging material. It will not be solved by changing the attendance from compulsory to optional. That would be the same as if the president of AKA Philosophical Fraternity would say, "Since we have disinterest among certain members, we will disband the society." If you will excuse the pun, such a procedure would lead to empty chapels for the old chorales. Mr. Hettinger's proposal of compulsory chapels for Lutherans only should be employed only if the above suggestion fails. I think it should not fail.

Together we must strive for QUALITY and intellectualism. And as long as there is a strong spark to kindle activity in classrooms, chapels, ICL, AKA, music, science, and other such endeavors; the so called "intellectual vacuum" on campus will, at best, be only a partial vacuum.

Socrates.

"meaningful pattern" of reaction. This is a good time for some self analysis. We have categorized ourselves by our reactions to a new thing... in this case, modern jazz. We have struck our colors, gentlemen. Put simply, the ignorant have scoffed. The intelligent have not, even though they may not have understood.

The pattern becomes meaningful when we find the same situation in other areas; philosophy, literature or what have you. In short, there is a lot of scoffing going on around here, not all of it audible, so let us take a quick look at ourselves and wise up already.

... Student Council Report ...

February 17, 1955

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on Feb. 17, 1955 at 8:45 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Neville, Schlittler, Quay, Paul, Baker, Adam, Wormley, Loy, Lauer and Wanczyk. Dr. Dierolf was Council's guest.

The minutes of the previous meeting were accepted as read.

CORRESPONDENCE:

A letter was received from the American Legion stating that they were not trying to interfere with Academic Freedom in the Chaplain movie incident.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Commons Committee—Mr. Wanczyk reported that the Snack Bar in the Student Center will be opened on Sundays as soon as basketball season is over.

Finance Committee—Mr. Paul stated that he had received only two budgets for second semester. All budgets are due by Saturday, Feb. 19. Mr. Quay moved that $62.50 be allocated to the special Leadership Training Committee. Mr. Adam seconded the motion and it carried.

Chapel Committee—Mr. Adam informed Council that the MCA has planned a six week program. All students are cordially invited to attend.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES:

Father's Day Committee—May 14th has been set as Father's Day. Mr. Lauer gave the tentative plans for the day. Dr. Dierolf was selected as adviser for the day's events.

Academic Freedom Committee—Mr. Quay reported that he sent a letter to Dr. Kirk, President of Columbia University, inviting him to be guest speaker at the Academic Freedom Program to be sponsored by Student Council.

OLD BUSINESS:

A meeting has been arranged with Dr. Reed to work over the Student Code of Conduct at Muhlenberg.

Mr. Quay suggested that the poles in the parking lot at East Hall be painted white.

An inquiry was made to find out whether or not electrical sockets had been placed in the Student Lounge.

NEW BUSINESS:

Parking violations were reviewed by Council and Mr. Lauer stated that two men would like to appeal their tickets. The matter was tabled until the next meeting. Mr. Adam moved that the rest of the violators be fined $1.00 per ticket. Mr. Baker seconded the motion and it carried.

Respectfully submitted,

Grapplers Travel To Wilkes, End Season

Coach Ernie Fellows and his wrestling aggregation will travel to Wilkes College on Saturday, February 26, to tangle with a rough team of coal miners.

When these same two teams met last year in Memorial Hall, the Mules came out on the short end of a 17-11 score. This was the season finale for both squads and both of them ended their schedules with identical records of five wins and four losses.

This year the Wilkes-men have defeated a number of the outstanding wrestling teams in Eastern Pennsylvania on their way to a more successful season than last year.

The eleven points scored by the Bergmen last year came on a pin by graduate 147-pound Middle Atlantic champion Al Billy and decisions by Frank Gutierrez and Marv Cressman. All the Wilkes wins were also by way of decisions with the exception of Mason's pin on Paul Billy. However, Billy with his added experience should be able to reverse this loss.

This match will again close the regular season, as the teams then go into the MASCAC tournament.

Mules Belt Hens, 21-13 Lose To Ursinus, 23-15

Saturday afternoon the Muhlenberg matmen grappled to a 21-13 victory over the Delaware Blue Hens. Frank Gutierrez and Paul Billy decided their opponents 5-2 and 7-0 respectively, while Don Grammes and Art Franzblau pinned their men. Ed Druckenmiller and Bernie Smith were pinned, and Bruce Francois was decided. Stu Godin won his match in the 130 pound class by forfeit.

Tuesday, the Muhlenberg matmen traveled to Ursinus and were downed 23-15. Gutierrez, Billy, and Grammes pinned their men, as the first five matches were won by Ursinus, four of them by pins.

The summaries:

123-pound class—Ed Dawkins, Ursinus, pinned Larry Paul in 1:41 with a cradle hold.

130-pound class—Al Palone, Ursinus, pinned Ed Druckenmiller in 3:20 with half nelson and body press.

137-pound class—Dick Padula, Ursinus, decided Art Franzblau, 7-0.

147-pound class—Dick Briner, Ursinus, pinned Don Tihansky in 8:35 with half nelson and crotch.

157-pound class—Don Knauf, Ursinus, pinned Bruce Francois in 1:15 with half nelson and crotch.

167-pound class—Frank Gutierrez, Muhlenberg, pinned Dick Heydt in 5:15 with body press.

177-pound class—Paul Billy, Muhlenberg, pinned Jack Townsend in 2:12 with keylock.

Heavyweight—Don Grammes, Muhlenberg, pinned George Auccott in 8:10 with body press.

Hungry Courtmen Seek Wins At St. Josephs, Lehigh, Gettysburg

With the success of Muhlenberg's basketball season hanging on the outcome of the next three games, it is almost a certainty that the Mules will go all out to accomplish a noticeable season record.

These next three games may be the most important of the season. If Birney Crum's hoopsters can down St. Joe's, Lehigh, and Gettysburg they will assure themselves a winning year, with at least 13 wins in their 25 games.

St. Joseph's (12-12)

St. Joe's will play host to the Mules at Convention Hall on Saturday, February 26. Berg previously downed the Hawks at Memorial Hall, 90-78. Thus far this year St. Joe's has not had a very imposing record and may be just what the Bergmen need to get them back on an almost forgotten winstreak.

Lehigh (8-9)

Very few Muhlenberg or Lehigh fans can forget the thriller which was played at Memorial Hall on December 13. Berg salvaged it, with less than a minute to play, 73-71. This time the Mules will journey to Lehigh to try to make it two for the season against the Engineers. The Brown & White recently downed Temple, 67-57. The game will start at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, at the Lehigh gym.

Adding to hindrance of the Bergmen is the fact that Ed Cahn, former Allentown High ace, has suddenly caught fire to lead the Engineers in the past few victories. The outstanding victory was a 65-55 win over Temple.

Gettysburg (7-10)

Next Thursday will see the Mules at Gettysburg. In their first encounter of the year, Berg reduced the Bullets to spent B's, 93-72. However, there is quite a rivalry between G-burg and the Mules and an interesting game can usually be expected.

The Bullets have likewise pulled a few upsets since their encounter with the Crum-men. Their upset over the midshipmen of Navy was probably their biggest win of the season.

Track Coach Expects Large Initial Turnout

Ernie Fellows, Muhlenberg track coach, stated in a recent interview that with a large turnout of upperclassmen and interested freshman he hopes to build a winning team for this year and the future. The request for candidates will be made at the close of the basketball season, which will be approximately March 14th.

Coach Fellows regrets the loss of last year's seniors, Don Landis, Tom Haney, and Jim Aslanis; but he looks forward to this year because of returning trackmen and new prospects. Returning sprinters for this coming season are Bobby Lee, Frank Lerro, Burt Pattison, and Don Tihansky. Lee and Tihansky also participate in the broad jumping. The other runners who are returning this year are John Keyser, Ed Kunkel and Eric Helsing in the middle distances, Bill Kynett in the quarter-mile, and Carson Schneck in the two mile. The field event men returning to Coach Fellows' squad will be Herm Zieger and Frank Jankowski in the pole vaulting events, Mel Strouse, Harlin Heere and Jankowski jumping the hurdles, Denny Roth and Harry Kreuzberg in the high jump, Ralph DeStefano and Dick Williams throwing the discus, Len Woodel heaving the shot put, and Jerry Zeiner pitching the javelin.

Hoopsters Drop Fourth Straight, 54-51, As Wildcats Freeze Court

Villanova's Wildcats froze the ball while the Mules were reluctant to break their zone defense, and as a result, the Bergmen dropped their fourth straight decision to Villanova, 54-51, in the Penn Palestra last night before a crowd of 3500.

Villanova took a commanding 10-0 lead early in the game, but very shortly the Mules found the range and took a 20-19 lead midway in the first half on Roth's two foul shots. They maintained this lead until a minute and a half remained in the half when Schafer sank his only field goal of the evening to give the Philadelphians a 33-32 lead. The first half score was 35-32, Villanova.

Exchange of Scoring Sprees

When the Villanovans returned for the second half, they were a much more alert and cautious squad. With the score 37-35, Devine led a scoring spree of twelve consecutive points to push the score to 49-35. However, the Mules were not finished. Roth led a Muhlenberg assault to break the lead down to 51-45 with little more than nine minutes to play.

Wildcats Freeze Ball

At this point, a worried squad of Wildcats put on a freeze which killed the chance for a Berg victory. A surprisingly pro-Muhlenberg crowd sat in wonder as the Crum-men waited patiently, as though spectators, for almost seven minutes. With two and a half minutes to be played, a man for man press was resumed. However, there was not sufficient time for the tireless Mules to win.

Schafer Bags 4

An outstanding feature of the game was Bob Schafer's inability to collect more than four points. Previous to the game, Schafer needed only 23 points to reach the select 2000 point distinction. John Wescoe and Gerry Neville did a commendable job of guarding him. Denny Roth was high scorer in the game with 21 points.

Jack Devine was high for the Villanovans with 18 markers.

In the preliminary game, Penn defeated a much improved Syracuse squad, 87-86, in a double overtime.

Two For Billy

Paul Billy gets the referee's signal, that he has garnered two points for his "reverse" over his Gettysburg opponent. The match ended in a 3-3 draw, but the meet ended in a 22-5 Gettysburg victory.

STEP RIGHT UP FOR LUCKY DROODLES!

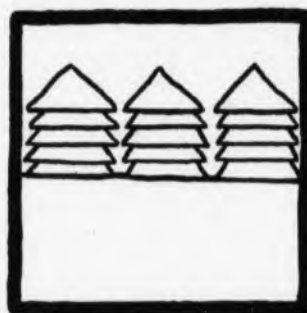

WHAT'S THIS? For solution see paragraph below. Droodle suggested by Robert Bardole, University of Florida.

ENJOY YOURSELF to the hilt whenever you smoke. Simply light up a Lucky and get Luckies' famous better taste. Luckies taste better for good reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. Now for the Droodle above, titled: Better-tasting Lucky smoke puffed by modern sculptor. Make a monumental discovery. Next time you buy cigarettes, try the better-tasting cigarette... Lucky Strike.

Varsity, Frosh Gridders Await Pre-Easter Football Workouts

"With good weather, spring football practice will begin the second week of March," says Coach Tom Triplett. He hopes to get the varsity practice over by the Easter Vacation, but the new boys will be kept on the field a week longer. Most of the spring practice will be devoted to the fundamentals of the game and basic plays.

Triplett, who is pleased with the freshmen moving up, feels that they will be of valuable assistance. Such freshmen as Dick Cornish, Buddy McCutcheon, Tony Caporale, and the Fried Twins, Barry and Bob, will back up the varsity squad in the coming season. Ernie Jackson who was considered a promising varsity man is no longer in school.

Only four men will be missing from the ranks of the team this year. They are Lee Hoffman, Pete Ascione, Ralph DeStefano, and Dick Fetherolf. Fetherolf was injured during the past season and did not see much action. Tony Saddler, who will be playing baseball, will not attend the spring practice.

Triplett stressed good weather. He knows the boys will work hard, but the weather must be good or it will cut the amount of time set for spring practice. Since the season opens with Lafayette, Albright and Rutgers, the practice will have to be good.

A welcome is offered to anyone who feels that he has football experience or likes the game enough to come out and run through the paces with the rest of the squad.

Athletic Policy Set At Trustee Meeting

On Tuesday the Board of Trustees approved a measure in the form of an athletic policy covering the recruiting of scholarship athletes, eligibility of athletes and related subjects.

The measure, which was formulated by a committee comprised of trustees, alumni, faculty, and administrative members reads at one part, "Our primary purpose is not to provide spectacles for the general public, but to educate our students." This measure will be subject to the approval of the faculty, who will indirectly enforce it.

I-M CORNER

After three weeks of inactivity, intramural basketball play was resumed on Monday night. The big win of the evening was recorded by the Alley Kats, who edged previously unbeaten ATO, 37-36. This upset was led by Bill Agee and Charley Farrell of the Kats who scored 17 and 11 points respectively while Ed Steiger paced the loser with 13 points. In another League II game, a well balanced GDI scoring attack paced by Don McNeil's 17 points was too much for the Sig Ep "B" team, who absorbed a 66-36 shellacking. Bob Taschner scored 11 points in a losing cause.

In League I activity the ATO "B" team trounced a weak Phi Sigma Kappa five, 53-33. O'Brien and Talmadge led the Alpha Tau Omega attack with 12 and 10 points respectively; Kloker garnered 8 for Phi Sig. Lambda Chi extended its winning streak to seven the easy way with a forfeit win over the Deucemen.

On Tuesday night Sig Ep was extended by the Hayseeds before winning a 41-40 thriller in the only League I activity of the night. Helsing and Postel tossed in 14 and 12 points respectively for the winners, while O'Connor paced the freshmen with 14 counters.

Explorers Rip Bergmen, 85-71; Greenberg, Gola, Gall Shoot 18

by Joel Pitman

The LaSalle Explorers, led by Tom Gola, once again defeated the Muhlenberg Mules at Memorial Hall last Saturday night by the score of 85-71.

The Explorers got off to a quick start and never relinquished the lead. At the end of the first quarter the score was 16-13. A foul shot and a field goal by Del Park closed the gap, but only temporarily, as Gola, Fran O'Malley, and Tom Maples each got a pair of field goals and Charlie Greenberg and Al Lewis one before the next Muhlenberg basket was scored by Cardy Gemma. The scoring continued evenly up to the end of the half with Lewis and Greenberg doing most of the work for LaSalle. The halftime score was 46-32.

Unsuccessful Second Half Try
The Mules tried to catch up as the second half began. Cardy Gemma scored two goals and Bobby Gall chimed in with four foul shots. Gall, incidentally, was given fourteen tries at the foul line and sank six of them. LaSalle grabbed the ball, went on a spree, and Berg never came close. The closest they got was a 76-69 score midway in the last quarter.

The big surprise of the night was the lack of scoring by Tom Gola. The All-American passed off beautifully and rebounded nicely and took only a few shots which netted him 18 points. Greenberg also played a nice game for the Explorers and his set shot gave him 18 points to tie Gola.

Gall High

Gall, who also had 18 points, was high for Muhlenberg and was closely followed by Cardy Gemma with 15 and Denny Roth with 14. Denny played one of his best games of the year, rebounding very well. Don Kurz played a good defensive game, guarding well against Gola.

Successful Freshmen Court Season Nears End Under Direction Of Coach Schmidt

Coach Dick Schmidt's freshman basketball squad is nearing the end of a successful season. Originally ranked the number one freshman team in the East, the Little Mules no longer hold that position, but are still in the top five in this sector.

Twin losses to LaSalle's yearlings and their loss to Lafayette's frosh are the only mars that the Little Mules' record shows. On the winning side Schmidt's men have defeated such teams as the Temple JV's, the freshman teams of Penn, Albright, Lehigh, and independents such as Brown Prep and Seton Hall Prep. They also defeated Lafayette's freshmen at home before Lafayette reversed this decision on their own court.

Future Varsity Material

The frosh are led in scoring by Frank Neely and Clinton Jeffries. Neely, who went to school at Stuyvesant High in New York City, possesses a dangerous repertoire of shots. He has a set shot and jump shot in addition to being a hard driver. Jeffries is a hard worker off the boards and is highly effective on the fast break. Both boys have averages near the twenty points per game. Jerry Diem, 6'3" forward with a twelve plus average, has also been a big man under the boards. Captain Denny Riordan along with Frank Vari combine to form a hustling back court.

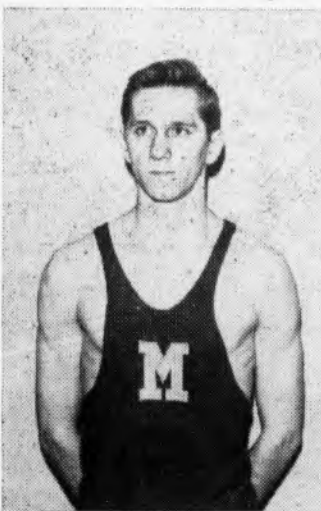

The remainder of the team is made up of Bill Dissinger, Bill Kile, Charles Takacs and Arnold Markoe. Bill Dissinger who has seen a lot of action this season has a deadly set shot. Bill Kile is a play-maker and hustler but along with Takacs and Markoe

Frosh Matmen Top Two Foes

The freshman wrestlers won their first two matches this past week, whitewashing Delaware's frosh, 20-0, and topping the Ursinus yearlings, 8-5. Chuck Canning won two falls in the 137-pound class. He pinned his Delaware opponent midway in the second period with a reverse chancery and body press. Bob Leighton pinned his man in 1:50 with a bar arm and body press in the Blue Hen match, but lost by a fall at Ursinus. 157 pounder Don Simpson pinned his Delaware opponent with a cradle hold, and came back to win a decision in the Ursinus match. Heavyweight Hank Fretz won a fall in the Delaware contest, completing the frosh sweep over the Blue Hens.

In The Spotlight . . .

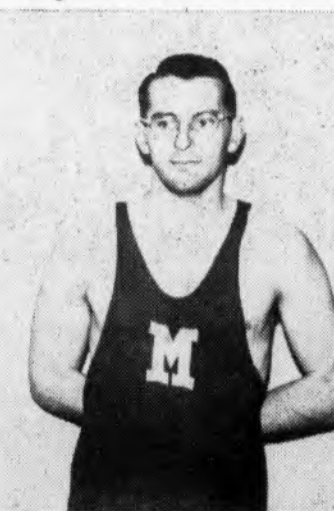

Larry Paul

Senior Larry Paul, wrestling in the 123-lb. class, has been a mainstay on the team for the past three years. Larry, with an overall 7-16 record at Berg, began wrestling in his sophomore year, and won fourth place in the Middle Atlantic competition in both his sophomore and junior years.

This season Larry won his last two matches giving him a 2-2 record thus far this season in Middle Atlantic competition.

Larry is a natural science major and expects to enter medical school after graduation. His activities include Ciarla, M-Club, secretary of the Pre-Med Club, and treasurer of the Student Council. Larry is also vice president of Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity.

Marv Cressman

Marv Cressman is one of Coach Ernie Fellows' outstanding wrestlers. He gained the number one position in the 167 pound class in his freshman year and has not relinquished this position, except when he has been out of action due to injury. Manning the goalie position on the soccer squad has enabled him each season to be in good physical condition for most of the school year.

Although Cressman plays two sports, he has been able to maintain a dean's list average in his pursuit of the medical profession. He has been accepted to Hahnemann Medical School.

Among his other extra-curricular activities are the Pre-Med Club and Omicron Delta Kappa. At the present time, he is also serving as vice-president of the senior class.

Speaking Frankly

by Frank Howard

The 1955 basketball season looms as just another fair year for the Muhlenberg Mules. Heretofore, we have avoided penning any criticism, fearing that we would be overly critical of the team and its coach. With but five games remaining on the schedule, the feeling in some court circles is that Muhlenberg's team may do no better than a .500 record.

In defense of the coach, let it be said that he has been dealing with an immature sophomore squad which lacks a great deal of experience. Earlier in the season, when the team was going strong, certain writers claimed that "within two years Muhlenberg will be one of the nation's top teams." And, these men were quick to amend: "Once the team earns sufficient experience and is indoctrinated into a new coach's system."

Reviewing the team's record, it is simple to note that the Bergmen have been unbeatable in their own class. Or, perhaps, they were superior to those teams which were unable to work a zone effectively. Immediately after the first LaSalle game practically every team employed a zone defense against the Mules. Maybe it was the coaching or the playing, but the boys weren't able to overcome the tight zone thrown against them.

Then, of course, it could be said of the basketball team, as it was said of the football squad, the boys seem to lose all spirit and initiative when they find themselves in a tough situation. And, a columnist last week claimed that it was the lack of school spirit which helped to defeat the team's ambitions.

Many man hours will be spent in private discussions lamenting the fate of the basketball team, both by students and local fans. Actually, neither the debaters nor this writer will be able to fully determine what was the fault of this year's squad. We could conclude this story with the usually suitable comment: Oh, well, next year they'll possess the experience and familiarity with the coach's system.

This may be true, but we must be quick to add: the coach will also have some outstanding ballhandlers from this year's freshman group and transfer students. We shall attempt no dire predictions . . . but . . . with Frank Neely, Clint Jeffries, Ed Emery and Ralph Ferrari eligible for varsity ball next year the coach should have a well-balanced team with his returning, experienced sophomores.

Sports In Short . . .

by John Keyser

One of Berg's opponents has received a tournament bid in the opponents court league, while three others in the lime-light are under consideration. Villanova's Wildcats, who lost to Duquesne last Saturday, 70-55, have already accepted their NCAA bid. Penn moved a step closer to representing the Ivy League in the NCAA tourney by trampling Cornell, 61-50.

La Salle or Lafayette?

NCAA's biggest headache right now lies in choosing Lafayette or LaSalle to represent the Middle Atlantic Conference. Both are 20 game winners but only one can be chosen. The Leopards have won 17 straight and have lost but two games compared to LaSalle's four defeats. However, the Philadelphians have tangled with much stiffer competition. Should LaSalle be offered the NCAA bid, Lafayette will more than likely receive an NIT offer.

Dutchmen, Greyhounds Win

La Salle's victory over Berg was its twentieth. Lafayette won number 20 against NYU, 99-71. Lebanon Valley won its seventeenth of the campaign against Albright, 87-61. Moravian's Greyhounds clinched a winning season with wins over Lycoming, 82-71, and Wilkes, 88-79.

Last Minute Surges

Lehigh, Gettysburg, and Delaware have made late season attempts to even their records. Lehigh has beaten Temple, 65-55, and Rutgers, 91-78, in a row, while Delaware boasts back-to-back wins over Ursinus, 96-66, and St. Joseph's, 78-75. St. Joe's won over St. John's on Saturday, 71-63, before having their win streak cut off by the Blue Hens. Gettysburg has won four of its last five games, the latest a 78-54 victory over Bucknell.

The Mules rank eighth of the 18 teams in the opponents loop:

1 Lafayette	20-2	.909
2 Penn	17-3	.850
3 La Salle	20-4	.833
4 Lebanon Valley	17-5	.773
5 Seton Hall	15-6	.714
6 Moravian	12-6	.667
7 Villanova	14-8	.636
8 MULES	10-9	.526
9 Temple	10-9	.526
10 St. Joseph's	12-12	.500
11 Lehigh	8-9	.471
12 Gettysburg	7-10	.412
13 Scranton	8-13	.381
14 F & M	4-7	.364
15 Delaware	6-12	.333
16 Albright	5-16	.238
17 Bucknell	2-15	.118
18 Rutgers	2-18	.100

Marine Captain Gives Program

Captain E. H. Utley, the Marine Corps Procurement Officer, will be at Muhlenberg College on Thursday, March 3, 1955, to discuss opportunities for students to earn a commission as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps. Captain Utley will also complete enrollments of those students who expressed interest during his first visit.

The Marine Corps offers two officer training programs to students here at Muhlenberg College. Seniors may be eligible for the Officer Candidate Course, and freshmen, sophomores, and juniors may be eligible for the Platoon Leaders Class.

Neither of these programs require specialized studies or drills during the school term. Training for members of the Platoon Leaders Class takes place during each of two summers. During the training, members receive $140 to $180, plus their food, uniforms, medical care, and transportation to and from the training camp located at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia. Enrollees receive commissions as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve after they have graduated from college. Under Selective Service Law, a member of the Platoon Leaders Class is deferred from induction until after graduation.

Seniors who enter the Officer Candidate Course are ordered to active duty after graduation and become second lieutenants upon successful completion of ten weeks of officer training at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia.

cerned with the attitude of Muhlenberg men as they face this question of responsibility as regards Christian activity on a campus level—the level on our campus.

Some people will contend that all men are innately good. I contend that we are all selfish, lazy and ignorant. I also contend that the attitude of the majority of us must change.

Some thinkers will agree with me. Some people will disagree with me, even radically, I suppose. But the vast majority will shake off even this indictment of their intellectual cowardness as does a duck with water on his back. Can I expect more?

Something must be done soon around this place. Will anyone do something about it?

Fellowship In Cuba Open To Graduates

Competition for the Father Felix Varela Fellowship for study in Cuba is open to American graduate students, it was announced today by Mr. Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

Offered by the Cuban-American Cultural Institute, the award honors the widely-known Cuban educator who lived more than half his life in the United States as auxiliary bishop of Baltimore and New York.

1955-56 Term

The fellowship is good for study at the University of Havana during the 1955-56 academic year.

Closing date for the competition is April 1, 1955. The award covers tuition and most maintenance expenses. The successful applicant must provide his own travel and have a fund for incidentals and other expenses.

Requirements

Candidates in the fields of philosophy, Spanish and Spanish-American literature, history, education, social sciences, and law are preferred. Preference will be given to students under 30 years of age not primarily interested in research.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens. Other eligibility requirements are: (1) a Bachelor's degree from an American college or university of recognized standing by the date of departure; (2) demonstrated academic ability and capacity for independent study; (3) good moral character, personality and adaptability; (4) good knowledge of Spanish; and (5) good health.

Applications may be secured from the United States Student Department of the Institute of International Education.

under which the club could operate.

The purpose of the club is "to further the interchange of ideas in economics and business administration." The club plans to invite various businessmen and economists to speak at its meetings. The club hopes to hold forums on current economic problems and plans trips to such business institutions as the New York Stock Exchange.

The Chowline

Nothing quite so controversial (in a quiet sort of way) has hit the campus since the Chapel ruckus as the well organized, smoothly operating intramural basketball league. Despite the facts that the participants always leave satisfied that they won or lost fairly, the school year, nevertheless, will have to be lengthened in order to complete this season's schedule.

Heard the Prom was really grand. General opinion ran to the effect that, "I never danced more in my life..." Dapper Art Mooney and "versatile" Park Frankenfield did a good job outdoing each other for the 300 odd couples in attendance.

Overheard some students the other day remarking about the reasonable prices of the Snack Bar's hamburgers and cheese sandwiches, "... certainly can't beat those hot cakes" was another student's comments relative to a Saturday morning's breakfast in the Commons.

At your request the snack bar in the Student Center will be open on Sunday mornings immediately after the basketball season. This will be a big help for those men who want to grab a bite to eat before running off to church. You asked for it, certainly hope you use it! Your suggestions such as this are appreciated and we will do our best to fulfill them when possible.

Tonight . . . In The Chapel

Tonight's organ recital "in the chapel" will be given by Dick Miller. This evening's concert, falling as it is at the beginning of Lent will be built around that theme. The recital is scheduled for 6:30. Immediately after the musical portion, the Lenten vesper series will begin with the Rev. Conrad Raker as the speaker for this first service.

Physicists Confer

Recently several Muhlenberg students attended lectures on advanced research at the New York City meeting of the American Association of Physics Teachers. The men attending also met with representatives of several companies looking for prospective employees.

A congress of representatives of 149 companies interviewed approximately 175 men.

Muhlenberg students found that people from other colleges were surprised at the number of Physics students here. Ohio State, for example, with an enrollment of 5000, graduates about 20 per year, while Muhlenberg now has 8.

Attending the meeting were Frank Federico, Frank Goebles, Fred Grosse, Paul Heiser, Tom Kelsall, Paul Long, Wally Loy, George Wachs.

Dance Scheduled For March 5

A dance will be held in Memorial Hall till midnight following the Muhlenberg-Bucknell basketball game on March 5. This is the last home game of the season and tickets have been set at $1.20 for general admission.

All female guests from Cedar Crest and the Nurses' Home will be admitted for $1.75. Tickets will be on sale at the respective institutions prior to the game.

through the cooperation of Chaplain Bremer.

The MCA has extended an invitation to all the members of the Muhlenberg community to participate in the Lenten program of the Christian Association.

Deutsche Verein Initiates

Nine Muhlenberg students and one faculty member were initiated into Der Deutsche Verein, honorary German fraternity, at an initiation ceremony held last Tuesday evening in West Hall.

The new members are Joseph S. Donchez, Richard F. Garman, Harlan C. Heere, Wolfgang W. Koenig, Herbert E. Meily, J. Marshall Reber, Terrence H. Pypuck, Howard L. Smith, Norman A. Walensky, and Professor Ludwig Lenel.

To become eligible for membership in the society, a student must be enrolled in German 22 and have had superior grades in prior German courses. Recommendation from members of the German department is also necessary for initiation.

has not seen too much action this year.

Coach Crum is undoubtedly looking forward to having such freshmen as Neely and Jeffries as well as some of the other frosh players on his varsity team next year.

Dr. Bremer To Preach MCA Vesper Sermons

Chaplain David H. Bremer will be the guest preacher for the second Lenten Vesper Service in the current series being sponsored by the Muhlenberg Christian Association each Thursday at 7 p.m. in the College Chapel during the Lenten season. An organ recital by Richard Manheim '56 will precede tonight's service.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 p.m. the MCA will travel to the Roman Catholic Church of St. Catherine of Sienna for a guided tour of the new one million dollar edifice. The MCA will also observe the Stations of the Cross and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament prior to the tour. Anyone desiring to go on this trip is requested to be present at the Student Center by 3:15 p.m.

To Present Play

An extensive program has been planned for the month of March by the MCA. T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral" will highlight the month's activities by the Christian Association. This performance has been scheduled for Wednesday, March 16, at 8 p.m. in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel. The play is being performed by members of the Mask & Dagger club under the sponsorship of MCA. Jim McCauley of M & D is directing the play with technical advice being given by Mr. William Kinter of the English Department.

Guest speakers at the MCA business meetings held each Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Student Center Club room include Dr. Russell Stine, leading a Bible Study on March 8; Mr. John Heyl of Allentown, giving an illustrated lecture on church architecture on March 15; Dr. Mildred Winston of the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church in America, giving a talk on summer work project of the Lutheran Church on March 22; and Mr. Ludwig Lenel, professor of Music, giving a talk on church music on March 29.

Rabbi to Lecture

Rabbi William Greenberg of Temple Beth-El in Allentown will give a lecture entitled "The Faith of the Jewish People" in the Student Center Lounge on March 23 at 7:30 p.m. Rabbi Greenberg will also speak to various classes that day as well as meeting with students at a Luncheon discussion in the Commons.

Other speakers during the remaining Vesper Services include Dr. Morris Greth on March 10; Rev. Richard Hoffert, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer in Allentown, on March 24; and Dr. Russell Stine, professor of Philosophy, preaching on March 31. Chapel Credit will be given to those students desiring it.

History Fraternity Sponsors Seminar

On Saturday, March 26, the Muhlenberg chapter of Phi Alpha Theta will sponsor the Northeastern Regional Conference of their national (history) fraternity. Muhlenberg, the host college, has invited eleven colleges to be represented at the conference including: Bucknell, Temple, Penn., Franklin & Marshall, Lafayette, Lehigh, Cedar Crest, Rutgers, Georgetown, Maryland, and Gettysburg.

The featured speaker at the all day conference will be Dr. E. Codrington, Professor of History at Lafayette College.

During the morning program representatives of four colleges will read papers they have prepared to the group. After a luncheon the afternoon's activities will be highlighted by a chapter business meeting.

Dr. J. Edgar Swain is faculty adviser for Phi Alpha Theta.

Phi Tau, Sig Ep Select Officers For Next Year

Phi Kappa Tau and Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternities elected officers last week for the coming year. Irving Thomas and David Michels were elected president at Phi Tau and Sig Ep, respectively.

Elected to the offices of vice president and treasurer at Phi Kappa Tau were Dennis Schwaab and Robert Wagner. Schwaab is a history major and Wagner a business major. The new president is a pre-medical student.

Bill Greenawald, a business major, and Ed Sproviero, a science major, were elected to the offices of vice president and secretary at Sigma Phi Epsilon. Leonard Boclair was chosen treasurer and Vincent Stravino, historian.

The term of offices at both fraternities runs for one year. All these elected are juniors except Boclair, who is a sophomore.

WUS Totals Released By Student Chairman

The World University Service Drive totals have been released this week by David Godshall, student chairman, after some delay because of the difficulty in collecting pledges.

Approximately 110 students contributed $131.25. This money has been sent to the headquarters of WUS in Philadelphia. It will be used to aid students in foreign lands so that they will be able to become leaders in their own nations. Godshall stated that the committee wishes to thank those who helped with the campaign and all those who contributed.

Included in this year's drive, as in past years, were the men in East and West Halls as well as the various social fraternities.

Carl Weinrich Plays At Sunday's Recital

This Sunday afternoon in the chapel at four o'clock, Carl Weinrich, world-famous organist, will present the fourth program of the Muhlenberg College Concert Series.

Weinrich, born in Paterson, N. J., studied music in New York, Philadelphia and Paris. As head of the organ department of the Westminster Choir College in the 1930's and as a teacher of organ at Wellesley College and Columbia University in the 1940's, he has trained many organists throughout the country.

Weinrich has served on the faculty at Vassar College and as a guest teacher at the University of Michigan. Since 1943 he has been university organist and choirmaster at Princeton University, where he conducts a male choir of eighty voices.

He has recorded and given many recitals of the great music of the pre-Bach period. Famous as a Bach-player, he is considered one of the three greatest living interpreters of Bach's organ music. At the same time, he has always been a champion of modern music. For

Lenel Hymns And Chorales Published In First Volume

"Sing Praise," composed by Ludwig Lenel—volume one of a two-volume collection of hymns and chorale settings—was published early last month by the Concordia Publishing House of St. Louis, Missouri. The second volume will be issued in a few months. Each volume will contain 13 anthems, partly accompanied, partly unaccompanied, and all based on hymns and chorales.

Also published were three chorale preludes in The Parish Organist, a collection of such works by old and contemporary composers. Early last year a Lenel motet, "From Depths of Woe I Cry to Thee," was included in the Contemporary Anthem Series published by Theodore Presser, Philadelphia, and three motets—"Oh Christ, Thou Lamb of God," "Christ Who Art the Light and Day" and "O Lord, Look Down From Heaven"—by Chantry Music Press of Fremont, Ohio.

Former publications include four organ chorales by Concordia, who will also bring out several organ compositions and two more anthems during the next year.

ICG Formulates Strategy For State And Regional Conventions

On February 24, at 11 a.m., the Intercollegiate Conference on Government held a formal meeting and discussed important items concerning the forthcoming state and regional conventions. Muhlenberg is one of the fifty-two colleges in Pennsylvania who are members of this student organization which takes over the state government in Harrisburg for a period of three days.

Dr. Robert H. Dilcher Addresses Pre-Meds

Dr. Robert Dilcher '34, addressed the Pre-Med Club on the subject of Urology at a meeting of that organization held last night in the Science Building. Dr. Dilcher, who graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical College, practices in Allentown.

At this meeting, more detailed plans for the club's trip to New York City, scheduled for May 4 and 5, were discussed. The group will stay at the Hotel Abbey. Arrangements have been made to visit Cornell University Medical School and the New York University Medical College. Money for the trip must be paid by April 15.

Notification was received of plans for the annual Lehigh Valley Pre-Medical Club's banquet which will be held at Moravian College on April 25.

Dr. John V. Shankweiler is the adviser to the club.

Post-game Dance On Saturday Announced By Student Council

Sam Rosenberger '55, Chairman of the Social Committee of Student Council, released the final plans for the joint Muhlenberg-Cedar Crest-Nurses Home dance to be held this Saturday evening, in Memorial Hall following the last home basketball game of the season. Bucknell University will be the opponent.

Mr. William Harrison

Business Group Hears Local Man

Mr. William Harrison, Personal Manager of Air Products Corporation of Allentown, will address the newly-formed Business Club tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the physics lecture room. His topic will be "How to Take an Interview."

Mr. Harrison attained his present position without the aid of a college education, although he has almost completed requirements for a degree in psychology from Temple University by studying evenings.

A reception committee consisting of Bill Greenawald, Peter Lord, Robert Wagner and Ronald Wix will meet Mr. Harrison and conduct him to the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house for the evening meal.

Officers of the new organization are as follows: Charles Trimpey, president; Adrian Cornelius, vice president; Jack McDonald, treasurer and Walter Buchfeller, secretary.

Music for this event will feature the Paul Sherr Combo. Dancing will begin immediately after the game ends and will continue until midnight. This event by the Social Committee culminates planning which had begun some weeks ago.

Girls from Cedar Crest and the Nurses Home will be admitted to the game for seventy-five cents. The special price has been arranged through the cooperation of the Athletic Office of the College.

Other dances will be planned during the semester should the response to this Saturday's dance warrant such action.

Eleven Area Students Attend LSA Conclave

Last weekend, five Muhlenberg students, along with six Cedar Crest girls and approximately 350 students from other colleges in the North Atlantic Region of the United States, met at Buck Hill Falls in the Pocono Mountains for a convention of Lutheran Students.

During the three-day meeting these students heard from several leaders of the church, both in mass meetings and in smaller discussion groups. The convention followed the general theme of "Prayer." In addition to these sessions there was ample time for fellowship which was in the form of informal singing, dancing, and hiking, to name a few.

Walter Rapp, Dale Rutter, Wally Reimet, Edgar Schick, and David Godshall attended the conferences as representatives of Muhlenberg College.

Sunday Meeting

On Sunday at 7:30 p.m. the Lutheran Student Association will meet in the Student Center. Those who attended the conference will attempt to bring the spirit of it to the local group. Also, the group will plan meetings to be held later in the semester including the preparation to elect new officers.

Annual Lehigh Valley Science Exhibit Scheduled For Memorial Hall In April

The Lehigh Valley Science Fair, an exhibition of projects by high school and 9th grade pupils, will be held again this year in Memorial Hall on April 20, 21, and 22. The exhibit is expected to attract 500 displays and approximately 20,000 visitors.

Pre-Law Club Plans Future Discussions

The John Marshall Pre-Law met on Thursday, February 24, in the Seminar Room of the Administration Building at 3 p.m. Presiding over the group was Donald Young who led discussion on suggestions for a speaker for the club on a future date. It was suggested that the club entertain a speaker who has recently graduated from college and who is now attending law school.

Dr. J. Edgar Swain, head of the history department and advisor to the Pre-Law Club gave an informal talk following the meeting. He outlined the various requirements necessary for the pre-law student along with the problem that the student faces in choosing a law school. Dr. Swain also answered various questions.

All students interested in joining the John Marshall Pre-Law Club have been urged to contact either Donald Young or Jon LaFaver.

Awards will include college scholarships, medals, two sets of the World Book Encyclopedia, more than 150 cash prizes, scientific equipment and trips to the National Science Fair in Cleveland in May.

Scholarship Eligibility Broadened

Eligibility for the scholarships—to Muhlenberg and Cedar Crest College—has been broadened this year to include any pupil who is an exhibitor and who has won six points in three years of competition. The colleges themselves will decide the scholarship recipients.

In the senior high school division there will be seven separate competitions with awards in each. They will include biology, human biology, conservation, chemistry, physics, engineering and physiography. In each classification there will be first place cash awards and silver medals for the top boy and girl, and cash awards for second and third place winners and for up to 15 who will be cited for honorable mention. In the junior division the same cash prizes will be awarded but there will be up to 30 honorable mention prizes.

Forty Attend Band Banquet

Mr. Albertus Meyers, director of the Allentown High School Band, and the Allentown Band, was the speaker at the annual band banquet, held last evening at the Wil-lows. Approximately forty persons attended. Mr. Meyers spoke on how the Muhlenberg Band could be improved.

Honored guests were Dr. J. Conrad Seegers and Dean Henry M. Richards.

Fred Grosse, band president, commented: "I feel that we had a good year and with the return of a large group of underclassmen we can hope for a band of approximately forty pieces next year."

Editorial Views . . .

Professor's Views . . .

It's rather easy to criticize people in command. Privates complain about sergeants, office workers complain about bosses, students complain about professors. Some of us present opinions aimed at professors in general, and it's unfortunate that this is done so often, for it shows ignorance on the part of the moaner. The only thing most professors have in common is that they are individuals.

This paper feels that we have many good men on our faculty. If you disagree with this opinion, pick up a copy of the local paper and you will see that Allentown feels much the same way. The books they have written, their interests, their hobbies—all point up the fact that there is some good in college professors, regardless of student opinion.

Next month, the WEEKLY will start a series of faculty interviews. The purpose of these columns will not be to have the professors prove themselves to anyone (as they do not have to do this), but rather to give them more of a voice in the college newspaper and to give us, as students, their viewpoints on several subjects pertaining to the college community.

Dr. Victor Johnson will be the first of the faculty to have his views printed this semester and he will write on the subject—well, just watch for it next month and read it. His and the following ones will, we think, bear out our opinion that too many students fail to utilize what they have, no matter how good it really is.

D.A.M.

Student Court . . .

Approximately a month and a half ago, as the college was emerging from its Charlie Chaplin fracas, there was an editorial on the first page of this paper in which the WEEKLY asked for a clear-cut policy from the administration insofar as cheating was concerned. In fairness to the Dean and his associates we might say that such a program was in the final stages of completion at that time, although the student body knew nothing of it. Since that time, a clear-cut program has not only been completed but has been successfully used in six cases of cheating reported to Dean Richards.

As it now stands, the plan calls for a student court which tries the cases and gives its decision to the dean. The court consists of men recommended by the student-faculty committee on academic procedure and can be added to at the Dean's discretion. The decisions which are reached by this group of students will be used in entirety by the Dean unless there is a serious conflict of opinion. The latter situation has thus far not presented itself.

Looking at this program as Muhlenberg students, we can see its merits with little difficulty. Being heard and sentenced by men of his own age insures to each student the fullest degree of understanding. All the campus influences which enter into a man's actions are well known to the court members. But more important, if it is possible, than this closeness of students, is the administration's attitude which is manifested in this newly-initiated plan. It represents an even greater confidence in the student body than we have seen previously. As mentioned in this column during the past two weeks, greater use of the responsibilities which we can capably assume insures continuous growth for our campus community and for ourselves as individuals.

by Jim Strine

What should the WELL-DRESSED COLLEGE MAN wear? We seem to have various types of dressers represented on campus. For instance, there's Sloppy Sam, who doesn't give a hoot about what he wears and thus is frequently mistaken for a local garbage collector; there's Perky Pete, whose new clothes and flashy combinations would make Esquire's fashion editor jealous; there's Color Craze Charlie, who's never lonely—his clothes talk to him; and, of course, we dare not forget "The Hat" Harry—no matter what goes on his head, if it fits, it's a hat.

A cross section of our students gave the following replies to the question, "What type of clothing do you think should be worn on the average school day?"

Jim Patterson, '57: "I think a good pair of slacks or flannels and a sport shirt is the most comfortable type of dress for school wear. If khakis or dungarees are worn, they should be freshly laundered and pressed, for sloppy clothes are disrespectful to both your fellow students and your professors. Of course, a rainy day makes older clothes quite acceptable."

Jim Holben, '57: "We college students shouldn't dress too formally for classes, because white shirts and ties are both uncomfortable and expensive. Muhlenberg has a sort of precedent for wearing informal clothing—this is very satisfactory. After all, the education is the important thing."

Jay Mount, '58: "Casual clothes like khakis, white bucks, and sport shirts are fine for everyday wear. White shirts and ties are usually unsuitable because of the warm classrooms and because, for science men, labs are pretty rough on them. Besides, we may as well take advantage of our old clothes before the girls come!"

Don Fio Rito, '57: "I don't think it is necessary to wear white shirts and ties; khakis and sport shirts are suitable for the average schoolday, while tee shirts, overalls, and sweat shirts are unfit for classroom use. I think a teacher is certainly aware of the clothing his students wear."

Buddy McCutcheon, '58: "In an all-boys school like this, the clothing the fellows wear now is O.K. When coeds arrive, clothing styles will change somewhat, as will the shaving habits of many of us."

Don Smith, '57: "Here at Muhlenberg the administration has shown faith in our judgment of clothing and does not insist on suits for classes as some colleges do. On the average schoolday, the clothing I think should be worn would consist of slacks, or the tan or gray washable pants, and a sport shirt. Dungarees and tee shirts have no place in the classroom."

Do You Agree With These Opinions About The Chapel Question? Or Don't You Care?

To the Editor:

Two weeks ago there was dispatched to you an open letter to Mr. Adam, written with the purpose of expressing my opinion and of arousing student opinion on the existing chapel system here at Muhlenberg. Unfortunately not all the opinion has been sounded out and with a minor exception I must disagree with that expressed last week.

To begin with, the purpose of my initial letter has been misconstrued as being a panacea for the ills of a sick chapel system, outmoded, inefficient and inequitable. I NEVER stated that my opinion was the ONLY opinion or that it was to serve as a cure-all, since this cannot be expected from one man or small group of men, but must of necessity be done through group co-operation. This was interpreted falsely by the writers of last week and, I hope, without maliciousness. I have endeavored merely to start a formation of opinions either pro or con on the question so that it can come to a vote of the student body, so that council can follow the mandate of its electorate.

At Muhlenberg we are supposed to have a democratic society, which the members, at least, OUTWARDLY, accept the rules and regulations set forth when they enter into that society. However, when those rules and regulations become destructive to the greater ends of the college (or even of the society) and merely serve to inhibit the individual members, such inhibition causing rebellion of any sort, then, "It is the right of the people to alter . . . it (government) and to institute new (government) laying its foundations and organizing its powers, as to them shall seem most likely to effect . . . their happiness." What is stated here for government applies to these rules and regulations.

I reiterate, I am not defending the inattentiveness etc., nor am I saying that in the case of some students this is not an innate flaw, but I am stating (and these words, undoubtedly unclear before, were twisted last week) that as long as his system exists then the consequent rebellion MUST be expected. I AM NOT SANCTIONING it. I exhort the men of Muhlenberg to co-operate, but I also seek co-operation from Student Council, to find out exactly what the men of Muhlenberg do think of this system. If they, in an open vote, favor the existing system, I will be glad to submit to their will and will publicly retract my former statements; if they oppose the system, I think it only obvious in this democratic society, that council act in accordance with their wishes to find some solution, suitable not only to the students, but to everyone concerned. I have never heard of a democratic society which didn't have the right to question and put on trial the rules and regulations under which it is governed. Last year Student Council brought the Honor System before the student body for its approbation, now let Council bring the chapel question before the students and let the decision, as with the Honor System, be rendered democratically, not having protests ignored and sloughed off authoritarianly.

Several letters last week stated, in effect, that 'you knew the rules when you came to Muhlenberg, so either get out or accept them and shut up.' This is in part a truism. The rules were known by me and others when we came here. But THE MERE EXISTENCE OF THESE RULES DOESN'T SERVE TO MAKE THEM PROPER, RIGHT, EFFECTIVE, OR EQUITABLE. Unfortunately these rules have not changed rapidly enough, in my opinion, to keep pace with the changing needs of the college society. Therefore, something SHOULD be done—I did make some suggestions.

Since, as was stated last week, I am here at Muhlenberg, it must mean that I accept those rules. To his I answer, that I will accept (Continued on Page Six)

To the Editor,

I have read most of the letters to the Editor concerning Mr. Adam's command, " . . . YOU CAN STAY AWAY." I do not wish to deprive big John of the freedom of speech (which, if taken from him, would make our basketball and football games quite humdrum events), but I would like to remind him that the college HAS a chapel system that nearly every student must attend, whether he likes it or not.

My opinion is, when you force a man to attend a religious service of any sort, there can be no guarantee of his maintaining total silence and/or reverence.

Granted, we are supposed to be mature enough to have the proper attitude in various places, but we have enough of the—pardon the expression—Devil in us that makes us rebel at anything which is forced upon us, whether it be chapel attendance, getting up for an 8 o'clock class Monday, or writing a long theme by Friday afternoon.

I think the whole question of attending or staying away from chapel is trite, as there is nothing the student can do about it except attend the required number of times. Socrates, Plato, Plutarch, and any other pseudo-philosophers are free to toss around theoretical questions all they like, but there are so many practical problems to be worked out that this entire ludicrous series seems to have lost whatever merit it may have had. "STAY AWAY . . ." huh? Sure, you can! "YOU CAN STAY AWAY!" IF YOU DON'T WANT A DIPLOMA . . .

Omar Deplores New Rules; Predicts Many Nasty Things

by Omar Kayam

First, they deprived man the right to drink from the fruit of the vine!

Now, they deny man the opportunity to inhale the exotic perfume of the nicotine weed!

Next, they will probably sanction mankind for partaking of a cup of Brazil's only major export!

Then, they will claim this world is no longer a house of frivolous enjoyment and of unadulterated vice, but it is, rather, a world free of pleasure.

It is conceivable that mankind can admirably lament the loss of the mermaid without too much slobbering and soon find other sources of vicarious living. But then, as he sits squat-fashion contemplating his fate and listening to an exponent of the cancer-causing pleasure, the rich-ers-men decide that he can no longer support the Ligget and Myers people. Man can control the nicotine-caused convulsions and can bear the parched tongue.

Then, the boom will be lowered again, probably! The coffee-hour break will be shortened to the point where all the free-loving English majors can order only a coke. Man will be driven to places like Morris' Hideaway where peers, chewing gum and tea will be served without question.

It is for the free men of the world to revolt against the enslavement of pleasure. Gad! Eventually, next to the AA, there will be Cancer Havens and Coffee Prohibitionists. Mankind will no longer be permitted to enjoy the thrills of life; he will probably have to be content with spiked-punch (when Big Brother isn't looking), candy cigarettes, and milk!

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

Contrary to popular rumor, this column has not been suppressed by pressure from the philosophy department. Its three-issue absence can be attributed to lack of initiative . . . and listen, youse wise guys on campus that knock this column . . . I got news. It's not compulsory, and if you don't like it, "YOU CAN STAY AWAY!!!"

We hear from HOWIE "THE PROMOTER" FRANK that KERM GREGORY has ascended high enough in the ranks of local radio work that he is being pestered for his autograph. When asked for a statement regarding this sensational bit of news, KERM scowled darkly and snarled, "If you don't like it, YOU CAN STAY AWAY!"

It is being booted about the locker room set that BOBBY GALL of b-ball fame is taking the coward's way out and has become engaged.

Anyone who remembers the series of movies made some years ago under the titles of "The Little Rascals" and "Our Gang Comedies" may be interested to know that they have been exhumed and are being shown on Channel 3 each weekday night at six. They are very funny movies and, as far as we know, the American Legion never even heard of them. So tune them in some night, and remember, if you don't enjoy them, YOU CAN STAY AWAY.

SAM HERRMANN, well known ex-physics major and former co-writer of this blurb, writes from Houston, Texas that he is having a ball in the Air Force Cadet program there, but that "my literary genius is deteriorating at an alarming rate."

As usual, the pre-Spring thaw is bringing its share of weird carryings-on. Here's an interesting little vignette from over ATO way. It seems that CARL TROLLINGER and his roommate ED STEIGER have been making themselves as popular as the Black Plague lately by reason of the cute little boyish pranks they have been pulling around the place, usually involving considerable damage to life and property. Well it further seems that one PETE LORD was near the breaking point and he decided to wreak a little revenge.

He waited for his chance to strike hard and swiftly, and the other night, when CARL and ED left for a brief diner seminar, PETE entered their room and prepared to destroy all semblance of order at his leisure during their absence. Unknown to him, however, when the two fun-lovers were pulling away, they noticed the light go on in their room. They parked the car and crept upstairs, and while he was throwing things around in their room, they snuck into his room and raised twice as much hell with PETE'S furniture, clothes, and belongings. When PETE finished his stunt, he came out of their room cackling fiendishly and rubbing his hands in glee. Now for a real laugh, just try to picture the look on his face when he opened the door to his own room. Who said the good guys always win?

Varied Courses Given In Vienna

The University of Vienna Summer School at Schloss Traunsee, Gmunden, Austria, will offer courses open to American students from July 25 to September 4, 1955.

Designed to promote better understanding between Europeans and Americans, the curriculum features beginning, intermediate and advanced German courses and courses in Austrian art and music, the formation of the modern European mind, and the history of Middle Europe. Psychology, political science and law are also offered.

Closing date for admission is June 15, 1955. Closing date for scholarship applications is April 18, 1955.

Applicants for these awards or for general admission should write to the Institution of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

College Board Of Trustees Formulates First Codified Public Statement Of Athletic Policy

On February 22, the Muhlenberg Board of Trustees approved the College's first codified statement of athletic policy. The statement, which will now be forwarded to the faculty for further approval was formulated by a committee comprised of trustees, alumni, faculty members, and administration officials. Specifically, they are Mr. Russell Fulford, and Dr.

Clifford Trexler; Mr. George Feldman and Mr. John Metzger; Dr. George Barndes, Dr. Truman Koehler, and Mr. George Lawson; Dean Henry M. M. Richards and President J. Conrad Seegers.

The purpose of the committee was to study the whole problem and arrive at a statement concerning the purpose of athletics and basic principles which should underlie the program.

Operation Costs

Discussions necessarily dealt with many phases of the operation of the College. The cost of the operations especially were considered. In discussing this it was suggested, at various times, that the College drop football. In opposition to this it was pointed out that if this were done the College would encounter some difficulty in scheduling basketball games. Many colleges do not desire to schedule opponents in only one sport.

In this connection the committee said flatly in its opinion, whether football was dropped or not, the College should by no means endeavor to become a basketball power, or become known as a "basketball school." This would at once put us in company which we should not desire to enter.

Thus the formalized policy, as it was approved by the Board, shows little variance with the main concepts of athletic's place at Muhlenberg as it has been perceived in the past. The main purpose is, according to Dr. Seegers, "to clarify our position, and much is a reiteration of procedure already in effect."

In regard to the actual mechanics of the program, the report stated:

"There shall be a director of athletics, elected by the board of trustees upon nomination by the president

"There shall be an Athletic Council, composed of at least three trustees, at least three alumni representatives, the Director of Athletics, at least three other faculty members, and the President of the College.

"The Council shall exercise jurisdiction over schedules, property and budgets, eligibility and awards, and personnel.

"It shall, subject to actions of the Board of Trustees, be responsible for presenting to the Board of Trustees through the President, recommendation concerning athletic policies; recommending a budget; recommending appointment or reappointment of personnel; presenting to the Board of Trustees an annual report on all matters pertaining to athletics.

Principles Accepted

Five general principles were accepted:

1. "There is to be no discrimination in admissions standards in reference to athletes, or in the application of academic standards after admission.
2. "Eligibility for participation in intercollegiate athletics is to be predicted upon good academic standing. To participate a student is to be required to make normal progress toward his degree. The faculty regulations concerning probation are to govern eligibility.
3. "All scholarship and other aid is to be granted and controlled by the Faculty Committee on Scholarships and Aid, and is to be awarded on the basis which apply to all students.

A student not maintaining satisfactory academic status may forfeit all or part of aid granted. The Faculty Committee on Scholarships and Aid will have jurisdiction over this.

4. "ECAC and NCAA standards are to be observed.
5. "In most instances, aid will be confined to tuition grants. Other aid is to be based upon need."

The report further recommended that we attempt to build schedules in accordance with this policy. Steps have already been taken in this direction, but it must be understood that this requires time, because schedules are made two or three years in advance.

The committee further stated that it recognized the fact that the College is attempting to improve its admissions standards and has already improved them considerably. It approved this step and asked that there be no favors for athletes.

The problem of having aid offered athletes, not through the College, but by individuals who are interested in athletics, was discussed more or less academically. Such practice would be a direct violation of the ECAC code, and for that reason as well as for reasons of principle is not to be permitted.

... Student Council Report ...

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on February 24, 1955 at 8 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Adam, Ascione, Neville, Schlittler, Quay, Loy, Rosenberger, Lauer, Spohn, Paul, Wormley, and Wanczyk.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Social Committee—Mr. Rosenberger stated that a dance will follow the Bucknell basketball game on March 5th. Tickets rates for the game will be reduced for dates.

Finance Committee—Mr. Paul reported that seven budgets have been submitted to him by various campus organizations.

NEW BUSINESS:

Parking violation tickets were presented to Council and Mr. Loy moved that the men be fined. Mr. Lauer seconded the motion and it carried.

It was reported that revisions to the student regulations in the M-BOOK are being made by Dr. Reed, Mr. Schlittler, and Mr. Adam.

Mr. Quay made a formal request for the Cheerleaders. He moved that Council allocate $50 for the Cheerleaders with $45 to be spent for a banquet and the remainder for the cleaning of the uniforms. Mr. Lauer seconded the motion. Mr. Adam moved to amend the motion and insert the figure $35 instead of $50. Mr. Rosenberger seconded the amendment. Upon the call for question, the amendment was defeated and the original motion carried. There was a definite minority against the motion.

Mr. Loy moved for adjournment. Mr. Lauer seconded and the motion carried.

Dr. Shankweiler Makes Call For Tennis Players

Coach John V. Shankweiler in a recent interview concerning the coming tennis season expressed his desire that all interested tennis players contact him in his office as soon as possible. He would like to have the list of candidates complete by Wednesday, March 9.

This year's tennis team will suffer greatly by the loss of most of the top players from last season. With only three returning men from last year's starting squad, Mike Egan, Jay Krevsky, and Al Szwczak, Shankweiler is looking for upperclassmen to fill the vacated positions. He would like to remind all those interested that freshmen and transfers who have not been at Muhlenberg two complete semesters are ineligible for this season's competition. However, those players who fall into the above-mentioned categories are welcome to come out and practice in preparation for next year.

Coach Shankweiler has also stated that he will try to have a net set up in Memorial Hall after the basketball season for pre-season tennis practice.

Chess players, from professionals on down! If you would like to take part in a match against chess players from Western Electric, attend a meeting to be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the English Office. If you would like to participate but cannot make the meeting, see Mr. Chatfield.

Delaware Is Host For 1955 Wrestling Meet

Plans for the 1955 Middle Atlantic Wrestling Championships to be held at the University of Delaware on March 4 and 5 have been completed, Alden H. Burnham, meet manager and Delaware wrestling coach, announced. "This will be one of the most significant sports events of the year at Delaware," Burnham stated.

The championship event, pitting the best wrestlers from Bucknell, Delaware, Gettysburg, Haverford, Lafayette, Muhlenberg, Swarthmore and Ursinus, will be held at Delaware for the second time in the history of the university.

The preliminary rounds will be held in Carpenter Field House on Friday, March 4, at 8 p.m. The eight entries in each of the weight classes will be paired in a seeding meeting of coaches and school officials scheduled for Friday afternoon at the Newark campus.

Winners of the three-round Friday preliminaries will then be pitted in the semi-finals at 2 p.m., Saturday, March 5. After the consolation events at 7 p.m., March 5, the finals for the eight Middle Atlantic Collegiate Wrestling titles will be held at 8 p.m., Saturday, on the floor of Carpenter Field House.

Dave Nelson, Delaware director of athletics and head football coach, is the meet director.

The wrestlers from the seven visiting schools will be weighed-in at 3 p.m., Friday, with no allowance for weight over the maximum limit of the specified classes. A second weigh-in, scheduled for 9 a.m. on Saturday, permits a one-pound weight allowance.

Each of the eight member colleges must enter a full team of wrestlers in the eight different weight divisions. Failure to enter a man in any weight class will

Cagers End Season With Bullets, Bisons And Hens

Muhlenberg looks to the end of its season with a better than .500 record. The Bergmen must face Gettysburg away, Bucknell home, and Delaware away, for their last games of the season.

Tonight, the Mules will entrain for Gettysburg to give the Bullets a chance to avenge the 93-72 beating they absorbed at Memorial Hall. The Bullets made a rather poor showing in their first dozen games, winning three and losing nine. However, they have come back to win five of their last seven contests, and should give the Mules a much rougher battle than in the February contest. The top point-getter for Gettysburg is Bill Snyder, who is averaging around the 20 point mark and has blossomed into a real star. Joe Lang is also a steady ballplayer who averaged 13.1 points a game last year. Jack Keller has played varsity ball for three years and is the top rebounder of the squad.

Bucknell Bisons

The Bucknell Bisons come to Muhlenberg this Saturday. The Mules hold a 96-74 win over the Bisons this season. Bucknell, weak in defense, threw up a good zone defense against the Mules, and for a short time confused the Crum-men. Joe Bacelli, scoring ace of Bucknell, was held to 12 markers, but the game's high scorer, with 19 points was Norm Voorhees. Voorhees and Bacelli are both dangerous offensive threats. Big John Beatty is a good rebounder while Mike Corrigan and Marty Tannenbaum, two hustling sophomores round out the squad.

Delaware Blue Hens

In their final game of the season, the Mules travel to Newark, Delaware, to play the Delaware Blue Hens on Wednesday. Delaware is at the end of a fair season. They have been plagued by bad luck and a low shooting percentage. Co-captain Don Miller, who was Little All-American quarterback for the Hens' football team, is playmaker, and is an all around hustler. Peter Kelleher, 6' 4" forward, is the other co-captain. He is hard to stop on a two-handed jump shot, and was the team's second highest scorer last year. Jack Waddington is another consistent scorer and Bob Messick will have to be guarded closely. Dallas Green at 6' 4" is a good rebounder and scorer also.

Basketballers Beat St. Joseph's, 87-80

Coach J. Birney Crum took his team of Mules to Convention Hall in Philadelphia last Saturday night for a tilt with St. Joseph's and returned home with an 87-80 victory. The win was the eleventh of the year for the Bergmen and snapped a five game losing streak. It was also the second win over the St. Joe's five—the only Philadelphia squad the Mules have been able to handle this year.

Gall, Roth Star

Bobby Gall and Denny Roth again shared the offensive punch as Gall poured 21 points through the hoop and Roth accumulated 20 points primarily on tap-ins. Roth also took charge of the rebounding responsibilities throughout the game.

This was the preliminary game of a double-header. In the second game, La Salle edged a 59-57 victory over Temple.

IFC Bowling

Each year the inter-fraternity council supports a bowling league consisting of six teams—one from each of the social fraternities. The schedule for 1955 got underway yesterday afternoon when all six teams were busy knocking over the pins.

The results of yesterday's action were:

ATO won 3 games over SPE.
PKT won 3 games over PSK.
PEP won 3 games over LXA.

League standings:

	W	L
Alpha Tau Omega	3	0
Phi Kappa Tau	3	0
Phi Epsilon Pi	3	0
Lambda Chi Alpha	0	3
Sigma Phi Epsilon	0	3
Phi Sigma Kappa	0	3

Phi Kappa Tau has won the interfraternity championship for two consecutive years, and may retire the trophy this year.

I-M CORNER

The M-Club rode to its eighth straight triumph at the expense of Sigma Phi Epsilon, 45-37, on Monday night. Bill Keeny with 13 points and Ken Reinhart with 11 paced the letter winners, while Helsing and Postel matched these two with 12 apiece for Sig Ep. In the other League I game of the night the Deuce-men, with DeMartini leading the scoring with 21 points edged the Hayseeds, 47-44.

In League II, the Cardinals completely outclassed the Knights, 75-27, and the GDI's nipped Phi Tau, 32-28, in a low scoring contest. Ray Croft tabbed 22 points to lead the high scoring Birds and Don McNeil of the GDI's was high scorer in the second game with 16 markers.

On Tuesday night, ATO edged Phi Epsilon Pi, 46-44, in a hard fought contest, thereby dropping the latter squad from a share in first place in League II. The consistent scorers, Marc Strausberg of Phi Ep and Ed Steiger of ATO, again paced their teams with 19 and 17 points, respectively. The Alley Kats, riding the crest of a seven game winning streak, administered a 76-28 drubbing to Sig Ep's "B" team. The high scoring triumvirate of Farrell, Agee, and Wasmuth scored 25, 23, and 20 respectively to lead the Kats.

Two forfeits were registered in League I as Lambda Chi picked up its second straight forfeit win when the All Stars could not field a starting five and ATO's "B" team also picked up a charity win over the absent Deuce-men.

League play closes on Thursday evening with playoffs scheduled to be held next week. The two top teams in each league will meet in a playoff with the two winners

HAVE A LITTLE FUN when you smoke. Enjoy yourself. Give yourself the pleasure of a better-tasting Lucky Strike. The enthusiasm often inspired by Luckies' famous better taste is illustrated in the Doodle (right) titled: Alphabet soup for Lucky smoker. So why stew over what cigarette to smoke? Luckies' taste is letter-perfect. After all, L.S./M.F.T.—LuckyStrike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better... cleaner, fresher, smoother. When you light up, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette... Lucky Strike.

Foil Facts . . .

by Jim Patterson

The purpose of this article is to inform sport fans, to a small extent, what fencing and a fencing match really is. Although cursory, the report does set forth the simple rudiments of the sport.

Fencing originally began as practice for actual deadly duels and military use. Later, when the rifle and pistol replaced the sword as the predominant military and personal sidearm, fencing became a sport.

The term "fencing" covers the use of three weapons: the foil, the epee (or dueling sword), and the saber.

Foil

The foil is a weapon whose blade is rectangular and tapers to a blunt point. The standard length of the foil blade is 35" from the guard to the point. The guard protects the hand and is usually round and 4" in diameter. The foil is the basic weapon of all fencing.

The target in foil fencing is the torso, from the upper edge of the collar to the groin lines. In match competition, five valid touches are needed to win the bout. A touch is attained by a thrust, which is a straight lunge with the point.

Coach John V. Shankweiler has issued a call to all prospective varsity tennis players. Anyone desiring to tryout for the team is urged to report to the coach's science office on, or before Wednesday, March 9. However, freshmen and transfers who have not attended Muhlenberg for two complete semesters are not eligible. Remember, the deadline is March 9.

Epee

The epee, contrary to popular belief, is the youngest of the three fencing weapons. Although the original weapon, known as the rapier, was used in actual dueling for centuries, present day epee fencing is less 70 years old.

The epee has a great resemblance to the foil, the chief differences being a large (5½") bell guard and a heavier, less flexible blade which is triangular in cross section.

The target in epee consists of the entire body, head to toe. Formerly one touch was sufficient to win a bout but now three touches are required. A "touch" in epee is the same as in foil, only a thrust with the point is valid.

Saber

Saber fencing is the most spectacular and attractive of the three weapons. While touches with the foil and epee must be made as thrust, in saber both thrusts and cuts (or slashes) count as scoring points.

The modern saber is light and does not exceed 18 oz. in weight. The standard length of the blade is 34" from guard to point. The blade has a triangular cross section and tapers to a blunt point. The forward edge of the blade is the "cutting edge." The guard looks somewhat like that of the epee with the addition of a curved extension of the bell which is connected to the end of the handle.

The valid target comprises all parts of the body above the hips. Five touches (cuts or bruises) are needed to win a bout.

A fencing match is composed of three rounds. Each round features all three weapons and each man fences one bout per round. There are three men who represent their team in each weapon. Therefore, each round is made up of nine bouts and a match of 27 bouts and, thus, 27 points. In each round the fencers alternate and, therefore, each man faces every man from the opposing team, in his particular weapon.

A fencing match, when understood, is interesting to watch. Why not see what it is really like this Saturday at 2 p.m. when Muhlenberg meets a New York business club?

Gutierrez, Billy Triumph; Wilkes Drops Berg, 22-8

Last Saturday afternoon, the Muhlenberg matmen traveled to Wilkes and lost their last meet of the season, 22-8. The overpowered Berg wrestlers claimed two victories in the match as Frank Gutierrez won his 10th straight by decisioning his man 4-3, while Paul Billy pinned his man in 3 minutes and 23 seconds.

Summaries:

123-pound class—Sugar, Wilkes, decisioned Paul, 12-0.

130-pound class—Morgan, Wilkes, pinned Druckenmiller in 5:36 with a body press.

137-pound class — Reynolds, Wilkes, decisioned Franzblau, 7-0.

147-pound class — McFadden, Wilkes, pinned Tihansky in 4:54 with a half nelson and crotch.

157-pound class — Gutierrez, Muhlenberg, decisioned Thomas, 4-3.

167-pound class—Dadrika decisioned Cressman, 3-0.

177-pound class—Billy, Muhlenberg, pinned Abrams in 3:23 with a body press.

Heavyweight class—Elias, Wilkes, decisioned Grammes, 7-4.

The (3-7) record for the Mules this season was not as successful as last year's 5-4 record. The three wins were registered over Swarthmore 19-9, Haverford 16-14, and Delaware 21-13.

The individual records are as follows:

123-pound class—Paul (2-6).

130-pound class—Schnee (1-1) and Druckenmiller (0-6).

137-pound class—Franzblau (2-6) and Godin (3-3).

147-pound class—Smith (1-5), and Tihansky (0-2).

157-pound class—Franzblau (0-6).

167-pound class—Gutierrez (10-0) and Cressman (1-3).

177-pound class—Billy (8-1-1).

Heavyweight—Grammes (3-2), and Woodel (0-1).

The Frosh matmen won their two matches this season against Delaware 20-9, and Ursinus 8-5. Personal records were as follows:

137-pound class—Canning (2-0).

Heavyweight—Fretz (1-0).

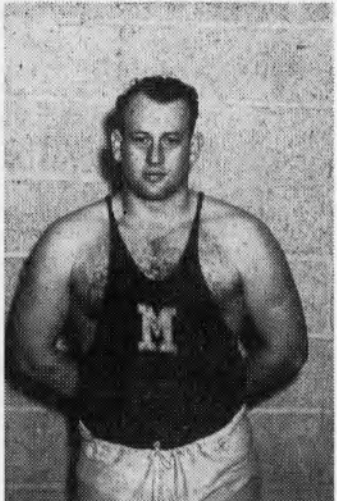

Tomorrow the Mule grapplers travel to Delaware for the opening bouts of the Middle Atlantic champions.

Muhlenberg has two Middle Atlantic district champs in Gutierrez and Al Billy (147 pound), who graduated last year. Marv Cressman, Larry Paul and Don Tihansky will be wrestling for their last time this weekend.

In The Spotlight . . . The High and the Mighty

Denny Roth

Don Grammes

Sophomore Denny Roth is a standout center on the Berg basketball team. He is currently ripping the cords at a 13 plus points-per-game and is second high in scoring on the squad.

Last year he averaged 9.5 points-per-game and was second in rebounds on the varsity.

Denny graduated from Lehigh High School where he played 3 years of football, 4 years of baseball, tied the Lehigh Valley high jumping record, and broke Bill Milkv's Conference scoring record with 379 points in 14 league contests.

He is on the baseball and track teams and is a member of the varsity M-Club. Denny is also a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Social Fraternity.

Denny feels, "With new men eligible next year along with the present sophomores coming back, we'll be a much stronger squad."

Don Grammes, Muhlenberg's top man in the heavyweight division of the grunt-and-groan squad, stands 6' 1" and weighs 220 pounds. Don began wrestling for Coach Fellows only last year, but since then he has won a total of seven matches in two years, including an upset pin of highly-rated Delaware heavyweight Tom Oves, and a last minute decision over his Haverford opponent, which saved the meet for the Berg matmen, 16-14.

Don served Uncle Sam in the Air Force for four years before his discharge in January, 1952. A resident of Allentown for most of his life, Don graduated from Allentown High School in 1947, and was married four years ago.

He is majoring in chemistry at Berg, and expects to go into laboratory work when he graduates next June. His activities are centered around Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity and the M-Club.

Engineers Drop Mules, 69-64 In Overtime Tilt At Bethlehem

The Muhlenberg-Lehigh rivalry put on an appearance of renewal rather than one of "slow death" Tuesday night at Grace Hall, when the spirited Engineers out-fought the Mules, 69-64, in an overtime battle.

Denny Roth paved the way for the extra period when he sank a goal under the basket as the final buzzer sounded to tie the game, 62-62.

In the over-time period, Jim Gleckner sank a field goal to give Lehigh a 64-62 lead. After a beautiful exhibition of passing by the victors Eddie Cahn calmly converted 5 out of 6 foul attempts giving the home club a 7 point margin. The only scoring for the Bergmen in this period was a layup by Cardy Gemma with 20 seconds to play.

The Crummen took an early 14-6 lead under the leadership of Don Kurz, but the well balanced attack of the Brown and White in turn put on a scoring spree to take a 19-16 lead midway in the first half. Both teams then played on even terms as the first half ended, 31-28, Lehigh.

Kurz and Gerry Neville again led the assault as the Mules galloped to a 52-42 advantage with approximately nine minutes left in the contest. A semi-freeze proved disastrous, as the "Ivy-minded" squad slowly climbed to a 62-60 lead. The stage was thus set for Roth's game tying goal.

Kurz and Roth shared the scoring leadership for Muhlenberg with 16 points apiece. Neville followed closely with 14 points.

Speaking Frankly

by Frank Howard

"Athletic Policy Set At Trustee Meeting"

Those are the words which headlined a two-paragraph bit in last week's issue. This writer suspects that the other stories in the paper received more attention than did the long overdue statement of athletic policy.

In many circles a need for an official statement had been noted as long as a year ago. Speaking frankly, there have been many instances this year when a statement from the athletic department and/or the coaches has been withheld because there was no established policy.

Exactly one year ago this column reported, quoting a statement from Bennie Borgmann, who had just resigned.

His (Borgman's) words were interrupted and carefully considered—"I understand that Muhlenberg's basketball policy was to floor a team which would represent the College in the most gentlemanly fashion."

Borgman was a sincere and honest man who had been confused by contradicting an absent athletic policy. It eventually became a great burden to the bespectacled coach who was definitely hurt by outside attempts to run his team into a powerhouse. And, evidently, he had no official college policy upon which he could justify his actions.

The measure, adopted by the Board of Trustees last week, reads at one part, "Our primary purpose is not to provide spectacles for the general public, but to educate our students."

The Lafayette College basketball team is going to the National Invitational Tournament! Coach Van Bredakoff and his boys deserve some-sort-of congratulatory message. This writer joins the other newsmen who wonder about the Leopards and the NIT. They are scheduled to play teams they have never heretofore met on the court nor have even seen day. But, we're sure that Van Bredakoff will have them well scouted!

Freshman Team Drops Fast Game 74-67, Neely Cages 22

Coach Dick Schmidt's little Mules suffered their fourth defeat of the year against 13 wins Tuesday night when they dropped a thrilling 74-67 decision to the junior Engineers.

The decisive factor of the game was the ability of the slightly taller Lehigh yearlings to control the boards. Dick Shumway, a 6' 7" center, was the main threat throughout the game. He collected 16 points along with teammate Healy, while Nolan took top Lehigh honors with 18 points.

Top scoring honors of the game, however, went to Frank Neely, who scored 22 points while playing a terrific defensive game. Frank Vari displayed his top form of the year as he accounted for 16 markers.

Lafayette, Seton Hall, Lehigh Win; Scranton, Delaware, Rutgers Lose

Lafayette, Seton Hall, and Lehigh managed to keep on the winning track over the past week, while Scranton, Delaware, and Rutgers added more defeats to their season's balance sheet. Villanova's Wildcats and the Bergmen split their most recent games, winning one and losing one.

NIT bound Lafayette made it 18 in a row with a 94-74 victory over the Bullets. Usually a court squad does much better on its home court than away, but Gettysburg's statistics run contrary to this, at least against Berg. Last year the Mules stopped the Bullets, 78-66, on Dick Rudolph's 32 points, while two years ago Coach Bennie Borgmann's charges clobbered the Bullets 104-53 at Gettysburg. If the figures run true to form, the cagers should rack up a good score tonight.

Seton Hall won a pair of games during the week one a 75-52 decision over Iowa, the other a thrilling 83-79 whipping of NCAA contending Villanova. Ironically, Iowa was the squad that dealt Lafayette its worst defeat of the season, 101-75. The Hallers' late season improvement has won them six of their last seven contests. In the Villanova game, the Setonians were down six points at the half, but they outscored their opponents by ten markers in the second half to edge out the Wildcats, 83-79.

Lehigh Engineers earned two close wins during the week to push their newly-formed win streak to three straight, and even their record at 9-9. Bucknell gave the Engineers a real scare, but Lehigh eked out the win, 61-59. On Tuesday night the Bethlehem quintet tripped the Mules in overtime, 69-64, center Jim Gleckner doing most of the damage to the Muhlenberg cause.

Down at Philadelphia, La Salle ended its season against the Temple Owls, by pulling the game out of the fire in the last 30 seconds, 59-57. Temple led right down to the wire, but Charlie Singley sank four set shots in the last two minutes to give the Explorers a tie in the regulation time. All the points in the overtime period were scored on foul shots, with La Salle coming out on top to avenge Temple's 57-56 upset of La Salle earlier in year. Both La Salle-Temple contests were as exciting as the Mule-Lehigh games. In each case the avenger managed to win its game in overtime, despite the obstacles its opponent set up.

In other games, Rutgers dropped its twenty-first of the campaign, 94-71, to West Virginia. Albright went wild against Scranton, racking up a record breaking 112-76 victory over the Royals.

The Bergmen rank eighth in the "Opponents League." They have lost to all the teams above them in the standings, but have been victorious over those below them. The standings:

meeting for the I-M championship. The M-Club and Lambda Chi have clinched playoff berths in League I and ATO and the Alley Kats are favorites to be battling it out in League II. Each standings following Tuesday's games are found on page 4.

The Konkrete Zephyrs and Phi Kappa Tau "B" team dropped from League I activity before the season's end, and the Hoopes dropped from League II activity.

Federation Sponsors 1955 Essay Contest

The Syrian and Lebanese American Federation of the Eastern States recently announced its second annual Near East essay contest for 1955. The subject is "American Foreign Policy in the World—Success or Failure."

According to information received by the WEEKLY, the contest has a threefold purpose: (a) to encourage American youth to obtain reliable information about the political, social, economic and cultural problems of the Middle East; (b) to instill in Americans a genuine understanding of the common interests shared by the Arab world with America; and (c) to promote cooperation and better relations on an international level between Americans and the people of the Middle East.

Must be Citizens

Contestants must be citizens of the United States and full-time students at a college or university in the United States. Only a single entry may be submitted by each contestant.

All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight of July 14, 1955. The typewritten essay must be submitted in triplicate to the Eastern Federation, 20 Bond Building, 1404 New York Avenue, N.W., Washington 5, D. C. The author's name should not appear on the manuscript but his name address, and college should be submitted on a separate sheet in a sealed envelope which shall accompany the entry.

Winning essays will be published in the Federation's magazine and distributed to colleges and universities. Awards consist of three prizes of $150, $100, and $50 respectively.

Chapel Controversy . . .

those rules only insofar as they serve the intended purpose of the college for "religion to be the integrating force that gives purpose and direction to personality." When they no longer serve that purpose, in my opinion (and by the actions of the students in the chapel, they are not), I will speak out against them. Mr. Adam said, in effect, that if the rules don't suit, I could withdraw from the college. To which I reply that separation from the school (of my choice) in protest is the last of my desires—a last resort, for what if all of those who had some complaint against an existing rule separated from the school in protest—what would the college, admittedly in sad financial straits, do? No, separation, leaving the college, is not the answer. It seems that the Catholic church, in effect, told Martin Luther that he knew the rules when he entered. so he, therefore, had to accept them; however, he didn't accept those rules when he saw that they were no longer fulfilling the broad purpose of the church—and he at first attempted to reform the rules. A reformation, not a revolution, is what Luther attempted—a separatory movement was the last of his thoughts, so I too, (and I disdain to compare myself even remotely with Luther lest that be misinterpreted) should like to see the rules and regulations regarding the chapel changed to fit their purpose—not to leave or revolt against Muhlenberg.

This then is the crux of the problem. I am not stating that irreverence, inattention, etc. do not exist. I am not entirely exculpating the students from responsibility for it. I am not advocating my few opinions and suggestions as a panacea. But I am urging other opinions to be expressed and I am exhorting cooperation between the students, who too must help to alleviate the existing situation by acting as gentlemen, and the administration to develop an equitable and effective chapel system so that the chapel will be aided in fulfilling its purposes, as outlined in the aims of the college. The Chowline

With the basketball season winding up and the occasional spring nip once again filling the atmosphere, most of us find ourselves caught in a lazy, leisurely, fall-behind so what attitude that we call spring fever a month before spring is really here. Yet the annual signs are showing—"Coach Fellows calls trackmen for '55 season" or "baseball team assembles." Dr. Shankweiler's racquetmen start working into shape, and academics take another turn for the worse as everyone in general slows down—everyone but the Professors, who plow right through, stop for nothing. "Keep it snowing just like our regular winter schedule."

And there's another man who keeps right on plugging at his job over in the Commons; and he extends to you an invitation to visit Slater's well stocked storerooms and refrigerators. At your convenience why don't you stop over some afternoon. Mr. Holmes would be delighted to show you through the Commons. He's justly proud of the quality of food that you are served.

Although it can't be "just like mother makes it" because home and institutional cooking are vastly different, I am certain that these names of the basic materials are identical with your home styles: Pillsbury, Libby, Kellogg, Reeves Parvin, Royal Gelatin, Chase and Sanborn, Swift, Armour, Arbogast and Bastian. Our eggs come from Harleysville and are gathered from nearby farms, also the high score butter and prime meats. Feel free at any time to stop in.

Incidentally, a WEEKLY staff member writes this column—not Mr. Holmes.

Prominent Citizens To Lead Institute

On March 18 and 19, Omicron Delta Kappa and the Student Council will sponsor a Leadership Institute which they hope to make an annual affair at Muhlenberg. A special committee, headed by Howard Frank, has been set up to handle this program.

Four prominent local leaders have consented to lead discussion seminars in the Friday program which will be limited to Muhlenberg students. They are Lt. Eugene McCarron of the Allentown police force who will speak and lead discussion concerning "Bad Leadership," Mr. James Chambers, manager of radio station WHOL, whose topic is "Personality," Mr. Donald Hock, former Allentown mayor and prominent attorney, who will discuss "Responsibility," and Mr. Gordon Fister, managing editor of the Call-Chronicle Newspapers, who will speak about "Ambition and Industry."

Program Described

The day's program will begin at 1:30 p.m. at which time the purpose of the institute will be explained and those attending will register for the seminars they wish to attend. There will then be two hour-long seminars. During each hour all four men will speak and lead discussion. In the early evening two seminars will be run at the same time, with the four men paired up to bring together the discussions of the afternoon meetings. This part will end at 7 p.m. at which time coffee will be served and informal discussion encouraged.

"All Muhlenberg men are invited and encouraged to attend," stated Mr. Frank. "Excuses from Friday afternoon classes will be given. A certificate will be awarded to all those who attend all three of the seminars as a memento of the day and in recognition of their participation."

Committee

Other members of the committee are: Martin Baker, Richard Fine, David Godshall, Morris Van Natta, David Ulanet, and Herman Zieger. Dr. Claude Dierolf is the advisor.

Ron Schlittler, president of Student Council, speaking for Council, said in a note to the WEEKLY, "The candidates for next year's Student Council are especially asked to register for the Leadership Institute next weekend."

"All men expecting to fill major campus positions are also cordially invited to participate."

"The two day program is primarily designed to aid all individuals in realizing their activity capacity. The Student Council has a vital interest in this program and urges 100 per cent co-operation on the part of each prospective leader."

Cardinal Key Society Initiates Pledges Next Month In Chapel

Initiation of freshman pledges into the Cardinal Key Society will take place on April 29 in conjunction with the installing of next year's Student Council officers, as part of the regularly scheduled Chapel Service for that day.

Twenty of the freshmen who originally showed an interest in becoming members of the Cardinal Key Society have been able to meet the Society's prerequisite of a 75 average. These men have been accepted into pledgeship. Jack Hopper, Cardinal Key president, stated, "The society's policy of recognizing potential fraternity men as well as independents has been accomplished with the varied representation among the pledges, seven of whom will be initiated." The pledge period will end early in April.

Carl Weinrich Gives Chapel Organ Recital

by George Lachenauer

Last Sunday afternoon, Carl Weinrich, director of music at the Princeton University Chapel, played an organ recital in the Muhlenberg College Chapel. The program included works of Buxtehude, Couperin, Scarlatti, Bach, Shepherd, Haydn, Reger, and Liszt.

Weinrich exhibited a scholarly approach to music and an excellent technique. Although he played rather fast, Weinrich performed clearly and with apparent ease. The registrations he employed were distinguished, varied, and always appropriate.

The Toccata and Fugue in F of Buxtehude was performed at a fast tempo with brilliance and amazing clarity. Weinrich used a rather novel combination of stops in Couperin's Benedictus. He demonstrated his ability to exploit fully the resources of an organ in three sonatas of Domenico Scarlatti. Each piece had its own baroque-like combination. The performance of Reger's Benedictus was hurried and an attempt to play essentially unorganistic music in a traditionally organistic style. Al-

Dr. Raub Addresses Alpha Kappa Alpha

Dr. Harry L. Raub of Muhlenberg's physics department will speak at the regular meeting of Alpha Kappa Alpha tonight, at 8 p.m. at Dr. Stine's home, 2116 Allen Street. Dr. Raub's topic is "The Atom." Anyone interested is invited by the fraternity to attend. Refreshments will be served by Dr. and Mrs. Stine.

On Thursday, March 24, Dr. John E. Trainer of the biology department will speak to the fraternity.

The annual symposium will take place on Thursday, April 21. The theme for this year's symposium is "The Role of the Arts in Contemporary Society." The symposium will consist of a panel of five speakers.

Temple Makes Offer To College Graduates

An opportunity has been made available to graduates of Liberal Arts colleges to acquire the professional training necessary for certification for teaching in the public school system. A program for this purpose is being conducted by Temple University in co-operation with the Fund for the Advancement of Education of the Ford Foundation. A limited number of scholarships is available.

Applicants are admitted only on examination. The next examinations will be at Temple University on March 26. Application blanks and additional information are available in the Dean's Office.

Among the conditions imposed on the student are the following:

(1) If accepted, the applicant will bind himself or herself to teach for three years in a secondary school in the eastern Pennsylvania area. The salary will be that which prevails in the school district where the applicant is located, and he will also be eligible for such increments as are customary.

Our president discusses the need for teachers in the "President's Memo" on page three of this issue of the WEEKLY.

(2) The applicant agrees to attend a six week summer school course at Temple University during the summer of 1955 prior to the beginning of his teaching experience. Tuition for this course, which consists of seven graduate credits, is $127.00. A limited number of scholarships are available to applicants.

(3) The applicant agrees to take at his own expense during the first three years of his employment the recommended courses leading to the degree of Master of Education and to Pennsylvania certification.

College Chapel Choir To Sing At St. Paul's Lutheran Church

This Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, South Eighth Street in Allentown, the Chapel Choir of Muhlenberg will present a concert of sacred music. This concert is one of the regularly scheduled Sunday evening programs

Varied Program

The choir is accompanied at the organ this semester by Richard Miller; by a trombone quartet: Harold Salmon, Philip Kline, Kenneth Trexler, and David Godshall; by a string ensemble Mrs. Jane Lenel, Marshall Reber, and Edwin Druckenmiller; and by trumpeters James Strine and Donald Huber. Mr. Ludwig Lenel is the director.

The program is made up of four parts. The first part includes five numbers by Heinrich Schuetz (1585-1672). The second section consists of music of the 16th and 18th centuries including two selections by Jacob Handl and one each by J. S. Bach and Vincenzo Ruffo.

The third section is a cantata, "Command Thine Angel to Appear," by Dietrich Buxtehude, which will feature strings with organ in addition to the choir. The final part is of American music including "A Canticle of Peace" by Joseph Clokey and a recent (1952) setting of Psalm 150.

Dr. Anthony Corbiere Speaks At Seton Hill

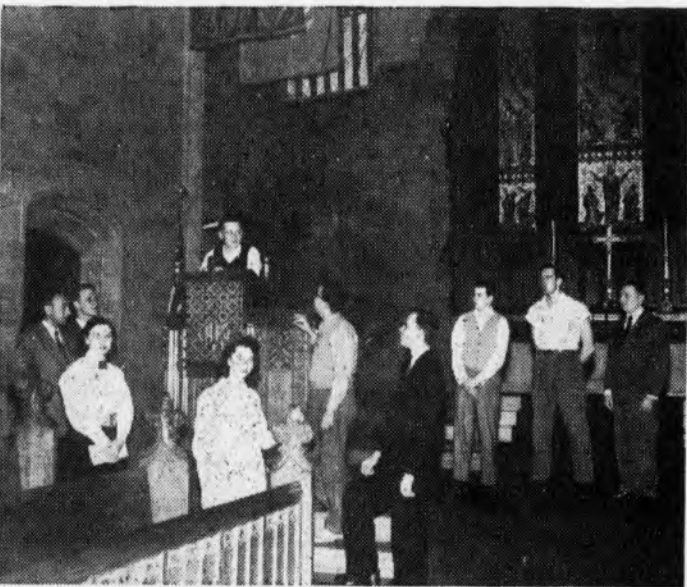

Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere addressed the students and faculty of Seton Hill College, Greensburg, today, at the general college assembly which opened the tenth annual French Week sponsored by the College. Dr. Corbiere used as his topic, "Careers in Modern Languages."

French Week, which this year lasts from March 10 to 17, recalls through lectures, entertainments, and exhibits, the contributions of France to world civilization.

Honor Court Hears Evidence, Sentences Six Erring Students

Six Muhlenberg students, accused of giving or receiving aid in last January's German 21 final examination, have been tried and accordingly sentenced by the special Student Honor Court appointed by Dean Henry M. Commuter Club Plans Joint Social

At a meeting in the Science Auditorium this morning, the Commuters' Club approved its blood donation program and announced a joint social meeting with Lehigh commuter's fraternity. At a social-business meeting last Monday, March 6, the club amended its constitution to allow more free selection of meeting dates and times.

The blood donation plan was developed by a committee of which Don Knodel was chairman. The club will donate blood to the credit of the college, to be used for students, faculty, and employees of the college when needed.

On Saturday, March 12, the club will hold a joint social meeting at the Linden Hotel, with the Alpha Lambda Omega commuters' fraternity of Lehigh. It will be a couple affair.

Organization Plans

The organization plans to hold one business meeting per month, and at least one social meeting. Nominations for officers for the 1955-1956 term will be held at the last regular meeting this month.

At present the group is sponsoring a pinochle tournament in which sixteen members are participating. The winners will receive tie clasps. In line with its aim to promote wider commuter interest and participation in campus activities, the club has appointed an athletic committee, with Dale Mertz as chairman, and plans to enter teams in all intramural sports. Members are also urged to take an active part in campus elections.

Room Furnished

Furniture for the club room in the Student Center is expected by next week, and a donor has been contacted for a piano. When the furniture arrives, the pinochle tournament will be played in the club room, but meetings of the club's ninety-four members will be held in the Science Auditorium.

Notices of meetings are posted in the Club Room.

of the college community. The Gothic architecture of the college chapel presents a setting which should give the audience an effective on-stage perspective.

The leading role of Thomas a'Becket is portrayed by Jim McConnell. The play is directed by Jim McCauley.

The play is based on fact as recorded by monks who witnessed the historical event. The play was first presented in the Canterbury Festival of 1935. Thomas a'Becket is forced to choose between loyalty to his faith and subordination to the king. As the character of the hero develops he is confronted by four temptations, personified by members of the supporting cast. These include the priests, knights and women of Canterbury. When the knights showing ignorant loyalty to King Henry II slay a'Becket, the weak characters suddenly discover that his courage and faith has strengthened them.

Anyone, who is interested but cannot attend the Wednesday performance, is invited to the full dress rehearsal next Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the chapel. This is also an opportunity for those who are interested to study the sacred drama closely.

Of the six men tried, the Court recommended a severe reprimand for one man who had allowed another examinee to copy an answer from his test paper. However, for the remaining men the Court recommended a grade of "F" in the German 21 course. Geared to individual circumstances, the sentences also included forty hours of constructive work for Grounds Superintendent John R. McAuley, social probation until May 1, and enforced study hours. These sentences all varied with each individual case.

According to the feeling of the court, "the recommendations regarding each case are the product of individual treatment and careful deliberation by the Court. Agreement was unanimous among members of the Court in each recommendation with the single exception of that requiring a grade of "F" in German 21 for certain of the offenders, in which instance the weight of a four to one vote carried the decision."

The Court also recognized the fact that proctoring for the examination was entirely inadequate. It noted in its decision that the test situation was "far removed in nature from any kind of honor system." Thus it felt that "the proctor and not the examinee should be required to proctor a test under conditions currently prevailing at Muhlenberg College." In regard to inadequate proctoring the decision read as follows:

"While the Court condemns dishonesty in any circumstances and places the weight of fault with the offenders, the Court also criticizes what it considers negligence on the part of those responsible for administering the examination. While it might be said in theory that a college man should remain absolutely honest when left to his own judgment in a test situation, the Court recognizes that practice in this case differs significantly from theory."

"It is well known that this particular test situation not only made possible but also tolerated dishonesty both by precedent and by inadequate and seemingly disinterested proctoring. Past experience has brought many students to believe that obtaining aid from others is an accepted practice during a test conducted under conditions similar to those of the fall semester, 1954, German 21 final examination. In view of the fact that examinations at Muhlenberg College are not conducted in terms of any formal honor code, the Court considers unquestionably in-

Editorial Views . . .

Help! Help!

It seems that the sophomore class did not do too well last Thursday morning at its class meeting. As a matter of fact, there were not even enough present for a quorum. Just how much do our sophomores think their elected officers can do without any support from those under them?

True though it is that our class organization is weak, we fear this is as low as it can get. With a membership of approximately one hundred and fifty, the class has potential.

Potential? That is a word that has appeared in this column all-too-often, we fear, in regard to the same problem. Therefore, let's forget talk of potential and begin to make use of it. Let's give as much to future class activities as was given to those traditional soph-frosh games last fall.

Rah! Rah!

Perhaps we are stealing our sport's editor's thunder, but we do feel that some recognition is due to Coach Birney Crum and his boys for a job well done. The season's record, although not sensational, represents some outstanding wins as well as some close defeats. Individually it was neither Birney nor the team which made this season what it was. Rather it was the cooperative combination of talents—Birney on the know-how, the team on the "show-how." We especially are thinking of Jerry Neville, one of the most respected men on the squad. Jerry was as good an example of teamwork as we could want to see. So here's to Birney, the team, and our lone departing senior for a job well done in the true spirit of sportsmanship.

Hear! Hear!

The decision of the Student Honor Court on cheating shows definitely that something is finally being done about this problem on the Muhlenberg campus.

The fact that a decision of this nature was rendered by a student court is significant.

First, it is an indication that the college is now ready to take a firm stand against such dishonesty. More important, the decision shows that the administration has great faith in the student body and its ability to think maturely and render sensible decisions. The college is to be commended for this stand.

Secondly, it shows that Muhlenberg students are capable of handling responsibility of this nature. Through this Court the seeds for a workable honor system have been sown and need only a little encouragement to sprout. The recommendation of the Court for an honor system should be read by every student.

Where? Where?

It's rare indeed when a newspaper man knows enough about sports to reach across without his realm and point out something wrong. But rather than tell someone how to do something, let's just ask a few questions.

Does not baseball season begin on April 2 this year? Are we not well into the second week of March—a scant three weeks from opening date? Where have the Cardinal and Grey clad baseball candidates been working out to get set for the "big" opener? The answer is that they have not been working out and there is a growing fear that the men who composed last year's champion beater's might not be in such red hot shape when April 2 rolls around, because of the lack of a long enough training program. As we see it, something has gone wrong this year.

"The Most Different Play In A Long Time . . ."

Chapel Is Scene Of Violent Drama

by Dave Miller

Late last night, four college men were heard shouting drunkenly in the chapel. They lurched around the aisles, proceeded to apparently maul some women, roughed up three other Muhlenberg students and finally knocked down another man.

Don't get shook—this can all be explained! This is just part of the play procedure that goes on in the rehearsals of T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral."

Although some of the cast's fun-loving members effortlessly reduce everyone to hysterics, the people associated with the production DO appreciate the type of play they are rehearsing, and after the laughter stops, really put themselves into their respective roles.

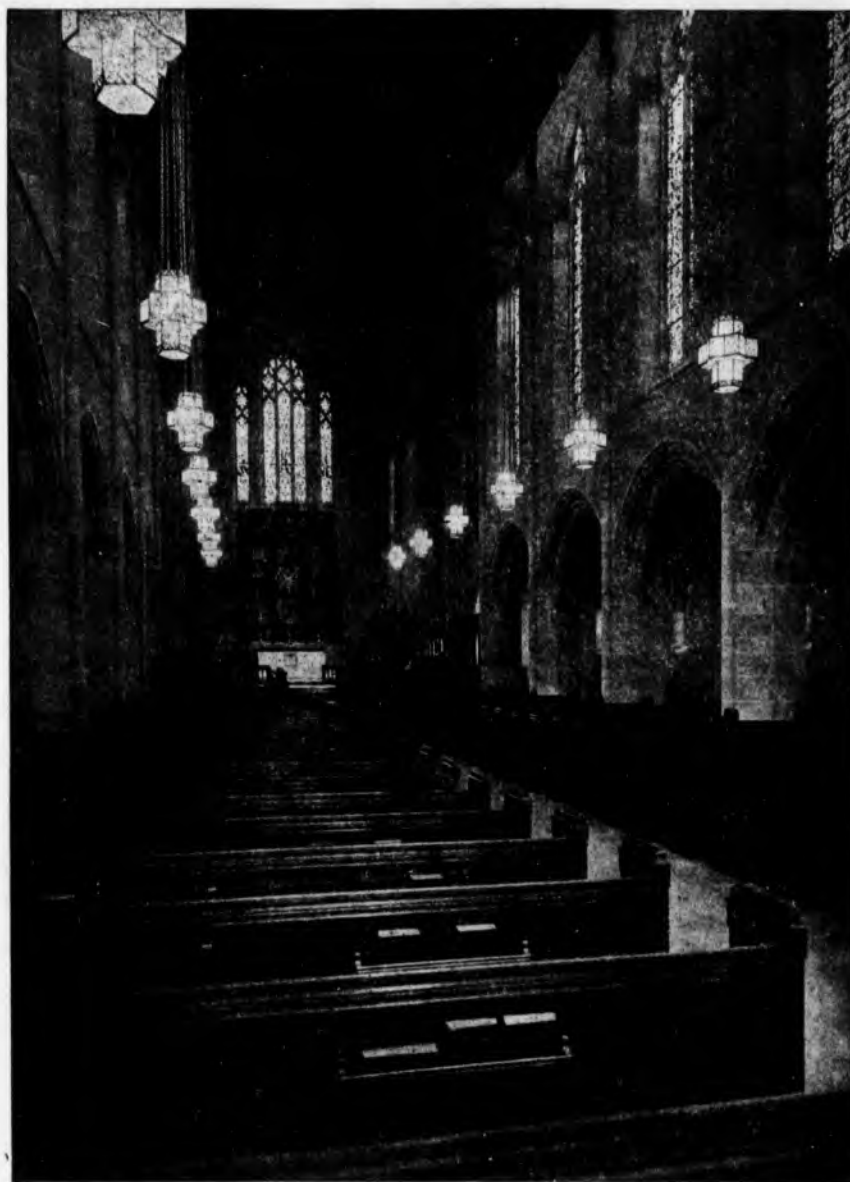

It's not often that a religious play of this calibre and scope is presented by a college group. The play is Eliot's dramatization of the events in the murder of Thomas a' Becket in Canterbury Cathedral. As such, it can be classified as both an historic and religious play. These events were the basis for the pilgrimages to Canterbury, the subject of Chaucer's famous "Canterbury Tales." (take note—English 21 students).

Several things help to heighten the mood and time element. Dick Manheim's organ playing adds much to the somber mood of the play, while the dimly lit chapel makes the drama much more effective than if it were presented on a stage.

On a windy night, such as we have had recently, all one has to do is to stand in the nearly dark side aisle and listen to the ancient chords from the organ and the cold wind—and he can almost visualize himself back nine centuries in the little English town of Canterbury.

A description of the play wouldn't be complete without some reference to the skill of Eliot. His powerful lines and his ability to stage a complicated play such as this point up his distinctive style.

All in all, it promises to be an evening well spent. Don't miss it!

This somber view of the Chapel will give the WEEKLY reader some preview of the stark mood of the drama to be presented in T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral." Unlike most plays, which are limited to the stage of a theatre for their presentation, the whole interior of the Chapel is utilized, thus adding to the effectiveness of the production.

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

The other day in the Student Center there were a few comments flying about to the effect that it might be a great idea to knock out the wall behind the lunch counter. Why? Simply because Muhlenberg has acquired the distinction of having the smokiest eating place since before cavemen found out how to make chimneys . . . for a real adventure, drop in some day about noon and test your ability to recognize your friends through the haze of greasy smoke that hangs over the room.

There is a way to avoid the evil-smelling smog, but you'll find that everyone laughs at you if you crawl across the floor on your stomach. And another thing . . . don't wear a sweater in there if you can avoid it. The porous material absorbs the odor and you'll walk around smelling like an overdone french fry. Plainly, something must be done, like removing the roof, issuing gas masks, or perhaps a two-thousand gallon vat of Air-Wick in the center of the room might be the answer.

JAY KREVSKY boldly announced that he beat Pancho Segura in a hard-fought tennis match last summer and therefore he demands that his name be printed in this column. Well, maybe he did and maybe he didn't, but he did do something over the Christmas vacation that merits recognition.

It seems that he had this job delivering telegrams, see? (don't laugh yet.) And one day he had to deliver a wire to a party that lives on the top of the very long and very steep Rt. 309 hill in south Allentown. He got off his bike and huffing and puffing, I would imagine, finally got to the top. Just then a very angry dog came roaring towards him with fangs bared. JAY, being the cool-headed type, leaped onto his wheel and pedaled back down the hill at about 90 m.p.h. Then, I am told, finding himself at the bottom of the hill with telegram undelivered, he pushed the bike back up the hill to try again. I never did find out whether the dog was waiting to chase him back down again.

President's Memo . . .

An opportunity which in many respects is unexampled in our history is presenting itself to young people now in college and high school. It is an opportunity for both vocation and service.

Our country is facing an unprecedented need of teachers. Have you examined or given much thought to studies of population trends of the past few years? They are startling.

It is predicted that by 1970 our population will be 204,000,000. Implicit in this figure is tremendous expansion in our school population.

Let us look at a few predictions of what that school population will be.

In 1950-51 the elementary school enrollment was 22,739,000. In 1960 it will be 33,559,000.

In 1950 our high school enrollment was 6,493,000. For 1960 and 1967 the predicted figures are 8,222,000 and 10,979,000 respectively.

For colleges are the corresponding figures as in 1954-55: 2,469,942. For 1960: 2,864,678. For 1970: 4,219,000.

These figures, translated into need for teachers, startling though they are, do not tell the whole story, because the tendency is to reduce the average elementary school class size, and the tendency is for more men and women to go to college. That proportion has grown steadily, year by year, for over fifty years. For example, in 1933-34 the percentage was 11.5. In 1953-54 the proportion of college age men and women enrolled in college was about 32 per cent.

There are now about 7,967,000 men and women in the college age group. By 1970 there will be 13,609,000.

The need for classrooms and buildings reaches fantastic figures, but the need for teachers is just as great and probably harder to fill.

If only one third of the age group enrolls in college we will need thousands of new college teachers. By 1960 we will need well over half a million new elementary and secondary school teachers, without counting those needed as replacements.

This is truly a national crisis.

Have you ever thought of teaching?

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It is my opinion, from my observation of the attendance of Freshmen at last week's Freshmen Class Meeting, that 80% of the Freshmen Class is illiterate. Signs stating that a Class Meeting was to be held were posted in the lobby of West Hall, at the Post Office, and in the Student Center. When only about twenty men showed up for this important meeting, I decided something was drastically wrong. Can't you guys read English writing? How did you guys get in Berg if you can't read? Our class might be on the dormant side, but let's not be DEAD!

After the meeting was over and the results of the ratification of our class Constitution was approved, and a Class Advisor was elected, I heard many complaints on Campus. If you guys don't approve of the results of the election, why didn't you attend the meeting? Is it too much for you to give a little backing to your class officers? You elected them you know, or don't you? "Taking part in class meetings and class functions, is as much a part of college life as coming to college for an education."

In the future, important business will be presented to the Freshmen Class Assembly. Let's make it our duty to attend the coming meetings, and take an active part in class activities. If you didn't like the results of last week's meeting, you can attend the next one and do something about it.

... Student Council Report ...

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on March 3, 1955 at 8:06 p.m. by Pres. Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Schlittler, Paul, Spohn, Lauer, Wormley, Adam, Loy, Rosenberger, Baker, Ascione, and Wanczyk.

CORRESPONDENCE:

A letter was received from Dean Richards stating that the inclusion of names of Student Council members will be considered in the next college catalog.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Chapel Committee—The situation in the chapel was discussed. Mr. Spohn reported that he had taken three chapel slips.

Student Center Committee—Mr. Ascione presented several suggestions which had been placed in the Student Suggestion Box. It was suggested that the basketball rims on the outside courts be replaced.

Finance Committee—Mr. Paul reported that the budgets will be presented to Council at the next meeting.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES:

Academic Freedom Committee—Mr. Paul stated that Dr. French will be contacted to get a speaker for the Academic Freedom Program. Regulation Revisions Committee—It was reported that Messrs. Adam, Schlittler, and Baker, are to meet Dr. Reed in order to have the Code of Student Ethics and Administration rules incorporated.

The President of the Jazz Society, Mr. Rutsch, appeared before Council to make a formal request for funds for the second jazz concert. Mr. Adam moved that Student Council allocate funds to underwrite the concert. Mr. Rosenberger seconded the motion and it carried.

OLD BUSINESS:

Mr. Spohn moved that two men be assessed their respective fines for parking violations. The motion was seconded by Mr. Paul and it carried.

NEW BUSINESS:

Mr. Adam proposed that Student Council underwrite a buffet banquet for all members of the student body with entertainment provided at the affair. Mr. Adam moved to table the discussion until the next meeting. The motion was seconded by Mr. Loy and it carried.

Mr. Wormley made the suggestion that one booking agency be allowed to contract bands for all Muhlenberg dances.

Mr. Schlittler reported that Dr. Seegers had been contacted concerning the possibility of holding a lecture series at Muhlenberg. It was requested that Council back the project by allocating $300. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee Chairman.

Mr. Schlittler informed Council that Mr. Benfer has requested that letters be sent to new students by Student Council.

Mr. Adam reminded Council that on March 16 there will be a play in the chapel entitled "Murder in the Cathedral." It will be given by the Mask & Dagger group.

Mr. Wormley moved that the meeting be adjourned. The motion was seconded by Mr. Lauer and it carried.

Respectfully submitted,
CAS J. WANCZYK, Recording Secretary

Charlie Chaplin

Editor's Note—The following article concerning Muhlenberg College recently appeared in the American Collegiate Press Feature Service Survey of February 15, 1955. The staff of the WEEKLY thought you might be interested and we also feel a little proud of the article.

Muhlenberg college students got to see some old Charlie Chaplin movies after all, after a protest from Lentz post of the American Legion here almost banned the showing.

Following an announcement that the movies would be banned, the Muhlenberg WEEKLY, student publication, front-paged the decision of the administration and protested in editorials and letters to the editor. President J. Conrad Seegers reconsidered and announced that the films, originally to be presented to the public, would be shown to students only.

Richard G. Miller, Jr., editor of the WEEKLY, said that about 450-500 persons attended the two showings, and that there were a

Footballers Begin Spring Training

Thirty-three men reported for spring gridiron workouts this week. Equipment was issued Monday and the team went through a rigorous two hour drill on Tuesday.

Coach Tom Triplett is optimistic about the coming season. He is losing only one starter and two reserves through graduation. Coach Triplett expects to have a little more depth than last year and will have some replacements for the weak spots.

The Coach stated that he hates to single out individuals but expects a lot of help from freshmen such as Joe Federico, Dick Cornish, Tom Carty, Buddy McCutcheon, Dick Keiser, Don Herman, Paul Whitcraft, the Frieds, Barry and Bob, and others. He considers the jobs "wide open" and expects a lot of competition for starting berths.

Coach Triplett was pleased with the way the opening workout went. He felt the men showed a lot of hustle and are in fairly good shape.

He expects to be doing a lot of scrimmaging and contact work. The practice will run for twenty days of actual workouts. Triplett is hoping for good weather which is essential for the success of the workouts.

The team will need to be "up" since the Mules will be opening against Lafayette followed by Albright and Rutgers. The Coach feels the team started slowly last season because they couldn't scrimmage for fear of injury and had to gain experience game by game.

The four men who will not be with the squad next fall because of their graduation are Pete Ascione and Dick Fetherolf at tackle positions, Ralph DeStefano, at center, and Lee Hoffman at end. Fetherolf saw limited service, however, because of an injury which he acquired early in the season. The Mules pony backfield has not suffered by the loss of seniors and will receive added talent from Coach Bob Mirth's frosh eleven.

Downed At The 10 Yard Line

Denny Roth, center, and Joe Bacelli, left, both make an attempt to retrieve a loose ball. Roth appears to have the upper hand as Bacelli approaches the ball. Big John Beatty (3) observes the action, while waiting to help his fellow Bison. Mike Corrigan (9) and Bobby Gall (32) appear in the background.

Berg Matmen Land Fourth Place In Middle Atlantic

Muhlenberg's grapplers landed fourth place in the Middle Atlantic Tournament, as highly rated Gettysburg swept the field to win its third consecutive MASCAC title. Undefeated Frank Gutierrez retained his hold on the 157 pound class.

Coach Ernie Fellows' Mules matmen showed good form against top opposition beginning with the 123 pound class, where Larry Paul beat Jack Rubin of Swarthmore, but lost to Ed Dawkins of Ursinus his next time out. Dawkins went on to retain the crown won last year in the 123 pound class. In the 130 pound class Ed Druckenmiller lost to Bill Walmsley of Gettysburg. Walmsley also went on to take the title. Art Franzblau lost to Dick Padula of Ursinus in the 137 class. Padula, 137 pound king last year, held on to his title. Bernie Smith of Berg lost to Miller of Haverford in the 147 pound class which was won by Ralph Hutchison of Lafayette. Frank Gutierrez showed fine form in annexing his second championship in the 157 class. He pinned Koskoff of Haverford and beat Heverly of Gettysburg 6-0. In the final he beat Jack Dillon of Lafayette 4-0. In the 167 class Marv Cressman, wrestling for the Mules, lost to Jim Harrell of Gettysburg who went on to win the crown.

Paul Billy just missed the 177 crown as he lost the final in an exciting match. Billy had Fred Braun of Lafayette down 2-0 near the end of the match when Braun reversed a hold that Billy had on him and pinned him. Prior to that Paul had pinned Jack Ralph of Haverford and Tom Body of Swarthmore. In the heavyweight division Don Grammes lost to Joe Ancott of Ursinus. Dick Sayenga of Lafayette took the Heavyweight title.

Fred Braun was chosen the outstanding wrestler of the match replacing Dick Padula, who got the award last year.

The eight squads finished in this order: Gettysburg, Lafayette, Ursinus, Muhlenberg, Haverford, Delaware, Swarthmore, Bucknell.

Mules Defeat Hens, 77-71, To Win Finale

The Mules took a 4-0 lead at Delaware last night and were never behind as they ran to a 77-71 victory over the Blue Hens. After leading 34-28 at half-time, Denny Roth led a second half assault collecting all of his 16 points in this time to give Muhlenberg a 73-55 advantage with four minutes to play. However, when the subs allowed the lead to dwindle, the first team was reinserted to maintain the lead.

Johns Hopkins Plays Host For MAS Foilers

On Saturday, March 12, the fencing team will journey to Johns Hopkins University to participate in the annual Middle Atlantic States competition. This will be the first year that Berg has entered its fencers in these matches. The schools represented there will be: Haverford, Johns Hopkins, Lehigh, Muhlenberg, and Temple.

Instead of the usual three men for each weapon, only two will represent each school for a single weapon. Muhlenberg's representatives will each fence nine bouts. This means one bout with each man from the other schools and one with the other representative from Muhlenberg. The rules specify that the two men from each school must fence each other first.

Coach Erskine has announced that the following men will represent Muhlenberg: foil: George Goldenbaum (6-3) and "Ace" Adams (2-1); saber: Jake Huegel (5-4) and Karl Schimmel (4-5); epee: Bill Wormley (6-3) and Dave Washabaugh (5-4). Joel Carpenter will be the alternate in Epee (5-2) and Foil (0-0).

Cardy Gemma topped the Berg scorers with 22 points, while Bob Gall followed closely behind with 21. Senior Gerry Neville played an outstanding defensive game. Joe Green was both an offensive and defensive star for the losers as he poured in 22 points.

Clint Jefferies and Frank Neely both hit their seasonal peak as the little Mules romped over the freshmen Hens, 98-75.

Jefferies hit for 33 points, while Neely gathered 32 points.

Gettysburg-Bucknell Thumped By Cagers

Last week the Mules swept the season's series from two of their arch rivals, Gettysburg and Bucknell, at Gettysburg last Wednesday and at Memorial Hall on Saturday by scores of 75-68 and 95-75, respectively.

The Gettysburg game was a decided change from the Mule-dominated game between the two squads earlier in the year. The Bullets, led by Allentown's Bill Snyder, trailed by one point at half time, 38-37. The second half was a different story as Bobby Gall and Gerry Neville opened up a lead the Bullets couldn't overcome. Gall and Neville led Berg with 16 points each while Snyder sank 30 for the Bullets.

A fighting Bison team was outmanned by a taller and sharper shooting Muhlenberg team in Memorial Hall last Saturday as Denny Roth and Cardy Gemma passed the 300 mark in scoring. Gerry Neville played an outstanding game in his last Memorial Hall effort. Bobby Gall raised his record breaking seasonal total to 438. Roth had 22 points to raise his season's total to 313, while Gemma bagged 21, bringing his total to 306.

IFC Bowling

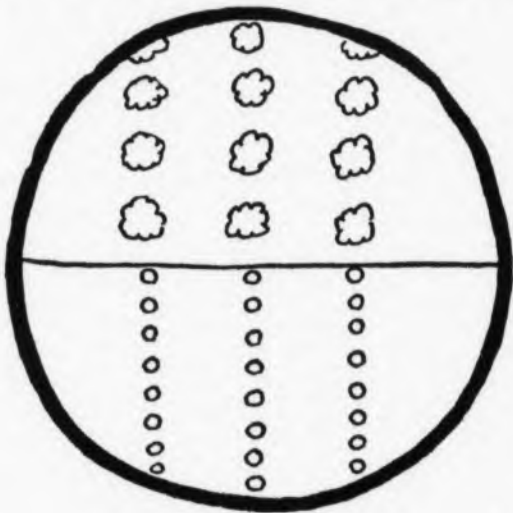

Phi Tau and ATO swept their opponents, while Phi Sig defeated Sig Ep, 2-1, yesterday in the Inter-Fraternity Bowling League. Individual highs were registered by Bob Klocner (221) of Phi Sig and Ron Ritter (208) of ATO. The Phi Tau-ATO clash next week virtually determines the winner of the I-F League.

The standings:

Phi Tau	6	0	1.000
ATO	6	0	1.000
PEP	3	3	.500
Phi Sig	2	4	.333

The regular season having ended, the playoffs for the intramural championship were begun on Monday night in Memorial Hall. The Alley Kats, League II pace setters, won their way into the finals with a 52-49 victory over Lambda Chi, League I runner up. The high scoring trio of Farrell, Wasmuth, and Agee provided the punch that carried the Kats to victory. Lambda Chi, after trailing by as much as 14 points, drew within 2 points with 20 seconds remaining, but Agee's free throw in the last few seconds iced the game. Tom Weber, Bill Ingham, and Sam Rosenberger were outstanding for Lambda Chi.

In a playoff for second place in League II, ATO defeated the Cardinals 46-37. Frank Jankowski and Art Brodwick paced ATO in their conquest while Ray Croft again proved to be the big gun in the Cardinal's attack.

The regular season scoring

Seniors are requested to order their commencement announcements immediately from John Adam, Wally Loy, or Don Tihansky.

crown was taken by Charley Farrell of the Alley Kats. He edged Ray Croft of the Cardinals and Ed Wasmuth, another Alley Kat, in a close three way race. Farrell amassed a total of 124 points in 8 games while Croft, who appeared in only 7 games, scored 120 points. Wasmuth tabbed 115 in 8 games. No other player was able to top the century mark.

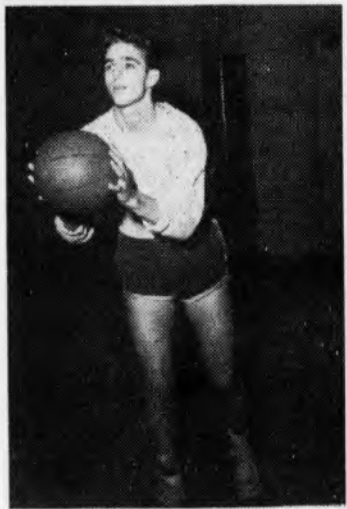

The M-Club moved one step closer to the I-M trophy by trouncing ATO last night, 45-25. Ken Reinhardt and Ed Emory were the leading scorers. Tonight the M-Club meets the Alley Kats.

Following are the 7 top scorers:

Sophomore Starters On Court Quintet

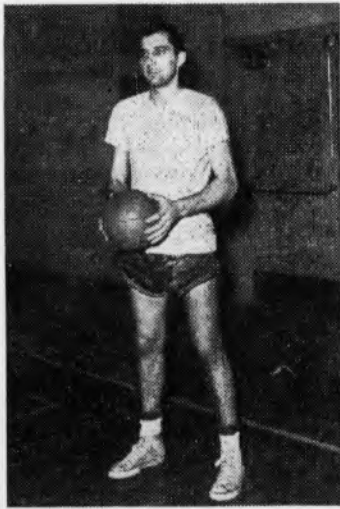

DEL PARK

Sophomore Del Park, 6' 3", 180 pounder was one of the outstanding basketball players on Berg's squad this year. Del was a three letterman for Upper Darby High School where he starred in football, basketball and track.

Park in his high school career as an athlete was honored by making all Delaware County in basketball and being a Suburban track champ. His biggest thrill occurred in high school when he pumped 44 points through the cords against one of the opponents. That score, by the way, is still a record in his high school.

Del is a business major and upon graduation would like to get into sales work.

Del feels that with the experience that the sophs gained this year and with the men coming up that next year's squad is going to be a rough one to beat.

DON KURZ

An orange and blue jacket with the name "Lodi" printed on the back and a 6' 5" stature are the chief descriptive elements of Don Kurz. Lodi, the high school which he attended is located in Little Ferry, N. J., Don's home town. It was here that Muhlenberg caught sight of Kurz while he was sporting a twenty plus per game average in his senior year.

Don is a sophomore, who has confined his intercollegiate competition to playing on the hardwood. However, he also plays intramural football and softball. He is, also, an active member of the M-Club.

His opinion of the squad is that it will be much improved next year, since the boys have had a year's experience under new coaching. He looks forward to this year's freshman team for additional aid.

Animal Korner . . .

by Ed Kunkel

Last summer, John Landy and Roger Bannister won international acclaim for having broken the four minute mile barrier. It was recognized this winter as the most outstanding sports feat of 1954. Many wonder why men want to expend so much energy on such a subject as running.

This writer believes that competition in sports is one factor that cannot be broken either in a democratic or a communistic country. Man lives largely by competition. That is the reason we are able to witness sports spectacles.

Nevertheless, here at Muhlenberg, the competitive spirit is not what it should and could be. Next week it will be time to start making use of our own cinder path. But once again Coach Fellows will receive a large roster which will last for three or four days. Bergmen have a tendency to dislike work. As a result, Muhlenberg has suffered three winless track seasons. This year could be the year for at least one victory (over Ursinus). However, the competitive spirit must first be brought to life. One must be willing to overlook a stomach disorder or tight leg muscles in the process of physical conditioning.

Let's have a large turnout for track and show a willingness to work. There is no excuse for quitting after four days of practice because of a sudden lack of energy. A renewal of the competitive spirit could bring satisfactory results in all our minor sports.

Coach Ernie Fellows will meet with all track candidates on Monday, 4:30 p.m. at Memorial Hall. Freshmen, though ineligible this year, are urged to attend.

Coach Triplett is probably the most fortunate of the coaches. Although he had a small turnout for the golf team last spring, the quality of the golfers was excellent. With practically the same team back this year, the golf squad should have a highly successful year.

Last year four outstanding tennis men were lost through graduation. This presents the question of who will replace them. Coach Shankweiler will undoubtedly have a tough time fielding a winning squad this year unless a large number of upper-classmen turn out for the team. In view of the fact that so few men try out for the "Racquet Squad," one wonders how our courts get used so hard. Is it because the sport is so popular or is it the attraction of the neighborhood female net enthusiasts???

Motto of the month: Support our minor sports by active competition.

Foilers Grab 1st Win, Trip Stallion AC 16-11

The Mule fencers swept all three weapons in Memorial Hall on Saturday and beat the Stallion Athletic Club of Long Island. It was the swordmen's first victory since the sport was annexed at Muhlenberg two years ago. The score of the match was 16-11. George Goldenbaum scored three victories in the foil while Joel Carpenter took three straight in the epee for Coach Andy Erskine's crew.

In the foil Goldenbaum beat Jim Hancock, Fred Worsnopp, and Jose DeOlivares. Al Adams of Muhlenberg defeated Hancock and DeOlivares, and lost to Worsnopp. Muhlenberg's Jim Patterson then lost to Hancock, Worsnopp, and DeOlivares.

In the sabre Berg's Jake Huegel won over Dan Rado while Al Adams took Rado and Bill Campbell. Rado was also beaten by Karl Schimmel who also took Hancock. Hancock then returned to beat Huegel and Campbell's comeback named Huegel and Schimmel as its victim.

In the final bout with the epee Bill Wormley of Muhlenberg took advantage of Campbell and Hancock while Dave Washabaugh beat Worsnopp. Joel Carpenter outfenced Worsnopp, Hancock, and Campbell. Worsnopp then beat Wormley, DeOlivares took Washabaugh and Hancock beat Washabaugh.

Linksters Hope For Successful Season

In a recent interview the coach of the golf team, Tom Triplett, expressed his confidence in bettering last year's losing record. This year the link men should have a well-rounded and experienced team, having lost no lettermen from the 1954 squad. Top returnees are Bob Lessel and Walt Haslam, two of last year's best performers.

The coach emphasized the fact that he is on the lookout for new talent, and extends his invitation to all potential golfers to come out when the practice sessions start. The initial qualifying rounds will begin when the local Municipal Course opens.

The golf team will have to be in top form by April 14 when the season opens with the always tough Lafayette team. Rounding out this season's schedule will be Lehigh, Moravian, La Salle, and Albright.

Speaking Frankly

by Frank Howard

This sort of copy should probably be reserved for the April Fool's issue of the WEEKLY. But, this reporter feels so strongly on this particular material that he's going to devote, an entire column to it.

There aren't too many traditions left in the sports world!

And, when one of the few remaining traditions disappears, we feel especially sad! We could probably withdraw to a chapel pew and compose an occasional ode or attempt to become Milton and compose a shepherd's lament. But, these are not the usual courses of a sports columnist. So, we will just announce . . .

JOHN ADAM (without the "s") and his FOGHORN have retired! To the average sports enthusiast (with retarded hearing) this will probably be a crushing blow! Adam's foghorn (which could easily mean his melodic voice or the army surplus unit he brings to every game) is almost as much a Muhlenberg tradition as is Scotty Renwick or the mule, General Pete. In one way, John is as stubborn as the mule and as old as Scotty (and neither of them STAY AWAY from many Muhlenberg athletic events).

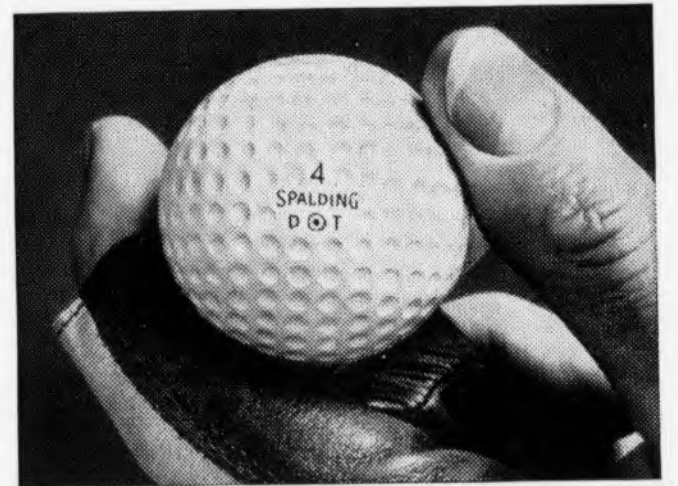

Reliable sources report that John inherited the foghorn (not his voice) from the Musgrave twins (who graduated last year). And, the Gratz boys supposedly stole the horn from an army surplus store.

In a special interview, JOHN shouted, as he wiped the tears from his eyes: "As yet, a worthy successor has not been found who will inherit the horn. I will probably suggest that the College melt down the horn and each year award the JOHN ADAM MEMORIAL FOGHORN TROPHY to the Muhlenberg student who STAYS AWAY from the most Muhlenberg events (this also will include chapel)."

Yes, last Saturday night was the last time that the bellowing, mellowing voice of JOHN ADAM and his FOGHORN will be heard. Many fans realized the importance of this event and wandered out of Memorial Hall with a tear (single) streaming down their faces.

If the College does not heed the advice of MR. ADAM, this columnist suggests that the FOGHORN be placed in the trophy case in Memorial Hall, with a suitably inscribed card beneath:

This horn belonged to JOHN ADAM, class of '55, who once uttered, in a moment of indecision: "If you don't like it, YOU CAN STAY AWAY!" (John is no longer associated with the school.)

Graduate Record Examinations Scheduled For Seniors-Sophomores, March 28, 29

The 1955 Graduate Record Examinations will be held on the Muhlenberg campus on March 28 and 29. Sophomores and seniors will receive the area tests on Monday; seniors will receive the aptitude test on Tuesday.

SOPHOMORES

The Area Tests of the Graduate Record Examinations are designed to assess the broad outcomes in education in the liberal arts from the sophomore year through the first year of graduate study. This test battery provides for a comprehensive appraisal of the college student's orientation in three principal areas of human culture: social science, humanities, and natural science.

The wide differences among institutions and students with regard to course preparation were recognized by the examining committees who developed the Area Tests, therefore the tests go beyond the details of specific courses in an attempt to reach towards those goals which are shared generally by the colleges offering instruction in the liberal arts. The questions are intended to test the student's grasp of basic concepts and his ability to apply them to the variety of types of materials which are presented for his interpretation.

Each student will receive an individual student score report, and interpretative data.

Comprehensive Examinations

With their wide range of difficulty and with normative data at different college levels, the Area Tests may be used as comprehensive examinations at any of the various levels. They are also particularly useful for measuring growth in the broad outcomes of education in the liberal arts. As they will be given near the end of the sophomore and senior years, the results will provide a basis for assessing growth in these outcomes during the last two years of college. The test scores for a class will be of value in illuminating the over-all effects of instructions, while the test scores of individual students may be used for guidance purposes.

All sophomores are requested to report to the Records Office, not later than Wednesday, March 14, at 5 p.m., and register for these examinations. One copy of the Prospectus for Students which describes the nature and purpose of the Area Tests, and which suggests now to prepare for these tests, will be distributed to each student when he registers. Please watch the bulletin boards for your room assignment.

SENIORS

Four Hour Examination

The Area Tests are designed to assess the broad outcomes of education in the liberal arts. They provide for a comprehensive appraisal of the college student's orientation in three principal areas of human culture: social science, humanities, and natural science. The Area Tests require one four-hour session to administer.

The Area Tests emphasize the abilities and understandings which are important to the individual's effectiveness as a member of society; thus, the questions are intended to test the student's grasp of basic concepts and his ability to apply them to the variety of types of materials which are presented for his interpretation. In recognition of the differences among institutions and students with regard to course preparation, the tests have been aimed beyond the details of specific courses in an attempt to reach towards those goals of instruction in the liberal arts.

Aptitude Test

The Aptitude Test is a test of general scholastic ability suitable for the college senior or graduate school level. It consists of verbal reasoning questions, reading comprehension questions drawn from and bordering on several fields, and various kinds of quantitative-mathematical materials, such as questions on arithmetic reasoning, on algebraic problems, and on the interpretation of graphs, diagrams, and descriptive data. The Aptitude Test yields two scores: verbal ability, and quantitative ability. It requires three hours to administer.

Each senior will receive an individual student score report, and interpretative data.

Wide Range of Difficulty

With their wide range of difficulty and with normative data at different college levels, the Area Tests may be used as comprehensive examinations at any of the various levels. They are also particularly useful for measuring growth in the broad outcomes of education in the liberal arts. The test scores for a class will be of value in illuminating the over-all effects of instruction, while the test scores of individual students may be used for guidance purposes. The Aptitude Test scores may be used by those seniors who are applying to graduate and professional schools.

All Seniors are requested to report to the Records Office not later than Wednesday, March 14, at 5:00 p.m., and register for these examinations. One copy of the Prospectus for Students which describes the nature and purpose of the Area and Aptitude Tests, and which suggests how to prepare for these tests, will be distributed to each student when he registers. Please watch the bulletin boards for your room assignment.

Carl Weinrich

though Weinrich lost much of the romantic flavor of the piece, he should be commended for his attempt to free the organ from the orchestral effects with which many associate the instrument.

The Chowline

One of the school's better supported programs showed an excellent picture again last Friday night as sizeable crowds filled up the Science Building auditorium to see Barry Fitzgerald play a cool game of detective in the "Naked City."

Elsewhere around the campus over the weekend various organizations help keep the flickering light of life alive. Student Council held a dance after the basketballers successfully closed the old home cage season over hapless Bucknell. The Lutheran Student Association met for their devotional meeting and discussion Sunday while elsewhere the social calendar lagged. Musical minded men heard organist Weinrich perform in the Chapel, Sunday. Some of the Mule trackmen began their practice sessions ahead of the seasonal and official convocation (Ernie Fellows presiding).

An interesting boost for the forces of honesty and truth in this week's news shows that students can handle fellow students when they cheat in exams. An interesting series of ideas on how to punish the offenders is one of the overt results.

Perhaps the honor court is the only group that knows what to do and how to do it.

Don't forget the snack bar's the place to gravitate betwixt and between classes and lab breaks. There the service is quick and the quality good.

Allentown band, an organization which he now leads. Before returning to Allentown in the 30's to direct this band and the high school band, he was solo cornetist with Sousa.

Referring to Allentown as a band center, Meyers noted that the educational set-up in this city is particularly conducive to good musicians of this type. Beginning in the elementary grades and continuing to the senior year in high school, students have the opportunity to participate in band activities.

Muhlenberg, however, is a sort of missing link in this chain, according to Meyers. A stronger band unit at this college would be of great worth to the college and to the community. To this end, Meyers expressed definite interest and promised future help if needed.

Wardle Talks At Pacifism Seminar

Next week there will be on the campus a speaker who seems well equipped to bring to us many stimulating and provocative ideas.

He is Tom Wardle, a journalist who is at present a staff member of Peace News and who is a specialist in colonial affairs.

Mr. Wardle will speak at a seminar on Monday afternoon, March 14th, at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Center. He will speak on the topic: "A New Direction for Pacifism."

Past affiliations of Monday's speaker include early activity in the youth labor movement in England as well as Church youth movements. Recently he appeared before a U.N. commission concerned with the racial situation in South Africa.

Faculty-Student Committee Plans Chapel Programs

Beginning with March 14, a week of chapel programs is being planned by the Student-Faculty Committee on Examination Procedures. The programs are part of the process of education being put forth to emphasize present integrity as being an indispensable part of the student. Subject matter will be aimed at practical applications of the ideals involved.

The program will be keyed by Rev. R. Ray Evelan of the Trinity Lutheran Church in Lancaster.

He will be followed by Mr. Donald de Quevedo, Muhlenberg senior, Dr. Truman Koehler, mathematics professor; Dr. Bremer, the Chaplain; and Dr. Hagen Staack, professor of religion.

Participation in this program will make no change in the applicant's draft status.

few people from Allentown in attendance. He said that "Audience reaction to the films was probably as uninhibited as that of many years ago. The group I was with thought that many of the situations were uproarious—and they were. Half way through the first film, I was asked which character was Chaplin; such was the lack of interest in Chaplin, per se, rather than in the little man who hustled back and forth across the scene. I thought that there was no anti-Chaplin feeling at the showing of the films, and there was no overt action in Allentown either, by the Legion or by other persons."

On Monday, February 28, a woman's gold chain bracelet with three pearls set into it was lost somewhere on the campus. Miss Miller of the Records Office would be very appreciative of any information concerning this bracelet.

adequate the presence of one proctor who remains seated on the stage absorbed in reading while an examination is in progress in the Science Auditorium when said auditorium is filled nearly to capacity with examinees.

"Testimony heard by the Court described this test situation as a 'fight for survival' in that the offenders felt they were forced to compete with classmates who were enhancing their test performance by obtaining aid from other students during the examination. The apprehended offenders claimed they are not chronic cheaters but under the described examination conditions abandoned idealism in the face of realism.

"Further, the Court wishes to point out that the examination was administered under these reprehensible conditions only a short time following the publication by a student-faculty study committee of several seemingly worthy suggestions for examination standards."

Commenting on the work of the Court, Dean Richards stated, "I am quite pleased and encouraged with the work of the Court."

Local Pastor Leads Lenten Vespers

The Rev. Ralph Hartzell, pastor of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church in Allentown and President of the Allentown Conference of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania, will be the guest preacher for the fourth Lenten Vesper Service in the current series sponsored by the Muhlenberg Christian Association.

Tonight's service begins at 7 p.m. and will be preceded by an organ recital at 6:30 p.m. with Richard Miller, '56, at the organ.

Rev. Hartzell is a graduate of Muhlenberg, 1934, and received his Bachelor of Divinity from the Lutheran Seminary at Philadelphia in 1937. He is well known to many of the students on campus as he serves as the advisor to the Lutheran Student Association.

Program Continues

The MCA's program of activities continues next Tuesday when Dr. Mildred Winston, Executive Secretary for the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church in America, will speak at the regular meeting of the Christian Association. Dr. Winston will speak on "Summer Service Projects." The meeting will take place in the MCA room in the Student Center at 4 p.m.

At the Student Vesper Service to be held in the West Hall Auditorium on Tuesday at 11 p.m., William Quay, president of the junior class, will be the speaker. This series of services was inaugurated last fall by the MCA in an effort to enable students to speak on religious and moral topics.

Economists Gather Tonight For Conference In Dining Hall

This evening, a dinner meeting of the Economic Workshop will be held in the College Dining Hall at 6:30 p.m., to be followed by an evening session at 7:30. The chairman of the Economic Theory in Practice program will be Mr. James E. Weiss of the Allentown branch of the Hajo Corporation.

The speaker for the evening is Dr. George E. Brandow, Professor of Agricultural Economics at Pennsylvania State University, who will speak on "Fundamental Problems in Agricultural and Government Farm Policy." Born on a farm in the state of New York, Dr. Brandow attended Cornell University where he earned his B.S. degree in 1935 and a Ph.D. degree in Agricultural Economics in 1939. He first came to Pennsylvania State University in 1940. During the World War II years he worked for a time as an economist with the Office of Price Administration and then entered the service of the United States Navy.

Returns to Penn State

Returning in 1946 to Penn State, Dr. Brandow is now engaged in teaching and research relating to farm prices and farm policy. During 1953, he was on leave with the Foreign Operations Administration in Turkey as an advisor to the Turkish government in research and extension work in farm management and marketing.

A discussion period will follow the main speaker and will be led by Mr. Howard H. White, manager of the Beef Division, Arbogast and Bastian here in Allentown.

A number of teachers from the Lehigh Valley have been invited and also County Agricultural Agents and Agricultural Vocation teachers in all of the surrounding counties. All interested students have also been invited.

Mr. Horace Townsend, chairman of the Economics department and advisor to the Workshop assisted in planning the program.

Dr. Ralph Harwick Speaks To Pre-Meds

Dr. Ralph F. Harwick of Allentown was the speaker at the Pre-Medical Society meeting last night at 7:30 p.m. in the Science Building. Dr. Harwick, who is a graduate of Muhlenberg and the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, spoke on Endocrinology, the study and treatment of the endocrine or ductless glands and their hormone secretions. Upsets in the balance of endocrine activities result in various pathological disturbances, while loss of certain of these glands of internal secretion have fatal results. The interlocking endocrine system among other things is responsible, in part at least, for many phases of behavior, particularly the emotions and the determination of personality.

Trip Planned

Donald deQuevedo, president of the Pre-Med Society, reminded all members at the meeting that money for the May 4th and 5th trip to Cornell and New York University Medical Schools must be paid by April 15th. Plans for the annual Lehigh Valley Pre-Medical Club banquet to be held at Moravian College on April 25th were also discussed.

Pre-Theo Club Hears Harkins

"Toward a More Comprehensive Churchmanship" was the theme of Dr. George Harkins' address to the John A. W. Haas Pre-Theological Club at their meeting on Monday, March 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pre-Theo room. Dr. Harkins is the assistant to the President of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Dr. Mildred Winston of the Board of Higher Education of the ULCA will be the speaker for the club's meeting on Monday, March 21 at 7:30 p.m., at Dr. Bremer's home, 2144 Chew Street. The club will take its annual field trip on Saturday, April 2 to the Lan-kenau Hospital and the Philadelphia Motherhouse. All members are invited to go on this field trip. The annual banquet will be held on Monday, May 9 at the Village Inn. Dr. Charles M. Cooper, President of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania, will be the banquet speaker.

Staack Lectures

"The concept of the logos in Christian theology" was the subject of a lecture presented at a meeting of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classic language fraternity on March 15. Dr. Hagen Staack, of the Muhlenberg Religion Department presented the lecture.

The meeting was held in the West Hall Auditorium.

Dr. J. C. Seegers Is Contributor To New Volume

In the near future a book entitled "Children and the Language Arts," containing a contribution by Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, President of Muhlenberg College, will be published by Prentiss-Hall. The text is a symposium type covering all problems in the language arts area, both in terms of teaching and terms of organization of program. To insure comprehensiveness of treatment, each contributor is a specialist in the area for which he is responsible. President Seegers' contribution deals with "Children's Experiences in Vocabulary Development."

Starting as an instructor in English at Allentown Preparatory School, Dr. Seegers went on to teach at Lenoir-Rhyne College in North Carolina and soon after, gained his master's degree at Columbia University. For many years he has been associated with The National Council of Teachers of English, The National Council on Research in English, and The National Society for Study of Education. As a recognized authority in the development of vocabulary and semantics, Dr. Seegers was asked by the editors of this volume to contribute his findings and suggestions.

Stetson Offers Student Grants

Ten college students will be selected this year to study law at "One of America's Most Interesting Law Schools" under a scholarship program set up by Leroy Highbaugh, Sr., to be used at Stetson College's discretion, according to Dr. J. Ollie Edmunds, president of Stetson University.

The scholarships, valued at $1,500 each over a three-year period, will be used at Stetson's College of Law beginning this fall when Florida's oldest college of law opens its fifty-fifth year and its second on its new campus in St. Petersburg.

"Mr. Highbaugh's concern for training Christian lawyers makes this one of the most stimulating gifts Stetson University has ever received," Dr. Edmunds said. "As far as I know these are the only scholarships available in a church-related college of law in the entire Southeast for the specific purpose of training potential Christian leaders in the legal profession."

"As I see it," Highbaugh said, "lawyers write the laws, lawyers interpret the laws, and lawyers enforce the laws. I wanted to help a college of law which is church-related because the more religion we can get into our laws, the better they will be."

Stetson's college of law is patterned after the British "inn" system where students and faculty live and study together. This is made possible at Stetson as the law school buildings were constructed as a resort hotel. In addition to ample facilities for classrooms, offices and a library, there are 100 bedrooms with private or connecting baths.

Competitive examinations will be given to select the scholarship winners. Time and place for these examinations may be obtained from the Dean.

Summer session for both beginning and advanced students is scheduled for June 14 - August 22. Fall term classes begin September 19.

Government Official Addresses Muhlenberg Leadership Forum

Dr. Gayle Lawrence, Director of the Personnel for Governor Leader, will be the main speaker for Saturday's program of the First Annual Leadership Institute at Muhlenberg. This meeting, which will be held all day on the campus, will be attended by students from six area colleges including Lafayette, Lehigh, Cedar Crest, Moravian, Beaver, and Centenary.

Dr. Lawrence is on leave from Temple University where he is a member of the political science department. He did his undergraduate work at Temple and his graduate work for his master and doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania. He is married and has one son.

Saturday's Topics

At Saturday's meeting, students from our own and the visiting colleges will lead discussions on topics which are of importance to all college students. Included in these topics are "Academic Freedom," "Honor System," "Fraternalities," "Co-education," and "Cultural Activities." In these seminars there will be an effort made to achieve an informal atmosphere so that there can be open discussion on these pertinent subjects.

The general program is as follows: Registration will be from 9-9:30 a.m. in the Ad Building. Two one-hour seminars will then follow with the group split up into six discussion groups. After lunch in the Commons there will be another seminar. Following this the group will hear the main speaker, Dr. Lawrence, and then have a coffee hour.

Friday's Program

On Friday afternoon the program of the Leadership Institute will be for Muhlenberg students only. Four prominent Allentown citizens have been engaged to conduct seminars on important facets of leadership. Lt. Eugene McCarron of the Allentown Police Force will speak about "Bad Leadership;" Mr. James Chambers, manager of WHOL, about "Personality;" Mr. Donald Heck, an attorney, about "Responsibility;" and Mr. Gordon Fister, of the Call-Chronicle Newspapers, about "Ambition and Industry."

Friday's meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Science Auditorium at which time the purpose of the institute will be explained and registration for the seminars will be held. All four of the men will then hold two one-hour seminars in which they will present their topics and encourage discussion concerning them. After supper in

Assembly Program To Feature Cartoonist's Version Of History

Burr Shafer, creator of the cartoon character "J. Wesley Smith," which appears regularly in the Saturday Review of Literature and occasionally in the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal, and other publications, will give a lecture "Through History With J. Wesley Smith" at an assembly program next Thursday morning at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium.

Mr. Shafer will illustrate his talk with sketches made while speaking. He seems to have no axe to grind about history. On the whole, he is quite optimistic about it. His philosophy is a simple one; no matter what you do, it's going to happen, so you might just as well relax. To those who complain of the strain of modern times, Mr. Shafer reminds them that walking down a pioneer road trying to avoid being scalped by an Indian could be something of a strain too. "History" says Mr. Shafer firmly, "is here to stay."

History, not cartooning, has been his lifelong interest. He read Gibbon's "Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire" when he was in high school. "Plutarch's Lives" was one of his earliest favorites.

Guenther Discusses Atmosphere Structure

Last Monday evening at 7 p.m. Dr. William B. Guenther spoke to the Science Club on the topic, "The Structure of the Upper Atmosphere." The development of the planets through solar radiation as well as the chemical and physical structure of their atmospheres were discussed in some detail by Dr. Guenther. "Radio wave reflection," he said, "has played an important part in our findings about the solar bodies."

The talk featured colored slides on Arctic research from the University of Alaska. Along with his discussion of Arctic research, he gave a discourse on the Northern Lights. Dr. Guenther also spoke on the effect of the Ozone layer in the atmosphere which protects the earth from the harmful ultraviolet rays of the sun.

Language Fraternity Sees French Picture

"Topaz," a French film with English subtitles, was presented on Tuesday evening, March 15, in the Science Auditorium by Phi Sigma Iota, national honorary Romance Language fraternity.

"Topaz" described the transition of a quiet schoolmaster into a man of the world. This change was brought about by various incidents which caused Topaz to become involved with a man who was stealing money from the city.

Alpha Tau Omega Elects New Officers; Richard Williams '56 Named President

Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity elected officers on Tuesday night for the coming year. Richard Williams '56, was elected Worthy Master to succeed John Geissinger who held that office for the past year. Both men are from Somerville, New Jersey.

DeMolays Meet

At the meeting of the DeMolay Club last Thursday evening, plans were completed for an informal social evening between the DeMolay's and the Masonic faculty members. The affair will be held on Thursday, March 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the apartment of the club's advisor, H. A. "Haps" Benfer. A short business meeting will be followed by informal discussion and entertainment. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Benfer.

Dick Weidner, President of the DeMolay Club, expressed a hope that "by bringing both students and faculty members of similar interests together through informal meetings such as this, a closer relationship between the two groups may be achieved."

Founder's Day

The annual Founder's Day Banquet will be held on Saturday, March 27, at 6 p.m. at the Hotel Traylor's Sky Terrace. The speaker at this year's dinner will be Mr. Al Williams, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia and former Dean of the Wharton School of Business.

For Your Benefit . . .

The keys should really be flashing around the old campus this weekend when Muhlenberg College is host for its first annual leadership institute. Campus leaders as well as aspirant leaders from most of the area colleges will be participating in what should be one of the high points of the year. An outstanding and diversified program should make the time well spent for all participants.

Friday's program has been limited to those who are members of the Muhlenberg community. Here is an opportunity for underclassmen to discuss freely the qualities (mostly acquired) which campus leaders must make use of to succeed. Finally, this is the time to consider seriously one's own abilities and shortcomings and to seek advice from those who know the campus best. On Saturday, the red carpet comes out of storage as we prepare to pool our leadership problems with fellow-students from differing backgrounds.

Why all this fuss about campus big brass? Don't the men who know the right people usually get the breaks? Here's part of the answer to these questions which the Berg student might ask. One of the sorriest sights is the president who knows nothing about leading his organization as it should be led. Disorganization, tactlessness, and favoritism are but a few of the unintentional problems which can arise. This institute attempts to show how these things can be avoided and how an efficient organization can integrate itself into the total college life, giving and receiving to the benefit of both organization and college.

Occasionally there come to the WEEKLY office articles of sufficient value to merit reprinting for the Muhlenberg student body. We believe the following article is of this calibre.

The liberally-educated man is articulate both in speech and writing. He has . . . a respect for clarity and directness of expression, and a knowledge of some language other than his own. His is at home in the world of quantity, number, and measurement. He thinks rationally . . . objectively, and knows the difference between fact and opinion. When the occasion demands, however, his thought is imaginative and creative rather than logical. He is perceptive, sensitive to form, and affected by beauty.

His mind is flexible and adaptable, curious and independent. He knows a good deal about the world of nature and the world of man, about the culture of which he is a part, but he is never merely "well-informed." He can use what he knows, with judgment and discrimination. Whether making professional or a personal decision, he acts with maturity, balance and perspective, which come ultimately from his knowledge of other persons, other problems, other items and places. His personal standards are high; nothing short of excellence will satisfy him. But service to his society or to his God is the purpose of his excelling.

Above all, the liberally-educated man is never a type. He is always a unique person, vivid in his distinction from other similarly educated persons, while sharing with them the traits we have mentioned. A liberally-educated man demands freedom. "We call those studies liberal," wrote a Renaissance educator, "which are worthy of a free man" . . . and we might add today, of a free society.

Leadership Speakers Offer Varied Program

As you may have read elsewhere in the WEEKLY, the first annual Muhlenberg Leadership Institute will be held here tomorrow and Saturday. The committee seriously considered locking all suitcases in an effort to obtain better attendance at these meetings. This idea was scrapped . . . The recent class meetings, or excuses for same, show the definite lack of interest in campus activities to be very widespread. One of the things that the Institute will try to do is to create an interest in campus organizations by presenting various aspects of leadership to the students. The speakers are well-known Allentown men who know what they are talking about. Our word of wisdom to the "Muhlenbergus Homingus Pidgeonus" is—"stay" . . . at least for the Friday sessions. They will be well worth the time you spend attending them.

The Dean's Door . . .

The author of a recent study on economics related this anecdote: "When little Kathy fell into an abandoned well in San Marino, California, the engineer who directed the vain attempts to rescue her said to a reporter of the New York Times, 'You couldn't get men to work this hard or fast for money'."

The point the author was making was, of course, that the men attempting to rescue the little girl had been moved by her plight to extend themselves to a degree far beyond their usual exertions.

Normally, we use our talents and resources rather sparingly. Too frequently it takes a crisis or an emergency to arouse us to our maximum exertion.

Yet so much more might be accomplished with greater effort. For example, some of us who have allowed indifferent or poor grades to mar our records simply for lack of an appropriate application of effort might well be making normal progress towards our degrees. Others, with a little more effort might be writing a record of achievement which will provide a life-long satisfaction.

The men who tried to save little Kathy enriched their lives with a most precious treasure—the self respect of men who tried their best. Few rewards are more gratifying and few so easily obtained. It is ours for the trying.

Their Side of Humor

Two men blundered into a Has-singer dorm late one night. One lost his head and ran; the other stayed calm, cool, and collected.

THE SUSQUEHANNA

"That, miss, is entirely up to you."

THE SUSQUEHANNA

THE HORSE'S MOUTH

by Don Reilly

Monday night, between the hours of eight and eleven, the Senior class trekked in and out of the Seegers home to visit with the President and his charming wife, who would easily walk away with all the top honors in most any cookie-baking competition judging by the quantities of same which were stowed away by the last-year men.

Professor Deck officiated at the punch bowl and to anyone who may be worried, no, the stuff wasn't spiked.

At one point during the course of the evening, Mrs. Seegers was demonstrating their hi-fi reproducer to some interested physics majors. She sat there twisting dials until the vibrations nearly shook the pictures off the wall. When the din subsided, President Seegers observed dryly, "She likes volume." And a good time was had by all.

Met FRANK FEDERICO in a diner late Saturday night, and he commented that it is about time that something "constructive" was printed about him in this column. Just be patient, Frank. The WEEKLY editors have assigned ten crack reporters to the project, and as soon as they dig up all the material they can find, we'll air the whole business on "This Is Your Life."

This is a very cruel world after all. Somebody, somewhere, went to the trouble of having a number of signs made reading "In Memoriam. A Lawn. Victim of reckless walking. R.I.P." The signs were placed at the various short-cut-over-grass locations around campus. Then some vandal came up with the most unkindest cut of all when he ripped one of the signs in two . . . a pathetic sight to be sure. However, there is a solution. Who needs grass, anyway? A very heady plan would be to cover all the lawns with cement and paint it green . . . or, even better, the college could set up a work grant for advanced chemistry majors and offer a prize for the first one to come up with a practical plastic grass.

Last Saturday afternoon, Muhlenberg's future enrollment may have suffered a telling blow. While crowds of College Board examinees strolled about the campus, they were considerably shaken by the sight of characters in their midst, who, by their dress, appeared to be either fugitives from a laughing academy, or unfortunate medieval citizens who had gotten caught in a time warp and found themselves in the twentieth century. In sheer, stark, cold unblinking reality, however, these oddly attired cats were the cast of "Murder in the Cathedral" taking a rehearsal break . . . a very simple explanation, but the damage is done now.

Commuter Comments

Edgar Kern is the cause of all the cigar smoke around campus. It's a girl and doing nicely. Congratulations, Ed!

Attention all dart shooters! The furniture committee has procured a good dart board and an ample supply of darts. The board is in the commuter's room now. The committee apologizes for its inability to provide a genuine dart-shooting atmosphere.

Hats off to Gerry Newhard, sponsor of a resolution to investigate the possibility of better parking facilities on Chew Street. A good idea, Gerry. We hope it materializes.

Here's a clue for those pool room habitués: ask Dick Holben for change for a dollar. When he pulls it out you may spot some of those long lost Harrigan pills.

Lower than low gear—Fred Geehr finally got to an eight o'clock class ahead of the prof. We're glad you discovered the by-pass Fred.

The five staunch souls (we won't mention names) who unsuccessfully attempted to move the newly-acquired piano to the commuter's room should have contacted Don McCain. We understand Don recently moved a refrigerator single-handedly — the same refrigerator with which three professionals had difficulty. Which is it, Don, the weight lifting or the education?

One Apology For Parents

After reading the umpteenth report on the present state of the younger generation in last week's Colliers we feel that our elders are possibly getting a little too nose in putting us under their microscope.

It's like eating Druthers. After Time came out with their so-called authentic report, every magazine had to follow suit and bring to the ears of our elders a deathless article on what makes the younger generation tick. Editors seem to feel that they just can't say enough on the subject.

The eternal question seems to be why don't we swallow goldfish, sit on flag poles and carry hootch in flasks; they seem particularly disappointed when we don't come up with enough radicals to satisfy a comparison with the roaring twenties.

Perhaps the general feeling among "the kids" of today is that they don't want to get lost in the lost generation. A few of us seem reluctant to imitate the insane antics of our elders.

Please don't be affronted if we don't dance on table tops, go roaring off to immortal grid classics in racy coon coats and get wildly drunk. Bear up under our childish whims.

We would really like to be left alone to work out our own little plans and possibly with a little luck leave a more settled world than the Roaring Twenties left us. —Northern Student, Bemidji (Minn.) State Teachers College.—ACP

...Student Council Report...

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order at 8:06 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Neville, Adam, Schlittler, Spohn, Baker, Ascione, Lauer, Loy, Paul, Rosenberger, Coughlin, and Wanczyk.

The minutes were corrected as read and accepted.

The Treasurer's report was as follows:

Student Body Fund	$1,310.67
Social Fund	1,876.13
Assembly Fund	1,673.65

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Financial Committee—Mr. Paul presented the budgets of the various campus organizations. Mr. Lauer moved that the Social budget be accepted. Mr. Loy seconded the motion and it carried. Mr. Rosenberger moved that the Assembly budget be accepted. This was seconded by Mr. Adam and the motion carried. Mr. Adam then moved that the Finance Committee Report be accepted. Mr. Baker seconded the motion and it carried.

Mr. Paul reported on a meeting with Dr. Reed concerning the possibility of having outstanding speakers come to Muhlenberg for lectures. It was requested that Council back the project with $500. After some deliberation, Mr. Neville moved to allocate $400 for the speakers program. Mr. Paul seconded the motion and it carried.

Chapel Committee—Mr. Adam reported that Dr. Bremer made the announcement that there is to be no standing in the back of the chapel. It was suggested that Seniors sit in the choir pews.

Social Committee—Mr. Rosenberger stated that approximately 60 couples attended the dance following the Bucknell game.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES:

Leadership Training—Mr. Baker presented the tentative schedule for the two day program.

Regulations Revision—Mr. Adam stated that the work of the committee has been completed and will be presented to Council at the next meeting.

OLD BUSINESS:

Discussion was initiated on the proposed buffet banquet for the student body. Mr. Paul moved that Mr. Adam be appointed chairman of the special committee to investigate the possibility of the affair. The motion was seconded by Mr. Neville and carried.

NEW BUSINESS:

March 31 has been set as the date of the next Student Body meeting with nominations for next year's Student Council being the order of business.

Mr. Spohn moved for adjournment. Mr. Neville seconded and it carried.

Respectfully submitted,

CAS J. WANCZYK, Recording Secretary

Neville, Cressman, Paul Finish Varsity Competition At Berg

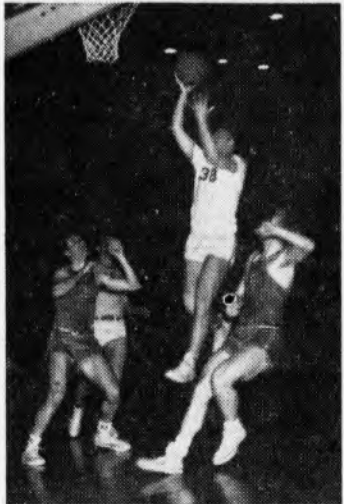

The schedule for the winter sports has come to an end. Three senior athletes have performed their last duties under the name of the Mules. Gerry Neville is the only basketball player to be lost to next year's squad, while Marv Cressman and Larry Paul will not return for the wrestling team.

Neville finished the 1954-55 season with a total of 160 points and a 7.6 game average, after suffering a recurrence of a knee injury early in the season. This same injury kept him out of most of his sophomore year and many of last year's games, after a successful freshmen year. Neville's top scoring performance came last year against F & M when he tossed in 18 points. This year he hit the 16 point mark twice (against Albright and Gettysburg.)

Although he has been a crowd pleaser with his deadly set shot and his seemingly impossible lay-up shots, Neville's chief attribute has been his quick hand work on defense, while stealing the ball from an offensive player. Despite his knee handicap, he may be rated with Muhlenberg's better all-time basketball players.

Cressman has been a dual athlete for his four years at Muhlenberg. In the fall, he has taken care of the goal-tending responsibilities on the soccer squad and has been the main heavyweight wrestler in the winter. This year he was not in the best of condition and so ended the season with a 1-3 record. Last year he appeared in the semi-finals in the Middle Atlantic tournament.

Another pre-med who has practiced surgery on the canvas is Larry Paul. He is a four year veteran in the 123 pound class. His record this year was 2-6, as he suffered defeat in several close decisions.

Coach Fellows Holds Meeting With Trackmen

Coach Ernie Fellows held the first meeting of this year's track team on Monday in Memorial Hall. Although only a comparatively small group of twenty-two men showed up, the coach expects to hear from more of last year's men, some of whom did not show up at this meeting.

Since the first contest is scheduled for immediately after the Easter vacation, the team is faced with only three weeks of preparation. The schedule that Coach Fellows has planned is one week of conditioning, followed by a week of specialization and practice. During the third week he will conduct inter-squad contests in preparation for the coming meets.

Anyone, experienced or inexperienced, is welcome to contact Fellows and to attend practice.

Coach Dick Fox Prepares Diamond Nine For Opener

On Monday, practice for the 1955 baseball season began under the coaching of new mentor Richard E. Fox. The nucleus of this year's team will be Tony Saddler and Frank Sproviero, pitching; Dick Leber, catching; Tom Weber, at shortstop; and Marty Gilbert in the outfield. Practice will mainly be in preparation for the opening game with Navy on April 2.

Berg Foilers Take Fifth Position In Middle Atlantic Fencing Meet

Muhlenberg's fencing team ended its second year of collegiate competition by finishing fifth in the Middle Atlantic States Fencing competition. Berg's record for this season was 1-2.

Johns Hopkins won its second straight Middle Atlantic championship by amassing 39 points. Haverford was second with 31, Temple third with 30, Lehigh 29, and Muhlenberg 2.

The team weapon championships went to Johns Hopkins for the saber and epee and to Temple for the foil.

Individual Winners

In the saber class, the individual champion was Costel Denson of Lehigh. Dick Oles of Johns Hopkins took top honors in the epee.

The foil championship went to Dave Murdock of Temple who defeated his teammate and defending champion John Fratto. Fratto placed second while Bill Fenichel of Hopkins was third.

For Muhlenberg, Dave Washabaugh won four bouts in epee, Jake Huegel copped one in saber, and Ace Adams and George Goldenbaum won two each in foil. Both Carl Schimmel and Bill Wormley lost all nine of their bouts.

Although Muhlenberg's fencing record was not a spectacular one, it was an improvement over last Coach Fox's biggest problem will be finding replacements for the leading hitters of last year, Bill Kern and Jack Pollitt. Both went into organized baseball. He also needs a replacement for second base. He is doubtful if third baseman Ron Hoehman will play.

Since this is Coach Fox's first year he has to find out where his talent lies. He will keep the boys out as long as the weather is nice, and practice will last up to and including the day that the Easter Vacation begins. Even though it is his first year he is looking forward to a successful season.

The 1955 baseball schedule follows:

FOIL	W	L	Pct.	W	L	Pct.
Goldenbaum	6	4	.667	2	7	.222

Gridders Begin Scrimmaging In Spring Football Conditioning

Spring training for the Muhlenberg football squad started last week and is now going along in full swing. According to Coach Tom Triplett, "The boys have a tremendous amount of spirit and this is an excellent sign, since the season is still six months away."

The team is made up of a host of veterans and with the backing of last year's freshman squad the Mule gridders should be a tough outfit to beat.

Triplett is running the spring tune-ups by himself and is stressing running, blocking, and tackling. Earlier this week the coach started to put his boys through scrimmages.

Coach Triplett is strong on the sophs-to-be Dick Cornish, Don Herman, Paul Whitcraft, Joe Federico, Buddy McCutcheon and Bill Cart, but he is fast to add that anyone may land a berth on the varsity.

WHAT'S THIS?

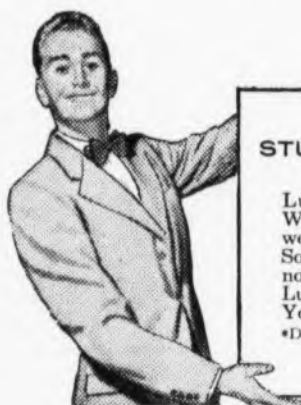

For solution see paragraph below.

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

THEY'RE CLAMORING FOR THEM! Who? Students. What? Luckies. Coast to coast, dormitory to dormitory, college smokers prefer Luckies to all other brands, according to the greatest up-to-date college survey. Again, the No. 1 reason for Luckies' wide lead: Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. So enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike. But don't be like the man in the Droodle above, titled: Pickpocket acquiring Luckies. Make sure you have plenty of your own. Buy Luckies by the carton.

The track schedule may be cancelled unless---
The above statement may become a reality unless the student participation becomes greater. In an interview with Coach Ernie Fellows, he expressed a sincere concern for the present condition of the track squad. However, he has no alternative than to cancel the meets which have been scheduled, unless more interest is shown in the sport. After many years of supporting a cinder team, it is difficult to understand why interest has been lost so quickly.

Last week this writer urged both experienced and inexperienced trackmen to attend practice sessions. Need I say more???

Freshmen are likewise urged to participate. Fellows had hoped to schedule some events in conjunction with the varsity meets. Is seven men a good representation of a class of freshmen who are supposedly instilled with a real college spirit???

The total number of upper-classmen to place their names on the roster is seventeen. This is about half as many as is needed for a team with any depth at all.

Surely we cannot give up a sport which has existed at Berg for so long.

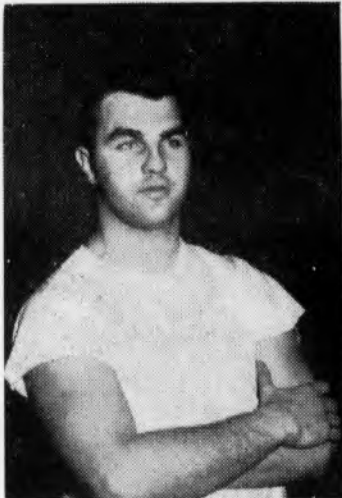

Many complaints are sounded because scholarship athletes have the upper hand in basketball and football. Here is a sport in which anyone can take part.

While talking to Fellows, Coach Shankweiler was supervising two veteran netmen and three newcomers. Great spirit, heh!!

Congratulations to Bobby Gall for having been named to the Bucknell All-opponent five.

When the next basketball season comes around, lend an ear to the name of Frank Romano of Susquehanna University. In 13 games since becoming eligible for court play, Romano netted a total of 375 points for a 28.8 average. He was named the sixth man on the Bucknell opponents' squad while ranking among the top small school scorers.

In The Spotlight . . .

RALPH DE STEFANO

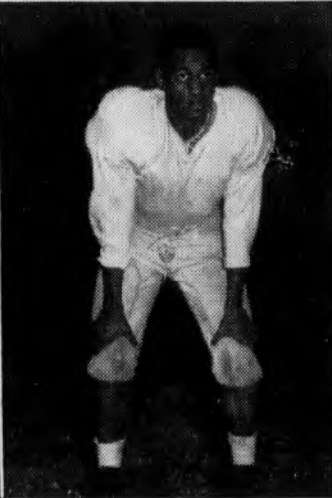

Versatile Ralph De Stephano will prove a key man on this year's track team. Ralph, a consistent winner in the discus throw, has been a letterman since his freshman year. This year he will be gunning for the school record in the discus throw, which presently stands at 134 feet.

Ralph, who hails from Albany, New York, attended the Christian Brothers Academy for his secondary school education. He was an all-around athlete there, earning a total of eleven letters in track, football, basketball, and baseball. He was a member of the all-Albany team in his senior year.

De Stephano, a senior, was also an outstanding lineman on the football squad, where he was equally adept at any of the central line positions. Ralph is a member of the M-Club through both track and football.

De Stephano spends a great deal of his time in the Science Building, where he is studying natural science with Dr. Shankweiler's pre-medical students. His B.S. courses do not leave a great deal of time for outside activities.

ROBERT E. LEE

Sophomore speedster Bob Lee plays a stellar role in Coach Fellows' hope for a better track season this year. Bob, a returning letterman, ran the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes and broad jumped last year. Deceptive as well as fleet, Lee was a standout back on the football squad last season. He was given the Unsung Hero Award for his efforts in the Franklin and Marshall contest.

Bob garnered nine letters at Berwin High School. He was voted the outstanding player in the Ches-Mont League in his senior year.

Lee is a business major and anticipates going into marketing after graduation. He is a member of the M-Club, Jazz Society, and participates in intramural softball and basketball.

Quiet, well-mannered Bobby notched 35 points for last year's thin-clads, second only to Bill Kynett in scoring. He scored nine points in the Albright meet, collecting a first, second, and third in the three events in which he participated. He and Don Tihan-sky will form the nucleus of the dash department again this year.

Sports In Short . . .

The statistics for the 1954-55 basketball campaign show that Muhlenberg's cage squad experienced its best season in four years, under the leadership of Coach Birney Crum, who piloted the Mule squad for his first year. Berg's 14-11 finish was no better percentage-wise than the courtmen's 13-10 and 12-10 final records of the preceding two years, but significant gains were made scoring and consistency of play.

The 1954-55 Bergmen were a sure bet to win their games against Albright, Delaware, and Moravian, whereas last year's squad had to work to beat these opponents, a factor which limited their freedom to shoot and to try new playmaking possibilities during a game. This year's courtmen did not have to leave it up to a Larry Friedman to do the shooting when the score got too close to breathe, since they managed to run up a good-sized lead against the smaller squads.

Statistical Abstract

This year's cage squad was never beaten by a 20 point margin (Berg lost by 20 three times last year), but it managed to outscore eight of its opponents by at least 15 markers, giving the reserves a good deal of work in completing games. Berg topped the century mark against two of its opponents and could have notched 100 counters in at least four other games.

Highest scoring total for the cagers was their 105 point output against Hofstra. Their 61 point barrage in the second half of the Scranton game was their highest for a half. Scranton led at intermission time, 40-30, but the Bergmen came from behind to win, 91-84.

Most Exciting Games

The two Mule-Lehigh contests surpassed all others in tenseness, while the Lebanon Valley and Villanova were also very close in score. The combination of an old intercity rivalry and two almost equally matched squads accounted for the excitement in both Lehigh games. The Engineers, whose 11-11 record indicates their spotty performance, managed to be up for both encounters with Berg. The Memorial Hall victory was a thriller that few will forget. Behind 71-68 with just two minutes left, the Bergmen pulled it out in the last 40 seconds on a pair of foul shots. At Bethlehem the Engineers dominated the overtime period to win, 69-64, after the Mules had knotted the score in regulation time, 62-62.

The Lebanon Valley game held a lot of pressure for the cagers. The Dutchmen played their typical nip-and-tuck, down to the wire game, and just barely managed to come out on top, 83-82. Villanova's seven minute freeze secured their 54-51 win down at Philadelphia, despite the cautious shooting and floor play of the Mules, who remained faithful to their code of stubbornness by refusing to give up their bid for an upset.

Coach Birney Crum's hoopsters exchanged two wins over St. Joseph's for two losses to Lafayette in comparing this year's record to last season's. The extra pair of wins came against Albright and Hofstra, while Berg lost its remaining game to Lehigh.

The M-Club succeeded in capturing its second consecutive I-M basketball championship last Thursday evening by defeating the Alley Kats, 56-43. Ed Emory, who promises to be a big asset to the varsity squad next year, stole the show by pouring 20 points through the hoop and controlling the backboards for the M-Club. Except for Emory, the two teams were well matched. Ed Wasmuth led the Alley Kats with 16 points, while Ken Reinhardt followed in the scoring parade with 13.

This marks the second straight year that the M-Club marched undefeated to the league crown under coach Ray DiCello. The Alley

Tryouts for Mask & Dagger's spring production of "The Shrike" are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, March 23 and 24, 1955.

The cast calls for 17 men and 5 women.

Why do more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette?

BECAUSE ONLY VICEROY GIVES YOU A PURE, NON-MINERAL, NON-TOXIC FILTER WITH 20,000 FILTER TRAPS IN EVERY FILTER TIP!

1. Yes, only Viceroy has this filter composed of 20,000 tiny filter traps. You cannot obtain the same filtering action in any other cigarette.
2. Besides being non-mineral and non-toxic, this cellulose-acetate filter never shreds or crumbles.
3. The Viceroy filter wasn't just whipped up and rushed to market to meet the new and skyrocketing demand for filtered cigarettes. Viceroy pioneered. Started research more than 20 years ago to create the pure and perfect filter.
4. Smokers en masse report that filtered Viceroy's have a finer flavor even than cigarettes without filters. Rich, satisfying, yet pleasantly mild.
5. Viceroy draws so easily that you wouldn't know, without looking, that it even had a filter tip . . . and Viceroy's cost only a penny or two more than cigarettes without filters!

That's why more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette . . . that's why VICEROY is the largest-selling filter cigarette in the world!

Denmark, Sweden Offer Fellowships

Fellowships for study in Denmark and Sweden have been offered to American graduate students for the 1955-56 academic year by the two Scandinavian governments, it was announced today by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education.

Three fellowships have been offered by the Danish Government through the Ministry of Education. These include funds for a year of study in an institution of higher education as well as expenses to cover a short orientation course. Since the number of supplementary travel grants is limited, there can be no assurance of such aid to recipients of the above-described awards. Grantees should have funds, therefore, to pay their own travel and incidental expenses.

The Swedish Government is giving three fellowships through the Sweden-America Foundation. These awards are administered in the United States by the Institute of International Education and the American-Scandinavian Foundation. The stipends cover room, board and tuition expenses at a Swedish university. Candidates must pay for their own travel.

Preference is given to candidates under 35. Other eligibility requirements are: (1) U. S. citizenship; (2) a bachelor's degree from an American college or university of recognized standing by the time of departure; (3) demonstrated academic ability and capacity for independent study; (4) good moral character, personality, and adaptability; and (5) good health.

Applications may be secured from the United States Student Department of the Institute of International Education. Closing date of the competition is April 1, 1955.

Rev. Hartzell Speaks

(Continued from Page One) first of three lectures by prominent clergymen on the major religions in America. Rabbi William Greenburg, spiritual leader of Temple Beth-El in Allentown, will give the first address, speaking on the topic "The Faith of the Jewish People."

Rabbi Greenburg is one of Allentown's better known clergymen, serving on many charitable and civic projects. He is known by many students, having appeared on the campus in connection with various Institute of Christian Living programs. The MCA has undertaken this project to acquaint the student body with the religions which dominate the spiritual life in our country.

Other speakers include Father McClain, a member of the faculty at the Mary Immaculate Seminary in Northampton, and Dr. Joseph Sittler, professor of Systematic Theology at the Chicago Lutheran Seminary at Maywood, Illinois. Rev. McClain will speak on April 27 and Dr. Sittler on May 19.

Writer Groups Men

(ACP)—A letter-to-the-editor writer in a Western University weekly classified college students into five categories: "The proletarian radicals, chip-on-shoulder, who would be more at home in a linseed oil factory than in a classroom; (2) the bourgeoisie socialists; (3) the nouveauriche pseudo intellectuals; (4) the lip curling aristocrats; and (5) the esoterics, listening to the depraved mouthings of others in detached silence."

Leadership Forum

(Continued from Page One) the Commons, there will be a general meeting to draw together the afternoon discussions and from 5:30-7 p.m., two seminars will be held with the men paired up. Mr. Samuel Miller will replace Mr. Hock in this session. At 7 p.m. there will be a coffee hour at which time informal discussion will be encouraged.

For Friday's program, a certificate will be given to those who attend all three seminars as a memento of the day and in recognition of their participation. Excuses from Friday afternoon classes will be given to those who are attending the Institute program.

All Muhlenberg men are urged to attend both day's activities. The program is designed to promote interest in campus and community leadership, to consider some of the problems of a leader, and to aid present and future leader in becoming more effective in their capacities.

The committee which has planned and will conduct the program was appointed by Omicron Delta Kappa and the Student Council, the two sponsoring organizations. Its members are: Howard Frank, chairman, Martin Baker, Richard Fine, David Godshall, Morris Van Natta, David Ulanet, and Herman Zieger. Dr. Claude Dierolf is the advisor.

"Calling The Roll"

CARTHAGE, ILL. — (ACP)—Prof. Orville Riggs, noting that Carthage College students are checked for attendance at chapel by secretaries sitting in a balcony, suggested the students adopt the theme song: "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder, I'll Be There."

Suggested Solutions For Parking Problems

(ACP)—We knew somebody, somehow, somewhere, would come up with a perfect solution to the campus parking problem which plagues college students and campus cops across the nation. Dennis Krzyzaniak, instructor in chemistry at South Dakota State College at Brookings, offers these solutions:

- (1) Paint the tires the same color as the campus policeman's chalk. Several months will elapse before his current supply is exhausted.
- (2) Coat tires freely with concentrated HCl, which will react with chalk, producing carbon dioxide and water.
- (3) Purchase tireless cars.
- (4) Obey the committee's current parking regulations in hopes that their research efforts will bring us more modern modes of transportation, such as space belts, short range rocket pencils, etc.

Candidates for the 1955 golf team will meet with Coach Tom Triplett on Monday, March 21, at 3:45 at Memorial Hall. Coach Triplett has announced that practice will not begin before April 1, when the golf links will just be reopening, but that all interested candidates should report for the meeting and sign with the squad.

Ralph DeStefano

The Chowline

Undoubtedly one of the shrewdest moves yet in the eternal struggle to keep college men off the lawn and on the paths in the vicinity of several of the campus' more notable structures is the recent addition of several little black and white signs left by someone who obviously wishes to "rest in peace," although someone thought it might be "Remain in the path."

However, Respondo Intendo Pax non, and if you think that Latin is bad, Mr. sign author, take a good look at a Latin dictionary and while we think of you in Memoriam; Pax Vobiscum.

This weekend the Muhlenberg campus will be host to a convocation of campus leaders from several of the area colleges in a two day siege of speakers, seminars and forums the ultimate purpose of which is to promote stronger leadership among undergraduates. We wish every success to Student Council and ODK.

The Muhlenberg Christian Association's play came off last night as scheduled in the Chapel. Congratulations are in order for the excellent performances of the camp's professional-like actors.

At this point, with no other thoughts in mind, we'll see you around the snack bar.

Representatives From Area Colleges Consider Advice Of Gayle Lawrence

Last Saturday, Dr. Gayle Lawrence, Director of Personnel for the Governor of Pennsylvania, addressed the students attending the First Annual Muhlenberg Leadership Institute. The Institute was attended by representatives from five area colleges in addition to our own.

Dr. Lawrence said that there is no one college program suited to all people. The student should be able to pick out those things which he wants from many varied programs. He stated that there should be some common elements in every college program that each student should look for. First, the program should develop the power of critical thinking.

Second, Dr. Lawrence pointed out that the student should be able to develop an inquiring mind. He should learn for himself. "College," he said, "is a good point at which to be radical if you really believe in a cause." Next, the program should allow for the development of a generalizing mind. While in college the student should not specialize to any great extent, Dr. Lawrence stated. His broad cultural development should come before a vocational development.

While you are in college, he pointed out, you should take an interest in and be active in a social program. The college or university has the task of making us aware of these programs. He told us not to worry about leadership as such. If a problem exists and any experience has been had, the leadership will be there.

Freedom of The Mind

In coming to his topic, "Open Doors of the Mind," specifically, Dr. Lawrence told the group that one is never more free than while he is in college. Now we have the opportunity to explore many intellectual facts. "Don't close the door of the mind to any interest presented in college," Dr. Lawrence said. "If you keep all of the doors of your mind open, the whole of you can be developed."

During the day, preceding Dr. Lawrence's address, the attending students discussed such problems as Academic Freedom, Freshman Indoctrination, and Faculty, Administration, Student Triangle problems. An exchange of social calendars among the colleges was discussed. The delegates proposed a meeting similar to Saturday's to be held at Moravian on November 4, 1955.

The two day program was in charge of a special committee headed by Howard Frank and was sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa and the Student Council.

Institute Speaker

Above is part of the group of students who listened attentively to the forty minute address by the Governor's personnel director. Dr. Lawrence spoke on the topic "Open Doors of the Mind," stressing importance of a varied college program.

Muhlenberg Christian Association To Continue Program Of Lenten Activities

This week the Muhlenberg Christian Association released a completed program of events which it will sponsor during the next two weeks. The program of activities will begin tonight in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel when Richard Manheim will be recitalist for the weekly organ recital, beginning a 6:30 p.m. At 7 p.m., the fifth in a series of Lenten Vesper Services will bring the Rev. Richard Hoffert, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church in Allentown, to the pulpit as guest preacher.

Fear Not . . .

Next week at this time, another annual edition of the APRIL FOOL ISSUE will be coming off the presses. Lest there be any conjecture on the part of students or faculty, we wish now to express our hopes that everything which appears in print be taken for what it is worth—April foolery. Respect for faculty men and fellow students does not disappear because of a few satirical stories.

Pastor Hoffert is a graduate of Muhlenberg '44 and in 1947 he received his Bachelor of Divinity from the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia. Rev. Hoffert last spoke at Muhlenberg as a guest preacher in the Advent Vesper Services sponsored by the MCA last December.

At the next regular meeting of MCA, to be held next Tuesday, Mr. Ludwig Lenel, asst. professor of music, will be the guest speaker. His topic for this meeting will be "Church Music." Mr. Lenel has studied church music in Germany as well as having studied the organ under Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

The student Vesper Services will continue Tuesday night in the West Hall Auditorium when Arvids Ziedonis '55, vice president of MCA, will speak.

On March 31, the concluding Lenten Vesper Service will bring Dr. Richard Klick, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Allentown, to the chapel as guest preacher. He is a member of the Muhlenberg College Board of Trustees. The Vesper Service will be preceded with an organ recital by George Lachenauer at 6:30 p.m.

The last meeting of MCA before the Easter Recess will have Mr. William Kinter, faculty advisor to MCA and a member of the English department as the guest speaker. In keeping with the Lenten season, Mr. Kinter will give a talk on T. S. Eliot's poem "Ash Wednesday." The poem will first be played on record. All of the events being sponsored by the MCA are open to the members of the Muhlenberg community.

MCA has planned several programs for the remainder of the year of a similar nature to those already presented.

Students To Nominate Leaders For New Term Next Thursday

The second meeting of the Student Body this semester will be held in the Science Auditorium at 11 a.m. on March 31. The main consideration will be the nomination of candidates for next year's Student Council.

Nominees must be Juniors who are not on academic probation. The council consists of thirteen men, four of whom are the presidents of the four classes; the other nine—all of whom will be chosen at the coming election—complete the council.

Candidates are invited to attend sessions of the Student Council which are held in the Student Council Room in the Student Center from March 31 on. Nominations for the position of head cheerleader will also be held at this Student Body meeting.

Any member of the student body may nominate a person for council. Acceptances must then be handed in to the election chairman.

Also to be considered at this time are the two following suggestions in amendment form. Student Council is on record as favoring the proposed amendment which states that freshman class officers be elected only once during the Freshman year and that being at the time of the second semester elections.

The second which states that the Junior Class hold one election for its officers that shall take place at the end of the Sophomore year is not supported by Council.

Committee reports will be given at the meeting. Of interest to the Student Body will be the report on the social arrangements for the All-Student Banquet to be held at Castle Gardens on April 28.

Fraternity Cooperation Results In YMCA Help Week Program

Pledges from Muhlenberg's six social fraternities will combine their efforts to promote community relations by participating in the Interfraternity Help Week, which will be held from Monday, March 28 to Thursday, March 31 in the Allentown YMCA. The boys' division and men's locker room will be painted by the pledges. Other projects will be added if there is time.

Each pledge will be assigned two work days during the week between 2:30 and 5:30 p.m. In return for this assistance, the "Y" will give the fraternities the use of its swimming pool during a Thursday evening sometime in April for an IFC swim meet.

The purpose of this project, according to the Interfraternity Council, is to foster better friendship between the pledges of the various fraternities while providing a service to the community.

This is the first combined help week to be held at Muhlenberg. James Heller, pledgemaster of ATO, is general chairman of the project.

IFC is also considering the possibility of holding an "All-College Sing" some time in May. The idea would require each fraternity to present some song sung by a chorus or small singing group.

Film Series Portrays Ghandi, Asian Leader

A documentary film entitled "Mahatma Ghandi, Twentieth Century Prophet," will be featured as this week's film in the college sponsored series of "Great Films of Yesterday and Today."

The film, written by Edith Martin and narrated by Quentin Reynolds, was shot over a period of 37 years, beginning with Ghandi's early years as a successful South African lawyer and ending with his assassination at New Delhi in 1948.

It is a factual story, composed only of real life shots of Ghandi. The events leading to his assumption of leadership over 400 hundred million Indians are realistically reproduced in this full length documentary.

There will be showings at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.

British Schools Offer Marshall Scholarships

Twelve Marshall Scholarships at British universities are offered annually by the British Government to United States graduate students. The awards are an expression of the United Kingdom's gratitude for the generous and far-sighted Program for European Recovery.

The awards are made to students of either sex, who must be citizens of the United States. Candidates must be under 28 years of age on October 1 in the year in which the award will be taken up, and must be graduates of a degree-granting college or university of the United States.

TENURE

The Scholarships are tenable at any university in the United Kingdom. The awards are made for two years in the first instance, but may be extended for a third year.

Three Scholarships are awarded yearly in each of the regions.

The lists drawn up by the regional committees are submitted to an Advisory Council of distinguished Americans who assist the British Ambassador in Washington in the selection of candidates. The final selections are reviewed by the Marshall Aid Commemoration Commission in London.

APPLICATIONS

Applications for awards to be taken up in 1956 must be in the hands of the appropriate regional committee by October 15, 1955. Short-listed candidates will be interviewed by their regional committee during November 1955. Successful candidates will be notified of their appointments in the spring of 1956.

Candidates may apply either in respect of the region in which they live, or in respect of any region in which they may have received at least two years of college training. Candidates applying to one regional centre can in no circumstances be interviewed in another.

Candidates should not write for information on the Marshall Scholarships to the United Kingdom.

M & D Presents Modern Drama

Dr. Andrew Erskine, advisor to the Mask and Dagger Society, announced this week that the second semester production of that organization will be "The Shrike." The play will be presented on May 11, 12 and 13 in the Science Auditorium.

The play is a drama having as its central struggle, man against man, and subordinated by man against himself. The selection of this play is in keeping with the societies attempt to present a classical and modern play each year.

Der Deutsche Verein Hears Austrian Native

Dr. Louis Ziemand, lecturer in German, spoke on the Austrian folk playwright, Ludwig Anzenberger, at a meeting of Der Deutsche Verein Club held last Monday evening at the home of Dr. Ralph Wood. Dr. Ziemand is qualified to speak on this topic in that he is a native of Austria.

The next meeting of Der Deutsche Verein is scheduled for Monday, March 28, at the home of Professor Emeritus Harry Hess Reichard. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The society plans to hold its annual "Ausflug" in conjunction with the foreign language club of Cedar Crest College some time in May.

Phi Alpha Theta To Sponsor Meeting Of Eleven Chapters

The Muhlenberg chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity, this Saturday will be host to eleven of its brother fraternities from colleges through the northeast.

Those present will be: Bucknell, Cedar Crest, Franklin & Marshall, Gettysburg, Lafayette, Lehigh, Rutgers, Georgetown, Temple, University of Pennsylvania and Maryland. The meeting will be closed to all but members of the fraternity.

Students Present Papers

The morning session will begin with registration at 9:30 a.m. in the Administration Building. At 10 a.m., four student papers will be presented on phases of current history.

Luncheon will be served in the College Commons at 12 o'clock, noon. Dr. Edgar Swain, head of the Muhlenberg history department, will be the master of ceremonies and Dr. Coddington, professor of history at Lafayette College, will be the main speaker.

Beginning at 2 p.m. a resume of projects accomplished by the individual chapters will be presented.

A general meeting, at which national officers will speak and a general discussion of the day's progress will be held, will complete the conference.

Civil Service Offers Government Positions

The U. S. Civil Service Commission announces that there is a continuing need in the Federal service for Engineering Draftsmen in positions paying from $2,750 to $5,940 a year.

No written test is required. To qualify, applicants must have had appropriate education or experience or both. Education above high school level, leading to a bachelor's degree with a major in architecture, engineering, forestry, geology, landscape architecture, mathematics, or physics, which included at least 1 year of college-level mathematics and 1 year of college level drafting, may be qualifying for positions paying up to $3,410 a year. Applications will be accepted from students who expect to complete the required courses within 6 months of the date of applying.

Pi Delta Epsilon Establishes Deadline For One Act Play Contest At April 15

A final deadline of April 15 has been set for all entries in the Pi Delta Epsilon sponsored one act playwriting contest. This contest is open to all Muhlenberg students with a cash prize of $25 for the winning playwright.

The PDE committee in charge of the contest has suggested that the play should be written so as to cover approximately 20 minutes acting time. Any type play will be acceptable.

Judges

The faculty judges will be Dr. Claude Dierolf and Dr. Harold Stenger of the English department. Fred Grosse, president of Mask and Dagger, and Cas Wanczyk, president of PDE, will be the student members of the judging committee.

The judging will be based on characterization, content, dialogue, originality, and stage worthiness. The winning play might also bring fame to its author since, if the play lends itself easily to production, Mask and Dagger will produce it in an assembly sometime in May.

Manuscripts should be placed in the hands of Cas Wanczyk, Howard Frank, chairman of the PDE committee in charge of the contest, or any other PDE member.

Phi Kappa Tau Holds Founders Day Dinner

The Phi Kappa Tau fraternity held its annual Founder's Day Banquet last Friday at the Lehigh Valley Club. The fraternity was celebrating its founding on March 17, 1906. The guest speaker of the evening was the Rev. Charles R. Zwieg, who is a member of the Franklin and Marshall chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau. Joel Carpenter then received an award for maintaining the highest average of the sophomore members.

The banquet was followed by a meeting of the Graduate Council which discussed plans for the building of a new Phi Tau house.

Five hundred dollars was received in pledges at the banquet and the committee hopes to reach its goal of $35,000 by next year at this time at the latest.

A Working Dorm Council . . .

At a special meeting of Student Council this week, a case was presented which concerned excessive noise in East Hall. The individual, against whom these accusations were made, stated his case and several disgruntled fellow students expressed their complaints. The facts and the decision are irrelevant at this time. Most interesting is the history of this case and the effects which improper handling up to the time of the Council meeting may have had on several segments of the student body.

Since the noise was limited to the dormitory, it seems quite natural to us that the case should have been brought before our governing body by a representative of the dorm council. However, because no dorm councilman made this move, the situation had to be brought before Student Council by a member of the latter body. Not only did this move tend to make said Council member an object of heated personal misunderstanding, the whole dormitory council seems, to our mind, to be thus weakened. True, a member of the dorm council testified at this week's special meeting, but that was the limit of his participation.

Why should our dormitory council men apparently shirk their duties on occasions? Is it because they have no feeling of responsibility, are they afraid of losing friends, or do they feel they lack Student Council or College Administration support? Concerning the first reason, we hope that this is of a minor nature although to refute its existence at all times would be idealistic. Secondly, those people who we may call friends would not seem worth that title if they did not at least show respect for the man who does what is expected of him, especially when such action be for the good of the whole group. Finally, there is the question of support. Our Student Council president and our Dean have promised full support of any dormitory cases if sufficient evidence be presented. Any man for whom this is insufficient, does not merit the position of dorm councilman.

R.G.M.

Nominate The Best . . .

One of the events which marks the true arrival of spring is the election of Student Council members. Next Thursday morning, the first step toward this all-important election will take place with the nomination of men for Council. This is traditionally the time for the fraternities, the pre-theos, the "B" Hall men, and any other organized group to appear with one or more likely candidates. And there is certainly nothing wrong in every campus group nominating their most qualified men; no one knows better than they who the best men are.

We believe, therefore, that next Thursday's meeting is just as important as the day of elections. For, it is at this initial meeting that qualified men may be forgotten and equally unqualified men put into the race. It is extremely important that we consider carefully the attributes against these necessary qualifications. This year's junior class is not lacking in men of the calibre needed. Next Thursday is the time to put these men in the running.

Green (Kelly Green) Cop Solves "Orange Stripe Gang" Mystery

The following is an actual case from police files. (The original case—Bourbon—had been finished in the pre-St. Patrick's Day celebration.) Only the names have been changed to convict the innocent.

My name's Wryly. I'm a cop? I was working the night shift out of suicide, when I got wind of a strange occurrence. It was my secretary—she was bending over me—she has bad breath!

The phone rang. RING RA RING RING. I answered it. I'm a smart cop. There was trouble on Hamilton Street. The "Orange Stripe Gang" was loose!

3:45—I left the Station and made my way through heavy traffic to 9th and Hamilton Sts.

9:03—I arrived at 9th and Hamilton Sts. Traffic was really heavy!

After careful interrogation, the four prisoners were again locked up. I put away the rubber hoses, had the sergeant mop up the blood, then went back to my office to write up the report. I can't write, so my secretary typed it. These are the facts . . . DUM DA DUMB

. . . Student Council Report . . .

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on March 16, 1955 at 10:35 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Neville, Paul, Schlittler, Lauer, Wormley, Adam, Loy, Baker, and Wanczyk.

The minutes of the previous meeting were corrected and approved.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Chapel Committee—Mr. Adam reported that the decorum in Chapel has improved.

Social Committee—Mr. Rosenberger informed Council that the Lehigh Valley Club has been procured for the annual Student Council banquet.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES:

Good Fellowship Committee—Mr. Adam reported that Dorney Park has been tentatively set as the site for the student body good fellowship banquet. The entire council was appointed to serve as a committee of the whole to sell tickets.

April 29 has been designated as the date for the Freshman-Student Council sponsored dance.

NEW BUSINESS:

Mr. Quay informed Council that there had been some disturbance in East Hall and that measures should be taken to curb future incidents of that type. Offenders will be asked to report at the next meeting.

Mr. Wormley suggested that the outside basketball courts be converted to tennis courts.

Being no further new business, Mr. Quay moved for adjournment. The motion was seconded by Mr. Rosenberger and it carried.

CAS J. WANCZYK, Recording Secretary

3:30—The "Orange Stripe Gang" assembled at a house near the mullenberg campus. Reports indicate that there were 15 men and 7 cars involved. Plans were worked out, and three cars and nine men proceeded downtown, to the shame of the fair name of Ireland.

3:45—The three cars rendezvoused (met) at 5th and Walnut Sts. The lead car was to check the main drag, while two men got in the trunk of the "Paint Car." The third car was to follow the "Paint Car" closely to cover and check for patrol cars from the rear.

3:49—The lead car met a patrol car headed East-Southeast on Hamilton Street. (This was strange—as Hamilton Street goes due East and West.) The car circled to the meeting place and checked again. The signal for an all-clear was to be set when the lead car parked in front of Hess's.

3:50—The lead car went up Hamilton Street again and spied a patrol car parked on Lumber Street. They checked it out . . . it was a patrol car. They could tell. Both men in it were sleeping. The lead car pulled away from the curb and proceeded to 5th and Walnut. The other cars were nowhere in sight, so they proceeded up Hamilton Street again. They dug out fast . . . DIG DA DIG DIG.

3:51—They didn't see the "Paint Car" and the third car, but the orange stripe from 7th to 8th showed without a doubt that there was an orange stripe from 7th to 8th. The stripe turned left at 8th and they surmised that the cars did, too. (Smart boys—they would make good cops!)

3:53—They went back to 5th and Walnut to have a hot dog and break the monotony of circling around Allentown.

Mule Nine Prepares For Navy Encounter Despite Bad Weather

This year's baseball squad, under the coaching of Richard E. Fox, is slowly forming. Fox, a new coach, is getting his team ready for their 17 game schedule, which begins with a home game on April 2 against Navy. The Middies diamond crew has been practicing since January.

The team has been limited to four days of field practice because of bad weather. The rest of the time the Mule baseballers have been forced to practice throwing inside Memorial Hall. Even though the first few games will be pitching duels, the team will be concentrating on their batting, which will be an important factor in the contest with Navy. Fox has stressed batting to give his men the chance to get their eye on the ball.

Returning Veterans

This year's squad of about 25 men has many good prospects. Frank Sproviero and Tony Saddler will command the mound, and will get support from Jay Cook and George Erie. Three long ball hitters are catcher Dick Leber, and outfielders Cardy Gemma, and Mike Del Tufo. Other men who will probably start are Tom Weber at shortstop, Marty Gilbert in the outfield, and Lefty Cornelius at first base.

Last year the team had five .300 hitters. Although the team lost two of these hitters, Bill Kern and Jack Pollitt, it is hopeful that the team will turn in a better record this year than last year's 10 and 5 mark.

I-F Basketball

Sigma Phi Epsilon's basketball five moved one step closer to the Inter-Fraternity title last night, as they tripped high-scoring Lambda Chi, 52-48. At halftime the score was 19-19, but Sig Ep pulled away with about four minutes left in the game, and kept its edge over the LXA's. George Erie notched 13 points for the victors, while Bill Ingham and Ralph Ferrari each sank 13 for the losers. Sig Ep and ATO tangle tonight in the I-F playoff finale.

Tom Triplett has issued another call for varsity golfers. Anyone interested may contact the coach on Monday, March 28.

The Chowline

Spring is sprung, huzzah huzzah . . . and by the looks of the weather a guy might just as well roll over in his sack for another hour rather than go outdoors with all the rain and snow. The vernal equinox is past and we're on the road to warmer weather though and an infernal pox on fate if things don't shape up soon.

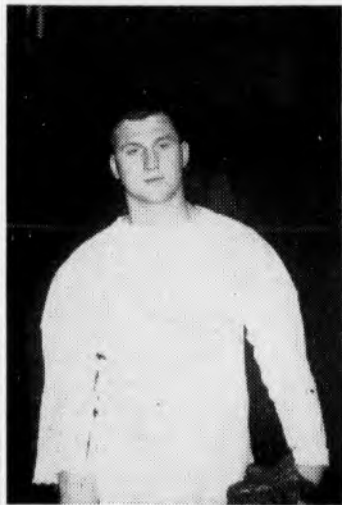

What's this we hear from the athletic world, track department? No team this year? Somebody is slipping somewhere, and it is undoubtedly the students again. "Won't do it unless you pay me. There's scholarships for football and basketball." Guess it takes money to make the men run, although some schools have so much depth that the sophs give the starters a run for their money.

With the thought of evil's root running around, we might mention that another free show is on the docket for this Friday evening. Something about the 20th century prophet, or the man who proved that eating wasn't the most necessary thing for survival.

But all modern college students know better than that and consequently show up regularly thrice daily for three squares at the Commons and occasionally an extra bit at the snack-bar.

This year Tony Saddler should prove to be one of the key pitchers on the baseball squad, as he was last season. He compiled a record of six wins against two losses and sported an earned run average of 1.1 last season.

DIAMOND DUST

by Virgil Scott

With the major basketball tournaments and all the winter sports completed, all eyes have turned to the advent of the oncoming baseball season. Muhlenberg students' conversations include all the details of last year's fabulous baseball Mules and their near NCAA play-off berth. For those who have forgotten the details of last year's club record, let us brush away the cobwebs and return to Spring, 1954.

High Spots of 1954

Coach Bob Hicks called his aggregation together early in March, and until the opener at La Salle the Mules peppered the ball all over the diamond near West Hall . . . The opener was a case of "opening game jitters," as the Mules lost to La Salle, 9-8, on errors . . . There was Berg's 29-10 shallomping of St. Joseph's in which Bill Kern had six for six at the plate, hitting for the cycle . . . Then came the close 7-5 defeat to the Penn nine, and who'll forget Bob Hicks' finishing three packs of cigarettes during the close contest . . . Lefty Cornelius personally defeated Scranton, with two homers, one a grand slam . . . Who'll ever forget the heartbreak of the 3-2 defeat by Lehigh as Tony Saddler first lost a no hitter in the eighth and then the ball game on a homer to Stotz in the last of the ninth . . . There was the great series with Moravian in which both games were decided by one run and at which all Mule fans lost their finger nails . . . Frank Sproviero provided another highlight in the '54 campaign as he bested Ronnie Owen and the Middle Atlantic Champions from Lafayette in a tight contest, 3-2 . . . Then with the NCAA bid rumors all over campus following smashing victories over Temple, Wilkes, and Delaware and the fancy hitting and fielding of Pollitt, Gilbert and Leber, the Mules traveled to Gettysburg and reversed their form in a 7-1 defeat and NCAA bid seemed an impossibility . . . In the final game with a record of 10 wins and 4 losses all hopes for a post-season playoff were crushed by Lehigh, who behind Butz shut out the Mules, 4-0 . . . Thus came the end of a fine season for the Mule baseball team under their able coach, Bob Hicks.

Once again the Mules are being talked of as a Middle Atlantic contender and under their new coach, Dick Fox, we hope they will reclaim their brilliance of the 1954 campaign. Only time will tell.

Fellows Begins Workouts With Thin Track Squad

Last week Coach Ernie Fellows started to round into shape the 1955 edition of the Muhlenberg track squad. The seventeen man team will face practically the same slate of opponents as last year's crew, but will find rougher going with this season's comparatively undermanned and inexperienced cinder squad.

Returning varsitymen who will form the nucleus of this year's squad are Ralph De Stefano and Dick Williams on the discus; high jumpers Denny Roth and Harry Kreuzberg; pole vaulters Herm Zieger and Frank Jankowski; sprinters Don Tihansky, Bob Lee, and Ed Levendusky, who double in the broad jump; hurdlers Harlin Heere and Mel Strouse; distance runner John Keyser; javelin hurler Jerry Zeiner; and Len Woodel on the shot put.

New men who will attempt to bolster the squad are Pete Lord, Charlie Stites, John Basille, and Morris Van Natta.

The trackmen will be without the services of quarter-miler Bill Kynett, who dropped from school for a semester to take a set of reading courses at Penn. Bill amassed 36 points last year in the 440 yard dash and 220 yard low hurdles.

The team will lack depth in both the middle and long distances. This includes the mile, half-mile, two mile and quarter mile. Coach Fellows' squad lacks experienced pole vaulters and javelin throwers.

Lack of depth will cause Fellows to use several men in two of three events unless additional help is gained. If sufficient interest is shown Fellows stated that there might be several Freshman meets.

Racquet Men Train In Gym

Tennis practice did not wait for the weather this year, as the players have already started their preparation for the season. Coach Shankweiler has procured a net for use in Memorial Hall, and is now holding tennis practice indoor each day despite the weather conditions.

The indoor tennis court is a great help to the players, as they can now practice tennis strokes and serving for a longer period of time than would normally be possible if they waited until the weather was favorable. Even though the bounce of the ball on the wooden floor is not exactly the same as on the court, it enables the players to get in shape and prepare for the approaching season.

The tennis team is sharing the gymnasium with the track team this year in preparation for the season opener.

Due to lack of space, this week's Inter-Fraternity bowling results will be included in next week's I-F bowling story.

COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER LUCKIES!

Luckies lead all other brands in colleges—and by a wide margin—according to an exhaustive, coast-to-coast college survey. The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better.

WHAT'S THIS?
For solution see paragraph below.

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

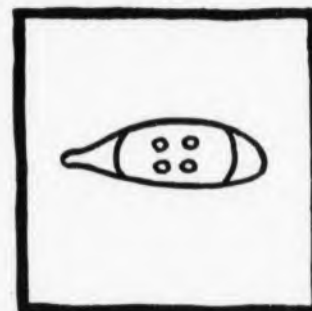

YOU'LL GET A BANG out of the Doodle above. The title is: Daredevil enjoying better-tasting Lucky just before being shot from cannon. Luckies are going great guns everywhere. The reason for their booming popularity is simply this: Luckies give you better taste. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better . . . cleaner, fresher, smoother. Enjoy yourself when you smoke. When you come to think about it, streets are pretty humdrum affairs after all. The squad of exterior decorators from Berg must have had something like this in mind last week when they decided to break up the black monotony of the Hamilton street pavement . . . with a stripe of orange paint.

The asphalt artists had a pretty cool plan worked out to bring off the mischief with impunity. They hid in the trunk of the getaway car and followed a cruiser car up Hamilton Street, gaily pouring the paint as they rolled along. Now who could ever have figured on another cop following them? Well, obviously they didn't because they ended up going ten skins and costs apiece plus the privilege of cleaning up their handiwork.

Speaking of downtown, there is a very funny story hanging on the grapevine concerning one ED HOROWITZ. I didn't have a chance to verify it by deadline time, but here it is anyway. It seems that ED gets great kicks from annoying the hoods that hold up the buildings downtown . . . you know, striped pegged pants, suede shoes and so on. Well, it is reported that ED encountered one of these cats the other night who had an extremely large crop of well-lubricated hair. ED, the story goes, being a crew-cut man himself, gazed in wonderment at this shaggy mane, walked up to the guy, stuck a pencil in the cat's hair, pulled it out, looked at the oil level, and commented helpfully, "You could use a quart, buddy."

LSA Hears Speech On Vacation Work

This past Sunday evening, the Lutheran Student Association heard Miss Mildred Winston speak concerning the Summer Service work sponsored by the Lutheran Church. The Board of Education is interested in having college students work for two months of the summer in camps for underprivileged children, in homes for the aged and handicapped, and in settlements of migrant workers.

The LSA also discussed plans to have several of its members attend an area conference which will be held at Kutztown on April 19.

All men interested in playing intramural softball are urged to present team names and rosters to Mr. Fellows not later than Monday, March 28, so that the season may open before the Easter vacation.

3:54—They went up Hamilton Street and saw that the plans had gone wrong. There were the painters, busy at work, oblivious to the fact that a patrol car was parked half a block away. It was okay, though, because the cops were still asleep. SNORE SNA SNORE SNORE.

3:55—PAINT PA PAINT PAINT 4:00—We got them! All four of them! Do you hear me? We nabbed the blokes with typical police thoroughness! Somehow, though, two-thirds of them got away. Oh well . . .

5:20—We put them in our modern, beautiful jail. I had the sergeant take them in—I can't stand the smell there . . . they had the best accommodations and friends—wooden beds, foul-smelling air—two or three of our worst bums and drunks for companions.

10:00—They were brought before the judge, who had gotten calls all night, to the effect of "LET THOSE POOR BOYS GO! IF YOU DON'T, I'LL WITHDRAW MY VOTES IN THE NEXT ELECTION!" and we had to stop scaring them with threats of the $304.75 FINE FA FINE FINE we were going to try to milk out of them. The judge pronounced sentence on them, and concluded with this partial quote, "YOU #&$%# !!*$%# WHY DIDN'T YOU PAINT THE STRIPE GREEN? YOU WOULD HAVE HAD EVERY IRISH COP HELPING YOU!!!" We still managed to stick the guys for $15 each, though. That'll go for a good party tomorrow night.

11:00—Cleanup. MOP MA MOP MOP. They used orange water color paint (like I said, they would make good cops) and the Fire Department, Police Department and Cedar Crest contingent helped out.

These . . . are the facts. The "Orange Stripe Gang" has been smashed, except for 90% of its members. We'll be waiting for them next year, plain-clothesman and all. We'll get them . . . hee. WHO ARE THE "TOP-FLITE" GOLFERS ON YOUR CAMPUS?

If you've watched them on the course, you've probably thought: "Boy, if I could just get my game down like that!"

Constant practice is the answer, of course, but getting the best from your equipment is just as important, too.

That's where Spalding TOP-FLITE® clubs have the edge. They have more to offer in precision balance that gives an absolutely uniform swing-feel with every club in the matched set.

That's the secret of Spalding SYNCHRO-DYNED® clubs. And, it will pay off for you from the first round. You'll make the same shots with new uniformity. The perfect balance of these clubs lets you swing through the ball with confidence. Without "choking-up" or "compensating." You get the ball away cleaner, longer, and with more shot control.

These are the clubs that have lowered handicaps by as much as 1/3: Spalding SYNCHRO-DYNED TOP-FLITE clubs. Your Golf pro has them now. And, now's the time for you to start playing better golf.

JAKE SEEGRAMS AND COMPATRIATE CASTRATE LEGION

National Interest Aroused As Big Defender Of Defenseless Openly Degraded By Idiotic Couple

HOREMONES USED

Back Alley Opera House Star Makes Pregnant Comment On Feelings Aroused By Charlie Chaplin

National interest is aroused over the riot on the Muhlenberg Campus in which a member of the American Legion, that defender of American Youth, that defender of American Morals, that defender of American Traditions, that defender of the American Legion, was seriously wounded by J. Conny Seegrans and his compatriate in crime, Hazzled Hazle Hizzle. Both are members of the Society for the Preservation of American Schools, Churches, Theaters, Cities, Farms, Bawdy Houses, Burlesque Theaters, Sky Scrapers and Beer Joints.

The whole incident started when the Legion picketed the Society's monthly meeting on the grounds that the Charlie Chaplin films being shown there might incite the members to see blue! (This offense was recently given the death penalty by the Supreme Court)

Rabble Rouser Spouts

However, Rabble Rouser, the famous star of the Back Alley Opera House, who is currently starring in "Pink Tights," said that the film couldn't arouse any anti-legion feelings because: 1. the films were silent and therefore the actors couldn't speak; 2. the films were in black and white and couldn't contain any red color; and 3. Chaplin isn't a good enough actor to convince anybody of anything.

The Legion, a powerful organization in Macungie, has showered the office of the President of the College with protests. Some members even go so far as to suggest violence. One Legionnaire threatened to bomb the campus with radio-active particles of Esterone (female hormone for you dumb ones). Another suggested breaking all the windows in Memorial Hall. Other means of revenge of similar terrible proportions have been suggested.

Both sides have taken some very definite steps. The Legion plans a 25-day continuous picket with their entire membership taking part. The lines are expected to extend from Memorial Hall to Liberty Street.

Red Light District

Camping grounds have been set up in Cedar Park. The great influx of Legionnaires into the city has jammed up traffic and every available room is taken. The famous Cedar Crest Boarding House is filled to capacity.

The members of the Society are prepared to resist any advances of the Legion. An interested observer fears the streets will run "red" as a result of the possible battles.

Conny and Hizzle have issued a general call to arms. Cedar Park is in full view of the ATO fraternity and the Dean's residence and both will be of great strategic importance because their long range water pistols are trained on the enemy camp in Cedar Park. Colored water will be used, of course.

All other members of the Society will be prepared to guard the college which has been condemned because of its red doors. Even this newspaper has been condemned because it is red.

Some of the basic principles of our system of government are at stake. This incident could result in a national catastrophe. This newspaper will not report the facts through "rose" colored glasses. We will report the truth through bombing, raids, wars, H Bomb attacks, anything. So onward ye men. As the Legionnaire said, let's not forget "Toward A Greater Muhlenberg."

MARY FUNK DIED MARY FUNK DID DID MARY FUNK?

Jake and Hazel don't take no stuff from the Legion. They shoot 'em, ya!! What a broad to have as Muhlenberg's first lady. Want to shoot craps Hazel?

Sic Hep Irishmen (Ha!) Donate Orange Stripe For Hamilton St.

Approximately 250 Muhlenberg Irishmen participated in Allentown's annual St. Patrick's Day Parade. The affair, which runs the length of Hamilton St. was particularly interesting to college students this year.

IDIOTS PRESENT VARIETY SHOW IN WASHROOM

Mental Delinquency Association
President, Doity Boid Stenger,
Lauds Bad Acting Of Fellow
Delinquents

Last night the annual faculty variety show was presented in the men's washroom of the Student Center under the auspices of the Mental Delinquency Association of Muhlenberg College. President of the association, Dr. Harold Stenger, remarked: "We ain't never had nothin' exactly quite like dis at 'boig ever'."

The program was a novel one, beginning with the introduction of the Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Philip Borque. The curtain opened on Mary Funk playing "I ain't Got No Body" on the musical saws. Miss Funk was followed by Dr. Kenneth Webb who rendered his interpretation of Granada on the harmonica. His performance was received with many thunderous "Bastas" by his "22" boys.

As a piece de resistance, Dr. Andrew Erskine recited "The Face on the Barroom Floor" accompanied by Mr. William "Lightfingers" Kinter at the piano.

For the finale, the entire cast marched triumphantly to the Administration Building with shouts of "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity" and guillotined the dean, afterwards placing his head on a pike in front of the chapel. Muhlenberg's provider of fertilizer, the spotted dalmation, is expected to "lift a leg" at the sight of her master.

During intermission refreshments (vodka and no-cal pizza) were served by Dr. Russell Stine and Mrs. Conrad Seegers. All agree it was a gala event.

LUDDY'S ORGAN GETS ADDITION

Our Luddy (Local Load on Campi)
Rejoices Over New Organ; "Now
I Can Play With Increased Vigor"

Ludwig Lenel is reported to be very happy over the installation of a steam calliope as part of the Skinny organ now in use in Muhlenberg's Chapel. Lenel says that the new addition will be extremely useful to him as he pursues his favorite pastime of baffling students as he splits their eardrums with horrendi versions of otherwise familiar tunes.

The calliope will provide for the production of sounds never before heard by human ears. With it, Luddy expects to modulate the music so that it will be both unbearable and un-understandable.

Fuel for the production of steam to run the calliope will be provided by John Adams and his henchmen as they scurry around the Chapel gathering up chapel slips.

OUR HENRY MMR TAPS FIRST KEG AT BEER BLAST

Profs Go Apey At Beer Blast;
Blinky Bowen Rats On Buddies;
Cops Book Parker And Bore-K

Saturday night the East Hall Quadrangle was the scene of a rather boisterous BEER PARTY. Guest of Honor, Dean Henry M (MOONSHINE) Muhlenberger did the honors by tapping the first keg of the evening. When interviewed later that evening, Moonshine said (quote), "Don't get me wrong, I'm not a teetotaler, but my favorite drink is milk on the rocks." Muhlenberger's version of Mendes-France further stated that he hoped to make these blasts a regular Saturday night affair. At the time of the interview it was reported that his dog was seen fertilizing the west end of the campus.

Parker's An Idiot

The party was finally quelled by the appearance of the Allentown Police Department. They took into custody several Muhlenberg Faculty members, mainly: Mr. P. J. Borque, the instigator of a chugs - a - lug contest and also Mr. Harold Parker. Parker was charged with causing a disturbance by trying to organize a track meet around Capt. Russ Wilson.

Intense investigation led to the purge of the physics department where chemists in disguise Boyer and Raub were caught with their 1,000,000 gallon still.

It was later found that "Blinky" Bowen was responsible for informing the police since the disturbance was so great he couldn't concentrate on making up his next "Jap" test. But the evening turned out successfully with "Old Reliable" Haps Benfer bailing the "boys" out of jail with his usual lecture.

SPOOKY LINTNER RAILROADS TOM TO HEAD COALITION

Upholders Of Individualism Gather
To Give Kelsall Italian Crewcut
Says Tom, "I've Been Shaved"

by Two Narrow-minded, Dogmatic
Bigots

At the last meeting of the International Club, Sophomore, Al "Spook" Lintner, was railroaded in as president to unseat Senior, Tom "Whiskers" Kelsall. Lintner, with the support of John L. "Free Thinker" Hopper, Donald C. "Thespian" Sheasley, and Irv "The Martyred Individualist" Kerson, was able to form the coalition which would unseat the old regime.

Newly elected, Worthy Master Lintner has announced the qualifications for membership in the society which consist of nine major points as follows:

- 1) Maintain an esoteric air of superiority in your respective field of study.
- 2) Associate with people who know nothing about your field of study.
- 3) Be a frequent visitor to Ma Kern's and Joe Yost's.
- 4) Raise hell in the dormitories.
- 5) Always act confused and chaotic; it's one of the basic signs of modern intellectualism.
- 6) Reject all forms of classical art, music and literature.
- 7) Become a Brubeck fan.
- 8) And above all, reject everything that is accepted.

The group's plans for next year include growing beards and having shaggy hair cuts, harassing Russell Stine by defending spiritual emptiness, providing guitar music in East Hall, and setting up a criminal law firm for defending innocent martyrs (i.e. victims of pressure groups of book worms, and political aspirants) against the vicious inquisition of the Student Council.

In general the organization will definitely attempt to prevent the "decline of intellect" on the campus by trying to provide an atmosphere of pseudo-intellectualism.

Celibates Celebrate In Honor Of Departed Celibate-Sinners

This week the John A. W. Haas Pre-Theological Club participated in its annual celebration consisting of a pep rally followed by a solemn pontifical mess. The celebration was in honor of his eminence the late departed F. Stewart Emmert (Missouri Synod, forever fame). Presiding at the observance was Bishop Arvids (I come from Latvia) Ziedonis. Also in attendance was the papal nuncio, his eminence John Cardinal Adams, O.M.L. (Order of Martin Luther).

The Pep Rally was under the direction of Ken (The Baptist, now known as Evangelist) Trexler. This year's pep rally was in commemoration of the know nothing, do nothing, be nothing, Pre-Theos who have done just that during their tenure at Muhlenberg. Leaders of the Rally were: Carl (The Pious) Schmoeyer, Gunars (Silent) Ansons, Wilson (I got an A) Hoyer, and Ernie (the temptor) Pohlhaus. All of the jeers were led by Fred (The Quiet One) Geehr, Muhlenberg's most modest Pre-Theo. The pep rally ended with the Pre-Theo theme song: The Colonel Bogey March.

Leading the procession and carrying the torches into the Cathedral were: Lee (The Greek) Angstadt, and Walt (Dutch) Hafer. The Pitchfork was carried by Byard (I Came Late) Ebling. The lower clergy consisted of such outstanding personalities as James (do nothing) Corgee, Ed (I won a letter) Druckenmiller, Carl (Big Mouth) Behrmann, and Dick (Philosopher) Schlegel.

Then followed Monsignors Robert (Laughing Boy) Keys and Dick (The heretic) Merrick. The Abbot in this procession was Richard (Squire) Wenzel of the Anglican heresy. The West Hall Diocese was represented by Richard (Sad Case) Hinkle and Carl (Dutchy) Adams.

Following in the wake of this mob came the high point in the procession as George (Fats) Hein, acting as pitchfork carrier extraordinaire, paved the way for John (The Silent-Cardinal Archbishop of the Pittsburgh Slovak diocese of the true church) Adams. Accompanying the Cardinal was his personal Chaplin William (The Prot) Sunderland.

As the procession passed into the cathedral they were greeted with the rich tones of "Put on your old Gray Bonnet." At the console was Muhlenberg's musical genius Arch-Deacon George (Johann Sebastian Bach) Lachenauer.

Ceremonatus of the mess was Ed (The Prophet—I never say a word) Smith. The appearance of the Prophet offended the high-churchmen who immediately purified the path with grape juice. Acolyte for this occasion was Gene (Out behind the Barn) Shiffer. Servers at the mess were Werner (I'm Smart) Weinreich, and Paul (The Positive) Weidknecht.

Adding weight to this occasion were two of the church's outstanding politicians and frustrated Pre-Theo's William (The Persecutor) Quay and Confidential Ron Schlittler who participated as Thurifier and Boat Boy respectively. Sub-deacon for this awesome service was Edgar (Shorty) Schick. Father C. David Gotshall, better known for his slogan of "Bigger and Better Adiphora," was the deacon.

Celebrant of the mess was Lehigh Valley's illustrious son Robert L. Keys. Official observers and acting as spies for the "ev. luther" (Continued on Page Four)

BLINKY BOWEN JOINS JAPANESE FRUIT CONCERN

Blinky Say, Me Japey Roommates
Me Japey Muhlenberg Students
He! He! He! Me Just Big Jap

BLINKY BOWEN TIME

But You No Have No Fear For Me
No Stay Long Here. Me Go Back Home To Japey Japan. Goodbye!

"Blinky Bowen," the trained observer, who is remembered on the Muhlenberg campus for his ratty experiments, is now in the service of one of Japan's exclusive fruit concerns.

In a confidential interview "Blinky" declared that this is the type of position that he has always hoped for. His last job consisted of experimenting with white rats in an attempt to determine why these rats all seem to turn left when they should turn right. After much scientific calculation, he discovered that no right turns were allowed between 12 a.m. and 12 p.m.

Your interviewer in questioning "Blinky" was very much impressed by his stumpy bronze face which was set in a toothy grin and his suave debonnaire manner.

He related only one incident of great consequence since his arrival in Tokyo. It seems that some culprit pulled the sparkplugs from his rickshaw in an attempt to avenge the treatment afforded him during his last business dealings which turned out to be nothing more than a fruity proposition. It seems that this gentleman was one of the largest fruit dealers in Tokyo and objected to "Blinky's" proposition.

The Japanese Sandman then went on to relate just why he decided to leave Muhlenberg. It seems that he knifed his roommate and the authorities are still looking for him and are warned especially to look out for a jap.

Here in Japan he related how safe he feels among his own people. In conclusion he stated, "He who play with students end up playing with self."

ALLENTOWN COPS SUCK UP BIRDYS AND FRAT-RATS

One Flatfoot Yells "Youse Kids Is Always Disurbin' The Peace."
Boy Yells So Vor's A Piece For?

The Allentown police, in an attempt to become better acquainted with Muhlenberg students, kindly provided transportation the other morning for one of the campus's early morning bird-watching fraternities.

The birdy enthusiasts trooped into the Paddy wagon and other assorted forms of transportation provided by the police and were quickly and noiselessly conveyed to the spot of their meeting. The officers even provided an escort and a few guards to see that nothing "disturbed the peace" of the deeply engrossed young men. Now where could you find a better example of fraternity-police cooperation.

The organization uses calisthenics, running and other assorted exercises to get its men in shape for this tedious business of bird watching. Jokingly, somebody came out with the old one that these guys didn't work, they were cops. Ha! Ha! Everybody laughed, but the cops.

A new type bird was spotted, a copper. It's call is! "Screw you college men. Screw you college men." "You screw us, we'll screw you." (A very talented bird)

Everyone was just on the point of ecstasy by the time 6:00 a.m. rolled around. Bird watching can be pretty interesting stuff. For some unknown reason, the pledges seemed to take a dim view of the whole affair. But, all in all, it was a morning enjoyed by all from the "most exalted ruler" of the group to the "most dignified" of the pledges.

Because of the great enthusiasm shown, a gym dandy number of field trips will be held in the near future.

NOW DID YOU EVER THINK WE'D USE A TYPE LIKE THIS

John Adams sadly follows his own advice to "Stay Away." The popular senior is now going to the greener pastures of the angel factory—minus his horn.

At trial held in the Dean's Door of Muhlenberg College, the MCA was tried and convicted on six counts of dirty rushing. The whole affair has caused quite a stink on campus. Some of the charges are as follows:

1. Wholesale violations of dirty rushing during chapel. Particularly on the part of that real gone cat, Dick Merrick. Let's hope that nobody STAYS AWAY because the Dean promises to see to it that this doesn't happen again.
2. Posting rushing posters in all hoppers in west hall. Gentlemen, how low can you get? Why a man has no privacy anymore.
3. Gross violations by printing "DON'T STAY AWAY, JOIN MCA" on all West Hall toilet paper. Most of the freshmen simply wiped this attempt away without a second thought.
4. Forcing all freshmen pre-theos to pledge or be doomed to hell.
5. Threatening violence and using such phrases as "Oh, you just shut up or I'll spit in your eye" and the more subtle type, "They fellow, won't ya come and see me some, I mean join our club."
6. Threatening to use their mighty influence to see that your friend and mine "Blinky Bowen" stays on campus for at least another year.

The dean set up an unbiased committee consisting of Tony Saddler, Robert Roehm, Sidney Tannenbaum and "Blinky" to hear the Editorial Screws . . Hurrah For Us!!!

What a crazy, mixed-up world this year of editorial writing has been. At the outset, we had the onslaught of prohibition and all that messy business to write about; then the football coach managed to get his scalp through another season, our first winning one in several years; and about the middle of the year, when the Edward R. Murrow TV show aroused a flurry of passionate words, we again had something to write about, and several of the camp's illustrious personages were off on a crusade motivated by 25 million TV viewers and a debate of sorts.

But the gem of them all was the red tinge that surrounded the "Star Spangled-Herbert Paul Lentz-American Legion Post" and the Charlie Chaplin movie film. Boy, did we bite that one! We almost printed the paper in red ink.

Now the Chapel incident was a convenient little controversy which arrived just in the nick of time (ask Dave Miller, feature page editor). Let's refer to the incident as the "Ultimatum." Tons of material poured in and all Dick and I could think of was Pope's couplet that runs "words are like leaves and where they most abound, little fruit of sense is rarely found." And while students were so busy saying a whole lot of nothing, Dr. Staack stood up in the controversial place and said in several cryptic phrases something to the effect that "... you atheists could come and meditate on yourselves and find out how empty you really are ..."

Well, when the spring rolled around, I was all set to pull out our "Keep off the Grass" editorial until some illiterate Latin student came along and stuck up some signs.

When March 17 rolled around we were caught in a dilemma as to whether we should put a box in the editorial column marked SEE YOU AT TALLMAN'S or write something pertinent entitled BLAST, BLAST, BLAST.

We're Great!!!

In recent years, the Muhlenberg WEEKLY has received many awards from several organizations because of Editorial Excellence, content, and, most important, perfection in proof-reading. To the uninitiated reader, this means the absence of mistakes in the finished paper. This is very important, especially in a city newspaper, where a "Bloop" in print can mean a lawsuit and a decrease in circulation, the life-blood of every newspaper.

We, therefore, point with pride to our flawless newspaper and the way it comes out perfect each week. It is with humble hearts, however, that we except these awards, and we promise you that in a while we shall give of our utmost facilities in an unpresidential manner to give each and every Muhlenberg student a mower and 25% copy, as (s?/dabul as &"$ wee caJn make it. Idiot Fisherman Addresses Business Department Class

by A. C. Student

Business and Economics majors are privileged to be among the first to be brought up under a new system of education! This brand-new system was brought to us by none other than Horass "Fishtail" Balthook Townsin. The old system—that of educating the student by the passé means of learning the material has been replaced.

The old school of thought concerning education placed emphasis on hard, long hours of study, with mastery of the material as an important factor. The marks received on examinations were the foundation of the student's ability.

With the coming of Horass, all this has been changed. Little or no emphasis is placed on the knowledge of the material. Examination marks have been replaced by "Brownie Points." Since examinations are required, Horass gives one hour test and a final examination. The ability of the student to do well in the examinations does not constitute his mark. Since one-third of the student's mark is an hour exam, the second third, the final examination, the remaining third is a rather ambiguous term-class participation. What Horass means by class participation is not necessarily the amount of discussion a student adds in the lecture period, but is rather his personal evaluation of the student's ability. The student's ability is based upon such important factors as age, personality, and his ability to be a yes-man.

To explain the new system further, we shall look at the average class lecture. I can still see Horass walking into class ten minutes late, (as usual) with the wrong roll-book under his fat little arm. After a brief interlude of smiles and giggles, Horass discovers his mistake. After the correct roll has been taken, he reaches into his grey suit pocket and removes a pack of Winston cigarettes. He then removes a Winston and proceeds to light the filter end. The class sits enthralled, waiting to see Horass light the filter end. He very seldom disappoints his students! After another brief interlude of smiles and giggles, a thin smile crosses Horass's lips. As he inhales approximately half the cigarette, he relates to the class a cardinal principle of the new system. Exhaling, he states in his own inimitable fashion, "There is a definite correlation between poor class attendance and poor marks." (Take note—sleepy business majors, YOU CAN CUT HORASS!) He then realizes, five minutes later, that he has lit the WRONG end of the filter cigarette.

From this interesting point, he proceeds to expound on business subjects like fishing, the U. S. Navy, and railroads. Any old railroad! After an approximately half an hour of unadulterated Bull, Horass realizes that he must cover at least ONE page of the chapter. He usually starts his classroom discussions with a very general question such as, in his Corporation Finance class, he will ask, "What is Corporation Finance?" If none of his yes-men raise their little paws, he calls on the class sleeping beauty, Walter Rapp. Unable to find a satisfactory answer there, Horass calls on one of his personality boys (shining example) Jack "The Squirrel" MacDonald. After muttering a few generalities, Horass takes over the discussion. Here Horass displays what is commonly known as "changing black to white."

When one of his B students comes up with a wrong answer, he nods his curly grey receding hairline and comes out with, "Yes, but also ..." or "Certainly, but by-and-large" in his best Peter Lorre imitation. And when a C student happens upon a right answer, his eyes widen, he points a discouraging, tobacco-stained finger at the hapless student and states, "But you're not taking into consideration the fact that ..." The discouraged student then realizes that Horass's ability to turn white to black has destined him to remain among the many C students.

Edgar Guessed— The Peapicker's Poet

I love to study German, this language of intrigue, And here at Muhlenberg College, we have a linguist league.

There's dear old Ralph the Scholar, who teaches with "technique" He makes the German "easy" his class attendance—"peak."

And then there's Louie Ziemand, the Austrian teaching whiz, He holds a class each Friday, and usually it's a fizz.

So finally there is Heinrich, the best old man of all, He tops both of his colleagues, and that's saying nothing at all.

formerly mule kicks

The dean wishes all students to send in their suggestions and criticisms of his administration. All letters will be held in confidence (so say HMMR of the Ad building). The following letters were the first received and are published so students will know what not to write to the Great Shnoze of the Ad building. (P.S. They have all been expelled except Schlittler who plays ball with Dean from now on or else.)

Thomas Kelsall: "I haven't been canonized. I can't understand why this college realizes my incapacities. If I can run England, I certainly can run this dump. I know everything there is to know; you are all fools and blithering idiots. Muhlenberg needs me."

Ron Schlittler: I hate the dean, I hate the dean; really I hate the dean; please believe me when I say that I hate HMMR of the Jungle. The dean hates me Ha, Ha, Ha, I took his chapel slip away the other day. I also stole the dean's rug and now he really hates me because he can't sneak in late anymore. I just want everyone to know that if I am found dead you will all know who did it: HMMR!

Edgar Schick: I am the greatest thing that has hit this campus since HMMR of the Jungle got flunked here. Just ask the genius Meyer who is the closest thing to him on this campus. I am also really popular, good looking, brilliant and piled high. I just thought everyone would like to hear about me because I am going to teach here at Summer School: I am so thrilled, aren't you?

STAACKED AROUND CAMPUS

Monday, April 4: Dr. Haagen Stack will address the Women's Auxiliary Basketball Team at their 2:00 p.m. meeting in the Memorial Hall locker room. His theme will be: "What is a basketball in a Christian Society?"

Tuesday, April 5: Dr. Hacken Staang will address the Women's Slipstitching and Chordripping Debate Society at 1:00 a.m. in the Pool Room in the Student Center. The theme: "Underwear in a Christian Society."

Wednesday, April 6: Dr. Hanging Stalk will address the Shady Lady Nudist Society at 6:00 a.m. in the shadows behind the Commons. The theme: "Clothes Make the Man in a Christian Society, but I like you-all the way you are."

Thursday, April 7: Dr. Sagging Hack will address the Golf Team of the Ladies of Hadassah before the sun goes down, on the Turner-College Heights Bus. The theme: "How to go around in less in a Christian Society."

Friday, April 8: Dr. Hockendaugua will address the Expectant Mothers of Illegitimate Children at 3:30 p.m. in the Dome atop the Library. His theme will be: "How the word 'yes' can change your way of life in a Christian Society."

Saturday, April 9: Dr. He Ha Hagen Stuck, the Norman Vincent Peale of the Lehigh Valley, will address anyone who happens to listen at 12 noon from the top of the Center Square Monument. The theme: "How to Rob a Bank in a Christian Society."

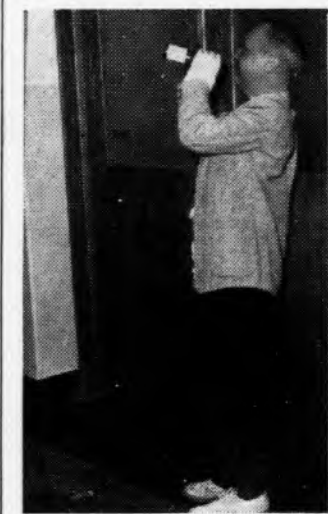

Sunday, April 10: Dr. Haggard String will not address the congregation at the weekly service at 5:00 a.m. in Ritters' Bar and Grille, due to a terrible attack of laryngitis. The theme (which he was to have presented): "What is a Christian Society?"

Addlepat, Asanine "Ad-Man" Bumbles, Boozes 'n' Belches

"Here he comes! Here comes da dean!" Yells, hollers and noises filled the summer air as 'Melck' Richards approached his many friends. He was proud of them all. You could tell that by the way he staggered-ah-swaggered up to them on a warm summer evening. He liked them, every single one!

Melck stood before the shouting, burping group and thought to himself. This was odd. Melck wasn't in the habit of thinking, but if he did it quietly and if nobody noticed him, he wouldn't make a fool out of himself as he so often did in public.

"Gee," he thought to himself (quietly) I'm sure lucky to have friends like this! There's good old Mick. Yeah, Micky agreed with him profusely, because Scarface was lifting his wale as he was ranting on thus.

So went the summer. Drunk last night, drunk the night before, gonna get drunk tonight ... etc, etc., on into the evenings.

Came the revolution. (Fall) The doctor had warned good old Melck about his internal processes—seems he had too much blood in his alcohol system or something. Did it bother good old you-know-who? Naaaah, not him.

He got so frustrated about not being able to drink up that "sgoodd booshee" he loved so well that he decided to take it out on the unsuspecting students. What a sad day that was in Milwaukee! He decided drinking, he said he abhorred drunkenness (from experience), he despised the ungentlemanly conduct that college men showed when tight, (he was fingering the watch he had taken when he had rolled a drunk the night before, wondering if Willie the fence would give him $40 for it, while he was ranting.)

This diatribe against the golden brew shocked the students, naturally. Some of the non-drinkers decided to show the dean that they could drink without getting as obnoxious as he did so often, and most of them did. There was one case where a single man got almost as drunk as Melck likes to, but that doesn't count, because he imitated the dean in everything he could. Needless to say, the kid has no friends.

No one has ever reported the dean for his terrible behavior, because they like it here. I'd hate to get kicked out of a school because I saw the DEAN drinking, wouldn't you? Okay, then let's not mention the time we saw him at the Havilland, or the night at the Village Inn, or the Dial Inn episode, or the Tallman's incident, or ... oh, there's so many ...

By the way, the above picture is one of many taken as Melck tired to get into what he thought was his car ... Melck, it's your office, and you can't open it with a bottle of Neuweiler's!!

by Exodus Leviticus Deuteronomy

This is your behind-the-scenes escapades with women. Merrick reporter bringing you the never-before-told inside story of what goes on at Pre-Theo meetings. Contrary to popular belief, there is more passed around at those meetings than just grape juice and white cake. Had your reporter not attended last Monday's meeting, the real truth concerning Pre-Theos and their activities might never have gotten to the public. Needless to say, your reporter was astounded at the manner by which these budding clergymen conducted themselves. The meeting was confused and disorderly and it was hard to get any meaning out of it whatsoever.

This was an unofficial meeting. I shudder to think what kind of a mob scene I might have seen if I would have been able to crash one of their regular, secret-society-type gatherings. John Adams, who acted as president of this orgy, called the conglomeration to order in his loudest hog-calling voice. As the noise quieted to a steady roar, John took care of the whole business meeting, that is, where and when the next meeting was to be held. Thus ended the business meeting for the evening. The business meeting being over, "Little Ed" Schick and Kenny Trexler simultaneously whipped out their white Bible hip-flasks and proceeded to throw a few down. Between snorts and gasps for air, I could hear Kenny gurgle, "Mmmm ... good boozee!" "Little Ed" said nothing, but just kept putting the shots away neatly.

All of a sudden, the doors burst open and in came Eugene Shiffer and Walt Hafer, rolling a silver half-keg, while the whole Pre-Theo mob gave three rousing cheers for Martin Luther. John "YOU CAN STAY AWAY" Adams could be heard about the din of the herd and it was very apparent that he was due for big things. Yet, tonight yet. While all this was going on, I overheard a conversation between Dick Merrick, Werner Weinrich, Bill Sunderland, Bob Keys, and Jim Corgee, and they were discussing their escapades with women. Merrick was bragging about how easy it was to sneak a girl into the Traylor and Spurgeon's, but that it wasn't nearly as easy to sneak her into the dormitory. Weinrich, on the other hand, admitted that he had kissed a girl (once) and hoped to do it again (sometime). Sunderland chimed in that he once had a girl, but he had to give her up ... seems she refused to memorize the Old Testament. By this time, festivities were going on in the other corner of the room, where the silver keg was the center of attraction. Gene Shiffer, Paul Spohn, Fred Geehr, and John "YOU CAN STAY AWAY" Adams were in the midst of a neck-to-neck battle in a strange native game they chose to call "Chug-a-Lug."

The club's sympathies seemed to be with Shiffer, but when he passed out and fell flat on his face, it was the unanimous decision of the gentlemen that John "YOU CAN STAY AWAY" Adams should be made winner.

John, thereafter, could not restrain himself for the rest of the evening, and he spent the night bragging about his tremendous feat. The party reached an all-time high after Dr. Staack and Dr. Stine were burned in effigy. Among the shrieks and giggles of delight coming from the Pre-Theos, I could not help but hear one voice above the rest, screaming, "Serves him right! Serves him right!" Later, Lee Angstadt and Byard Ebling gave a short discussion before the drunken mob, in which they expressed their views on Free Love.

It was hard for me to hear exactly what they said because Fred Geehr and Dick Merrick were fighting in front of me. Fred had just given Dick a terrific clout under the left ear with his white bucket.

Just as the party seemed to really get going (I mean the meeting) the door to the room was suddenly thrown open and in charged Vice Brigadier Commissar Major Captain Admiral Chief Russ Wilson, attired in full regalia. He had on

Faculty Bigwigs Full Of School Spirit In Competitive ($) Recreation Agency Roughs Up Religion Bad Boys Caught At Casino

Four Muhlenberg "sky pilots" and one organ piper were fined four chapel slips and forty poker chips each, when they failed to notify the agency of their midnight poker tourney last night. Haagen "Empty Eye" STAACK, Connie "The Farmer" RAKER, Russ "Gargantua" STINE, and Dave "Tremenjous" BREMER were caught playing (poker) in the chapel by pre-min pizon on the pigeons roosting on the chandeliers. Upon discovering the afterhours casino, "Whaletail" and "Brighteyes" Goebels immediately reported the quintet to Lieutenant Bill "The Prot" SUNDERS of the East Hall police force, who in turn contacted George Porgie LAWSON of the "Clutch," Berg's underworld controlling agency.

"Whale," known in other circles as "TV Zeiner" reported that he sensed that something was amiss when he saw Luddy "Fleecewig" LENEL still sitting at his lottery stand long after the evening's trotting races should've been over.

Luddy only gave the pair a dirty look. However, when "Whale" opened the back door, he was greeted by Hagen "Hollow Eye," who bellowed, "Whoa da!" That did it.

"Brighteyes" entertained the poker players, while "Whale" crossed the swamps between the chapel and East Hall to wake up Bill the "Prot" Sunderland, who immediately contacted Russ "The Load" Wilson. "Prot" announced that he had been over to the chapel; with that "Load" reached out his hand and replied, "You must be da boy wit my commission." When asked about a commission, "Load" answered, "Da one I get fer perreckin' da boys over in da chapel. Dey give me a rate fer dat."

Reformer Bill decided to hunt out "Honest" George Lawson, a man (?) he could trust. "Honest" George called together the "Clutch" boys for a special meeting in their hideaway under the powerhouse. When he heard George calling the men over his WMUM walkie-talkie, "Prot" knew his job was over, and so he crossed the swamps, known as the quad (in Florida it's called the everglades), and hit the sack again at 12:30 a.m.

Lawson and his crew rounded up the lawbreakers, and pronounced the penalty. At hearing the sentence, Dave "Tremenjous" burst into sobs, "I'm a loser! First I lose at the races, then crafty "Gargantua" strips me, an' now I'm losing again." For those who couldn't make up the chapel slips or the money, other penalties were awarded. "Load" was sentenced to drag cans for the coming week. "Hollow Eye" had a trumpet mute shoved in his mouth to tone down his sharp voice, while "Gargantua" was given an electric wrist watch to wear around his neck (so his classes will be dismissed on time for a change). Luddy, the piper mit der organ was sent back to the chapel to pipe out some Dave Brubeck arrangements.

DRIBBLERS SLURP OXBLURRERS 118-99; GOLA FLAPS 98, WHILE TEAMMIES STINK

The Muhlenberg Mules pulled a surprise upset last Saturday by dumping the La Salle Oxblurrers here at Memorial Hall to the tune of 118-99, despite a 98 point effort by ace Tom Gola. Ach de LEBER, you have NEVILLE seen such a Tallies for the All East Hall cage squad have tallied, and the following team will tally for the Orient residents against Faculty All Stars next weekend:

Al Ferrara, right forward
Wally Reimet, center
Al Lintner, right guard

Al "Malnutrition" FERRARA is one of Tom Triplett's oblong ballers who was squeezed into a round ball. After strenuous dieting, "Malnutrition" made his weight at 245.8156 grams (calculated by scrawny Al in his calculi class). His favorite stragedy is a western roll, which knocks down all the rebounders, leaving the path open for a clear shot. He also has a good straightarm, which helps his rebound average.

Ted DIDUCH, although lacking in offensive punch, is a must for any all-star team. "Powerhouse" is known for his exceptional agility at fouling, foul shooting, and lighting bunsen burners. In fact he burns up the floor with his speed.

Walter "Bones" REIMET is known as the poor man's George Mikan. He once jumped so high that a Mickey Mouse comic book was slipped under his heel. Bones was named to both the Cedar Crest JV and LSA All-Opponent teams.

Werner "Sneakers" WEINREICH is known for tremendous rebounds of rebounds. "Bouncing Baby Boy" Weinreich is so spirited (white-sheeted girls) that he yells "Geronimo" whenever he scores with his overhead, underarm, two-handed flub shot. He is noted as the only ballplayer to drag his hands on the floor while running sideways. "Sneakers" is E Hall misplacement, as is "Powerhouse."

Al "Zombie" LINTNER is an all-around athlete who stars on G Hall's All-Squashball team. "Zombie" is nobody's choice for nothing, except that every team must have an intellectual. He was eighteenth man on all local all-opponent squashes.

CATS PLAY CHAPEL BLACKJACK

MONEY CHANGER IN THE TEMPLE

Luddy, the ivory pounder, appears to be much satisfied over the business which he has done as the proprietor of the local lottery establishment. "Baldy" also serves as money changer for the temple corrupters.

The big red touring car of "Hollow Eye" Haagen Staack is rolling up the driveway to my domicile. "Hollow Eye" is the official chauffeur of the "Clutch." For uninformed readers, the "Clutch" is the underworld organization that controls all matters pertaining to gambling at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa. "Hollow Eye" is rolling his red touring car up the driveway for the purpose of escorting me to a meeting with the top brass of the "Clutch." I am to get the inside on the story of gambling and fixing in the Muhlenberg sporting world. The head of the "Clutch" is doing this because your reporter once did him a great favor (got him two complimentary tickets to an organ recital by Fleecewig Luddy at the Chapel Theatre which was all sold out.)

The contact was made with me by one George "Fingers" Feeman, better known as the "Smirk." Smiling George is one of the better dips at Berg, hence his nickname. "Fingers" slipped a note in my general math book telling me the deal was on.

Now I am getting into the big red touring car and "Hollow Eye" Haagen is putting a grey blindfold with the picture of a red jackass around my eyes. Just a formality. He says, "Yah" and guns the motor and off we go.

A hush falls over the room, as someone cries, "break it up, here comes the boss." Into the room comes the top man, the king-

In The Spook-light

Tall, powerful, Edward O. (for obnoxious) Smith promises to be the leading heavyweight on this year's boxing team. He developed his rugged syle while cleaning cuspidors and draining dimes at the Dial Inn.

Ed is a graduate of South Philadelphia High School where he majored in switchblade technique. He lettered in streetfighting, pickpocketing, numbers and was a unanimous selection to the All-City dart team.

Since coming to Berg, Ed has been quite active on campus. He has maintained a 69.69 over-all average and is a member of 1 Felta Thi social fraternity. He is also a member of Ed Spinoza's Shanghai Society, and is currently taking an evening course with Clarence, the barkeeper on back-room technique.

Pre-theo Ed is philosophy major and hopes to corrupt the angel factory with his antics in 1957. Under the tutelage of Russel "the senior favorite" Stine, Smith has become an adherent of some eminence of Pluto, Sock-raw-tease, and the stein. He has also distinguished himself as a top- Kantman.

Why do more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette?

BECAUSE ONLY VICEROY GIVES YOU A PURE, NON-MINERAL, NON-TOXIC FILTER WITH 20,000 FILTER TRAPS IN EVERY FILTER TIP!

1. Yes, only Viceroy has this filter composed of 20,000 tiny filter traps. You cannot obtain the same filtering action in any other cigarette.
2. Besides being non-mineral and non-toxic, this cellulose-acetate filter never shreds or crumbles.
3. The Viceroy filter wasn't just whipped up and rushed to market to meet the new and skyrocketing demand for filtered cigarettes. Viceroy pioneered. Started research more than 20 years ago to create the pure and perfect filter.
4. Smokers en masse report that filtered Viceroy's have a finer flavor even than cigarettes without filters. Rich, satisfying, yet pleasantly mild.
5. Viceroy draws so easily that you wouldn't know, without looking, that it even had a filter tip... and Viceroy's cost only a penny or two more than cigarettes without filters!

That's why more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette... that's why VICEROY is the largest-selling filter cigarette in the world!

20,000 TINY FILTER TRAPS... plus Richer, Smoother Flavor

Now It Can Be Told!!!!!!

REILLY'S BIG MOUTH

After a year of suppression and covering-up by the powerful, scheming Ad-men, the lid is being blown off this campus!

The author of this column is graduating, and at last he is out of the clutches of those unscrupulous plotters in the front offices of this collich! Read on, fellow students, and you will be astounded to learn at last THE INSIDE STORY OF WHAT HAS BEEN GOING ON UNDER YOUR VERY NOSES! (The Yalta papers have nothing on this!)

For the first time, this column is able to print the TRUTH. ITEM: The Muhlenberg band was a small one this year, you will remember. Various shabby excuses were given as the reasons for the poor turnout. NOW HEAR THE TRUTH. The band was controlled by a small, tightly knit group of MARIJUANA SMOKERS and they wouldn't let men join the band because their dope supplier, JIM "CLOUD SEVEN" STRINE couldn't secure enough reefer to go around.

ITEM: The Black Dean, HENRY "MMMM . . . GOOD" RICHARDS was not wooed away from Temple University at great expense, as was erroneously reported. Actually, he got the job by answering a want ad in the "Alcoholics Anonymous Monthly." The ad stated "WANTED: DEAN for small liberal arts college. Experience desirable but definitely not necessary. Must have own tuxedo and axe for bar-smashing crusades. $50 a week and board. Drifters need not apply."

ITEM: The Mermaid Tavern was not suppressed because of beer-drinking. The real reason was that returning member BILL "THEY LOVED ME IN EUROPE" KINTER insisted on having dancing girls at each meeting and the committee decided that neither the budget or the older members could stand it.

ITEM: Quite a furor was caused when this column reported a tip that RAY DICELLO was receiving a scholarship for being football manager. It was denied. Since then, it has been learned that he did not receive said scholarship. He was paid a lump sum of $100,000 for his services.

ITEM: The ten men named to "Who's Who" back in November were forced to take the pledge that they would not drink alcoholic beverages until they were eighty years old . . . and then only for medicinal purposes. It has been learned that at least one of them has broken his word. It is JACK GEISSINGER, who, with his bare hands, has dug a tunnel from the ATO house under Lake Muhlenberg to Hemmerly's. The tunnel comes out under the bar and Clarence, the very, very friendly bartender, sneaks beers to JACK through a trap door.

ITEM: A very controversial Mule Kick was written back in November, claiming that Mrs. Seegers was driving her car on the grass around here. She denies this. It was a caterpillar tractor.

Idiotic Horass

Horass realizes that he has completed the ONE page out of the entire assigned chapter. He asks what time it is. Without fail, the answer is always "10 of the hour." Simultaneous to this comes the closing of notebooks, the shuffling of many feet and the deep sighs of relief. Such are the lecture periods with Horass.

Previously, I mentioned four examples of things Horass considers important in his students: age (years in military service), being a yesman, the student's personality and his ability to agree with this teacher (?) on his attitude on cutting classes. ("DON'T!")

Evidently, Horass has heard somewhere that a student reaches his peak of intelligence at age 23 or something. This, naturally, most certainly, is true, undoubtedly of course, without doubt, and without question.

The next point is the yes-man point. The yes-man is not new to the college campus. He is one who agrees with whatever the professor happens to say. It may be on the relative merits of the coachman fly to the Speckled Bie-me fly to the inherent importance of the B and O railroad to the prevention of sleeping sickness in Nigeria.

The yes-man nods his head in complete agreement continually. A prime example of this is Roger "Front - Row" Perose. Horass spouted something about the importance of the Economics Club meetings and "Front Row" nodded solemnly and said, "Certainly, undoubtedly . . . true, true."

Now, on to the personality boys . . . these are the ones who definitely have trouble staying in school, at least they would under the old system.

However, in Horass's classes, these personality boys have found a new home. Characteristics of the personality boy are: (1) extreme, uproarious laughter at Horass's seldom-funny quips. Here's a quick quip and results thereof. Once he was about to light the wrong end (again) of his Winston, when he stopped, smiled, and said, "Aha! I caught myself!" Result—uncalled-for, tumultuous laughter from the personality section. Included here with personality is the air of friendliness which prevails in his classes. In simple words, the student buys something for the professor. This is distinguished from graft by . . . ah . . . hm, I can't think of a difference, offhand. Fishing apparel and equipment, books on Fishing Lore, dead fish are some of the favorite gifts.

(2) the personality boy can be seen at the Economic Workshop, talking to important persons. He talks to important persons about something he knows nothing about. Handshaking and glittering smiles are part of this personality boy's bag of tricks.

On to the double-cut boys! Funny as it may sound, there are at Muhlenberg, a few students who would rather go home or sleep than to go to class, especially Horass's. They feel they can learn the material without going to class often or ever. This could have been done safely in the old method, but heaven help those who cut frequently, especially in Horass's class. Bob "Commuter President" Lessel is one who believes that he can cut class and still learn the material. Bob fails to realize the importance of learning the interesting material concerning fishing, the U. S. Navy, and railroads. Any old railroads!

Another example is that of Don "Drink and Make Mary (or anyone else)" Lathberry. After a late, late night out, Don finds it hard in the morning . . . to get up for class, that is! Especially Horass's class. Generally, those who cut have poor class participation marks, and therefore a low mark in the course. Naturally, of course, without question, what else?

This new system is not being limited to the great Business Department of our fair college, happily, but its merits are being seen by other farsighted professors (also nearsighted ones) and the day will soon come when Horass's educational revolution will spread all over the U. S. and Guatemala, as does his bull over his classes!

The old school of education is on its way out . . . Horass will go down in history (as his students go down in Corporation Finance) as the founder of the modern school.

The visiting professor's contributions will long be remembered—never forgotten. Someone says he's a visiting professor??? when's he leaving??

his two holster gun belt, complete with guns, one throwing knife, and an M-1, complete with bayonet, (which is all the rage this spring!) strapped over his shoulder. His stunning turquoise blue coat was stunningly complete with solid fake gold epaulets, polished to a high lustre, and his dainty feet were incased in the bottom half of an iron maiden. (This made for hard walking, but this is high fashion for cops.)

All in all, Russss looked quite the cop and he was determined to prove that he was just that to these wayward boys. He opened his mouth and he closed his eyes and said "what a good boy I am." Getting back into character, he belched. He removed his hat and said (without the slightest hint of a dragnet theme) "Boys, zip up your Bibles, I'm taking you in!"

The Pre-Theos, naturally, were quite shaken up at what was happening and when Russss threatened to take them in, a few passed out. (Those that hadn't already passed out from the evening's activities.)

Russss put his hand on Ed Smith's shoulder and said, "All right, you're going along with me!" Ed wound up and let him have it with a haymaker. It wasn't his most powerful punch, but Russss flew against the keg, bounced through the wall and out the window.

He came back, determined to make his arrest, but by this time the Pre-Theos were organized and as Russss entered the room again, they simultaneously breathed at him. It was TOO MUCH for him . . . Russss staggered backwards and begged mercy. The Pre-Theos charged, letting him have it with the first and second verses of "Jesus Loves Me." Russss retreated. This time, it was final.

The Pre-Theos recognized their victory and all agreed that this was a fine note on which to end their evening. John "YOU CAN STAY AWAY" Adams stopped bragging long enough to give the benediction in Pennsylvania Dutch which went something like this . . . "Ay du shaney, Schnitzel-bunk!" and the Pre-Theos fled out. Those unable to walk were rolled. Thus ended a special meeting of the Pre-Theo club. The room being empty, I climbed out of the closet, where I was hiding, and I sloshed my way through the debris, which was strewn all about the room.

I haven't been the same ever since I covered this assignment. Such utter disregard for life and limb I have never seen. But, that is the story as seen by your seeing-eye reporter—ah—your behind-the-scenes reporter. Ah dun't feel so good . . . huuuuuh!!!

3. The tribunal feels that "the college constitution is very nebulous and unclear about rushing in the West Hall hoppers. The following recommendations are suggested: (a) Rushing in the lavatories be restricted to the urinals and (b) doors be put on the toilets to see that the rushers are given an opportunity to make up their minds by themselves about such a serious matter. (The rushing, of course).

4. The tribunal will handle all future dirty rushing incidents in a like manner so BEWARE, MCA, STAY AWAY!

Loser Holmes has tried everything to make the guys think they were getting their money's worth from Slater, but regardless of assurances of quality and tours through the spotless commons kitchens and storehouse investigations, the guys still don't think they're getting enough for a hundred and thirty-five cents a semester. So what can you do Sherlock, old boy. You know your rights and so do I, but the guys just won't admit that they can't eat as well and as cheaply elsewhere—so you'll have to go on carrying your cross, unmourned and unptied.

You'll have to go on getting those annoying letters from the big boys at the main office. We'll miss you, Holmes. That flair of the continental which your bubbling personality contributed to our campus life will leave a gap almost as big as that of Bull Ritter's departure. Just think, students can't steal extra milk or dessert right out from under your watchful nose, you miserly old hound dog. The difference between us is that we all had the chance as boys to decide whether to be good or bad. You decided to play goodie goodie while we chose the crooked path of life. Now you gotta suffer with us. Toodle doo old top—be seeing you around the garbage can.

got as many influential men downtown as Singma Pup Isgone and we can keep it out of the paper. Our new house is going to be built. Hear this, potential rushees! Pledges . . . there will be a reveille at 3 a.m. every day for the next year. Don't wake the brothers up, or you'll be bowing out for half an hour every hour!

Pledges, next time you try to kidnap such illustrious brothers as "Clumsy" Glick and "Camel-face" Friedman, beware! If we ever hear about it before you pull it off, we'll . . . give you enough money to deport them to Arabia. Harvey "Stupid" Stein says his seafood is fine. Houseparty plans are being made. We might have one, too. It depends. We're going to build a new house sometime. We need more pledges! Note to Russ Wilson . . . next time you crash one of our parties, give us warning, and we'll hide all the liquor. (He puts more stuff in that beef keg he calls a stomach) Bob Krain got an A. That IS news!

So far, the ghost convention, to be held at our house (?) has not materialized. Neither have the ghosts. All we have here are the college spooks. That's Aaaaaaalllll.

pin, "Bullet Bob" Schaeffer, or as he is known in some circles, Shotgun Schaeffer. "Bullet Bob" says, "Be seated, gentlemen."

In answer to my questions of how football games are fixed Schaeffer tells me that it is simple. On the day of a game Tom Triplet will go into the locker room. He will start to give the boys a few words of advice in his famous New England drawl and soon they are rolling on the floor. The result is that they go out to play in various cramped positions and therefore they lose the game. The evil logic of this plan fascinated me. The next question on my list was about the basketball fixes. It was explained to me that before a game that was to be fixed, the team would be taken into the Commons for a sumptuous meal served in excellent style. Of course they are all stunned by the generosity of the magnanimous Mr. Hubert Holmes. They then walk out on the court with their heads in the clouds which provides the necessary dullness which they need to lose ball games.

The tragedy for baseball games is very simple. The day before a game Coach "Tricky" Dicky Fox will go around the players' locker room and swipe all the athletic supporters. Shorn of their springy protective equipment and afraid of inside pitches, the players will not play ball up to par and so provide the necessary impetus to lose a game.

With this enlightenment, I leave the hideaway. I come away with a great respect for the cunning of the Muhlenberg gambling syndicate. Charged to complete secrecy, I cannot divulge to the public any of the intricate workings of the underworld. None at all.

coach of the M Club intramural champions. When time allowed, he also played in the center position for his fraternity's bench squad.

Rumor has been spread that he has been signed to a contract with the pre-theo softball team. Opponents may note his one weakness of not being able to hit slow, fast or curve ball pitching. Otherwise he is an extremely dangerous hitter.

"Snap-your-wrist" Roehm has won much acclaim for his dart shooting in both Norristown and Philadelphia, where he established the first Dart Players Conference for Glass and Bottle Lifters.

Stupid Council Pee Rorts . . .

March 32, 1908

A special meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was held. It was called to order by Roly-Poly S(c)hit(t)ler at 3:09 1/4 A.M. The following members were present: Messy "YOU CAN STAY AWAY," Spawn, S(c)hit(t)ler, Quail, the apostle Paul, Lauuuuuer, Wormwood, Half-Baked, Assyone, Roshamburger, And Wynxnzmykxx.

The minutes of the previous meeting were rejected as garbled.

The Absconder's report was as follows:

Student Body (Marilyn) fund	$3.01
Ass-endlee Fund	.01
Social (Beer) Fund	$5,678,340.69

CORRESPONDENCE:

Mr. S(c)hit(t)ler stated that a letter had been received from Herr Reed expressing threats about the attempted attacks on his life. This got hearty laughs from the hoods attending.

The American Legion sent another letter and the Council agreed that Dr. Cigars should leave the college and that Sen. McCarthy be made new president. It was also decided that the doors of all the buildings should be repainted dull black instead of that red color.

NEW BUSINESS

ORANGE PAINT! It was decided to run these pinks out of school because the color orange is very close to the color (say it softly) red. Messys Fuhrman, Williams, Buck and Salmon were then shot. Council had planned to interrogate these men, but as they were dead already, and no one knew the meaning of the world interrogate the matter was shelved until next year.

The second case brought up for disciplinary action concerned the inhabitants of H hall. It was brought to the attention of the Council that these men were raising H in H hall. With typical democratic action, H hall was blown to H. Council forgot to tell the men living in H hall to move out while the blasting was taking place, and the latest count is 456 dead, 2 wounded, and Bill Chambers placed on the Shell-shocked list.

The constitution of the Butterfly-hunters Club was corrected and approved.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Ass-endlee Committee:—the third program of the year will feature Dave Brewbelch and his toy piano, playing "Liberace Rag." There will also be musical entertainment.

FUTHER BUSINESS:

Being no other business, the Council adjourned to the Commons for a Vodka party.

LUCKY DROODLES! ALL BRAND NEW!

WHAT'S THIS? For solution see paragraph below.

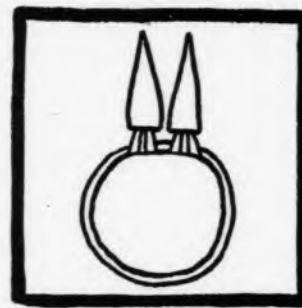

ARE YOU METICULOUS about your choice of cigarettes?

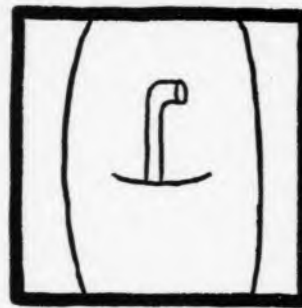

Do you want exactly the right taste? Then take a hint from the Droodle above, titled: Ash tray belonging to very tidy Lucky smoker. Luckies taste neat—and for excellent reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better.

"It's Toasted" is the famous Lucky Strike process that tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better . . . cleaner, fresher, smoother. So enjoy yourself thoroughly whenever it's light-up time. Light up the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

Harvard Scientist Speaks On Religion and Science

The third and final phase of the 1954-55 program of the Institute of Christian Living begins Monday, April 18, and will continue through Wednesday, April 20. The theme for this last ICL program for the current academic year is "Religion and Science: Progress Toward Understanding." As visiting speaker, ICL will present Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, Professor of Geology, Emeritus, Harvard University.

One of the nation's most distinguished scientists, Dr. Mather holds a B.S. degree from Denison University, Sc.D. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago, and a Litt.D. from Union College.

Throughout an extensive teaching career, Dr. Mather taught Geology and Paleontology at Denison University, the University of Chicago, and Queen's University, Ontario. He was professor of geology at Harvard University from 1927 until his retirement in 1954.

Dr. Mather has been a geologist for the U. S. Geodetic Survey; president of the National Council of the YMCA, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, chairman of the editorial board, Scientific Book Club, and president of the Institute of Propaganda Analysis. He is a member of the Harvard Club, the Twentieth Century Club, and the Boston Authors' Club.

Dr. Mather is the author of nine published books, including Old Mother Earth, Sons of the Earth, Enough and to Spare, and Crusade for Life, and is a regular contributor of scientific articles to The Atlantic Monthly and The Forum.

While a guest on the campus for this final ICL program, Dr. Mather will be heard at the regular twenty-minute chapel services, in afternoon discussion groups, and at evening lectures.

Sponsored by the Board of Trustees, the Muhlenberg Christian Association, and the Rehrig Lecture Fund, the Institute of Christian Living is the campus organization which yearly brings to the campus interesting personalities from varied specialized fields in an attempt to provide additional cultural and educational opportunities for Muhlenberg students, with the emphasis on the strengthening of Christian thinking and endeavor.

High School Students Are Guests Of Muhlenberg This Saturday

On Saturday, April 16, high school students from surrounding cities will be the guests of Muhlenberg College at the annual Church College Day. Beginning with a service in the Chapel at 9:30, the day has been planned so that the students will get a picture of life at Muhlenberg and at the same time will be able to discuss their academic problems with the faculty.

Full Schedule

The Chapel Choir will participate in the chapel service scheduled for 9:30. From 10 a.m. to 12 noon all departments of the college will present demonstrations and exhibits. The Pastor's Assembly, scheduled for 10 a.m. in the chapel, will provide the latest information on the admission policy, costs of matriculation and facts concerning enrollment and recruitment. Co-educational and final plans for the new men's dormitory will also be explained. From 12:15 p.m. to 1:15 p.m. all pastors or their representatives and all students will be guests of the college at the noon luncheon in the Commons. Following luncheon, the Mask and Dagger Society will present a one-act comedy.

Dormitories and fraternities will be open throughout the day and everyone is invited to attend the track meet, baseball game and tennis match scheduled for that afternoon.

Mask And Dagger Stages 'The Shrike'

The Mask and Dagger Club will present a play called "The Shrike" in the Science Auditorium on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the first week in May. The leading roles of Ann and Jim Downs will be played by Elaine David and Fred Grosse. This tragedy by Joseph Kramm received a Pulitzer Prize in 1952 and may be presented as a movie this summer starring June Allison and Jose Ferrer.

The plot revolves around Jim Downs who is in a hospital after an unsuccessful suicide attempt. Circumstances force Jim to make a choice between a wife he no longer loves and a large state mental institution. After an inward conflict Jim finally chooses the lesser of the evils, his wife, and decides to forget the girl he has fallen in love with and go back home.

This is Mask and Dagger's second production of the year.

Student Tried; Verdict Given By Honor Court

A Muhlenberg student has been found guilty of plagiarism by the Honor Court.

The offense occurred in the creative writing course of the English Department. The violator knowingly and willfully copied verbatim and presented as his own the published works of another person.

The report of the Honor Court states: "The Court is unfavorably impressed with the flippant attitude taken by the student in regard to his violation of honesty. It is the view of the Court that plagiarism cannot be tolerated on the Muhlenberg campus and that any student found guilty of plagiarism is unquestionably inimical to the best interests of the college."

The court unanimously recommended that the student be given the choice of either immediate voluntary withdrawal from Muhlenberg College or immediate expulsion from Muhlenberg College.

The student has withdrawn and may return next semester if he so desires.

Sociology Society Elects Sunderland

William Sunderland was elected president of the Sociology Society at a meeting of that organization held on Monday, April 4, at 7:30 p.m., in the Chapel Lounge. Ed Kunkel, Dick Schlegel, and Walter Hafer were elected vice president, secretary, and treasurer at this time. As part of this meeting the group also had a panel discussion and discussed plans for the annual banquet.

Hafer, Sunderland and Dick Wenzel moderated the discussion, the theme of which was "Social Change Concerning Minority Groups—Evolutionary or Revolutionary."

The Rev. William Ward, former sociology professor at Muhlenberg, will be the guest speaker at the society's annual banquet which will be held at the Willows on May 2. The Rev. Mr. Ward is now serving as pastor of Rosemont Lutheran Church in Bethlehem. New members of the Society will be initiated at the banquet.

Documentary Film Work Begins With Script Story Conferences

Scriptwriters will arrive on the Muhlenberg Campus sometime next week to begin work on a "dramatic-documentary" film about Muhlenberg College. Production of the film is being handled by Alan Shilin Productions, Inc., of New York City. Shilin Productions has had a wide range of experience in doing work of this nature in that they have prepared films of this type for various church bodies as well as in the field of commercial television filming.

The decision to carry out a project of this nature was made by a special film committee appointed by the Ministerium Appeal Committee. This committee consisted of the Rev. George B. Ammon, a member of the Class of 1933, currently serving as secretary for audio-visual aids for the Board of Parish Education of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania; the Rev. William C. Berkemeyer; Dr. David H. Bremer, Chaplain of Muhlenberg College; the Rev. William L. Katz, associate director of the Muhlenberg Appeal; William V. Nixon, director of employment; the Rev. Luther F. Schlenker, director of the Muhlenberg appeal; and Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, president of Muhlenberg College.

Production To Begin Soon

Actual filming is expected to be started as soon as possible so as to include graduation activities. Current plans call for a film which will cover approximately twenty-seven minutes running time. The film is primarily designed for showing to churches in the interest of the Muhlenberg appeal. The committee also plans to use the film as a means of for student recruitment and also for distribution among alumni.

Nixon announced, in releasing this information to the WEEKLY, "that some members of the student body, faculty, and administration will be interviewed for suggestions next week when the scriptwriters begin their story conferences."

Five Muhlenberg Students Initiated Into Honorary Journalism Fraternity

Five Muhlenberg students were initiated into the Muhlenberg College chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary fraternity, at a candlelight ceremony held Monday, April 4, at 8 p.m. in the West Hall reception room. Cas Wanczyk and Don Tihansky, president and secretary of PDE, conducted the ceremonies for the new members: Larry Cescon, Cal Colarusso, John Keyser, Ed Kunkel, and Jack Marshall.

All five men were elected for their work on the WEEKLY. Their positions are as follows: Cescon, copy editor; Colarusso, managing editor; Keyser, sports editor; Kunkel, associate sports editor; and Marshall, city editor.

Pi Delta Epsilon meetings are held bimonthly and discussions on betterment of campus publications are included as part of each business meeting. The fraternity is also responsible for the annual

Miller Announces New Staff; Dr. Demmy Speaks At Banquet

Dick Miller, editor-in-chief of the WEEKLY for the past year, announced the editorial staff for next year's WEEKLY at the newspaper's annual banquet held March 31 at the Willows. Dr. Curtis Demmy of the Harrisburg News-Patriot was the guest speaker at this affair.

Kemmerer's Students Present Piano Recital

Students of Ralph Kemmerer presented a piano recital at a meeting of the Music Club held Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. in the Music Room of the Library.

Arvids Ziedonis '55, presented two compositions of his own entitled "Theme and Variations in C Minor" and "Prelude in D Minor." Ziedonis also presented "Passacaglia" by Handel.

Other students of Mr. Kemmerer presented works of Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, Debussy, Mendelssohn, and Schubert.

The Music Club planning to bring more programs of a similar nature to the campus in the future.

New Officers

The new officers were elected by the newspaper staff at a meeting held on March 24 in the WEEKLY office. Officers are elected for a one year term of office.

Six Students Attend National Convention

Six Muhlenberg students will attend the national convention of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity, which is being held on April 21, 22, and 23, in Louisville, Kentucky.

William Quay is the official delegate from Muhlenberg College. His alternate is Larry Cescon. Other Muhlenberg students making the trip are John Adam, Ted Drach, Dick Miller, and Ron Schlittler.

Editorial Views . . .

We, Too, Are Targets . . .

Communist activity on the American campus took on added significance for this editor during the Easter recess. It was during this interim that there came to the WEEKLY mailbox a letter from the Labor Youth League, whose headquarters are in New York City. Announcing the opening of a "Speakers' Bureau," one sentence from the LYL communique stated, "The Labor Youth League, which as a part of its educational program develops a Marxist outlook toward the needs, problems and outlook of youth, firmly believes that Marxism has the right to be heard and debated in our schools."

We certainly cannot deny the feasibility of discussing this topic, important as it has become today. However, it was interesting to read the names of the persons associated with their 'Speakers' Bureau.' There is Dr. Albert E. Blumberg, legislative representative of the Communist Party in this country; Lester Rodney, sports editor of the Daily Worker; Bernard Burton, associate editor of the Worker; and other connected with the communist newspaper, as well as officers of the LYL.

The league's purpose would seem to be stated in the organization's newspaper, Campus Sense. An editorial, "Our Credo," read "The LYL has fought consistently against the inroads of McCarthyism, and has stood up clearly and consistently for world peace and against militarization. By its fight for a place for Marxism as a body of thought, to be examined and discussed by students, it has hit at the heart of McCarthyism's attempt to brand debate as 'subversive.'"

On the surface, this statement does not seem actively harmful. However, digging through more LYL material, we find the Communist Party praised for its "courage in the face of attack," as well as a consistent invitation to American youth to be educated in "the spirit of socialism," and to "unite and Challenge." Yes, here are articles which Pravda would be proud to print.

All of this points to a definite responsibility on our parts as the "youth" which the League seeks to recruit for its dubious purposes. Perhaps those political science and economics courses are not such a waste of time after all. Perhaps we would do well to learn about all branches of the communist system that we might intelligently discuss its failings. Moreover, a thorough understanding of our own American democratic theories would undoubtedly further our growth as American citizens.

Too many of us go through college without a purpose—perhaps this is reason enough for an education.

R.G.M.

Lax Profs . . . Whose Problem?

Many students are only vaguely aware that the faculty employed by Muhlenberg College is an organized hierarchical unit which functions individually and collectively. Individually, the professors show up for lectures a specified number of times for each semester with a fairly high percentage in the sessions present—sessions absent ratio. Collectively, the faculty has a reservoir of undefined power: to decide what cut system will be used or whether we'll have faculty classes, etc. The faculty, furthermore, has a ranking within itself as instructor, assistant professor, professor. Just what this rank or title means has never been quite clear to students.

Individually these men sift the students via sundry systems, good or bad, and decide the degree of intelligence or knowledge of a man.

The question of who decides how able or worthy of his post a faculty man is, has also gone unanswered in the minds of many students. Is it theirs not to reason why, or can 50 million German students be right, to pervert an old expression? If a faculty man misses classes, marks indiscriminately, or not at all and fails to get anything across to his students, is it necessarily their fault? If a man rises in the ranks of the faculty and holds a title or position—as the situation may be—is he guaranteed tenure? If the college is obligated to keep him, then might it not be analogous to the chiseling butcher with thumb of gold?

This question has smoldered and been kicked about in student bull sessions, and in specific cases certain courses have become ridiculous objects of jest. As we see the problem, it is not within the jurisdiction of students to act but to make known the existence of a condition.

Easter Bits And Boners

by Irv Kerson

Well, the Easter vacation is over and the April Fool's issue received the usual chuckles and hoots. Nothing new on this end except that my vacation was marred by a twelve inch snowfall (up in the wilds of Massachusetts). Some Berg scholars made it to Florida to take part in the beachcombers' convention. Numbered among the delegates was Dave "Skin Diver" Washabaugh, who almost came to grips with a marine specimen in the beautiful Florida waters. Dave wanted to spear fish for his sea monster, it seems, and he ended up by scaring the creature out to sea. Oh well, I hope that Dave isn't too provoked at not being able to recruit Jack Geissinger and Don deQuevedo in apprehending the sea creature (the boys just laughed at him).

Dave Miller pulled a cutie. He was returning from Tennessee last week (with ample moonshine, I imagine) when he took a wrong turn in North Carolina. He didn't care; he went on to Florida for two days. Nice driving . . . Harry Argeson is in good shape after the vacation. He didn't even go home. Just can't leave these hallowed halls, eh Hank? A few freshmen spent the vacation recuperating from the measles. Joel Pitman was the latest victim of this dread malady.

The Jazz Club is sponsoring another great card of music. Dixie and modern this time. A large turnout is anticipated and should show for the concert . . . Tom "Ruffled" Mane" Kelsall found time to leave Ethics class the other day (seems that Tom was requested to vacate his chair), so he picked up his sneakers, placed them on his feet and left.

The Horse's Mouth is closed! (This is not a reference to Don Reilly, but to his column.) It's so long to his "straight shooters, Ad-men, and jazz bits. Here's three huzzahs and a rousing cheer for Don.

There will be a contest, starting this week, with Irv Kerson, to find a writer who will record the funny side of campus life in the WEEKLY next year.

The Editorial staff will sample student opinion and decide on the new writer. It is their hope that many students will participate in this contest and that the result will be another excellent column next year.

Anyone interested in writing this type of column should contact Dave Miller, Feature Page Editor, and submit a sample column to him as soon as possible. The men who do this should not try to imitate any previous writer, but rather to develop their own style.

"Travel Tips" Present Methods of Outwitting Cops, Cheating Public

by Dave Miller

This is the first (and last) of a series to inform the student traveler of the various means and methods that can be used to travel cheaply, if not honestly. Of course, if you want to travel honestly—obeying all traffic rules, speed limits, paying all fines, etc., read no more.

However, if you would like to save money, time, effort and your reputation as a well-seasoned traveler, here are some words of (?) wisdom.

First of all, remember to look for all signs pertaining to speed, road conditions and local traffic laws. Remember them all . . . but never—repeat, NEVER observe them. They are merely indications and should be treated as such. For instance, in a town like Selma, North Carolina, there are big signs which read, "Speed Limits—25 mph. Strictly enforced." Don't believe it! The play is at least to double your speed when you see these puny signs. Thus the logical speed is 50 or more miles per hour. This may result in arrest, or attempted arrest, if you're not careful. The best procedure is to go so fast that the cop will never see you go by. All he can report is that he heard a high-pitched "Whoosh."

If your car won't take this high-speed procedure, you can use a combination of that and the excuse process. Suppose that you've been pulled in and clocked at 67 mph in a 20 mph zone. Don't let this faze you. When the cop flags you down, think fast. There is no use in trying to tell him that you weren't watching the speedometer, because he's heard that one before.

What to do in a case like that is—lie. Don't bother with a little lie, but make it so big he will have no choice but to swallow the thing and let you go scot-free. Something like, "Ossifer, I've been chasing two new Cadillacs; we're on a speed run. They have the new diesel-hydraulic-grommet-worm-centrifugal drive and we picked your county because of its excellent roads and because of the understanding Police Department around here. The Governor knows of this new method and he'll verify it for you. Now, if you please, I've got to catch up with them. Don't stand too close or you'll get burned by the radioactive, jet-rocket exhaust when I accelerate." Then get out of there, fast.

There are some cops, however, who are literate and won't go for something like that at all. When one of these wise guys stops you, don't argue with him. It's senseless. Shoot him, slam it in low, and remove your car from them there parts.

So much for traffic laws. Now, on some of the finer points of saving additional money . . . first of all, there is the gas station. This is simple. You pull into a gas station, tell the attendant to fill it up, then as you're about to pay him, look toward the station, point to him, look curious and say, "Hey, you're wanted on the phone." As he turns away and walks to the phone, take your cue and DIG!

As for traveling money, this, too, is fairly simple. When you approach a toll bridge, hand the attendant a 20 dollar bill. He will give you $19.90 in change, which you hold in your hand. You then reach in the other pocket, pull out a dime, and say, "Never mind. I have the dime here. Sorry to have bothered you." Whereupon he gives you back the $20, you give him the dime, pocket the $19.90, and move! It takes the average sucker 7 seconds to realize what's happened, so the money you make by this process is directly proportional to the acceleration of your car.

Sleeping accommodations . . . this is a little harder. For this, you walk into a motel, ask the proprietor the price of his rooms, being careful not to let him see you too well. You then drop the quarter you have been flipping behind the desk. He bends down to pick it up, you reach over, pick up a room key from his desk, thank him for the quarter and walk out. About an hour later, you park your car in a convenient getaway spot, walk into the room, and sack out for the night. Be careful to barricade the door and leave the window open and the lights out.

Restaurants present a problem in that they all differ and a general rule is hard to form. Here is a tried and true formula that is almost guaranteed. Walk in, order your food, sit down and eat it. One person should remain behind the driver's seat, ready to roll. As you finish dessert, ask the whereabouts of the Men's Room in a low voice, as if you were ashamed of something. Proceed to the Men's room, return to the table, reach into your back pocket where you find your wallet isn't. Tell the waitress that you left it out in the car, and you'll be back in a flash with the cash. Obviously, the only flash she'll ever see will be your tail-lights in the distance.

This pretty well covers the main points of illegal traveling. It is an extremely interesting way to see the country, and it has worked very well. I've got to finish

Reasons For And Against Voting In Coming Elections

Student Council elections will take place Wednesday in the Student Center, the acceptance deadline having been yesterday. In the past, the percentage of students voting in these and in class elections has been pitifully small. Reasons? There don't seem to be any—or any valid ones.

Perhaps in a national election, when (1) the average voter doesn't know the candidates, (2) must register before elections, (3) must live in an area for a given period of time, (4) must pay taxes in order to vote, (5) has the mentality of about ten-year-old—there might be reason for the citizen's not voting. These reasons (or excuses) are not deemed plausible by any citizen who cares about his RIGHT to vote.

At Muhlenberg, the reasons mentioned above don't hold water. All a student has to do is show up at the polls a few times during the school year. He knows, or should know, at least some of the candidates personally. He cares, or should care, about how his college and his class is run.

Comes the question, why shouldn't more students vote? There is no reason. The main excuses seem to be laziness, indifference and apathy. If a student doesn't vote because he doesn't like the way the candidates will conduct affairs, it is his right—his duty!—to run himself or to support someone who shares his views.

All this is discussion. If this article convinces some students to show up for voting, it has been successful. These are OUR elections—let's ALL vote our campus representatives.

. . . Student Council Report . . .

March 31, 1955

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on March 31, 1955, at 8:24 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Baker, Schlittler, Neville, Loy, Quay, Rosenberger, Wormley, Lauer, Adam, Spohn, Paul, and Wanczyk.

CORRESPONDENCE:

A letter was received from Dean Richards commending Council on the action taken in several disciplinary action cases.

OLD BUSINESS:

Mr. Neville moved that Mr. Irv Kerson's fine be paid before the final examination period. Mr. Wormley seconded the motion and it carried.

Mr. Lauer moved that a letter be sent to Mr. Alfred Lintner for his contempt of Council. Mr. Quay seconded the motion and it carried unanimously.

Five men came before Council for misconduct in Allentown. The men were given a severe reprimand.

Mr. Adam requested that a report be obtained from the Honor System Committee.

NEW BUSINESS:

Mr. Quay moved that beginning with this semester's general Student Council election, the tally be printed in the school newspaper. Mr. Lauer seconded and the motion was defeated with one abstention.

There being no further new business, Mr. Adam moved for adjournment. The motion was seconded by Mr. Paul and it carried.

Respectfully submitted,

The pledges have been making most of the news in the fraternities in the last two or three weeks. There has been a new system inaugurated on the campus in the form of a HELP WEEK. This year it was put under the guidance of Jim Heller of ATO who was ably assisted by the brothers at the house and the pledges from all the other houses.

Their help was given to the YMCA in Allentown in cleaning up and repainting many of the rooms in the local building. Some of the afternoons ended up with an enjoyable swim in the pool, refreshing after a hard day's work.

The pledge classes also have another project on tap in the coming weeks. With the annual Inter-Fraternity Ball coming up, there is a need for decorators, and this job has been put into the pledges hands. Under the supervision of Harvey Stein, chairman of decorations, they will turn the Frolics into "Neptune's Paradise" for all those who are going to attend.

Graduate Collegians Receive Scholarships

Opportunities for American graduate students to study in Switzerland during 1955-56 have been made available by Swiss universities and associates and by the American-Swiss Foundation for Scientific Exchange, it was announced yesterday by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

The Universities of Bern, Fribourg, Geneva (including the Graduate Institute of International Studies), Lausanne, Neuchatel, and Zurich; the Federal Institute of Technology, Zurich; and the School of Economics and Public Administration, St. Gallen; offer tuition grants. These will be supplemented by stipends given by Swiss educational institutions and societies under the Swiss American Student Exchange. The grants were established in 1927 in appreciation of those given by American colleges and universities for Swiss students.

... Student Council Report ...

A special meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on March 21, 1955, at 9:04 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Adam, Schlittler, Loy, Quay, Paul, Lauer, Wormley, Baker, Ascione, Spohn, Rosenberger, and Wanczyk.

The minutes of the previous meeting were corrected and approved.

CORRESPONDENCE:

Mr. Schlittler stated that a letter had been received from Dr. Reed expressing thanks for the $400 which Council has contributed toward the Speaker's Program at Muhlenberg.

Another letter was received from the same party stating that the basketball equipment will not be replaced on the outside courts. Council was also informed that the tennis courts are for Muhlenberg students and faculty only.

NEW BUSINESS:

Mr. Schlittler explained that the purpose of this meeting was to discuss the possibility of taking disciplinary action against students involved in several incidents in the city of Allentown and on the Muhlenberg campus.

The first case involved four men, Messrs. Buck, Fuhrman, Williams and Salmon, who were responsible for spreading orange water color paint on Hamilton Street. Council interrogated the men and after some deliberation, Mr. Quay moved that the four men be acquitted on the basis that they had already been severely fined. Mr. Rosenberger seconded the motion and it carried.

The second case brought up for disciplinary action involved excessive noise in East Hall. Mr. Quay outlined the complaint which he had received from a large group of East Hall residents, who were themselves present to testify. The complaint was registered against one man who was allegedly responsible for the noise. After hearing the various testimonials and questioning the accused, Council went into an executive session and brought forth the following decision. Mr. Loy moved and Mr. Baker seconded that the man be fined $10, payable before April 15th to the Student Body Fund, and if one formal, valid complaint be brought through the Dorm Council, he be expelled from the dorm. The motion carried unanimously.

Messrs. DiCello, Werkheiser, and Keeny appeared before Council and presented the Education Society's constitution for ratification. Mr. Lauer moved that the constitution be ratified. Mr. Wormley seconded the motion and it carried.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Assembly Committee:—The Third assembly program of the semester has been contracted. The program will feature a quartet, The Ravens, and they will be accompanied by a musical trio.

Good Fellowship Committee:—Mr. Adam reported that tickets for the banquet will have to be sold for $1.00 and that all Student Council members will be responsible for the sale of about 25 tickets.

There being no further business, Mr. Paul moved for adjournment. Mr. Spohn seconded the motion and it carried.

Respectfully submitted,

Heavenly Giveaway

When God gave out brains,
I thought he said trains,
and I missed mine,

When he gave out looks,
I thought he said books,
and I didn't want any.

And when he gave out noses,
I thought he said roses,
and I ordered a big red one,

When he gave out legs,
I thought he said kegs,
and I ordered two fat ones,
When he gave out ears,
I thought he said beers,
So, I ordered two long ones,
When he gave out chins,
I thought he said gins,
so I said, Give me a double.

God, am I a mess.

Sport In Short . . .

A few of Muhlenberg's baseball opponents played during the Easter vacation, while the rest are returning to, or just starting their spring baseball campaigns this week. Coach Dick Fox's diamond squad played its second game of the season this afternoon at St. Joseph's, hoping to slug out another high-scoring victory like last year's 29-10 drubbing of the Hawks. Yesterday's contest with Wilkes was postponed because of wet grounds. Last year the Mules defeated Wilkes, 8-3, up at Wilkes-Barre. Frank Sproviero receiving credit for the win after relieving Ed Wasmuth in the third inning.

Navy showed its power against Pitt last Saturday, defeating the Western Pennsylvanians, 23-6 . . . In the Mule-Navy game 10 errors were committed, five by each side . . . Gemma played a fine game at third base . . . Sproviero gave up only four earned runs, but the two homers hurt . . . the chunky portside tripled in the eighth, in an attempt to start a rally for his own cause . . .

Lafayette's Leopards two time district NCAA baseball champions, pushed ahead on their active 28-game schedule over the vacation. Their record is now 3-1 with two big wins over Seton Hall (1-2) and Moravian (0-1), both of whom saw 15 Leopard batters cross the plate. On opening day, the Maroon squad belted the Greyhounds, 15-3, and followed with a shutout over Seton Hall, 15-0, last Saturday. The Leopards collected 12 hits, but had most of their runs given them by no less than 10 Pirate errors! Southpaw Dick Fitzgerald, in his first start, limited the Setonians to two hits before yielding to Tom Maurer in relief in the seventh frame.

Temple (2-4) lost to Princeton, 7-5, and then blew away a six run lead in the La Salle game, losing by a 9-8 count. The Explorers were behind, 7-1, at the end of the fifth, but managed to catch the Owls. A total of six pitchers were used in the game, four by La Salle.

Last Saturday the Owls split a double-header with Rutgers (3-2), the New Brunswick Scarlet nine winning the first, 4-1, on righthander Joe Feldman's four-hitter, and Temple taking the nightcap, 3-0, behind southpaw Steve Hardwick. Rutgers lost to Penn, 3-1, earlier in the week. The Scarlet nine committed two errors in the ninth frame, to

Berg Cindermen Face Diplomat, Royal Trackmen

On Saturday, April 16, Muhlenberg's undermanned track squad will face the thin-clads of F & M in its second meet of the season. This will be the first meeting of the two schools on the track field since 1953, at which time Berg came in last in a triangular meet with the Diplomats and PMC.

F & M is far from a powerhouse on the cinders, but the Mules' lack of manpower will make it difficult for our trackmen to make a good showing against the men from Lancaster.

Following the F & M meet, which is at home, the Mules will travel upstate to run against the Scranton Royals. Last year's attempt against the Royals was unsuccessful as we were downed after gaining an early lead by the score of 70-56. Berg's lack of depth will again tell the story, as Scranton has a well-rounded squad, which is stronger on the cinders than in field events.

The return of sprinter Bobby Lee to the track team at the end of spring football practice will bolster the squad, as will the addition of shot putter Len Woodel, but it is not known whether these men will be ready for the F & M meet. Coach Fellows will rely heavily upon the running of John Keyser and the variable talents of Frank Jankowski.

Diamondmen Seek Wins Against St. Joseph's, Gettysburg, Penn.

This week the baseball Mules seek their first official win of the season, as they return to their schedule with a game at Philadelphia against St. Joe's, followed by two home games with Gettysburg and Penn. The Bergmen beat Johns Hopkins in a practice game, but lost their season's opener to Navy, 6-2, at Annapolis.

Training For the Opening Meet

WEEKLY Photographer Owen Faut snaps two miler Bob Andrews and 220-yard sprinter Clark Morgan, both commuters, as they prepare for Berg's meet with Albright at Reading. Poor weather forced the cindermen indoors where they took their turn in sharing the Memorial Hall floor with the baseball and tennis squads.

Mule Netmen Meet Gettysburg, Bucknell

Muhlenberg's tennis team will open its 1955 season on Saturday, April 16, when playing host to the Gettysburg netmen at the local Oakmont courts. On Wednesday, April 20, the Mules will again perform at home against a tough Bucknell squad.

Last year the Mules beat the Bullets, 6-3. Three Allentownians, Mike Egan, Jay Krevsky and Al Szwczak, will lead the charges of Coach Shankweiler in their attempt to duplicate this victory.

Today the hardball squad traveled to Philadelphia to be the guests of St. Joseph's College. The Hawks, who beat Delaware last Saturday, absorbed a 29-10 wallop last year from the Mules. Frank Sproviero, who was slated by Coach Fox to pitch today, won the loosely-played contest last year. The four pitchers used ineffectively by St. Joe's gave up twenty-four hits, seven for extra bases. The Mules exploded in the third inning with eight runs and had it easy the rest of the game.

Saturday the Mules will be hosts to the Gettysburg baseball squad. The Bullets beat the Mules in a decisive 7-1 victory last year. Hurler Joe Bierly sparked the victory for the Bullets and with his standout pitching permitted only six hits. He is expected to lead the Gettysburg squad, who should provide tough opposition for the Mules on Saturday afternoon. Gettysburg had a very successful year in baseball last year, winning eight straight contests at one point in the campaign.

Next Wednesday the Mules will meet the University of Pennsylvania squad on the Muhlenberg diamond. Last year the Mules were trailing, 7-2, going to the ninth inning when they started a rally which forced Penn to put righthander Chet Cornog on the mound in relief of Larry Masters who had lost control of the game. Cornog halted the rally and Muhlenberg lost, 7-5.

Navy Sinks Mules In Season's Opener, 6-2

Coach Dick Fox's diamond crew lost its season's opener to Navy a week ago Saturday at Annapolis, as the Midshipmen turned in a 6-2 victory behind the four-hit pitching of Dick McClure and the Midshipmen batters, who collected nine hits, two of them homers.

Howie Heiden hit a homer to right field in the second inning, scoring Phil Monahan ahead of him to put Navy in the lead. Monahan got the other home run on a hard drive to center to open the eighth.

Lefthander McClure was in command all the way, giving up only two walks while going the distance.

The Mules committed four miscues and were able to muster only four hits—two by leftfielder Marty Gilbert, and one each by catcher Dick Leber and pitcher Frank Sproviero.

LAST CHANCE: Join the bandwagon today and learn why everyone is so healthy. Join a track team and see why!

JOB WANTED: Able-bodied man would like a position as track coach, 25 years experience with a mediocre record. Did not work 1956 season. Write Ernie Fellows, Box 78, Muhlenberg College.

Albright Trackmen Rip Berg Cindermen, 89-37

Berg's cindermen lost their initial meet of the 1955 season to the Albright Lions, 89-37, yesterday at Reading. The Mule thinclads placed first in only two of the fourteen events, while the Lion trackmen swept all the first and second place berths in all the running events.

Fellows Post I-M Softball Schedule

Schedules have been posted by Coach Ernie Fellows in the Memorial Hall locker room for the 13 teams which have signed up to participate in this year's intramural softball league. League play will begin on Monday.

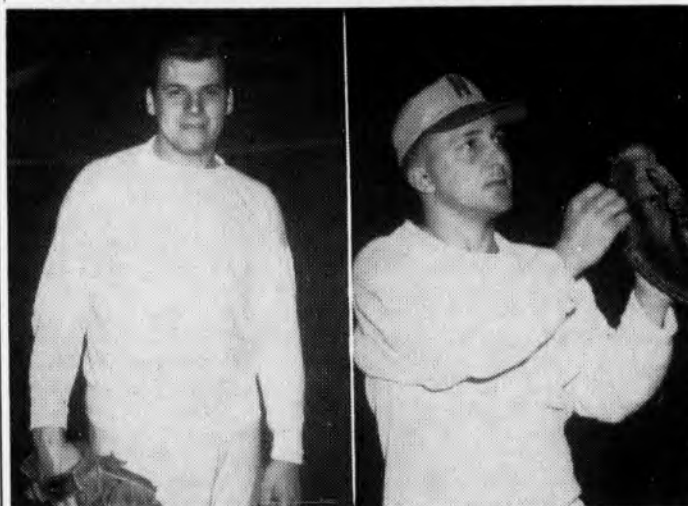

Teams from each of the six social fraternities have been entered as well as teams known as the All Stars, the Commuters, the Don Juans, the DVA's, the Phantoms, the Scrap Irons, and the Star Cleaners.

Last year's I-M softball crown was won by the Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity. The Sig Eps beat ATO in their season's finale to end the season undefeated.

Ken Greenawald won all three events he participated in. He ran the 100 yard dash in 10.3 seconds, the 220 in 23.0, and was victorious in the 220 yard low hurdles thus completing his 15-point sweep. Weight man Bob Krize contributed 13 points, with firsts in the javelin and shot put, and a second place in the discus. Distance runner Bill Shirk won both the mile and two mile runs.

Denny Roth took first place in the high jump for the Mules. He took second in the javelin with a 149' toss. Herm Zieger earned Berg's only other first place berth, pole vaulting at 10' 6". Frank Jankowski was high for the Mules with 11 points. Frank notched four number two spots in the low and high hurdle races and in the high jump and pole vault (tie).

In The Spotlight . . . Moundsman-Ballhawk Duo

Frank Sproviero

Veteran moundsman Frank Sproviero is one of the main reasons why Berg should have another successful baseball season this year. Last year "Spro" came up with a record of 4-3 and an earned run average of 1.81.

Frank is a graduate of Lodi (New Jersey) High School where he earned six letters. Frank participated for four years in baseball, two years in football and earned all-state honorable mention in baseball. During the summer he pitches for the Nutley Colonels.

"Spro," a senior, is a pre-law student. He is considering professional baseball but expects to go to law school. Frank is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity.

His other campus activities include the M-Club, dorm council, Education Club and intramural football. The upperclassmen are still talking about the "good old days" when "Spro" was singing with Willie Restum at Hugo's.

As far as baseball is concerned, Frank feels, "We lost the opener but we're far from being out of it. We started last season with a loss and came along great afterwards."

Frank and roommate Mike Del Tufo have been residents of 115-A Hall for the past two years. Both are often seen together, displaying their "Colonels" jackets.

Mike Del Tufo

Outfielder Mike Del Tufo, a returnee to the Mule baseball squad, is a veteran in diamond experience. He earned a letter in baseball at Berg in his freshman year when he was alternated with Cardy Gemma in right field. This depended on whether the opposing team pitched a righthander or a lefty.

Mike attended Belleville (N.J.) High School, where he compiled an impressive athletic record. He played varsity baseball for three years, varsity football for three years, and was a member of the Belleville basketball J.V.'s for two seasons. In his senior year he was named to the All-State baseball squad and won his school's "Most Improved Player Award" in football in his senior year. Mike was among the high school athletes in the state chosen to attend the annual All-State All-Sports banquet.

Del Tufo was a member of Berg's varsity football squad for two years, and would have been an eligible first string lineman in his junior year. However, he suffered a back injury in pre-season practice, and has been kept out of action by it ever since then.

Del Tufo's greatest asset to the baseball team is his fine throwing arm. He admits that he needs more practice at the plate. He comments that "Spro" and Sadler should hold the team together.

Kunkel's Korner

Several weeks ago, the WEEKLY sports desk received a communication from Ed Fitzgerald, editor of SPORT magazine, concerning the validity of the Supreme Court's attitude toward baseball and boxing. As the baseball season has again rolled around with the crack of the bat and the thud of the catcher's mit, we of the WEEKLY sports staff want to convey the stand of this nationally read sports magazine to its readers. It should be noted that Fitzgerald is not defending boxing and denouncing baseball, but is merely urging the equality of all sports as the term "sports" is defined.

"Except that you may argue that nobody in his right mind would lay himself open to a punch in the mouth for any reason other than financial gain, it is hard for the run-of-the-mill sports buff to understand the logic of the Supreme Courts conflicting attitudes toward baseball and boxing. The same court that has ruled baseball is immune to the anti-trust laws because it is a sport has ruled that boxing is subject to the restrictions of the same laws because it is not a sport but a business.

Come again? Maybe a hot dog is a food and a hamburger is a party favor. Maybe water is a liquid and club soda a mineral. Maybe life is just getting too complicated these days and nothing is any longer what it seems to be. The dictionary defines a sport as "any game or contest, especially one involving individual skill or physical prowess . . ." Perhaps the Supreme Court has been using a newer dictionary than ours, although Justice Frankfurter seems to have retained the common-sense touch in his dissent: "It would baffle the subtlest ingenuity to find a single differentiating factor between sporting exhibitions, whether boxing or football or tennis, and baseball . . ."

It sure would.

Actually, in our opinion, what the whole fuss amounts to is simply that baseball has a lot of friends in Congress, and boxing hasn't got any. The lawmakers knock each other over in the mad rush to proclaim their undying love for baseball, but if there is any rush at all where boxing is concerned it's to put the finger on it and demand an investigation. A promoter friend of ours says that there is one other rush by politicians in the direction of boxing—for free seats.

It isn't our intention to argue that boxing is the most glorious of all sports. As a matter of fact, we would rather watch a ball game most of the time. But boxing is a colorful, powerful spectacle that gives pleasure and excitement to a lot of people. Some of its heroes, from John L. Sullivan and Jim Corbett, through Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, to Joe

Golfers Open Against Lafayette Link Team

Coach Tom Triplett's golf squad will lift the lid from their 1955 schedule when they engage Lafayette on Thursday, April 14, at the Lehigh Country Club golf course, in one of the tougher matches on the schedule.

Last year the Leopards clubbed out a 8½-½ victory over the Mules, as the former aggregation displayed a potent team of linksters during their winning season.

NOTICE!

All men interested in serving on the ICL Committee for 1955-56 are invited to attend the meeting at the MCA room in the Student Center Building at 3:30, Friday, April 15.

There's good money for college students going begging, according to H. K. Smith, Jr., sales manager of Jno. H. Swisher & Son, Inc., Jacksonville, Florida, manufacturers of King Edward Cigarillos and Cigars. In February issues of 497 college newspapers King Edward ran an advertisement offering prizes of $1,000 total with first prize of $500; second, $200; third, $100; and four others of $50. "There's a thousand dollars in prizes that can be easy picking for someone," Smith declared, "because many of the entries thus far would be most easy to top. The contest ends on April 30."

Twenty-Eight Juniors Nominated For Council

Twenty-eight men were nominated for Student Council members-at-large for the 1955-56 term at a meeting of the student body held Thursday, March 31, in the Science Auditorium. Approximately 75 students were in attendance. The nominations for head cheerleaders were also held. Two constitutional amendments were voted on and a report was heard from John Adam, chairman of the Student Banquet committee.

John Adam reported that the "All Student Banquet" will be held on Thursday, April 28, at 5 p.m. at the Castle Garden in Dorney Park. A fee of one dollar will be charged and tickets may be secured from any member of Student Council.

The Student Body Constitution was amended to provide for one yearly election of Freshman class officers, that being at the beginning of the second semester. An amendment providing for the election of Junior class officers for the entire year, to be held at the end of the Sophomore year, was defeated.

Twenty-one of the men nominated have firmly accepted the nomination and their names will appear on the ballot. The men who have accepted are Lawrence Cescon, William Faemi, Arthur Franzblau, David Godshall, Richard Grosse, Herbert Kasnetz, Robert Keys, Peter Lord, Dale Merez, David Michels, Richard Miller, Harry Newman, Robert Olesky, Vincent Osadchy, William Quay, Walter Reimet, Robert Roehm, Donald Sheasley, Ed Steiger, Leonard Vinnick, and Donald Young.

One such program has already been launched, "Gruesst Gott," a 15-minute program running Saturdays at 4:45 p.m., to create interest in language study, especially in German.

Louis and Rocky Marciano, have become part of the American tradition, and have made important contributions to the folklore that inspires every kid who grows up in the country. We would be poorer without them; we shouldn't blindly close the door through which they walked. Instead, if we think boxing has faults that ought to be corrected, we should work to correct them. Congressmen who grab stray headlines, and magazines that grub for loose quarters, by uncorking empty blasts at a sport that millions of people in this country are intensely interested in, get no applause from us. The Willie Ritchie, the Jim Braddock, the Julie Helfand, the Harry Markson who works to improve boxing is the man we salute.

If the men in Washington think it's evil that the IBC promotes almost all our important title fights, and therefore shouldn't be given immunity from the anti-trust laws, how do they explain baseball's reserve clause? Do you know that even today Joe DiMaggio couldn't sign to play for or manage another ball club unless the Yankees choose to release him? That's not monopolizing talent? And if boxing is to be attacked because of its business practices, who wants to stand up and make a speech spelling out the glories of pro football's infamous draft system which doesn't even give the player a chance to ask for bids for his services but tells him he is the property of such-and-such a club and will play for them at their terms or will play for nobody?

SPORT, which has published the stories of many a boxing hero in the sincere belief that these men have led lives that are assets to this country, is unwilling to join the pack gnawing at boxing's heels. If we can come up with a constructive suggestion, we'll offer it and we'll fight for it. In the meantime we're going to keep right on treating all sports alike, favoring none at the expense of another."

The Chowline

This Saturday is scheduled as college day on the Muhlenberg campus and a large group of prospective students has been invited to visit the college and give the facilities a thorough inspection. Commons manager, Sherlock Holmes is planning a lunch for about 300 people as his part in the program. Elsewhere about the campus, various organizations are contributing their time and effort to make the visit a pleasant one. Hometown baseball fans as well as visitors will get a chance to look at this year's Mule baseball team, with Gettysburg providing the opposition on the Liberty Street field this Saturday. Also performing for the first time on the home cinders will be Ernie Fellows' thinner-than-thin track team which has 13 stalwart men trying to do the job that takes at least 40.

Coming up in May on the 5th, 6th, and 7th is the Mask and Dagger's spring production of "The Shrike." The parts have been cast and the players are at work learning their lines. Hose Ferrare played the leading male role of this drama, which he wrote. Look for the movie at your local Bijou in the near future, but see the play first.

Dr. Shankweiler's tennis team opens its schedule this Saturday on the Oakmont courts against Gettysburg.

And remember, the snack-bar's the place to grab that refresher whether the weather is rainy or right.

set up two Penn tallies, which broke the 1-1 tie that had prevailed throughout the game. Penn's Steve Hynoski gave up a run in the first inning, and pitched scoreless ball for the rest of the game.

Lehigh's Engineers (0-2) have had two of their games rained out, but are still seeking victory number one. Their first loss came at the hands of Princeton, when Leigh Ford scattered four hits to gain his third victory, a 5-0 shut-out. The Tigers are on the move, boasting a sizzling 5-0 record to date.

Other early season scores show Gettysburg over Colgate, 3-0, and Georgetown over Delaware, 8-2. In track, Albright's 89-37 victory over Berg was its second in a row. The Lions edged out Swarthmore on Saturday, 64-62, with typical early season poor times.

The Methodist Student Fellowship will hold its monthly meeting Sunday, April 17, at the Asbury Methodist Church at Jefferson and Hamilton Street. The dinner meeting, beginning at 5:30 p.m., will be a reception for a Chinese Christian student arriving from Formosa to attend Cedar Crest College under the sponsorship of the Methodist Church.

The American-Swiss Foundation for Scientific Exchange offer one or more grants for advanced research in the natural and medical science. Candidates must hold the Ph.D. or M.D. degree by date of departure.

Application is open to men and women, preferably under 35 years of age. Candidates must be U.S. citizens and must present proof of: (1) Bachelor's degree or its equivalent at time award is taken up; (2) Good academic record and capacity for independent study; (3) Good knowledge of French or German; (4) Good moral character, personality, and (5) Good health.

Fields of study open to American students in Switzerland, include architecture, chemistry, engineering, geology, physics, international law, economics, banking and insurance, as well as language and literature.

Information on the Swiss awards may be obtained from the Institute if interested parties write in the near future.

Bucknell, which had a 10-4 season record last year, carries an extensive program in tennis including top teams like Navy, Colgate and Penn State. The Bisons trampled the Bergmen last year, 8-1. With only three Berg lettermen returning this year, prospects for a winning season do not look impressive unless several of the newcomers display winning form.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Presents Five Speakers Next Thursday

Next Thursday evening at 8 p.m., Alpha Kappa Alpha, honorary philosophy fraternity, will present its annual symposium. This meeting will take place at the Student Center. The topic of this symposium will be "The Role of the Arts in Contemporary Society."

Why A Leader Must Believe In Honesty

Editor's note: This article was written by the Committee on Examination Procedure.

Recently at the Muhlenberg leadership training conference the speaker commented that a leader must know in what he believes and why he believes it. Aren't college men potential leaders? Then I ask you as potential leaders, in what do you believe? Do you believe in honesty? I don't believe that anyone would say no to that question, but I maintain that a large percentage of you are hypocrites. When you go into a test who is your horse? Or are you perhaps the horse. In either case you are a cheat.

Do those who cheat ever gain anything? You and I know that those who cheat in one test are likely to cheat in another test. You and I study and work hard, but when the test comes those who played cards the night before plead with you to let them see your paper. What right have these leaches to get a mark anywhere near the ones we get? They have no right and we know it. If we are weak, we can't say no to these boys because we want to be "Good Joes". Be strong! Say no. Let those who work be rewarded.

The subject will be presented by five speakers who will discuss five of the categories of arts.

Commentators

Dr. Walter Baum, art critic for the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, will discuss the place of painting and sculpture. John K. Heyl, a local architect and a member of Muhlenberg College's Board of Trustees, will present the position of architecture. Assistant Professor Ludwig Lenel of the music department will preside over the discussion in the field of music. Dr. Heinrich Meyer of the German department will discuss recent trends in world literature. Dr. Harold Stenger of the English department will speak about modern poetry.

John Hopper, chairman of the AKA committee which arranged this program, commented, "All students and faculty members are urged to attend this symposium. A topic like this should be of especial interest to members of a liberal arts college community."

College Group Meets

An evening fellowship meeting, sponsored by the college group, will begin at 7:00 p.m. Students from Cedar Crest, Allentown Nurses Home, Lehigh and Muhlenberg are cordially invited to attend.

Bill Holcombe Plays At Annual IFC Dance

On Friday, April 22, the Inter-Fraternity Council of Muhlenberg College will hold its annual dance beginning at 9 p.m. at the Frolics Ballroom. Bill Holcombe and his orchestra will provide the music for this affair, the theme of which is "Neptune's Paradise."

The ballroom will be decorated with fish nets and other items designed to create an environment of the sea.

Sweetheart Songs

Bill Holcombe, who does extensive recording background work and who formerly played with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, has arranged the sweetheart songs of each of the local fraternities and will present them for the brothers and their dates.

In charge of arrangements for the dance is John Geissinger, president of IFC. Ron Wix, Harvey Stein, and Don deQuevedo are in charge of program, decorations, and publicity, respectively.

Guests and Chaperone

Honored guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Benfer, Dr. and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers, Dr. and Mrs. John J. Reed, and Dean and Mrs. Henry M. M. Richards. The advisors for each house will act as chaperones. These are Mr. Bruce Romig, Alpha Tau Omega; Dr. and Mrs. John Trainer, Lambda Chi Alpha; Mr. and Mrs. Morton Fels, Phi Epsilon Pi; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stecker, Phi Kappa Tau; Mr. Paul Weaver, Phi Sigma Kappa; and Dr. Charles Mortimer, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Pre-Theological Club Continues Collection

On April 2 the Pre-Theological Club presented its first collection of cancelled stamps to the Rev. Walter R. Harrison, superintendent of the Germantown Home for the Aged. Thanked by the superintendent for his help, the club will continue its drive to collect used stamps.

Dye Used

The theological group is not alone in its work. Many other organizations in this area have joined in to collect these bits of paper, the dye of which can be used again. The money gotten from the sale of these stamps is being put into its chapel fund by the Home.

Arvids Ziedonis, president of the campus group, has expressed his appreciation for the student interest thus far shown and is looking forward to the continued help of Muhlenberg men.

Alpha Kappa Alpha And Eta Sigma Phi Will Present Joint Symposium Tonight

Tonight at 8 p.m. Alpha Kappa Alpha, the honorary philosophy fraternity, with aid from Eta Sigma Phi, the honorary classics fraternity, will present its annual symposium. This meeting will be held in the Student Center. The topic of the symposium will be "The Role of the Arts in Contemporary Society."

The subject will be presented by five speakers who will discuss five categories of the arts. Dr. Russell W. Stine, head of the philosophy department will be the moderator for the evening. Dr. Walter Baum, art critic of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, will discuss the place of painting and sculpture. Mr. John K. Heyl, a local architect and a member of the Muhlenberg College Board of Trustees, will present the position of architecture. Assistant Professor Ludwig Lenel of the music department will direct the discussion in the field of music. Dr. Heinrich Meyer of the German department will discuss recent trends in world literature and Dr. Harold Stenger of the English department will talk about modern poetry.

Concert Series Offers Program This Sunday

A concert of sacred music will be presented by the Choir of the Church of the Ascension of New York City this Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. in Egner Memorial Chapel.

It will be the final concert of the season in the 1954-55 concert series at the college. The program is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Well Known

The choir, one of the most distinguished choral organizations of metropolitan New York, will be directed by Vernon de Tar, organist of the Bethlehem Bach Festival since 1951. The recent Easter service at the church was telecast from coast to coast over the American Broadcasting Company.

An Allentown singer, Ann Seagraves, will be alto soloist. The other soloists are Nancy Zi, soprano; Robert Mackie, tenor; Charles Thomas, baritone; and Louie White, bass.

Prize Winning Anthem

Each year the Church of the Ascension sponsors an annual competition of anthems with the winning anthem receiving a $100 award, performance at the church and publication. Two of these prize winning anthems, "Blessed are the Poor in Spirit" by Ronald D. Arnatt and "Hymn of the World's Creator" by Mr. White, will be included in Sunday's program. Two contemporary English and American anthems also will be sung—one by the celebrated English composer, Ralph Vaughn Williams.

The program also will include "The Pharisee and the Publican" by Heinrich Schutz, a portion of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" and two works by Johannes Brahms, "O Heart Subdued with Grieving" and "Hear on Earth," from "A German Requiem." Mozart's "Laudae Dominum" will be sung in Latin.

In addition to de Tar's work at Ascension as organist and choir-master, he teaches organ and church music at Juillard School of Music and is instructor in organ at Union Seminary School of Sacred Theology.

MCA Plans Election For Tuesday Meeting

At its regular meeting, to be held next Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the MCA Room of the Student Center, the Muhlenberg Christian Association will elect its officers for next year. The officers elected at that time will be installed as part of the chapel service on May 18.

On Wednesday, April 27, the Rev. Joseph McClain, professor of Dogmatic Theology at Mary Immaculate Seminary at Northampton, will speak on "The Theology of Mary" at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center. This lecture is being presented as part of an MCA-sponsored series on major religions in America.

Berg Welcomes Area Students To Science Fair

The Ninth Annual Lehigh Valley Science Fair, began yesterday in Memorial Hall and will continue through tomorrow night. The fair consists of a collection of scientific exhibits which have been designed and constructed by junior and senior high school students. The Lehigh Valley Fair is associated with the National Science Fair scheduled to be held May 12 through 15 at Case Technical Institute, Cleveland, Ohio. Muhlenberg College and Cedar Crest College are acting as host schools for the local event.

The primary objective of the fair is the encouragement of greater interest in scientific studies and research in secondary schools. The fair also affords the public an opportunity to see the results of the broad program of science teaching in area schools and provides a medium for the exchange of ideas between both pupils and teachers of various schools.

College Conducts Summer Sessions

Muhlenberg College will conduct summer sessions from June 20 to August 12, 1955. The courses offered will be from the curriculum of the regular school year. The sessions will consist of six and eight week terms. Registration will take place on June 20 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

The sessions are open to both men and women and to students of other colleges. Applications of admission from students of other colleges must be accompanied by a statement from the Dean of that school stating that they are in good standing, that the courses which the students intend to take are acceptable to that college and that the credits are transferable.

'The Dean' Returns; Enlightens Admirers

by Jack Marshall

Approximately 75 men, many of them forsaking their regularly scheduled and certainly less interesting classes, were on hand at 11:30 a.m. last Monday to hear Mr. Frank Smoyer, lately of our English department, deliver an interesting and enlightening lecture on George Bernard Shaw, whose style Mr. Smoyer often seemed to emulate.

This event also marked what might very well go down as a record in the Annals of Muhlenberg College's History. The number of men who turned out to hear Mr. Smoyer was so large that the class had to be moved from the regular classroom to the West Hall Auditorium so as to accommodate the crowd.

Mr. Smoyer proved, and quite conclusively to my mind, that he has not lost one iota of the caustic humor with which he held Muhlenberg students in abeyance while they were in his classroom.

The only disappointment which was expressed by those present was in the fact that we cannot often be exposed to lectures of this calibre by men of Mr. Smoyer's quality.

To those among us who were never fortunate enough to have had Mr. Smoyer, I can only offer my sympathy. To those who were fortunate enough to have been exposed to this great pedagogue, yet resisted his efforts, I can extend only pity.

Student Council Elections Held; 86.8 Per cent Elect Nine Men

Exactly 86.8 per cent of Muhlenberg's students went to the polls yesterday to elect their 1956 student council representatives at large. Following an active campaign by twenty-one candidates, nine men were elected. These men will assume office early in May.

The following men were elected:

Larry Cescon

Larry Cescon, who is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity, Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Delta Epsilon also is Copy Editor of the WEEKLY.

Richard Gross

Richard Gross, who is Secretary of the Pre-Med Society, and a member of Phi Epsilon Pi social fraternity.

Robert Keys

Robert Keys, the only commuter, participates in the Pre-Theo Club, the Commuters Club, and is active on the Institute of Christian Living committee. He is also a member of the chapel choir.

Peter Lord

Peter Lord, who is a member of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity and Economics Club.

David Michels

David Michels is active in Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity and a member of the soccer team.

Richard Miller

Richard Miller, who is Co-Editor-in-chief of the WEEKLY, a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Delta Epsilon, and also serves as organist for the chapel choir. He is also a member of Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity.

Vincent Osadchy

Vincent Osadchy is a member of the basketball team and the M-Club.

William Quay

William Quay is president of the Junior Class, a member of Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity, Omicron Delta Kappa and MCA.

Ed Steiger

Ed Steiger participates in the Economics Club, ICG, varsity baseball and is a member of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity.

Calvin Calorosso, who is managing editor of the WEEKLY, member of Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity, Pi Delta Epsilon and the Pre-Med Society, was elected head cheerleader.

When these men take office, they will be joined on Council by the presidents of the four classes. Elected to office were men representing five social fraternities on campus, the independents and the commuters.

Pictured above is part of the group of prospective students who visited the campus last Saturday. The group was leaving the Chapel prior to tours which were conducted by the Cardinal Key Society.

Four Hundred Eighty Students Consider Muhlenberg's Facilities

Four hundred and eighty prospective students participated in Muhlenberg's Second Annual College Day held last Saturday. The program opened with a chapel service which preceded a tour of the campus, primarily aimed at acquainting the prospective students with the facilities available at Muhlenberg. Of particular interest was the Science Building, where the guests examined chemical and physical experiments, displays and specimens in the museum.

A pastor's assemblage discussed admission policies, costs and future plans with Admissions Director Benfer and Dean Richards. Requirements, finances, and qualifications were also discussed.

Following luncheon at the Commons, a program of entertainment was presented in the Science Auditorium. A skit entitled "If Men Played Cards As Women Do" was performed by The Royal-Aires, the campus quartet, who also gave their renditions of several barber-shop melodies.

The day was completed when the guests attended the three athletic events on campus, the baseball game with Gettysburg, the track meet with Franklin and Marshall, and the tennis match with Gettysburg.

LSA Gathering Hears Address By Dr. Greth

The Lutheran Student Association will hold its annual retreat this Sunday at the YWCA cabin, located just off route 309 south of Allentown. Dr. Morris Greth, head of the sociology department, will be the speaker.

Dress for the meeting is to be informal. Frankfurters will be roasted at the fireplace and, along with soda and potato salad, will make up the evening lunch. Cars will leave the Student Center at 5 p.m. for the cabin.

A major feature of the retreat will be the election and installation of next year's officers.

Last Sunday a group from the local LSA went to Kutztown State Teachers College to attend an area convention. It was learned that the Muhlenberg Area, including Lafayette, Lehigh, Muhlenberg-Cedar Crest, and Kutztown Colleges, is responsible for the planning of the 1956 North Atlantic Region Conference which will be held at Buck Hill Falls.

Donchez Elected To National Post

Joseph Donchez, a Muhlenberg junior, was elected national treasurer of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical language fraternity, at that organization's national convention which was held April 15 and 16 at Mary Washington College, Fredericksburg, Virginia.

He also is currently serving as secretary of the Institute of Christian Living Committee and was named to Dean's List last semester. He is a history major.

"All College Banquet" Plans Near Completion By Council Committee

Final plans are near completion for the first annual "All Student Banquet," under the sponsorship of the Student Council, which will take place on Thursday evening, April 28, from 5 to 8 p.m. at Castle Garden in Dorney Park. John Adam '55, is chairman of the Good Fellowship Committee which is completing arrangements for this affair.

Twenty Five Students Attend ICG Conclave

The Intercollegiate Conference on Government, headed by James Corgee, will send approximately twenty-five Muhlenberg College students to the annual convention in Harrisburg April 21 through 23. Some 500 students from 50 Pennsylvania colleges and universities, together with a faculty advisor from each school, are expected to attend.

Muhlenberg will be attending with eight other colleges from this area and is pledged to support a Temple delegate for the highest office at the convention. Muhlenberg has also signed an agreement with several colleges in this region whereby next year a Muhlenberg student will be director of the entire region. Muhlenberg will have convention headquarters in the Penn-Harris hotel where all the delegates will be staying.

Entertainment for the evening's festivities is being handled by Sam Rosenberger '55, who is chairman of the Social Committee of Student Council. A special program is being arranged at which new freshman regulations will be announced to the student body.

The purpose of this banquet is to bring together all students for an evening of fellowship in an effort to draw Muhlenberg College into a more closely knit community. Commenting on the event, Adam this week stated, "An affair of this magnitude has not been seen on the Muhlenberg campus during the lifetime of this student generation. As a result, the Student Council has undertaken the task of restoring the old Muhlenberg spirit into the student body by sponsoring this banquet."

Since the total cost of such a banquet would be prohibitive members of the student body have been asked to donate one dollar per person in order to defray the expense involved.

Editorial Views . . .

Better Marking System . . .

Under the new student honor court which the Dean has established on a trial basis, students have been tried and punished. The most recent case decided upon by the court was one of plagiarism. We hope that the Dean will make certain that the decisions handed down by the court are fulfilled.

There have been rumblings to the effect that a more honest system of grading is in the wind also. We hope that "more honest" means that a C man who is very close to a B grade receives more credits than the man who barely earned a C, rather than an easing of the requirements for a degree.

Nothing appears to be wrong with recording a C+ or B—grade on the record, and it certainly might help personnel managers evaluate men. There are those who would emphasize the strict evaluation that a numerical (70 %, 80 %, etc.) system of grading gives, but this system seems to be practical only in science courses and somewhat difficult in an "essay answer" type course. Regardless of any discussion, more or less, the need certainly exists for a fairer evaluation system than our present method.

They Deserve Our Support . . .

Yesterday we elected the men who will lead us for the coming year.

Unfortunately, too many of us feel that we have satisfied our obligation simply by voting. This is not so. On the contrary, the opposite is true. We have chosen our leaders but now it is our duty to support them—to the fullest extent possible.

Only through the cooperation and help of the entire student body can they hope to do their job—that of making Muhlenberg College a better place for you.

The Wrong Direction . . .

The Honor Court was recently called into session by Dean Richards to determine what should be done with two students who had failed to carry out the punishment assigned to them as a result of cheating in the German 21 final exam last semester.

The significance of this action lies in the fact that one of the students was an athlete and pressure was brought to bear upon the Dean to see that this young man did not miss practice for one of the spring sports. Practice for the sport, however, had not started by April 1—the deadline set for the completion of the work. Even if this were not the case—what difference should it have made? If the confidence of the student body is to be gained for the honor system and the honor court, all students must be treated equally. The decision of the court should be placed above every other student activity.

At the Court's second meeting, it was decided to give the two gentlemen until the early part of May to complete their forty hours of manual labor. The members of the court, who are willing to take on this unpleasant duty of dispatching justice to fellow students, have done their part. It is not the court's job to enforce its decisions. Some have commented that they felt that there has been some laxity in enforcing recommendations. Time must be allowed for a new institution such as the Court to adjust itself and to iron out its wrinkles.

However, it does seem that the recent actions are heading in the wrong direction. If the Honor Court and the proposed honor system are to meet with any success on the Muhlenberg campus, all students must be treated fairly and the decisions of the court should be honored.

A poor start does not mean a bad ending, but now is the time to straighten things out.

Track Dilemma Parallels Other Campus Problems

It's a little hard to place this story in the newspaper. It could go on the Sports page, because it's about sports; it could go on the Feature page, as it's about a feature of the students; it might go on the City page, because unless something happens about it, there will be a story about the passing of the Muhlenberg track team.

Some students saw the track meet on College Day. If you did, you might have noticed that in almost every event, it was easy to pick out the Muhlenberg entry. You just looked for ONE white uniform among the blue ones of F & M. No, this isn't an appeal to the student body at large to run out and join the track team. It's a question directed to about ten or fifteen men on campus, who have the ability to change our track team from what it is into an excellent one. These men know who they are.

There's the junior who is excellent in sprint events and in the hurdles, there's the tall sophomore who does very well in one of the field events, there's another junior who excels in yet another field event. Why don't they come out for the team? Theirs is not the case of the man who doesn't have the ability . . . they can do it, if they choose to.

This situation ties in with many others dealing with student participation in school activities ranging from the Student Council dances to voting in elections and attending class meetings to supporting special projects like ICL or to getting on the track team if the student has the ability.

No, the Student Council and the four classes won't cease to exist if students don't support them, but there is a definite possibility that our track team will suffer greatly from this apathy of experienced men.

If you can write, the WEEKLY and the Arcade can use you. If you. And if you can run a quarter class and Student Council need you. And if you can run a quarter mile or heave a javelin or high jump, etc., for crying out loud, the track team wants you!

Doodles Originator Plans Sneaky Russian Overthrow

Confronted by your correspondent in a well-known Manhattan Health Food Bar, Roger Price, the self-confessed creator of Doodles, shed new light on the controversial "Doodles problem."

When questioned about Lucky Doodles, Price, one-time feature editor of the Michigan "Gargoyle," had several interesting comments. "Boy, have we got Doodles!" he said, "and stop eating my yogurt!"

Price commented further, "So far, the Right Thinkers in colleges have sent in over 60,000 entries to Lucky Doodles, which is quite a passel when you consider the Lucky Strike people are only running it on 354 campuses, in newspapers and on radio stations, and that entries have come in from more than half again that many schools. Take your elbow out of my datenut and prune juice salad."

I wiped my coat and thought up another penetrating question: "Do you think Doodles can be put to use?" I asked. "Alarms about the ever-expanding supply have been raised in certain quarters."

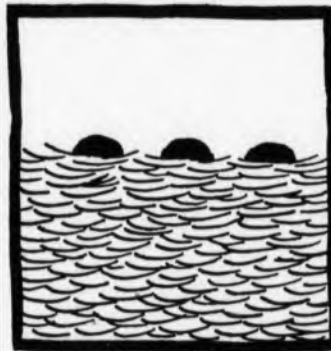

"Sentimentalists," Price answered cryptically, "are worrying about the Lucky Doodle judges, floundering in a sea of entries (see Doodle), and all of the $25 awards Lucky Strike is dishing out, not only for Doodles printed, but for many others which meet my mediocre standards. The Big picture! That's what really counts."

At this point Mr. Price interrupted the interview to call the waitress and harangue her for several minutes about the quality of the celery tonic.

She replied with a series of well directed and (I thought) very apt personal remarks concerning Mr. Price's physical appearance, and I tried to get us back on the subject. "What Big Picture?" I asked.

"Ah," said Price, "if I were only at liberty to tell you, I could tell you, boy. Really something. But top-level security regulations seal my lips."

"Oh," I said, "in that case we'd better not go into it."

Price tapped me on the shirt front with a Brussels sprout. "Okay," he said, "if you promise not to blab it around, I'll give you the picture sans details."

I nodded.

"Sans," he said "is French. It means like including out." I made a note of this, and he glanced about and continued in a somewhat louder voice. "We are planning to fasten tons of Doodles to balloons and drop them over Russia. The Doodle is far more insidious than the puerile doctrine of dialectic materialism with which the Soviets have been trying to suppress laughter. With millions of Doodles behind the Iron Curtain, Russians will start to laugh, and laughing Communists are Bad Communists, because whoever is head of the government has gotta figure that they're laughing at him. Right? This means their whole mishuginah system will collapse, and we will enter an era of World Peace—thanks to Doodles!" Swept away by his passionate and ear-splitting delivery, I burst into a brief cheer.

"Stop breathing on my black-strap molasses," Price said. I stopped. I could tell from the way he got up and dashed out of the health bar, leaving me with the check, that the interview was at an end.

President's Memo . . .

One of the more encouraging signs of our times, from the standpoint of colleges like ours, is a growing emphasis upon the liberal arts as the basis of a broad, generally satisfactory education. How far that emphasis will take us, and how far it will stop with lip service no one knows, but at least it is with us.

Professional schools are emphasizing the fact that it is their job to provide the specific training and to give students the exact skills required by the profession for which they prepare. They insist that they desire, in the pre-professional education, more breadth, and less specialization. Medical schools are saying, through their professional committees, that they do not want the pre-medical courses to be concerned only with the physical sciences. Law schools have always insisted upon breadth, with especial attention to the humanities. Engineering schools have commented upon the engineer's need for more than simply courses in engineering.

In a quite different area, organizations representing business, such as the National Association of Manufacturers, have voiced similar views. Larger corporations especially have stated that they look with favor upon broad preparation when reviewing candidates for positions. "We will provide the specific training ourselves," they say.

American education has passed through cycles in connection with such ideas. At one time virtually all high school and college education was in the classical pattern. So strong was this position that English had to struggle for recognition as a legitimate discipline, because many thought that the mother tongue was so obvious as to merit no academic status. When it did gain a seat, many of the professors labored diligently to study "scientifically," in order to establish respectability.

Little by little, the classical barrier was crashed by such newcomers as psychology, sociology, and economics.

Later, the "practical" people had something of a hey-day, and with this some of the older disciplines were subjected to considerable interrogation and scrutiny. Vocational and other ad hoc courses multiplied, and the liberal arts seemed almost in danger of being swamped by this inundation.

So, it is encouraging to hear people speak once more of the necessity of learning how to think, of reading widely, of studying other languages, of becoming acquainted with literature, not just as a luxury, but as a means of preparing for life and extending one's usefulness.

Dr. J. C. Seegers

Student-Professor Relation Discussed By Dr. Johnson

May I say at the outset that I am happy to have this opportunity to speak to the entire student body through the medium of its own press. The decision of the editors to invite comments from the faculty from time to time will, I am sure, be welcomed by all the members of the instructional staff.

According to David Miller's announcement of this series of editorials, the subject matter, while left to the discretion of the writer, is expected to illuminate some phase of activity or thought on the campus. Accordingly, I have chosen to center my attention upon the latter, taking my cue from an expressed point of view that chanced to come to my attention recently. I am referring to the notion, apparently entertained by some students, that one's college experience resolves itself basically into a contest of wits between student and instructor. The culprit of the piece, according to those in agreement, is the instructor, who allegedly schemes to outwit his students by making inordinate demands upon them. I do not know how widely this viewpoint is held, but that it exists at all is cause for concern.

Let me assure you at once that this is a completely erroneous conception of the relationship between teacher and taught. Perhaps the confusion of thought arises from a misunderstanding on the part of the student of the nature and the purposes of the educational process. In a liberal arts college, such as ours, the emphasis is upon the inculcation of understanding—understanding ourselves and others throughout the world. The pursuit of such goals, we believe, broadens the intellect and deepens the spiritual insights of man. But these attributes are not easily acquired. The wise student quickly realizes that vision rarely comes from inspiration. Rather it springs from knowledge persistently and intelligently cultivated. We who teach know the truth of an ancient adage, "Whoso neglects learning in his youth loses the past and is dead for the future." Whether remembered in these words or others, this timeless advice is a motivating force in the teacher's appointed task.

Can it be, therefore, that the zealotry of the teacher in urging his students toward these goals has been misinterpreted as pedantry? And if so, who so misinterprets it? Can it be those who are inclined to seek the illusory, primrose path to learning?

... Student Council Report ...

The regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on April 14, 1955 at 8:26 p.m. by President Schlittler. The following members were present: Messrs. Spohn, Quay, Adam, Schlittler, Wormley, Loy, Lauer, Baker, Ascione, Paul, and Wanczyk.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

Elections Committee—Mr. Wanczyk reported that he had received acceptances from 21 of the 28 men nominated for the 1955-56 Student Council. Council men were reminded of their poll duty.

Assembly Committee—Mr. Paul stated that the last assembly program of the year will be on May 12 and will feature a quartet, the Ravens.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES:

Father's Day Committee—Mr. Lauer presented the proposed schedule for Father's Day at Muhlenberg. Mr. Lauer moved that $10.00 be appropriated as a prize for the best talent act in the Father's Day talent show. The motion was seconded by Mr. Spohn and it carried.

Good Fellowship Committee—Mr. Adam reported that tickets have been obtained for the April 28th affair and are ready for distribution by Councilmen.

Lecture Committee—Mr. Paul stated that a meeting has been arranged with Dr. Seegers so that a schedule of speakers for next year can be drawn up.

OLD BUSINESS:

Council discussed some of the Honor Court decisions. It was suggested that William Anderson give a report at the next meeting.

NEW BUSINESS:

A host of parking tickets were presented to Council for action, among them were those of a faculty member and those of a member of the administration. It was reported that these parking violators, Mr. Ludwig Lenel and Miss Carolyn Neumeyer, are constant offenders. Council deprecates the disregard of these members of the administration in their parking violations. Mr. Wormley moved that the rest of the parking violators be fined the proper sum. Mr. Lauer seconded the motion and it carried.

A note was received from Mr. McAuley stating that electrical sockets will be placed in the new lounge, but the cost will be about $30.00. Mr. Quay moved that $25.00 be allocated for this project. Mr. Wormley seconded the motion and it carried.

Mr. Baker suggested a shortening of freshman regulations period. This was referred to next year's Council.

Mr. Adam moved that the chair head a committee to make class (Continued on Page Six)

Alpha Tau Omega

A Bermuda Weekend is coming up for the Alpha Taus! The weekend will start with a cocktail party before the dance, "Neptune's Paradise," Friday evening. Saturday afternoon most of the girls and some of the bolder brothers will attend the La Salle baseball game in bermuda shorts, the attire for the weekend. After the game, the brothers and their dates will venture out to Simco's barn for a game between the brothers and their dates, then entertainment and dinner. The evening's entertainment will be provided by a dixie combo, consisting of Carl Trollinger and various and assorted dixieland cool cats.

Lambda Chi Alpha

The Show Boat docks at the Lambda Chi house this weekend. On Saturday night the gang will be entertained by a combo. The annual spring picnic, complete with ants, of course, will be held on May 7 at Hunsickers' Grove. On April 1, 2, and 3 Brothers Conway and Coyle attended the annual LXA Conclave at F & M College. The annual "ladies" card party will be held next week.

Phi Epsilon Pi

The theme for this houseparty will be "Safari." On Saturday afternoon, the safari will wander around awhile and end up in a picnic. Saturday evening is the time for the party and Willie Restrum, naturally, and his group will provide the entertainment. A good time should be had by all and many alumni brothers will be back for it.

Phi Sigma Kappa

This past weekend held a lot of excitement for the corner of 23rd and Gordon Sts. The pledges went on their good will tours, visiting Cornell and the Universities of Maryland, West Virginia, and American University. Some of the Brothers took in a ball game at the Polo Grounds, watching the Phillies take the losing side of the contest. After the game, they visited some of the well known establishments in New York. Some of the other Brothers attended a dance at the Saengerbund Club in Allentown.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

On Friday night, the Brothers will attend a cocktail party before attending the IFC Ball. Following the Ball, there will be a party at the house. Saturday afternoon a clam bake will be held at South Mountain followed by dinner at the house. Saturday night a Dixieland band will provide four hours of jazz as the weekend reaches its peak. This weekend will be closed to all non-fraternity men and to visitors from other colleges.

Quakers Rip Diamondmen, 4-0, As Assiff Hurls Seven-Hitter

Yesterday, the Muhlenberg nine absorbed its second defeat of the year at the hands of the University of Pennsylvania, 4-0. The Quakers proved to be too powerful for the Cardinal and Grey, as they exploded for four runs with a home run and a triple.

Berg pitcher Frank Sproviero baffled Penn for the first three innings. In the fourth inning Dalton, the Quaker short-stop, drove a long one into left field for a home run and the first tally of the game.

The Quakers racked up two more markers in the sixth when, with two out, Connelly singled. Connelly then attempted a steal of second but was called safe. After a heated argument play was resumed. Dalton stepped to the plate and hit a liner to deep left-center which was good for a triple and a run. Conlin then singled to score Dalton but was out when he attempted to steal second.

The final run of the game came in the eighth inning on a single, two walks and an error by Sproviero on an attempted pick-off play at second.

Berg threatened in the third frame after Sproviero doubled to open the inning. He was left stranded on third when the next three men grounded out. The Cardinal and Grey threatened in the ninth when they loaded the bases with two out. Marty Gilbert

Cindermen Resume Schedule, Play Host To Bison Thinclads

Bucknell will open its track season by coming to Muhlenberg, Saturday, April 23, to encounter Coach Ernie Fellows thinclads. Last year the Mules suffered an 84-42 defeat at the hands of the Bisons.

Coach Bus Blum expects to have as strong a team as last year's squad which was defeated only in two triangular meets. Seven returning lettermen, including the top-notch dash duo of captain Frank Vanderhoof and Ed Burg, will form the backbone of the squad. Other returnees are hurdler Larry Comfort, discus and javelin thrower Bill Dewire, hurdler Bill Lenker, shot and discus man Ron Lloyd and pole vault and

Temple, Lehigh Foes For Berg Racquet Squad

Coach John V. Shankweiler will take his tennis team to Temple on Saturday, April 23, and to Lehigh on Wednesday, April 27.

Last year the Muhlenberg squad hampered out an 8-1 victory over the visiting Philadelphia Owls in their most decisive win of the 1954 season. Temple has again suffered from a below par squad. On the basis of their excellent exhibition over Gettysburg, the Mules rate an edge over the host teams.

The match with the Brown and White Engineers last year was cancelled because of poor weather. Lehigh's net squad will be led by captain Charles Roth, while Jay Krevsky, Mike Egan and Al Szwczak will lead the inexperienced but much improved Mule swatters.

broad jump performer, Tom Sprague.

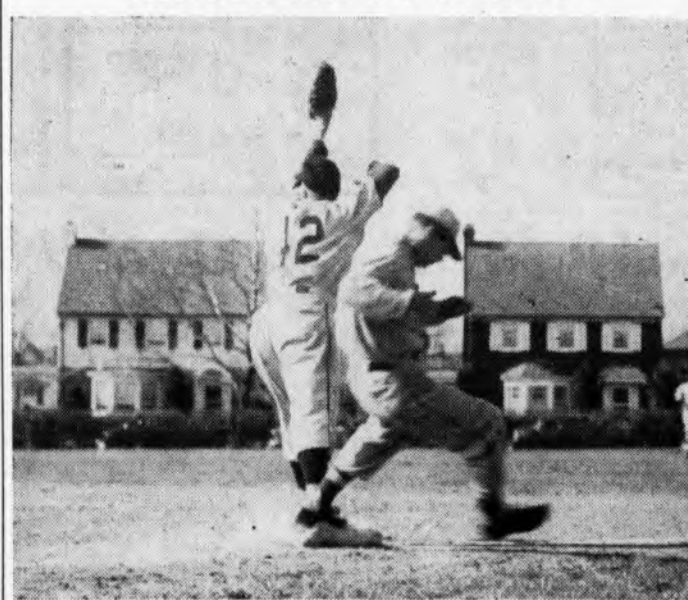

Sophomore newcomers, who are expected to add strength to the team are Art Saunders in the distance events and Bob Stevens in the pole vault. These men are expected to replace graduates Larry Patz and Red Macauley, who were standout distance runners, and Harold Smith, Middle Atlantic high jump champion.

Baseball Mules Continue Home Stand As Explorers And Blue Hens Challenge Berg

On Saturday, April 23, the La Salle nine will visit the Muhlenberg field for an encounter with Coach Dick Fox's diamond squad. The Mules will be trying to avenge their 9-8 loss to the Explorers last year.

Following the regular Sproviero-Saddler combination, the probable hurler is the fire-

Infield Hit . . . Safe!

Mule second sacker, Bob Fritsch, reaches first base safely as Gettysburg first baseman, Schalich, awaits the ball in flight. Berg won the game, 3-2, in the ninth inning on a single by Marty Gilbert.

Bergmen Top Bierly, Bullets, 3-2, On Gilbert's Hit In Ninth

Muhlenberg won its first home game of the year on Saturday by defeating Gettysburg in a 3-2 thriller. The Berg nine revenged their 7-1 defeat of last year at the hands of the Bullets and Joe Bierley.

The game was highlighted by Tony Saddler's fifteen strikeouts and Marty Gilbert's sterling fielding and timely hitting.

Berg scored the first runs of the game in the fourth inning when Dick Leber singled and Jim Reinheckel walked. Bob Fritsch singled to score Leber and advance Reinheckel. Reinheckel scored when Frank Peters grounded to second. After retiring the side, Foulk Gettysburg's starting pitcher was replaced by Joe Bierley.

Gettysburg was held scoreless by Saddler's blazing fast ball and deceiving change-of-pace for seven innings. The Bullets erupted for two runs in the eighth, when Bierley doubled, the only extra-base-hit of the game. Bob Hendley grounded to Saddler but was safe when the play was made on Bierley at third. Hendley then stole second and Gettysburg had men on second and third with no one out. Saddler settled down to strike out De Bois and Schalich, but Polak singled on a lazy pop fly to short center and the game was all tied up.

Saddler allowed one hit in the ninth frame and then set the Bullets down in order. Fritsch led off the ninth for Berg with a strike-out but Peters singled. Saddler balling Saddler. In view of his performance against Gettysburg, the Explorers will doubtless have to be at their best to handle the twirling of the big right-hander.

The strong point of the La Salle nine is in the infield, where they have a veteran Gene McConnell-Don O'Connor double-play combination. In the outfield, however, the only returning ballhawk is hardhitting Hank DeVincent.

La Salle's pitching and catching staffs are likewise experienced with hurlers Bill Quigley, Lou Peters and Tom Lucia leading the pack.

Hens at Berg

On Monday, Muhlenberg will again be host team when Delaware arrives for their clash on the diamond.

Almost the same two teams that met last year, when the Mules blasted the Blue Hens, 8-0, will meet again. Leading the hurlers are co-captain Dave Woodward, Bud Kimmel, and Bob Patterson. Veteran catcher Bob Trivits will handle the receiving position.

The leading hitters on the experienced club are co-captain rightfielder, Tom Redfield, who had a .283 average last year and first baseman, Andy Wagner, who batted .281. Other outfield returnees are Jim Zaiser and Gary Buckwalter, while veteran infielders including Ray Hoopes, Lou Romagnoli, Bob Hooper and Don Miller.

Berg Trackmen Lose Second Contest 75-51

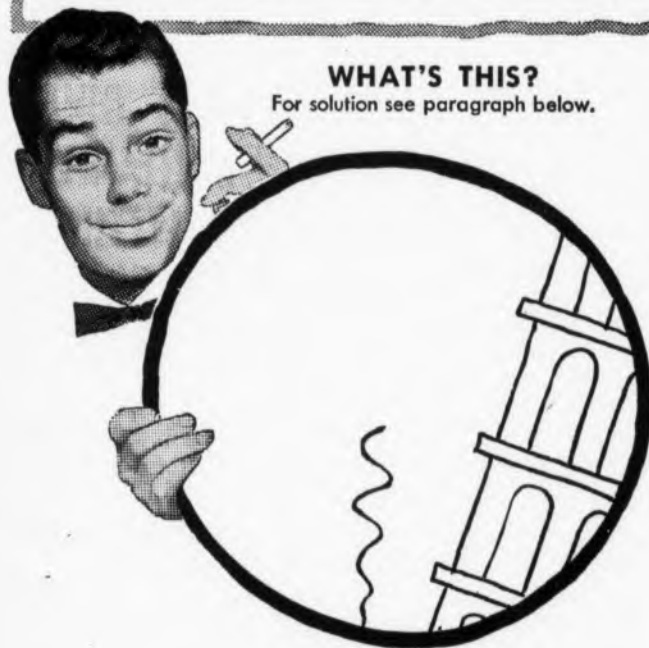

Despite the high point efforts of Bobby Lee and John Keyser, Muhlenberg's cindermen lost to F & M, 75-51, for their second defeat of the year.

Lee, competing for the first time this year scored a leading total of 13 points, while Keyser took two firsts, in the mile and the 880-yard runs to amass 10 points. "Robert E" scored his points by winning the 100 yard dash and the broad jump, and by placing second in the 220-yard dash.

F & M was led in its victory by weight man Charlie Rosner who scored the same total as Lee by winning the shot put and the javelin throw, and by placing second in the discus throw. Hurdler Don Martin won both hurdle events as his teammates took second and third behind him.

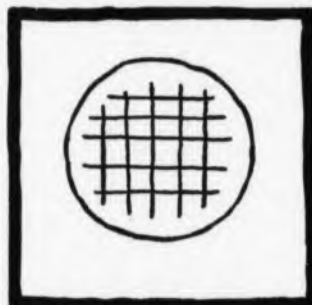

Other firsts for Muhlenberg were taken by Ralph De Stephano who won the discus throw, and Herm Zieger who tied for first in the pole vault. Also scoring for the Mules were Denny Roth with six points (two second places, in the javelin and the high jump) and Len Woodel who scored four points in the weights.

High Jumpers: Plus Javelin, Pole, Hurdle

Fleet-footed Frank Jankowski will prove one of the outstanding members of this year's Berg track team. Frank, a specialist in the hurdles and pole vault, earned 11 points in the thinclads' opening effort against Albright.

He is a graduate of North Plainfield High School, New Jersey, where he earned five letters in track, baseball, and basketball.

"Jank," a junior, is a political science major. He is active on campus as well as on the athletic field. Frank is a member of the Pre-Law Club, Intercollegiate Conference on Government, M-Club, and is a participant in all intramural sports. He's also a member of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity.

Frank feels that, "Although we lack depth and experience, we should take up the slack as the season progresses."

Few Muhlenberg students are not acquainted with Denny Roth, towering center of Coach Birney Crum's court squad, now performing for Ernie Fellows on the track team. Although Roth is distinguished as a basketball ace, he is also a letter winner in track, performing as a high jumper. Because of the lack of depth on the team, however, he has shown considerable ability as a javelin thrower.

Roth is a graduate of Lehigh high school where he played basketball, baseball, and football. One of his greatest scholastic achievements came when he broke Bill Mlkvy's conference basketball scoring record by scoring 379 points in 14 league contests.

Denny is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity, for whom he plays intramural football and softball. He is also a member of the varsity M-club.

SPORTSCOPE

It has been a number of years since a major league baseball season has begun with such a thunder of excitement. Thus far, important extra-inning games have been won by the pennant contending Cardinals, "All-Star" Roberts has twice vanquished Antonelli and company, Irv Noren has already received an indefinite suspension for offensive antics in the face of an umpire, the World Champion Giants have not demonstrated their title, and the power plus Redlegs (formerly, known as the Reds) have not overpowered their opponents. These are but a few of the list of unique happenings in the immature 1955 baseball season. At the top of the list, of course, we must (by necessity) place the "no-hit minus two outs" performance by Roberts against the champs in his first appearance.

What more can be said about Saturday's Berg-Burg contest except, "what a game!" Seldom does a pitcher have the opportunity to score the winning run after blowing his own lead.

Without checking the records, Tony Saddler probably approached a strike-out record when he whiffed no less than 15 batters in the Gettysburg victory.

Al Cantello, Middle Atlantic javelin champ from La Salle, set two new marks last Saturday when he hurled the javelin 219' 2 1/2".

The spirit of Ernie Fellows' undermanned track squad was readily exhibited when they were defeated by F & M. A little more of "something somewhere" could have brought a victory for Fellows and his improving thin-clads.

Has anyone mentioned that major leaguers slugged 25 home runs in 14 Sunday games after hammering out 28 circuit clouts in 8 Saturday games? The lowly Chicago Cubs are, surprisingly enough, among the leaders for round trippers.

I-M CORNER

The last of the intramural sports, softball, got underway this week with a light schedule. In the curtain raiser on Monday, defending champions Sigma Phi Epsilon gave warning that they are out to repeat last year's feat with a decisive 8-3 victory over Phi Kappa Tau. Bob Taschner led a well-balanced Sig Ep hitting attack with a two run homer off losing pitcher Jack MacDonald. Denny Roth hurled fine ball all the way to get credit for the victory.

On Tuesday, Phi Sigma Kappa combined timely hitting with shoddy fielding on the part of the Scrap Irons to down the latter squad, 11-8. Bob Mourer, who pitched well in the clutch, gained credit for the win, while Bill Keeny suffered the loss.

Last night, the All-Stars eked out a 7-6 victory over Phi Epsilon Pi behind the stellar pitching of Jay Krevsky. Bobby Lee, Don McNeil and Bill Rutsch supplied much of the power in the closely contested game. Dick Gross pitched quite effectively in a losing role for the Pep boys.

Berg Edges St. Joes, 4-2, For First Victory

The Muhlenberg nine gained its first victory of the '55 season last Thursday by defeating St. Joseph's 4-2. Rain ended the game after 7 1/2 innings of play.

Berg jumped off to a two run lead in the second inning. Lefty Cornelius started the Mules off with a double to deep center. Dick Leber was safe on an error, and Jim Reinheckel loaded the bases when he was hit by a pitched ball. Bob Fritsch forced the first run in by walking and the second run was scored on Frank Peter's grounder to short.

In the fourth inning, a walk to Reinheckel followed with singles by Peters and pitcher Frank Sprovierio scored the third run for Berg. St. Joe's came back with two runs in the sixth inning on a single, triple and a double.

The final Mule run was scored on two walks followed by Cardy Gemma's single in the seventh. In the top of the eighth Berg scored four times but these runs were nullified by the heavy between inning downpour which ended play.

LaSalle, Delaware, Moravian Are Victors, As Penn, Lehigh, Albright Meet Defeat

La Salle, Delaware, and Moravian defeated their baseball opponents over the weekend while Penn, Lehigh, and Albright met reversals from their collegiate diamond foes.

While the Mules edged Gettysburg on Saturday, La Salle's Explorers pounded Drexel, 16-0. Pitcher Jack Cantania scattered three hits, while batting in six runs for his own cause on two home runs (one with the bases loaded) and a double. Last week the high scoring Explorers scored nine runs against Temple. Beware, Mule pitchers!

Moravian (3-2) won its third game in a row on Tuesday, downing Drew University, 8-1. On Saturday the Greyhounds bested Haverford, 4-1 behind pitcher Dick Haney. The North Bethlehem college, whose major sport is baseball, provided the Bergmen with stiff competition last year. Frank Sprovierio shut out the Greyhounds, 1-0, on a six-hitter over at Bethlehem, but the Mules had to play 13 innings at Berg before the Moravian nine would accept defeat.

Navy added another victory Saturday, by sinking Brown, 5-2. Rutgers was tripped by Fordham, 3-2. Penn State topped Lafayette, 4-3, Albright's Lions, off to a slow start, lost to Lebanon Valley, 8-3. Last year, Albright was one of Tony Saddler's shutout victims.

Temple's baseballers evened their record at 3-3, by dumping Swarthmore (2-2), 10-4. The Quakers, who shut out the Mules yesterday, were drubbed by Yale, 11-1, on Saturday. Penn pitching ace Steve Hynoski was tagged for three runs in the first inning, but settled down for the next four innings, pitching hitless ball. However, in the sixth inning Yale exploded for five runs, removing Hynoski to the showers.

Lehigh broke its four game losing streak on Tuesday by defeating Franklin and Marshall, 7-3. Pitcher Lee Butz collected three hits and batted in four of the Engineers' seven runs to assure the Brown and White of a victory. On Saturday the Engineers were bested by Delaware (4-3), 2-1, as Blue Hen pitcher Dallas Green stifled a ninth inning Lehigh rally, to gain the win.

In track, Haverford swamped Ursinus, 95-27, while Lehigh's thinclads outclassed Delaware's trackmen, 73 1/2 - 52 1/2. Muhlenberg's track team meets Lehigh in a triangular meet with Gettysburg. Last year the Engineer trackmen garnered more than their opponents' combined score, taking 83 of the 154 points in the meet.

Berg's trackmen traveled to Scranton Tuesday, and had a chance to win their first meet, as Scranton brought only 15 men to the Dunmore High School field. Shortly after the Bergmen arrived a cloudburst swamped the track leaving eight inches of water on some parts of the track. After waiting (or wading) for an hour, the meet was cancelled, and both teams returned home. Scranton's cindermen are still looking forward to opening day, since their first two meets (Lebanon Valley and Muhlenberg) have been cancelled.

Dashman Bobby Lee is Berg's highest point scorer to date with 13 counters, all of them collected in the F & M meet. Frank Jankowski and John Keyser have 12 points apiece. Jankowski garnered 11 points in the Albright meet without placing first in an event. Denny Roth has scored 14 points in the javelin and high jump event, while pole vaulter Herm Zieger is fifth highest scorer with nine points. Clark Morgan (7), Len Woodel (7), and Harlin Heere (5) are also well on their way to winning their track letters.

Bergmen Top Bullets, 3-2

(Continued from Page Four) followed with a grounder to second and Peters was forced. However, the shortstop threw wild to first in an attempt for the double-play, and Saddler moved on to second.

Marty Gilbert stepped to the plate with two out and the winning run on second. Gilbert came through in the pinch with a scorching grass-cutter through short. Saddler scored from second

Need Some Spare Cash!

There's good money for college students going begging, according to H. K. Smith, Jr., sales manager of Jno. H. Swisher & Son, Inc., Jacksonville, Florida, manufacturers of King Edward Cigarillos and Cigars. In February issues of 497 college newspapers King Edward ran an advertisement offering prizes of $1,000 total with first prize of $500; second, $200; third, $100; and four others of $50. "There's a thousand dollars in prizes that can be easy picking for someone," Smith declared, "because many of the entries thus far would be most easy to top. The contest ends on April 30."

International Study Handbook Published

A Handbook on International Study was recently published by the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

The 300-page book which sells for three dollars is a compact guide for foreign students on study in the United States and for U. S. citizens on study abroad.

Covering the field of student exchange as it is related to the United States, the Handbook, represents a compilation of material from educators in the U. S. and abroad, from American and foreign government officials, from organizations active in international education, and from authorities on the subject discussed.

The Handbook on International Study contains essential information on American education for students in other countries who are planning study in the U.S.; foreign educational systems for Americans planning study abroad; government regulations affecting exchange students; fellowships, scholarships and other grants for international study; short-term summer projects for exchange students; organizations serving foreign students and visitors both in the United States and abroad. To provide a broad perspective of the field of international education, a brief historical survey of exchange programs between the United States and other countries is also included.

Science Fair

Each student entering an exhibit will receive a certificate of merit for completing a project and approximately one-hundred will share in awards, which, in addition to college scholarships, are valued at more than $1,500.

The 1955 fair will contain 700 exhibits and will be open to the public on Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. The exhibits have been divided into two major divisions: senior high school (grades ten to twelve) and junior high school (ninth grade pupils). The senior high school exhibits are further classified into Biology, Human Biology, Conservation, Chemistry, Physics, Engineering and Physiology. The junior high exhibits will be judged as a division with no further classification of the sciences.

Among the judges of the fair is Dr. Robert Boyer, who is the college representative of the fair's executive committee. will be at the rate of $17.50 per semester hour of credit, and there will be an additional college fee of $10 for the six-week term and $12 for the eight-week term. This fee provides for the use of the College Library, the comprehensive health service, and the student banking service. All students not attending Muhlenberg during the regular term will pay a registration fee of $5. All charges are due at the time of registration.

Veterans planning to study under any of the Veterans Training Laws should contact the Director of Student Personnel Services, Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pennsylvania. Veterans who have not arranged to have their fees paid under the GI Bill will be required to pay all charges at the time of registration.

Accommodations

Rooms will not be available in the dormitories, but rooming accommodations may be obtained in nearby private residences and fraternity houses.

There are four plans of study in the summer program. Plan A is a six-week plan, June 20 to July 29, for 3-hours credit each, and students are not allowed to take more than two courses. Courses included in this plan are in Education, English, History, Mathematics, Philosophy, Psychology and Sociology.

Plan B is a four-week plan for four hours of credit, June 20 to July 15. Due to the short time involved, students will be allowed to take any other course. This plan includes two chemistry courses.

Plan C will be given for eight weeks for 8 hours of credit, June 20 to August 12. Included in this plan are biology, chemistry, and physics.

Plan D will be given for six weeks, June 20 to July 28, for six hours credit. Students may take either half of this plan. Due to conflict in time, students will not be allowed to take courses in other plans. Included in this plan is general biology, economics, English, French, German, political science, and Spanish.

NOTICE!

All writeups of organizations for the M-Book which have not been submitted previously must be sent to Dick Weidner in care of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY by April 30 or they will not be included in next year's edition.

The Chowline

Yesterday the Commons crew worked overtime to handle the 1200 high school students who were at the Science Fair. Male and female alike loaded up the campus—got into the Student Center and even the Science Building to disturb whomever they could, wherever they could.

Last week's estimations as to the size of the group which would turn out to visit the college on "College Day" proved to be erroneous as about 200 more people came than were expected. But they packed them in the Commons to feed the five hundred, and then treated them to a real thriller of a baseball game (3-2 the hometown gang won it in the last of the ninth) as Tony Sadtler and Marty Gilbert showed our cousins, the Gettysburgians, how the game is played.

Rumor has it that there is a movement underway to establish an organization similar to the old Mermaid Tavern Society.

With the IFC weekend coming up and all the organizational banquets, it's getting to be one of those party and then rest, party and rest deals. Books men, the semester's dying and those tests are coming around again. Give the brew a break and hand the books a beating for awhile.

And beat a path to the snack-bar when you're hungry for that bit to bite which fits just right—and that's a right biting bit.

Microscope Taken From Biology Lab

Within the last few weeks someone has removed from the Biology Department in the Science Building, one American Optical Microscope. This is to inform all students that I have an idea who has this microscope, and if returned to me, nothing will be said or done. You can either return it to my office or place same in my car. If I am proven wrong regarding the person I suspect, then every student will be investigated here at the College and also at his home. I think this is a fair warning and hope that the party who has this microscope will return it to me.

Just to give you an idea how this is handled on the outside, you will note the following:

It is first reported to the American Optical Company, and they will report it to all their agents and people selling their microscopes. All Muhlenberg microscopes have serial numbers and are registered with the Scientific Apparatus Makers, a national registration agency, and they will alert all second-hand dealers.

Muhlenberg College goes to quite an expense in order to supply the students with the necessary equipment, and I will say that any other larger university or college will not allow students to use this type of equipment until they are upper classmen.

Dr. Shankweiler has informed me that if this instrument is not returned there will be a fee of $5.00 charged to each student who may use a microscope.

I hope this warning will be understood and the microscope will be returned.

Respectfully,
Russ E. Wilson (signed)

Omicron Delta Kappa Selects Five Men At Chapel Service

Five Muhlenberg students, John Geissinger, David Godshall, Marshall Miller, Richard Schlegel, and Arvids Ziedonis, were tapped for initiation into Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity, during Chapel Service yesterday.

Geissinger is president of the Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity. His other activities include the Pre-Med Club, of which he is vice-president, and intra-mural athletics. He is a member of the Inter-Fraternity Council and was secretary of his class for two terms.

Godshall is a member of the Chapel Choir, the band, the MCA, the Pre-Theo Club, and Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity. He was the copy editor for the Muhlenberg WEEKLY for the past year.

Miller is a member of the Pre-Med Club. He has attained the highest academic average possible at Muhlenberg.

Schlegel is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity. He also participates in the band, Chapel Choir, Deutsche Verein, Sociological Society, and Pre-Theo Club.

Ziedonis serves as president of Alpha Kappa Alpha, honorary philosophy fraternity, and of the Pre-Theo Club. He is also vice-president of MCA. In addition to this he is a member of the Chapel Choir and the Deutsche Verein Club.

Dr. John J. Reed, advisor to Student Activities was also tapped.

The purpose of Omicron Delta Kappa is three-fold: First, to recognize men who have achieved a high standard of efficiency in college activities and to inspire others to strive for conspicuous attainments along the same lines; Second, to bring together the most representative men in all phases of collegiate life and thus to create an organization which will help to mold the sentiments of the institution on questions of local and collegiate interest;

Third, to bring together members of the faculty and student body of the institution as a basis of mutual interest and understanding.

Representatives of ICG Travel To Harrisburg For Conference

Twenty-two Muhlenberg College students were among more than 500 collegians from 48 Pennsylvania colleges and universities who gathered in Harrisburg last weekend for the annual Intercollegiate Conference on Government.

George M. Leader, governor of Pennsylvania, addressed the first meeting of the conference, which was held Thursday in the Capitol. At this time the group nominated men for the major offices of the convention. A student from Lebanon Valley was elected to the top position while a Temple man who was supported by Muhlenberg and other colleges in this area was defeated.

Friday and Saturday were filled with legislation presented by the 48 colleges for approval of the convention. Muhlenberg presented eight bills and one concerning lowering the drinking age to 19 was passed by the entire assemblage.

James Corgie and Pete Lord led Muhlenberg political strategy which resulted in Muhlenberg defeating a coalition consisting of Lafayette, Wilkes, Marywood, and Scranton for the presidency of this group. Muhlenberg was supported by Lehigh, Kutztown, Moravian, Misericordia, and King's. Pete Lord, a junior, will fill this position next year as he will represent all of these colleges in their political dealings with the other colleges of Pennsylvania.

Ed Steiger will succeed James Corgie as President of ICG next

Father's Day Plans Progress For May 14

Plans for a Father's Day program are under way with the event being scheduled for Saturday, May 14. The affair, which will be similar to last year's Parent's Day program, is being sponsored by the Student Council with the cooperation of the Administration.

Father's Day will start with a talent show at 11 a.m. followed by a picnic style luncheon in Commons. That afternoon Muhlenberg will meet Temple University in a baseball game.

In the evening the social fraternities on campus will present various activities. At 2 p.m. an informal bull-session will be held between the fathers and members of the faculty.

Any student who wishes to participate in the talent show for Father's Day is urged to contact Sam Rosenberger. Winners will receive five dollars for first place, three dollars for second place, and two dollars for third.

Officers Are Elected At Phi Sigma Kappa

Last Tuesday evening, Art Franzblau, a junior, was elected president of Phi Sigma Kappa social fraternity. Franzblau, a resident of Irvington, New Jersey, is a business major and also a member of the wrestling team and the Mask and Dagger Club. He is also active in the Economics Club.

Other officer selected were Richard Jacobs, vice president; Bill Bleckley, secretary; Charlie Boyle, treasurer; Jurgen Weber, inducting.

Jazz Society Plans Program For May 16

Both dixieland and modern jazz will be featured in a concert in Memorial Hall on May 16. Muhlenberg students will again be admitted free of charge when the Jazz Society presents two well-known musical groups in a program which is planned to appeal to everyone.

The dixieland will be provided by Jimmy McPartland, one of today's outstanding dixie cornetists, and four other dixieland stars. McPartland, whose style is reminiscent of the famous Bix Biderbeck, began his career twenty years ago with the "Wolverines" of Minnesota, a well-known jazz group, and today is featured with his group in New York at such places as Childs', Paramount, and The Metropole.

Modern jazz will be supplied by recording artist Teddy Charles and his quartet. Charles, an ex-drummer who has played with such groups as those of Buddy DeFranco, Chubby Jackson and Benny Goodman, writes much of the quartet's material and plays the vibraphones.

Church Men Offer Advice For Careers

Opportunities in Church vocations will be presented next week to Muhlenberg students by representatives of Church boards and agencies.

On Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center, Dr. Vernon L. Strempeke, Associate Secretary, Board of Education, United Lutheran Church in America will address an open meeting of the Lutheran Student Association. His topic will be "Christian Vocations."

Dr. Erb Speaks

Dr. Earl S. Erb of New York City, Executive Secretary, Board of Foreign Missions, ULCA will speak at the regular Chapel Service Monday on, "Frontiers of the Church." He will be available for personal interviews from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m., and after this he will conduct a group discussion in the MCA room of the Student Center on opportunities existing in Foreign Missions.

The Rev. Robert Bauers of the Board of Social Missions, ULCA will speak on "The Social Mission of the Church" in Wednesday's Chapel Service. He will be available for personal interviews at 2 p.m. in the Chapel Lounge. At 4 p.m. he will address the regular meeting of the Muhlenberg Christian Association in the MCA room of the Student Center. Topic: "Opportunities in Social Welfare Work."

Church Editor Speaks

The Chapel speaker on Wednesday will be Dr. G. Elson Ruff, editor of the "Lutheran," official publication of the ULCA the topic will be "You Are Called." Dr. Ruff will also be available for personal conferences from 2 until 4 p.m. He will then conduct a discussion in the MCA room concerning opportunities in religious journalism.

Dr. Strempeke will be on campus from Monday through Wednesday to confer with students interested in all areas of full time work in the church. Appointments for personal interviews may be made with Chaplain Bremer who is in charge of the program.

Senior Reviews Choral Concert

by George Lachenauer

Last Sunday the choir from the Church of the Ascension in New York City presented a concert of sacred music in the college chapel. The choir, under the direction of Vernon deTar, sang a variety of works which represented musical periods of several centuries. The program included the music of Ralph Vaughan Williams, Heinrich Schuetz, Ronald Arnatt, Francis Jackson, Louie White, Bach, Brahms, Rachmaninoff, and Mozart. The compositions of White and Arnatt are winners of anthem competitions sponsored by the Church of the Ascension.

Expressive Singing

Mr. deTar's musicianship and abilities as a choir director and organist were evident throughout the program. The Pharisee and The Publican of Schuetz, Rachmaninoff's Today Hath Salvation Come To Earth, and Jackson's Benedicite Omnia Opera were sung expressively with an obvious comprehension of the texts by all singers. Here On Earth by Brahms and White's Hymn of the World's Creator were particularly inspiring.

A large audience listened with reverence and absorption to the well-planned concert.

Student Council Election Held; Bill Quay Is Elected President

Bill Quay, a junior from Gloucester City, New Jersey, was elected president of the 1955-56 Student Council in the Student Council officer elections held yesterday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Student Center. Other officers elected were Ed Steiger, vice-president; Dick Gross, treasurer; Larry Cescon, recording secretary; and Dick Miller, corresponding secretary.

Approximately 86.4 per cent of the student body participated in the election.

Quay has been president of the Class of 1956 for two years. A history major, he is a member of the Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity, the Muhlenberg Christian Association, and Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity. He will succeed Ron Schlittler who will graduate in June.

Steiger is a member of the Economics Club, the Intercollegiate Conference on Government, the varsity baseball team, and the Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity. He has also served on the Freshman Tribunal. His hometown is Haddonfield, New Jersey.

Gross, who lives in Allentown, serves as secretary of the Pre-Med Club. He is a member of the Phi Epsilon Pi social fraternity.

Cescon is a chemistry major from Allentown. He is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity and is copy editor of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY. He also is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity.

Miller, a sociology major, is also from Allentown. He is Co-Editor-in-Chief of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY. He serves as accompanist for the Chapel Choir and is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Delta Epsilon, the Sociological Society and the Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity.

Voting Challenged

Following the election of the new men, Dr. John J. Reed received charges last evening from several students concerning possible irregularities in the voting. A special session of Student Council at 11:45 this morning decided that if the charges are not withdrawn, a faculty tribunal consisting of Dr. Reed, Dr. G. N. Russell Smart and Dr. Russell W. Stine will hear the case. As this paper goes to press, the charges have not yet been withdrawn.

An Open Letter To The Student Body

I wish to thank all those who expressed their confidence in me as their choice for Student Council president. I shall try to do my utmost to support the better interests of Muhlenberg. Again I wish to thank everyone, sincerely, for the honor you have bestowed upon me.

Medical School Dean Meets With Pre-Meds

Dr. Harold C. Wiggins, Dean of the Albany Medical College of Union University at Albany, New York, will be on the Muhlenberg campus tomorrow to discuss medical education and problems of orientation regarding medical education in the junior, sophomore and freshman classes.

Dr. John V. Shankweiler has arranged for a meeting of these students with Dr. Wiggins for 2 p.m. in room 305 of the Science Building. Dr. Shankweiler commented concerning this meeting, "All pre-medical students in these three classes who can possibly do so should be at this meeting."

Dr. Wiggins will have lunch with the Committee on Pre-Medical Screening and Recommendation to Medical Schools. He is also visiting other area colleges.

Philosophy Fraternity Convenes Saturday

The sixteenth annual convention of Alpha Kappa Alpha, the national honorary fraternity in philosophy, will be held this year on the Muhlenberg campus this Saturday. The program for the convention consists of registration at 2 p.m. in the Administration Building, a business meeting at 2:30 p.m. in the Student Center, discussion groups in the Administration Building from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m., a meeting of the nominating committee and election of officers at 5 p.m. in the Student Center, and the convention dinner at 5:30 p.m. in the College Commons with Dr. Reichard McKinney as the speaker.

Dr. McKinney is head of the philosophy department of Morgan State College, Baltimore, Maryland. Kappa chapter of Morgan State College was recently installed as a new chapter of AKA.

The discussion groups will be led by students from Muhlenberg College, Western Maryland and Cedar Crest colleges, and Gettysburg College on the topics "Existentialism," "Ethics," and "Aesthetics" respectively.

The convention will adjourn at 7 p.m. All members of Alpha chapter of Muhlenberg have been invited and urged to attend.

Mask and Dagger Society To Present "The Shrike" On Campus Next Week

Fred Grosse and Mrs. Theodore Garrison will play the leading roles of Jim and Ann Downs in Joseph Kramm's "The Shrike," which will be presented by the Mask and Dagger Society on May 5-7 at 8:30 p.m. in the Science Auditorium.

"The Shrike," a tragedy, was presented on Broadway starring Jose Ferrer and won the Pulitzer Prize for the best play of 1952. It requires a cast of 22, 17 men and 5 women. The plot revolves around Jim Downs, who is in a hospital after an unsuccessful suicide attempt. Circumstances force Jim to make a choice between returning to a wife he no longer loves or remaining in a state mental institution. After an inner conflict, he chooses his wife over the girl he has fallen in love with and returns home.

Student Council Memo . . .

The installation ceremony at the chapel service tomorrow will close another chapter of student government at Muhlenberg. Through the years, student councils have had their share of problems with students and administrations alike—this year has been no exception. However, our elected representatives have carried through in grand style, doing all within their power and dignity to represent us.

Next week the new Muhlenberg Student Council will begin its laborious task of effectively presenting and acting on student needs. Before the machinery moves into high gear, the WEEKLY believes that there are certain matters which our new councilmen should definitely put on its agenda.

Foremost in campus circles today is the subject of student honor. Our dean has attempted to promote integrity by appointing the honor court; some professors are using the honor code in advanced courses; our campus committee on academic regulations is continually working to introduce student honor into the various paths of campus life. We hope that the new council will do all in its power to promote this work, bearing in mind that decisions on cases of dishonesty must be of uniform fairness and severity.

The chapel services have also evoked some steam this year. We refer not to the question of compulsory attendance but to the method which council has used in enforcing mature behavior at the daily services. Our dean and the outgoing council have varied in their philosophies of treatment. Agreement still has not been reached. In the interests of our college, there must be a unity of thought on the powers of the council in this and other matters. We hope that its law-enforcement duties will be consistently supported by all—student and administration personnel.

Free student use of alcoholic beverages, student cognizance and participation in campus functions, and student opinion of our marking system also merit council interest, and perhaps, recommendation. However, the Council must make its primary goal that of better understanding between Muhlenberg students and their superiors. Here is the field which most needs improvement. Mere verbal affirmation of cooperation by the Council or by the Dean is insufficient. A greater Muhlenberg will be built only through a feeling of mutual respect and active cooperation among the parties involved.

Better Coordination . . .

Hindsight may not always be the best sight, but it certainly is the easiest. In judging the Inter-Fraternity Council's choice of date for the annual Greekway dance, it seems best from the promotional point of view to say that a better weekend could have been selected. Conflicts with the Intercollegiate Conference on Government and Omicron Delta Kappa's national convention, besides the Regional function of one of the council's six members, made difficult the success of the affair. Whenever a selective group undertakes any project, success will always be contingent upon a high percentage of support from the organization's members.

It might be better for IFC to attempt to hold their dance in another season of the year than to jam April's already crowded schedule.

School Spirit . . .

With all of the early controversy over "no interest" in track, it might be surprising to some that the hardy core of approximately 15 men who assemble regularly under coach Fellows has more spirit and a greater desire to produce with the talent which they have than the ever-glamorous sluggers who don coach Dick Fox's outfits. Somewhere along the middle innings of the game, the men who play on this year's baseball team either forget their know-how or leave their spirit in the dressing room. As the age-old dutchmen would say, Was ist los, Coach?

Goofy Fielders, Cool Bermudas, A Missing Car

by Footloose

Don't Let It Happen To You Dep't: Early, very early last Saturday morning, Harv Stein was awakened by one Bob "Skinny" Fisher . . . it seems that Bob's date (an intelligencia) had run out of gas in Bob's car (Minus Bob) (?) in downtown Allentown . . . she walked back to East Hall and with Harv's car, the trio proceeded with the search for two tons of metal. Yes, she had lost the auto . . . two and one-half hours later, the unit still had not been discovered and a thoroughly disgusted Stein quit the hunt and re-retired . . . we hear the car was finally found. Moral: If you come upon a female in distress, ignore her!

Most Ridiculous Rumor of the Week Dep't: We hear that Mr. McCauley has released plans for a 250 foot circular bar which will encircle the Mall. Reports have it that John Adam is planning to "Stay Away."

The ranks of the commuters have been swollen by the addition of Ed Horowitz and Don McCain . . . the boys are making regular trips to Linden Hall Junior College . . .

It seems that Tom Kelsall has a new counterpart on campus in the person of Irv Kerson . . . this may mark the start of a new trend in fashion circles among the East Coast Ivy League colleges . . . Irv's classroom habits probably won't start any stampedes, however . . . he was seen in one of his Tuesday morning classes happily peeling and devouring an orange, while everyone else alternately took notes and stared . . .

The ATO softball game between brothers-and dates last Saturday afternoon was marred by numerous miscues on both sides and terrible umpiring by Jake "Wounded in Action" Hualgal . . . in center field, Paul (Say, Hey) Truran called for a pop fly and waved everyone else away . . . as it dropped about 20 feet to his left, he

Several Snoring, Silent Silly Snoozers Sleep Snugly In Sagging Sacks

It's a medically proven fact that most of the world's population (including college students) cannot account for their actions during approximately one-third of their life. This is nothing to be alarmed about—it's merely the time all of us spend sleeping. Though it might seem to be a shame to an efficiency expert, most of us agree that sleep isn't wasted time and is sometimes even healthful. Not everyone sleeps the same way, though . . . there are many different kinds of sleepers and some of them are interesting.

The Snorer

Take the SNORER, for example. Here is a case found in almost all walks of life, rather prevalent on college campuses. He often retires before his roommate does. This action usually starts trouble. Symptoms are rather hard to write down, but they go something like: "Hunnnnk - WHEEESH Hunnnnk - WHEEESH." Or, sometimes, "GRUKKKKK - PPaahhh, GRUUUKKK - ppaahh." Subject invariably sleeps on back and tosses as if pursued by an angry history professor. Roommate can be identified by his pale face, baggy eyes, thin, emaciated build and irritable manner. Little is known about cures for this malady. The only possible method of avoiding the effects of the SNORER is to retire before he does, stuff cotton in both ears and sleep in another room. There are a few extreme cases on record where the SNORER woke himself. These cases are uncommon, as the person usually dies of lack of sleep.

The Tosser

Another interesting person is the TOSSER, not to be confused with the TURNER. The TOSSER follows a set pattern . . . gets into bed, pulls covers up to head. Tosses after falling asleep, pushes covers to right side of bed. Reaches for covers, starts tossing again. Covers fall to foot of bed. Wakes up, pulls covers up, realizes feet and legs aren't covered, gives the whole thing up as a bad job, falls asleep.

The Turner

The TURNER also follows a pattern. With sounds, yet! He gets into the sack, gets settled on right side. Pushes pillow to left of head, turns to stomach. Turns, reaches for pillow, turns to left side. Draws feet up, scratches, grunts, flips violently to right side. Mumbles "Mrumph!" in a clear voice, punches pillow into the shape of a pancake, turns on stomach. Turns on back, etc. etc.

An unusual case is the SLEEPER. Goes to bed. Goes to sleep. Bothers no one.

The Botherers

There are other botherers. These people are almost impossible to live with. The worst is the PAGE-TURNER. He and the LIGHT-TURNER-ON-ER, the MUMBLER the DOOR-OPENER-AND-CLOSER, and the RADIO-PLAYER can all be considered at once. They're terrible. They exhibit these symptoms at various times, usually on the night before an exam, but are quiet other times.

The rarest case is that of the DAYTIME-SLEEPER. This case is seen infrequently, and only appears during houseparties. Symptoms are extreme dislike of sleep, excessive yawning and drowsiness during noon meals. Can be seen walking across campus toward his sack about the same time you are getting up. Delights in telling everyone how long he's gone without sleep and usually falls asleep in the middle of such a story.

Sleeping pills and non-sleeping pills have been on the market for a long time, but to really make a mint, an alert businessman will peddle Anti-Snoring pills, Non-tossing-tablets or Non-Removable Blankets (for TOSSERS) and the portion of the world that sleeps will beat several hundred paths to his door, buy him out and probably elect him President of the Morpheus Club.

Our Tragedy: Wasted Talent

One of the great tragedies of every age is the extent to which talent is wasted. In this respect, our age is no exception. We waste talent in war and in preparation for war. We submerge individual talent in a sea of conformity. We allow our talents to lie idle under the atrophying influence of vicarious living.

This waste of talent is painfully apparent on the modern campus—even on the Muhlenberg campus. Some men, with an abundance of ability, are content to do just enough work to "get by". Others, well able to do creditable work, have not aroused themselves sufficiently to do an acceptable grade of work. Too many talented men are content to be observers of extracurricular activity rather than participants.

In these days of specialization and compulsory military service, I am sure many of our men have asked themselves: Is there a valid reason why any man should extend himself?

Whether one is motivated by purely pecuniary considerations or is also aware of more significant values, it must be obvious that it pays to exert and develop one's talents to the maximum: First, the pace of the specialist is necessarily fast and his ability to direct and exploit his talents must be highly developed before he can look with confidence for success.

In the second place, the satisfactions of a job well done provide the most soothing balm yet discovered for the pain of frustration. Finally, it is just good mental hygiene to seek happiness through accomplishment, no matter whether the task at hand is pleasant or unpleasant.

If this is the case, the sooner one is able to reach this stage of accomplishment, the fuller the cup of life will be. But, to reach this goal, one must first accept the responsibility to grow up, to be a man, to take life actively and seriously, not carelessly and vicariously. Self-discipline is also a requisite—denying the luxury of distractions and procrastination and insisting upon the practice of prompt and constructive effort. Finally, achievement requires effort.

The goal of the four-year sojourn at college is to enlarge the areas in which accomplishment may be sought. This, then, is the place, and this the time, to gain the habit of achievement—achievement in the classroom and achievement in the extra-curricular aspects of campus life. If you are not yet working to capacity, enrich your life by seeking greater achievement.

'Outstanding' Mr. Tracer Seeks Student's Identity

by Dave Miller

(Background music: Theme from "Mr. Tracer, Keener than Most Persons" softly, then quiet down to fortissimo. Fade in picture, superimposed upon the sponsor's product, Dr. Picker's Piddling Pink Pills for Pimples and Purple Poisons. Switch to camera 3, a closeup of Mr. Tracer.)

Mr. Tracer: "Greetings, ladies and gentlemen of television land. This is Mr. Tracer, welcoming you to another program in which we will try to identify and locate some unlucky—ah—lucky person. As you know, we take only the most worthy cases of the several million sent in." Switch to camera 2—blurred shot of a pile of envelopes—actually Julius LaRosa fan mail). (Back to camera 3 and a shot of toothy Mr. Tracer, grinning widely.)

Mr. Tracer: "Tonight, we have an especially interesting case. It reminds me of the case we had several years ago, perhaps you remember it. (Camera 1, photo of smiling, happy-looking college student). This boy had disappeared from college and was reported to be touring Europe with three friends. The parents of his girl wanted him to return to marry her, although he had publicly told her he no longer cared. His professors wanted him to return to complete approximately 94 theses, on the subject, "The Effect of My Course on the Modern World Situation." Through our world-wide coverage, we were able to locate the man and brought him back to his loved ones. Oddly enough, he seemed not at all pleased with the whole thing. He again told his girl, "No!", quit school and joined the Foreign Legion. But, such is life.

"Now, our case tonight is more of a mystery. We do not know the student's name, nor why he is to be identified. But we will find all this out and we promise you all the details as soon as one of you can positively identify him. Remember, we make it worth your while if you can tell us the identity of the person in question. If you can, you receive a year's supply of our sponsor's product, Dr.

Picker's Piddling Pink Pills for Pimples and Purple Poisons. You also receive a commission in either the Man's or Woman's Branch of the Slobblovia Air Corps. And now a word from our sponsor . . .

(Switch to camera 10, long shot showing a huge display of Dr. Picker's Piddling etc. and genial Harry "Chuckles" Harrigan.)

Harrigan: "Hello, hello, hello. Tonight I'd like to show you some letters from satisfied users of our sponsor's product. (Camera 2—same pile of LaRosa fan mail) You see, many of our watchers take time out to let us know what they're doing and what they think Dr. Picker's Pills are doing.

"If you would like to try some, call Sagamore 2-2-900, that's Sagamore 2-2-800, and don't forget to say that "Chuckles" Harrigan told you to call Sagamore 2-2-222. Now back to Mr. Tracer, Keener (Camera 3.)

Mr. Tracer: "Next week, folks we'll bring you a follow-up on this story. That is, if some lucky person can identify our "Mr. X" of this week. We will bring you all the -heh-interesting details on this, your favorite Television show, (fade in theme) "Mr. Tracer, Keener than Most Persons." (Theme loud, as usual—switch to camera 1, showing millions of pink pills falling, making a heckuva racket . . .)

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

Spring is blooming forth, giving the campus of Muhlenberg College a beautiful appearance. However, our campus could be even more beautiful if we, the students, would take the trouble to make it so. I can't help but feel disgusted when I see how fellow students deliberately litter the grounds with waste paper, cigarette butts, and refuse, especially around East Hall. With approximately 150 rooms in East Hall each with at least one waste paper basket, there is absolutely no reason why any waste refuse couldn't be deposited in proper containers.

Where is our school pride and appreciation for beauty? Let's "get on the ball" and give the campus a spring cleaning and then keep it clean!

Thanks,

KAS

Critic Lauds Movie Plots, Dislikes Ads

Currently showing at two Allen-tonian theatres are two of the best motion pictures of the year. They are "East of Eden" and "A Man Called Peter". The plots, taken from two best sellers, are of almost opposite natures. Both, however, are excellent entertainment for everyone.

"East of Eden", in particular, could be classified as a great film. Elia Kazan, winner of an academy award for his direction of "On The Waterfront", has done an equally fine job on his adaption of John Steinbeck's best seller. The movie is extremely powerful. One comes away from it feeling as if he has done a hard day's work or just run a two mile race. The movie becomes so intense that it gives you an uncomfortable feeling. It reaches inside and seems to draw out the very secrets of your existence.

James Dean, a newcomer to the American scene, and Julie Harris give performances that should win them academy award nominations. Dean, an Englishman, reminds one of Marlon Brando in his actions and speech. His ability to create reality by simple gestures and facial expression is outstanding. Kazan also uses the minute detail and unusual camera angle to produce realism. In many places he goes out of his way to add some unrelated sequence which greatly helps to raise this film above the ordinary. He also is the director of the hit Broadway play, "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof."

This film is a must for all serious movie goers and also for those who are looking for the unusual and the zenith in movie entertainment.

But why is it that Hollywood stoops to such depths to advertise such a film? The posters in front of the theatre are suggestive and disgusting. They create a completely false impression. It may sell tickets, but with a movie such as this, parasitic filth is not needed to draw customers. Hollywood should put more faith in the American public. If they continue to produce high grade entertainment such as this, such advertisement will be unnecessary.

Professor Deck was unable to meet his classes last Tuesday because of a recurrence of a physical disability which has bothered the aging math wizard previously.

He will be unable to return this semester. Dr. Truman Koehler will handle Professor Deck's courses for the remainder of this semester.

A "THANK YOU" . . . to the many, many college newspaper editors who have given such outstanding editorial coverage to the big L&M Photo Contest, which offers $1,000 in prizes to any registered student on your campus who can take a winning photo and write a winning caption for a campus "stand-out."

. . . to the editors who have run tie-in contests publishing in their papers some of the photos that will be submitted by fellow-students who are aiming for one of the big cash prizes.

AND A REMINDER . . . that the contest ends May 16—all entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, Monday, May 16, 1955 and must be mailed to Campus Merchandising Bureau, Inc., 299 Madison Avenue, New York 17, N. Y.

. . . that this is a golden opportunity for your school and your paper to make news as sponsors of the winning student-submitted photographs. We hope that you will apply your own talent and ability to the contest and urge the full cooperation of your staff to get out a record number of entries from your campus.

P. S. The Chesterfield campus representative, who serves your paper's oldest, largest and most consistent advertiser, is at your service if further details on the contest are needed. An additional copy of the announcement release (sent you recently) is enclosed for your convenience in writing or assigning follow-up stories.

State Dept. Exam

The Department of State Foreign Service Officer's Examination will be given on June 24, 1955, throughout the United States. The closing date for the receipt of applications to take this examination is May 2.

Students interested in participating are urged to mail applications to the Department's Board of Foreign Service Examiners immediately. Failure to submit the application by May 2 will eliminate candidates from competing in the examination on June 24.

Information pamphlets, sample questions, and application forms are available in the Placement Office, Administration Building, West Wing or from the Board of Examiners of the Foreign Service, Department of State, Washington 25, D. C.

The tennis match, which was cancelled yesterday because of wet grounds, has been rescheduled and will be played at Lehigh on Friday.

The entire house is planning to attend the banquet thrown by the Student Council on Thursday night. On Friday the house is sending a large number of men to the IFC party.

The heads and the kitchen are now bright and shining with their newly acquired coat of paint. To go along with the new paint job came a new mascot to the house in the form of a Dalmatian puppy. To make sure that it will remain in the family it has been given the logical name of CHI. Initiations were held for two men, brothers Meily and Hannon.

Phi Epsilon Pi

With the big weekend over, things have quieted down at the house. All had a good time at the houseparty. Plans are being made now for Parents Day on May 8. Entertainment is being planned for them and a dinner will be served.

Phi Kappa Tau

The Phi Eta sorority is holding a banquet for the Phi Tau seniors this Saturday night at the Keystone Trail Inn. The senior brothers and their dates will enjoy a planned evening of entertainment and dancing.

Plans are under way for the combined Dad's and Mother's Day Saturday, May 7, 1955. This function will also be operated in conjunction with the Phi Eta sorority.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The brothers and pledges enjoyed a big IFC houseparty weekend which consisted of a clam bake and a Dixieland band party Saturday night. Initiation for Freshmen and upper class pledges will take place next Tuesday night. Plans are also being made for a graduation weekend house party for the graduating seniors. Bill Greenawald has succeeded James Corgee as Social Chairman for next year and Dennis Roth will hold the office of Rushing Chairman until next fall.

The baseball game with Delaware which was rained out on Monday will be played tomorrow on the Muhlenberg field. Saturday's game will be played at Lehigh.

Racquet Squad Meets Albright, Drexel At Home

Approaching tennis matches will see the Mule racquetmen in action at home against Drexel on Monday and against Albright Wednesday. Last year's match with Drexel was postponed because of the weather, and the Albright match ended in an easy 7-2 victory for the locals.

Coach Shankweiler is looking for topnotch play from his six starters, who are Bob Brock, Al Szwczak, Jay Krevsky, Mike Egan, Dave Arnold, and Carl Schnee. These men will pair up, with Brock and Arnold, Egan and Szwczak, and Krevsky and Schnee playing side-by-side in the doubles matches.

Western Elec.-Mule Chess Match Friday

Friday, April 29, at 7 p.m. in the Student Center, Muhlenberg College chess players will take on Western Electric in a 16-board match. Representing Muhlenberg at first board will be Michael Cesanek. His opponent will be Jack Frey, who heads the WE Chess Club. Mr. Chatfield of the English Department, who is acting as adviser of the Mule club, has made the arrangements. The pairings follow:

At Board	West. Elec.	Muhl.
1	Frey	Cesanek
2	VonOhlson	Heiser
3	Sobel	Mihalow
4	Singleton	Gurski
5	F. Carpenter	Schimmel

Golfers Open At Lehigh, Face Moravian Monday

Muhlenberg's golf team, rained out in its first home appearance with Lafayette, resumed its six game schedule this afternoon against the Engineers of Lehigh. The linksters, dormant until now, have a weekly match scheduled each Thursday, through the end of the semester.

Coach Triplett's six man golf team faced one of its roughest opponents on the schedule this afternoon at Lehigh. Before today's match with the Mules, Coach Leckonby's Brown and White squad, headed by co-captains Vick Sperry and Bob Buhner, had a record of 2-1. The Engineers, who compiled an impressive 14-2 record last year, defeated Rutgers, 7-2, and Delaware, 9-0, after losing to Penn, 6-3, in their opening match. Buhner and Bates, key men on the team, are undefeated in their three encounters.

On Monday Berg's golfers travel to Bethlehem again to meet Moravian. The Greyhounds lost the only match they have played to Dickinson, 9-0, and have been rained out in two other scheduled matches. The squad is headed by co-captains Pat Petruny and Frank Scholl. Last year Moravian's record was 3-5.

Leading the Bergmen on the greens will be veterans Dick Conway, Fred Mihalow, Don Mackereil, Dick Ohlweiler and Walt Haslam, who with newcomer Jack Russo form the squad nucleus.

Baseball Opponents In Heavy Schedules

The Leopards of Lafayette (6-3) tasted defeat at the hands of a tough Colgate nine (4-1) when the winners pushed over two runs in the top of the ninth inning, 5-4. The low score did much damage to the Eastonians' record as they had compiled a total of 61 runs and 63 hits in their first six games of the season.

After hammering out a win over the Mules last week, the Penn nine suffered a close 7-6 defeat at the hands of Dartmouth.

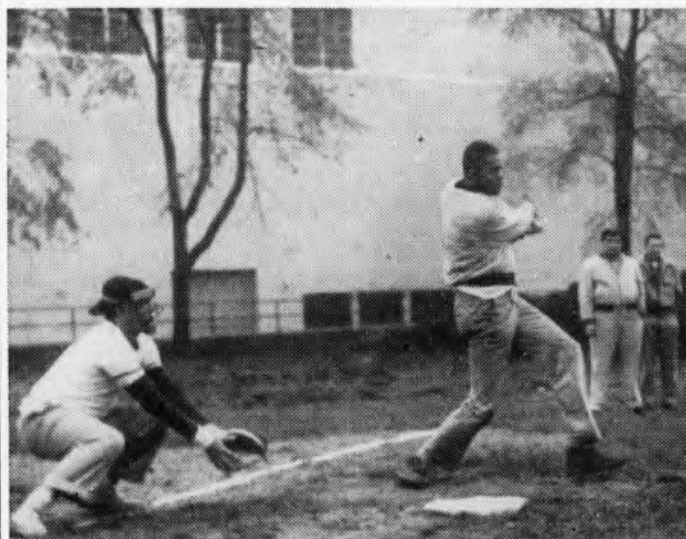

In a college double-header last Saturday, the Lehigh Engineers suffered two close defeats to Rutgers, 3-2, and 2-0, bringing their season's record to a hefty 1-7. (Continued on Page Six)

Diamond Squad Journeys To Lehigh; Entertains Albright Nine On Wednesday

Muhlenberg's baseballers should return to the win column this week as they encounter a rather inconsistent Lehigh team and a good but spotty Albright team.

Explorers Bombard Saddler, Rip Loose-Fielding Mules, 12-3

by Jim Patterson

Last Saturday Muhlenberg's baseball squad went down to its third defeat of the season and second consecutive loss. This latest disaster was at the hands of an able La Salle nine who swamped the Bergmen, 12-3.

The game never turned out to be any type of a contest as the Explorers threatened in the first inning and then went on to score one run in the second, third and fourth innings. La Salle then proceeded to score four more runs, blasting Tony Saddler out of the box in the sixth inning.

During this explosion, Berg managed to score one lone run in the fourth to put up semblance of a fight. Muhlenberg scored two more runs in the seventh when it appeared that a real rally was beginning. At that time the score stood 10-3 in favor of the Philadelphians.

La Salle scored three more runs off Ed Steiger in the seventh and two off Jay Cook in the ninth.

Trackmen Lose To Bisons, 77-48, Play Host To Lafayette Cindermen

Muhlenberg's next dual track meet will be held at home on Tuesday, May 3 against Lafayette. The Leopards from Easton currently have a very strong squad and should prove very difficult for the Mule thinclads. Last year's Lafayette team defeated Muhlenberg 99-27.

This year's Leopards feature Lou Brade in the 440 yard dash, Tom Sweeny in the mile and two mile runs, and Arnie Forrest in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Outstanding field men include Dick Meyers in the broad jump and Jim Randall in the javelin. Barber and Jim Radcliffe both high jumped over six feet last week against Haverford.

Coach Fellows' men faced Bucknell last Saturday and were defeated 77½ - 48½. Denny Roth was the only double winner for the Mules. Other firsts for Berg were registered by Ralph DeStefano, John Keyser and Clark Morgan.

The results of the meet follow:

Paul Kicska Places Second In Contest

Paul Kicska, Muhlenberg freshman, placed second in the Mr. Pennsylvania contest held at the Easton YMCA on April 2. Paul also was awarded the trophy for having the best developed back. First prize in the contest was won by Irv Rutberg of Philadelphia.

Paul was born in New York City and moved to Easton when he was five years old. He went to Easton High School where he played guard and tackle on the football team. After high school, Paul worked at his father's gas station and repair shop until last year when he decided to come to Muhlenberg for a degree.

Paul, who stands 5' 7½" and weighs 175 lbs. started weight-lifting and body-building five years ago when he was seventeen. Since then has added many honors to his credit. Among them are Mr. Lehigh Valley of 1954 and Pennsylvania Light-Heavy Weight-Lifting champ. Paul won that weight-lifting crown with a clean and jerk of 310 pounds (meaning he lifted it over his head). He has been rated as one of the top-light-heavy weight-lifters in the country by Bob Hoffman, coach of the United States Olympic Weight-Lifting team. One of Paul's big ambitions is to go to the '56 Olympics as a member of the United States team.

Paul has inspired quite a few West Hall occupants to take up lifting and body-building. He is taking the B.S. course as a physics major.

Sixty-First Annual Penn Relay Carnival Held Friday, Saturday

The sixty-first running of the Penn Relays will be held on Friday and Saturday, April 29 and 30. At that time, St. Joseph's College will defend its Middle Atlantic College track and field association championship. St. Joe's will have two men from last year's winning quartet competing again this year. The Hawks won a class indoor mile relay in the Inquirer meet at Convention Hall in January and will be one of the favorites in the Middle Atlantic competition.

Among other standout teams this year are Albright, Haverford (who also won their class mile relay at the Inquirer meet), La Salle, Scranton, and Swarthmore.

The current Penn Relay record in the Middle Atlantic one-mile relay championship is held by Union College. The record was established in 1930 when their quartet was clocked in 3 minutes 21.8 seconds.

Rutgers, no longer a member of the association, has won the title a leading total of six times, followed by La Salle and Lafayette who have each won it three times.

Muhlenberg has been entered in the Middle Atlantic one-mile relay championship and also the college class one-mile relay. John Keyser, Bobby Lee, Don Tihan-sky, Clark Morgan and Harlin Heere are the five men from the track squad who will be competing for the four slots on the Mules' one mile relay entry. The times produced in the trial runs will be the sole criterion for a position on the team, and coach Fellows states that "unless the times are respectable, the team will not compete."

On Friday and Saturday the greatest track spectacle in America will take place at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, when over 3100 school and college athletes participate in the 61st Annual Relay Carnival. The Penn Relays has distinguished itself for many years as an outstanding feature on the sports calendar.

Absent from this year's event will be the Benjamin Franklin mile, which in past years featured top ranking amateur milers. This year authorities have been unable to obtain a suitable field of participants for this classic attraction.

However, individual college stars will continue to thrill the expected large crowd. Among the outstanding collegiate trackmen are Art Pollard, 100 yard dash champion from Penn State; Al Cantello, javelin champ from La Salle and Josh Culbreath, of Morgan State, who will try for his third victory in the 400 meter hurdles.

In the team events, the Manhattan champion relay squad will receive stiff competition from Morgan State, St. Joseph's and Fordham.

Another new name, Colgate, has been added to the at present incomplete 1955-56 basketball schedule.

Ernie Fellows and his squad of thin-clads had another tough break last week when they traveled to up-state Scranton for a rained-out meet. The prospects for a victory were very good against the mediocre Royals.

Major league sluggers were silenced a bit last week-end as the pitchers took their turn at stardom. The duel between Willard Nixon and Ed Lopat on Sunday was the best of the young season. Alex Kellner finally came through for the hapless K. C.'s by silencing the White Sox power, as did Frank Lary in winning his first major league game over the Indians and Herb Score.

Discussion is being raised over a possible Bob Rush-Wally Moon trade. The Cardinals could make use of the strong-armed Cub, but remember that neither Bill Virdon nor Harry Elliott have proven their major league abilities.

Sport In Short . . .

by John Keyser

Coach Ernie Fellows' tiny aggregation of track and field men, with an unimpressive record of 0-3, has shown as much, if not more, spirit as any other spring athletic squad, despite its minute size. The trackmen have turned the usual "What's the use" attitude into, "Let's give them a scrap: make them fight for it."

The cindermen have held more practices than any of the other squads taking weather conditions as they come. Hard work on the part of Coach Fellows and earnest trackmen has not only improved Berg scores in meets, but has given the hungry thin-clads more of an incentive to compete. This was shown at Scranton, where the Mule cindermen were willing to run in two to six inches of water before surrendering to the weatherman.

Of the twelve men who have scored for the Cardinal and Grey thinclads, nine have already earned or have almost earned their track letters. Denny Roth, leading scorer with 24 points, has won at least a second place in every event in which he has participated, while Ralph DeStephano, Harlin Heere, and Len Woodel have placed in all events they have taken part in. But these are only individual feats of single members on the team. What is more important is the combination of these talents with the general morale of the team, which has been surprisingly high for the team record: high enough for Coach Fellows to post at the bottom of his announcement in the dressing room, "LET'S KEEP IMPROVING." And it is up to the few diehard trackmen to keep this enthusiasm rolling, despite rough approaching meets, by continuing to IMPROVE.

Berg's diamond squad has also shown its fight this season (and more successfully) by whipping St. Joe's and Gettysburg, although limited in practice sessions by the weather, and unjustly criticized for not delivering at the plate, through unfairly comparing this year's squad with last season's ten game winners. Many expect too much of the team, not realizing how much of last year's powerful offense was contributed by the bats of outfielders Jack Pollitt and Bill Kern, both graduated.

However, the spirit of the team has been tested in the two losses to Penn and La Salle last week, and must be revitalized for the Bergmen

Mules Blasted, 12-3

The game looked more like a circus as the Berg nine committed four errors and allowed four unearned runs to cross the plate.

Jay Cook, who relieved Steiger in the eighth inning, showed some good pitching skill and control. He was backed up in the ninth by seven men with holes in their gloves and sun in their eyes. An easy pop fly was good for two bases in the ninth and two errors forced in two unearned runs.

Coach Fox showed some foresight as his two pinch-hitters of the game came through with timely singles.

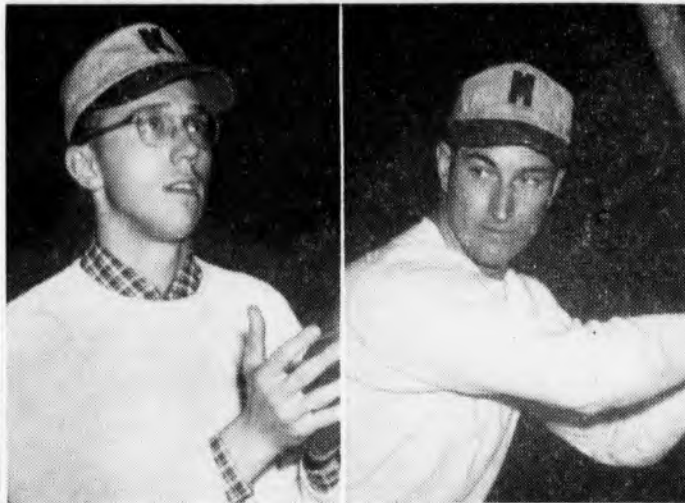

The Mules play host to Delaware tomorrow afternoon. Last year Tony Saddler whitewashed the Blue Hens, 8-0.

MARTY GILBERT

Marty Gilbert, a junior, is the hustling left-fielder on Berg's baseball team. He is a graduate of Allentown High School where he lettered two years in baseball, and two in basketball. Marty was a member of Allentown's 1951 PIAA Class A State Champion ship Basketball team.

He came to Muhlenberg primarily as a basketball player but decided to stick with one sport in order to devote more time to the books.

Marty is a business and accounting major and aspires to become a Certified Public Accountant. He is a member of the M Club, Economics Club, and is pledging Sigma Phi Epsilon Social Fraternity.

When asked about the baseball team Marty remarked, "I don't feel the record of the club now reveals its true value. We should finish better than our present standing."

LEFTY CORNELIESS

The tall, chunky lefthander who plays first base for Muhlenberg's nine is Adrian "Lefty" Corneliess of Clifton, N.J. Lefty played baseball for Clifton High School, making the all-conference team in his junior and senior year and the all-state squad in his senior year.

Lefty is one of the busier men on the Muhlenberg campus. He belongs to the ATO social fraternity, is vice-president of the Economics Club, treasurer of the M Club, a former dorm councilman, and an active participant in intramural sports. He is majoring in accounting.

Corneliess, a junior, recalls that his biggest thrill in baseball came last year at Scranton, where he hammered two consecutive homers, one with the bases loaded.

He says that this year's team has much experience and should do well, once it finds the mark.

Neither of the two opponents has won half its contests, but either could easily upset a powerless depressed Mule nine. The team must renew its vigor to wage a successful attack. Bad weather caused the postponement of Monday's games and hampered playing on Tuesday. Nevertheless, three games were played on Tuesday and four on Wednesday. Sigma Phi Epsilon managed to come from behind on the strength of some timely hitting led by Dave Michaels, who belted a three run homer, to defeat the Star Cleaners 11-8. Denny Roth went all the way for the win; Bill Fatemi received the loss. In another game, Lambda Chi took advantage of shoddy fielding on the part of the All-Stars to register a 20-15 triumph. Roger Keehn and Wally Loy provided the necessary power for Lambda Chi with Bob Lee the All-Star leader, Loy, who relieved Rosenberger, was the winner; Krevsky, who was the victim of his mate's miscues, suffered the loss. The upset of the night was recorded by the Scrap Irons who edged a pre-season contender ATO 7-5. Bruce Francois pitched well to receive credit for the win. Wildness and some timely hitting by the Scrap Irons proved the downfall of O'Brien who was tagged with the loss.

Last night Phi Tau edged Phi Ep, 2-1, as Bill Keeny batted in Don Mackrell from second base with the winning run. John Simek was the winning pitcher. The Don Juans shut out the veteran DVA's, 10-0, on Dick Steinberg's two-hit-ter.

Why do more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette?

BECAUSE ONLY VICEROY GIVES YOU A PURE, NON-MINERAL, NON-TOXIC FILTER WITH 20,000 FILTER TRAPS IN EVERY FILTER TIP!

1. Yes, only Viceroy has this filter composed of 20,000 tiny filter traps. You cannot obtain the same filtering action in any other cigarette.
2. Besides being non-mineral and non-toxic, this cellulose-acetate filter never shreds or crumbles.
3. The Viceroy filter wasn't just whipped up and rushed to market to meet the new and skyrocketing demand for filtered cigarettes. Viceroy pioneered. Started research more than 20 years ago to create the pure and perfect filter.
4. Smokers en masse report that filtered Viceroy's have a finer flavor even than cigarettes without filters. Rich, satisfying, yet pleasantly mild.
5. Viceroy draws so easily that you wouldn't know, without looking, that it even had a filter tip . . . and Viceroy's cost only a penny or two more than cigarettes without filters!

That's why more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette . . . that's why VICEROY is the largest-selling filter cigarette in the world!

ODK Men Attend Convention; Hear Address On Leadership

Louisville, home of the Kentucky Derby, was the focal point for nearly two hundred representatives from Omicron Delta Kappa last week at the biennial convention attended by four Muhlenberg representatives. The four men were Lawrence Cescon, Richard Miller, William Quay, and Ronald Schlittler. "The Free and Responsible Development of Man," was the theme of the conclave which lasted from Thursday evening until Saturday at noon.

With registration beginning at the Kentucky Hotel at 2 p.m., the convention officially convened at 8 p.m. with National President Gordon Johnston, presiding. The address for the convocation was given by Dr. Howard S. Scharfe, pastor of the Shady Side Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh. Dr. Scharfe stressed the need for assuming responsibility if man is to retain his freedom. Present for this meeting, as well as for the entire convention, was Dr. Rupert Nelson Latture, one of the original founders of ODK.

The Friday morning session was given over principally to the meetings of the various province members. Dean Sherwood R. Mercer, deputy of the northeast province, presided at the meeting in which Muhlenberg was represented. The luncheon address was given by Dr. Philip Davidson, president of the University of Louisville.

The convention representatives, at the afternoon session, were divided into twelve committees which acted on such items as resolutions, policy and law, nominations, and public relations. At the Convention Banquet, held in the Terrace Room of the Kentucky Hotel, two distinguished service keys were presented to outstanding members of the national leadership fraternity. The recipients, Dr. Ralph C. McDanel and Dean Marten ten Hoor, were granted these awards on the basis of their contributions to their respective fields.

Speaker for the banquet was Dr. Robert F. Ray, director of Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Iowa. Dr. Ray stated that our present world needs young men who will create and maintain a proper climate for leadership. The leader, he went on to say, needs an awareness of his leadership, for only in a free democracy does leadership have real meaning.

At the closing plenary session on Saturday morning, committee reports were heard and new officers elected. At this time it was announced that six new circles had recently been added to the organization. Dr. R. D. McIntyre, professor of commerce at the University of Kentucky, was elected to the post of national president.

Baseball Opponents

Delaware took a 5-1 victory from John Hopkins, while St. Joe's (3-3) out-slugged little Haverford, 13-8.

Temple (5-3) tied the Gettysburg Bullets (4-1) at the end of ten innings, 8-8, after they had compiled an early 7-1 advantage. In two other contests, the Middies of Annapolis were beaten, 5-3, by Yale, while Albright (3-3) blasted F & M, 8-2.

Track Opponents

Muhlenberg's track opponents have been playing a number of closely contested meets. Topping the list is the 64-61 Swarthmore win over the Delaware tinclads, despite the field efforts of the Blue Hen weightmen, Steve Butcher, Bill Graham and Tom Oves.

Albright continued to roll along with a 67-59 victory over Scranton. The Mules had a chance at the Royals last week, but the rain caused the cancellation of the meet. Lafayette's strong team defeated Haverford, 68½-57½, with a well balanced distribution of track talent.

Despite the absence of basketballer Clyde Royster, the fleet-footed Engineer trackman reversed their diamond losses by running wild in a 85-41 win over Rutgers.

In a triangular meet, Gettysburg took a victory when they accumulated 70½ points. F & M took second place with 58½ points, while Dickinson scored the remaining 25 points. The Mules' last opponent of the season, Ursinus, suffered a 79-47 loss to PMC.

The club's annual banquet will be held at the Village Inn on Monday, May 9, at 6:30 p.m. The banquet speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Charles M. Cooper, president of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania. All interested in attending the banquet should contact Eugene Shiffer. Cars will leave the Student Center at 6 p.m.

The Chowline

Tuesday afternoon the Ladies Auxiliary had a tea party in the college Commons. In case you don't know it gang, the ladies are the ones responsible for the decorations, chairs, tables, and curtains which make your chowhouse a little more like home. Rarely do the students realize who it is that looks after them so fondly, nor do they ever say thank-you to the auxiliary. Perhaps it might be well for us to remember our obligation to the ladies and to look for our opportunities to help them.

On Saturday afternoon, Dr. French and a group of educators studying the problems of Child Study and defects in teaching procedures will hear Professor Daniel Prescott of the University of Maryland. More than 200 men are expected to attend the conference and the luncheon which will be held in the commons.

On Saturday evening, Alpha Kappa Alpha will hold a dinner in the Commons. This organization—for the unenlightened—is the national philosophy fraternity on campus.

This weekend is the fraternity's national convention and Muhlenberg's Alpha chapter is the host.

At any rate they've made a date for a little Commons eating because there the atmosphere's just right for a comfortable replying.

Godshall Elected President Of LSA

Last Sunday evening the Lutheran Student Association held its second annual retreat at the YWCA cabin. During the evening the group of about thirty students heard a talk by Dr. Morris S. Greth, professor of sociology, on the topic "Christianity and Sex."

The evening began with a supper of roasted hot dogs and other picnic foods, which had been prepared by several of the girls. After the discussion, there was a business meeting at which the election of officers was held. Those elected were David Godshall, president; Nancy Green, vice president; Ginny Hines, secretary; and Richard Weidner, treasurer. It was also announced that the group will meet next Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center to hear Dr. Vernon Strempeke, the associate secretary of the Board of Education for the United Lutheran Church. His topic will be "Christian Vocation."

After the business meeting, the group enjoyed games and dancing.

Phi Sig's Moonlight Ball will be held on Friday, May 6th. A queen will be chosen that evening and will be entered in the national inter-chapter contest for the Phi Sig Queen.

All student organizations are asked to send the names of all new officers to the Dean's Office when elections have been held.

Dr. Crum To Address Language Fraternity

Dr. Earl H. Crum, head of the Department of Classics at Lehigh University, will speak to the men of the Eta Sigma Phi, honorary classics fraternity at a banquet to be held Wednesday, May 4. The banquet will be held at the Village Inn and will begin at 6:30 p.m.

This school year marked the reactivation of Alpha Rho Chapter of Eta Sigma Phi at Muhlenberg College. An example of the local chapter's successful reactivation is reflected in the election of Joseph Donchez as the treasurer of the National Chapter. This was the first time in five years that Alpha Rho had sent delegates to a national convention.

Grosse, a senior physics major, is president of the Mask and Dagger Society. He recently received a teaching assistantship for graduate study from Lehigh University and is also active in Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity, the Muhlenberg Band, Cardinal Key Society and the Science Club.

Other Parts

Other major parts will be played by Donald Sheasley, who was recently seen in "Picnic," a production of the Allentown Junior Women's Club; Howard Frank, Theodore Drach, Morton Sanet, Ernest Pohlhaus, and Herm Zieger.

Majorie Glose, a sophomore at Cedar Crest, will play a top feminine role. She has previously acted in Muhlenberg's presentations of "Detective Story," "Arms and the Man" and "Ten Little Indians."

"The Shrike" is directed by Dr. Andrew Erskine, and John Parmentier is the stage manager. Other students working on the production are Dominick De Bellis, Melvin Kleinfeld, John La Faver, Thomas Kelsall, and Thomas Torgeson.

DeMolay Club Meets; New Officers Elected

At the regular meeting of the Muhlenberg DeMolay Club held April 21, officers were elected for the next school year. Mel Rea, a freshman, was chosen as president of the group. Other officers, all freshmen are: Dave Reinhard, Secretary-Treasurer; Phil Kline, Corresponding Secretary and George Fisher, Vice-President and Chaplain.

Retiring officers were Dick Weidner, President; Jon La Faver, Secretary-Treasurer; Mel Rea, Corresponding Secretary and Dick Miller, Vice-President and Chaplain.

Dentist Addresses Pre-Med Society

Last Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Richard Covert spoke to the Pre-Medical Society about a specialty of dentistry, oral surgery. Dr. Covert, a graduate of Muhlenberg College and Temple University School of Dentistry, told the group that an additional five years of study after dental school are necessary in order to practice oral surgery. Dr. Covert completed this work at University of Pennsylvania.

The talk was supplemented by colored slides on corrective dentistry.

During the business meeting following the discussion, Dr. Shankweiler, advisor to the club, and the members completed plans for the Pre-Medical Banquet, held at Moravian College last Monday, and for the coming trip to New York City.

Paulene Brown Offers Concert

Paulene A. Brown, soprano, was assisted by Mrs. Jane Lenel on the violin and Prof. Ludwig Lenel at the organ in a concert presented by the Muhlenberg Christian Association and the Music Club on Thursday, April 28, in Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel at 8:30 p.m.

Miss Brown, who has sung with the Robert Shaw Chorale, is now a member of the choir of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Catasauqua.

The first number, by Dietrich Buxtehude, was a solo cantata, "Singet dem Herrn," and was presented by all three artists, as was the third, a German aria, "Meine Seele hoert," by George Frederick Handel. Soprano and organ rendered the remaining selections, "Eile mich, Gott, zu erretten" a sacred concert by Heinrich Schuetz; a motet by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart; "The Heart Worships," Gustav Holst; and "Evening Hymn," Ralph Vaughn Williams.

Journalism Fraternity Elects New Officers

Herm Zieger, Co-Editor-in-Chief of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY, was elected president of Pi Delta Epsilon national honorary journalism fraternity at a meeting of PDE held last Thursday at 11 a.m. Other officers elected at that time were Howard Frank, vice-president; David Godshall, secretary; Richard Weidner, treasurer; and Ed Kunkle, historian.

Zieger, a chemistry major, is also a member of the Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity, the Mask and Dagger Society and the track team. Frank, an English major from Allentown, is currently serving as editor of Clarla.

Godshall, Weidner and Kunkle serve as associate feature editor, photography editor and associate sports editor respectively for the Muhlenberg WEEKLY.

MCA To Present Final Program In Series On Religious Groups

Next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center Lounge, the Muhlenberg Christian Association will present the final program in its series on the major religious bodies of America. The program will which will be composed of four Lutheran clergymen and a moderator discussing various aspects of the Lutheran faith.

Members of the panel will include the Rev. William C. Berke-meyer, a member of the College Board of Trustees and pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in Bethlehem, who will speak on the topic "Lutheran Theology". The Rev. John Daniel, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod) in Bethlehem will speak on "Lutheran Unity."

The Rev. Richard Hoffert, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church in Allentown, will speak on "Lutheran Polity". The fourth member of the panel will be the Rev. Edward Emmers III, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Reading, who will speak on the "Significance of the Lutheran Liturgy." Chaplain David H. Bremer will serve as moderator for this panel.

Sittler to Speak

On May 19, at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium, the MCA will present its final program of the school year when Dr. Joseph Sittler, professor of Systematic Theology at the Chicago Lutheran Seminary, will address the student body in the final assembly program of the year. Dr. Sittler last spoke to the students on Muhlenberg's Campus in conjunction with the 1954 Institute of Christian Living program.

Marine Corps Announces A Varied Program

In a re-emphasis of its traditional air-ground relationship, the Marine Corps this week announced a new training program for prospective Marine aviators.

The first new program for Marine officers since World War II, it has been termed the Aviation Officer Candidate Course. It will result in earlier commissions as second lieutenants for men who desire to become Marine pilots.

Previously all Marine Corps aviators were drawn from the Naval Aviation Cadet Program or from the ranks of Marine officers on active duty. This new program is intended to supplement the present ones.

The AOCC will be offered to college graduates who will attend a 10-week basic indoctrination course at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico. This course will give them basic Marine Corps training, with an emphasis on the infantry aspects.

Successful graduates of this orientation course will receive reserve Marine Corps commissions and be ordered to active duty as student aviators. Upon completion of Flight Training, which lasts from 15 to 18 months, they will be obligated to serve a minimum of two years with the air arm of the Marine Corps.

Although this new program will result in an increase in directly commissioned Marine aviators, it does not indicate lowered standards or a departure from the traditional Marine Corps air-ground partnership. The new program will be a different approach to the same standards.

The orientation course prior to flight training is intended to familiarize prospective fliers in Marine infantry theories and is expected to reinforce the air-ground relationship.

Dramatic Club Stages Pulitzer Prize Winner

Mary Hafer, Fred Grosse, Marjorie Glose, Bruce Francois, and Gerry Garrison are caught in a rehearsal scene from the Mask and Dagger production, "The Shrike," which is being staged beginning this evening at 8:30 p.m. in the Science Auditorium.

The Mask and Dagger Society will present Joseph Kramm's Pulitzer Prize winning play, "The Shrike" at 8:30 p.m. this evening and continuing through Saturday night in the Science Auditorium. Dr. Andrew Erskine is directing the play.

It has been the practice of the M and D to present each year one classical and one modern play. Since the group had staged a classical play last fall, "The Taming of the Shrew", it has selected a modern tragedy for the performance. A modern tragedy differs from the classical tragedy in that the latter epitomizes the ennobling sense of man and the former has no intrinsic outcome.

Attempted Suicide

The action centers around an attempted suicide and takes place in the psychotic division of a city hospital. Dr. Erskine has described "The Shrike" this way, "This play is not to evoke laughter or to provide an escape from life. It is written to make you think at a time when most entertainment is designed to retard mental activity."

The lead roles of Jim and Ann Downs are enacted by Fred Grosse, a senior, and Mrs. Theodore Garrison. Also in the cast in the order that they appear are Mrs. Walter Hafer, Ira Goldberg, Pat Chattin, Bruce Francois, Mark Straussberg, Margie Glose, James Patterson, Don Sheasley, Melvin Kleinfeld, Morton Sanet, Ted Drach, Dick Merrick, Ralph DeStephano, Walter Hafer, Howard Frank, Phyllis Miller, Ernie Polhaus, and Herm Zieger.

Responsible for the scenery are stage managers Dick Beach and Jack Parmentier. Tom Torgeson is in charge of lighting. The hospital props were obtained through the courtesy of the Sacred Heart Hospital.

The price for reserved seats is $1.25. Students will be admitted on their activities card. Students' dates will be admitted at a special price of $.90.

Alpha Kappa Alpha National Convention Held At Muhlenberg

Dr. Russell Stine, professor of philosophy, was elected national president of Alpha Kappa Alpha, national honorary philosophy fraternity, at the fifteenth annual convention of that organization, which was held last Saturday on the Muhlenberg campus. Mr. William Kinter of the English department was chosen field secretary at this time.

Arvids Ziedonis, president of Alpha chapter at Muhlenberg College, presided over the convention session. Both he and Mr. Kinter addressed groups at the convention. Their topics were "Existentialism" and "Esthetics" respectively.

At another section meeting, Gettysburg and Cedar Crest representatives discussed "Ethics."

Copies of The Philosopher, the annual publication, were distributed to all delegates. Among the articles were two contributions by Muhlenberg students, John Hopper and Ziedonis.

The conclave closed with a banquet in the College Commons at which Dr. Richard McKenney of the Morgan State Teachers College in Baltimore spoke on "Philosophy and Some Problems of Existence".

Dr. Stine was the founder of Alpha Kappa Alpha, the first chapter of which was formed at Muhlenberg College. This is the first time that he has served as national president as well as the first time that AKA has held its national convention at Muhlenberg.

JCC Sponsors May Road-e-o

Muhlenberg students will be eligible to compete in the Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Teen-Age Road-e-o which is being held at the Cedar Beach parking area on Saturday, May 21, from 1 to 5 p.m. Automobiles will be supplied by local dealers so that the only requirements necessary for competition are a driver's license or learner's permit, not reaching the age of 20 prior to July 29 and not having committed any moving traffic violations in the past six months.

The winner of the local contest will go on to compete in the national trials. The winner of this final contest will receive a full four-year scholarship to the college of his choice.

Applications will be available in the Records, Placement and Counseling office on the first floor, West Wing of the Administration Building. The deadline for filing these forms will be May 17.

TRIBUNAL NOTICE

May 9th is the deadline for 1955 Tribunal nominations. Nominees will indicate their interest for the same by putting their names on a 3 x 5 card and placing it in the Student Council Box of the Student Center. Council will elect Tribunal members at their May 12 meeting.

Annual Father's Day To Be Held May 14

An all day program has been set up by Student Council, with the cooperation of the Administration and the Faculty, for the annual Fathers' Day to be held Saturday, May 14 on campus. Invitations have been extended to the fathers of all

Senior Gift To Honor Longevity Of Service

A gift honoring all members of the Muhlenberg faculty who have served twenty-five years or more was decided on as a Class Gift by the Senior Class at a meeting of that group held last Thursday at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium. The Class has not yet decided whether the gift will be an oil painting of one of these men or the planting of trees in honor of all of them. This choice will be made at a future date.

Twelve area alumni representatives were announced at this meeting. The men and the areas which they will represent are John Adam, Continental; Lee Angstadt, suburban Allentown; Marvin Cressman, Allentown; James Corgee, Philadelphia; Donald deQuevedo, Northern Pennsylvania; Fred Geehr, Easton; Eric Helsing, Northern New Jersey; Bob Moerkirk, Allentown; Hans Peckman, New York City; Sam Rosenberger, Harrisburg; Ken Trexler, Reading; and Cas Wanczyk, Central New Jersey.

Wally Loy, class president, also announced that Class Day activities have been nearly completed.

Muhlenberg students in a letter sent to each of them this past week. In the main, the affair is to be similar to the Parents' Day of last fall.

The day's activities will begin with a talent show at 11 a.m. in which students are to compete. All those interested are urged to contact Sam Rosenberger. Prizes are to be distributed to the winners of the contest in this way: five dollars for first place, three dollars for second place, and two dollars for third place.

Picnic Luncheon

Following the student talent show, the fathers and their sons will go to the College Commons where a picnic-style luncheon will be served. Not only at this time, but also at an informal bull-session between the fathers and the faculty at 2 p.m., will the visiting Dads have an opportunity to meet with their sons' professors.

Also at 2 p.m., the Mules' baseball team will meet the Owls from Temple University in a game on the Muhlenberg field. After this game the fathers and their sons may obtain their supper at the College Commons or use the time for any other activities. The social fraternities on campus plan to present varied entertainment for the visiting fathers of their members.

Dixieland And Modern Music To Hold Spotlight At Concert

The Muhlenberg Jazz Society will present a concert of dixieland and modern music Monday evening, May 16, at 8:30 in Memorial Hall on the Muhlenberg College campus.

Jimmy MacPartland and four other famous Dixieland stars will be featured. Also in the musical spotlight will be the Teddy Charles Quintet, equally well-known in the field of modern jazz.

305 Students Share In Good Fellowship

More than 300 Muhlenberg students shared in the food and good fellowship which were available at the first annual "All Student Banquet" which was held last Thursday evening from 5 to 8 p.m. at Castle Gardens in Dorney Park. The banquet was sponsored by Student Council.

The festivities began with a Pennsylvania Dutch style meal of hot dogs and sauerkraut.

Entertainment consisted of vocal numbers by the Royalaires, a campus quartet, and a "rock and roll" vocalist. Prior to the entertainment, the members of the newly elected Student Council were presented, along with the retiring members of the 1954-55 Council.

Fraternity To Initiate Five New Members

Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, president of Muhlenberg College, Dr. David H. Bremer, college chaplain, and Mr. Ludwig Lenel, assistant professor of music, will be initiated into Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, national honorary philosophy fraternity, at a meeting of that group which will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the chapel lounge.

Two students will also be inducted at this time. They are Harold Leam and Donald Sheasley, both of whom are juniors and English majors.

After the initiation Dr. Seegers will address the group at the home of Dr. Russell Stine, 2116 Allen Street. This will be the last meeting of AKA this semester.

"MacPartland is considered by many jazz fans as the best cornetist since the great Bix Biderbeck," according to William Rutsch, president of the Jazz Society. "Jimmy and Bix were close friends for many years, and finally Jimmy took over Bix's spot in the famous Wolverines."

Teddy Charles, one of the country's most outstanding vibraphone players, recently was named musician of the year by a national music magazine. With Teddy will be a group of talented modern jazz stars.

Tickets Available

Tickets are available at reasonable prices for both reserved seats and general admission. They are now on sale throughout the Allentown area at Titlow's Music Store, Speedy's Record Shop and at Memorial Hall on the Muhlenberg campus.

In Bethlehem, tickets may be purchased at Phillip's Music Store, Huff's Music Store and from a representative on the Lehigh campus. Tickets are also available from representatives at Cedar Crest, Lafayette and Moravian Colleges.

Second Concert

This is the second concert presented by the newly-formed Muhlenberg organization. Lehigh Valley jazz fans jammed Memorial Hall a few months ago to hear the off-beat music of the Dave Brubeck combo.

"Jimmy MacPartland and the Teddy's quartet will appeal to fans who are looking for a real beat. This second concert covers a wider scope of jazz music," Rutsch stated.

Muhlenberg students will be admitted free of charge upon presentation of their activities cards.

Editorial Views . . .

Proven Responsibility . . .

Congratulations are definitely in order for the retiring Student Council's successful All-Student Banquet. With 305 attending students, the affair became a positive display of school spirit.

The editorial staff frowns upon the Administration's threatened punishment of two seniors who were instrumental in making the function a reality. The entire council sponsored the idea as did the students who attended. Moreover, the banquet was conducted in an orderly fashion and everyone present handled himself properly. The staff furthermore questions the appropriateness of any punishment; here was an excellent transcending of organization cliques which militate against campus unity. It was not a service club, honorary society, M-Club or fraternity banquet. All students—pre-theos, commuters, athletes, dormitory and fraternity men—were represented.

The administration has successfully improved the morals of resident students several hundred per cent over the period of one year. This has largely been accomplished by mature cooperation with willing students. We feel that cooperation is reciprocal and comes from methods of handling men which are not akin to military school procedure. We hope that two of our number will not be made scapegoats for the whole group.

Finally, the students, in general, realize that they are responsible to the college for their conduct because they are Muhlenberg students. The decisions as to what conduct can be considered beneficial to Muhlenberg should be left with the individual student. The college's responsibility admittedly lies in setting boundaries to help students live better.

Last week's banquet proved that Muhlenberg men are capable of assuming the responsibility which has been placed in their hands.

Thanks . . .

Somewhat overshadowed by the Student Council installation last Friday was the tapping of several men for the Cardinal Key Society. However, this ceremony should in no way be relegated to a lesser position, for the spirit of service to which this group adheres is as vital to student life as is any Student Council. Its president, Jack Hopper, in his introductory talk last Friday alluded to the type of service which this organization practices. It is a type of service with few thanks and no tangible reward. However, the vigor with which these men perform their duties verifies their interest in their Alma Mater.

Perhaps the most important service which the Cardinal Key Society renders is that of mingling with campus visitors. It is these men who create the first, and possibly the only, impression which visitors to Muhlenberg will receive. Their interest and attitude could conceivably determine Muhlenberg's future. This and innumerable other services make the society one of the most important organizations on the campus. The WEEKLY offers a word of sincere thanks to Jack and his hearty crew. Our appreciation may not always be verbally expressed, but it is ever present.

Progress ? ? ?

We hope that the lads who could not spare five seconds to avoid cutting corners across the grass are pleased with the new paving that our grounds supervisor has seen fit to place behind the Library and west of the Ad Building. Perhaps bushes could have been planted instead to discourage the path blazers; however, we would be in agreement with Mr. McAuley if he were to then express fear for the future of any such bushes. Indeed, probably even a stone wall would have been of no avail against our insistent friends.

However, the deed is done. We hope that the strong odoriferous nature of hot macadam will be a pleasant change from the sweet scent of newly mown grass. Strange as it may seem, there are still those of us who prefer the latter.

Brew And Fellowship —Without Censorship— Under Council Leadership

by Dave Miller

From the 17,978 cars parked around the lots at Dorney Park, you could tell that it was going to be a big shindig. One of the problems was to decide how seven guys drove all these cars, but we figured that out pretty easily, because all the cars had Muhlenberg stickers, and Muhlenberg men can do anything . . . everybody knows that!

There wasn't much noise from inside the building as we walked in . . . except for the gurgling of "Birch" beer into many, many, many glasses. After about an hour of this, the crowd took fifteen minutes out to eat, then sat back to watch the entertainment.

About half of you remember most of this, but for the rest of you . . . why didn't you get out to the affair? You missed a good time! Messrs. Schlittler and Adam made talking sounds from the stage and were drowned out by the sound of three hundred jaws closing on as many pieces of celery. Adam was singing something or other, humming or "Hmrr"ing or something.

Schlittler warned the students not to take the tablecloths. They didn't. That's one thing about college students. They obey instructions. Those tablecloths sure looked funny though, spread out on the floor after all the tables and chairs were stolen!

Edgar Schick made quite a hit with the group headed by Ray Klein, who was heard to comment, between blows of his gavel, "Edgar, lead anodder!" Some eight-foot-tall creature was seen drinking directly from a keg with the help of a straw, said his name was Day or something.

A guy by the name of Danny Daniels played his electric guitar and commented, between fast glasses of "Birch," about the size and shape of things. The Royalaires, shown above, were much appreciated by the whole group. They kept demanding encores and more encores, but the Royalaires didn't know "The Souze Family" because they are all milk-drinkers. So are the other students . . . (ridiculous, isn't it?)

Most of the hilarious action started when the "Birch" stopped. The funny races to various pitchers have been clocked and the times being turned over to the track dept. They are incredible! Ed Horowitz outraced Ron (Guess (Continued on Page Three)

The Student Council's brotherhood banquet seemed to be a big hit around the campus. . . in fact, Tom Coughlin was so carried away with the feeling of good brotherhood that he was chasing Jack MacDonald around the eucalyptus tree in front of East Hall some time after the banquet had expired . . . must have been a strenuous night for Tom . . . he's on crutches now.

Dick Manheim tells us of the character who drove into a service station in his ultra-small sports car and asked for a quart of gas and a tablespoon of oil. "Certainly," said the attendant, "And would you like me to breathe into your tires?"

There was quite a lengthy discussion the other night at the IFC meeting as to whether to hold rushing in the spring or fall semester. . . it was then suggested to

From the Chaplain's Desk . . .

One of my professors in college used to tell his students, "Don't let your studies interfere with your education."

Sounds like strange advice coming from a professor. A bit dangerous perhaps, considering how many students are all too ready to abandon their studies for all the "extras" of college life. On the other hand, every student ought to realize that there is much more to a college education than attending classes and fulfilling assignments.

Take for example the extra-curricular educational opportunities which various campus organizations have made available during the past few weeks: a number of outstanding musical programs; a symposium on the Arts; a lecture by a Roman Catholic priest; a visit to a Russian Orthodox Church. During the year the Institute of Christian Living brought to campus three outstanding speakers—a leading Australian clergyman, a professor of religion and a scientist. All of these programs, and many others during the year, have been of a high calibre—yet with few exceptions they were attended by a mere handful of students. Why? Simply because they were not required. No credit was given.

This situation is not peculiar to Muhlenberg—other colleges face the same problem. All too many students are content to limit their educational pursuits to required work, ignoring a wide variety of opportunities to further enrich their college experience.

One of the best ways to distinguish the genuine searcher for truth from the person who is only after a degree is by the extent to which a student avails himself of worthwhile educational opportunities beyond the bare minimum requirement. Seen in this light, there is really some sound advice in the warning, "Don't let your studies interfere with your education."

Academic Responsibility Is Necessary For Honor

by Bill Anderson

Academic dishonesty has been a greater problem on our campus than it is right now. However, there are still a considerable number of undetected cheating cases during almost every month of school. The faculty has expressed the opinion that the problem of student honesty can only be resolved by student pressure from within the student body.

Actually, the leadership to guide the student tendencies away from dishonest practices should come from two sources. Student leaders can emphasize the importance of integrity and honesty to the student body. Students can bring pressure to bear on individuals to follow the acceptable and honest way of action, but the faculty must follow through with effective supporting leadership from the classroom.

Students tend to follow the keynote which the professor sets in his classroom. If the professor is thorough and well organized in his presentation, he can expect the same from his students on examinations. If he is slipshod in his classroom procedure, he is standing on weak ground if he expects anything different from his students. If a professor is unprepared and shoddy in classroom presentation, his students will have no standard of excellence and achievement toward which to strive. Also, if a professor is unprepared in his testing methods and demonstrates indifference to the administration of his tests, weak-willed students will have a ready-made, open chance to cheat. Their integrity will be challenged in a manner that the faculty man could have prevented.

The preceding is no contradiction of the attempts to encourage student honor. Rather, it is one more step in strengthening and

"Critic" Reviews "The Shrike"; Current M. & D. Production

by Brook Otkinson (NY Times)

THE SHRIKE—a drama in three acts written by a parolee from the local booby-hatch. It is the stirring, spine-tingling tale of a slightly frustrated lad caught in the well-worn eternal triangle—man, woman and insane asylum. Characters: Twelve men, four women, one stray dog and five inmates from Rittersville. (For play rights write Napoleon, Box 412, Allentown State Hospital.)

Members of Dr. Andrew Erskine's (M.D., Ph.D.) Straight Jacket Club will present the dramatic play, The Shrike, in the Science Auditorium tonight, tomorrow night, and Saturday. In reality, the production promises to rival the exploits of a nightgown-clad idiot suffering from a vulgar nightmare.

In the opening scene, Ira Goldberg is enchanting in his silk pajamas as he haggles with a dame (nurse) over some matches. This serene incident is disturbed when Bruce Francois attempts to revive a dying Fred Grosse and almost bungles the job. (Bruce pays more attention to the patient's lovely wife. . . which is not in the script.) Don Sheasley stammers over his lines as he attempts to portray an intelligent "mind"-doctor. At the end of the first act, the audience is convinced that Sheasley is the only crazy one in the ward (MNL).

The second act is a mess! Evidently, the author was either drunk or having a nightmare. Dick Merrick sings "The Ballad of Davy Crockett" while slowly getting crooked on a bottle of saline solution. Walt Hafer is convinced that his sister is planning a visit (he's nuts). Ralph DeStephano is concerned over the pronunciation and spelling of his name. Poor Morton Sanet gets bruised slightly as he is gently pushed on his ----. Mel Kleinfeld does nothing! The second act is a mess!

In the final act, Howard Frank, Ernie Polhaus and Herm Zieger work Fred Grosse over the coals. The poor fellow would have been better off if he had died in the first act. (Critic's Note: Fred, next time take 157 pills, instead of just 156.)

The plot is interesting! Things are usually wild when you put seventeen idiots together. The acting is fair! Mediocre player are the reason for this. The direction is excellent! Dr. Erskine is the director.

If you don't get to see any performance of the play and you are interested in watching this dramatic play. . . visit your local cinema where Jose Ferrer and June Allison will soon be starring in "The Shrike".

They're fun. All you've got to do is know Italian numbers, have a loud voice, and own the regulation number of fingers.

It is sad to report, but there was a dirty movement at work. About thirteen and one-half juniors were hunting desperately for a pair of scissors, a razor blade, an old rusty knife, etc. They wanted to (perish the thought) cut Mr. Kelsall's hair off! If they had asked him, instead of trying to sneak up around him, he would probably have helped them!

One of my spies, namely Dick Manheim, said he saw Don (Guess Who's Mouth) Reilly, who WASN'T SINGING THE ALMA MATER! He was whistling something from Brubeck, Opus 1. Fie on you, Don!

Of course, there were a few follow-ups, but I guess TWA hasn't found the missing airliner. We bribed the pilot to land on the Cedar Crest golf course, and he, stewardess, fifteen Muhlenberg men, 65 Cedar Crest girls and one cocker spaniel haven't been heard from. Since.

... Student Council Report ...

The final meeting of the 1954-55 Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on April 28, 1955 at 8:18 p.m. by vice-president Neville. Mr. Paul moved to recess the meeting and to charge those not present at 8:19 p.m. twenty-five cents for the first minute and one cent for each minute thereafter. Mr. Ascione seconded the motion and it carried. The meeting reconvened upon the arrival of president Schlittler.

The following members were present: Messrs. Schlittler, Neville, Rosenberger, Paul, Lauer, Ascione, Adam, Spohn, Loy, Wormley, Baker, Quay and Wanczyk.

The minutes of the previous meeting were accepted as read.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

No official committee reports were given but the newly elected Councilmen who were visitors at the meeting were acquainted with the duties of the various committee men.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES:

Good Fellowship Banquet Committee—Mr. Adam informed Council that the banquet was a splendid affair and that approximately 305 students attended the event. It was reported that eight halves of good fellowship beverage were consumed.

Father's Day Committee—Mr. Lauer stated that letters are being sent to fathers informing them of Dad's Day. Mr. Lauer also presented a bill for $48 to cover the mailing expenses. Mr. Spohn moved and Mr. Quay seconded that $48 be allocated for the mailing costs. The motion carried. Mr. Quay moved that a letter be sent to the Dean requesting that unnecessary profits should not be made at the expense of Council in mailing charges. Mr. Adam seconded the motion and it carried.

OLD BUSINESS:

Mr. William Anderson appeared before Council to give a report on the progress of the Committee on Examination Procedure. A complete report was presented in writing.

NEW BUSINESS:

Mr. Rosenberger moved that a new gavel be purchased. The motion was seconded by Mr. Loy and it carried.

Mr. Baker moved that $50 be appropriated to furnish the presidential suite. Mr. Neville seconded the motion, but the motion was withdrawn by special request of the incoming president.

The chair was turned over to vice-president Neville and in turn to the secretary. Mr. Wanczyk then recognized Mr. Schlittler who moved to adjourn the last meeting of the 1954-55 Student Council. Mr. Neville seconded the motion and it carried.

Alpha Tau Omega

All the brothers at the house wish to extend their best wishes to alumni brother George Gibbs who was married in the Chapel on Saturday. Two men from the house were elected to Student Council. Ed Steiger was elected vice-president while Pete Lord is a representative. Pete was also elected Regional Chairman at the I.C.G. conference at Harrisburg, which gives him the leadership of such schools as Lafayette, Lehigh, etc. in this organization. Tom Coughlin had his leg operated on over the weekend, and we hope to see him walking without crutches very soon.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Big things are expected this weekend. On Friday night a hay ride is planned. On Saturday, brothers and dates will take part in a picnic. The pledges are still shining up the house. Right now they are painting the study rooms on the second floor.

Phi Epsilon Pi

Fifteen new brothers have just been added to the roster of the house. Their initiation came after a hectic "hell week." The softball team has not been compiling such an impressive record but two of the losses have been by one run. With Bob Krain's arm strengthening toward the middle of the season, they should come out with a winning record. Plans are now being made for the improvement of the kitchen with new additions. Brother Dick Gross was elected to the Student Council and also to the treasurer of this organization.

Phi Sigma Kappa

It looks like spring is finally here, and the Phi Sigs took advantage of it last weekend by sailing around in Brother Bill Brokaw's motor boat. Some of the brothers just sat around and enjoyed the sun or played golf. Lehigh had a big blast on Saturday night and the brothers visited a few houses, enjoying the hospitality and refreshments.

This weekend all the Phi Sigma Kappa men are hoping to have good weather for their annual Moonlight Ball. On Friday night there will be a formal dance, and on Saturday, a 12 noon to 12 midnight picnic affair.

Racquet Squad Travels To St. Joe's, Haverford

On Saturday, May 7, the Mules racquet squad will travel to Philadelphia to play the Hawks of St. Joseph's. The Joe's have had an unsuccessful season, and at present are sporting a 1-5 record.

Their top four men, Joe Bartlett, Bob Jobblonski, Elich Kamunura and Jim O'Brien have not proved as potent as expected in their recent matches and shouldn't prove too dangerous.

The Bergmen, especially veterans Mike Egan, Jay Krevsky, and Al Szwczak, along with the rest of the squad will be out to revenge last year's 6-2 setback at the hands of the Hawks.

Following the St. Joe's match, the Mules are scheduled to travel to the Philadelphia vicinity again to meet the Haverford netmen. The Fords are in the midst of a good season, having piled up an 8-3 record so far.

Phil D'Arrigo, Dave Hensel, and Geoffrey Steere represent Haverford's main threat. All are veterans of last year's squad which downed the Mules easily, and will be hoping to do it again. Bob Pratt, the only freshman on the squad has come along well, and along with D'Arrigo makes a fine doubles team.

It is evident that Brock, Egan, Krevsky, Szwczak, and company will have their hands full with the rough Haverford squad which should rate a slight favorite. However, the always improving Bergmen could fool the experts.

Will the person or persons responsible for taking the flag of the Class of 1956 at the Student Body Banquet please return the same to Mr. Vincent Osadchy.

Western Electric Defeats Chessmen

Friday evening's chess match with Muhlenberg entertaining Western Electric ended in a 9½-4½ victory for the visitors. At the first board, Cesanek won for the Mules, scoring over Fry in an endgame with rook and pawns against bishop and pawns. Gurski, at the fourth board, won over WE's Singleton by trapping his opponent's king in the king rook's file. Muhlenberg showed additional strength at the top when Heiser drew with VonOhlsen at board two. Lichti and Taras also scored convincing victories for the home team. The score:

Western Electric	Muhlenberg
2. VonOhlsen ½	Cesanek 1
1. Fry 0	Heiser ½
3. Sobel 1	Miholow 0
4. Singleton 0	Gurski 1
5. Carpenter, F. 1	Schimmel 0
6. Ross 1	Brown, R. 0
7. Hanfmann 1	Day 0
8. Ericson 1	Carpenter, J. 0
9. Izzarone 0	Lichti 1
10. Miller, T. 1	Weintraub 0
11. Pond 1	Bilder 0
12. Benn 1	Kerrigan 0
13. Mackery 1	Miller, W. 0
14. Stansbury 0	Taras 1
9½	4½

Credit goes to all the Mule players, losers as well as winners, for hard-fought games. It is hoped that interest engendered by this match will lead to the formation of regular chess activity at Muhlenberg College.

Golfers Bow To Lehigh, 9-0, Tip Moravian, 7-2

Coach Triplett's linksters split their first two matches of the season, losing to Lehigh on the home greens, 9-0, and whipping Moravian, 7-2, on Monday, at Bethlehem. Lehigh's golfers, who ran up a one-sided 14-2 won-lost record last year, proved too experienced for the Mule starters, as they recorded their fourth win against one loss. Co-captains Bob Buhner and Vick Sperry won their fourth straight matches, as each kept his undefeated record intact.

At Bethlehem, Walt Haslam shot a cool 78 to lead the Cardinal and Grey linksters to a 7-2 victory over the Greyhounds. Don Mackereil, Chuck Davidson and Jack Russo were also victorious in their rounds.

The summaries:

Haslam defeated Stine, 8-6.
Ohlweiler defeated Kresh 1 up in 19 holes.
Best ball 6-5.
Mackereil defeated Skrable 1 up.
Davidson defeated Rhen 3-1.
Best ball 5-4.
Conway defeated by Esposito 1 up.
Russo defeated Rieger 1 up in 19 holes.
Best ball 1 up in 19 holes.

Last year the Bergmen outpointed Moravian, 7½ to 1½, at the Lehigh Country Club. Don Mackereil took honors with a low of 74 on the 72-par course.

All campus organizations are requested to send a list of their new officers to the dean's office immediately.

Diamond Nine Continues Heavy Fire With Greyhounds, Diplomats, Bisons

Coach Dick Fox's baseball nine will continue their heavy schedule when they travel to Moravian on Saturday, May 7. They will return to Muhlenberg for a game with F & M on Monday and hit the road again on Wednesday for an engagement with Bucknell. Each of these three squads is mediocre, but will be troublesome considering the comparatively poor showing of the Mules thus far this season.

Hurdle-hopping

Frank Jankowski, Muhlenberg hurdler, and Donald Sayenga of Lafayette have reached a hurdle simultaneously in the Leopard-Mule track meet on Tuesday. Sayenga took second place in this 120 high hurdle event behind teammate Walter Frey, while Mule "all-event man" Jankowski finished in third place.

Last year the Bergmen won two one-run victories at the expense of the Greyhounds, 1-0 and 3-2. The former, a pitchers' duel, was won by Frank Sproviero at the Bethlehem campus.

Moravian has most of last year's team back again. Among the outstanding Greyhounds are first baseman Russ Fegley, catcher Bill Kemmerer and third baseman "Dutch" Weaver, who hit a home run against Lebanon Valley last Saturday to give his squad a 5-4 victory.

Diplomats at Berg

Returning lettermen is characteristic of the F&M nine who lost only two men by graduation. Captain, outfielder Dick Woods and shortstop Terry Hoover have carried the bulk of the slugging duties in the early games. Other returnees are third baseman Irv Angstadt, a brilliant fielder, catcher John Hanley and pitchers Jim Bean, Carl Bombay and Dan Kestenbaum.

Journey to Bucknell

Strong pitching and weak hitting appear to be the reasons for the Bisons' unpredictable baseball team. Many of their games this year have been won or lost by narrow margins. Since this is also a feature of the Mules, a close contest is likely to be played.

Topping the list of the impressive mound staff are Jack Flurer, Tom King and Don Richards. Coach Bill Lane considers his staff as being one of the best in the school's history.

At the plate, however, there is much to be desired, although the entire squad consists largely of veterans. Commanding the infield positions for the herd are first baseman Bob Whitehead, second baseman George Klauder, who is the captain of the team, shortstop Zeke Zartman and third baseman Clark Workman. Richard McFarland will perform the receiving duties behind the plate. Shoel Levine, Jack Sisto and Don Wain will patrol the outfield.

The Mules have not been playing the type of ball games which they had been expected to play. However, with the heavy schedule confronting them, improvement should be displayed in these three contests.

In the Lehigh contest, Coach Fox did a bit of line-up juggling, as he inserted Frank Sproviero in right field because of his good hitting in several games. Fox expects to continue this plan when Sproviero is not on the mound.

Probably the most improved hitter last week was Tom Weber, who collected two doubles and a single in the Lehigh game to boost his batting average to .385.

Gettysburg, Lehigh Trackmen Invade; Mules Journey To Delaware Saturday

The Muhlenberg trackmen will face the Lehigh Engineers and the Gettysburg Bullets in a triangular meet on the Mules' oval on Saturday, May 7. This meet will be followed by a trip to the Delaware University campus for a meet with the Blue Hens on Tuesday, May 10.

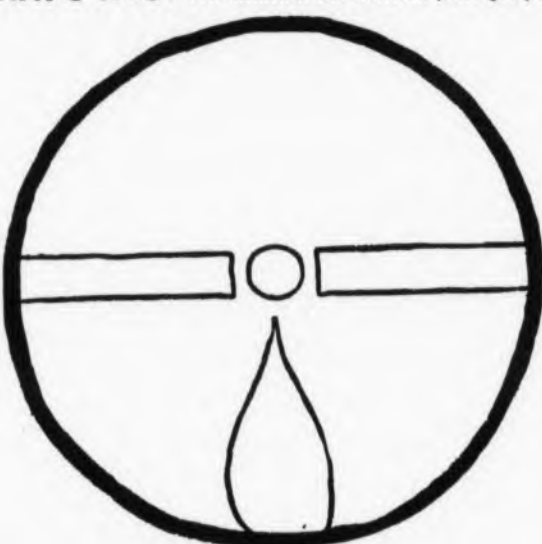

The results of last year's meets with these schools were Lehigh 83½, G-burg 37, and Muhlenberg 33½, and an 80-46 defeat at the hands of the Delaware Hens.

The current Lehigh and Gettysburg squads are very strong and should provide stiff competition. The Engineers are paced by Tim Burgess and Clyde Royster in the sprints, Bob Lincoln in the middle distances and Clark Jennings in the mile and two mile. Joe Dougherty and Roy Vartanian run the hurdles and fieldmen Hartung, Roy and Stark are outstanding in the weights. Ed Knapp, of basketball fame, high jumps and Johnston broad jumps. The Bullets

BOB BROCK

Bob "Shorty" Brock, sophomore racquetman on Muhlenberg's tennis squad, is from Rahway, New Jersey. Bob graduated from Rahway High School, where he played tennis for four years. He was co-captain of his team in his senior year and won second prize in the Union County Tournament in his junior year.

Bob, a business major at Berg, stands a gigantic 5'7" tall and weighs 130 pounds. His speed and endurance are his best assets, which he used to good advantage in winning his first match played this season.

Among his activities are intramural basketball, football and softball. Brock thinks this year's team is good but inexperienced. He also thinks the team is showing good improvement under the efforts of Coach Shankweiler.

Tennis Team Loses To Drexel, Albright

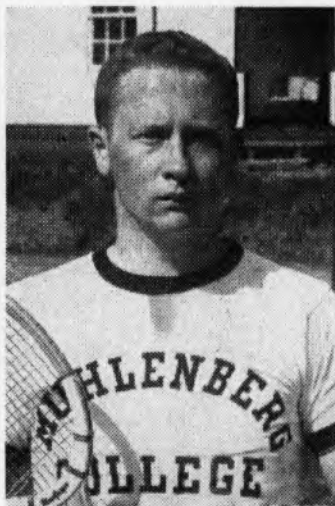

Muhlenberg's tennis match with Lehigh last Wednesday was postponed because of adverse weather conditions, and the locals were probably wishing for rain during Monday's match with Drexel, which was won by the Dragons, 6-3, at the Oakmont Courts.

Only Jay Krevsky and Carl Schnee were able to gain victories for the Bergmen. Krevsky defeated Bill Taft, 6-2 and 9-7, while Schnee easily won over George Snader, 6-1 and 6-1. Bob Brock, playing one for the Mules, met Drexel's stiffest competition in Jack Scheckman, as he was beaten 0-6, 3-6. Others of the Mule squad found their opponents more adept than themselves, as Mike Egan (1-6, 3-6), Al Szwczak (3-6, 3-6) and Dave Arnold (6-3, 3-6, 2-6) each lost its individual match.

As in the singles matches, the only doubles victors were Krevsky and Schnee. They outpointed Musselman and Snader, 6-3, 6-1. Egan and Szwczak fell victims to Scheckman and Cherry, while Brock and Arnold lost a tough set to Ullrich and Taft, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

Yesterday afternoon the tennis men lost a heartbreaker to Albright, 5-4. Mike Egan (7-5, 6-2) and Dave Arnold (8-6, 6-2) were Berg's only victors in the singles. Bob Brock (4-6, 0-6) and Carl Schnee (1-6, 1-6) both lost in two sets, while Al Szwczak and Jay Krevsky (4-6, 6-3, 4-6) were defeated in two of three sets.

In doubles, the Krevsky-Schnee combination won its third consecutive doubles match on the Oakmont Courts with scores of 8-6 and 6-1. Egan and Szwczak were victorious, but Brock and Arnold were defeated in their sets.

JAY KREVSKY

Veteran Jay Krevsky, a member of the Muhlenberg tennis team for his fourth year, has collected three letters in tennis. Krevsky is a graduate of Allentown High School, where he also played tennis for two years. Although he is a commuter, Jay is often found in some sort of campus activity. Among his extra curricular activities are the M Club and intramural basketball, football and softball. Krevsky is also a member of Phi Epsilon Pi social fraternity.

Despite his many campus interests, Jay spends much time in the library and the laboratory preparing his pre-medical subjects. He hopes to attend Jefferson Medical School upon his graduation in June.

Krevsky feels quite optimistic about this year's racquet squad despite the lack of experience. He attributes much of the success of the team to the psychological influence of coach Shankweiler.

Last year Jay played alongside fraternity brother Ron Shane in doubles. The pair made a strong combination, winning over half of its matches. This year Jay pairs with newcomer Carl Schnee.

Lafayette Cindermen Defeat Muhlenberg Thinclads, 99-27

Lafayette's Leopards ran rampart over Coach Ernie Fellows' track squad on Tuesday when they took home a 99-27 victory. This was the same score as had determined last year's Lafayette win.

The only two Muhlenberg firsts were taken by Bobby Lee in the 100 yard dash, and Herm Zieger in the pole vault. Zieger's first was actually a three way tie with Russell Hedder and Roy Ulin. Lee was the high scorer for the Mules as he accounted for eleven of Muhlenberg's twenty-seven points with his first place in the 100 yard dash, second place in the 220 yard dash and second place in the broad jump.

The giant Easton squad, which was three times the size of Muhlenberg's team swept all three places in three events. These were the two mile run, the 220 low hurdles, and the javelin. Chuck Myers scored 11 points for the Maroon, winning the broad jump and taking second in the 100 yard dash and in the 220 yard low hurdles. Jerry Spacek took double wins in the discus and shot put events. He put the shot a total of 48' 10 3/4", topping Muhlenberg's school record by over 2 feet. Don Sayenga, Middle Atlantic Wrestling Champion and outstanding Maroon halfback, also earned four points in the hurdle events.

100 yard dash—Lee, M.; Myers, L.; Rader, L.—10.5.

Mule Baseballers Tame Lions, 7-2, In Errorless Game; Sprovierio Wins Second

Yesterday, the Muhlenberg nine triumphed over Albright 7-2. This was the third win of the present season for the Bergmen who hadn't tasted victory since April 16.

Berg got off to a quick lead when "Lefty" Cornelless belted a home run the second inning. However, Albright tied it up in the fourth and the game remained knotted until the sixth.

Marty Gilbert led off the sixth by flying out to first base. Gemma then followed with a single as did Weber. "Lefty" Sprovierio, batting in cleanup, then proceeded to homer and Berg led 4-1. The inning wasn't over yet, for after Cornelless fled out, Del Tufo and Leber walked. Peters followed with a single to score Leber from second. Bob Fritsch then walked to load the bases and Marty Gilbert stepped to the plate for the second time in the inning. Marty ended the inning as he began it, by flying out to the first baseman.

Muhlenberg scored again in the seventh on Cardy Gemma's tremendous triple and Tom Weber's single. Berg scored its seventh and final run in the eighth on Bob Fritsch's triple and an error in the Albright infield.

I-M CORNER

This week, with help from the weather man, a full schedule of games was run off. On Monday, the Star Cleaners shut out Phi Kappa Tau 5-0 with Bill Fatemi scattering 6 hits for the win. Frank Neely and Bill Smith provided the power in the Cleaners lineup, each banging out a roundtripper. Lambda Chi romped over the DVA's 21-4.

Backed by a powerful hitting attack led by Roger Keehn, who collected three triples, Wally Loy coasted easily to his second straight victory. The Don Juans, behind the six hit pitching of Dick Steinberg, defeated the Commuters 10-3. Bob Morris and Dave Arnold led the hitting attack with a homer and a triple respectively.

On Tuesday, the Scrap Irons edged the Mountaineers, 10-7. Bruce Francois, who received credit for the win, and John Bedway both hit for the circuit. Behind the pitching and hitting of Bob Krain, Phi Epsilon Pi shut out the winless DVA's, 14-0. Phi Sigma Kappa notched their third straight win by pulling out a close one over the Phantoms, 12-9. Winning pitcher Bob Meurer helped his cause by driving in the winning runs with a mighty home run blast Meurer also connected for two other hits; Kloker and Caporale each collected a triple and a single for the winners and losers respectively.

Mules Blast Eleven Hits But Lose As Errors Aid 5-3 Engineer Victory

Last Saturday the Mules journeyed to Lehigh to absorb their fourth defeat in six starts. The Engineers' victory over Berg broke their losing streak and gave them their second win against eight losses.

Two errors by Frank Peters enabled Lehigh to break a 2-2 tie and go ahead 4-2. Muhlenberg never seriously threatened afterward.

The Engineers broke the tie in the third when, with two out, Naylor and Butz singled. On a double steal Peters threw the ball into left field and one run scored. Lehigh scored again in the fifth after Naylor reached third with two out. Weber walked and attempted to steal second. Peters threw the ball into center field and Naylor scored to make the score 4-2.

The Mules jumped off to a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning on three hits and two errors.

Speaking Frankly

by Frank Howard

Evidently, some people have been misusing some of the local country, which is considered hallowed by patriots like Doctors Ken Webb and John Shankweiler. In the spring of the year, a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of . . . oh, well, you know the answer to that rather trite phrase. Of course, tennis!

And, also at this time of the year, some campus character gets ambitious and plasters the campus with signs. Several weeks ago, everyone was lamenting for the recently departed grass (which is presently being buried under cement). The latest noticeable edict wants people off the Muhlenberg College tennis courts, unless they are members of the college faculty, staff or student body!

According to a survey taken by several lassies in bermuda shorts, the only times that members of the Muhlenberg family use the courts are when Dr. Webb is baby-sitting with Kenny Junior or when the local high school gals are sun-bathing. Otherwise, the courts are seldom used by serious-minded tennis enthusiasts. And, upon occasion, English majors Irv Kerson and Jack Hopper are serious minded players.

Maybe all this is taken in vain. Several weeks ago we attempted to point out the problem faced by the track coach in what we considered a satirical column. This short-winded smoker did not mean to hurt any tender feelings; but, from all the back-stabbing reports we received, several people were insulted. This was not our intention, of course; however.

Responsibility

The professor, it is said, is "king of his classroom." This fact is hardly to be challenged by a student. Neither can a student challenge teaching methods. Students can only suggest and advise. However, no matter whether the professor teaches in a slipshod manner or with well-organized, praiseworthy presentation, his tests should be an absolute representation of that which his students have assimilated from the course. Presently some faculty men fail in that respect.

Under an honor system, student integrity is solely the responsibility of the student body; the faculty does not act as proctors. Presently we are not functioning under an honor system, rather a system in which the professor plays an important part.

Thus it seems that in the recent discussions on cheating, the faculty's responsibility in the situation has been minimized. Everyone at one time or other has spoken of academic freedom, yet it seems just as fitting to consider academic responsibility in the same light.

Campus rulings strictly forbid student lounging, ball-playing, etc. on the front campus. Captain Wilson has orders to fine all men found disregarding these regulations.

Band Elects New Officers

James Strine, a junior from Catawissa, was elected president of next year's Muhlenberg Band at a meeting of that organization, which was held last Monday at 4:30 p.m. in the Student Center Building. Other officers elected at that time include David Godshall, vice president; John Donaghy, secretary; and Herbert Meily, treasurer.

The band members were each presented with felt letters, which they received for their work during the past football season. Keys will be given to the senior members at a later date. In a special presentation, Fred Grosse, this year's president, received an expansion bracelet as a gift from the band.

Grosse mentioned that the band expects to have a permanent conductor for next year who will be a member of the faculty; and if this is impossible, Mr. Albertus Myers, the leader of the Allentown High School Band, has volunteered to aid the band next season. Eventually, Muhlenberg expects the band to expand into a full year organization, with a concert band being formed after the football season ends.

Education Students

Students who propose to begin courses in education next semester in order to prepare for teaching positions are invited to confer with Professor W. M. French, 301 Administration Building, in order to plan their schedules and courses to meet teacher certification requirements.

Trackmen Invade

(Continued from Page Four) have split their first two meets, losing to Western Maryland and winning over John's Hopkins. The Gettysburgers are led by Les Eckman, who recently competed in the Penn Relay high jump event, Paul and Brake in the sprints, Naumann in the mile and Yingst in the field events.

Delaware's Blue Hens, although they lost to Lehigh in their first meet of the season, are also powerful, especially in the running events. Men such as Neil Keough and Jim Flynn in the sprints, and Dick Lawrence in the 880, and Jim McWilliams in the pole vault will provide the roughest competition for the Mule cindersmen.

Stan Biroski, a cook in the Commons, is leaving for California about June 10. He would like a round trip passenger. All traveling expenses would be taken care of by Stan. The only costs to the passenger would be his own personal expenses.

The Chowline

This Saturday the Commons again will play host to several organizational get-togethers. At noon time the Historical Society of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania will meet for a luncheon. In the evening the Lutheran Nurses Guild will gather for a dinner.

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights the Mask and Dagger society of Muhlenberg college will present "The Shrike." For excellent entertainment don't miss this three act drama which involves the eternal triangle; this time it's two women both after Jim Downs. Things become involved particularly when his wife is one of the women.

Intramural softball—minor leagues for the Mule baseball squad—is rolling smoothly along with each team's Babe Ruth fighting off his counterpart on the other squad. Of course there are always those squads whose object seems to be that of finding out what's wrong with the league—yep they got down to the bottom of everything. Even the great Babe couldn't help some of them now.

Big triangular meet in track this weekend on the campus—Gettysburg, Lehigh and the locals of Ernie Fellows.

When the weather's cool to warm, and your spirits need refreshing, there's the snack-bar so reforming, waiting to replenish you. (Think I'll get a D in English?)

Godshall Elected MCA President

Last Tuesday afternoon, the Muhlenberg Christian Association elected new officers for the coming year, also hearing an address by the Rev. Robert Bauers. David Godshall, a junior, was elected president; William Sunderland, a junior, was elected vice-president; Edward Smith, a sophomore, was elected secretary; and Henry Williams, a freshman, was elected treasurer. Mr. William Kinter of the English department was re-elected advisor to the group.

The Rev. Mr. Bauers spoke on "Opportunities in Social Welfare Work," a subject which was in keeping with the discussions being held this week on church vocations.

Arvids Ziedonis, retiring vice-president, conducted the meeting at which plans were discussed for a symposium on Lutheranism. It was decided to exhibit Lutheran symbols in the Library during the week of May 9.

Sociology Men Initiate Three

Three new members, Richard Garman, Jack Marshall and Richard Williams were initiated into the Muhlenberg Sociological Society Monday evening at the annual banquet. The Rev. William Ward gave an after-dinner talk to the group concerning how sociology can help the urban pastor.

Paul Spohn, president of the society, read the initiation ceremony to the new members before the dinner. Approximately twenty men attended the banquet.

In addition there were three alumni of the group and Dr. and Mrs. Morris Greth, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parker, and Rev. and Mrs. Ward.

If financial conditions permit, a new, much-needed, tape recorder may be purchased after preliminary investigation of the various models is complete.

Next year's broadcasting schedule, according to staff plans, will begin during Freshman Week. Broadcasting will be extended to four nights per week if possible.

New officers of WMUH include Ira Goldberg, station manager; Howard Frank, business manager; Leon Skwier, program director. Jon LaFaver, former station manager, has been appointed as student advisor. A sophomore, he has had broadcasting experience with WCMB, the MBS affiliate in Harrisburg.

Marine Program

(Continued from Page One) are being accepted now. Twenty-one Officer Procurement Officers located at major cities throughout the country will be authorized to accept applications. It is expected that the first session will convene at Quantico this fall, with a second one after the new year.

Requirements for the program include:

1. Age of more than 20 years and less than 27 on July 1 of the year in which commissioned;
2. Highly motivated and adapted for flying, and of a high moral character;
3. Citizen of the United States of America;
4. Graduate of an accredited college;
5. Able to meet the physical requirements for aviation.

Mules Tame Lions

The Lions showed signs of life in the eighth when they scored their second run on a long triple and an outfield fly.

Standout performances were turned in by "Lefty" Cornelius and Frank Sproviero who hit home runs. Cardy Gemma finally broke the hitting slump he was in by belting out three singles and a triple. Frank Sproviero turned in a five-hit game and allowed only four walks.

Dr. J. Sittler Will Address Campus Groups

Dr. Joseph Sittler, professor of systematic theology at the Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary at Maywood, Illinois, will address a student assembly at 11 a.m. next Thursday in the Chapel.

The topic of his lecture will be "The Faith Situation." He will also meet with students for other discussions at various times during the day, highlighted by a program at 4 p.m. in the Student Center on the topic, "The Concept of the Holy Trinity."

Dr. Sittler is no stranger to Muhlenberg students since he has appeared on the Muhlenberg campus several times within the past few years. He last spoke here in February of 1954 as part of the Institute of Christian Living program held at that time. He had previously participated in ICL programs in 1950 and 1951.

Before assuming his position at the seminary, he served a pastorate in Ohio. He was a delegate to the Lutheran World Federation at Hanover, Germany in 1952 and also to the session of the World Council of Churches held last summer at Evanston, Illinois. He is a member of the Study Department Committee of the World Council of Churches.

Dr. Sittler is the author of a book entitled the Doctrine of the Word which was published in 1948.

Deutsche Verein Club Receives Members

Two new men were received as members of Der Deutsche Verein, honorary German fraternity, and Ernest Pohlhaus was elected president of that group at a meeting held last Monday evening at the home of Dr. Ralph Wood. Dr. Gertrude Mendels, head of the German department at Cedar Crest College, was the guest speaker at this meeting.

Donald Pio Rito and Karl Schneider were the men received into membership at this time.

The other new officers of the club are Werner Weinreich, vice-president; Karl Schneider, corresponding secretary; Norman Walensky, recording secretary; and Al Schuster, treasurer.

Dr. Mendels spoke on "Parallelism in the Literature of the Middle Ages and Modern Times."

Graduation Plans Released; Politician, Theologian To Speak

Dr. Henry H. Bagger, president of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia, will speak at the Baccalaureate Service of this year's graduating class on Sunday, June 5. Culminating the graduation weekend the following day will be the Commencement address of Nebraska's ex-governor, Val Peterson. Mr. Peterson was also the Administrative Assistant to the President, and at the present is Administrator of Federal Civil Defense.

College Chapel Choir Plans Last Activities

The Muhlenberg College Chapel Choir will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Lenel at a picnic being held tonight at their home at Guthsville. On Monday evening at 6:30 p.m., the Choir will hold its annual banquet, this year at Shankweiler's Hotel on Route 29 at Orefield.

There will be no main speaker at this meeting. The only speaking will be in the form of appropriate remarks by several persons connected with the Choir.

Student Talent Show To Entertain Fathers

The Student Talent Show for the annual Fathers' Day, Saturday, May 14, will be held on the Mall in the event of good weather, Chairman Don Lauer announced. Both Lauer and Student Council president Bill Quay will greet the students and visiting fathers.

Dr. Joseph Sittler, who will lead discussion groups here Wednesday at 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center. He will also speak in Chapel at 11 a.m.

Entertainment at the picnic style lunch will be provided by the "Royalties," the campus quartet which entertained at the "All-Student Banquet." At the luncheon and afterward, Dads will have opportunities for informal bull sessions with faculty members.

Ball Game

At 2 p.m. there will be a baseball game with Temple, or in case of inclement weather, movies in the Science Auditorium. After the game, students and fathers may obtain dinner in the Commons. The social fraternities have made further plans for entertaining the fathers of their members.

Invitational letters have been sent to the fathers of all students, informing them of the nature of the day's schedule (which is similar to that followed last autumn for the Parents' Day program).

Besides Lauer in the development of the plans for the affair, were Sam Rosenberger and Paul Weidknecht, assisted by Dr. Claude Dierolf, Faculty Adviser, and Dr. John Reed, Adviser to Student Activities.

The affair is jointly sponsored by Student Council and the Administration.

Philosophy Fraternity Elects New Officers

John Hopper, a junior, was elected president of Alpha Kappa Alpha, national honorary philosophy fraternity, at a meeting of AKA held last Thursday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Stine, 2116 Allen Street. Dr. J. Conrad Seegers was the speaker at the meeting.

The other officers elected at this time were Richard Schlegel, vice-president; Werner Weinreich, secretary; and Edward Smith, treasurer.

Seegers Speaks

The topic of Dr. Seeger's talk was "Semantics." He expressed the idea that there are two basic ideas of semantics, the first being the importance of the meaning of the word, the second being what the implications of the word are and how these are applied. A discussion followed the lecture.

The members of AKA also presented a gift to Dr. and Mrs. Stine at this time as a token of the fraternity's appreciation for their serving as hosts to AKA over the past year. The gift itself, a silver serving cup, was indicative of the members' appreciation for their hosts' refreshments.

Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen Meet To Nominate New Officers

Candidates for next year's class officers were nominated at three class meetings which were held Thursday, May 5, in the Science Building.

The candidates for senior class president are Joseph Donchez, John Gover, John McDonald, and Donald Young; vice-president, Thomas Coughlin, Henry Huegel, Laurence Miller, and Robert Wagner; secretary, William Fatemi, Bruce Francois, Vincent Osadchy, and Leonard Vinnick; and treasurer, Robert Roehm, Jr.

Juniors

The junior class nominees for president are Alfred Hettinger, Younis Joseph, Harvey Stein, and William Wormley; vice-president, Lewis Anthony, Robert Hodes, and Richard Trexler; secretary, Morris Van Natta; and treasurer, Richard Garman and Wolfgang Koenig.

Sophomores

Rev. Charles Cooper Addresses Pre-Theos

The Rev. Dr. Charles M. Cooper, president of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania, was the main speaker at the annual banquet of the John A. W. Haas Pre-Theological Club last Monday evening at 6:30 p.m. at the Village Inn. Dr. Cooper spoke on the college preparation of pre-seminary students, stressing the role of the Latin, Greek, Hebrew, and German languages and the importance of extra-curricular activities and the social life of the student.

Berg Students May Participate In Road-e-o

United States Government Savings Bonds will be awarded to the winners of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Teen-Age Road-e-o which is being held on Saturday, May 21 from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Cedar Beach Parking Area. Muhlenberg students have been invited to participate in this event, the winner of which will be entered in the National Teen-Age Road-e-o which is being held July 25 through 29 in Washington, D. C.

The entrance requirements include having a driver's license or learner's permit, not reaching the age of twenty prior to July 29 and not having committed any moving traffic violations within the past six months.

The three highest scorers in the national competition, which is being co-sponsored with the Junior Chamber of Commerce by the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company and the American Trucking Associations, Inc., will receive scholarships valued at $1,500, $1,000 and $500 respectively.

Applications are now available in the Records, Placement and Counseling office which is located on the first floor, West Wing of the Administration Building. May 17 is the deadline for filing those entry forms.

Murrow's 'See It Now' Viewed By Students

The Forensic Council of Muhlenberg College, has scheduled a showing of Edward R. Murrow's program, "See It Now," which provided the college with national publicity on television November 23, 1954. This telecast, using the West Hall Auditorium as a studio, was the highlight of the Second Annual Muhlenberg College Debate Tournament held on Saturday, November 20 by the Forensic Council. The film will be shown at 11 a.m. next Thursday in the Science Auditorium.

Controversial Topic

Representatives of eighteen colleges gathered together on the campus at that time to debate on the controversial topic: "Should the United States Extend Diplomatic Recognition to Communist China?" This was the national topic for all colleges during the year. The winner of the debate this year was Georgetown University, the only school that remained unbeaten during the day. Princeton was second with Penn State and LeMoyne tied for third place. Muhlenberg, the host college, did not participate because of the burden of administrative duties which it had to handle, mostly on the part of members of the Forensic Council. James Corgee, president of the council, commends the film to all who missed the televised showing.

Murrow's CBS television crew filmed only one of the debates out of the large number for showing on his program. The film features a main debate between Princeton, the second place winner, and Temple University.

Jazz Club Presents Dixie, Modern Music

Jimmy McPartland, who is considered by many to be one of the world's most renowned trumpet men, will be featured at the second concert presented by the Muhlenberg Jazz Society. The dixieland and modern music concert is scheduled for next Monday evening at 8:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

Also featured at the concert will be Teddy Charles, an outstanding vibraphone player. Teddy has in the past played with the bands of Buddy DeFranco, Chubby Jackson, and Benny Goodman. With Charles who is also well-known in the field of modern jazz, will be a group of modern jazz stars.

McPartland Renowned

According to William Rutsch, president of the newly-formed Muhlenberg Jazz Society, "Jimmy McPartland is considered by present day jazz fans to be one of the foremost cornetists in this country. McPartland, with his new jazz renaissance, has made headline news all over the world, ranging from Time Magazine to the London Musical Express." Also appearing with Jimmy McPartland will be four leading Dixieland stars.

Earlier this year, jazz fans packed Memorial Hall to hear Dave Brubeck and his quartet. This was the first presentation by the Jazz Society. Rutsch stated, "This second concert will cover an even wider scope of jazz music."

Reserved Seats

Reserved seats and general admission tickets are available throughout the Lehigh Valley area. In Allentown tickets can be purchased at Memorial Hall, Speedy's Record Shop, Titlow's Music Store, and from representatives at Muhlenberg College and Cedar Crest College. In Bethlehem, tickets can be secured at Huff's Music Store, Phillips' Music Store, and from representatives at Lehigh University and Moravian College. Tickets are also being sold in Easton by a representative at Lafayette College.

All Muhlenberg College students will be admitted free of charge upon presentation of their student activities cards.

Editor Comments

Commenting on the rating, Dick Miller, editor of the WEEKLY during the past year, noted that the staff, although pleased with the first class standing, is still working toward a rating of All-American. More writers are needed to accomplish this end, he said. Writers who are willing to let only the highest standards govern their writing are necessary. He especially emphasized the need for more men from the present sophomore and freshman classes.

IFC To Present Annual 'Spring Sing' Monday Night

The Inter-Fraternity Council will sponsor a Spring Sing on Monday, May 16, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. on the mall in front of West Hall. The event immediately precedes the Jazz Concert.

Choral groups, composed of a minimum of ten men, from each fraternity will participate. A limit of six minutes has been placed on each fraternity's presentation. The selection of music had been left entirely within the discretion of each individual fraternity, thereby providing what is anticipated to be a varied and interesting program.

The judges, appointed by the Inter-Fraternity Council, will be Mr. William Kinter, Dr. Russell Smart, and Dr. Hagen Staack.

Joseph Capozzi, chairman of the event, commenting on the IFC program, stated on Tuesday, "The Spring Sing is the first of its kind at Muhlenberg and with the co-operation of all the fraternities we hope to make it an annual affair. The success of the event will be largely dependent upon the attendance of the student body."

The Cardinal Key Society recently accepted seven freshmen into its organization. This was done in a Chapel Service after these men had served a pledgeship to test their interest in the Society and its work. The recently elected men are Joseph Becker, George Fisher, Norman Gerhart, Earl Knies, Robert McCombs, Mike Schwartz and Richard Trexler.

The Cardinal Key Society is composed of seven men from each of the three upper classes with freshmen being elected each year after a closed pledgeship to fill the places of the retiring seniors.

'Final' Verdict; Facts, Fables And Fancies Featured

Editorial Views . . . Respect . . .

Recently, Student Council arrived at a decision on a disciplinary case in which a severe reprimand was the suggested punishment.

Dean Richards, however, weighed the facts and decided that Council was too lenient in its decision and suspended the offender from school. Almost immediately a confab was held by Council to discuss the Dean's decision. In the light of additional information, a compromise decision was developed.

Council might be reminded that the Dean has every right to override their decisions when he feels they misuse the power granted to them. Although the man from the Ad Building is the final judge of the disciplinary cases such as this, if he wants Student Council to continue as an effective disciplinary court, only in a very extraordinary situation should he override their decision.

Even though Council does not agree with him they should respect his position and decisions. Our Student Government can become a force for social control by using its new-found power discreetly in its early weeks of administration.

Perhaps we might try to visualize the Dean's position as disciplinarian and simultaneously recognize his greater education and experience. At least he deserves the respect, if not the agreement with his decisions, of every student—even Council.

C.C.

Healed Misunderstandings . . .

"Revolt! Revolt! The Dean has acted rashly again, superimposing his wishes over those of our democratically elected representatives. Respect the Dean always for his education, experience, and position, but decry his abuse of Council's decision. Praise Council again for attempting to compromise with the Dean in behalf of the student."

All of the recent clamorings over Dean Richards first reversal of a Council's decision stem from several misunderstandings on both sides of the fence. Council judged the case* with incomplete facts. The facts in this case, prior to Monday, consisted of a report by Russ Wilson.

Student Council reconsidered the case on Monday evening, May 9, 1955, because the Dean had suspended this man from school. Council felt that this punishment was not beneficial to the defendant's academic standing and attempted to substitute a more ameliorating punishment. The cooperation between Council and the Dean reflects an ability to compromise on both sides, a situation which might be considered as a "loss of face" by some.

Perhaps a speedy agreement between Council and the Dean—since both are new at this disciplinary case business—would effect a greater efficiency of handling cases on Council's part. It might remove the necessity of the Dean's overriding a Council decision.

The Shrike--Well Done . . .

The Mask and Dagger Society accomplished no small feat in putting over "The Shrike" last week. Unlike a comedy, this drama called for a perfection in voice-control and inflection which is not readily realized by those who view the production. A word of "well done" to Dr. Erskine and his crew is certainly in order.

The Mask and Dagger Society is financially supported by every student and invites all interested college personnel to tryouts for its productions. Participation in a play, however, is not tantamount to membership in the society.

President's Memo . . .

This message is written particularly for the graduating seniors. By the time it is printed the school year will have nearly passed. You will be going on to many different pursuits, and that is one of the most interesting aspects of a college like this one. It is indicative of the breadth of preparation which a liberal arts college provides.

I have often thought of this as I think of those men who were in college with me, of this group with whom mutual and close friendships have been continued. One is a judge, one a dentist, one a physician. Two became internationally recognized university professors. One is principal of a large high school, two are college presidents. One is vice-president of a metropolitan bank, several have done well in other areas of the business world. Several are clergymen, one the president of a seminary. Two are successful lawyers.

There are many others whom I still know well, but those are the ones who still meet frequently, and who are still close friends. All of us had about the same kind of preparation, for there was not too much election possible in those days, but we have certainly entered diverse occupations.

You, too, will go into many different fields, and many of you will reflect great credit upon your college. We wish all of you well. I hope, too, that you will all duplicate another characteristic of these men I mentioned. Every one of them has served Muhlenberg with his voice and with his means. Every one realizes that what he paid in tuition was supplemented by what others had provided, and has helped as he could to assist the college to carry on. I hope you will be that kind of alumni.

And again, our very best wishes.

Bermuda Shorts Appear-- With Atom Bomb Subtlety

by Nature Boy

NEW YORK, May 12 (CP)—A group of prominent New York scientists is conducting extensive investigations to determine the cause and effect of a new fad which is sweeping the country much as did the Japanese beetle many years ago—bermuda shorts!

In a recent press conference, Dr. John Von der Bilt, leading scientist on the investigating board, reported, "Dis cuntry ish facin' a crisis. Tu many people is trowing away der pants and wearin' shorts. The pants industry ish in a mess! En fact, many people are cutting the legs off der pants trousers. This kin be complicated and messy."

(At this point in the conference, the good doctor produced a pair of scissors from the pockets of his shorts and proceeded to trim the trousers of the newsmen present. After the doctor had been removed and the blood cleaned from the floor, the conference continued.)

Dr. J. Edgar Swain, who is on loan to the committee from a leading Eastern college, then read a prepared statement: "Historically, there is no concrete reason for the bermuda shorts fad which is rapidly spreading on the nation's college campi. The committee has decided to take a rest from the investigations, and will continue the research at a specially constructed laboratory on some island . . . I think, it is called . . . uh . . . Bermuda."

(Dr. Swain was clad in the typical bermuda-shorts-business suit. Grey flannel shorts, striped sport coat and plain tie were the basis of his attire. As he left the conference room, he placed a pork-pie hat on his bald head.)

The bermuda shorts problem was not considered chaotic until one woman recently reported, "The children now-a-days no longer await the day when they can wear long pants. My ten year old child recently asked, "Maw,

I understand that some of our loyal supporters claim that Cardy (Ace) Gemma enjoys resting his bat on his shoulder while the ball is pitched to him. Cardy claims he's only waiting for someone to take his picture . . . Since I'm on the subject of baseball, a guy by the name of Lefty is being considered as full time coach. Three cheers for him anyway, since he's doing a good job of it this year.

Still on sports — Coach (Help me) Fellows is holding high aces over the poor Freshmen who are behind on gym cuts. He forces them to carry hurdles every Saturday so he and his boys can rest. Well, the team will need a good rest by the end of the season. We can be happy that there are a few men here at school who will play a sport without charging money for it. It seems that the principle of nothing is a dominant factor in sports on this campus . . .

Just think, the bones of R.I.P. that were buried on different corner sections of our campus had to be dug up and cremated in hot tar and stones.

With the recent elections there have appeared numerous comments

Once upon a time, in a land far away, there was a kingdom of animals who lived together happily. There were giraffes and rabbits and cats and dogs and horses and many other big and small animals. They were ruled by a wise old owl, who was actually neither very old nor very wise.

The animals finally realized that the owl wasn't as wise as they had supposed and they told him this. He flew into a rage, left the forest and went to the big city. Soon, the older forest folk met to decide who should be their new ruler. At the big meeting, a lion suggested a friend of his for the job—a small, chubby dalmation. The smaller animals agreed with his choice, although they knew little about the dalmation.

When the new boss arrived, the first thing he put up was an Edict on the big oak tree, which read, "Henceforth, all animals under seven moons of age shall not be allowed to drink soda. The larger animals may do so at their discretion. Any violators shall be banished from the forest immediately."

The small animals were upset, naturally, but they didn't have the strength to oppose this proclamation. In a short time, however, the larger animals agreed that this was having a demoralizing effect and helped the rabbits get small soda rations. The dalmation lost much weight and time tracking down the violators, but as rabbits can usually outrun the slower dogs, nothing much was done. Two moons later, all the animals decided to celebrate the coming of spring, as had their fathers and there fathers before them. It was held in a beautiful grove and they all had a good time. One or two of the rabbits decided to have when will I be old enough to wear bermudas?"

The typical college attire is no longer drab army pants and a filthy T-shirt—this fixation is no longer present. Many college students wear sneakers, knee-high socks, bermuda shorts, T-shirt (still filthy), scarf and beret.

Because of the new fad, nice legs are no longer considered a characteristic of a beautiful woman. Hairy legs have replaced the envy of every man—several instances have been reported where men were caught pasting horse hair on their bare legs. This creates an even greater problem—entire herds of horses have been seen taking refuge in the hills in order to avoid getting trimmed. Barbers have been requested to burn all loose hair when they close their shops.

It is possible to criticize every aspect of the bermuda-shorts fad, report the sadists... that is, except the knees of the men who wear them. Nature has gotten there first!

LOCAL NOTE: According to undisclosed sources downtown, Al-lentown is becoming a haven for bermuda-shorts-minded-men. The amiable Willie Restum is partially responsible for the fad becoming so prevalent, that is, minus the red fez.

On the campus front, Dave Miller and Bob Olesky (shown above) seem to be the standard-setters as they parade over the grass in their shorts. Miller has the latest model from the depths of Africa: they are polkadot! Bright blue and white! While Olesky, who has been known to be resourceful at times, wears a pair of shorts which are nothing more than cut-down grey flannel pants.

some fun later, and they headed for a private carrot patch. Unfortunately, the bulldogs guarding the patch caught them and turned them over to their families. The dalmation got wind of this, but bided his time. The two rabbits were brought before a group of wiser rabbits, who reprimanded them.

The next week, the dalmation put up another Edict on the old oak tree. This one read, "WHEREAS one rabbit has been guilty of bad conduct and distinctly disobeying the provisions of the Edict of two moons ago, it has been decided that he is to leave the forest forever. Immediately."

The rabbit left, but most of the other animals couldn't understand the reason for the action. The wise rabbits, whose job it was supposedly to take care of such happenings in the animal kingdom were nonplussed. "What are we supposed to do?" the rabbits asked. The dalmation, speaking rapidly, said nary a word. Apparently, he didn't know either.

Even affable John hasn't been seen in his favorite pew lately.

A black ribbon has been tied around the sax of former Berger, WILIE RESTUM. Recently, the police chief of Bayru, Lebanon was erased by the rebel forces. Now get this: that man was Willie's mother's mother's brother's son! (And, that's the truth!)

DR. CLAUDE DIEROLF, who teaches English as a side-line, is available for teas or coffee hours. In a class last week the good man was the most gracious host as he poured coffee for his American Literature seminar; he even stirred the black drink for the students. Dr. Dierolf has a silver coffee pot and will travel!

Arriving thirty-five minutes late for class, nonchalant DON DE-QUEVEDO offered this excuse: "I ran out of gas on my motor scooter and had to walk to class." Associate Don Ramsaur indicates that the other not-so-speedy Don was enjoying a coffee break in the Student Center.

Some professors have actually taken refuge in their special second floor den while drinking their coffee. Several months ago the now defunct Student Council announced that the MCA room would be available if the professors so desired. But the brave men of the English department will drink and dunk with the students... the hearty lads seem to enjoy the student abuse.

Alpha Tau Omega

A large number of our fathers will be present on this weekend and plans have been made to show them a good time. Two men will be initiated in two weeks. They are Paul Whitcraft and Younis Josephs. Ronald Schlittler has been replaced as President of Student Council and we want to express our thanks to a brother for doing a good job and trying to start new traditions which we would like to see become annual occurrences.

Lambda Chi Alpha

The previous weekend was a very successful one. Many of the alumni were back and joined in the festivities of the hay ride and the picnic. Plans are now being made for the annual beach party held at Jones' Beach, Long Island. The plans call for it sometime in July. The softball team now is moving along at a very fast clip.

They are undefeated and one of the highest scoring aggregations in the I. M. league.

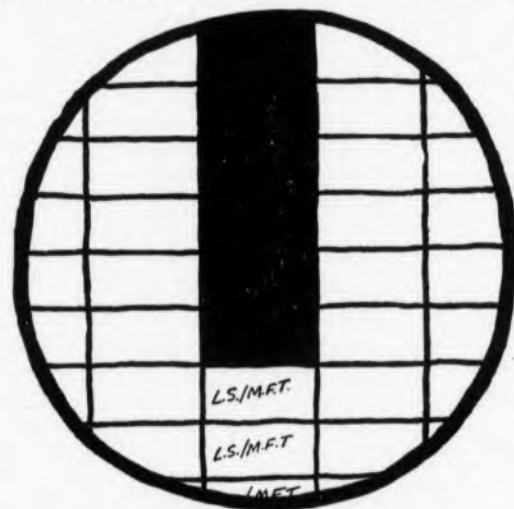

Phi Sigma Kappa

This past weekend was one for which the Phi Sigs wait every year. It marked their annual Moonlight Ball weekend. Friday night the brothers and their dates danced to the music of Bob Exley and his orchestra at the new and modern Fearless Social Hall. Many alumni returned and everyone had a gay time. Miss Margaret Bachert was crowned Moonlight Girl by John Zigler, President of the alumni association. Miss Bachert was escorted by Paul Heiser. Bernie Smith pinned Miss Joyce Widdoss of Easton. Saturday, making use of the balmy weather, the whole gang enjoyed an afternoon playing baseball, volley ball, and horse shoes at Simcoe's Farm. Movies and a campfire followed which made a perfect weekend.

Blue Hen Trackmen Give Berg Cindermen Sixth Loss, 84-41

Muhlenberg's cindermen dropped their sixth straight track meet of the season Tuesday at Delaware, as the Blue Hens won 11 of 14 events and took two of three places in twelve events to trounce the Mules, 84 $\frac{1}{3}$ - 41 $\frac{2}{3}$.

Thinclads Vie At MAC Meet, Face Ursinus

Coach Ernie Fellows' trackmen finish their season this coming week as they participate in the Middle Atlantic Conference meet held at Lafayette on Friday and Saturday, and then travel to Ursinus College at Collegeville on Tuesday.

In the Middle Atlantic trials of all running events up to and including the half mile will be held on Friday afternoon, while the weight and field events, distance runs, and finals of the rest of the running events will be held on Saturday.

Muhlenberg will be represented by Don Tihansky, Clark Morgan, and Bob Lee in the 100 yard dash and in the broad jump. Morgan, Lee, and Harlin Heere will run the 220 yard dash, with Heere doubling in the 440. John Keyser will run the half mile on Friday and the mile or finals of the 880 on Saturday, depending on his success in the trial run. Frank Jankowski will run in the high hurdle event.

In the field, Len Woodel in the shot put, Ralph DeStefano in the discus throw, Denny Roth in the high jump, and Herm Zieger in the pole vault will participate in Saturday's Middle Atlantic activity.

Muhlenberg's freshman medley relay team will also run on Saturday. Ron Moxey, Ted March, Fred Stutman and Jerry Slack will run the 440, 220, 220, and 880 yard runs, respectively.

The Mule trackmen wind up their winless season this Tuesday at Ursinus. Last year the Bergmen tied the Bears in their final meet of the season, 63-63.

The Bears from Collegeville have yet to win a meet this year. The squad is led by Karl Herwig in the 220 and 440 yard dashes. Lee Lawhead has done well in the mile and half mile events, while Harry Donnely leads the Bears in high jumping and in the hurdles.

Bill Saunders of the Blue Hens scored 16 points in the meet, taking first place in both hurdle events and in the broad jump, and third place in the high jump. Delaware also had two double victors in Clyde Louth, who won the mile and half mile runs, and Dick Keough, victor in the 220 and 440 yard dashes.

Berg's only winners were Clark Morgan in the 100 yard dash, Denny Roth in the javelin throw, and Ralph De Stefano in the discus event. Morgan and Roth were high for the Mules with eight points apiece, Morgan notching second place in the broad jump, and Roth second in the high jump.

Denny Roth leads the Mule scorers with 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ points, Bob Lee is second with 30, and John Keyser has 29. Complete track scoring statistics will appear in next week's issue of the WEEKLY.

Linksters Win Third, Defeat LaSalle, 8-1

The Muhlenberg linksters won their third match of the season last Thursday by defeating LaSalle by a lop-sided 8-1 score. Victories for the Tripletmen were scored by Dick Conway, Walt Haslam, Don MacKerell, Dick Ohlweiler and Jack Russo.

This win brought the golfers' season record up to 2-1. The first victory was won at the expense of Moravian, while the only loss was to Lehigh.

Summaries:
Haslam defeated Hagan, 4-3.
Ohlweiler defeated Higgins, 2-1.
Best ball 5-4.
MacKerell defeated Griffin 1 up.
Davidson defeated Deck 2 up.
Best ball 5-4.
Conway defeated Goetz, 3-1.
Russo defeated Igo, 4-2.
Best ball 3-1.

Swarthmore, Haverford Netmen Face Mules On Oakmont Courts

This Saturday, May 14, the Garnet and White of Swarthmore will invade the local Oakmont courts to play the Mule Tennis Squad, coached by Jack Shankweiler.

This match is the first of Berg's final three home stands, which will close the '55 season.

Swarthmore has a potent squad, whose most notable win was an 8-1 decision over their arch-rival Haverford. Last year the Bergmen were swamped by the Garnet, but if the Mules continue to play in the fine form that they displayed in their defeat of St. Joseph's, a closer contest will be played on Saturday.

The Bergmen in the low-cut sneakers will meet their counterparts from Moravian College on Wednesday, May 18. The Greyhounds won in a close match last year by a 5-4 score, and the Mules will definitely be trying to reverse that decision.

Moravian's biggest threat is first man Tom Quay. He will be backed up by captain Alan Cristol, Bob Hartman, Jim Johnson, Dick Roth and Bob Wright.

Haverford's strong racquet squad overpowered Berg's tennismen, sweeping both singles and doubles matches by one-sided scores to notch an easy 9-0 shut-out victory over the Bergmen, who suffered their third loss of the season yesterday at Haverford. The victory pulled Haverford's record to 10-4. Berg's record is 2-3.

Phil D'Arrigo defeated Bob Brock, 6-1, 6-3; Mike Egan lost, 3-6, 4-6. Bob Pratt, with an individual record of 13-1, whipped Alex Szwczak, 6-1, 6-2. Jay Krevsky (5-7, 0-6), Dave Arnold (2-6, 1-6) and Carl Schnee (1-6, 1-6) also met defeat at the hands of their opponents. Doubles matches were also won in two sets by Haverford.

DON'T FORGET

The annual Muhlenberg All-Sports Dinner for letter winners of the 1954-55 season will be held on Thursday, May 19, at 6:45 p.m. in the College Commons. This event will be sponsored jointly by the Student Council and the Muhlenberg Athletic Department. The toastmaster will be Dr. Truman Koehler, a faculty member of the Athletic Committee. Plans have been made to provide entertainment and to give door prizes. There will be no long speeches, but a sports authority will present a short talk of sports interest.

Complete details will be published in next week's issue of the WEEKLY.

Mules Open Homestand, Meet Lafayette, Temple, Moravian

Berg's baseball team will be starting its last home stand this weekend, seeking to improve its sub-par record. Coach Dick Fox's nine tangles with Lafayette tomorrow, faces Temple Saturday and meets Moravian next Tuesday on the college field.

Lafayette promises to be a particularly tough opponent. It is a well balanced club, hard to beat on either offense or defense. Coach Charley Gelbert's squad will have the added incentive as they continue their drive toward the District Two, Middle Atlantic baseball title, which they have won for the past two years.

In the initial contest between these two clubs last week, Dick Fitzgerald led Lafayette to an 11-3 victory while collecting 18 strikeouts. Because of an abundance of power hitters, the champs have not been hindered by the injury of first baseman George Watts. Replacement has been found in Paul Reiter.

Owls Visit Berg

The Muhlenberg nine will be seeking to duplicate last year's 16-7 victory at Temple. By comparative records of this year, however, the Owls have the edge.

Most of the mound duties have been fulfilled by Jim Flynn and Neal Rosen, both of whom are veteran hurlers. The hitting attack is led primarily by Al Didricksen, Charley Bergdoll, Jim Kelly and Len Oliver, who are all batting over .300.

Since this contest will be played before a Father's Day crowd, the spirit of the attendance should promote better ball playing than has been exhibited in the past few games.

Host to Greyhounds

The Foxmen will be playing a game of revenge when Moravian comes to Muhlenberg next Tuesday, since the local squad suffered an 8-6 defeat at the hands of the Greyhounds last week.

The big blow in the previous meeting was a three run homer hit by Luther Kemmerer. This provided the necessary runs for the winning margin. Tony Saddler also hit a home run in this contest after he had gone into the game as a relief pitcher for loser Frank Sproviero.

an infield hit when no one covered the bag. A walk issued to left fielder Dick Hober forced in a run. Saddler then struck out George Sisto and George Klauder lined into a double play to end the Bison scoring. However, that run proved to be the margin.

Lehigh Wins Triangular Meet At Home Oval, 74 $\frac{1}{4}$ -59-21 $\frac{3}{4}$; Gettysburg Second

Last Saturday afternoon, Lehigh won a triangular meet over Gettysburg and Muhlenberg. The Brown and White cindermen copped 74 $\frac{1}{4}$ points and eight first places. Gettysburg took second place with 59 points. The Mules placed third, scoring 21 $\frac{3}{4}$ points.

Herm Zieger was the only Berg cinderman to take a first place in the meet when he cleared the pole vault bar with a jump of 11 feet and 2 inches. Robert Lee of Muhlenberg took the second place in the broad jump event.

Bucknell Beats Mule Nine 2-0

Berg's diamondmen suffered their fourth straight defeat yesterday, as righthander Tom King of Bucknell one-hit the Foxmen, 2-0, at Lewisburg. The defeat, eighth of the season for the Mules, pulled their record to 3-8, the lowest it has skidded this season.

Frank Peters belted a double down the left field line in the second inning for Berg's first and last hit of the game. King proceeded to pitch seven frames of hitless ball, striking out a total of 14 Bergmen to win his first game of the season against three defeats. For the Bisons, it was their fourth consecutive win.

Tony Saddler pitched well enough to win, striking out 11 and giving up but six hits, but the Bison righthander handcuffed the Mule hitters. Berg's "king" suffered his fourth defeat of the campaign.

Bucknell scored its two runs in the first and fifth innings. Both were scored by first baseman Bob Whitehead. The Bisons loaded the bases in the first inning on a single, a bunt single and an attempted sacrifice, which became Track interest on the national scale has been higher this year than it has been in many years. This is especially demonstrated in the individual meets in which new records are constantly being broken. For example, in last Saturday's Princeton-Yale contest, five new marks were set in sixteen events.

However, it is disappointing that trackmen are very often interested only in their particular events. Many such men find it burdensome to watch the other events in a meet. Perhaps the reason for this is that each event is a contest in itself and so does not require the same teamwork as is necessary in football, basketball, etc. Out of this condition, there has arisen a tremendous interest in individual performers rather than team exhibition.

More and more attention is being put on Arnie Sowell of Pitt. Sowell, a 440 star, is improving constantly and this writer believes that he will beat Herb McKenley's world record of 46 seconds in the near future.

Another winner in the track spotlight is Dean Smith of Texas. Smith is well on the way to becoming the fastest trackman in history. He has gone below the 9.3 record more than once, but each time was not recognized as official because of a tailwind advantage.

A University of California scientist has arranged a graph curve by which he foresees a possible 3:40 mile. It is true of course that men like Landy, Bannister and Santee can and do build up their endurance, but there must be a stopping point. It will be many years until the 3:50 time is reached. But 3:40???

Thus, all indications point to a continued improvement in the interest of track, a unique sport in that it is a contest of contests.

The 1954-55 sports year will reach its highlight next week at the All-sports banquet, at which time letter winners in all Muhlenberg sports will be honored for their services in the name of their college. Some of the letters will be hard earned, others will be earned without much effort. But all of the letters will represent an interest in one or more sports. They will represent many hours spent in training. They will represent many hours of sacrifice when time was needed for studying.

Yes, a letter may represent one thing or it may be an integration of factors. Usually it represents the attitude of the individual. But that can be evaluated only by the person, himself.

Lafayette, Moravian, F&M Baseballers Hand Foxmen Three Straight Defeats

Lafayette College gained its eighth win of the season last Thursday by swamping Coach Dick Fox's nine, 11-3. The Leopards, thereby, achieved some measure of revenge for last year's 3-2 loss.

Lefty Dick Fitzgerald turned in a starring performance for Lafayette as he struck out 18 Mule batters and drove in four runs for his cause.

Lafayette started with two runs in the first inning, one in the second, and two more in the third. The Leopards sewed up the game in the fifth with four runs, but added two more in the eighth for insurance.

Berg absorbed its fifth loss of the season but managed to score a few runs to put up some semblance of a game.

The Bergmen scored in the sixth on Cardy Gemma's single, an error and Sproviero's double. The Mules added two more in the eighth when Gemma and Weber singled, Sproviero walked, and after Lefty Cornelius struck out, Dick Leber belted a double.

Greyhounds Win In Third
Moravian College, battered and bruised, after a nine inning slugfest, came out on top of Muhlenberg last Saturday, 8-6.

Jerry Keyock was credited with the win but needed help in the ninth from Rollie Passaro. Passaro came in with two on base and none out and retired the side. Moravian took a run lead in the first inning on three singles, a sacrifice fly and an error.

Berg came back in the second for three runs on a double by Sproviero, a single by Cornelius

WALT HASLAM

Walt Haslam, number one man on Muhlenberg's golf team, comes from Belleville, New Jersey, where he attended Belleville High School. At this Jersey school he played four years of football and golf. In his senior year he received honorable mention on the All-Essex County football squad at the position of quarterback. He then went to Yale University for a year before transferring to Muhlenberg. He has played two years of golf and one year of football at Berg.

Walt is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity. He also played intramural basketball and football. Walt is a President major and plans to enter Temple Dentistry School in the fall.

DICK OHLWEILER

Dick Ohlweiler has been a mainstay on the Muhlenberg golf team for four seasons. He is a graduate of Rahway High School, although his home is in Metuchen, New Jersey. While in high school, Dick was very active in athletics.

In his freshman year at Berg, Dick was a member of the freshman football team. He was also a member of the track team for two years but had to give up pole-vaulting because of a knee injury. However, the husky senior remains active in both intramural football and softball. Dick is also a member of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity.

At the present time, he is planning on a career of education in the field of social studies.

I-M CORNER

On Monday night, the Phantoms pulled out an 8-5 win at the expense of the Scrap Irons. Scoring three times in the first and last innings, the Phantoms staged off a last minute rally by the Scrap Irons, who scored three times in that frame. McCutcheon with three for four and Tutza with two for three led the Phantom's hitting attack, while Grosse and O'Connor each collected two hits for the losers. Don Herman was the winning pitcher; Francois, the loser.

Sigma Phi Epsilon rolled to its twenty-third consecutive win over a three year period by virtue of a 17-3 shellacking administered to the All-Stars. Paced by Tom Naratil and Dick Furman, who collected three and two hits respectively, Sig Ep scored in every inning except the fourth, giving winning pitcher Denny Roth more than enough support in winning his fifth straight game of the year. Bob Lee was the victim of the Sig Ep assault.

The big game of the night saw Lambda Chi hand ATO its second loss of the campaign, 13-2. Lambda Chi's powerful hitting attack was led by Dick Painter and Bill Price, who hit homers. Wally Loy pitched well to receive credit for the win, while Gabby Williams, who did not have his usual stuff, suffered the loss. The victory enabled Lambda Chi to remain unbeaten and tied for the league leadership with Sig Ep.

Lambda Chi continued its winning ways by defeating Phi Sigma Kappa, 18-11 on Tuesday. Jumping off to an early 2-0 lead, Lambda Chi had to hold off a last inning rally, which netted Phi Sig eight runs off winning pitcher Sam Rosenberger. Coyle, Painter, Han-non, and Kloker all homered, while Keehn homered twice. Bob Meurer was the losing pitcher.

Phi Tau whipped the winless DVA's, 12-5, in another game. Keeny and Simek paced the winner's attack by blasting out three hits apiece. DeMartini was the only DVA to reach winning pitcher John Simek for more than one safety.

In other games, the Star Cleaners won a forfeit and the Don Juans and the Mountaineers were rained out after two innings.

Last night the Phi Tau Scrap Irons won a forfeit over the Don Juans. Phi Ep bested ATO, 6-4, Bob Krain the winning pitcher. Sig Ep won its sixth straight, 5-2, behind Denny Roth.

Berg Netmen Sweep Doubles, Set St. Joe's, 7-2; Second Win

Coach Shankweiler's tennis squad evened its record at 2-2 by defeating St. Joseph's, 7-2, last Saturday at the loser's court. Victory was clinched by a clean sweep of the three doubles matches after Muhlenberg had taken four out of six singles.

In the opening match, Bob Brock defeated Bob Wankmuller, 6-3, 6-3, in straight sets. Mike Egan won over Eichi Kamimura 6-2, 7-5 and Al Szwecak had an easy time winning his match from Joe Bartlett 6-0, 6-1. Jay Krevsky won the fourth consecutive match for Muhlenberg by beating Jim O'Brien 6-1, 2-6, 6-2. The only losers for the Bergmen were Dave Arnold, who lost to Joe Guard 2-6, 4-6 and Carl Schnee, who was beaten by Hank Aschenbrenner 3-6, 2-6.

In the doubles matches, Schnee teamed up with Krevsky to defeat Aschenbrenner and Guard 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. Arnold and Brock followed with a 6-4, 0-6, 6-4 win over the O'Brien-Bartlett combo. The third straight win was taken by the Allentown pair, Egan and Szwecak, as they beat Wankmuller and Kamimura. 6-4, 6-4.

Why do more college men and women smoke
VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette?

BECAUSE ONLY VICEROY GIVES YOU A PURE, NON-MINERAL,
NON-TOXIC FILTER WITH 20,000 FILTER TRAPS
IN EVERY FILTER TIP!

1. Yes, only Viceroy has this filter composed of 20,000 tiny filter traps. You cannot obtain the same filtering action in any other cigarette.
2. Besides being non-mineral and non-toxic, this cellulose-acetate filter never shreds or crumbles.
3. The Viceroy filter wasn't just whipped up and rushed to market to meet the new and skyrocketing demand for filtered cigarettes. Viceroy pioneered. Started research more than 20 years ago to create the pure and perfect filter.
4. Smokers en masse report that filtered Viceroy's have a finer flavor even than cigarettes without filters. Rich, satisfying, yet pleasantly mild.
5. Viceroy draws so easily that you wouldn't know, without looking, that it even had a filter tip . . . and Viceroy's cost only a penny or two more than cigarettes without filters!

That's why more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette . . . that's why VICEROY is the largest-selling filter cigarette in the world!

...Student Council Report...

The first regular meeting of the 1955-56 Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on May 5, 1955 at 7:35 p.m. by President William Quay. The following men were present: Messrs. Quay, Osadchy, Wormley, Keys, Lord, Michels, Miller, Steiger, Coughlin, and Cescon. Dr. Claude Dierolf faculty adviser to Student Council, was also present at the meeting.

President Quay made the committee assignments:

Intramurals and Commons—Mr. Osadchy

Publicity—Mr. Miller

Friday Night—Mr. Michels

Assemblies—Mr. Cescon

Constitution and Election—Mr. Steiger

Social—Mr. Lord

Chapel—Mr. Keys

Finance and Student Center—Mr. Gross

Dorm Council—Mr. Robert Roehm

Mr. Roehm, not a councilman, will head the Dorm Council, having four years experience in dormitory living.

OLD BUSINESS:

Mr. Quay reviewed the new Freshman regulations instituted by the 1954-55 Student Council:

(1) The colors of the dink of the class of 1959 will be blue and white, the class colors.

(2) A long tie will replace the bow tie.

(3) The colors cardinal and grey will be restricted to the classes of '48 and '67.

NEW BUSINESS:

A disciplinary case was presented to Council. Testimony of the defendant and witness was heard. Council went into executive session in order to discuss the case. Mr. Cescon moved to acquit the defendant with a strong reprimand. Mr. Lord seconded the motion. The decision was unanimous.

Mr. Wormley moved to adjourn. Mr. Lord seconded the motion. The meeting was adjourned at 10:24 p.m.

A special meeting of the Muhlenberg Student Council was called to order on May 9, 1955 at 9:02 p.m.

Mr. Quay reopened the discussion concerned with the disciplinary case heard at the May 5, 1955 meeting. Mr. Quay reported that he had seen the Dean and had been told that the defendant had been suspended for the remaining time of the school term. Mr. Quay continued, giving the reasons for the above action.

Mr. Steiger moved that Council meet with the Dean. Mr. Lord seconded the motion, and it carried. Council at 9:50 p.m. was dismissed to reconvene at 2500 Chew St., the residence of Dean Richards.

At 10 p.m. conference with the Dean was begun. At this time, it was revealed that new evidence had resulted in the reversal of the decision by Council. However, Council recommended that the final decision be reconsidered and other action taken.

Mr. Lord moved to deprive the defendant of the privilege of having a car on campus and of the use of a car (anyone's car) for the rest of the semester and the next semester. The motion was seconded by Mr. Keys. Mr. Miller amended that the keys of the defendant's car be kept by a Council member. Mr. Wormley seconded the amendment, and it carried.

Mr. Cescon amended that regulated study hours be imposed, and that Mr. Osadchy, the Councilman in charge, define such hours. Mr. Coughlin seconded it.

Mr. Baker moved to adjourn. Mr. Michels seconded the motion. The meeting was adjourned at 12:05 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,
LAWRENCE A. CESCON, Recording Secretary

Cedar Crest Presents Greek Play Outdoors

by Barbara Fister

Cedar Crest girls are going Greek May 12 and 14 in the outdoor theater on the Crest campus. They aren't holding sorority or fraternity initiations though. They are presenting the thirty-second annual Greek play, Hippolytus, and they are hoping to fill the Greek Theater to capacity as in past years.

Hippolytus is a famous Greek tragedy in which Aphrodite, the goddess of love casts a spell on Phaedra and makes her fall in love with her stepson, Hippolytus. He wants nothing to do with Phaedra and spurns her, leading her to commit suicide. The chain of events leading to the tragedy is as exciting as any modern drama and will mean an entertaining evening in the Cedar Crest outdoor theater.

Carolyn Detweiler, a freshman from Norristown, Pennsylvania, will play the leading role. Other speaking parts will be taken by Joan Skelston, Sue Schell, Gloria Knobloch, Mildred Fewkes and Claire Levine. Mrs. Frances Gудie will lead the speaking chorus of Troezen women.

Members of the speaking chorus, who tell the story in prose and dance, include Ruby Skinder, Elayne Duick, Mary Lou Worthy, Lois Littlefield, Nancy Cox, Nancy Greene, Betty Weaver, Mimi March, Carol Hood, Judy Wilkins, Barbara Koch, Margie Burke and Gail Pflueger.

Attendants to the Greek characters will be Delores Reiff, Dottie Thompson, Elayne Rothstein, Marylyn Gorton, Jeanne Rothenberger and Louise Berghold.

PHI KAPPA TAU

Phi Tau gave a big welcome to its parents last Saturday with a combined Mom and Dad's Day. Twenty-five parents showed up and seventy were at the Saturday evening meal.

The parents were given a better idea of college fraternalism and became better acquainted with the brotherhood.

This weekend will be the Phi Tau Spring Formal. Quite a time has been planned by Dick Wagner and his Social Committee.

On Friday evening there will be a dinner-dance at the Lehigh Valley Country Club. Saturday will feature a clam-bake in the Pocos and a house party starting about 10 p.m.

All in all, the Phi Taus have been pretty busy socially but exams will soon put an end to the gaiety and bring on a period of serious study.

Graduation Program

Chairman of the Class Day committee is Marv Cressman.

Sunday morning at 10 a.m. the Baccalaureate service will be held. The following day at the Commencement program the Seniors will receive their diplomas.

The Greyhounds came back for four runs in the third to take the lead and never were headed again.

Sprovierio was relieved after 4½ innings by Tony Saddler. Saddler held the Greyhounds scoreless for the rest of the game.

Muhlenberg's nine went down to its third defeat in a row last Monday, losing to Franklin and Marshall, 12-2.

The first inning was a nightmare of hits and errors at Berg used two pitchers, allowed five runs on four hits and four errors. The Diplomats sent ten men to the plate before Jay Cook finally put out the fire.

The Chowline

This Saturday is Dad's Day and, brother, you better look out if you've not been up to snuff in class. This week Pop gets a chance to speak to teacher. By the time lunch rolls around in the Commons, he'll have the dope on your academic doings, and then look out.

In the afternoon Muhlenberg's pardon the expression, baseball team takes on Temple University's sluggers. Simultaneously the Mule trackmen will be resting up while the Middle Atlantics are making history at Lafayette. By Middle Atlantics is meant the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference of which Muhlenberg is a member.

Hero time is almost over and the last few organizations have gotten around to electing their officers for the coming year. We wish all these men every success as they meet and handle larger responsibilities. May their efforts ever be directed toward the development of a Greater Muhlenberg.

Part of the annual Spring housecleaning program at Berg seems to be evidenced in the fresh coat of paint which is how being applied to the Commons. The exterior of the building now better matches the well kept interior.

Three Lower Classes Select Future Officers

Joseph Donchez was elected president of the junior class as 83.7 per cent of the juniors voted. 67.9 per cent of the sophomores voted to elect Harvey Stein to be their president and 82.6 per cent of the freshmen participated to select Ray Croft as their president in yesterday's election.

Other officers elected by the juniors are Henry Huegel, vice-president; Vincent Osadchy, secretary; and Robert Roehm, treasurer.

To aid Stein in his duties the sophomores elected Lewis Anthony, vice-president; Morris Van Natta, secretary; and Wolfgang Koenig, treasurer.

The freshmen chose Robert Nuss for vice-president, Owen Faut for secretary and Donald Herman as treasurer.

Juniors

Donchez, who was recently elected Student Chairman for the 1955-56 Institute of Christian Living program, is a history major and plans to study at the Princeton Theological Seminary after his graduation from Muhlenberg. He also serves as president of Muhlenberg's chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical language fraternity, and was recently elected national treasurer of that group.

Huegel is a member of the fencing team, the Economics Club, the Intercollegiate Conference on Government, the Mask and Dagger Society, and the Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity.

Osadchy is a member of the basketball team and was recently elected to Student Council as a member at large.

Roehm, who was recently chosen to head the Dormitory Council

Martin Baker Shares Danforth Scholarship

Martin L. Baker, past president of the freshman class, has been awarded a Danforth Foundation Scholarship according to an announcement made last week by Dr. William C. Wilbur, assistant professor of the History department, who is the Danforth Foundation's Associate at Muhlenberg College.

The purpose of the scholarship is to allow Baker to attend the American Youth Foundation Leadership Training Camp, which is being held this August at Camp Miniwanca in Michigan.

Baker, from Upper Darby, is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity.

He is the second Muhlenberg student in the past two years to be selected as a representative to the Leadership Training Camp. Last year Paul Weidknecht, who was also president of his freshman class, was the recipient of a similar award.

College Choir Elects Officers At Banquet

The annual banquet of the Chapel Choir was held last Monday evening at 6 p.m., at Shankweiler's Hotel on Route 29. Forty-four members and guests were present. Following the banquet, Kenneth Trexler, manager of the choir, presented awards for four semesters of service in the choir, to William Anderson, Jack Donaghy, David Rothermel, and William Sunderland, and conducted the election of officers for the coming college year. The persons elected were Robert Keys, manager; William Anderson and Jack Donaghy, assistant managers.

Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, Dean Henry M. M. Richards. Dr. Harold Marks, former director of the choir, and Mr. Ludwig Lenel were then called upon for remarks.

Graduation Weekend And Alumni Meeting Close College Year

Many of the alumni of Muhlenberg College will gather on the campus on June 3 and 4 to renew old friendships and to cite the achievements of fellow graduates. The weekend's major reunions will be those ending with the numerals zero and five. This year's alumni reunion is unique in that it will be held during the graduation weekend instead of later as has been the past practice.

Highlighting this combined weekend will be an All-Alumni Luncheon to be held Saturday at noon in Memorial Hall to which each of the seniors has received an invitation. The purpose of this combined function is to introduce the new graduates to their fellow alumni and to the work of the alumni organization.

Registration

Registration for the weekend will begin at 12 noon, Friday, June 3, in the lobby of the Administration Building. That afternoon a golf tournament will be held at the Lehigh Country Club.

At 6:30 p.m. the off-year alumni and their wives will meet for dinner in the Commons. The main attraction of the evening will be the reunions of the major classes at local hotels, clubs and restaurants.

At 10 a.m. on Saturday morning, registration will continue and Dr. and Mrs. Seegers will hold a reception in their home. At 11 a.m., the alumni will gather at Twenty-third and Chew Street, marching to Memorial Hall, where the All-Alumni Luncheon will be held. After the luncheon, the presentation of various awards will take place. Dominating the spotlight in these awards are the Merit and Achievement Awards. The Merit Awards have not been announced; however, the Achievement Awards will be presented to Mr. W. Bruce MacIntosh '19, Dr. John V. Shankweiler '21, and Dr. W. Clarke Wescoe '41.

Mr. MacIntosh, who now lives in Florida, is an executive in the laundry and dry-cleaning business. He is the past president of the Orange Bowl, still being connected with the Bowl in an executive capacity. He is also the founder of the Allen Laundry in Allentown.

Dr. Shankweiler is the head of the Muhlenberg Biology department. A graduate of Cornell, he is active in the Pennsylvania Academy of Sciences, the Biological Photography Society, and is chairman of the College's athletic committee. Dr. Shankweiler is being thus honored for the high pre-medical rating which he has brought to Muhlenberg through his constant insistence on high standards.

Dr. Wescoe, when appointed as Dean of the University of Kansas Medical School, was the youngest man ever to hold the deanship of a medical school. He is now director of the Medical Center in Kansas. While at Muhlenberg, Dr. Wescoe was a leading figure on the campus and was valedictorian of his class.

At 1:15 p.m. the annual Alumni Association Meeting will be held, and the Class of 1955 will be inducted into the Association. Rounding out the day's program, at 3 p.m., will be an alumni picnic in the Rose Garden Grove, sponsored by the Class of 1940.

Commencement Program Announced

Seniors' Ball, Class Day End 1955 College Days

Seniors and their dates will glide over the ballroom floor on the evening of June 3 at the annual Senior Ball. On Saturday they will have a chance to reminisce about their "college days" as they continue the tradition of Class Day which was reinstituted last year by the Class of 1954.

George Sommer and his orchestra will provide the music for the annual Senior Ball, which will be held Friday, June 3, in the ballroom of the Americus Hotel from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sandy Stewart will be the featured vocalist.

Sommer began his musical career after his graduation from high school, and his band was one of the fastest rising musical organizations in the Philadelphia area prior to World War II. After Pearl Harbor, his group disbanded when some of the members enlisted in the armed forces; and it was during this period that he evolved the "Rhythm and Rhyme in Summer-time" which he now features. This spotlights arrangements woven around unusual patterns featuring the reeds, french horns, and the vocal groups, which have been acclaimed at many campuses.

Vocals

The vocal department will be handled by Louise Lane, Al Raymond, a romantic baritone, the harmony of The Four Seasons, and the combined glee club in the persons of the Gentlemen of Song. Harvey Wilson will add a novel touch with his "Campus Capers."

Sandy Stewart, the featured vocalist, is a native of Philadelphia and has made recordings for Label X, Decca, and Okeh. She has also appeared on television, being seen on "Morning," and she is now the featured vocalist on radio programs on New York radio station WRCA. Her record, "I Understand Just How You Feel," was popular a year ago.

Honored Guests

The Senior Ball will follow the Student Council Banquet, which will be held at the Lehigh Valley Club. The Honored Guest for the Ball are Dr. and Mrs. J. Conrad Seegers, Dean and Mrs. Henry M. Richards, Dr. and Mrs. John J. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Benfer, Dr. and Mrs. George B. Balmer, and Dr. and Mrs. Truman L. Koehler. The chaperones are

MCA Presents Final Program

With the appearance of Dr. Joseph Sittler on campus today, the Muhlenberg Christian Association brings to an end its activities for this year. Dr. Sittler will be heard this evening in the Student Center at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served after this program.

The final business meeting of the MCA was held on Tuesday. At that time chairmen were named for the following committees: World University Service, campus affairs, worship, publicity, membership and liaison. Other special committees were also appointed.

Several revisions have been made in the committee system for next year. The publicity committee will be in three parts—posters, photography, and distribution. A special group will investigate the production of a sacred drama. An entirely new body, composed of the officers, will act as a liaison with the Board of Trustees.

The Freshman Week program for next fall is being planned by a faculty committee. Bill Sunderland is in charge of the arrangements which MCA will handle.

Dr. Bagger, Mr. Val Peterson Speak To Graduating Seniors

The president of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia will address the Class of 1955 when it assembles in the Chapel on Sunday afternoon, June 5. At the Commencement Ceremonies on the following morning, the men will be addressed by an administrative assistant of President Eisenhower.

Dr. Henry H. Bagger, president of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon to this year's graduating class at the Baccalaureate Service which will be held Sunday, June 5, at 3:30 p.m. Dr. Bagger graduated from Muhlenberg College with the Class of 1915.

Lutheran ministers who have sons in the graduating class will participate in the Service as liturgists.

Participating Clergy

The Versicles will be read by the Rev. Claude E. Schick, '27, currently serving as Secretary of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania. Rev. Schick was the recipient of an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Muhlenberg last fall. He is the father of Edgar B. Schick.

The Rev. E. L. Angstadt, '26, will lead the reading of the responsive Psalm. The father of Lee E. Angstadt, he serves as pastor of the Sumneytown Lutheran Parish, Sumneytown, Pennsylvania.

The first lesson will be read by the Rev. David U. Druckenmiller, '19. He is the father of Edwin L. Druckenmiller and serves as pastor of the Faith Lutheran Church in Reading.

The Rev. Mark K. Trexler, '21, pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church in Laureldale, will read the second lesson. He is the father of Kenneth M. Trexler.

The Chapel Choir will present two anthems at the Service. Their first selection will be "The Heavens are Telling," by Beethoven. The other number is "Praise to the Lord" the arrangement of which is done by Whitehead.

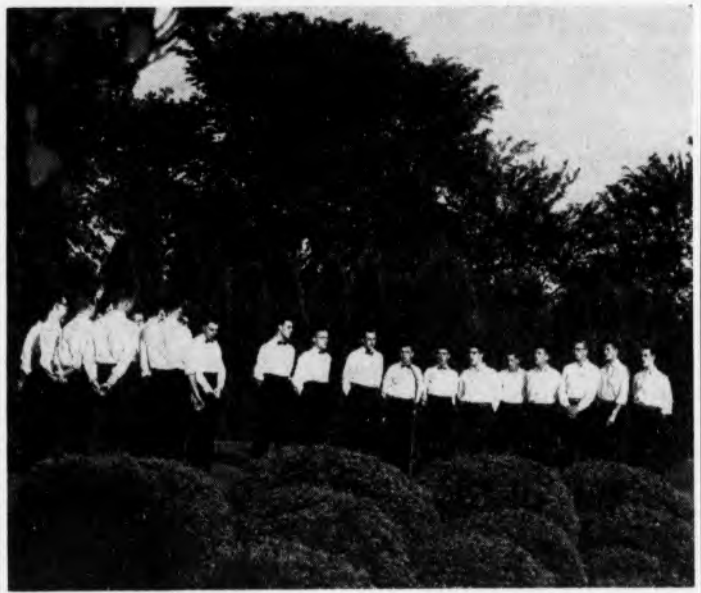

The Rev. David H. Bremer will deliver the final prayer and benediction.

Commencement

This year's Commencement Exercises will be held at 10 a.m. on Monday in the grove along side of the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel. The traditional procession of the faculty and seniors will precede the ceremonies. The principal address will be given by Val Peterson, administrative as-

Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity Wins First Annual IFC Spring Sing

Members of the ATO and Phi Tau vocal groups blended voices in singing "The Alma Mater" last Monday evening at the close of Muhlenberg's first annual Spring Sing.

A group of twelve singers from the Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity won the Spring Sing which was sponsored by the Interfraternity Council last Monday evening on the Mall in front of West Hall. Due to conflicting activities, there were only two fraternities represented in the competition; they were Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Kappa Tau.

Lecture Series Plans Released

As a result of a request made by the Student Council of 1954-55, plans were released this week for a Muhlenberg College Lecture Series which will begin next fall. The plans, made by a joint Council-Administration committee, headed by Larry Paul and Dr. John Reed, call for lectures next October 27 and March 15 by Julien Bryan and Louis H. Bean, respectively.

Mr. Bryan, who is well known as a traveler and lecturer, will present a film and commentary entitled "Egypt Reborn."

The second of the series will feature Mr. Bean who is a distinguished political analyst noted for his almost amazing ability to correctly predict political elections as well as general trends in agriculture, business, and government.

Dr. Reed commented in releasing this information to the WEEKLY, "We hope that this is the beginning of a future successful program to enrich and enlarge the cultural offerings of Muhlenberg College. The enthusiasm with which these programs are accepted by both Muhlenberg students and the general public will do much in determining the feasibility of presenting more programs of like nature."

The Slater System contract with Muhlenberg College for the feeding of boarding students expires Friday May 27, 1955. The Commons will be open for the remainder of the final exam period and meals will be served at the following prices:

Breakfast	50¢
Lunch	50¢
Dinner	75¢

The Snack Bar will be open Sunday, May 29.

Singers

Singing for Phi Kappa Tau were Richard Beach, Cal Colarusso, Breck Dierolf, Phil Kline, Jon LaFaver, Dick Miller, Dave Reinhard, Evan Richards, John Simek, Leon Skweir, Bob Wagner and Dick Wagner.

The Alpha Tau Omega group was composed of Martin Baker, Art Broadwick, Ted Fogas, Jack Geissinger, Ken Gravatt, Wolf Koenig, Fred Laws, Hans Peckman, Dick Stryker, Dave Washabaugh, and Morris Van Natta.

Selections

Phi Tau presented "Phi Kappa Tau Toast," "Dawn and Desire," "The Drinking Song from the Halls of Ivy," and "Sleep Kentucky Babe" for its numbers. ATO selected the "Alpha Tau Omega Sweetheart Song" and "Halls of Ivy."

Joe Capozzi was chairman for the Sing.

Council Elects Men To 1955 Tribunal

The Student Council elected nine freshmen as members of next year's Freshman Tribunal at a meeting held last Thursday evening. Council also elected the junior and senior members as well as an alternate at this time.

Ed Steiger and Bill Wormley will serve as senior and junior member respectively. The freshmen will be John Coughlin, Joseph Della Croce, Fred Gardiner, Roger Keehn, Fritz Klinck, Robert Leighton, Ted March, Robert Nuss, and Charles Ulrich. Dennis Gurski was chosen as an alternate member.

These men must see Ed Steiger before they leave for vacation.

Fathers, Sons Enjoy Fellowship Activities

About 120 fathers and sons attended the Annual Fathers Day program held last Saturday, May 14 on campus. Dr. J. Conrad Seegers, after an introduction by Student Council president Bill Quay, welcomed the Dads to the campus at the picnic-style luncheon held at the College Commons.

Entertainment at the luncheon was provided by the "Royalties," a campus quartet. After their performance, the "Royalties" led the assembled fathers and sons in a group singing session. At this luncheon and afterward, the visiting Dads had an opportunity for informal bull sessions with the faculty members present.

Assisting Lauer in the plans for the program, jointly sponsored by the Student Council and the Administration, were Sam Rosenberger and Paul Weidknecht. Dr. Claude Dierolf, faculty advisor for the program, and Dr. John Reed, advisor to Student Activities, also aided in the planning for the day.

Editorial Views . . .

A Forward Look . . .

The erection of new signs at the eastern and western extremes of the campus, gifts of the Class of 1954, remind us that another year has nearly passed. Unlike past editors, yours truly will not be bidding adieu to his alma mater until next year; however, it is, nevertheless, with mixed feelings that we look at the last eight months in retrospect.

To the seniors we offer our best wishes as they step into a khaki uniform, begin the grind of graduate school, or start preparations for the next generation of Muhlenberg men and women. Despite their thin ranks, they have given much to the College in leadership and in advancement of its ideals.

As far as the rest of the student body is concerned, we could say much about what has been done and what remains to be done. However, we would rather refer them to the article by your chaplain in the May 5 issue of the WEEKLY. There he expresses our exact feelings—"don't let your studies interfere with your education." We hope to see many more underclassmen filling the ranks of extra-curricular groups next year. Their participation is absolutely necessary for our college community to continue a healthy existence. A liberal education includes more than an assimilation of factual data. Personality growth and the ability to get along with one's fellow man are equally important.

Therefore, to those who are returning next year, we suggest that they begin to give back to Muhlenberg a part of what has been given to them. Support the campus activities of your choice and give them your utmost in talent and ability. R.G.M.

A Backward Look . . .

Another group of men have reached the climax of their college careers. For them there must be a feeling of completion when they get their degrees at graduation ceremonies or else they've missed something. Whether they continue their academic beginnings at graduate school or settle down to their vocations, if they haven't learned a little better those things that are good and proper or that are conducive to better relationships with their fellow man, then they haven't derived a full measure from Muhlenberg.

Chief among the benefits they have obtained should be a knowledge of themselves and their capabilities beside the academic, social, intellectual, and moral values which Muhlenberg attempts to impart to every student. Knowledge of strengths and also of deficiencies can be the first big step toward self-improvement; and the growth of the individual can do nothing short of mushroom into state, national, and ultimately, world betterment.

With this reminder, the WEEKLY wishes the members of the class of 1955 every success in the future and congratulations upon a job well done.

Finis . . .

From a column in the Holcad of Westminster College, New Wilmington, comes this frightening thought for editors: "Wouldn't it be embarrassing if our errors were tabulated and published every day like those of a ballplayer?"

The Year's Jeers

by Dave Miller

The freshmen were indoctrinated,
Crest almost had her panties raided,
Tribunal tried to keep straight faces . . .
Bucknell's Bisons trumped our aces,
Dean puts thumbs in IFC,
Schnookie, why not let it be?
We fumbled away the "old tin cup"
Sophs and Frosh get bloodied up . . .
"Hazel" ripped the place apart,
She didn't have a tender heart!
Delaware lost her claim to glory,
A special WEEKLY told the story,
Bowen's lectures get a laugh,
He is voted "worst on staff".
Frats start rushing season late,
Dirty rushing sure was great!
M and D then tamed the Shrew —
Plays appeal to very few!
Sure, the "Holly Hop" was dry . . .
(Only nineteen seniors high!)
Christmas comes but once a year,
I'm so glad dad's money's here!
Greek Way spouting propaganda,
Who ya think you're tryin' a slanda?
"Ice Vogues" flash in our new hall,
Mucho scratches, floor and all.
Basketballers win a few . . .
Men, why don't you foul them, too?
Charlie Chaplin hits the press . . .
El President made quite a mess—
We pick you and the good ole Legion
As "super" in the fumbler region—
When class elections came around,
The Don't Care Club was to be found
Getting votes (to stay away)
From voting booths election day . . .
Then 'Berg had the ICL—
All EIGHT men liked Doc Forell,
Brubeck's keyboard, Desmond's blowing
Seemed to make a darn good showing—(Except for those whose music taste
Is tuned to polkas—"Brubeck's a waste!")
The hoopsters start to lose again,
We ain't won one since who knows when?
Adams bellows "STAY AWAY!"
Didn't hear ya. Whadya say??
Houseparty dates liked the show . . .
'Berg vs. Gola, down we go!
Fencers ripping shirts to shreds
Make good cadavers for Pre-Meds . . .
"No smoking" signs are dusted off,
Insurance men are getting TOFF (?)
Wrestlers, practicing for dates,
Get slaughtered, lose by wholesale rates . . .
Cheaters caught and reprimanded,
(Dean, that was quite underhanded!)
Good leaders speak to fourteen men—
You were coming. Uh-huh. When???
The "Orange Strippers" paint the town,
Muhlenberg gains much renown!
April Fool comes once a year,
We all get 'cut' when it gets here . . .
Letters from home (a different twist)
"Get on the books, son, or ENLIST!"
Student Banquet, lots of fun . . .
Dean's problem—Kick out all or none?
Ah, the workings of cruel fate . . .
Do you think those two will graduate?
Baseball starts its losing season,
Why? No one seems to have a reason.
Bermuda shorts show hairy knees
And prove great-grandad swung from trees . . .
Warm weather matinees begin,
"Joe, don't bring the bottles in!"
Finals are upon us, men,
Memorial Hall full house again . . .
It's been a funny year, in spots,
Good times, few—but Bloopers? LOTS!

Jazz Concert Praised— — By Those Attending

"'Twas a warm, summer evening . . ." and some hardy souls dared to brave the balmy weather and clear skies to attend the Jazz Concert at the large, very large Memorial Hall. (It really looks large when it's empty!) For about half an hour, the Cardinal Key society was undecided about staying to usher for the concert, because the only people there were the musicians and themselves. Two or three jazz fans showed up, so the service organization gave the best service it has ever given . . . two ushers for every person attending the affair!

Actually, it wasn't that bad, and the crowd could be rated as fair in numbers and great in appreciation of the concert. Teddy Charles and his group, consisting of vibes, bass, sax and drums entertained first, playing modern-type jazz and occasionally coming out with some really great sounds. The atmosphere of the concert was more relaxed than that of the Brubeck affair . . . guys and girls walking in and out, changing seats, going home, coming back—with a couple of waiters running around with trays of drinks and a little room for dancing, it could have been Basin Street or the Biltmore Lounge! The crowd went almost as wild as Mr. Charles did when he put a pair of white bongo drums through a terrific workout . . .

After a command by Bill Rutch to "TAKE TEN", everyone settled back to hear dixie a la McPartland gang. In the group, there was the lead trumpet, trombone, clarinet, and piano, bass and drums. Each performer, in both groups, took several solos, perhaps too many. For though the solos were good, the audience seemed to prefer the sound of the full aggregation when it played something like "Basin Street Blues."

Mr. McPartland was having trouble with heartburn or a loose moneybelt, because he kept his left hand to his side. This is difficult for a trumpet player, especially when he's holding a glass of water in his right hand!

One of the trends in the College jazz concerts seems to be informality. The musicians didn't wear tuxes and several of them looked like businessmen of some sort. (Of course, the sax man with Teddy Charles was an exception. He was somewhere up on cloud 7 in his solos. He's reported to have said to Charles, "See you in Cleveland in fifteen minutes, Teddy!") McPartland carried this note of informality farther when he talked between numbers about almost anything that came to his mind.

J. McPARTLAND

At a Jazz Concert like this one, the audience is sometimes as interesting as the musicians themselves. Willie Restum didn't make it, but guys in bermuda shorts were rubbing elbows (a great party game!) with cats in dark glasses . . . (why should anyone wear dark glasses inside a dimly-lit auditorium???)

The whole shindig came off rather well, except for poor attendance. Those who attended had a musical treat, and the Jazz Society hopes for better publicity and a better turnout at their next function. With good talent, such as we've seen so far, they should do very well.

Their Side of Humor

Girls and golfers seem to have the same ambition: to go around in as little as possible.

The BUCKNELLIAN

Clerk: "Order?"

She: "Gingerale."

Clerk: "Pale?"

She: "No, just a glass."

The SUSQUEHANNA

The new bride cooked his first chicken. When the husband began to carve it, he asked, "What did you stuff it with, dear?"

"I didn't have to stuff it," she replied. "It wasn't hollow."

The SUSQUEHANNA

Elections, Songs, Wind Up School

by Footloose

Quite a time was had by the Pre-Theos at their banquet the other night . . . the President of the Ministerium was much impressed by the boys singing the "Te Deum," until the clamor of John Adam and his rebels, giving their rendition of "Drink, Drink, Drink" rose above the strains of the hymn.

Congratulations to those winners in yesterday's elections . . . perhaps not too many of you realized this, but Hugh Simmers was selected to the newly-created position of Student Advisor to the Dean on a write-in ballot . . . Simmers is expected to work closely with the Dean on matters pertaining to student activities.

Dick Miller led his Phi Tau chorus to victory in the first IFC Spring Sing . . . the competition wasn't too keen since four fraternities didn't show, but the crew from ATO put up a good fight—although a segment got stage fright and didn't appear until the singing (?) was over. (Actually, there was no reason for this scare, because of the members of the choruses outnumbered the spectators two to one).

Later on in the evening, several members of the student body became most enthusiastic over the playing of J. McPartland and the boys . . . miraculously enough, Irv (Hep-Hep) Kerson came through unscathed after falling off his eleventh row perch and a loud rolling fall to the floor . . . his inhibited body, which was forced to remain silent by the highbrows at the Brubeck concert, was now allowed to go wild and did so in fine style!

Muhlenberg's Monte Carlo has moved into the open with the coming of this fine spring weather . . . proprietor Harry Newman now offers a free sun tan (with oil, yet!) to those who indulge in Whist, Old Maid, and other such rowdy games.

Parliamentary procedure threw a few of our faculty members at their recent meeting . . . it seems that a portion of the group, opposed to compulsory exams for all courses, discovered that they had voted for the proposal after the meeting was over! See you in German 99!

Only two more weeks 'til your release is final . . . don't do anything rash like enlisting . . . have a summer and.

Suggested Exam Procedures

Spring Semester 1955

Suggestions for Students:

1. Texts, notebooks, or course summaries will not be allowed in the examination center.
2. Guard well your own honor. Give the proctor no reason to question your behavior. It is just as serious an offense to give aid as to accept it. Remember the examination is test of your ability, competitively as well as individually.
3. Disapprove strongly and openly of cheating by another student; he is cheating you. Expressed disapproval is the strongest weapon against cheating as it exists.
4. A thorough preparation for your examinations reduces the temptation to cheat.

WILL YOU COME AWAY WITH A CLEAR CONSCIENCE?

Suggestions for Faculty:

1. Examination questions should be carefully guarded before the examination and completed blue books should be carefully guarded after the examination. Neither should be kept in departmental offices. It has happened that corrected blue books have been substituted for originals.
2. Examination room procedures should be well defined prior to each examination as to the distribution and collection of examination materials, the presence of texts and notebooks in the room, leaving the room during the examination.
3. Proctors must give the impression that they are interested only in the examination at hand. Because of the possible use of crib sheets, a sufficient number of proctors should quietly and constantly circulate among the examinees.
4. In view of the success of the student honor court, all cases of cheating should be reported to the Dean's office for a subsequent hearing before that court. All such cases will be dealt with fairly, with uniform justice for all concerned.

Each of us by doing his job can eliminate cheating from this examination. Let's make this the best examination period we've ever had at Muhlenberg.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Initiations will be held tomorrow for Younis Josephs and Paul Whitcraft. There will be a party given afterwards by the newly initiated brothers for the whole house. With the year drawing to a close we like to reminisce. In intramural sports we didn't do badly. We took second place in both football and basketball, while in IFC competition we won both basketball and the bowling trophies. Jim Heller was in charge of the first "help week" ever tried on this campus and it worked very well. All in all, this has been a good year with its house parties and fun, but we're looking forward to an even better year come next fall.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The annual Baccalaureate dinner is now in the planning stages and seems to be moving rapidly toward completion. We want to commend the house softball team for its stirring play in the I-W competition. During the regular season they went undefeated and are now in the playoffs for the championship. This has been a good year for the boys at the house and we hope to have just as good a year next year.

PHI EPSILON PI

Phi Ep had quite a fruitful year, starting with improvements in the house and culminating with the initiation of 15 new brothers. The chapter now has 44 fraters and 13 pledges—the strongest it has been since its start at Muhlenberg. The pledge class proved itself scholastically, placing first in the inter-fraternity averages. The chapter retained its reputation of throwing great house parties, especially the IFC weekend, when Willie Restum played to a (literally) packed house. All in all, the boys down at Fulton Street are sorry to see the year end, but will be looking forward to even bigger and better times in the future. The fraters sincerely wish one and all a pleasant vacation.

PHI KAPPA TAU

The school year is almost completed and the brothers of Phi Tau are "booking it out" for the coming finals. Eight brothers of Eta will not return to old Berg but will go on to "greater" things. Dick Beach and Fred Grosse will continue their education at Lehigh where they have accepted fellowships. Larry Paul and Don de-Quevedo will enter medical school and Jerry Zeiner will begin work in chemistry. Ron Wix will enter business (or the army), Evan Richards will begin his teaching career and Pete Sell will become a "Cloak and Dagger man" with the government foreign service.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Plans are in the making for the final social weekend of the school year. A big houseparty is being planned for Saturday night, June 4, and it will feature dancing to the music of a dixieland combo. Initiations were held last week and William Schneider, Robert Taschner and Norman Wangman now wear the Sig Ep pin. Three new pledges in the chapter are Robert Keys, John Hopper and William Bodine. Plans for the summer include some redecorating of the "House with the Red Door." The brothers wish their college friends a good summer and luck in their exams.

YOU'RE INVITED TO A "GOING HOME" PARTY

TIME: Right after final exams.

PLACE: Roomy air-conditioned train coaches . . . with lots of space to roam and visit.

REASON: Traveling home for summer vacation.

GUESTS: All your friends . . . be they "stag" or "drag."

RSVP: (See your local railroad ticket agent about early reservations.)

Start your summer vacation with a "last get together" trip back home on the train . . . no waiting for weather to clear. And there's room for heaps 'n' heaps of baggage.

Costs less, too . . . you and two more traveling together can each save 25% of regular round-trip coach fares on most trips of 100 miles or more by using GROUP ECONOMY FARES. Or, gather 25 or more heading home at the same time in same direction and you each save 28%, even if you return separately.

*except for local travel between New York-Washington and points east of Lancaster, Pa.

St. Josephs Wins Middle Atlantic Meet; Zieger Places In Pole Vault For Berg

A strong St. Joseph's track team narrowly defeated the La Salle squad in the Middle Atlantic Championship contests held on Saturday, May 14 at Lafayette. The star of the day was Frank McLaughlin of St. Joseph's, who set two new meet records by running the 880 yard run in 1:52.3 and the mile run in 4:17.5. La Salle also had their share of record-breakers as Al Cantello broke his own javelin record set last year by throwing the javelin 228' 6". Vic Gavin of La Salle also set a record in the 220 yd. low hurdles by running the distance in 24.3. A fifth record was set as Don Martin of F & M ran the 120 high hurdles in 14.5.

The one bright spot for the Muhlenberg team was the showing of Herm Zieger in the pole vault. Zieger garnered a tie for third. Besides the previously mentioned winners, Hopkins of Haverford won the 100 in 9.9 seconds. McAlpin of St. Joseph's was the winner in the quarter mile in 49.8 seconds. Bill Shirk of Albright ran the two mile event in 9:47.3

Gene Rothenberger of Juniata broad jumped 22 feet to take the broad jump prize, while the high jump was tied at 6 feet 2 3/4 inches by Radcliffe and Barber of Lafayette and Les Eckman of G'burg.

Netmen Lose To Swarthmore, Moravian; Golfers Win Fourth Straight, Rip Moravian

Coach Tom Triplett's golfers whipped Moravian, 8 1/2 - 1/2, for their fourth consecutive win last Thursday. On a previous meeting the Mules beat Moravian, 7-2. Walt Haslam, Dick Ohlweiler, Don MacKerell, Jack Russo, and Fred Mihalow each defeated their respective opponents.

To date the Muhlenberg linksters have bowed only to Lehigh. Berg's record is 4-1 including victories over Lafayette, Moravian (2), and La Salle.

Summaries:

Haslam defeated Rhen, 5-3.

Ohlweiler defeated Stein, 6-5.

Best ball 6-5

Conway and Esposito tied.

MacKerell defeated Skrabble, 4-3.

Best ball 3-1

Russo defeated Kresh, 3-1.

Mihalow defeated Rieger, 7-6.

Best ball 7-6

Berg's tennis squad dropped its third consecutive match yesterday at the Oakmont Courts, as Moravian's netmen (6-3) rallied to sweep the doubles matches and secure a 6-3 win, their sixth of the campaign.

Tom Clay, M, defeated Bob Brock, M'berg, 6-2, 6-3.

Mike Egan, M'berg, defeated Al Cristol, M, 6-3, 3-6, 8-6.

Bert Hartman, M, defeated Al Szewczak, M'berg, 6-0, 6-2.

Jay Krevsky, M'berg, defeated Dick Wright, M, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2.

Dave Arnold, M'berg, defeated Jim Johnson, M, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3.

Dick Roth, M, defeated Carl Schnee, M'berg, 6-2, 6-2.

Clay and Hartman, M, defeated Egan and Szewczak, M'berg, 6-2, 6-2.

Cristol and Roth, M, defeated Brock and Arnold, M'berg, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Johnson and Wright, M, defeated Krevsky and Schnee, M'berg, 6-2, 6-4.

Invitations have been extended to varsity letter winners in all sports, and for the first time since 1950 there will be freshman numerals given to freshman football and basketball players. Next year the Athletic Department hopes to give numerals in all freshman sports.

Dr. Truman L. Koehler, member of the Athletic Committee, will be master of ceremonies. Remarks will be made by Attorney John M. Metzger, president of the Muhlenberg College Alumni Association, and Mr. Samuel Cooperman, National Professional Football Official, and member of the Athletic Committee. Ernie Fellows will present the intramural trophy. Ed Kunkel will represent the WEEK-LY in presenting a trophy to the most valuable varsity basketball player. There will be entertainment by the Royalties quartet, consisting of Don Sheasley, Bill Agee, Bill Schneider, and Sam Rosenberger.

Mules End Losing Streak, Trip Temple, Moravian; Travel To Lehigh Saturday

Coach Dick Fox's baseball nine will swing its bats for the last time this season when they meet the Engineers of Lehigh on the Muhlenberg field on Saturday, May 21. Frank Sproviero and Mike Del Tufo, the only seniors on the squad, will perform for the last time in a Berg uniform.

Mule Trackmen Lose Finale To Bears 76-49

The Ursinus College track team beat the Muhlenberg thinclads (76-49) on Tuesday at Collegeville. The Mules did well in the field events as usual behind Denny Roth's two first place contributions in the high jump and javelin.

Harry Donnelly of Ursinus took three first places in the 100 yard dash, 220 and 120 yard low and high hurdles, respectively. Lee Lawhead took two firsts in the 880 yard and one mile runs for the Bears. Karl Herwig also followed his teammates lead by taking the 220 and 440 yard events as Ursinus took first place in all eight running events.

Several men participated in certain events for the first time because of Frank Jankowski's injury. Strouse took second place in the pole vault, Heere ran second in the low hurdles and Zieger took third place in the high jump.

The Mules will be trying to gain revenge from their 5-3 setback at the hands of the Bethlehem team earlier in the season. Although they display a mediocre brand of ball, Lehigh has a spirited club. Their 3-10 win-loss record includes an impressive win over Lafayette last week. The pitching and the hitting of Frank Yurek is one of the Engineer's best weapons. Yurek pitched a four hitter against the Leopards and also hit a home run to clinch the victory personally.

With either Saddler or Sproviero on the mound for the Mules and Yurek or Butz doing the Lehigh twirling, a tight pitching duel might very well be in store.

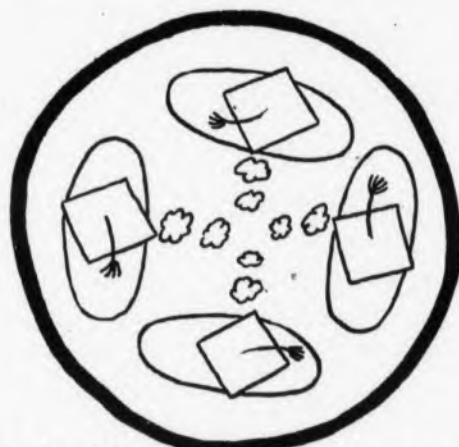

Last Friday was the final Waterloo of the Muhlenberg baseball men. In a comedy of errors they allowed eighteen Lafayette runs to cross the plate. The game featured thirteen (13) Berg errors and some fair Lafayette pitching. This was the second defeat of the Mules by Lafayette this season. The final score was 18-4.

Berg came back on Saturday to post a 4-1 decision over Temple. Some of the players consider this the best game they played this season. This victory broke the Mule's losing streak at five games. Muhlenberg won its second straight game on Monday as they triumphed over Moravian, 5-2.

Clutch hitting sparked the Mule attack and kept the flame burning through the final six innings.

Twenty Seniors Complete Athletic Careers At Muhlenberg

FRANK SPROVIERO

MIKE DEL TUFO

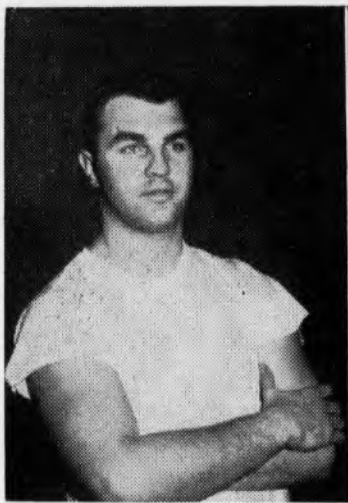

Pictured above are six of twenty senior athletes who have contributed their last to Muhlenberg's athletic program: twenty men whose talents have seen service on eight different varsity squads during the three major seasons in college athletics; twenty men who have left their mark on the teams with which they actively participated, and who will never forget their seasons of athletic competition at Muhlenberg.

It is in this last issue of the spring semester of 1953 that the WEEKLY sports staff, representing the student body present and past, takes the opportunity to say "Hats Off" to these men that have given of their time and ability to their Alma Mater.

Beginning with the fall sports calendar, four Mule football players will surely remember the mud, sweat, and knee injuries of the gridiron days. Commanding our salute are PETE ASCIONE of Cliffside Park, N. J., who labored as much on the third floor of the Science Building as he did in the mud of 1952's F & M game or in the snow of last year's Lehigh game; who could guzzle it as well as any B Haller . . . DICK "FUZZY" FETHEROLF, who graduated in February and is now successfully employed at Bethlehem Steel; who was plagued with injury in his final football season, after returning from the service. LEE HOFFMAN, a commuter from Egypt, Pa., who experienced his best season with Coach Tom Triplett's squad this past season, but found himself in academic hot water with "Great White Father's" B.S. courses; who was a threat on the gridiron both in offense and defense . . . RALPH DE STEFANO, Berg's all-position lineman from Albany, N. Y., whose nose got in the way of the elbow of a Gettysburg player, calling for adequate revenge.

"Hats Off" to four soccer men who will be greatly missed by Coach Nevins next year. HANS PECKMAN, who did his best to keep the ball out of the Mule backfield during enemy offenses; a Long Island man who will take memories of ATO house parties and high scoring soccer games in blinding snowstorms when he goes into the business world after leaving Berg . . . BILL RUTCH, who knew when and how to use his knees and elbows in backfield competition; who decided it was high time that Muhlenberg organize a club to bring modern jazz closer to the campus . . . GEORGE LEA, who saw plenty of front line action in soccer: one of the few Muhlenberg men who appreciates getting up at six every morning . . . MARV CRESSMAN of Allentown, who protected Berg's goal, whether he was completely banded and legs; whose acceptance at Hahneman Med. School predicts a successful medical career ahead; who wrestled for Coach Ernie Fellows' matmen, and still found time left to run the 440 in his freshman and sophomore years. . . . DON GRAMMES, who beat his Haverford opponent in the last five seconds to win the meet for Berg.

But let's not forget the cross country men, who spent their time loping around the pastures of Cedar Park. WALLY LOY, class president and one of the most active men of his class, who ran the distances in track in his freshman and sophomore years; who will continue to study physics and chemistry after graduating from Berg, along with fellow runner and fraternity brother HARRY OTTO, who is headed for Penn State . . . ED DRUCKENMILLER, another science man, whose greatest distinction is his presidency of the pre-theo-pre-med club (membership 2); who doubled as a light weight grappler.

Only one man is lost to next year's varsity basketball squad. Our tribute for four years of court service goes to GERRY NEVILLE, who'd be up for twenty years in prison if ball stealing was a crime; who despite his knee injury liked to show off his ability by scoring eight points in two minutes and then retiring; who held a dorm councilman's key to East Hall rooms until fraternity brother Ron Schlittler lost his.

In the grunt and groan department, we salute LARRY PAUL, 123 pounder from Lykens, who appreciated Dr. Shankweiler's course enough to spend time marking zoology plates after histology and embryology labs were through; who found himself on top more than on the bottom this past wrestling season.

In spring sports, the baseball team loses two men. FRANK SPROVIERO, lefthander from Lodi, N. J., who pitched his last game for Muhlenberg's nine on Tuesday; whose greatest pitching accomplishments were registered last year: an 11-inning victory over Lafayette's pitching ace, Ron Owen, a six-hit 1-0 shutout over Moravian, and a 12-inning no-credit pitching stint also against Moravian, a game which was won by the Mules in the thirteenth frame . . . roommate MIKE DEL TUFO of Belleville, N. J., who participated in both football and baseball, but was forced from the gridiron with a back ailment; who hopes someday to be a dentist.

Muhlenberg's track team loses three men from next year's squad. DON TIHANSKY of McAdoo, another pre-med, who found Ursinus to be his favorite position in both the 100 yard dash and in the 147 pound wrestling class; who also contributed to sports by editing the sports section of the 1955 CIARLA . . . RALPH DESTEFANO, Mule griddler who took first place in the discus event four years in a row against Bucknell; who looked forward to away track meets because it meant dinner money . . . JERRY ZEINER, whose javelin throwing was hampered this past year by a sore arm; who finds his greatest fun in working in the Poconos during the summer and his greatest dread in calculus problems.

Golfers include WALT HASLAM and DICK OHLWEILER, who will play golf for relaxation from now on. The tennis team loses JAY KREVSKY.

Sport In Short . . .

by John Keyser

Muhlenberg athletic teams have won a total of eleven games and matches while losing twenty-two to date during the 1955 spring sports campaign. Adverse weather conditions forced the cancellation of at least one contest in each of the four sports, and made playing conditions rather miserable in others, but for the most part each squad took its hurdles as they came, taking tight schedules limited practice opportunities, and weather conditions in stride.

Most successful of Berg's spring athletic teams is the golf team (4-1). Coach Tom Triplett's linksters have won four straight matches after losing their season's opener of Lehigh. Individual honors go to the number one, three, and six men: namely Walt Haslam, Don Mackerell, and Jack Russo, whose personal records match the team record. Dick Ohlweiler, whose total is paired with Haslam in determining "best ball," has also been highly successful in tangling with the top opposing golfers. Next year Mackerell, Russo, Dick Conway, Fred Mihalow, and Pete Davidson return to the squad, indicating continued success for Berg's golf team, since each should continue to improve through practice on the fairways this summer.

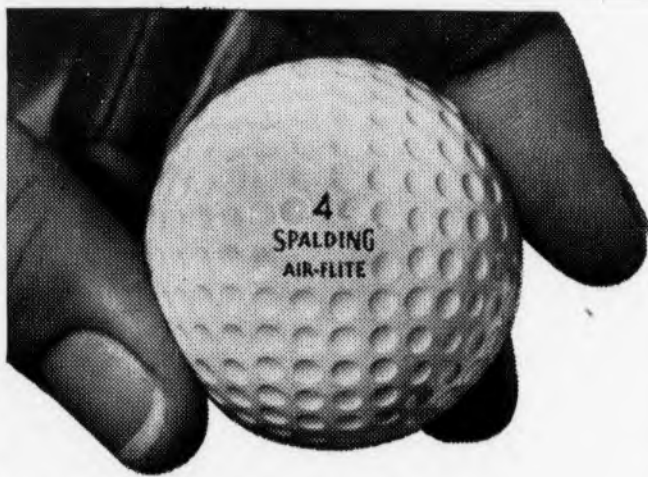

Coach Shankweiler's racquet squad (2-5) met two of the roughest collegiate tennis squads in the East in Haverford and Swarthmore. Subtracting these, the squad did rather well this spring, despite the loss of Ron Shane and the Acker brothers who graduated last year. Bob Brock, facing several top opponent number one men, played far better than his record reveals. Carl Schnee and Dave Arnold, also newcomers to the squad, filled the number five and six spots more than adequately. Schnee and Jay Krevsky won four straight doubles matches before meeting Haverford. Only one senior (Krevsky) leaves the squad, as five men return to next year's starting lineup with one more year's experience behind them.

Winless now in four consecutive seasons, Coach Ernie Fellows' trackmen turned in an 0-7 record this year. Destined to be a losing squad from the beginning of the season because of lack of depth and interest, Coach Ernie Fellows got the most out of what was available, as eight of nine letter winners improved their output over last year. Last year five men scored twenty or more points, but this figure was brought to nine this year. The spirit of the team was high until the Lafayette meet, but it began to wane as the Mule thinclads realized that all attempts at winning a meet were to no avail. Coach Fellows is to be congratulated for sticking it out with so small a force.

CLASS DAY

The Annual Senior Class Day will be held on Saturday at 3:30 p.m. Kermit Gregory is to preside as master of ceremonies over the program which will be held on the graduation platform beside the Chapel. In case of rain, the scene of the entertainment will be Memorial Hall.

Music for the program will be provided by Sam Rosenberger and his quartet, the Royalaires. Following an address by Carl Trolinger, Don de Quevedo and Fred Grosse will combine their talents in a ukulele duet.

History, Prophecy, Will

Eugene Kirch and Eric Helsing are to present the Class History. The reading of the Class Prophecy and the Class Will to the Seniors will be by Carl Trolinger and Don Reilly. According to Marvin Cressman, chairman of the Seniors' Class Day program which was received just last year, there are many more surprises and laughs in store for those who will be present on June 4.

Assisting Cressman on the committee are Don de Quevedo, Carson Schneck, Ron Wix, Dick Beach and all members of the Class of 1955.

The Chowline

The most successful function of the school year came off last Thursday at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium. More students jammed the hall to hear the singing of the Ravens than ever attended a Mask and Dagger production or a student body meeting. No ICL speaker in our recollection has had so enthusiastic a group—tsk, tsk—what a one-sided student body.

Dr. Smart arrived at 12 noon class to find the organic ranks depleted, but this didn't deter old amine-minded Russell. After fighting off the bee-bopping drum with a couple of cool reactions, he threw some real high pressure and temperature into his flask in order to bring about the reduction. His techniques are really sharp because sure enough, those tardy pre-meds (taking their last semester of required chemistry) began drifting into class.

On the lighter side of drifting is the dying school year and the number of times that you boarding students will drift to the Commons for your meals. The Slater-Muhlenberg contract runs out on Friday May 27, 1955.

Meals will be served during the rest of finals' period.

Frank Peters opened up the Berg scoring attack when, with two out in the fifth inning, he belted his first home run of the season. This blast tied up the game at 1-all.

Berg scored three times in the sixth to really clinch their victory. However, they added one more in the eighth for good measure.

The Greyhounds scored one run in the fourth inning and another in the seventh for their only scoring of the afternoon.

This was Berg's fifth win of the year and their record now stands at 5-9. One more game remains on the Mule schedule. The Cardinal and Grey will attempt to defeat Lehigh's Engineers for the first for the first time in two seasons.

Even though the Mule team will not have a winning or impressive record, a victory over Lehigh would even their series of this season. Also, this would give the diamond squad its longest winning streak of the year.

I-M CORNER

With the intramural softball league coming to a close, Lambda Chi and Sig Ep loom as the only possible contenders for the coveted intramural championship which was won last year by Sig Ep who also won both the football and softball titles. Entering the round robin playoffs for the softball title, Lambda Chi has a total of 232½ points while Sig Ep has 210. ATO finished third with a total of 200 points.

In winning the intramural football championship, Lambda Chi accumulated 97½ points. Chief opposition was furnished by ATO and Sig Ep who finished second and third, respectively. Lambda Chi behind the stellar playing of Jack Russo and Bill Ingham defeated ATO in the seasonal finals 19-0 to sew up the league title. They had previously defeated Sig Ep 20-0. ATO was held to two ties, 14-14 by Sig Ep and 7-7 by Phi Tau.

The intramural basketball trophy was won by the M Club who was not represented in any other sport. In going undefeated to the League I championship the M Club had defeated such teams as Lambda Chi and Sig Ep who finished second and third respectively. In winning the League II title, the Alley Kats knocked off both ATO and the Cardinals who finished in a two way tie for second place. In the playoffs to determine the champion the M Club defeated ATO 46-29 and the Alley Kats edged Lambda Chi 52-49. In the final round, the unbeaten M Club paced by Ed Emory and Ken Reinhardt outdueled the Alley Kat's Farrel, Wasmuth, and Agee to gain a 56-43 victory.

Because of the lack of time the intramural softball could not be completed and as a result the top four teams as of last Thursday began a round robin playoff on Monday to determine the champion. Represented were defending champion Sig Ep and Lambda Chi both of whom were undefeated and Phi Sig and the Star Cleaners both of whom lost but once. On Monday night, Sig Ep nosed out Phi Sig 4-2 and Lambda Chi massacred the Star Cleaners 25-5.

Last night in the final round of play, Sig Ep won the I-M championship with a 7-5 win over Lambda Chi. Denny Roth was the winning pitcher, while Johnny Wescoe and Dick Kinsler were the key hitters. Kinsler's homer with one on broke the 5-5 tie.
